The executive committee and a special committee of the Alabama Association of Commercial Organizations pledged cooperation and support to the new Alabama State Chamber of Commerce at a meeting ni Montgomery Thursday.

A schedule of dues for membership of local chambers in the State Chamber was approved with the anticipation of affiliation of all senior and junior chambers on this basis.

John M. Ward, Secretary of the Alabama State Chamber, who is also secretary of the commercial group, extended greetings from Benjamin Russell, President of the State Chamber, expressing Mr. Russell's regrets at being unable to attend the meetnig, and his interest, as representative of the State Chamber, in local groups. Mr. Ward urged a spirit of full cooperation between the two organizations, pointing out many ways in which they may be mutually helpful.

PROPER CARE OF TEETH

Montgomery, Sept. 14. — Calling attention of dental authorities that 95 out of every 100 school children have decayed teeth and that the average child of 6 has three or four cavities, Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, today urged Alabama parents to have their children examined by dentists in order that their mouth defects might be corrected early, with the least possible ill health, pain and expense.

"The teeth should be brushed at least twice a day, preferably after breakfast and just before retiring, and parents should see to it that their children use their tooth brushes properly," he said. "The mere fact that a person goes through the motions of brushing his teeth does not mean that his teeth will not decay. Cleanliness, and not mere brushing, is the thing that should be emphasized. The proper way to brush the teeth is to brush the upper teeth downward and the lower teeth upward, sweeping across the gum and in between the teeth, thereby reaching the areas most susceptible to decay."

STATE DEP'T OF HEALTH

The State Department of Health was created by legislative enactment on February 1, 1875—and thus there was brought into being an organization designed to be of service to all citizens of the commonwealth.

Many important services are rendered directly by the State Department of Health, also through local units known as county health departments. Each county has a board of health which is charged with the protection of the public health within its jurisdiction. This protection is vouchsafed in 58 (at this writing) of Alabama's 67 counties; and plans for organizations are under way in the remaining nine.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Wyatt and daughter, visited in Birmingham Sunday.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks for the many good deeds and kindness shown us during the sickness and death of our father and husband, J. M. Waller. May the Lord bless you all, is our prayer.—Myrtle and Bessie Waller.

The uniform accounting system for the counties of Alabama enacted by the 1935 legislature will enable the examiners of accounts to audit county records in much less time and at much less cost to the counties. Fewer examiners will be required. The law requires that county and state records be checked at least once every two years. This law was also passed in 1935.

Under an act of the 1935 legislature hospital insurance associations have been organized in this state. The insurance contract written provides for a specific number of days hospitalization in any one year. Contracts can be used in most of the hospitals in Alabama. Premiums paid during the first year of operation amounted to $16,656.54, with $6,739.16 being paid for hospital expenses.

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

This is being dictated in my office at the Bob Jones College, Cleveland, Tenn., September 9. Yesterday was the opening day of the 1937-1938 session. Students are enrolled from practically every state in the Union and from several foreign countries. Last night, according to our annual custom, I conducted special evangelistic services. There were 32 young people who definitely surrendered their lives to Jesus Christ and are this day writing their records on a new, clean life page. I understand that all of the students who were not professing Christians took a definite stand for Jesus Christ last night. The thing that happened last night proves that many of our religious leaders are mistaken when they say that young people do not want the old time religion. We will match the brain, personality, the blood and family standing of the students in the chapel last evening against that of any other educational institution in America. Our boys and girls accept the Gospel and respond to it.

There is a conspiracy in this nation to "wall off" young people from the evangelical, orthodox Gospel message. These modernistic conspirators sneer at the old time religion. In the classrooms of many of our universities and colleges some half-baked Ph. D., with a sneer on his face, says, "Oh, you do not believe that, do you? I didn't know anybody with any intelligence accepted those old ideas of religion." These God-less teachers endeavor to embarrass the young men and young women who try to hold on to God and the faith of their mothers and fathers. To any of you young people who may read these lines, let me say that while I do not claim to be an educational expert, and I do not suppose I would be classed as a scholar, I do know something about the world. In my evangelistic ministry which has taken me into many parts of the world, I have had the privilege of contacting outstanding, upstanding, intelligent men and women. The loveliest, most refined, most attractive, most brilliant and cultured people I have ever come to know believe in the Bible as the Word of God and are loyal to the fundamentals of the Christian faith.

The Railroad Problem ... and You!

To the Public: September 14, 1937

THE Association of American Railroads has successfully shown through a series of advertisements during the past year that the railroads remain the outstanding transportation industry of the Country. It has shown that they are dependable and progressive; are necessary agencies of distribution in times of peace, and of defense and offense in times of war; and that not only are a million people directly employed by them, but that the life of virtually every citizen is in one way or another affected by their service.

The impression has been gained by some that all railroads are prosperous. This is partly true of only a very few. The reverse is true for the industry as a whole. In 1936 when the depression was over, the Net Income of all railroads was $164,630,000. This was the amount available for improvements, reduction of debt, and dividends; yet even in that year railroads operating 38% of the country's total mileage had no net income at all, and about 30% were in the hands of receivers or trustees.

Now, what is the situation for 1937? The Net Income, which in 1936 was $164,630,000, is subject in 1937 to the following adverse influences, which are already in effect:

Loss of emergency freight rates, authorized during depression by Interstate Commerce Commission, and cancelled December 31, 1936, which produced in 1936 revenues amounting to	$150,000,000
Estimated increased cost over 1936 of materials and supplies being used in 1937	125,000,000
Estimated increased charges over 1936 of Social Security and Retirement taxes for 1937	59,000,000
Wage increases granted certain employes of 14 non-operating brotherhoods, August 1, 1937, costing about $98,000,000 per year; estimated effect on year 1937	41,000,000
	$375,000,000

These four items total $375,000,000, which is $210,370,000 greater than the entire net income of 1936. For the railroads to break even in 1937, they must, in view of the foregoing loss of revenue and added expense, handle nearly 30% more traffic than they did in 1936. The actual increase in carloadings for the first eight months of 1937 compared with 1936 was only 11.9%.

Demand of five operating brotherhoods for 20% increase in wages, equal per year to	$116,000,000
Proposed law, sponsored in Congress (the bill has already passed the Senate) by certain railroad labor organizations, limiting the length of freight trains to 70 cars, which would add annually to railroad expense	100,000,000
Total	$216,000,000

This figure added to the $375,000,000 above, makes the huge total of $591,000,000 per year, or three and one-half times greater than the actual net income of 1936.

It is self-evident to any thinking person, therefore, that with such additional burdens imposed on the railroads, a serious situation exists. One of two things is inevitable: Either higher freight and passenger rates must be obtained to offset these increases, or practically all the remaining roads will be bankrupt. This means that the living expenses of every citizen will be higher through increased cost of transportation, or there will be government ownership, with its consequent ills—heavier taxes to pay the cost of buying the railroads, loss of taxes now paid by the railroads, inefficient service and annual deficits to be made up by additional taxation.

In either case, the welfare of the public, as well as that of the railroads, is at stake. Nothing can be done about the increased burdens already in effect amounting to $375,000,000, except to the extent that increased rates may be granted by the Commission. There is still time, however, to prevent the pending increases of $216,000,000, but to do so imperatively requires the strong influence of public expression against such demands. The railroads have refused the demands of the five operating brotherhoods for increased wages; the issue may reach a fact-finding commission appointed by the President of the United States. The Train Limit bill is pending in the House, and will likely be given prompt attention by Congress next January.

The citizens of this country are so vitally affected by these two questions that they should oppose them in every reasonable way.

Further details of these and other railroad matters will be discussed in future statements.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

Tombstone Inscriptions.

PHOENIX, ARIZ.—A gentleman took me sightseeing through a cemetery that abounded in proud mausoleums and stately shafts.

I figured he wanted to show me that rich folks continue to enjoy the utmost luxury even after becoming deceased.

Irvin S. Cobb

How futile and how vain are most tombstone inscriptions. They give the dates of birth and death — events in neither of which the departed had any say-so — unless he committed suicide. And just as the average graveside eulogy is a belated plea for the defense, offered after the evidence is all in, so an epitaph is an advertisement for a line of goods which permanently has been discontinued.

Somehow this burying ground stuff reminds me of hired critics of other men's efforts. The difference between professional book reviewers and the other obituarians is that the latter do their work after you pass on, but the reviewers can't wait until you're dead to write your literary death notice for you.

Maybe critics are to authors what fleas were to David Harum's dog; they keep authors from brooding on being authors.

Catching Barracuda.

LEO CARILLO is quite a yachtsman when not acting for the screen or leading parades. He's our champion parade leader. It's got so they don't dare let a colored funeral go past his house for fear he'll rush right out and head the procession.

On one of those days when there wasn't a parade, he took Victor Moore and me out on his boat. We caught a mess of slim, yet fragrant fish. Leo called them barracuda, but, with their low retreating foreheads and greedy jaws, they looked more like shyster lawyers to me—the kind who chase ambulances and eventually get disbarred.

* * *

Glad, Mad Artists.

HERETOFORE, the glad, mad geniuses, who produce masterpieces of sculpture and painting which resemble nothing on heaven or earth or in the waters below except possibly some bad dream which these parties had once while feeling pretty bilious, have depended upon the ultra-ults among the intelligentsia for support.

But now one hears divers millionaires may endow for them an academy or a gallery—or possibly it's an asylum for the more violent cases. Anyhow, there's money behind the cult, and when money gets behind a thing in this country, it usually flourishes, provided the money doesn't get too far behind, as happened in 1929, when the rest of the country was trying to figure out what had become of the deposits and investments, which we, of the sucker class, had entrusted to our leading financial wizards.

Still, we of that same ignorant mass-group do not have to buy examples of this new schoool. We don't even have to look at them unless we're in Germany and are escorted to the official state-run display by a regiment of Nazi storm-troopers.

And, aside from their ideas of what constitutes art, it's said that some of the artists themselves are not really dangerous, merely annoying in an itchy sort of way. In other words, they're all right if you don't get one of 'em on you.

* * *

Pugilistic Authors.

I'M ALWAYS missing something. On the occasion of one really historic battle between a brace of distinguished writers, I yawningly left the scene before Messrs. Sinclair Lewis and Theodore Dreiser quit swapping hard words and started swapping soft blows.

And it was just my luck to be out here recently when Ernest Hemingway threw a book—or maybe it was a publisher; anyhow some such hard, knobby object—at Mr. Max Eastman and Mr. Eastman retorted with a tremendous push which damaged Mr. Hemingway not at all.

The typical writer, no matter how red-blooded his style may be, packs all his wallops in his pen and never in his fist. There have been exceptions. Once Rex Beach cleaned out a night club all by himself, but his opponents were hoodlums, not fellow-writers. He had something substantial to work on.

Some of my belligerent brethren in the writing game never lose an argument, but, on the other hand, none of them ever won a fight. Neither did their literary opponents. In fact, next to the average professional pugilist, I can think of no one who, in the heat of combat, equals a writer for showing such magnificent self-control when it comes either to inflicting personal injury or sustaining same.

Cotton Adjustment Payments Explained

Who are eligible for these adjustment payments?

Only those persons who, having produced and sold cotton from the 1937 crop, and who shall engage in the production of cotton in 1938 in accordance and in compliance with the 1938 Adjustment Program.

What is the rate per pound of the adjustment payments?

The rate of the adjustment payments will be the difference between the average of the 10 spot markets on the day the producer makes a bona fide sale of his cotton, and 12 cents, but not to exceed three cents per pound.

Upon what part of the 1937 crop will adjustment payments be made?

These payments will be made to those producers complying in the 1938 program upon not less than 65 per centum of the base production from the 1937 crop as that base production of each producer was determined, or may hereafter be determined, in accordance with the regulations applicable to the 1937 Soil Conservation program.

Those who participated in the 1937 program know just what their base acreage and normal production figures are. Those who have not cooperated under the 1937 Soil Conservation program may obtain their designated base acreage and normal production by application to the County Agricultural Extension Agent, or to the Chairman of the County Committee administering the Soil Conservation program.

During what period of time must the producer sell his cotton in order to become entitled to the adjustment program?

His cotton must be sold on or before June 30, 1938. Cotton that was sold before the formulation of this program shall be eligible for adjustment payments to the same extent as that selling thereafter.

When will adjustment payments be made?

The date payment will be actually made is problematical. Payments will be made only to those producers who comply with and cooperate in the application of such Agricultural Adjustment Program as may hereafter be formulated by the United States Department of Agriculture under authority of legislation; will not be made on a promise to comply with a program but upon proof that the 1938 agricultural program has been complied with. Therefore, it would appear that payments will not be made earlier than July or August, 1938.

The representative of the Cotton Cooperative Association maintains a record of the cotton handled through the Association and can furnish the necessary information so that at the proper time documents may be filed with the County agricultural extension agent for the adjustment payments.

Who is eligible to borrow?

Any farmer who produced cotton this season who will obligate himself to comply with the adjustment program for 1938 as may hereafter be formulated.

What cotton is eligible for the loan?

Any cotton produced from the 1937 crop by or for the applicant which classes 13|16-inch in staple and middling in grade, or which classes 7|8-inch or better as to staple and low middling or better as to grade.

At what rate per pound will loans be made?

Middling or better in grade, 7|8-inch or better in staple, 9c; middling or better in grade, 13|16-inch in staple, 8c; under middling, not below low middling, 7|8-inch or better in staple, 7 3-4 cents.

By whom will the class of the cotton, upon which loans are made, be determined?

The applicant for the loan will state in his loan papers that the cotton is equal to or better than the class required to justify a loan at the rate per pound shown therein. The warehouseman with whom the cotton is stored will furnish a certificate guaranteeing the class of the cotton to be as represented in the loan papers.

What rate of interest will be charged, and when will the notes mature?

The rate of interest will be 4 per cent per annum, and the notes will mature July 31, 1938.

How are these loans made?

The procedure for obtaining these loans will be identical with the procedure applicable to loans made against the crop of 1935.

May a producer place his cotton in the loan and thereafter receive the benefit of the "adjustment payment" to be made by the Secretary of Agriculture?

A producer may place his cotton in the loan and thereafter withdraw his cotton by paying off the loan, and may then sell his cotton, and, if otherwise eligible, receive the benefit of "adjusted payments" provided cotton is withdrawn and actually sold prior to July 1, 1938.

Will the Cotton Cooperative Association make these loans?

Yes. The Association's representatives in the interior will prepare the loan papers and pay the producers the loan value at that time, for which a charge of 50 cents per bale will be made.

The Association will have a supply of the loan forms as soon as they are available.—J. W. Fant, county agent, Chilton County.

VACCINOL

Not Only Kills the Termites But Prevents New Infestation

Vaccinol fumes mean quick death to termites.

Destructive fungi, as well as termites, are destroyed and prevented by Vaccinol, preserving wood against warping and decay. Timbers are frequently treated by Vaccinol, as a seasoning and preserving precaution, before the building is erected.

Have the Vaccinol representative estimate your house for anti-termite treatment immediately. This inspection will be made without cost or obligation. It is the BEST insurance you can have.

MT. PLEASANT CLUB MET

The Mt. Pleasant Home Demonstration Club met Tuesday afternoon, September 7, at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Mims. We were very glad indeed to have Miss Grace with us again.

The meeting was called to order at 2 o'clock by the president, Mrs. Emmett Smith. The secretary, Mr. Stanley Kennedy, called the roll and read the minutes of the last meeing. A scripture reading, Psalms 100, was given by Martha Kennedy, which was followed by a song.

During the business discussion we decided to have a Parcel Post Sale and a party on Thursday evening, September 16, at 7 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Emmett Smith. All club members and their failies are invited.

Nominations were then in order for the election of new officers. They were elected as follows:

President, Mrs. Emmett Smith.
Vice President, Mrs. Emmett Reid.
Secretary - Treasurer, Mrs. Roy Wilson.
Assistant Secretary - Treasurer, Mrs. Kelley Gillespie.

Leaders: Mrs. Stanley Kennedy, Martha Kennedy, Mrs. J. B. Parrish, Mrs. Roy Wilson.

Chairmen for the three objectives: Citizenship — Mrs. Emmett Smith; Farm Bureau: Mrs. Emmett Reid: Scholarship: Martha Kennedy.

Following the election of officers Miss Grace gave a very interesting report on her trip to Washington and the any things she learned while way.

We were dismissed by repeating the pledge.

The place for the next meeting will be announced at the party, and ladies, don't forget the party on Thursday night, the 16th, and a gift to be sold at the parcel post sale; and remember that the husbands are invited too. Everyone should bring along an extra dime or maybe two of them, to buy a package from the post office. There will be lots of games too, so prepare for a really enjoyable evening.

There will be the regular meeting of the Farmer's Union—Local No. 228 held on Thursday night, at 7 o'clock. All members are urged to be present if possible, as we are putting on some special lectures.

Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Miller spent Sunday afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Alton Cobb and Mr. and Mrs. V. Miller.

There will be no singing here next 4th Sunday afternoon on account of the convention at Jemison.

On Friday before the second Sunday in next month, we are going to have a cemetery and church yard cleaning at this place. Everybody are requested to be present with eools to work with.

B'HAM-SOUTHERN COLLEGE

The highest recommendation that a college can attain in the academic world was received by Birmingham-Southern on September 9, when the National convention of Phi Beta Kappa voted a charter to Birmingham-Southern. The charter was granted after the application had received the unanimous approval of the Phi Beta Kappa Senate. Birmingham - Southern was commended especially for its fine faculty, its attractive and well equipped plant, its stable financial condition, excellent library, the high admission and degree requirements, the record of its graduates in obtaining scholarships, fellowships, and assistantships in post-graduate institutions, as well as the noteworthy record of alumni in other fields, the opportunity given the faculty for sabbatical leave and advanced study, and the quality of the student body, as well as the wholesome tone and atmosphere of the campus.

ALL EYES ON THE SOUTH

[AN EDITORIAL]

In a recent issue of this newspaper, we made the prediction that the South faced a prospect of going on "short rations" so far as hand-outs from the New Deal regime in Washington is concerned. We made this prophecy because of the independent attitude recently manifest by certain Southern seators and representatives, who have dared to oppose some of Mr. Roosevelt's pet schemes, notably the court-packing bill and the wages-and-hours measure. We thought we understood the vindictive and domineering spirit of Mr. Roosevelt and his cohorts well enough to hazard the belief that they would strike back, however indirectly and below the belt the blow might be. In fact, we were cynical enough to say that a few votes switched on the court-packing plot might have meant a few cents higher price for the cotton crop for which Southern men and women toil and sweat.

It is interesting to us, therefore, to note the very recent comment of Sen. Bankhead, who lashed out at governmental agencies for beating down the price of the South's staple crop. Said Alabama's senior senator: "For the first time in the history of this country, a deliberate effort has been made by officials of the government to lower the price of an agricultural commodity." When a good Democrat from the deep South makes such a charge, it looks like we were not far wrong in our prediction of punitive measures against the people who sent to Washington men like Sen. Bankhead and the others who dared to vote contrary to White House dictation.

* * * * * * * * * * * * *

Eyes of the nation will be focused on Alabama, because of the Democratic primary to be held in January to select a successor to Sen. Hugo L. Black. The election will hold the national spotlight because it will be the first test of strength since the memorable "Revolt of the Rubber Stamps" flared up on the banks of the historic Potomac. It will be the first contest of its kind since the boys in Congress began to act like grown-up men who no longer believe in Santa Claus. Southern members played a prominent part in the revolt, acting in response to popular demand from back home. It will be interesting to observe to what extent this change of sentiment will affect the coming senatorial race. Arkansas, it is true, has an early election to select a successor to the late Sen. Robinson, but there the Democratic machine has already hand-picked a nominee, so that the fight, interesting as it may be, is not similar in all its aspects to the one to be waged here. Had Mr. Black remained in senatorial harness, the issue would have been clean-cut and unavoidable. With him out of it, it is still to be hoped, in the interest of good government, that the issue will be drawn on the broad question: "Is a United States Senator really a United States Senator, or merely a water-boy for Roosevelt and Farley?"

Up to now, the magic name of Roosevelt has been an infallible password to office in Alabama and the South generally. Candidates for high office have proudly paraded their subservience to the White House, and urged it as the chief ground for their election. Any politician, however devoid of statesmanship, courage or initiative, might await the election returns with hope and confidence, if only he had succeeded in convincing his constituents that his love for Roosevelt was greater and more unbounded than that of any other man in the race. Southern senators and congressmen, when seeking re-election, have hastened to deny the base insinuation that they ever had an idea of their own or a conviction which they did not promptly smother if it was intimated to them that Mr. Roosevelt did not approve.

The President's court-packing plot changed all this. The rubber stamps began hearing from the folks back home. The protest from the voters was spontaneous and voluminous, descending like a deluge upon the complacent politicians who had been so joyously riding Mr. Roosevelt's coat tails. In these days of decadent politics and timorous politicians, when a legislator bucks the executive will and offends the power that dispenses the loot, it can be safely said that he has heard from home in no uncertain terms. The old gag about "standing by the President" worked for a long time, and covered a multitude of sins. The day finally arrived when it failed to work, and the congressional band-wagon boys finally realized that maybe they had better start "standing by" the people who sent them there.

Our relation to the coming Democratic primary is that of the spectator on the side lines. At the same time, we frankly confess to an interest in the matter. If the Democrats of Alabama wish to send another spineless "yes man" to Washington, it is their unquestioned privilege to nominate such a man, and they will doubtless have plenty of such colorless personalities to choose from. We hope, however, that their field of choice will include at least one man whose conception of the dignity, duty and prerogatives of the United States Senate in keeping with the ancient traditions of that body and the spirit of our government—one who has higher aspirations in life than to merely play the role of a glorified errand boy or bootblack.

METHODIST MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The second lesson in the study, "Out Of Africa", was held in the Methodist church parlor after business sessions of Circles 1 and 2. There were some visitors present, and some new members. The effect of the World War on Africa was brought out. Mrs. Arant impersonated the negro, and Mrs. Omar Reynolds the white man. Mrs. Joe Mullins told of the Congo crosses at the cross roads. After opinion tests, Mrs. Macy Jones gave the Scripture lesson and read how Christ came to all races. A profitable and pleasant session was held.

Will you be there next time? Come Monday afternon at 3:30.

VOLUME 45.—TWELVE PAGES CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1937 NUMBER 23

Chilton County Fair Will Open Next Tuesday, September 28th

Exhibits Must Be In By 4:00 O'clock Tuesday P. M.; Tuesday Night Is Ladies' Night; Children's Day Wednesday; Farmers' Day Is Friday; Crowd Expected

The fair grounds where Chilton County's Bigger and Better Fair is to open next Tuesday, September 28, have been the scene of much activity during the past few days, with a crew of men cleaning off the ground, cutting weeds, and making the large acreage suitable for the entertainment features coming to Clanton for this gala week—next week.

Exhibit Deadline

The committee in charge of exhibits warns that all exhibits must be in the fair grounds not later than 4:00 o'clock Tuesday afternoon to assure them of proper placements. The cooperation of all concerned in this will be appreciated.

Ladies' Night

The official opening night, Tuesday night, has been designated as "Ladies' Night", and all ladies attending the fair will be admitted without charge at the main gate. Wednesday is School Day, and Friday is designated as Farmers' Day.

Free Acts

On Friday afternoon the free acts will be presented, and will consist of the famous Latham's dog, pony and monkey shows. Texas Jack, of horse-riding reputation, and Jean Lee, rapid and expert pistol shot, will be a special attraction of the fair, and are expected to bring many a thrill to the thousands attending the event.

Livestock Exhibits

An important adjunct to the fair will be the cattle, horse and mule show, or live stock exhibits. Prizes will be offered on the best and second best of these displays. First prizes will range from $7.50 down to $2.50; second prizes will be items of merchandise donated by dealers in harness, Etc., in the county. Full explanation of this part of the fair will be found in the large adv. elsewhere in this issue of The Union-Banner.

The Location

Don't forget the location of Chilton County's Bigger and Better Fair. The large baseball lot and adjoining property across the road from the CCC camp will be the scene of the huge tents and bright lights of the fair. This is located just west of Clanton's business section, on the Maplesville highway. There will be plenty of parking space for automobiles and wagons. The fair grounds can also be reached from the city by going out the West End street, which leads directly to the grounds.

The Clanton Kiwanis Club and other committees interested in making this fair a huge success for the county, are impressing on the people that this is an agricultural fair, and a farmers' proposition throughout. The company in charge of bringing the side shows and other concessions have assured the committees that everything they have is clean and honest, and that places where they have shown in the past have been well pleased. In fact, many of these places have brought these concessions into their towns more than once.

Remember that the official opening is the night of Tuesday, September 28, which is Tuesday of next week. The fair will contniue through Saturday, October 2. Chilton County should make this fair such a successful event that it will be repeated next year.

ARNIE HULL HAS COMPLETED ELECTRIC COURSE AT CHICAGO

We are informed that Arnie Hull, of Clanton, has just completed a practical course in the Chicago training shops of the Coyne Electrical School.

The rigid requirements of this institution make a record such as he has established a distinct achievement. The specialized knowledge he has acquired while at the school should prove beneficial to this community in case he decides to ply his trade here.

The Coyne Electrical School has been nationally known for the past 38 years, and is recognized by many outstanding leaders, industrialists, and educators as a leader in the field of vocational training for young men, and its large student body is recruited from every corner of the globe.

Mr. Hull was formerly employed at the Clanton unit of Alabama Mills.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY UNION

The Chilton County Woman's Missionary Union will hold their executive committee meeting at Clanton Baptist church in S. S. annex on Saturday, October 2, at 10 o'clock. Please, all W. M. S. officers, be there, with your heart and hands ready to fill the place that God has for you, and to make our W. M. U. a real live one for our Lord. Bring your lunch and let's work and plan together for another year.—Mrs. W. H. Raybon, Secretary-Treasurer.

TENT MEETING AT LOMAX

Tent meeting at Lomax is now in progress each evening at 7:30. We invite everybody to attend. The meeting is sponsored by members of the Church of Christ. The Church of Christ at East Tallassee is furnishing the tent, the preaching is done by R. L. Huffman and J. T. Daniel. Come.—R. L. Huffman.

DREXLER AT FAIR

"SHORTY" DREXLER

Drexler, the shortest driver in automobile racing, will thrill thousands of auto fans at the Alabama State Fair to be held in Birmingham Tuesday afternoon, September 28, when he tries to edge out Emory Collins, leading in points for 1937, and Mad Gus Schared, the world's champion. Drexler is famous for his speed on the Indianapolis speedway.

All Day Singing At Jemison Next Sunday

People Asked To Help Feed Singers

Next Sunday, September 25, is the day for our all day singing at Jemison high school. We are expecting one of the best singings ever held in this county. We will have some of the best singers from all over the county. Some of them are as follows: Prof. Devaughn and quartet, Prof. Shaw and quartet, Southern Airs quartet, B. L. Cofer and son, Selma quartet, and numbers of others. This is a cordial invitation to all of my friends and singers of the county. If I have not seen you, come and bring any kind of book you may have. This is as much your singing as ours, so come and let's make it one of the best.

We are trying to arrange to feed all visiting singers. I am aking all of my friends who live in this part of the county to please help in this. The plan is this: All who will do so, fix a nice little box of dinner, just for the visiting singers. By so doing we can easily take care of all the singers. Bring your boxes, and at noon we will get them all together, spread the food and give it to the singers. Please help in this matter; put your name on your box, as I would like to know all who help out in this way.—J. E. Martin.

BOOKER T. WASHINGTON'S LOG HOME MAY BE MADE SHRINE

Rocky Mount, Va., Sept. 16. — Rep. Arthur Mitchell, Chicago Democratic negro congressman, today announced a plan to purchase the nearby site of the birthplace of Booker T. Washington and donate it to the federal government as a shrine.

The slave cabin in which the negro leader was born will be rebuilt, Mitchell said. Mitchell, who is on a "racial good will tour" of the South, once was Washington's office boy.

MRS. HAGGARD BOUGHT OUT BRATTON STORE AT JEMISON

Now Operating Two Stores—One At Montevallo Short-Cut, The Other In Jemison

Two weeks ago Mrs. T. A. Haggard bought out the stock of goods of A. C. Bratton & Co., in Jemison, and is now operating that thriving little establishment. She is continuing to operate her store on the highway five and a half miles north of Jemison where the Montevallo Short-Cut leaves the pavement, and is making a stupendous success of both places.

Mrs. Haggard has proven herself to be a business woman of unusual ability; she takes especial delight in accommodating her customers, and most always handles the goods that her trade demands. Her prices are generally in line with the best, and the quality of her goods is unsurpassed.

This week in a large adv. in The Union-Banner Mrs. Haggard is announcing her new store and listing a lot of specials for this week and at both places. You will make no mistake to follow the suggestions she makes in this adv. and go to one of these stores to trade. Turn to the adv. and read it.

Whither Heads The Cotton Planter?

If things go on as they have been for the cotton planter of the South, his future is uncertain indeed. Writing to The New York Times in a recent issue, Dr. James E. Boyle, professor of rural economy at Cornell, predicts that five more years of production restriction and market restriction through tariff barriers would leave the Southern planter a ward of the government.

Dealing with the matter factually and objectively, the Cornell teacher summarizes some facts that must be kept in mind if a solution of the dilemma is reached.

"Eight years ago," writes Prof. Boyle, "our share of the world's cotton exports was 63 per cent. Today it is 44 per cent.

"During the five years ending in 1929 the world used 8,300,000 bales of American cotton on the average each year.

"During the five years ending 1934 the volume was 7,500,000.

"During the two years 1935-1936 the volume was 6,000,000.

"During the year ended July 1, 1937, this volume was 5,000,000. Here is a revolution which has put 1,000,000 people out of work in the South.

"Brazil in 1928-1929 produced 376,000 bales of cotton. This was the year before the Hoover market restriction. In 1935-1936 Brazil produced 1,530,000 bales.

"During these past eight years the world has increased its consumption of American cotton by 2,500,000 bales.

"The Southern planter saw market restrictions begin in 1929, with cotton at 18 cents. After eight years of restriction he now sees cotton at 9 cents.

"He has seen five years of crop restriction, and at the end of these five years the world has the largest cotton crop of all time.

"He has seen seven years of prohibitive tariff barriers (Prof. Boyle refers to the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill). At the end of these years of market restriction, tariff restriction and production restriction, he sees his market almost destroyed.

"With five more yers of such restriction the Southern planter will find himself in the position of the American Indian—a ward of the federal government."—The Birmingham News.

CLANTON MOTORS OFFERING EXCELLENT USED CAR VALUES

Clanton Motors is observing Ford dealers annual nation-wide used car clearance sale. The big event was announced last week, and is being continued into this week.

In a large adv. carried in The Union-Banner, Clanton Motors is listing most of the outstanding values offered. This is the season of the year when people's attention is turned toward buying a truck or family car or business car. You will find any or all of these offered by Clanton Motors; and the prices will surprise you. Look over the list and get a real shock over the values and prices offered.

MORE FLOUR SPECIALS AT HILL'S

Mr. L. J. Stewart, the manager at Hill's store in Clanton, announces that he is offering some more specials in flour sales—the well known brands of Grandma's Wonder and White Tip, for this week end. Mr. Stewart says: "Line up with the other hundreds of satisfied customers on these well known flours."

Hill's store has put in a very large stock of this flour, and it is all fresh; prices are the lowest ni a long time. "You should stock up now," says Mr. Stewart.

EUBANKS - WHITE

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Eubanks of Clanton announce the engagement of their daughter, Dewey Rene, to James Wilson White, of Key West, Fla., the wedding to be an event of early fall.

ROBERTA CURRY DARNELL WEDS IN NEW YORK CITY

Of exceedingly wide interest in this section will be the following announcement which was made this week:

"Mrs. Clara B. Curry, of Clanton, Ala., announces the marriage of her daughter, Roberta Curry Darnell, to Mr. Paul Ross Minthorne, in New York City on Saturday afternoon, September 18.

"Mrs. Minthorne was reared in Clanton, where she has a wide circle of friends and admirers. She is an alumna of Brenau Conservatory of Music, of Gainesville, Ga. She has pursued the study of piano and voice in New York for several years, where she attained marked success in opera and over radio as a coloratura soprano.

"Mr. Minthorne, a native of Buffalo, N. Y., for some time a resident of New York City, and a graduate of Princeton University, holds a responsible position with E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., of Wilmington, Del., where they will make their home."

Chilton County High School Field May Be Lighted Soon

Civic Bodies and Committees Working On Much Needed Project For City; Would Keep Clanton In Step With General Progress Being Made By Other Cities

W. H. WESTERMEYER WRITES

Editor Union-Banner:

I have recently moved from Knoxville, Tenn. to Montgomery, Ala., to act as pastor of the Seventh-day Advantist churches in the Montgomery district; Montgomery, Clanton and Selma. Seventh-day Advantist all over the County are at the present time engaged in their annual campaign for there world-wide uplift work. Two days of last week was spent in Clanton in behalf of this course, and through the columns of your good paper, I wish to express my profound appreciation for the way all business and professional people treated me, and the two church members who accompanied me—Mrs. J. B. Downs Jr. and Mrs. Monroe Crowson. It has made me feel that I would want to live in Clanton. I hardly feel worthy of the courtesy extended us, and the cause we represented.

I'm very favorably impressed with the architecture of all the buildings of Clanton; the style and size seems fitting. Certainly discretion is exercised in planning your city. I want to assure the citizens in and around Clanton, that I will cooperate in every way possible to make your good community a better place.—W. H. Westermeyer, 629 S. McDonough St., Montgomery, Ala.

GEORGE CHRISTOPHER PARR

Born to Mr. and Mrs. George F. Parr, Wednesday, September 15, a son, whom they have named George Christopher. Mother and babe are both reported doing fine.

For some time there have been persistent rumors afloat that the athletic field at Chilton County High School may be lighted in the near future. After questioning school authorities on the subject, we understand that the lighting project will be handled by civic bodies of the city, and that some of the leading citizens are already at work on plans.

And, while no set plans have been formed, yet those in charge are very optimistic. It is generally recognized as something that would be beneficial to all—to the school, the city, and other clubs over the county. It could be used for night football games this fall, and baseball games next summer and on in the future; soft ball, a comparatively new game in this section, could likewise be played there. In this way many sports fans who are too busy and cannot get away for day games would be able to go out for an evening of sport "under the lights."

Clanton has no public playground, that is, where games may be played at night, especially. Other cities and towns of the state are putting in parks, playgrounds, lighting athletic fields, etc., and in lighting the field at the local high school, Clanton will be only keeping abreast of the general trend, and furnishing its people with the latest—athletic games at night.

From all reports the project is expected to go through. Everyone seems glad to hear the news that it will be done, those interested are working earnestly, and we will very likely have some sure-fire information within the near future. It is a commendable project, and will be a valuable addition to the city when finished.

T. E. CARLTON BACK ON JOB AT BLACKSMITH SHOP

The many friends of Mr. Ed Carlton will be glad to learn that he is back in his blacksmith shop at the rear of The Union-Banner office. He has re-opened his shop after an absence of six months, during which time he had to have his leg amputated. Mr. Carlton has a good blacksmith with him, who does horse and mule shoeing, wagon and plow work. He invites his friends to come to see him.

Y. W. A. ENJOYS WEINER ROAST

The Y. W. A. of the Clanton Baptist church wer entertained with a weiner roast given by Pearl, Ruth and Edith Hand last Monday night, at Sim's Grove. Axe Champion To Chop Here Tuesday, Oct. 5th

Murray-Bell Hardware Company To Present Famous Chopper

Peter McLaren, who claims the wood chopping championship of America, will stage a log cutting contest and demonstration here on Tuesday, October 5, at 2:00 p.m.

This contest has been arranged by Murray-Bell Hardware Co., who is to be congratulated for arranging for the visit of this colorful champion McLaren, whose wizardry with an axe has carried him from a poor farm lad in Australia to the peak of his profession.

PETER McLAREN

In chopping tours covering a score of years he has chopped before hundreds of thousands, both here and abroad. McLaren, who is nearly 50 years old, claims that outdoor chopping is a great physical developer. His own condition bears out this claim.

The contest is open to any local men who has not previously competed against McLaren. A prize of $50 will be paid to any contestant if McLaren fails to chop through a log in two-thirds of the time the contestant takes.

The handicap gives all good choppers a sporting chance to win the prize money, as it is just like giving 33 yards in a hundred yard dash.

The only restriction made is that no contestant be permitted to use a Plumb axe. This is the only axe which McLaren himself ever uses, and he refuses to chop against a Plumb axe and also allow the handicap.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend the demonstration. Choppers wishing to compete should bring their axes with them. It costs nothing to enter the contest. 9-23-2t

HEFLIN TOSSES HAT INTO RING

Former Senator Gives Out Statement Of Senate Race Bid

LaFayette, Ala.—J. Thomas Heflin, 68-year-old former senator and picturesque Alabama political character, formally declared his candidacy Monday night for January-February Democratic primaries in which a successor to U. S. Senator Dixie Graves wil be selected.

Heflin said he would open his campaign in his home town here where he started a career as mayor in 1893 that led to the House of Representatives and the Senate.

Mrs. H. L. Ratliff won the $25.00 special prize by a small majority.

This cash offer was given to the one turning in the greatest number of years in subscriptions to The Union-Banner from September 10 to 12 a.m., September 20.

The special prize was awarded on points and not on votes; an old subscription counted just as much as a new subscription, while in votes a new subscription counted more votes than an old one. Therefore it is possible for someone who failed to win the special prize to have more votes toward the automobile and other prizes than the winner of the extra prize.

The race was a neck and neck race between several. In fact it was so close that as few as a half dozen subscriptions would have changed the outcome entirely.

Big Vote Period Ends Saturday

Saturday night, September 25, is the closing of the first big vote period of The Union-Banner's Free Gift Campaign.

Candidates, are you doing your best to win the prize of your choice by Saturday night, September 25?

Don't sit idly by and let some worker get all the subscriptions! You who have not made an effort—now is the time to start the ball rolling and win the prize of your choice.

Now is the time to get all promises in, because the votes will not be the same again. The most important things to bear in mind are—do not let this important period pass without a good substantial vote counting to your credit. It is better to be safe than sorry.

Elsewhere in this issue you will find our campaign page that explains the most important points of this period. Wake up, candidates! Do something big for yourself once in a lifetime!

You cannot lose; but you can win, big. The world loves a fighter; but how about a slacker?

Campaign office open until 6:00 o'clock.

NELL'S CAFE OPEN IN A NEW LOCATION

Nell's Cafe is opening up this morning (Thursday) in its new location next to Bil's Garage. Miss Goodgame has added some new equipment, and is arranged in a very neat and handy fashion.

Nell is a veteran at the cafe business, having operated an up-to-date eating place here for the past several years; she has made for Nell's Cafe an enviable place among the best cafes of central Alabama.

The entire personnel would like for you to visit Nell's some time in the near future; and if it along about meal time,, or any time that you feel an empty sensation about the mid portions, they will enjoy helping you out a bit.

COURT ISSUE IS NOT ENDED YET

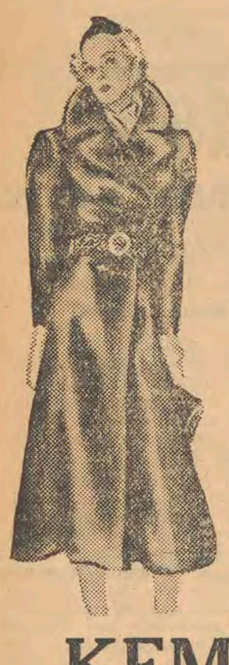
President Indicates That He Intends To Fight For Change

Washington, September 18.—President Roosevelt clearly indicated to a Constitution Day audience and to the nation today that he intends to fight for changes in the Supreme Court. Shortly before his voice was carried to the nation by radio in an attack on the high tribunal, the White House announced that he would embark next week on a trip to the West Coast that will carry him through or near the states of the three leading opponents in the Senate of his court enlargement program.

He followed onto the air, two of his Cabinet members—Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace and Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes, who likewise attacked the Supreme Court.

Through the chief executive did not express his intentions in concrete, specific language, observers had no doubt after his speech that the Supreme Court question had not been killed when the Senate defeated his bill calling for its enlargement.

"Contrary to the belief of many Americans," Mr. Roosevelt said, "the Constitution says nothing about any power of the court to declare legislation unconstitutional; nor does it mention the number of judges for the court.



"You will find no justification in any of the language of the Constitution for delay in the reform which the mass of the American people now demand."

Mr. Roosevelt's attack on the court was largely historic—on its alleged failure to keep abreast of the desires and aspirations of the people. That he still regards a change in the mechanism of its functioning as immediately essential, despite the Senate rejection of his enlargement proposal, was seen in his statement that a crisis exists at the present time which demands immediate action.

RUFUS C. DAVIS

Wetumpka, Sept. 15. — Funeral for Rufus Charles Davis, 60, who died last Tuesday in a Wetumpka hospital, were held Thursday, at Mt. Springs church, in Chilton Co. Burial was in Mountain Springs cemetery, McMorris-Harden in charge.

He is survived by one son, Wilford Davis, of Wetumpka; five brothers—G. T. Davis of Montgomery, W. S. of Shelma, Ga., J. E. of Deatsville, J. M. of Marbury, and F. A. of New Brockton; one sister, Mrs. Maggie Grantham of Montgomery; and five grandchildren.

MARS HILL

There were several absent from Sunday schol last Sunday. Now come on, folks, and let's not get careless, since we have kept our Sunday school going pretty good all this year. Let's press forward and make better progress for the coming year. We can if we only make an effort.

The singing here was not so well attended Sunday afternoon, but we hope for a better singing and better attendance on the next third Sunday afternoon.

Everybody remember that next Saturday night and Sunday are our regular preaching dates. We invite everybody to come out and be with us. We always have good services, with good sermons delivered by our pastor, Bro. Green. Let's all cooperate with him in making this another year of wonderful services to our Lord and Master.

Our cream supper Saturday night did fairly well. The collection was $15, and we thank everyone who helped in any way.

We are glad to report that Miss Gladys Lawley is recovering from a long illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Baggett were the Sunday dinner guests of Mrs. Sudie Smith.

STATE HIGHWAY MONEY

Birmingham, Sept. 20. — Unless some changes are made in the allocation of Alabama's gasoline tax monies, the state will be unable to match its federal aid allotments in the future.

This statement was made today by Andrew W. Smith, director of the Highway Progress Department of the Alabama Motorists Association after a three-month's study of the receipts and expenditures of the State Highway Department.

"A careful survey of the monies now being collected in gasoline tax and other motor vehicle revenues shows that the state highway department is in no condition to meet federal aid funds and will not be able to match these funds in the future under the present allocation of the money collected," Smith said.

Visitors to San Francisco's 1939 World's Fair will see sights at the exposition by riding around on an individual motorized scooter capable of making 40 miles an haur.

Pleasant Grove

The Rev. J. C. Miller delivered two inspiring sermons here last Saturday night and Sunday. Both services were well attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Zuber, Mr. Raymond Hunley, and Bro. Miller dined with Mrs. Jim Price and family Saturday night.

Those from this community attending the singing at Lomax last Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. Tom Miller and family, Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Miller and family, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Champion, and Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Childress and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Cobb spent last Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Ward.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Merchant had as Sunday guests, Mr. Hugh Merchant, Miss Mildred Crowson, and Charles Relius Cobb.

Bro. Miller, Mr. Raymond Hunley, Mr. Jasper Smitherman, Mr. Gavers Price, and Misses Velma and Myrtle Price visited Mrs. Lillie Spivey and family Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Zuber spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Philip Franklin.

Mr. Newton Peoples was a visitor in this community last week end.

Mrs. Frank Langston visited relatives here last week.

Next Sunday is our regular preaching day. Everyone is invited to attend.

ALABAMA COTTON REPORT

A cotton crop of 1,310,000 bales of 500-pound gross weight is now forecast for Alabama, according to a report released by the Crop Reporting Board of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. This compares with a total production of 1,145,000 bales last year and a 5-year (1932-1936) average production of 1,014,000 bales. This indicated production is 8,000 bales more than the August 1 forecast. The slight increase is due to the fact that abandonment is reported as less than usual, leaving a larger acreage for harvest than was estimated last month. Better than average weather during most of August just about balanced the damage done by the heavy rains at the end of the month so far as quantity is concerned. Indications continued to point to a yield of 245 pounds per acre—the same as was indicated on August 1. This compares with an estimated yield of 236 pounds in 1936 and a 10-year (1927-1936) average yield of 194 pounds per acre. Condition is now reported at 77 per cent of normal, which compares with 72 per cent on September 1 last year.

The U. S. crop is now forecast at 16,098,000 bales. This compares with 12,399,000 produced in 1936, and the 5-year (1932-1936) average production of 11,475,000 bales.

Plans for regulaitng auto trailer camps in adjoining cities and towns to San Francisco's 1939 International Exposition today are under way. Regulation will be strict but fair.

WOODLANDS AS "CROPS"

The new point of view of considering farm woods as a "crop" has been an important factor in reducing such practices as clean cutting, uncontrolled grazing, and burning over woodland in the Soil Conservation area near Clanton, according to James H. Wood, Superintendent.

Proper management of existing woodland as well as reforestation of steep and badly eroded land is an important phase of soil erosion control, since approximately 30 per cent of all and under cooperative agreement in the area is in the woods, Mr. Wood pointed out.

With proper management, almost complete protection would be afforded on this large acreage by existing woods. When clean cutting, uncontrolled grazing, and burning over of woodland occur, however, the value of the woods for erosion control is greatly reduced, he said. The same practices also reduce the value of the woods as a cash crop.

The crop tree method of woodland management, which is being followed by many cooperating farmers in the area, provides for the marking of certani trees ot be developed as a future crop of saw logs. Thinning and pruning operations are done with a view to increasing the development of these crop trees, Mr. Wood explained.

Under the old practice, many farmers cut their best trees for fuel, fence posts, and other purposes, and left standing the crooked, diseased, and slow growing trees. The crop tree method has reversed this process, and by keeping the undesirable trees thinned out, promotes the growth of the straight, healthy, vigorous trees.

"When the farmer sees his woods from the point of view of a valuable cash crop," Mr. Wood said, "he has an incentive for protecting his woodland from uncontrolled grazing and fire. When woodland is so protected it provides one of the best known agencies for erosion control."

MRS. MARTHA ANN GROTHY DIED

Thorsby has truly lost an esteemed citizen, in the passing of Mrs. Martha Ann Grothy, September 8, 1937. She was 88 years old.

Her life work was devoted to relieving the sufferings of others. She endeared herself to the entire community for her charity. She truly possessed the charity of which God speaks—"Love thy Neighbor as Thyself." No task was to great nor time inopportune for her to go when and where she was called.

For six years she was a most patient invalid, but her long useful life and peaceful passing assures us God in his mercy will bless her with happiness in her Eternal Home.

Among those from out of town who attended her funeral September 12th were: Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Elliot and Howard Jr., Mrs. Lexie Walker, Mr. and Mrs H. Tollett, Mrs. Ivga Anderson and granddaughter, Ivga Louise Horn, all of Birmingham; Mrs. P. C. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Reagan, of Clanton and Miss Nalmi Turnquist, of Selma.

A very touching coincidence follows the death and burial of Mrs. Grothy, and the friend who has served as her pastor for the past two winters, The Reverand A. T. Font, of Molive, Ill., well known to many of our citizens through his winter residence here in recent years and who had endeared himself especially to Mrs. Grothy and others in affliction passed out of this life on the day preceeding the death of Mrs. Grothy.

After his death there was found on his desk a card addressed to Mrs. Grothy. The card reached the daughters one week after their mother's burial.

The card was in the Norwegian language, and its translation would be somewhat as follows: "He goes with me all the way. We shall soon find peace and rest over there."

Needless to say this card will be among the treasured possessions of Mrs. Grothy's daughters.

Lesson for September 26

GOD IN THE MAKING OF A NATION

LESSON TEXT—Deuteronomy 8:11-20.
GOLDEN TEXT—Beware that thou forget not the Lord thy God, in not keeping his commandments, and his judgments, and his statutes, which I command thee this day.—Deuteronomy 8:11.
PRIMARY TOPIC—To Help Us Remember.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Giver of Gifts.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—God in the Making of a Nation.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—God in the Making of a Nation.

God in the making of the nation of Israel—this has been our general subject for a number of months. In this concluding lesson we meet up with a solemn warning that even though God's mighty works have been revealed on behalf of a people, it is possible for them to become proud and self-confident, forgetting him whose they are and whom they should serve, and perishing in their rebellion and sin.

I. "Beware That Thou Forget Not the Lord" (v. 11).

How could this people who had come up out of slavery and been led "through that great and terrible wilderness" (v. 15), who had been fed by God's hand, who had received "water out of the rock of flint," who had become a great nation by his grace and blessing, now forget God? It would seem unbelievable, did we not know ourselves. We need this warning as badly as Israel. Shout a stirring "Beware" from coast to coast as this lesson is taught, for America is forgetting God. Space does not permit a review of the appalling facts here, but they are enough to make one's heart sick with sorrow and fear for the future of our nation.

II. "Lest . . . Thou Say . . . My Power" (vv. 12-17).

How trenchant and altogether fitting are the words of Scripture. Nothing could describe our times more succinctly and accurately than v. 17. Men are glorying in their ability to do things. Science has made mighty strides forward. Industry has brought forth so many striking developments that a single company is able to present as a reflection of its own work a veritable "House of Magic."

We honor those who by skillful hand and brilliant brain produce excellent and thrilling results. But our question is, "How many are there who say, 'God has done this thing. He gave the strength and the skill. His is the honor'?" Some there are who thus recognize him, but they are few indeed. Their name is legion who say in their heart, "My power and the might of mine hand hath gotten me this wealth" (v. 17).

God, forgive us, cleanse us, and give us grace to walk humbly before Thee!

III. "Remember the Lord . . . He . . . Giveth Thee Power." (v. 18).

Joseph Parker points out that a deep conviction of the fact stated in v. 18 "would turn human history into a sacrament." He says, "What a blow this text strikes at one of the most popular and mischievous fallacies in common life—namely, that man is the maker of his own money!" He makes a stirring plea (see People's Bible. Vol. IV. p. 188) for bringing God, who has been "crushed like a rose leaf in the Bible," out into the market place, into the office and the warehouse, for if man will make "his warehouse into a church" he will never turn the church into a warehouse.

Would that we could once and for all do away with all "Sunday religion," and bring the gospel of grace and the laws of God into the office, the factory, the school, and the home, for every day and every incident and transaction of life.

IV. "If Thou . . . Forget . . . Ye Shall . . . Perish" (vv. 19, 20).

Reading this passage in the light of our knowledge of what did happen to Israel, we agree that the warning was needed, even though it was not heeded. Shall we then dismiss the matter with perhaps an expression of regret that they so disobeyed God and missed his blessing? If we do we miss the most important point in our lesson, for the fact is that our nation is just as dependent on God, and in just as much danger of forgetting him and perishing.

God punished even his chosen people in the day that they forgot him. Let not America think that she will escape if she goes on her way, forgetting God. We plead again, as we did last Sunday, for a deep going revival among God's people, and a renewed zeal for the salvation of lost men and women.

Every Day

Happy and strong and brave shall we be—able to endure all things, and to do all things—if we believe that every day, every hour, every moment of our life is in His hands. —Van Dyke.

Monuments of the Great

Monuments! what are they? the very pyramids have forgotten their builders, or to whom they were dedicated. Deeds, not stones, are the true monuments of the great.—Motley.

Mr. D. P. Payton, of Birmingham, visited friends and relatives here the past week end.

NOTICE TO ALL SPORTSMEN

All licenses for hunting, fishing and trapping expires on the 30th day of September, 1937, all who are caught violating the law after that date will be prosecuted.—A. R. Lightsey, Game Warden. 2tpd

CHEVROLET TOOL CONFERENCE

As a further step in Chevrolet's balanced program for development of unexcelled service to Chevrolet owners, dealer service managers from every zone in the United States have just concluded their second and annuel tool conference.

In selecting necessary tools and equipment to service Chevrolets properly, these men, actively at work in the field, were assisted in their studies of proper mechanical equipment by central office executives. C. W. Wood, national director of service, conducted the various sessions.

An all day conference during which non-essential tools and equipment were weeded from the list by these authorities was followed by a banquet at the Detroit-Leland hotel, conference headquarters. Discussion was resumed the next day under J. M. Crawford, chief engineer for Chevrolet. Every phase of dealer service operation was covered in the two day session.

Farmers are advised by wildlife workers of the Soil Conservation Service not to destroy vegetation along fence rows when cleaning up the farm this fall.

A FEW WORDS FOR AUNT SARAH KELLY

I noticed in last week's paper about the death of aunt Sarah Kelly, colored. I want to say just a few words about the life of aunt Sarah; living near her for several years I knew her very well. Aunt Sarah was loyal to her family and to all the white people, always ready and willing lend a helping hand in time of need. I shall never forget the kind deeds of aunt Sarah. I am confident that her soul is at rest, awaiting the great day of days when she will come and live again, to receive her reward for her faithful service rendered here in this world. I sincerely hope all aunt Sarah's family will follow in her footstepts and be ready to meet her in peace.—A friend, Oscar Mims, Henagar, Ala.

P-T A MEETING

The Chilton County High School P-T A held it's first monthly meeting on Tuesday afternoon, September 14th, having a program on "Health," with Mr. J. B. Varnell as chairman. The guest speakers were: Dr. B. F. Austin, of Montgomery, Ala., who is Director of the Bureau of Child Hygiene and Public Nursing; Ala. State Commander of the American Legion is on the Executive Board of the State Congress of Parents-Teachers brough before us a fine message. Dr. Kenney talked to us on his work done in our high school last year—the tubercular test given to our boys and girls.

Our next meeting will be on Tuesday, October 12th. The program will be on "Safety"—Mrs. Tom Searcy as chairman. Mothers, fathers, let's be there and know our schools better.—Mrs. L. C. Ross, Publicity Chairman.

BAKER CLUB NEWS

The Baker Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Miss Annie Baker Tuesday, September 14, with eight members and two visitors present. Twa new members were welcomed to the club. The club was called to order by the president, Mrs. J. A. Marcus. Several songs were sung after which the roll was called by the secretary, and the minutes of the previous meeting was read and approved. This being the first meeting of the year, new officers were elected for this years work. The ones elected were as follows:

President—Mrs. J. A. Marcus.
Vice-President—Mrs. Tom Littlejohn.
Secretary—Miss Pauline Sisk.
Treasurer—Mrs. Kate Smith.
Reporter—Miss Pauline Sisk.
Club chairman of County Council

Objectives were appointed as follows:
Farm Bureau—Miss Pauline Sisk.
Citizenship—Mrs. G. E. Stutt.
Scholarship—Mrs. Earl Lowery.

Leaders elected for the new year were as follows: Mrs. J. M. Roper, Mrs. Horace Popwell, Mrs. D. G. Baker and Miss Gladys Roper.

After the election of officers the County-wide fair was discussed and plans were made for the exhibit to be put on by the club women. The following women and girls were put on a committee to help at least a half a day at the fair at the booth where the club exhibit is. These were: Mrs. Tom Littlejohn, Mrs. J. M. Roper, Mrs. Horace Popwell, Mrs. Kate Smith, Mrs. I. E. Edwards, Mrs. J. A. Marcus, Mrs. D. G. Baker, Miss Gladys Roper and Miss Pauline Sisk.

These ladies will help Wednesday, children's day, they will have ice cream, cold drinks, different kinds of pies and lots of other things to sell, so come and have a big time with us.

At a late hour the club was dismissed to meet in October with Mrs. Kate Smith.

CCC NEWS

In the closing days of the 75th Congress an Act (House Resolution No. 6,551) "To establish a Civilian Conservation Corps and for other purposes," was passed by both houses and signed by the president on June 28, 1937.

This Act provided for the establishment, effective July 1, 1937, of the Civilian Conservation Corps, which organization had heretofore functioned pursuant to executive orders issued by the President of the United States, under authority granted under the Act of Congress "An Act for the relief of unemployment through the performance of useful public work and for other purposes." The new Act definitely fixed eligibility requirements for future members of the Corps in that only applicants between the ages of 17 and 23, inclusive, are eligible for enrollment. This Act further places a maximum service limitation of two years. At first it was apparent that all enrollees in the various CCC camps whose total service as of September 30, 1937, was more than 18 months would be manditorily discharged, since an additional enrollment for a period of six months would cause their total service to exceed the statutory limitation with respect to service.

PLEASANT HILL

Sunday school was well attended last Sunday, with several visitors. We want those members who have been absent to try to be present next Sunday and make our Sunday school better.

Several from here attended the singing at Mineral Springs last Sunday evening.

Misses Alta Blow and Gussie Faye Davis, and Messrs. Harlan Brasher and Hobson Cost all were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Cleckler.

Mrs. Clarence Barnett and two children are spending a few days with her sister-in-law, Mrs. O. L. Martin.

Everybody try to be present for Sunday school next Sunday.

FUNERAL POLICY ACT HIT

Validity Attached As Violation Of State Constitution

Hearing of quo warranto proceedings seeking to prevent Brown-Service Funeral Company, Inc., from operating under franchise privileges granted by a 1935 legislative act has been set for October 4 before Judge J. Russell McElroy in Circuit Court here.

The proceedings, instituted by Thomas E. Skinner, as attorney for J. H. Highsmith, attacked validity of the act, claiming that it violates Sections 6, 22 and 45 of the state constitution and that the subject of the act is not clearly expressed in the title.

The petition charges that the act constitutes an unlawful discrimination in favor of mutual aid, benefit in industrial companies, such as the respondent concern, and against insurance companies writing policies impose the same liability. It also was claimed the act impairs the obligation of all outstanding contracts or policies issued by the concern prior to passage of the statute June 10, 1935.—Birmingham Age-Herald, Sept. 18, 1937.

State Capitol News

The Alabama Fireman's Association will conduct its second annual convention at Montgomery October 6-7. Chief C. L. Ingram, of the Montgomery Fire Department, the convention host, said more than 300 delegates have indicated they will attend.

Civic agencies of Montgomery are preparing an extensive program of entertainment for Alabama Confederate veterans who will assemble in annual reunion here October 7-8. The veterans were scheduled to convene in May but voted to hold fall sessions instead so as not to conflict with the general reunion held at Jackson, Miss. Paul B. Fuller, Montgomery Chamber of Commerce secretary and convention chairman, announced headquarters would be maintained at the Jefferson Davis hotel.

Chairman E. Roy Albright of the Alabama Alcoholic Beverage Control Board has announced a program of expansion under which counties which voted for repeal will get state liquor tores in the immediate future while in other counties more stores will be opened.

The office of Gov. Bibb Graves has announced the comptroller general at Washington has approved additional works projects for Alabama to cost $151,118. The projects, which now await presidential approval, follow: Sealing abandoned mines in Jefferson, Walker, Tuscaloosa, Winston, Blount, Marion, and Etowah Counties, $92,707; drill hall and auditorium for Decatur, $12,251; index of corcuit and municipal court records, Birmingham, $30,766; Tuscaloosa County library service, $8,469; and $6,925 to improve Arlington park, Mobile.

Presidential approval was accorded the following projects: to complete Jasper's auditorium, $2,804; home economics hall addition to Carbon Hill High School, $2,183; and $1,634 for construction of a school gymnasium at Notasulga.

CANE CREEK

Rev. Billingsley preached for us last Sunday and delivered a good sermon.

Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. were good, but we still have room for more to come and help us. If you do not attend church somewhere else, come and worship God with us.

Next Sunday is our regular preaching day. We will have Sunday school at 10 o'clock, preaching at 11 o'clock. Singing in the afternoon at 2 o'clock. We have the promise of some good singers and song books. Come and let's have a good singing like we once have had.

B. Y. P. U. at 6:45 every Sunday night. Visitors are always welcome at Cane Creek.

SARDIS CLUB NEWS

The meeting opened with songs with Mrs. H. R. Ratliff presiding.

Old and new business was taken up and the new officers elected for the coming year were as follows:

President—Mrs. H. L. Ratliff.
Vice-President—Mrs. R. P. Kendrick.
Secretary and Treasurer—Miss Mildred Samson.
Reporter—Miss Mildred Samson.

Leaders—Mrs G. W. Sansom Mrs. W. W. Headley, Mrs. E. W. Clinner and Mrs. G. L. Deason.

We were happy to have two visitors from the Alphine-Pletcher Club, Mrs. A. B. Jones and daughter, Arrabel. Mrs. Jones gave a very interesting talk of their club work and how they keep interest in the club.

Varous members of the club offered products to be used in the exhibits for the fair.

With these new officers and leaders we are expecting this year to be the best club year we have ever had.

There being no other business the meeting was closed by praying the Lord's Prayer.

MT. CARMEL

Our Sunday school attendance last Sunday were a little below the average, maybe because some were so tired they wanted to rest. But we should attend church services, and we urge you to be at Sunday school every Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Leach and children spent Sunday with J. C. Scott and family.

Miss Gladys Oden was the dinner guest of Misses Gladys and Lillian Higgins Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Odis Sewell and baby, of Clanton, visited relatives here Saturday night and Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Tarence Eiland were the dinner guests of Mrs. Rita Watley last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Higgins were the Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Childress.

Mr. John Paul Jones, of Isabella, spent Sunday with Mr. Turner Watley.

Miss Mary Carr Mims is spending this week with her grandfather at Thorsby.

We want to thank Mr. Tarence Eiland for the lamp he gave to the church Sunday night. We pray that the Lord will let His light shine as bright as the lamp light did in the church Sunday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Huett and Mrs. B. H. Jones visited in Perry County Sunday.

FAIRVIEW CLUB NEWS

The Fairview Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. Alice Durbin, on August 17, 1937.

There were 11 members present. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. J. D. Williams. The minutes were read and approved. A demonstration was not given at this meeting as it was the first for the new year and new officers were to be elected. These new officers and leaders are as follows:

President—Mrs. J. D. Williams.
Vice-President—Mrs. W. L. Henley.
Secretary, Treasurer and Reporter—Mrs. Estelle Cowart.

Leaders—Mrs. Ruth Jones and Miss Inez McKee.

There being no other business the meeting adjourned until next month.

CARD OF THANKS

We appreciate the kindness and sympathy shown us during the illness and death of our dear husband and brother-in-law. The flowers were lovely. We pray God's blessings on you all.—Mrs. Roy Smith and sister, Mrs. O. L. Smitherman.

BRUSH ARBER MEETING

Come one. Come all. There will be a gospel service at Headley's Store near Mineral Springs at a brush arbor Thursday Friday and Saturday night, September 23.—Aaron Parker.

ALABAMA STATE EMPLOYMENT SERVICE

Montgomery, Ala., Sept. 23.—Efforts of the Alabama State Employment Service and National Reemployment Service, in cooperation, resulted in the placement of 7,733 persons in gainful occupations during the months of July and August. A comparative statement issued today by J. G. Duncan, Jr., Director, showed that placements in August were greater by 757 than during July, the total in August being 4,245 compared with 3,488 in July. Only 18 persons were given security wage jobs during August.

The interesting fact in connection with placements continued to be the heavy increase in calls for workers in private industry and the gradual reduction in the number being placed on pay rolls of public works projects. In August 3,110 were given jobs in private industry compared with 2,572 in private industry in July. Only 916 persons were placed on public works projects in July. This number was increased to 1,135 in August due to the demand of construction projects in a few instances under the federal program.

THORSBY SECTION

(Mrs. S. E. Norton, Manager)

Dr. L. O. Dawson, of Howard College, will speak at the Thorsby Baptist church Friday evening September 24th, at 7 o'clock. Dr. Dawson is a forceful speaker, and we hope to have a large congregation present to hear him on this occasion. We plan to raise at this meeting by a freewill offering, money enough to pay our church debt. "IT CAN BE DONE." A splendid musical program consisting of quartets, solos and congregational singing is being arranged. Refreshments will be served at the close of the service when a season of fellowship will be enjoyed. The people of Thorsby and adjoining communities are cordially invited to attend this service.

There will be regular services at the Baptist church next Sunday, both morning and evening. Everyone is invited.

Miss Kathryn Foss will meet with the Congregational choir on Wednesday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, at the church.

Prayer meeting on Wednesday night, at 7 o'clock, in the fellowship room.

Congregational church services as usual on Sunday. Sunday school at 9:45, church service at 11 o'clock. The young peoples meeting will be held Sunday evening, but there will be no church services in the evening.

The Ladies Guild social will be held on Thursday, September 23rd, at the home of Mrs. R. R. Franklin. Everyone is cordially invited.

We regret very much to hear of the accident of Mrs. M. J. Soberg, who fell on Sunday and broke her hip. We sincerely hope that she will have a speedy recovery.

The boy scouts will meet on Friday night, at 6:30, at the city hall. The boys are requested to bring scouts books with them.

Mr H. L. Collum and Mr. Ira Martin left Sunday morning for Piedmont College, Demorest, Ga., where they will be enrolled as students for the coming year. Mrs. Pauline Pate left with them to spend a few days in Demorest and Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Seale spent Sunday afternoon in Selma with Mrs. Agee.

Mr. Burt Higgins is improving after a week's illness which has confined him to his home.

Rev. and Mrs. Maurice Hodgens have moved from the Mims apartment to Clanton.

AUTOMOBILE RACES TO BE AT BIRMINGHAM STATE FAIR, 28th

Birmingham, Sept. 20. — By a lucky turn of fate, Birmingham and Alabama fans are to see the world's dirt track automobile championship decided before their eyes September 28, at the Alabama State Fair.

Gus schrader, world's dirt track champion, who is trailing sensational Emory Collins, the nerveless Chicagoan, in previous races this year, and who was defeated by Collins in the Gold Cup championship series this summer, will have to put the foot control on his mighty speedster to the floorboard Tuesday afternoon if he is to salvage 1937 honors from Collins and retain his world's championship.

With Schrader and Collins having their merry battle, and with a dozen more of the country's most outstanding drivers trying to outdo them, fans at the fair are assured the wildest afternoon they have ever seen on any speedway, September 28. Collins is determined to capture this championship at any cost.

Buddy Callaway, the Miami madcap, who almost blotted out his own life when he attempted to race here July 18 with one arm already out of commission, will be trying to overcome both Schrader and Collins. In the last two races, Callaway, handicapped with injuries until now, has piled up enough points that he, too, will have a chance to win the world's title here September 28. This will be the last dirt track race of the season, and what is to be done this season must be done then.

CONSUMERS TAXPAYERS ASS'N

Montgomery, Sept. 20. — Resolutions condemning the so-called "spoils system in government", appointment of the superintendents of education as payment for "political lobbying" and advocating legislation to inaugurate the merit system for all state employes, were adopted at a meeting of the directors of the Consumers Taxpayers Association of Alabama held here Wednesday, September 15.

The resolutions were adopted at an all-day executive session by directors representing all of the 67 counties at the Whitley Hotel, when scores of speakers from all sections of Alabama were heard.

Another state-wide meeting was called for October 14 in Montgomery, when county unit chairmen will report on organization work, Jeff Beeland, president of the association, announced.

The association pledged a renewal of its fight for economy in state and local governments, at the same time deploring mounting costs of government.

A list of the 41 legislators who were reported to be on the state payroll and who supported the governor's tax program were made public to all of the county units with the request that they familiarize the citizens of each county with these men in case they should seek future favors from the electorate.

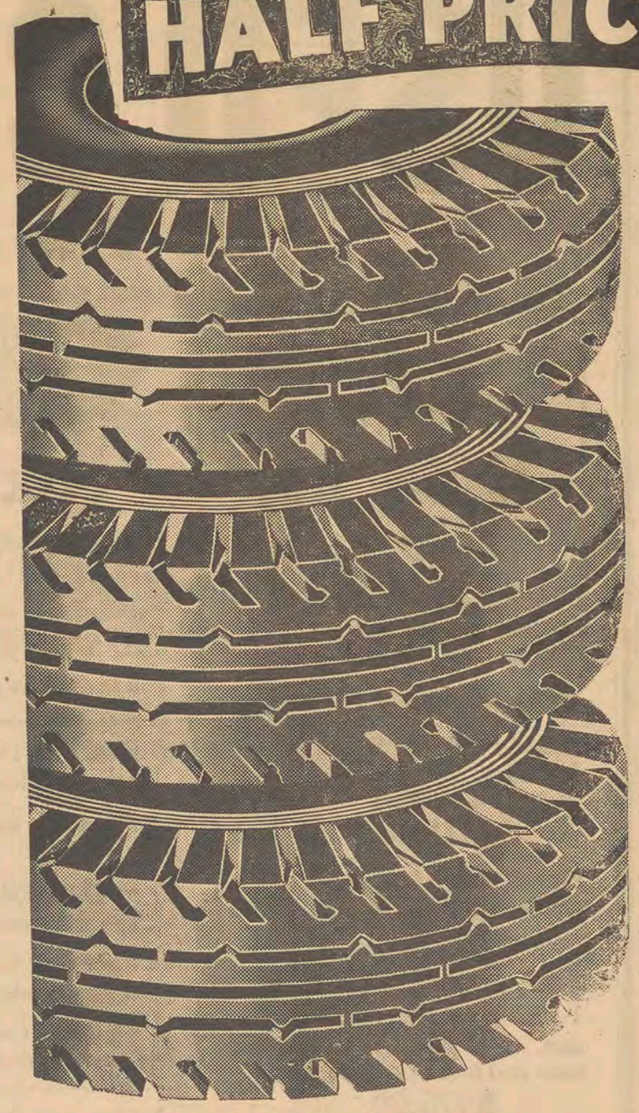
Bulletins showing bonded indebtedness of state, counties and cities were also placed in the hands of county committees.

CHILSHELTOGA MEETING

The Chilsheltoga F. F. A. held the second meeting of the new year at Jemison on Monday night, September 20. There were four chapters present. Music by the Clanton chapter string band was a feature of the evening. The standing committees made their monthly reports, and most of them are making fine progress.

The district advisor, A. L. Smith, has been removed from the district, and H. D. Denson was elected new advisor. The boys feel that he will make a good advisor and instruction leader. The Marbury chapter, a new member, was cordially invited into this district. This chapter makes a total membership of six chapters in this district. A new activity program was outlined by the district.

Mrs. Douglas Richey of Bessemer is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Eubanks, this week.



N. W. SINGING CTNVENTION AT JEMISON SEPTEMBER 26

The Northwest Singing Convention of Chilton County will convene in its third annual session at Jemison High School building the fourth Sunday in this month. Prof. P. B. Shaw, Prof. W. M. Devaughn, B. L. Cofer and son, the Southernaires and several other prominent singers and quartets will be present. The public is cordially invited.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

HARVESTING PEANUTS

Auburn, Sept. 20. — Southeast Alabama farmers should do everything in their power to harvest their peanuts in such a way as to save as many of No. 1 and No. 2 as possible, said T. A. Borland, of Pinckard, W. B. Crawley, of Banks, Alabama directors of G-F-A Peanut Associatoin, and Emmett Sizemore, supervisor, Alabama Extension Service, upon returning to Alabama today from Washington, D. C., where they spent several days working with AAA officials on details of the 1937 diversion program.

Only No. 1 and No. 2 Runner and Spanish peanuts will be purchased by the G-F-A Peanut Association they said in reporting that Secretary Wallace will fix a minimum price to be paid for various types and grades of peanuts within the next few days. "All growers should remember that peanuts lower in grade than No. 2 will not be accepted by the Association," said the farmers and extension worker.

RECORDS REQUIRED FOR ADJUSTMENT PAYMENTS

Auburn, Ala.—Cotton producers applying for cotton price adjustment payments will be required to file with their county agricultural conservation associations the original sales certificates or receipts for all cotton sold from the 1937 crop, announces the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

These receipts must show the date of sale, name and address of the producer, number and gross weight of the bales and the signature and address of the buyer.

If cotton is sold in the seed, the receipt must show the number of pounds expressed in terms of lint cotton, rather than the number of bales and gross weight. Receipts for lint cotton sold but not baled must show the pounds of lint, rather than the number of bales and gross weight.

For sales already made, cotton producers will be required to obtain sales certificates or receipts and file them with the secretaries of their county agricultural conservation associations not later than September 30, 1937. This may be done either by mailing the receipt to the secretary of the association or delivering it in person. Duplicate sales certificates or receipts should be retained by the producers.

DATES ARE GIVEN FOR SOWING WHEAT AND RYE

Auburn, Sept. 13. — Wheat should be planted from October 1 to November 1 in Alabama.

Plantings made in December at Auburn have made moderately large yields some years. However, it is advisable to plant earlier so that plants may be well rooted before cold weather begins.

Rye is usually planted for grazing, and, therefore, should be sown as early in the fall as possible. If planted as early in September as there is enough moisture to get a stand, rye will make enough growth to furnish some grazing before Christmas.

WINTER LEGUMES NEED PHOSPHATE FERTILIZERS

Auburn, Sept. 20. — Tests by the Alabama Experiment Station show that it is most important for Alabama farmers to fertilize their winter legumes with basic slag or superphosphate.

The importance of phosphate fertilizers under legumes is forcefully illustrated by results at Auburn, Andalusia, Hackleburg, Sylacauga, Belle Mina, Headland, Crossville, Alexandria, Aliceville, Brewton, Monroeville, and Prattville.

Legumes fertilized with 240 pounds superphosphate and 50 pounds muriate of potash at Auburn increased cotton yields by 705 pounds, corn yields by 29.5 bushels per acre. On the plots without fertilizer the legumes made a very poor growth and had very little effect on the yields of corn and cotton.

At Andalusia, Hackleburg, and Sylacauga, vetch yields were approximately four times as great when 400 pounds superphosphate was applied as when no phosphate was used.

Other experiments during the past six years at five experiment stations and three sub-stations in Alabama show that an average of 4,288 pounds of vetch per acre was produced without phosphate. This was sufficient to produce 25.8 bushels of corn and leave enough residue to produce 751 pounds per acre of seed cotton the following year. Where 600 pounds superphosphate per acre was used in the rotation (400 pounds for vetch, 200 pounds for cotton) 9,221 pounds of vetch were grown. This produced 31.2 bushels of corn per acre and the residue of the vetch plus 200 pounds of superphosphate per acre gave 946 pounds of seed cotton.

ALABAMA FARMERS LEAD MANY PHASES OF WORK

Auburn, Sept. 20. — Alabama farmers are leading all other Southern states in carrying out improved fertilizer practices, in using modern methods of controlling insects, in keeping AAA account books, in improving their methods of making butter and cheese on the farm, and are leading in many phases of agricultural economics and farm management, as well as in nutritional work.

Alabama also is leading in the number of farms on which debts have been adjusted, stands at the top in 4-H club enrollment, is second in the number of home demonstration club members, is second in truck crop improvement work, stands second in number of acres of land terraced during the past year.

These facts are given by C. L. Chambers, in charge of agricultural extension work in the South, to P. O. Davis, director, Alabama Extension Service. "The Extension Service is doing an excellent educational job in Alabama and we hope that you will continue to push forward with a constructive, educational program," he says.

"Records show that Alabama farmers lead in following improved fertilization practices," said Mr. Chambers in complimenting the Extension Service on "the excellent manner in which it has carried the findings of the Alabama Experiment Station to farmers and has gotten the farmers to follow these recommendations." Estimates are that Alabama farmers are this year producing an average of 245 pounds of lint cotton per acre, the largest on record in the state. Mr. Chambers attributes much of this increase to farmers carrying out recommendations of the Experiment Station and Extension Service.

ALABAMA GETS NEW SOIL CONSERVATION PROJECT

Auburn, Sept. 20. — A new soil conservation demonstration project, under the Soil Conservation Service, including approximately 34,000 acres, is being established in Perry County on the Boguechitta watershed at an early date. The project headquarters will be located in the town of Marion.

Scientific soil conserving methods will be established on cooperating farms on the new soil erosion control demonstration area. In cooperation with farmers in the area the Service will demonstrate modern soil conserving methods. These will include terracing, contour cultivation, strip cropping, the use of cover crops, systematic crop rotations, the planting and reseeding of pastures and retired areas, woodland management improvement, and other conservation methods which are suited to land conditions in that part of the state.

The demonstration project is located in two of the principal soil provinces of the state. The upper half of the project area is in the upper coastal plains soil province and the lower half is in the Black Belt soil province.

The Alabama Extension Service will cooperate in this project.

TRENCH SILO SAVES FEED AT A VERY LOW COST

Auburn, Sept. 20. — Farmers who do not have a silo, but who wish to save corn stover, sorghum, or other ensilage crops, can construct a trench silo with very little effort or cost, according to E. G. Diseker, assistant agricultural engineer of the Alabama Experiment Station. The cost of digging a trench silo should not exceed $25.

Trench silos have not only proved very satisfactory over the state, but have meant thousands of dollars to Alabama farmers in recent years in utilizing immature undeveloped corn crops and adding carrying capacity, and, increasing feeding value of stover, he says.

In filling a trench silo, cut the crop and run it through a silage cutter into the silo, Mr. Diseker advises. Tramp the silage around the edges, and after filling cover with six inches of straw —pine straw will do—water should then be added in sufficient quantity to dampen the foliage and the stalk of the stover, the amount depending very largely on the greenness of the stover when cut for silage. Then throw six inches of soil over the straw and wet down.

Suggestions for building trench silos and operating a cutter may be obtained by writing Mr. Diseker at Auburn for copies of Circular 59, "The Trench Silo," and Circular 61, "An Inexpensive Machine for Filling the Trench Silo."

TROY TEACHERS COLLEGE OPENED LAST MONDAY

Troy, Sept. 15. — Troy State Teachers College today began its 51st annual session, when classes were held for the first time in the new term. Monday and Tuesday were devoted to registering freshmen and upper classmen.

The college, in addition to beginning the second half of a centennial, is also opening under new leadership. C. B. Smith, formerly Director of the Division of Instruction of the State Department of Education, this summer was named to direct the institution.

An orientation program for newcomers has been under way the early part of the week, including a picnic for freshmen Monday night; an "All-College Party" Tuesday evening, and other courtesies intended to make the new arrivals feel at home.

About 125 first year students registered opening day, and others are expected to come in during the latter part of the week. Freshmen registering from Chilton County on opening day included Thera Olivia Martin, of Clanton.

The U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics is now issuing each Saturday a report indicating the grade and staple engtn of the present crop as it is ginned.

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

According to the Bible, Jesus Christ was the son of God. He came out of heaven to this earth by way of the body of a virgin. He was God manifest in the flesh. He was God's love gift to a lost world. Jesus went about for over 30 years loving men, weeping with those who wept, giving his blessings at a wedding feast, unstopping the ears of the deaf, and giving sight to the blind, cleansing lepers with His touch and healing the palsied. He died on the cross, and, according to the Bible, His death was vicarious and substitutional. He took the sinner's place. If the Bible is true in what it teaches about Jesus—and the writer does not say "if" with any question in his mind, for he knows it is true—then any man who is hard-hearted enough to reject Jesus Christ is hard-hearted enough to eventually yield to any kind of temptation if the temptation is strong enough. There is no need of proof of human depravity except the fact that even men and women who believe that Jesus Christ was the Son of God, and that He died on the cross to save them, are still willing to turn their backs on Him and line up with his enemies.

This is God's universe. "The earth is the Lord's and the fulness thereof." God made everything. The snow-capped mountains are His. He planted the flowers. He started the streams that go singing to the sea. He put music in the throats of brds. He made men and women and little children. He created the sun as the light by day and the moon as the light by night. The stars that shine like diamond points in the sky are His incandescent lights. Everything belongs to Him. Since it is His universe, He has a right to run it according to His will. The Bible teaches that God proposes to head up everything in His son, Jesus Christ, our Lord. Jesus is God's divinely appointed and divinely anointed King of this earth. He came to His earth and was cast out by wicked men. He returned to His father's house. Some day in clouds of glory He is coming again to take over His land and the throne His father has given Him. To reject Jesus Christ is to be guilty of high treason. Those who suffer with Him now will reign with Him when He sits on His throne. He says that those who overcome will sit down with Him on His throne as He has overcome and has sat down with His father on His father's throne. God's throne is in heaven. The throne of Jesus is in the earth. If these words should be read by any unconverted, Godless man or woman, let me remind you that some day the Savior whom you reject will be the King of kings and the Lord of lords. Every knee shall bow to Him sometime, somewhere.

Jemison — Ervin Lee Beasley, son of H. N. Beasley.

Verbena — Joseph B. Gaines, Jr., son of J. B. Gaines.

Mr. and Mrs. McLendon had visitors from Virginia this past week.

COUNTY COUNCIL WANTS SAMPLES FOR STATE FAIR

The Chilton County Council of Home Demonstration Clubs wants samples of your products for county exhibit at the State Fair in Birmingham, September 27, and October 2.

Never before has Chilton County been so active in both local and state fairs at the same time. The exhibit being collected for the Home Demonstration County Council for the state fair is coming along nicely.

Since the county exhibits represents Chilton County there is no limit where nor who supplies samples within the county for this exhibit, so won't you please help these ladies to make a creditable showing September 27. To do this we must have your best samples of your very best products. We want crops of economic importance; money crops, soil building, feed and food for the family. Products that have not been located so far and are badly needed are hay, grain and forage; 10 varieties of standard bales of hay is badly needed. Loose grains as oats, wheat, rye, barley, soy beans, velvet beans, and upland rice, chuffas, peanuts, both on the stalk and on the bunch, also of corn of as many varieties as possible, both on the ear and on the stalk. Extra ears of the same on the cobb and shelled varieties. The shelled varieties must amount to at least ½ bushel of each variety.

Fresh fruit and vegetables needed to be located art at least one peck of each variety. Irish and sweet potatoes, pumpkins, melons and syrup are needed in this group. Sugar cane and syrup is badly needed. four pints of each variety of syrup and not less than six stalks of each variety of cane must be had to meet the requirements of the exhibit rules. What varieties have you? Is it good? Can we count on you to help us?

Nuts to consist of not less than five varieties of five pounds of each variety: pecans, walnuts, hickory nuts, chinquapins, chestnuts, and varieties of pecans any that you have.

All products not used in the state fair will be used in the local fair exhibit which the council is cooperating with. A special committee has been appointed for the council to work with the local fair to be held in Clanton at the same time. The success of both exhibits will be entirely up to the people of the county. The public is able to determine what is being produced by the farmers and conserved by the farmer's wives. New ideas are learned through the fairs and often times an exchange of seeds, and plants are obtained in this way. Let's each and every individual look over your products back home and send a list immediately to the Home Demonstration Agent's office of what you have that could be used. If possible collect the samples according to these rules and either loan, sell or give to these exhibits so that we may place Chilton county in a favorable manner. May we count on you?

What's RIGHT with ALABAMA

a MONUMENT to an ENEMY

"Not more fatal are these pursuits (certain dangerous trades) to life than is the stupid folly of exclusive cotton culture to prosperity and independence."

—Editor A. H. Keller, at about 1890, as, quoted in Moore's "History of Alabama."

ALTHOUGH within the memory of Alabamians it had been known that Alabama enjoyed a "growing season" ranging from almost 200 days in the northern section to 300 days in the coastal areas; that rainfall was abundant and well distributed during the growing season, cotton remained king until 1900, when scientific agriculture and the idea of widespread diversification of crops began to take root in Alabama. In November, 1906, Dr. Knapp of the United States Bureau of Plant Industry launched the farm demonstration and extension work in Alabama.

Since then, progress toward correcting the condition described by Keller in 1890 has been steady. Today we find Alabama importing less and less of farm products from other states to feed her citizens. We find great improvement in the breeds of hogs and cattle in many counties.* Crops are becoming increasingly diversified, and fruits, nuts, vegetables, and forage crops are being grown in commercial quantities. Dairying has made steady progress, and Alabama is gradually approaching the day when it can be said that she is agriculturally self-sufficient and well-balanced.

Much of the credit for this progress is due the farm extension workers and home demonstration agents who have carried on their work courageously when, at times, it must have seemed that nature was conspiring against them.

But credit must be given, too, to other citizens of the State for their fortitude in the face of adversity. Their attitude is best typified by what the people of Coffee County did, when in 1915, the Mexican cotton boll weevil began his raids and depredation. They took counsel among themselves and with their agricultural agents. By 1917, cattle, hogs, peanuts, hay, corn, potatoes, sugar cane and other crops were planted. An income of more than 5 million dollars was realized from peanuts alone, and hogs and cattle were shipped in carload lots.

The dictatorship of cotton was broken!

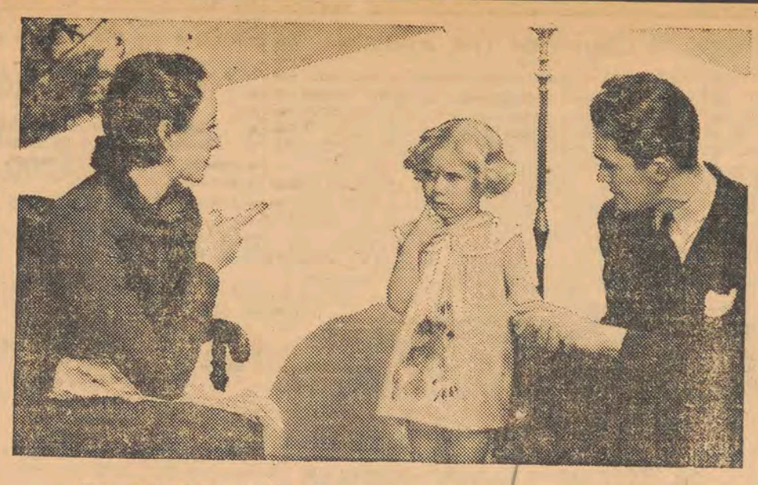
And then, in 1919, inspired by R. O. Fleming, a merchant and member of the city council, the citizens of Enterprise erected their famous "monument to the Boll Weevil"—the only monument to a bug in the world. Some have said that it is really a monument to the spirit of a people. We like to consider it such—one of the "right" things about Alabama.

Truly, Alabama has come a long way agriculturally since that day in 1890 when Editor Keller sounded his warning. Yes, she has yet a pace to go before the long-desired balance between agriculture and industry will come about, and before crop diversification will be in ideal proportion.

But she is making progress—and that is right!

POWER COMPANY "PROGRESSIVE AND ENTERPRISING"

An Editorial



The Alabama Power Company has just observed its silver anniversary as an Alabama industry. This is a notable event in the economic history of the State. The Advertiser thinks that the Alabama Power Company has had a large and honorable part in delivering Alabamians from an impossible way of life. Politicians, with an eye to popular favor, have made a convenience of the company, to be sure, and intimated darkly that the Alabama Power Company has enslaved more people than it has freed. But The Advertiser doubts it for the reason that in its casual quest through the State it has yet to find a citizen who has been enslaved or unfairly abused by this "oc-to-puss". The Alabama Power Company has been progressive and enterprising in making the most of its natural opportunities. It has developed our wasted streams and used its resources to induce new industries to establish themselves here and so to create new and better payrolls.

The Advertiser knows that the officials of the Alabama Power Company, from Thomas W. Martin down, have been ever alert to the higher interests of the people in the matter of industrial and cultural development. The Advertiser knows of many generous and thoughtful performances that must be credited to the power company, it is unaware of anything cheap and shoddy that the company has done. The power company has not been able or willing to do all that dreamers and demagogues demanded of it, but it has been more than willing to do all that sane and unselfish persons have asked of it. It has endeavored to build up the State along fundamentally sound lines. It has cooperated with enlightened agencies. The Advertiser thinks that upon the whole the Alabama Power Company has done a fine job. It has given an admirable performance.

Circuit Court Held This Week

Four Murder Cases On Docket For Thursday; Many Pleas of Guilt Entered

The regular fall term of the Circuit Court of Chilton County opened last Monday, with Judge Arthur Glover presiding. Some kind of record was set Monday, at least unusual, when 10 of the 11 cases on the day's docket were disposed of, with only one being continued, and that to the next day.

The following cases were disposed of, with no penalties having been set at this writing:

Monday, September 20

W. L. Baker, violating prohibition law; plead guilty.

Will Latham, public drunkenness; plead guilty.

Sam Powers, driving while intoxicated; plead guilty.

S. R. Powers, alias Sam Powers, driving while intoxicated; plead guilty.

D. C. Littlefield, public drunkenness; plead guilty.

Coleman Smith, alias W. C. Smith, alias William Coleman Smith, assault and battery; continued to Tuesday.

W. B. Caldwell, driving while intoxicated; plead guilty.

Tuesday, September 21

Coleman Smith, alias W. C. Smith, alias William Coleman Smith, assault and battery; continued on account of absence of state witnesses.

Jim Shear, unlawfully presenting firearms; nol prossed.

Robert V. Whitfield, grand larceny; nol prossed.

Lee Vanderstone, assault to murder; plea of misnomer sustained; continued; defendant held for new indictment.

Wallace Roberts, bigamy; nol prossed on payment of fees of sheriff and clerk, and state witnesses.

Adell Samuels, assault to murder; plead guilty.

John Speer, violating prohibition law; jury and verdict of guilty; fined $50 and costs.

Barnie Foshee, assault and battery; nol prossed.

F. J. Shaneyfelt, alias Frank Shaneyfelt, false pretense, and removing property covered by a lien (felony grade). Nol prossed on payment of fees of clerk and sheriff.

ELEPHANT IS BIDING IT'S TIME

The great husky elephant, stoic emblem of the Republican party, just keeps on eating hay and is not doing much in the way of trumpeting, but doing a lot of thinking. The big pachyderm well knows its latent power and will call it into action when the proper time comes. In the meantime by taking a rest it is waxing stronger and keeping a very watchful eye on anyone who dares to feed it cigar stubs instead of peanuts.—Pueblo (Colo.) Indicator.

TOO MANY YES-MEN

Every big executive should have among his advisers one or two men whose business is to bring the boss nothing but the bad news. They should comb his constituency for words of condemnation, criticisms of his policies, denunciation of his acts, one, two, and three syllable indictments of his character; and dump the whole collection on his desk immediately after breakfast each day.

Let the customary yes-men be matched by a few no-men! It would be good for the country, good for democracy, and good for the executives, now too much protected from unpleasant facts.

Had President Roosevelt been adequately informed of the state of public opinion on the Supreme Court issue at the time of Sen. Robinson's death, he might not have insisted to "My Dear Alben" that the fight for the bill go on. And that bit of information would have saved a big heartache.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Who remembers the old horse-and-buggy days when it was believed that big crops always brought prosperity to farmers?

According to the New Jersey Department of Agriculture most pigs' tails show a tendency to curl to the left. Maybe the porkers are trying to curry favor with Henry Wallace and the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

WAR NOT OVER

There are some mistakes into which it will be easy to fall as a result of the emphatic rejection by the senate of the Roosevelt Court bill.

One is the notion that the whole war against the evils and threats inherent in New Dealism is over.

It is not. An important first battle for democracy and constitutionalism has been won. But the man who thinks that the president will give up the fight or that he is at the end of his resources and henceforth will be impotent falls into an error.

The struggle is still on. Some of its most difficult aspects lie ahead.

Continual alertness and devoted patriotism will be the price of final victory over the dangers of the Roosevelt administration.—Detroit Free Press.

THE NEW BANDWAGON

Gov. Earle of Pennsylvania is nothing if not agile. Charged with using the labor situation in his state as a stepping stone to the Democratic nomination for the presidency, he has turned on his accusers with the flat statement that he is "not running for anything."

That is good as far as it goes. But the governor's final and unqualified indorsement of President Roosevelt for a third term leaves the impression that he is willing to soar to any possible heights by clinging to the tail of the president's kite. Apparently the Roosevelt-Before-Chicago Club, which was able to give its members a privieged position in the years following March 4, 1933, now has a successor in the Roosevelt-Before-1940 Club. And of this bandwagon George W. Earle is organizer, flag-bearer and drummer.—Washington Star.

NO FEAR OF REPRISALS

One of the surprising things about the victory over court packing achieved in the senate is the fact that the senators who braved the administration's wrath are openly inviting reprisals and daring Postmaster General Farley to do his worst.

Sen. Burke says if he could get the administration to campaign against him on the court issue he would need no other issue for the rest of his life, and Sen. Wheeler expresses similar sentiments.

The reason these senators have no fear of reprisals is because they know they were on the popular, as well as the right side of the question.—Los Angeles Times.

CANDAIAN VIEW OF LEWIS

The character of the organization of John L. Lewis cannot lead to anything else but a political movement, and that movement cannot be anything else but Marxist socialism. As for the participation of Canadians in the Lewis organization, it can only hand over to foreigners, at a given moment, not only the key of our economic and social interests. The first international conducts fatally to the second (which then leads to the third) for the profit of interests which never have anything national about them.—Montreal L'Illustration.

The feature of Kentucky's primary campaign was the promise of one candidate that if elected he'd keep his promises.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

National Affairs

(By FRANK P. LITSCHERT)

September is known to America as the month which brings us our Constitution Day, and September 17 this year has more than special significance because it marks the 150th anniversary of the signing of the immortal document which gave birth to our nation. So much has been written and said about the Constitution that there would seem to be little that could be added. Constitutional government has brought us from 13 struggling, discordant colonies to become the richest and potentially the most powerful nation on earth in less time than it took to plant the original colonies on our Atlantic Coast and infuse feeble life into them.

It would seem that the record of America, surpassing anything in the history of the world, would satisfy our people with the soundness and efficiency of their government. Fortunately most of them are satisfied. But of late there has sprung up among us many agitators and pseudo-prophets of a so-called new era, who tell us that everything which has gone before is wrong, and that if we really want to succeed we must adopt something new—a form of government made in Europe, or perhaps in Asia. Up to this time they have not succeeded in sapping the foundations of our national structure and they will not do so unless our people forget the proud record of the century and a half from 1787 to 1937. But the economic depression from which we are just emerging furnished an excellent fog in which the exponents of the new order could operate, and they have not been without their deluded converts.

The best evidence of the efficacy of our constitutional government is in the results of its operations. It worked. We today are the most prosperous nation in the world—by comparison much the happiest and the most peaceful of all of the great powers. We have liberty, security, free speech and a free press. These blessings are secured to us through our Constitution and the balanced government which provides for three separate and distinct branches of control—balanced so that none can blossom into an autocracy at the expense of the other two and the entire nation.

Compare conditions today with those of 150 years ago. Then America had 4,000,000 people, little wealth, a general diffusion of poverty, indebtedness, high taxes, and money made worthless by inflation. There was no credit for America either here or abroad. And the greatest handicap of all was lack of national feeling; 13 little colonies were 13 petty jealous states—nothing more.

Then the patriots, almost in despair, met in Philadelphia nd formed the Constitution of the United States—a document which has evoked the praise and admiration of the greatest statesmen of Europe. Immediately confidence supplanted panic, nationalism took the place of dissolution, and the 13 colonies became a little nation—a going concern which was soon on its way to power and prosperity. The same people and the same resources were here before the adoption of the Constitution. It took the machinery set up by that document to start government to functioning.

And it did function. If we don't believe this, let us compare America today with Europe. Then let us decide whether we want something new in the way of government.

A COUNT OF THE JOBLESS

At last the senate has approved a census of unemployment. Though such a census would involve a comparatively negligible expenditure, it would constitute, if properly taken, a step forward of the first importance. At last the country would know the real dimensions and much more of the nature of its chief economic problem. Such knowledge is essential in framing proper labor policies and proper relief policies. There has been no excuse for the course of deliberately working in the dark. It is significant that even Mr. Hopkins, the WPA administrator, long frigid toward proposals for such a census, now approves it, though he still makes the astonishing contention that it is not needed so far as the relief program is concerned. It is precisely in this connection that it is needed most, though it should incidentally shed much light on other problems.—New York Times.

A CASE OF "LEADER" COMPLEX

The president is not a good loser. He is letting the defeat of his court packing scheme rankle. Congress tried to save his face by passing a substitute bill, but in signing it Mr. Roosevelt could not refrain from making a statement. Still obsessed by the "mandate" idea, he has temporarily abandoned his former intimate "you and I know" tone, nor does he refer to the congressmen as "my friends". Instead, he speaks with severe and self-assumed authority "in behalf of the American people". Congress and the courts, one might think, no longer represent the people. Only Mr. Roosevelt has that distinction! Indeed, in his statement, he seems virtually to identify himself with the nation. He is its embodiment, its spokesman. And somehow he has convinced himself that whatever he wants, it wants.

In short, from start to finish, the president's latest statement is that of a wilful man whose wish has been thwarted. He is suffering, we fear, from a bad case of "leader" complex.—Chicago Daily News.

THE METHODS DIFFER

In the United States the effort is to do precisely the same thing that Stalin, Hitler, Mussolini are doing, with a wide, a fundamental difference in method. In the European countries the effort is to feed, clothe, house the people, make them strong, and it depends on using armies to shoot daylight through them if they resist. In the United States the plan is to hire the people with their own money to keep the benevolent bosses in power with ballots.—Charleston News and Courier.

Of course it may have been a "do-nothing" congress, but you will have to admit that it did pass a bill which President Roosevelt recommended—the one appropriating a billion and a half for relief.

The way the Democratic statesmen were quarreling as congress closed indicates that the administration is going to have to do a lot of "relief spending" during the campaign next year.

THE RUSSIAN BREAKDOWN

Russia's crisis is at the bottom neither political nor economic; it is a breakdown of bureaucratic principle, proving incompetent to administer the colossal job of human management which the Soviet system has assigned to it How far it may extend and how seriously it may really weaken Russia as an international force are questions for the event to answer. But it seems to reveal a disease of a peculiarly fundamental character within the Russian system, and it may yet remake the whole international complex.—Lowell Courier-Citizen.

CONSTITUTION DAY

The celebration this year of Constitution Day should be no perfunctory affair. The Constitution has just passed victoriously through one of the greatest crises it has ever met. Those who would tear it down have been so decisively defeated that their attempt in this form is not likely to be tried again for many a long year. America has extraordinary cause to celebrate Constitution Day this year. —San Francisco Chronicle.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS OPPOSE

An organization of young Democrats is foring "in opposition to the insufferable dictatorship of the New Deal." It claims, so a dispatch from Philadelphia reads, 125,000 members, and the signers of the call for a national society include men from Texas, Louisiana, Georgia, Illinois, Pennsylvania, and other states.

If in the South the young Democrats are not unanimous for the New Deal the opportunity of the opposers of it to organize may be before them. W. E. Porter, of Hopkinsville, Ky., is the chairman of the committee in charge of the movement.

It is a good sign that not all young Democrats are unanimous. None should join this organization who is on the lookout for a federal job.—Charleston News and Courier.

FACTS FROM THE RECORD

Written By F. G. STEPHENS Publisher of The Southern Democrat, Oneonta

FREE TEXTBOOKS FOR THE SCHOOL CHILDREN

More than 400,000 children have received the benefits of the state's free textbooks since the law was put in operation in 1935.

The legislature in 1935, enacted a law to furnish to children in the public schools free adopted textbooks for the 1st, 2nd and 3rd grades.

This law provided that for the scholastic years 1935-1936 all children in the 1st grade should be supplied books free of charge, and for the year 1936-1937 all pupils in the 1st and 2nd grades should have these books free, and the year 1937-1938 all pupils in the 1st, 2nd and 3rd grades should have these books furnished by the state.

Appropriations were made to buy these books, and the State Department of Education in 1935 purchased 520,848 books to be used by pupils in the 1st grade. These books were purchased at 15 per cent less than they could have been bought at the school book depository by the individual. They cost $175,000. These books would have cost each pupil $5.33.

During the second year (1936-1937) 8,531 additional books were needed for the 1st grade, and were purchased for $2,427.58. Second grade books for this year, to the number of 340,007, were purchased for $122,572.22. These books would have cost each pupil $5.22.

During the present year books to the amount of $225,000 have been purchased for the three grades, nad are being distributed to the counties through the office of the county and city superintendents of education.

For the purpose of replacement and for additional books as needed, $200,000 annually is appropriated.

The county superintendent and the city superintendent is responsible for these books, and the teacher is responsible to the superintendent.

Under the contract the state gets a donation from the depository of 15 per cent of the sales on the books bought by the state, 10 per cent of which is paid in cash to the state and 5 per cent in books. The 10 per cent is being used to take care of the books, and the 5 per cent ni books goes to the counties.

In addition to this, the state gets 3 3|4 per cent on all books sold by the state depository, through the several branch depositories.

By October 1, 1938, hte state will have spent for textbooks $725,000, and will have received from the depository in cash donations $72,500, and $36,250 in books, besides the percentage on sales.

University News

With a record-breaking enrollment of 5,000 students assured for the 1937-1938 school year, classes at the University are well under way and the students have buckled down to the long, long grind between now and the Christmas holidays.

President Richard C. Foster, starting his first regular session in this capacity, stated this week that the registration showed an increase of more than 250 over last year's.

The University of Alabama's first president was a minister, the Rev. Alva Woods. Its present head is a lawyer, Richard Clarke Foster.

One is the school's youngest student, 14-year-old Rosure Stephens of Dixons Mills, Ala., who entered school with only $15 in his pocket, prepared to work his way through.

The second is sophomore Sam Scalzi, baseball player, who has braved all comments to enter the School of Home Economics, where he is the lone male among scores of girls.

Ralph Ford of Huntsville will head the University of Alabama's 1937-1938 crew of eight cheer leaders, five men and three women.

An Alabama football team which is decidedly an unknown quantity this week tapered off in its training schedule in preparation for the season's opening game, with Howard here Saturday.

Already heavily hit by graduation, the squad suffered a severe loss when Herman "Blackie" Caldwell of Tallassee, counted on to fill the right halfback position, signed to play pro baseball and did not return to the campus.

A third book by Hudson Strode, University English professor, was released Monday. It was "South By Thunderbird", a volume telling of travels by airplane over South America.

Hundreds of Tuscaloosa County school children are having their measurements taken as a result of a project sponsored by the federal government and the University of Alabama. Sponsors hope to find the average measurements of children of a given age, and turn their figures over to garment manufacturers to aid the latter in properly designing their products.

The Blackfriars, University of Alabama student dramatic organization, in October will present for the first time on any college stage a play called "The Senator's Husband." Appropriately enough, the State of Alabama is the only one which has ever had a living senator's husband.

COLLINS CHAPEL

On the fourth Sunday, September 25, Collins Chapel church will call a pastor for the next year. All members are urged to be present and help in this selection.—G. W. Sessions.

NOTICE OF PARDON OR PAROLE

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, Jadie Mims, will make application to the State Board of Pardons for pardon or parole. Said Jadie Mims was convicted in the Circuit Court of Chilton County in March, 1937, for forgery, and sentenced to two and one-half years. 9-23-2t-p

SINGING AT ENTERPRISE FOURTH SUNDAY AFTERNOON

There will be singing at Enterprise schoolhouse the fourth Sunday afternoon in September, beginning at 2 o'clock. A number of good singers and quartets have promised to attend. All are invited to attend and bring new books.—I. D. Huett.

Higher prices for chickens, but egg prices probably not as high as last year, are foreseen by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

HELP KIDNEYS
To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste

Your kidneys help to keep you well by constantly filtering waste matter from the blood. If your kidneys get functionally disordered and fail to remove excess impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be a warning of some kidney or bladder disturbance.

You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. A multitude of grateful people recommend Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Maybe our attendance did not quite reach our goal of 50 per cent gain last Sunday, but we had an increase of which we are proud. And we have nothing of which to be ashamed when we compare our records of the last few Sundays with the records of the same Sundays last year. Rather, the increase is really good. We appreciate the interest each of you are showing by attending, and we appreciate your cooperation and work in the Sunday school. Your help encourages the rest of us and you, we are sure, receive the blessings that come only through the work of the Lord. The members of the Young People's Department enjoyed the good message Miss Margarite Davison gave them last Sunday.

May we ask you who have been attending and working to recommend our Sunday school to others. And you who are not yet acquainted with our Sunday school, we shall be happy to have you come and learn for yourselves, and then become our helpers and boosters also. Each Sunday morning at 9:45 is the time.

Each Sunday at 11 o'clock one will never find it amiss to enter our church auditorium to listen prayerfully to our pastor's message. Last Sunday he gave us a message, it seemed, from the power house of Glory, itself. May we not allow our souls to lack the spiritual food we may receive by attending both the 11 o'clock and 7:30 services at our church. No one is so holy that he cannot receive another blessing and be made better by another attendance at church.

Encourage and help our pastor, and we will find ourselves feeling better.

COUNTY SINGING CONVENTION HERE 1st SUNDAY IN OCTOBER

Prof. W. M. Devaughn, president of the Chilton County Singing Convention, authorizes the announcement that the fall session of the convention will be held the first Sunday in October and Saturday night before. All singers of the county and adjoining counties are asked to bear the date in mind and make arrangements to attend.

Arrangements are being made to have some outstanding singers and quartets to attend this session. Those who attend are assured of an enjoyable time.

Mrs. McBee was carried to Norwood Infirmary, Birmingham, Tuesday of this week.

CENTER HILL

Cotton picking and hay mowing is all the go in this part of the county at present. The health of this community is fair at this time.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Owens, who have returned to Alabama from Texas, spent a part of last week with Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Lesley and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gillispie and sons were here through the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb.

Mrs. Loyd Cobb and daughter, Peggy Sue, were in Montgomery last week spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Dock Glass and daughter, Bessie.

Mrs. L. A. McGraw had quite a happy surprise Sunday afternoon; she was visited by some relatives she had not seen in quite a while, namely, Mrs. Effie Elam and granddaughter, Harriett Elam, of Brent; Mrs. Emma Hubbard, of Vance; Mr. and Mrs. Marion Brantley, Mr. Harvey Brantley, Mrs. Dora Bridges and daughters, Nellie Mae and Esther, of Eoline. They also called on Mrs. Jim Sims while here. Mrs. McGraw returned home with them for a short visit.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Price spent Saturday night with their daughter, Mrs. Ward Thrash, of Dry Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Cobb and children, were at Mr. Monroe Ward's for the day Sunday.

Several from here attended the sacred harps singing at Lomax Sunday.

Mr. Lewis Webb, who has been working in Georgetown, Ky., is back at home. The party he was working for sold out their business.

Mrs. Joe Yarbough was in Birmingham from Wednesday until Friday p. m., of the past week.

Mrs. Hallard Ellison has been with her father, Mr. L. R. Cobb, who is seriously ill. We hope for him a speedy recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Childress spent a while Sunday night with Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Cobb.

Remember, there wil be no singing here Sunday p. m. on account of the singing at Jemison.

● "Concrete Begins"—most welcome sign in the world to a weary motorist. You relax. Sit back in the seat. Ease up your grip on the wheel.

Your car leaps ahead. The motor soars into a swifter, smoother pace. The tires sing. Jolts . . . wheel-fights . . . nervous tension of other roads are quickly forgotten. Motoring regains its zest. You're on smooth, non-skid concrete again, where driving is a pleasure, not a problem.

Concrete roads are swifter but safer . . . you'll stop more quickly, more surely . . . your tires are less apt to blow out. Your visibility is better.

Your car operates more economically . . . gas, tires and car repairs cost as much as 2 cents a mile less than on inferior surfaces.

Get on concrete. Stay on it. Insist on it.

"Guess Who" For Girls

New student in Senior year, between blonde and brunette; wears hair with roll of curls at the ends; grey eyes; always neat and nice.

School Colors

We have had requests from old football players and students of the high school to find out why the school colors were changed. No one seemed to know just what the colors were. The article written by "The Man In The Moon" was posted on the bulletin board where the students would be able to read it. But the colors, we hope, will be recognized as "Orange and Blue."

Visitor Friday

Mrs. Basmam, from the State Board of Education, was at the high school on Friday, September 17. She talked about alcohol and its effects on different objects. She also explained to us the effect that it has on the mind and human body. She gave a very interesting talk about the use of alcohol, which contained plenty of good advice.

Football At Verbena

The "Tigers" went to Verbena last Friday for a friendly scrimmage with the Verbena boys. Verbena has a healthy looking bunch of boys, and we should have a good game here Friday, October 1.

Several people from Verbena were out for the scrimmage, which was quite exciting, with everyone playing for the sport of it. Each team should have received some good pointers and found some of their weak spots.

A few Clanton people went down to what each team had to show. We wish all could see how those "Tigers" can "hold that line". Trying to buck the Tiger line is like running into a stone wall. And when they need to gain, all they have to do is turn loose a little "Tiger spirit" and they go 20 yards. Maybe you don't believe all this. Then come and see for yourself on Friday, October 1.

"Guess Who" For Boys

He is long and lanky, with black hair. Noted for catching passes above anyone's head.

Flat face (not foot), dark hair, short, fast and shifty. Noted for running end runs, plowing the line, and punting.

Improved Dressing Room

The football boys are fortunate in having a hot water shower in the gymnasium. There have been many improvements this year, and the school as a whole appreciates it very much.

The Superintendent, and Board of Education are the ones to express our thanks to. They spent around $100 in fixing up the gymnasium for the athletic department.

School Offers Practical Instruction

A study of the enrollment of the Chilton County High School students of this year will reveal that the school is giving practical instruction that can be used by the students today in the process of making a living.

The boys and girls of the Junior 1 and 2 years are making a study of the occupations of Clanton, Chilton County, and of Alabama. What these occupations call for in the way of preparation, are they crowded, or do they offer an opening that promises a job when one is ready to go into this line of work? Do these occupations require special training, and what may one expect in the way of compensation from this kind of work? One hundred and 18 children are studying this course. Eighteen boys and girls are studying directed occupations. This work is limited to the boys and girls of the Senior 2 and 3 classes. These students have a specially trained supervisor to direct them in their study, and to supervise their work while they are actually on the job.

In the field of Vocational Agriculture the boys are taught all phases of scientific agriculture as well as all subjects related to successful farming, such as marketing, cooperative buying, and many other subjects. Thirty boys are taking this course.

Vocational Home Economics gives to the girls in all phases of home making and housekeeping. Fifty-six girls are enrolled in this department.

For the boy who does not live on the farm, but who would like to know something of wood work and cabinet making, the course in wood shop is available to him. There are 40 boys taking this work this year.

In the work of commercial arts, typing, bookkeeping, business arithmetic, and shorthand, there are 82 students enrolled. The students of this school are most fortunate in that they are furnished the facilities for all these courses without any extra charge in the way of fees. This is the most popular course in school and many more would have enrolled if the equipment had been available.

Enrollment Of Classes

The Chilton County High School is off to an excellent start for the new school year. The enrollment is much larger than last year, many new subjects are offered; some new equipment has been bought, including sixteen new typwriters, and the general spirit of the school is excellent. The enrollment is, 181 boys, 178 girls; total enrollment is 359.

RUPTURE

SHIELD EXPERT HERE

H. M. SHEVNAN, widely known expert of Chicago, will personally be at Jefferson Davis Hotel, Montgomery, Wednesday and Thursday, only, September 29 and 30, from 9 A.M. to 6 P.M.

Mr. Shevnan says: The Zoetic Shield is a tremendous improvement over all former methods, effecting immediate results. It will not only hold the rupture perfectly, but increase the circulation, strengthens the weakened parts, thereby closes the opening in ten days on the average case, regardless of heavy lifting, straining or any position the body may assume, no matter the size or location. A nationally known scientific method. No under straps or cumbersome arrangements and absolutely no medicines or medical treatments.

Mr. Shevnan will be glad to demonstrate without charge.

Add. 6441 N. RICHMOND ST., Chicago.

For 15 years assistant to F. H. Seeley, famous rupture expert of Chicago.

ALWAYS LEADS IN VALUES — THE LEADER
MANAGER, M. LANDE
CLANTON, ALABAMA

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

The Big Book Craze.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—We're promised a historical novel longer than any yet—say half a million words or so. Of course, the author probably uses some words at least twice, but that won't reduce the gross tonnage unless they're very short words.

I can't take it. While still convalescent from "Anthony Adverse," I was stricken down by "Gone With the Wind" and had such a relapse that even now I barely can hold on my stomach such comparatively light and trifling stuff as volume VET to ZYM of the encyclopedia.

Irvin S. Cobb

When reading this modern bulk literature, it upsets me to find my legs going to sleep before I do. And the constant pressure makes callouses on my second mezzanine landing.

I admit these mass production books serve nicely as door stoppers and for pressing wild flowers. I also heard of a chap who detected a prowler under his window and dropped a frothy little work of fiction weighing slightly less than nine pounds on the back of the fellow's neck, dislocating three vertebrae. At last accounts, the surgeons were still picking long jagged chapters out of his spine.

In my present mood, what I crave is the romantic stuff of olden days, in which our sainted Aunt Sophie was wont to inscribe "Alas, how sad!" or "Only too true!" in pale violet ink on the margins. What happened to all the Aunt Sophies, anyhow?

* * *

An Actor's Temperament.

WE'VE all been waiting for something to top it, but the best wheeze of the month remains the one that was emitted, not by a paid gagster, but by a simple stagehand at one of the studios when Mr. Leslie Howard refused to go on making a picture until a group of distinguished visitors, including Mr. Charles Norris, the novelist, had been shooed off the set.

"He ain't sore at you gents," stated the stage-hand to the ousted parties, "but he's been playin' 'Hamlet' on the regular stage and he ain't used to havin' a crowd watchin' him while he's actin'."

If Mr. Norris and his friends wanted to see some really great acting they should have patronized the professional wrestling matches. That's where they put on the heavy dramatic stuff—beautifully rehearsed, perfectly done.

* * *

Children's Education

I LIKE the way the wealthy classes in England rear their children. Little Rosemary doesn't recite for the company after dinner, and if Master Jones-Terwillager Minor gets uppity at school, he gets thrashed.

Many a rich American has known how sharper than a serpent's tooth it is to see his daughter grow up a wanton and his boy turn out a waster. Yet, with few exceptions—so few that the newspapers comment on them—it never seems to occur to these fond fathers that less of coddling and pampering and spoiling in adolescence and more of wholesome discipline might produce a higher average grade of heirs.

What set me to thinking along this line was being t'other night at a party where a poor little four-year-old, having already the pitiable assurance of a veteran prima donna, was fetched in to give impersonations. She never again could impersonate natural babyhood though, more's the pity! And her pert small brother was encouraged to dominate the talk.

Mark my word for it, that kid is going to come to no good end—not even a well-spanked end, which would help.

* * *

Mr. Pincus' Coup.

IN THESE topsy-turvy times liberal-minded patriots who are striving to steer a middle course between ultraenthusiastic left-wingers and ultraconservative rightists might do well, methinks, to follow the example set by Mr. Pincus.

Mr. Pincus had opened a clothing store. Immediately on one side of him was the clothing store of Mr. Ginsberg and immediately on the other side was the clothing store of Mr. Dreifus; and three clothing stores in a row were too many even for Essex street.

So the adjacent competitors framed a plot to put the newcomer out of business. Next morning their rival, coming down to open up, found over Mr. Dreifus' establishment a flaming legend, to wit:

BANKRUPT SALE

CLOSING OUT SALE

Within an hour, smeared across the entire front of Mr. Pincus' store, exactly in between the other two, appeared a huge sign reading as follows:

MAIN ENTRANCE.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NEWS

Leo C. Turner has been appointed Assistant Secretary of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce, Montgomery, according to an announcement made by Benjamin Russell, President, Friday.

Mr. Turner, a native of Shelby County, studied law at the University of Alabama, later attending Columbia University, New York City, where he specialized in business administration.

For several years Mr. Turner has been engaged in industrial organization and enters upon his new duties with training and experience which fit him admirably for the work. He reported to John M. Ward, Secretary, at the State Chamber headquarters, Montgomery, Friday.

HEALTH STATISTICS

Montgomery, Sept. 20. — Chilton County's death rate for July was 10.9, the county's deaths during the month totaling 24, while its July birth rate was 22.3, with a total of 49 births, according to the monthly report of the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health.

The report shows that 2,495 deaths occurred ni the state as a whole during July, the state's death rate for that month being 10.2 per 1,000 population. Its July birth rate was 21.2 per 1,000 population, the month's births totaling 5,193. The chief causes of death, with the number of deaths attributed to each, were as follows:

Whooping cough 35, influenza 18, tuberculosis (all forms) 147, malaria 34, cancer (all forms) 132, diabetes mellitus 21, pellagra 33, cerebral hemorrhage 152, heart disease 417, pneumonia (all forms) 81, diarrhea and enteritis (under two years) 102, nephritis 191, diseases associated with childbirth 23, motor vehicle accidents 52, other forms of violence 203.

Six elections are scheduled to face the voters of Alabama next year. Primaries will be held on January 4, and February 8, and a special election on April 26, to select a United States Senator to fill the unexpired term of Senator Black, who resigned to become a member of the Supreme Court. On May 3, and June 14, the regular Democratic primaries will be held to nominate a candidate for governor and various other state and county officers, as well as a U. S. Senator and members of congress. The general election for the filling of these offices will be held on Tuesday, November 8.

The State Tax Commission is responsible for the collection of practically all state revenues. In 1934, the net cash receipts amounted to $22,539,945. In the collection of this money the State Tax Commission spent $235,071, including all salaries and expenses. This was a little more than 1 per cent. In 1936, the net receipts amounted to $28,252,929. In the collection of this money the Commission spent $251,197, or less than 9|10 of 1 per cent. The figures for the present year are not yet available.

AMERICAN COTTON TRADE ON DECLINE

United States Has Only 45 Per Cent Of World Total; Brazil Climbing

Washington, Sept. 20. — A survey by government experts of world cotton trade last season disclosed Saturday that the United States' share declined as that of other important cotton growing nations expanded.

International trade in cotton for the 12 months ended last July 31 aggregated 12,789,000 bales, the Bureau of Agricultural Economics reported. This was larger than the two previous seasons, and about equal to the 10-year average, 1924-1933.

The United States supplied a little less than 45 per cent of the world total last season, the bureau said, compared with 64 per cent for the 10-year period.

Brazil showed the biggest gain, with 8 per cent of the world total last season as against less than 1 per cent for the 10-year period. Exports by Peru, Argentina and Egypt also gained.

British India ranked second to the United States last season by supplying 29 per cent of the world's cotton, as against the long time average of 21 per cent.

Exports last season (in bales), compared with the 10-year average:

Country	1936-1937	10-Yr. Av.
U. S.	5,689,000	8,215,000
British India	3,709,000	2,759,000
Egypt	1,828,000	1,463,000
Brazil	1,072,000	86,000
Peru	350,000	213,000
Argentina	141,000	89,000

Biggest buyer of American cotton last season was Japan, taking 28 per cent of all exports. England took 21 per cent, and Germany and France 12 per cent each.

Japan and England also were best buyers of Britsh Indan and Egyptian cotton. Brazil sold 28 per cent of her exports to Germany, an equal amount to England, and 18 per cent to Japan.

Plans have been completed for an outstanding bee and honey exhibit to be on display at the Alabama State Fair in Birmingham, September 27 through October 2. Various kinds of nails, fences, wires, shingles, sheets, and basic slag, used extensively by Alabama farmers, also will be on display at the fair. The livestock and poultry shows also promise to be very good.

Most Alabama ginners are holding special gin days for farmers to gin improved varieties of cotton and to save planting seed for next year, and county agents are encouraging this work.

SACRED MARP CONVENTION HELD AT NEW HARMONY CHURCH

A large crowd enjoyed the splendid singing last Sunday at New Harmony church, Lomax. This event was a success throughout the day.

The opening song was sung by the chairman, T. J. Miller, followed by prayer by Mr. Z. J. Jones. The chairman appointed Joe Jackson, J. J. Lecroy, and Franklin Miller as program committee for the day. Those taking leading parts during the morning session were: W. A. Yates of Montgomery, J. A. Spearman of Wilsonville, C. P. Ratliff of Perry County, T. J. Miller, F. J. Little, W. L. Sanders, Mrs. Flora Oaks, and M. C. Jackson. T. C. Jackson of Sylacauga led the memorial lesson, and little Thomas Jackson sang two songs, which were very good.

One hour was given for lunch, and there was plenty for all.

The chairman sang the opening song after the noon hour, after which the convention went into a business session. Officers elected were: T. J. Miller, chairman; A. A. Jackson, vice chairman; and Myrtle Jackson, secretary, for next year. Cane Creek church was granted our convention for next May.

Those directing during the afternoon session were: J. R. Scott, John Hays, Mrs. Era Culver, J. J. Lecroy of Montgomery, J. H. Willoughby, T. C. Jackson of Sylacauga, W. A. Yates of Montgomery, and Mrs. Ruth Henley.

There were lots of class singers with us which were very good singers besides the fine directors we had from the several counties represented. The convention extends many thanks to our visiting singers from the different parts of the country. We wish to say to the lovers of sacred music that we appreciate your presence also. It made us all feel good to see such a large crowd of people at New Harmony.

The chairman sang the closing song, and the convention was closed with prayer by Rev. J. N. Scott.—T. J. Miller, chairman; Myrtle Jackson, Secretary.

A VISIT TO MR. SHAW'S PASTURE NEXT SATURDAY

At this time of the year cattlemen begin to think in terms of the prospects of their pastures for another year.

When new land is to be put in pasture the clearing of the woods should be done in the fall, so the seed can be planted the following spring (latter part of February).

Chilton County needs more and better pastures for this present livestock and for the future development of beef production in this section. In this connection we are planning a trip with Mr. Shaw to visit his pastures that have been developed in the past few years by planting the adopted varities of pasture grasses.

The same trip was made last year by farmers and 4-H Club members and they found it to be a very interesting and beneficial one. Anyone wishing to see Mr. Shaw's pasture and cattle should be at the County Agent's office by 1:30 Saturday, September 25th. Mr. Shaw is kindly furnishing a truck and if more room is needed cars will be carried.

Hoping everyone interested in the development of better pastures for Chilton County will make a special effort to make this trip with us Saturday, at one o'clock.

CATTLE SHOW WAS A SUCCESS LAST SATURDAY

The Chilton County 4-H Club Show went over with much success. Visits were made to McCain's barn all during the day by farmers and others looking at the cattle brought in by the boys.

During the afternoon the 4-H boys did some judging in order to pick three winners to do the judging at the State Fair, September 27.

At two o'clock the cattle were shown and judged by the judges, Mr. A. A. Lauderdale and Mr. W. J. Bailey. After they made the placings they gave their reasons for the benefit of those attending the show.

Below is a list of the ones that won places in the show:

NOTICE TO OFFICERS OF THE CHILTON COUNTY ASSOC'N

To all pastors, church clerks, and chairmen of committees to report at the 1937 annual session of the Chilton County Association:

May we urge you to be making all necessary arrangements for a full and complete session of our body, which is soon to meet with Shiloh church, located about 8 miles southwest of Clanton, on Route 3.

We wish to call to the attention of the churches the all-importance of filling every item possible on your associational letter, also doing it plainly, completely and accurately, but putting all amounts and numbers under their proper headings, that we may have the correct information by whcih to have our minutes printed, thereby giving all churches full and complete credit for the things worked for by them during the year.

Pastors, will you please urge all your churches to pay at least some on the Cooperative Program? May we all pray that we may have a great meeting, to our good, and especially that the Master's name will be very greatly honored in our meeting together.—G. G. Williams, Moderator; S. J. M. Webb, Clerk.

Contestants Running Close Race; $50.00 Additional

Last Big Vote Period of Contest Is Now In Progress; Carries Big Extra Prize; Candidates Are Urged To Make Most Of Big Vote-Getting Period

After today just nine days are left to take advantage of the last big vote offer during the campaign—vote schedule to be greatly reduced after October 9th. Now is the time to poll winning votes if you expect to be a prize winner. Take advantage of these remaining days.

As the struggle for the lead in the Banner's automobile and cash distribution continues and as public interest and enthusiasm continue and earnest support of candidates increases, there is considerable speculation heard on all sides as to which workers have the best chances for the car.

Some sections have hard workers, others none; some are making their effort known by heavy deposits of votes; others are working diligently and quitely, but getting there just the same.

Quiet work sometimes does wonders, yet there are arguments against working under cover. One of the most forceful points in favor of those who do their work so their friends will be more eager to support them in the campaign for the big prize, is that they see the workers are hustling in person.

Nearing the end of the campaign just now when everyone is working to put his or her competitor away back in the row under the balcony, there is likely to be an epidemic among some of the workers. There is a sort of germ or microbe of some kind that gets into people's systems that makes them blue and pessimistic. That microbe is a mighty dangerous bug and the only way to keep that bug from losing you in the race is to feed it huge amounts of real energy. Hustle and energy are a sure cure for illness.

Don't Be Discouraged

Some workers become discouraged when a competitor casts a big vote and often that is the purpose in getting up a big amount of speed, to discourage his or her rival.

But one or two of the long subscriptions will do wonders for you. Some times forgetful of the pleasure and value of prizes, a worker will stop by the wayside, to bemoan his or her fate. The result is that those who possees more hustle and ambition, energy and force, go ahead, while others are thinking it over.

Anyone who sets to work to make the most of the present vote schedule can secure wonderful results. Each year's subscription that you may secure sends you flying along the road to sucess.

The present vote is the finest thing possible for everyone in this election as well as for those who are hesitating about entering because it makes it possible for them to enter the campaign now, and with a few days earnest effort, win.

Compelling Argument

For those who, so far have only promises, it furnishes exactly the right kind of compelling argument they need to bring their friends to time. When your friends see how much their subscriptions will help you—if given right now, they will no longer postpone, but will make certain you shall get the benefit of the big vote with what they can give you.

Can you afford to loaf while such an opportunity is passing? Not if you mean to hold your position right up to the top where it ought to be.

Remember the entire race comes to a fateful end, in a mighty short time now. Only a few days remain to secure the winning votes in the important "second period."

Don't let this pass lightly by. It is worth your while—send in your nomination to the campaign department today. Do something big for yourself at least once in a lifetime.

Second Period Now On

The second period is now on and the present vote schedule will be in effect for nine days more—when the schedule will be sharply reduced in anticipation of the lowest vote schedule of the entire campaign, effective in the final period.

The longer you delay in getting in "full swing" the less valuable your subscription will be from a vote standpoint. And that is what you are after—votes—or you should be after them if you expect to be one of the big prize winners. The Banner's gifts are to be distributed to those who deserve them—to those who make the records in the vote column.

Race Attracts Attention

The race in the first period was truly a neck and neck affair and is attracting attention all over the county. It will be interesting indeed to see which of the several contenders prove themselves the most popular in the list—the owner of the beautiful car.

All In State Of Mind

If you think you are beaten, you are,
If you think you dare not, you don't
If you would like to win, but think you can't,
It's almost a cinch you won't.
If you think you'll lose, you're lost;
For out in the world you'll find Success begins with a fellow's will—
It's all in the state of mind.
For many a race is lost
Ere even a step is run
And many a coward fails
Ere even his work is begun,
Think big and your deeds will grow,
Think small and you'll fall behind,
Think that you can and you will—
It's all in the state of mind.

SCHOOL MEETINGS TO OPEN

Montgomery, Sept. 27.—The annual series of district meetings sponsored by the Alabama Education Association, the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers, and the State Department of Education for the current year will open at 9 o'clock in Birmingham on Saturday, October 2, when more than 1,000 teachers from District No. 5 will convene at Phillips High School. The program, unlike those of previous years, has been confined to the one morning session, which will be adjourned at 1 o'clock. Mr. J. E. McCarn, Talladega, president of the district, will preside.

RETIREMENT FOR ALABAMA TEACHERS

Montgomery, Sept. 27. — Teacher retirement is the subject of the September issue of the Educational Bulletin published by the Retirement Committee of the Alabama Education Association, W. M. Jackson, Selma, chairman.

A teacher retirement system is defined in the bulletin as "a business like plan, enacted into state law, to improve schools by helping aged or disabled teachers to retire from active service with a modest, but assured, income for life."

According to the bulletin, a teacher retirement system should be established in Alabama by legislative enactment.

Southernaires Here Next Monday Night

You have heard them over the radio—now see them and hear them sing while you are looking at them.

The Southernaires will appear in concert at the courthouse in Clanton on Monday night of next week, October 4th, at 8 p. m. This quartet is sponsored by the Stamps-Baxter Music Company of Dallas, Texas and Chattanooga, Tenn. Locally their appearance here is sponsored by the Chilton County Singing Convention, and the proceeds will be used to defray the expenses of the convention, repairing the piano at the courthouse, Etc.

You will want to hear the Southernaires, so begin now to plan to attend Monday night. Homer Dye is the accompanist with his accordion,—you all know Homer and his good old father, Prof. John M. Dye.

The admission will be 15c and 25c. Don't fail to hear them.

CHILTON GINNING REPORT

Census report shows that there were 3,157 bales of cotton ginned in Chilton County from the crop of 1937 prior to September 16, as compared with 7,612 bales ginned to September 16, crop of 1936.

Man Killed Himself With Shotgun Tues.

Alvin Alfonza Headley, Age 38 year, Took His Own Life Tuesday Morning October 28

Shortly after returning home Tuesday morning, after spending Monday night in jail in Clanton, Alvin Alonza Headley, age 38 years, took his own life by emptying a single barrel shotgun into his brain, in the presence of his wife and 15-year-old son, about 12:15. The three people were in a room at the Headley home on Mr. A. P. Vinson's farm in Bethel community. Mr. Headley is quoted as telling his wife a few minutes earlier that he was going to kill himself. The wife and son tried to wrest the gun from him, but he overpowered them.

The funeral was held at Mt. Pisgah Wednesday at 11 o'clock, Martin & Sons directing.

AGED MAN AND WIFE BOTH DIED LAST WEEK

William R. K. Stanford, age 88, died at his home in Lawley Wednesday night of last week at 9:30 o'clock. Burial was at Tabernacle in Bibb County Thursday at 3 o'clock, Rev. E. H. Littlejohn officiating. Spigener directed.

Mrs. Anna K. Stanford, age 59, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. R. O. Williams, on Billingsley Route 1, Saturday afternoon of last week at 1:35 o'clock. Funeral services were held Sunday at 2:30 p.m., at Tabernacle church in Bibb County; Rev. Dunlop officiated; Spigener directed. She was the widow of W. K. Stanford, who died four days prior to the death.

Surviving are one son and two daughters: Brant Stanford, Lawley Route 1; Mrs. R. O. Williams, Billingsley Route 1; and Mrs. C. H. Lawley Tuscaloosa.

POLITICAL SLAVERY IN THE SOUTH

[AN EDITORIAL]

With spot cotton selling under 9 cents, and the cost of bread, meat and manufactured articles mounting daily, it begins to look like the reports about the depression being over were just a little bit premature, at least, so far as the farmer of the South is concerned. In fact, we venture the assertion that if the average Alabama farmer would take the price he gets for what he has to sell, and balance it against the price he must pay for necessities, he would find that he is no better off, if indeed as well off, as during the period of world-wide depression before Roosevelt took charge.

Despite all that has been done in the way of diversification, the South still lives by selling cotton and buying manufactured articles, food and feedstuffs. It has long been proverbial that the South's economic structure was on a sound basis so long as the price of cotton and white meat were at the same level—10 cent cotton and 10 cent white meat, not indeed the millenium, but at least an ability to balance the income against the outgo. On September 11, cotton sold in Clanton for 8½ cents, white meat at 25 cents a pound. Looks like someone has kicked over the balances and left the Southern cotton planter at the little end of the horn. It does not require a Pinkerton detective to discover that this somebody was none other than your Uncle Sam, or rather the New Deal theorists who sit in the seats of the mighty in Washington. The same government that destroyed 3,000,000 pigs to boost the income of farmers of the Middle West, offers the cotton farmer aid so meager and stinted that even Democratic senators and congressmen are kicking about it.

The depression may indeed be over for certain favored classes of Americans. It is over and forgotten by the multiplied myriads of jobholders who have been added to the federal payrolls under the New Deal spoils system. It is over for thousands of industrial workers in automobile plants, steel mills and the like, who got what they wanted through forcible seizure of private property and intimidation of property owners, with the blessings of Roosevelt and Perkins. Its pall is lifting from the fortunate farmers of the Middle West, who rejoice with wheat above a dollar a bushel, with Chicago quoting "tops" of 12 cents on hogs, 19 cents on cattle. The farmers out there are too shrewd to be tied to anybody's political chariot wheels. By refusing to become political serfs, they have been spared the economic serfdom that is the lot of the one-party cotton belt.

JURY RETURNED MISTRIAL IN RAPE CASE OF BAILEY

After several hours of deliberation following the trial of Dewitt Bailey, charged with rape, last week in the CircuitCourt, the jury finally reported a mistrial. The trial lasted most of the day Friday, and the jury was put to bed at 4 o'clock Saturday morning. The crime was alleged to have taken place near Verbena about two months ago after the parties had visited a dance hall in that vicinity.

The defendant was represented in the trial by Hon. Percy M. Pitts, the state being represented by County Solicitor G. C. Walker, Circuit Solicitor Huddleston and Hon. Grady Reynolds of Reynolds and Reynolds.

Burglars Loot Two Stores In Maplesville Thursday

One Man Shot In Robbery and Brought To Jail; Three Others Escaped, One Believed Shot; Hunt Is On In Several Counties; Arrests Expected

About two o'clock last Thursday morning the attention of Mr. Will Gandy was attracted by a noise in the store of C. C. Cobern at Maplesville. Upon investigation, Mr. Gandy found that the store was being looted by burglars. He flushed them, four men in all, and a gun battle ensued, in which Mr. Gandy figured that he hit two of the men with bird shot. Deputy S. D. McCary was called and traffic officers Waites and Henley were summoned, the officers arriving about 2:30. No arrest was made then, but Deputy McCary arrested a man a few hours later at Stanton, the man giving his name as James Edward Woods of Mississippi. This man admitted burglarizing the stores, with the help of three other men, earlier that morning. There were 18 or 20 shot in Woods, supposed to have been placed there by Will Gandy. No trace of the other men has been found, except that one of their hats was found with shot holes in it near the Cobern store.

The hardware store of J. P. Payne had been broken into, supposedly by the same marauders, the cash register and $40 or $50 being missing together with a bunch of checks. Nothing was taken from the Cobern store, but a bunch of blankets had been rolled up ready to be taken away.

Entrance to both places had been gained through the front doors, by use of wrenches and bars.

Mr. Gandy says that the men shot at him five times, using pistols, and narrowly missed him some times.

Much credit is due Mr. Gandy for his bravery in flushing the burglars and in exchanging shots with them. It must have taken quite a bit of courage for a single man to stand and engage in a gun battle with four men, at that hour of the night. Mr. McCary is also due commendation for his work, as well as Messrs. Henley and Waites.

VISITED HERE IN INTEREST OF SAM DALE MEMORAL

Col. Jim Walton, Meridian, Miss., director-general of the Sam Dale Historical Society, was in Clanton Monday in the interest of the General Sam Dale park 18 miles west of the Alabama line.

Sam Dale, Alabama's famous Indian fighter and pioneer trail blazer, according to Col.. Walton, was the first highway commissioner of the state, having been elected by Alabama legislature in 1820 at a salary of $2 per day. Dale entertained the immortal Marquis de LaFayette at his home at Clairborne on the Alabama river during LaFayette's last visit to this country where the Marquis planted with his own hands the first crepe myrtle in the state.

The history of Sam Dale has no parallel in the south. Of him Clayton Rand, president of the National Editorial Association, said in a copyrighted article recently released: "Loyal, kind, fierce and fearless; he sleeps in a sequestred spot in a pine thicket near his home where he died in 1841—his monument the forest and the everlasting hills."

General Sam Dale is said to have brought the first settlers to Chilton County in the late 1820's. Names of people who were brought here by Mr. Dale include familiar families that are abundant here today, including the Gores, Thameses, Holmans, Dales, Shaws and Henleys.

Chilton County Fair Is Opened In Grand Style Tuesday Night

Exhibits Proved Most Agreeable Surprise To The Hundreds Who Viewed Them Opening Night. Free Performances Are Exceedingly Good

The Chilton county fair opened Tuesday night with a bang. Fully a thousand people entered the fair for the first exhibition, most of them remaining for the entire program which lasted until after 10 o'clock.

All said that they were overwhelmed by the fine exhibits which were stocked and wedged inside the big tent for that purpose. This would have been a show indeed, had the people of the county been given more time to prepare for this part of the business. The booths and exhibits are exceptionally good as they are.

The midway is measuring up to all expectations too. Mr. Littlejohn, the manager, has brought to the Chilton county fair some very interesting features, free attractions, Etc.

Wedding Thursday Night

The mainest feature of the fair will be the public wedding to be performed on the midway Thursday night at 9:00 o'clock. You will certainly want to see this, as you probably have never seen a couple get married at a county fair before. It will be a genuine wedding, when the Gordion knot will be tied to stay for life.

Farmers Day Friday

Everything will be for the farmers Friday and Friday night. Of course, it is all a farmers' fair, but our farmers will be given special attention at this time.

Saturday and Night For Everybody

Saturday and Saturday night will be for everybody. This will be the closing of the fair, and it is expected that a good representation from all over the county will be present.

The following prizes are offered in the live stock department at Chilton County Fair in progress at West End this week:

Best mare (bred), $5.00.

Best unbred mare, stud fee.

Best mare over 900 lbs., and colt, $7.50.

Best mare under 900 lbs., and colt, $7.50.

Best mare and colts, 2 or more, $7.50.

Best colt under 6 months old, $5.00.

Best colt between 6 months and 2 years old, $5.00.

Best pair of mules, $7.50.

Best home raised mule colt, not over 2 years old, $5.00.

There will be second prizes for all classes. The second prizes will be merchandise.

If you have an animal that you want to enter, bring it to the fair grounds by 9 o'clock Friday morning.

RUFFIN HANLING WOOD-BURNING BROODERS AND HEATERS

People out over the county usually have plenty of wood and pine, but they have to buy any other kind of fuel. It is with this in view that Mr. J. L. Ruffin has procured the agency in Chilton County for the Ashley wood-burning brooders and heaters. They are controlled by a thermostat, and can be kept at whatever temperature desired.

A factory representative will be at Mr. Ruffin's place Friday and Saturday of this week to explain and demonstrate these new contrivances. Mr. Ruffin will be glad to show and tell you about them at any time you can call at his place of business. Of course, Bronson and Virgil Mims will be there to show you all about these brooders and heaters too—and sell you some feed and seed if you want that.

"Lasses and Honey" To Show In Clanton Soon

Milt Tolbert Tent Theatre To Present Nationally Recognized Comedians Here Saturday Night, October 9th; Many Other Attractions Offered

WHO WOULD HAVE THOUGHT IT?

The last time I preached at Poplar Springs, I parked my car at the place where I usually park and when I went out to get in my car I found that some one had been meddling with it. The doors were shut as I had left them and when I looked on the back seat it was all covered with packages of good things to eat and things for general kitchen use, also some things to wear! Thanks to the good people of Poplar Springs. God's blessing upon them.—Rev. W. P. Lowery and wife.

HALF AND HALF USED CAR ON DISPLAY AT COUNTY FAIR

Hayes Chevrolet Company has a unique used car on display at the Chilton County fair this week. The car, a 1931 Chevrolet coupe, was taken in by Hayes on a trade. The right side of the car has been reconditioned in the Hayes reconditioning plant, and the left side remains just like it was when it was traded in. Half of the top has been reworked, half a floor mat has been put in, the two right fenders straightened; in fact, everything on the right side has been put in first class shape.

You should see the car at the Chilton county fair, and just note the difference in the two sides,—representing both before and after taking on the reconditioning process.

The following employes had their individual parts in reconditioning this "before and after" car as well as the other reconditioned cars turned out by Hayes Chevrolet Co.: H. M. Newell, R. C. Dawson, C. C. Smoke, J. O. Williams, M. Langston, J. C. Langston.

Hayes also has a booth at the fair showing Maytag washing machines and Electrolux refrigerators.

Lasses White, the nation's Number One ministrel man whose name is synonomous with the best in blackface comedy, is coming to Clanton. He'll be here Saturday, October 9th, with the Milt Tolbert Tent Show, the largest show under canvass in America.

With him will be Honey Wilds, the other member of the inimitable "Lasses and Honey" team who rose to popularity with Al G. Fields Ministrel and later, Lasses White's own show. Supporting them will be a cast of 75 persons, a ten piece orchestra and 15 vaudeville acts.

The huge cast includes a bevy of chorus girls. Uncle Ezra "Slim" Williams and his radio Barn Dance Revue. The Revue is studded with such nationally known stars as the Cannon Sisters, Red Jenks his magic trumpet, Stan Stanlye and Wyley Kilpatric, the danger.

A new interpretation of Hawaiian songs and dances will be presented by "Lamoaa" and her troupe of tropical dancers. This troupe has been widely hailed over the large circuits as a distinct novelty and acclaimed as an authenic translation of Hawaiian folk songs and dances.

The Milt Tolbert Show, with comfortable seating capacity for 3,500 travels in a fleet of its own trucks and carries two electric plants for special lighting effects. It will show next to Thomason Hotel, and doors will open at 7 p. m. The show will start at 8 p. m.

C. C. H. S. To Play Verbena Friday P M

Coach "Bull" Spicer Will Place Fast, Hefty Squad On Field; Line To Average 171; Backfield 146

The 1937 Chilton County High School Orange and Blue Tiger takes Verbena into the Tiger den here Friday afternoon, to pry the lid off the new season. Local fans and old Chilton grads will want to be on hand for the opener, to see what Coach Spicer has built up in the way of a football machine, to witness the Chilton Tiger as it goes on the prowl again, and to judge for themselves just what to expect for the current season.

Coach Spicer has drilled the lads hard and long. They are really in condition, with every man able and anxious to answer the starter's whistle next Friday. The new coach inherited nearly all of last year's squad, with its limited knowledge and experience, and has had some valuable new material sent in to him. He will be able to place a creditable squad in action. Below we give the probable starting line-up for Friday, with approximate weights. These are not sure-fire starters, but are the "prob-

CANE CREEK

Last Sunday was our regular preaching day, and singing afternoon. Bro. Norris filled his place as usual, and delivered a wonderful sermon.

The singing began at one o'clock in the afternoon. The directors were as follows: Mr. Northcutt, Mr. Cobb, Miss Mildred Little, Mrs. J. D. Collins Jr., Mr. Grover Jones, Mr. T. J. Little, Mr. Orene Wyatt, Mrs. Frank Willis, Miss Lillie Mae Weldon, Mrs. Leon Jones and Misses Hilda Simth. A duet was sung by Mildred Little and Willie Frank Northcutt. A quartet was arranged by Mr. Northcutt. Pianists were: Lillie Mae Weldon, Mrs. Cobb and Mrs. Kermitt Connell.

We were real glad to have every one. You are always welcome at Cane Creek, and we appreciate your presence.

CHRISTIAN SONSHIP

GOLDEN TEXT—But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name. John 1:12.
PRIMARY TOPIC—What John Learned from Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—John's Way.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Makes Us Children of God?
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christian Sonship.

"Studies in the Christian Life." What an attractive title, and what interesting and instructive studies we are to share during the coming three months!

When setting out on a journey we want to know just where we are going. Just so when we take up a new study we need to define the limits of our subject. We are to study the Christian life—not life in general, not religious life, no, not even life in a Christian land or during the Christian era. It is therefore most appropriate that our first lesson in this series should tell us who the Christian is and how he lives.

I. God's Children—Who They Are (vv. 1-6).

1. They are "Born ones" (v. 1). The Revised Version correctly translates "sons" as "children." We are sons in our position, but we are children by the new birth. A man may attain the legal relationship of a son by adoption, but he can be a child only by birth.

2. They are separated ones (v. 1). The world, that is, unregenerate man, does not belong to this family of God. How hard it is for even church people to understand that fact. They do not appreciate and cannot understand God's children, because they themselves do not know God.

3. They are glorified ones (v. 2). "We shall be like him for we shall see him as he is." What a glorious hope, realized even now by faith in the hearts and lives of God's children. The present difference between God's children and the world is to become even greater, for in that day when Christ "shall appear" (for he is coming again!) God's children shall be like him. Spiritually and morally—yes, and even their bodies shall be transformed.

4. They are purified ones (vv. 3-6). The standard whereby the Christian measures his life is the purity of Christ. The question is not "How much purer am I than my friends and acquaintances?" No, the norm for the Christian life is far higher. we are to be purified as "he is pure."

All sin is a disregard of God's law (v. 4). His children do not thus defy Him. They have taken as their Saviour the one "who was manifested to take away sins." There was no sin in him, and the one who abides in him has victory and does not live in sin. He may fall into some act of sin, but in utter misery and repentance he turns from it to his Deliverer.

II. God's Children—How They Live (vv. 18-24).

Love is the supreme test of Christian profession. "We know we have passed out of death into life, because we love the brethren," says John in v. 14 (R. V.). How far should love go? "We ought to lay down our lives for the brethren" (v. 16).

Such a sacrifice is not often demanded of us, but the writer goes on to say that we may show that spirit in daily service to those in need.

1. In loving and sacrificial service (v. 18). Words may comfort and strengthen, especially when they are words of love. Love does not stop with words, however, but acts, reflecting the spirit of God, who not only is good, but does good.

2. In the assurance of faith (vv. 19-21). Assurance is the blessed privilege of the child of God. Well may we feel condemned when we measure our lives by his divine tests. But after all, even "if our heart condemn us, God is greater than our heart." Salvation does not depend on either our works or our feelings. It is of God. Does this condone sin? God forbid. We are rather so to walk that "our heart condemn us not."

3. In unquestioning obedience (vv. 22-24). The hallmark of character in a child is obedience. Scripture does not countenance the unfortunate standards of men on this point. The children of God "keep his commandments" which are beautifully summed up in v. 23 as believing in Christ and loving one another.

Divine Purpose

What is it after all which gives men the energy to do things seemingly impossible? It is, and always has been, the result of the divine purpose.

Bond of Perfectness

Honesty the Best Policy

Unimpaired integrity is an incomparable asset.

REFUGE

Last Sunday was the last preaching day of this associational year. The services were well attended. Rev. Robinson preached his farewell sermon, having preached for us for two years.

There will be a special conference the first Sunday in October to finish and adopt the associational letter.

Rev. M. Lockhart will take up the work as pastor, following the association.—Reporter.

MURPHY REUNION

On Sunday morning, September 19, children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Murphy to celebrate the 79th birthday of Mr. Murphy.

In the morning the different families enjoyed meeting together. At noon lunch was spread on the table under the shade trees, and a bountiful dinner was enjoyed by all, the center of attraction being a most attractive cake with 79 candles.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. B. Duke and family, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Dobson and family of Sylacauga, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lumpkin and family, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Logan of Wetumpka, Mrs. Lilla Hardy and son of Goodwater, Mr. John Murphy and family of Wetumpka, Mr. and Mrs. William Patterson and family, Dee Patterson and family, Henry Patterson and family, Revis Patterson and family, Mr. Jacobs and family of Goodwater, Mr. and Mrs. Denson Smith and family, and a great number of friends of the family, all wishing the honoree many more happy birthdays. All had a good time, and many presents were given. All agreed to meet sometime next year for another reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. Odean DeLoach announce the birth of a seven-pound baby girl at their home on Sunday, August 29. They have named the little lady Dorothy Dean.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

We don't like to admit our "failings," but this time we must admit that some of our members failed to attend Sunday school last Sunday; but even then, and in spite of that, we had a good Sunday school. We trust all of us will be present next Sunday, bring with us new members or visitors or both. Remember, next Sunday is Rally Day and let's be at Sunday school at 9:45. We should like again to urge all new arrivals to our town to come worship with us in our Sunday school and in our church services.

Choir, you were good Sunday. We are expecting you next time. We appreciate you.

The hearing of the good sermon preached by our pastor last Sunday was a real blessing. Come hear our pastor. Your presence will help him, and his sermon will help you.

The assessment of public utilities in Alabama last year was $190,553,461. Of this amount $44,695,867 was in Jefferson County, and $16,463,553 was in Elmore. Jefferson County stands at the head of the list, with Elmore second. The smallest utility assessment is in Choctaw County, where the assessment of all public utilities is placed at $277,385. Elmore's assessment of all property is exceeded by only 4 counties—Jefferson, Mobile, Montgomery, and Tuscaloosa.

What's RIGHT with ALABAMA

ALABAMA FORESTS

RIGHT with Alabama are her forest resources, and vast has been their contribution to state development.

Despite the fact that timber has been cut in enormous quantities over a period of many years, Alabama forest growth still remains at about 22 million acres, of which about 4 million is virgin timber, the rest second growth. So favorable are Alabama's soil and climate that our timber lands can be re-forested at an incredibly rapid rate.

Within the past quarter century, chemical discoveries have added vast new values to our forest resources. After experimenting many years with Southern pine, a method was evolved for using it in paper manufacture.

But the Kraft paper industry which pioneered the field was only the beginning. Experiments of Dr. Chas. H. Herty, of Savannah, Ga., demonstrated that newsprint paper and many other paper products could be made from Southern pine. In the opinion of nationally-known paper engineers, the same favorable factors which brought about the tremendous expansion of Kraft paper production in the South will bring to this section a major share of the nation's newsprint industry.

An Interesting Comment

John Temple Graves, II, Columnist for The Birmingham Age-Herald, reading an advertisement by Alabama Power Company, was inspired to write in the March 2, 1937, edition of his paper:

"'A tree that looks at God all day,
And lifts its leafy arms to pray . . .'

"Three cheers for the Alabama Power Company! Eager, as are all the electric power people, for the custom a great paper industry promises, this company is advertising its conviction that a tree must be planted for each tree cut to carry on the industry. And it has practiced what it is preaching to the extent of planting 310,000* pine seedlings near its Martin Dam. It is making of itself a propagandist for forest conservation, for establishing pine as a 'farm crop' in the poorer soil areas of the South. Here is enlightened self-interest at its most enlightened, and we, for one, are glad to give honor where it is due."

*Alabama Power Company has since established a nursery with a capacity of 1¾ million tree seedlings annually.

But even this does not fulfill the final promise of the lowly Southern pine, which grows in such profusion in the soil of Alabama. The same Dr. Herty, who proved that newsprint paper could be made from pine, has solved the problem of producing from pine bleached sulphite pulp for the manufacture of high-grade book and magazine papers, household tissues, box board, etc.

And so the future of our forests, which have done so much to promote our progress, should yield still richer fruits for Alabama in the good years just ahead.

The next few days is the time to benefit by the Second Payment schedule.

NEW SUBSCRIPTIONS—During the Second Period 30,000 extra votes are allowed for each year on new subscriptions. It should be remembered that this extra vote ends at 6 o'clock p.m., October 9th.

The Second Period Vote Offer, the biggest of the remainder of the campaign, ends Saturday night, October 9th. The 30,000 extra vote offer ends on the same day at the same hour.

100,000 EXTRA VOTES are given away with every $10 worth of subscriptions, new or old. As close as the race for the big motor car stands, much importance is attached to results obtained while the big Second Period Vote schedule is in effect. The next few days subscriptions will count for almost double the number of votes that they will in the final week of the campaign.

THIS IS THE LAST CHANCE candidates have to secure big votes. For this reason the winning votes for automobile can be and no doubt will be gotten during this period.

Five year subscriptions will count up to 200,000 votes these next few days. It will pay to work. Bonus on new subscriptions is extra.

A wonderful opportunity is presented for new candidates and late or slow workers in this Special Grand Competition for the $50 Cash Special.

There is no excuse for you now. Here's an extra $50 in cash waiting for you. You start on even terms with everyone else. Remember, a new worker can enter and win the extra $50. What a new worker can do a present entry can do. You can win two prizes.

Several names have been dropped from the list this week. They may be reinstated if they wish to work for the extra prize of $50 cash to be awarded for second and third period. It is hoped that it will not be necessary to drop any more names from the list, but instead, there will be several more added.

HOW THE $50 WILL BE AWARDED

To the candidate turning in the greatest number of points in subscriptions to The Union-Banner during the Second and Third periods, from Saturday, October 2, which is now in progress and closing Saturday, October 16, will be given this $50.00 in cash. Points on subscriptions turned in on this special offer will be given as follows:

FROM SATURDAY, OCTOBER 2, TO 6 P.M., SAT., OCT. 9

Each 1-year subscription, new or old	2 points
Each 2-year subscription, new or old	5 points
Each 3-year subscription, new or old	7 points
Each 4-year subscription, new or old	15 points
Each 5-year subscription, new or old	25 points

FROM 8 A.M. MON., OCT. 11, TO 6 P.M., SAT., OCT. 16

Each 1-year subscription, new or old	1 point
Each 2-year subscription, new or old	3 points
Each 3-year subscription, new or old	5 points
Each 4-year subscription, new or old	10 points
Each 5-year subscription, new or old	15 points

Regular votes on larger prizes to be credited as usual. This offer is extra and separate from the big prizes first announced. Subscriptions secured before 6 p.m., Saturday, October 16, have really a double prize value.

Entirely new candidates have the same chance of winning as those entered. If you have been thinking of entering this campaign, do so now! Never again will you have such a two-fold opportunity of making real money in just your spare time.

All Grand Prizes including the $50 will be awarded Oct. 23.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

Our National Bird.

LAS VEGAS, NEV. — Those folks back East who're agitating to make the turkey our national bird are late. Benjamin Franklin had the same notion 150 years ago.

Old Ben pointed out that the eagle was a robber and a tyrant and was the emblem of various European monarchies, whereas the turkey was not only our largest and gamest wild bird, but a native of America.

Irvin S. Cobb

To be sure, young turkeys aren't so smart. They love to get their feet wet so they may die from it. In dry sections, young turkeys have been known to jump down an artesian well 90 feet deep in order to get their feet wet. But the adult turkey is wise and wily, a noble spectacle in the woods and popular in a cooked state, owing to his magnificent bust development and his capacity for holding stuffing or insertion, and his superiority when worked over into turkey hash.

But if we are going to make a change in emblems, why not choose the worm—the humble, dumb, unresisting worm—as typical of most of the present populace? It could be a one-sided worm, too, which would save costs in modeling, because so many of us are the kinds of worms that never turn.

The Sucker Crop.

PARLIAMENT, next month, will pass statutes to curb stock market tricksters, fly-by-night brokers, and bucket shop operators who, it's estimated, are fleecing the British public to the tune of $25,000,000 annually.

We've tried it and it doesn't work. As Barnum stated, a sucker is born every minute — and sometimes twins. But the crooks who prey on the sucker crop, like the Dionne quintuplets, come along in batches. That breed spawn close to shore and the young all survive.

Thus is the rule of supply and demand balanced. In good times, there are just enough suckers to go around. In hard times, the suckers grow scarce, but, when one comes along, the crooks raffle him off and the winner takes all.

Anyhow, legislation won't save a sucker from himself—at least not in this country. He'll break through the law in order to prove he's a sucker in good standing in the suckers' lodge.

By the way, brother-member, how many degrees have you taken?

Restrained Statements.

A WAYFARER in Oklahoma, who claimed to have starved himself for forty-one days, on being asked how he felt, replied that he felt sort of hungry. Investigation showed the stranger had been cheating now and then to the extent of a clandestine beef stew or a surreptitious stack of wheats, but wasn't it a magnificently restrained statement?

For underemphasis, I can think of but a single instance to match it. In my youth, we had a policeman in our town with a nervous mannerism of killing folks.

One night, I was passing Uncle Tom Emery's saloon and snackstand for colored only. A group of subdued-looking customers fetched out the limp remains of a dark person who had been bored thrice through the heart.

"Uncle Tom," I inquired of the proprietor, "isn't that Monkey John?"

"Sho' is suh."

"How did it happen?" I asked.

"Well, suh," said Uncle Tom, "It seem like he musta antagonized Mr. Buck Evitts."

Smoked Glasses for Snakes.

ON THE way here, I attended this year's snake dance. The snake dance has become indeed a strange sight—for the snakes. If the tourists don't modify their wardrobes by next year, I expect to see the snakes wearing smoked glasses. Veteran snakes that have taken part during past seasons are showing signs of the strain. The bull snakes still hiss—as who could blame them?—but the rattlers no longer rattle freely, evidently fearing it might be mistaken for applause.

The commissioner of Indian affairs wants the Navajoes to grow fewer goats. The Navajoes are balking. Goat hair is a profitable crop; goat meat makes good eating—for an aborigine stomach, anyhow—and goat smell is agreeable for Navajo noses. It seems to neutralize some of the other perfumes noticed during shopping hour in a reservation trading post.

SOCIETY

SOCKISSITY SOCK SOCK
Sally Gowan Has Party—

Miss Sally Gowan was hostess to a number of her little friends on her birthday Thursday afternoon. She was seven years old.

Games were planned and directed by her mother, Mrs. J. E. Gowan, assisted by Mrs. W. W. Fox, Mrs. L. C. Ross, and Miss Minnie Duncan.

Contest prizes were won by Ina Saxon McCraney and Frances Ellis.

The children gathered around the dining room table, where the pretty birthday cake in colors of pink and green, holding tiny candles, was the center of attraction. Ice cream was served with the cake for refreshments. Balls and balloons were presented to each guest as a favor.

Those present were: Frances Ellis, Alfred McCutcheon, Gwendolyn Atkinson, Donna Blackketter, Charles Bradford, Ann Maddox, Billy and Trace Lawrence, Tommy Sue Littlejohn, Grady Heflin, Jr., Jack Elmore, Johnnie Fant, Benjamin Roberts, Ina Saxon McCraney, Mary Elizabeth Mullins, Dewey Foshee, Milton Mims, Connie Mac Connell, Crutcher Ross, Jeanette Ross, Joe Mullins, Jr., Dorothy Downs, Evelyn Lowe, Frances McSwain, and Julia Nell Parrish.

Clanton Study Club To Meet Friday With Mrs. Hugh Jones—

Mrs. James Hugh Jones will entertain members of the Clanton Study Club on Friday, October 1, at 3 o'clock.

The subject for the afternoon's program will be on "Alabama Science." Roll call will be answered with various items on Alabama.

Mrs. John Vanderveer will review the life of Dr. Wm. C. Gorgas, and Mrs. J. W. Hayes will give "The Life and Work of Dr. George W. Carver."

Music for the afternoon will be selected.

Mrs. W. H. Bachelor and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Sanford visited Mrs. Billy Smith last Wednesday.

Mrs. P. C. Smith returned home Saturday from a visit with her aunt, Mrs. M. F. Moss, in Fitzpatrick.

Messrs. John McSwean and John Mullins were business visitors in Montgomery Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Anderson of Pinckard, Ala., were guests of Dr. and Mrs. John Kimmey last week end.

Mrs. Frank Scott is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Mullins. She will return to Huntsville for a few weeks, and she and Mr. Scott will move to Clanton about December 1. They will make their home next door to Mr. and Mrs. J. Mell Martin.

Miss Aileen Lee of Glenwood and Montgomery was the week end guest of Mr. and Mrs. John McSwean.

Mesdames Claud Craig, Paul Locklear, Hugh Jones, and Dick Hayes spent Monday in Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. Wade returned last week from Ft. Myers, Fla., where they have spent several months this past winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Dubb Huddleston and children, Pat and Ann, motored to Tuskegee Sunday to spend the day with Mr. Huddleston's parents. Mrs. Huddleston and the children remained in Tuskegee for several days.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Callen moved into their beautiful new home in the Callen grove this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Boone Nelson of Chattanooga, Tenn., were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Mullins this week.

Mrs. John McSwean and little son, Johnny, Mrs. J. W. Hayes and children, and Miss Margaret Floyd spent Saturday in Montgomery.

Mrs. Claude C. Craig Entertains With Bridge Party—

One of the prettiest parties of the season was on last Thursday afternoon when Mrs. Claude C. Craig entertained a number of her friends at bridge.

The living room and dining room in which four tables were arranged were effectively decorated in baskets and bowls of dahlias, zinnias, and roses.

At the conclusion of a series of bridge games Mrs. John Deramus held high score and was awarded a glass coffee maker. Mrs. John Kimmey received a dainty handkerchief for second high score. Mrs. John Mullins was awarded a pretty vase as cut prize. Consolation prize, crystal salt and pepper shakers, fell to Mrs. Paul Locklear.

At a late hour dainty refreshments with punch were served to the guests, who were: Mesdames John Kimmey, John Mullins, James Wade, Hugh Jones, J. P. Hayes, Dick Hayes, Arthur Johnson, J. Lee Smith, Claudie Pipes, Omar Reynolds, Grady Reynolds, Paul Locklear, John Deramus, W. E. Huddleston, Jr., Horton Walker, L. F. Gerald.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Mullins and son of Eufaula were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Reese Mullins.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Smith and son, Billy Benton, spent Sunday in Wetumpka.

Messrs. John and Wilbur Stanfield of Greenville were visitors in Clanton Tuesday.

Mrs. Grady Heflin and sons were in Birmingham Tuesday.

Mr. W. M. Polk spent the week end at home with his family.

Mrs. Bowen Jones has recently returned from a visit in Atlanta and is at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Todd and Cecile have moved to New Orleans, where they will make their home.

Mr. Sam Grubbs, who spent several weeks here auditing the county books, returned to his home in Clayton, Ala., for the week end before going to Wetumpka to work.

Clanton Grammar School
P.-T. A. Meets—

A called meeting of the Clanton Grammar School P.-T. A. was held on last Friday afternoon.

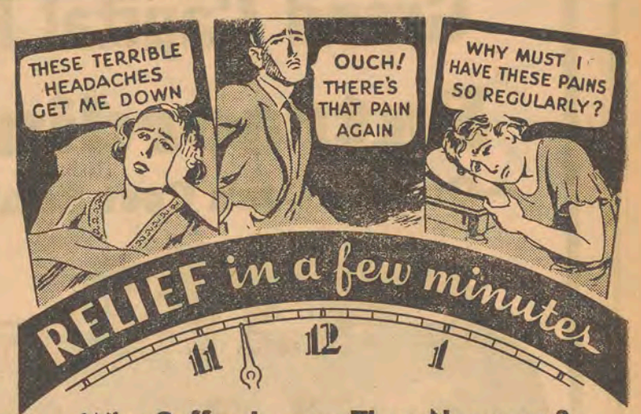
The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Dick Hayes, past president. The following officers for the present year were installed: Mrs. John Kimmey, president; Mrs. Omar Reynolds, 1st vice president; Mrs. Dick Hayes, 2nd vice president; Mrs. Ed Glasscock, secretary; Mrs. L. C. Ross, treasurer.

The devotional was conducted by Dr. Truitt. Mr. L. E. Little gave an interesting talk on "Our Schools Today." Miss Elsie Schurter discussed "The P.-T. A. and Its Progress." Miss Edith Green, attendance officer, gave an interesting review of attendance work in Chilton County. Dr. John Kimmey, County Health Officer, summarized the summer round-up of preschool children, and discussed the necessity of the parents seeing that their children with defects have medical attention. Dr. Kimmey appointed committees for the year.

The half holiday given the room with the best attendance was awarded the first, second and third grades.

The regular meeting of the P.-T. A. will be held the second Friday in October.

Mrs. George Parr and young son, George Christopher, are at home now, both doing nicely.



Mrs. Barney Burnett spent several days this week with Mrs. George McCain.

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Gowan and daughter, Sally, were guests of relatives in Kosciusko, Miss., last week.

Mr. Julian Evans visited in Montgomery Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Henry Gilbert of Florida is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. Wade.

Mrs. D. A. Wingard, Mrs. W. W. Wingard and children, and Mr. Chester Wingard were in Shelby Sunday.

Why Suffer Longer Than Necessary?
Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills Relieve Quickly

DR. MILES ANTI - PAIN PILLS were made for just one purpose—to relieve pain. Users write that they "work like magic". They contain an effective, quick-acting, analgesic—pain reliever.

Try Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills before you lose a day's work—and pay—or break a social engagement because of HEADACHE, MUSCULAR, PERIODIC, OR NEURALGIC PAINS. They may be just what you need to relieve your pain and put you back on your feet again "rarin' to go".

DR. MILES ANTI - PAIN PILLS act quickly. You don't have to wait forty minutes to an hour for them to take effect as is the case with many analgesics. You'll get action in from ten to twenty minutes.

DR. MILES ANTI - PAIN PILLS are pleasant to take, handy to carry, prompt and effective in action, and do not upset the stomach. Their cost is small. One, or at most, two, is usually sufficient to relieve.

VERBENA HIGH SCHOOL TO PLAY HEAVY SCHEDULE THIS YEAR

Verbena's football team went to Clanton to scrimmage last Friday, a week before their game with Chilton High on October 1. Both teams have improved considerably, although Verbena was very unfortunate in having several injuries.

Oct. 1—Chilton County High.
Oct. 8—Isabella.
Oct. 15—Shelby County High.
Oct. 22—Marbury.
Oct. 29—Centreville (night).
Nov. 5—Open.
Nov. 12—Piper.
Nov. 19—Pending.
Nov. 24—Pending.
No home games scheduled as yet.

You Pocket the Difference!

PROBABLY you've noticed that hens just naturally seem to "do better" on some feeds than they do on others. You've watched egg production go up, you've had a healthier flock, you've lost fewer birds. It's more than just an accident that these are the kind of results you get when you feed Purina Laying Chows.

Years of scientific research and testing have gone into the making of every bag of Purina Chows. Thousands of birds have been used in actual experiments at the Purina Experimental Farm. Every conceivable test for making a feed that gives more eggs, healthier hens and uniform laying has been tried.

Those are the things that make Purina different. Those are the things that make your hens lay more eggs, that give you more profit from your flock. Those are the "extras" that go into every bag of Checkerboard Chow, the things we mean when we say, "See the Difference Purina Makes!"

MAN in the MOON

TOM HEFLIN FOR SENATOR

Tom Heflin, best known as "Cotton Tawm," has whirled his hat into the senatorial race, with the first primary to come off in January of next year. His major opponent, it is believed, will be Lister Hill of Montgomery. Maybe you know both of these gentlemen, and maybe you know niether of them, nor their expressed policies.

Let's look into these expressed policies a bit, and see just who we, individually, think would best represent us at Washington.

First, let's take Mr. Hill's policy. His is short and to the point. He says he is for President Roosevelt and anything he proposes, without exception. In making this statement, Mr. Hill has branded himself a senatorial boot-lick. He tells us frankly that he would go to Washington with no plans of his own, with no idea of representing the people of Alabama, but to hold up the hands of the president, no matter if he should offer measures favoring another section of the country to the detriment of our own Alabama. He says in substance that he is riding the president's coat-tails; that he carries nothing with him in his head but a nod for any measure Mr. Roosevelt might propose—"without exception." In a manner of speaking, he tells us he cares nothing for the needs and desires of Alabama's people, but will follow blindly the path cut out for him by the president. In a way, he admits that he will be merely a "dummy," a rubber stamp, a "yes-man," a puppet, at the beck and call of his master; and that master he reconizes as being the president—not the people of Alabama, who would elect him to represent them.

What of Mr. Heflin? In his speech a few days ago, one of his opening remarks was: "I had rather represent Alabama in the United States Senate than to hold any other office save that of the President of the United States." Get that, will you—"I had rather REPRESENT ALABAMA." He does not tell us that he will represent Roosevelt, but Alabama. And that should mean something to you when you go to the polls to select a senator. Ask yourself this question: "Do I want a senator to represent me, or the president?"

Mr. Heflin pledges his "best efforts" to keep us out of any war or international entanglements, pointing out that only by the sanction of the congress can our nation declare war.

He expressed himself as favoring more strict immigration laws, to keep the riff-raff of Europe and the Orient out of America, and to enact measures that would deport thousands of those undesirable aliens which are causing the majority of our unemployment, and virtually all of the industrial fomentation and unrest in the ranks of organized labor.

He favors collecting an "income tax" on all cheap goods shipped into this country in competition with American-made goods, which in plain understandable language would be nothing short of a tariff to help the American farmer and industrial worker, by keeping those cheap goods off our markets, or running the price up even with our own. He especially calls attention to the importation of cheap cotton and cotton goods, and advocates strict measures to keep at last our home cotton market safe for our own Southern farmers. He goes still further and advocates passage of measures for a "minimum" price for cotton. Not a "peg", but something that would enable the cotton farmer to have some idea how to plan his crop, with at least some knowledge of what to expect from that crop.

Mr. Heflin opposes the Black-Connery wages-and-hours bill, because he believes that in the 48 states there are 48 different and distinct labor problems, each and all of them having characteristics peculiar to their own particular section, and that no uniform wage and hour law could possibly be drawn up that could work equally well in every state. Some would suffer, while others prospered. As to such uniform laws to apply to all sections of the country, he says: "Nature's God must be opposed to uniformity, for in the millions of people He has created, He never made two of them alike." He believes that if any state wants such a wage-and-hour law, its legislature should enact such, suiting its measure to its own needs, but that a federal law of this kind could never be successful and fair to all the states.

He opposes the sit-down strike, asserting that it has no place in America, where the right to work and earn a living is assured to every person.

He says he sees "no necessity" for packing the supreme court, and opposes the measure to pack the court.

Mr. Heflin goes on to discuss money matters, panics, etc., in detail, giving a clear-cut platform on all, leaving nothing for one to guess at. He has not tried to cloud the issues, but has stated his position on every question of importance that is before the nation today.

But in closing this article, I must quote his words on one point which would go prove that, first of all, he would represent Alabama, rather than the president, and that he would vote for those things which were best for Alabama and the nation, rather than follow blindly any man's leadership, no matter how high the officer leading. He says:

"I am the friend of President Roosevelt. . . . . And if I am elected to the senate I will support him and cooperate with him in those things where I believe he is right, and give opposition to him in the things where I believe he is wrong."

That is the kind of representation Alabamians need and want. There has been a drouth of that kind of representation for some time.

"SALT OF THE EARTH"

If there is any one group of people in this country, or any other country, for that matter, which holds the welfare of all in their hands to greater degree than any other group, it must be the farmers. They are the salt of the earth. On them depends the general well-being of all. When they prosper, all prosper—when they fail, chaos prevails.

The reason for this is not hard to find. First and most important of all, they feed the people of the world—and they must eat if they are to live. The next most important fact is that a majority of the people of any nation are farmers, and furnish the greatest market for manufactured products. Business cannot survive without them, and the better financial condition farmers find themselves in, the better off business finds itself.

We have had several chances to measure the comparative worth of various industrial groups through the seriees of strikes that have pestered our nation during the last few months. At times the greater part of the automotive industry has been shut down, but few people other than the strikers, themselves, have been discomfitted. Mining has had its strikes, with no one suffering in great degree except those directly concerned. Steel mills closed for long periods, yet no one felt hard pinched. But supose the farmers should go on strike for higher prices for their products, and refuse to plant the seed or till the soil until they were assured certain minimum prices. That would be a calamity without equal. True, there are vast stores of foodstuffs stored away, but if production of foodstuffs should cease overnight, prices would skyrocket so that soon none but the rich could buy, and very soon not even they would be able to secure food.

When farmers flourish, and receive top prices for their products, they buy clothes, tool and implements, automobiles, and all kinds of articles. These purchases keep the various factories humming, so that the industrial worker has a steady job, and he in turn can again afford to buy the farmer's products, so that the cycle of prosperity is perfect.

When farmers are depressed, they cannot buy those manufactured articles, the manufacturer cannot sell his goods and cannot keep his factory running to keep the industrial worker busy, and he, in turn, cannot buy the farmer's products. Result—the whole economical cycle and set-up breaks down. True, as a rule, farmers are the poorest paid of any group, but "a chain is no stronger than its weakest link", and if this nation is ever to completely pull itself from the slough of depression it is STILL in, the climb must start at the root of the trouble—the farmer. If he is made able to sell his products profitably, the rest of the economic cycle will take care of itself.

If Preesident Roosevelt and the congress want to start the ball to rolling back to prosperity for the whole country, let them start with "the salt of the earth." They can pass wage and hour bills until they are black in the face, but un'ess the cause of the money troubles of the country is corrected, it will do no permanent good; cause of those money troubles starts right back there where the raw products are grown which feed the nation. If they want to help the farmer, let them keep their hands off his production—American farmers will not raise too much, if they can have their own market, and not be hampered with cheap products flooding into our country in competition with their own. Instead, let them pass regulatory measures on the amount of imports of certain commodities that can be shipped into this country. Let them take steps to keep politics out of farming—to keep politics within the realm of politics, and out from between the cotton and corn rows, and out of the cattle and hog pastures.

Let them close the gap between the price farmers receive for their raw products, and the prices they must pay for manufactured articles—close the gap between less-than-10-cent cotton, and prices on manufactured articles which are on a level with 20-cent cotton. Let the congressman stop trying to figure out what they can do TO farmers, and start trying to find out what they can do FOR them. Let them stop trying to tell them how much they can raise, and start trying to furnish them a market for what they raise.

If congress can regulate wages and hours for industry, why is it that a minimum price cannot be set for farmers' products? Let congress recognize farmers for what they are—"the salt of the earth"—and treat them accordingly, and all other economic and governmental functions will take care of themselves.

Army Passed Here On Way To B'ham

The army passed through Clanton Tuesday morning in great style—10 streamlined motorized combat units from Ft. Benning, Ga., including 17 fast tanks, all set to take part in mock war maneuvers at the state fair at Birmingham Thursday.

The 1,100 soldiers, mostly from the 29th Infantry, were to parade through Birmingham streets at 10:30 a.m., Thursday in a National Defense Day demonstration, set by City Commission President James M. Jones.

The 1,100 men, 45 officers, 163 vehicles and 17 tanks came from Montgomery where they bivouacked at Maxwell Field Monday night.

The main body is composed of the second battalion of the 29th Infantry, including Companies E, F, G. H., and M, regimental machine gun company, and Company D, light tank outfit of the 66th Infantry, accompanied by detachments of ordnance, quartermaster, engineers, chemical warfare, and medical departments.

NEGRO CONGRESSMAN DEFENDS HUGO BLACK

Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 28.—Representative Mitchell, Illinois Democrat and only negro member of Congress, said today Supreme Court Justice Hugo Black "has been courageous to the last degree," and in his opinion Black is "an honest man."

Charges the former Alabama Senator had been affiliated with the Ku Klux Klan, Mitchell said were made by "political enemies who were merely seeking something for which to indict him and did not care particularly whether it was the klan issue or something else."

The representative is touring Alabama, and already has visited his boyhood home in Chambers County and Tuskegee Institute. He will speak here Thursday night under auspices of the Jefferson County Negro Democratic Club.

Greatest Circus Is Coming To Mont'y

One of Host of New World Acclaimed Features of Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus

The world's mightiest amusement enterprise on tour — the Ringling Bros., and Barnum & Bailey combined circus — with its 1937 seven-ring-and-stage program, star studded and liberally interspersed with new thrillers from Europe and Asia, featuring among its array of new wonders the most gorgeous introductory spectacle in its brilliant history, India, is definitely scheduled to exhibit in Montgomery on Thursday, October 14.

India is not just another circus spectacle. It is not merely a glittering parade to open the big show performances. It is the result of a year's planning, a really staggering expenditure and much research on the part of Sam W. Gumpertz, general manager of The Greatest Show on Earth. Costly fabrics were purchased in carload lots. Color schemes blend in lovely perspectives. Every one of the 2,000 people and animals taking part wear a small fortune on his or its back. have towering headdresses of exquite beauty. One group of 170 hors with girl riders, is like nothing e before offered, for the horses, wear medieval bejeweled blankets of v vet, carry gorgeous canopies over the girls' heads. India is a torrent of color and flashing jewels, flowing over the hippodrome track and the seven rings and stages. It is the last word in pageantry.

Heading the scores of new foreign features are The Great Alcys, aerial thriller; the Magyars, Europe's mightiest troupe of somersaulting stars; the famed William Heyer, Holland's great horse trainer, and his wonder horses; the Maysy-Brach troup of aerial unicycle marvels; the Naitto family of wire wizards; the Lu Lolita troupe of upside-down aerialists; the Quallieros, airplane aerialists; the Clevires, whirlwind acrobats; the Wen Haiz, novelty stars; and many others equally renowned in Europe, Asia and South America. There are 800 performers.

In aerial and equestrian displays The Greatest Show on Earth has outdone itself this year, while the ground acrobatic numbers are the largest and finest ever presented in any land or age.

The Ringing Bros., and Barnum & Bailey combined circus will arrive on four long trains of 100 double length steel railroad cars, carrying 1,600 people, 1,009 menagerie animals, 7 herds of elephants, and 700 horses.

FORMER OFFICIAL SAYS F. D. R. MAY RUN AGAIN

Richmond, Va., Sept. 28.—Dr. Stanley High, one-time Roosevelt "brain truster," said today he believed there was a "50-50" chance that President Roosevelt will seek a third term.

"And if he does, he probably will be re-elected," Dr. High added.

Postmaster-General James A. Farley is the "leading prospect" if the President does not seek re-election again, he said.

Mrs. J. S. Atchison has returned her home in Jemison from the Central Alabama Hospital.

REGIMENTATION KILLS PRIDE

"Real American citizens do not wish to be regimented on model farms, or in neatly arranged flats and apartments as if they were a pack of rabbits.

"Dyed-in-the-wool Americans would rather live in a tin hut down by the railroad tracks than to be ensconced in a barracks-like dwelling the very completeness and detached coldness of which would sweep away the last vestiges of personality and individuality."

Commenting on the above quotation, the Scio, Oregon, Tribune says: "That is a fine sentiment and used to be the real condition. But we are not so sure about it now.

"Prior to the federal dole system, both in the United States and in all other countries in which it has been practiced, people generally preferred to earn what they had.

"At the beginning of the policy in this country most unemployed needy people resented charity, protesting that it was lucrative employment and not dole they wanted. Work for all could not be provided under the universal economic and industrial depression that prevailed.

"Part time work, the out-and-out dole, and other forms of federal assistance, were offered. Many were forced to accept, and with thousands it became a habit. It was no longer a humiliation to accept charity.

"The result in the United States, as elsewhere, has been that countless thousands have come to depend on charity or a dole, much to the discredit of such people and to the nation."—Ansonia (Conn.) Sentinel.

AS TO NEW PARTY

Of course, he is not going to organize a new party. Mr. Lewis and his associates know that such a party probably could't carry a single state in the Union. Because with all their numbers and their political strength, they are nevertheless a minority. But they are a highly organized and well-financed minority, and there is no need for them to organize a labor party so long as they can use the Democratic party as an instrument to attain purpose.

It certainly does not mean that a majority of the people of Texas want the Black-Connery bill or any of the other similar measures which are part of Mr. John L. Lewis' program.

But how are the people of Texas going to let Sen. Sheppard and the members of congress from this state know that they do not want the Black-Connery bill or any other similar legislation that will place Texas industry at the mercy of the CIO by way of a Washington bureaucracy? Well, you, as an individual citizen, can write to Sen. Sheppard and to your congressman about it. That is one privilege which is guaranteed to you by the Constitution that has not been abridged. But I think there should be something more than this. It has been suggested to me that there ought to be a state-wide meeting on this matter at some central point between now and the time congress meets again. And I think that would be a good thing to do, provided the meeting is held under proper auspices and is organized in such a way that there is certain to be the fullest representation from all parts of the state. I am not proposing such a state-wide meeting right now, but would like to hear. — The Texas Weekly.

BROKEN FAITH

The same disregard of facts which prevailed before 1929 in Wall Street now prevails on Pennsylvania Avenue in Washington in 1937. Our public debt is now about 37 billions of dollars, and, adding the state and city debt, it makes a colossal total of 57 billions of dollars. Federal expenses for the first six weeks of the present fiscal year which began July 1 have already crossed the billion dollar mark as compared with 770 million for the corresponding six weeks of last year—and recovery is supposed to be here.

Already the apologists and smoke screeners are vocal today as in 1929. Look at the rising national income, they say. Yes, the national income is rising, but at a rate lower than the rate at which taxes and the cost of government is rising. More and more the government is eating up tax money that should be used to increase production. More and more government controlled factors are affecting free exchange of goods, thus raising prices artificially and bringing down the purchasing price of the dollar.

What, to sum up, can we say of the record of the 75th congress?

It is a record of broken faith.

It is a record of tragic futility.

It is a record of lost opportunity.—United States News.

In the lobby of a local bank one morning this week there were 10 people; 4 of them were on the public payroll, federal and local, and 2 others were waiting to cash federal checks. It is presumed that the other 4 were there to borrow money with which to pay their taxes.—Kingman (Kan.) Jaurnal.

National Affairs

(By FRANK P. LITSCHERT)

The victory of Judge Mahoney in the Democratic and Mayor LaGuardia in the Republican primary in New York City was not unexpected by the newspapermen and politicians who were in touch with the situation. Sen. Copeland, candidate for the nomination for mayor on both tickets, put up a good fight, but his efforts were foredoomed to failure. Although he was characterized as the Tammany candidate in the Democratic primary, practically all of the effective Democratic organization in greater New York outside Manhattan was against him. The federal patronage machine, including those voters on various forms of federal relief, were lined up for Judge Mahoney. The old Tammany chieftains, because the Tiger has been out of office for two years, had no patronage with which to help the senator. The Tiger's claws were clipped by the opposition victory which swept Mayor LaGuardia into office in the previous mayoralty election. Mayor Copeland was not the machine candidate, because both the city and federal machinery were against him.

In the Republican primary Sen. Copeland was fighting against hopeless odds, too. While certain New York leaders of the G. O. P. were supporting him, the rank and file were opposed to his efforts, even though many of them were not particularly favorable to Mayor LaGuardia. The general opinion among Republicans was that to surrender the party machinery to a Democratic New York senator, even though he is an anti-New Dealer, would put the party in bad strategic position for the campaign next year.

In addition to some regular Republican support, Mayor LaGuardia was backed by a great many so-called independents in both primaries. It must not be forgotten that the campaign for the most part was fought not on national but on purely local issues. And many of Mr. LaGuardia's enemies admitted that he has been a good mayor from the standpoint of law enforcement in New York. Perhaps Mayor LaGuardia's strongest card was the impression he had made as to his abilities as a city mayor, outside the realms of national and state politics.

Of course persons living outside of New York naturally viewed the campaign from the national standpoint. But the fact is not to be lost sight of that in the city itself the mayor's record as mayor was the major considerable issue. Of course the friends of Judge Mahoney, who was attacked by Sen. Copeland because of his tie-up with the New Deal, claim that his victory was a victory for President Roosevelt. And while local issues were a predominating feature so far as Mayor LaGuardia was concerned, it is not to be forgotten that there is some significance which can be viewed as national in Judge Mahoney's victory. A great deal of the support Judge Mahoney got came from those who could be lined up by the powerful federal machine and its relief set-up in New York. And the same kind of support will be available to the New Deal chieftains in general elections. There is a point not to be lost sight of.

The victory of Judge Mahoney and that of Mayor LaGuardia may prove embarrassing to the national administration in the fall. Both candidates are friendly to the New Deal and have supported President Roosevelt's program in the past. In the election the national administration cannot support both of them. It may attempt to keep out of the campaign entirely, but this will be difficult to do. As the New Deal Democratic candidate Judge Mahoney will expect New Deal support. And the friends of Mayor LaGuardia will feel that he is entitled to federal support, too. Thereby hangs the possibility of future political embarrassment. Present signs are said to indicate the re-election of Mayor LaGuardia. But the election is several weeks away.

BUYING MORE

The news that the trade balance of the United States bids fair to be "unfavorable" for the year 1937, for the first time in 44 years, is more than vaguely disquiting. The trade balance, of course, means the ratio of products of foreign countries brought into this country and sold, to the products of the United States taken to foreign nations and sold. Thus far, during 1937, the United States has imported more goods than it has exported, and it looks now as thaugh the year would end with the same condition obtaining. Fall crop shipments to foreign nations will help somewhat to swell the American total of the goods exported, but it is not expected to wipe out the present unequal balance.

Moreover, it is noted that much the same situation faced the country during 1936, although it was not so serious. For the first half of last year the purchases of foreign goods exceeded our sales abroad, but a heavier total of exports in second half of the year swung the balance in our favor. This year the first half showed imports exceeding exports by $147,000,000. It will take an exceptional second half year of sales to wipe out this sum.

Why does it matter how the trade balance tips? A surplus of exports over imports means greater industrial activity in this country, as well as farm product sales. When Americans, either because of scarcity of goods in this country, or a flood of cheap foreign products on our markets, buy large quantities of foreign goods, they are, beyond all question, decreasing industrial and farm activities in this country and putting money in the pockets of the people of foreign lands.—New London (Conn.) Day.

THE COST OF SCARCITY

As any housewife knows, the pig killing, crop curtailment program, plus the drouth, is now being reflected in high prices for pork and other products, now at the highest levels in 11 years. The worst is yet to come. The farmer who profited more on a larger volume of sales at lower prices, has few hogs to sell. Packing plants are operating at a fraction of normal capacity. Hundreds of employes have been laid off, and the railroads and truckers are suffering in consequence.

Since a shortage of any kind of meat means a greater demand for other kinds, beef prices have also risen on top of already sensational increases. Nature's refusal to cooperate with the New Deal's economy of scarcity has depleted breeding stock requiring years to rebuild, and caused a scarcity of corn despite heavy imports from abroad. This is the price which consumers have to pay for the fallacious assumption that there is profit to anybody from goods not produced.—Springfield Union.

Last Year's Seniors

Last year's seniors—where are they? Everyone should know where our seniors of last year are. Most of them are in college. They are attending schools as follows:

Mary Armstrong is at Howard College.

L. D. Easterling and Bill Hodges are at the University of Alabama.

Coy Lockhart is at Auburn.

Here Come The Brides

The following are through with school—contented and happily married: Miss Thelma Arant married Mr. Gilbert Littleton, and Miss Louise Arnold married Mr. Dale Price. We hope they live happily ever after.

"Guess Who" for Girls or Teachers

Does she have a figure. If you hear her name it will be "baby face". Noted for keeping a quiet study hall, "believe it or not".

Old faithful, tall brunette; keeps study hall quiet, and no "believe it or not"; and she isn't an old maid any more.

"Guess Who" for Boys or Teachers

Medium heighth, dark hair; takes pleasure in sending someone to the office. He is known as "Stonewall."

Boy, does he like to go fishing? I should say so! Is liked by everyone. Noted for making students feel cheap.

Election of Cheer Leaders

In Chapel Friday morning the cheer leaders were elected. Dean Hollis was elected chief cheer leader; her assistants are as follows: Nell Jones, Guy McKee, and Virginia Newton. If they can yell as loud as they can talk they ought to be good for their jobs.

"Tigers" Ready For Game Friday

The Tigers are ready for the opening clash with Verbena Friday. The old Tiger is on the prowl. Football fans of C. C. H. S. can hardly wait for the opening whistle for the first game of the new season.

Many new boys out for practice last Monday, and more expected. The Tiger should be able to do as well as in 1927, when the first game of the season was won by a score of 63 to 0. It can happen again Friday. Everybody be down and see the team set forth on it's new season.

University News

Of the 11 foreign students enrolled at the University of Alabama, all of them are really "Americans" in the true sense of the word.

Puerto Rico, a United States protectorate, leads the list with five students. Cuba, also a protectorate, and Panama Canal Zone, government property, sent two each here. A lone enrolee from Hawaii, a territorial possession, and a Canadian from our neighbor "American" country, complete the roll.

The Alabama Crimson Tide meets Sewanee Saturday afternoon on Legion Field in Birmingham in the second game of the season for both teams.

The meetnig, which will be the 29th between the two teams, will mark the renewal of an old gridiron feud that began in 1893.

In the first game of the season last Saturday at Denny Field, Tuscaloosa, resulted in a 41 to 0 victory over Howard College. The remainder of the schedule is as follows:

October 2, Sewanee, at Birmingham.

October 9, South Carolina, at Tuscaloosa.

October 16, Tennessee, at Knoxville.

October 30, Kentucky (Homecoming) at Tuscaloosa.

November 6, Tulane, at New Orleans.

November 13, Georgia Tech, at Birmingham.

November 25, Vanderbilt, at Nashville.

Three small Alabama towns, all under 1,000 in population, according to a 1930 census, are the home towns of the three men editorial executives of The Crimson-White, University of Alabama student newspaper.

Walter Bogart, editor, comes from Stevenson, which has a population of 733. William Graham, managing editor, claims Reform, population 898, as his home. Robert Collins, sports editor, is from Collinsville, a town of 892. The other executive, Annie Laurie Swain, women's editor, is a native of Tuscaloosa. All four are majoring in journalism.

With the Law School and Wesley Players, campus dramatic organization, holding their selection of officials for the coming year, the first set of student elections on the University of Alabama campus was held last week.

James Thrower of Enterprise, and Benny Engel of Jasper were chosen for the presidencies of the University Law School and the Senior Class of the Law School, respectively.

Miss Margherita Swift of Atmore, and Miss Lena Lamberth of Alexander City were chosen honorary cadet colonels last week by students in the University of Alabama Rerserve Officers Training Corps unit.

A girl who has lived on the same farm all of her life is being acclaimed as Alabama's new literary find.

The daughter of a Tuscaloosa County (Ala.) farmer, and a junior in the College of Arts and Sciences of the University of Alabama, Miss Harriet Hassel, is the author of "Rachel's Children," a book which is expected to be published probably next spring.

Heflin Opposes Wage-Hour Bill

Action May Mean He And Hill Will Be In Race Alone: Ex-Senator Insists He Is Still Backer Of New Deal

Lafayette, Sept. 25.—Firing the opening gun in Alabama's special senatorial campaign, former Senator J. Thomas Heflin today lashed out at the Administration's wage-hour bill as "distinctly harmful" to the South and declared himself also opposed to enlarging the Supreme Court.

The wage-hour legislation, he declared, would "hamstring" Southern industry and labor alike and "would be harmful to farmers, merchants and everybody else engaged in any kind of business in our section."

The colorful ex-senator revealed his stand on the two major New Deal measures for the first time before a large Chambers County audience at the the Courthouse in LaFayette, his home town.

May Be A Duel

His announcement led many observers to believe the race for the Senate post held temporarily by Mrs. Dixie Bibb Graves may wind up a heated two-man contest between Mr. Heflin and Representative Lister Hill of Montgomery, who has come out unqualifiedly for the wage-hour and court reorganization proposals.

Mr. Heflin, however, made it plain he does not want his opposition to these two New Deal keystones construed as a break with the Roosevelt Administration, whose patronage he has enjoyed as a representative of the Federal Housing Administration.

"I am the friend of President Roosevelt," he declared. "He has done many wonderful and praiseworthy things and if I am elected to the Senate I will support him and co-operate with him in those things where I believe he is right and give opposition to him in the things where I believe he is wrong."

"Money Plan" Proposed

He branded as "pure bunkum" reports that Representative Hill was "selected by the President" to make the Senate race.

Mr. Heflin, in outlining his platform, advocated Federal legislation to guarantee the cotton farmer a "profitable price" for his product, a "substantial" income tax on foriegn factories operated with American capital and shipping their goods into the United States, a strict "hands off" policy by this nation in regard to foriegn wars, and legislation providing "faster" deportation of aliens.

He also proposed to sponsor a "panic prevention" plan caling for the appointment of a "money commission" to see to it that money is kept in circulation. A "panic prevention fund" of four or five billion dollars would be created to aid the plan, he said.

Sit-Down Strikes Hit

The ex-senator struck out at the sit-down strike "menace" but offered no specific suggestions for its prevention.

His declaration against President Roosevelt's court enlargement plan, while definite enough, was considerably less challenging than his unmincing thrust at the Administration's proposal to regulate wages and hours.

"In view of Senator Hugo Black's recent appointment to the Supreme Court," he declared, "it is claimed that the court, as it stands today, has six liberal justices on it and three conervative justices, and I see no necessity for increasing its membership and shall, if elected, oppose such course."

Wage Bill "Harmful"

He asserted, however, that "the President is not trying to destroy the Supreme Court," and added:

"Some good results have come out of the agitation of this court question. President Roosevelt has done more for the Supreme Court justices than any other President has ever done. He has provided a retirement salary for each of the justices of $20,000 a year, the largest old-age pension ever provided for mortal man."

THORSBY JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL WILL OPEN NEXT TUESDAY

The Thorsby Junior High School will open at 8:30, Tuesday, October 5th. The devotional will be given by Rev. M. L. McLeod. Talks will be made by Rev. E. W. Butler and Superintendent, Luther E. Little.

The following are the teachers: J. D. Griffin, Principal — Mathematics, Latin and Occupations; R. B. Johnson, English, Social Studies and Physical Education.

The friends and patrons of the school are cordially invited to be present at the opening exercises of the school.—J. D. Griffin, Principal.

By planting sufficient acreage of soil conserving crops this fall farmers cooperating in the 1937 Agricultural Conservation program may avoid deductions from their payments because of failure otherwise to have the required soil conserving acreage.

APPRECIATION

I again wish to thank my patrons for their loyalty and support. While new customers are very highly appreciated, and I want to serve all, it is the loyalty of old customers that shows the real service given.

My ginnings are ahead of a year ago, notwithstanding the lateness of the season, with unusual wet weather, and green cotton to begin with.

I want to be of real service to cotton growers, and can serve you best when you bring me your ginning.

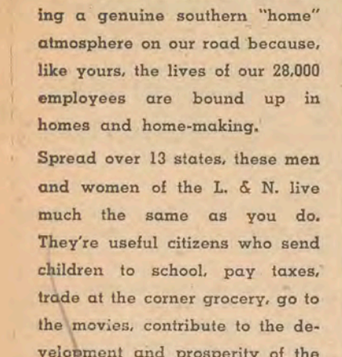
28,000 HOMEMAKERS NEIGHBOR

TO UNDERSTAND the heart of a railroad like the L. & N.—to understand why the L. & N. is your "Home Sweet Home on Rails," you have to look beyond thundering locomotives, steel rails, moving freight cars, and know something of its people.



We've been successful in creating a genuine southern "home" atmosphere on our road because, like yours, the lives of our 28,000 employees are bound up in homes and home-making.

Spread over 13 states, these men and women of the L. & N. live much the same as you do. They're useful citizens who send children to school, pay taxes, trade at the corner grocery, go to the movies, contribute to the development and prosperity of the towns and cities in which they live.

Their love of home and community makes it natural for them to think of the railroad they serve as your Home on Rails—helps them to take pride and pleasure in making you feel "at home on the L. & N."

That is why our employes strive—man to man—with one purpose, one creed, to make your journey as their guest so safe and pleasant—to make your shipment of freight in their care move so promptly—that you will want to patronize the L. & N. again.

Try the safe, friendly, dependable L. & N. way then, won't you, when you have a shipment to move or a trip to make?

PREACHING AT BRUSH ARBOR

There will be preaching at the arbor, at Mrs Norma Hayes, next Sunday afternoon, at 2:30. The services will be conducted by Miss Dorothy Hollan and her helper; they will have music with them. Everybody is invited to attend.

State Capitol News

Exhuberant that another major objective of his second administration had been brought to fruition in designation of Mobile as a free port of entry, Gov. Bibb Graves looks forward to Birmingham capturing not only the southern steel trade, but that of Latin America and Asiatic nations as well.

The governor revealed that he is circularizing the entire southeast with the new trade advantage afforded Alabama's port by the department of commerce in a move to increase tonnage through the state owned docks facilities.

Chairman Henry S. Long, of the State Tax Commission, said this week that reports to the commission's automobile license tag division indicate that Alabama has the prospect of an additional $1,500,000 for road building purposes from tag sales alone.

For the 10-month period ending last August 1, automobile tag sales soared to $3,467,765.41, as compared to $2,-702,317.92 for the same period a year ago, a gain of $765,447.49, and will be available for matching, dollar for dollar, with federal aid highway funds. The fiscal years ends September 30.

Gov. Graves' return from the East this week was the signal for high gear operations in all departments, ending a fortnight's surcease for harried office holders and their clerks, upon whom work had piled up during the vacation season.

Dr. J. N. Baker, state health officer, has announced the addition of Dr. D. F. Milam, of the North Carolina health department, to the staff of Dr. C. F. Leach, who is directing a study of rabies treatment. The experiments are being carried on at the health department's headquarters at Montgomery, with the aid of the Rockefeller Foundation.

Always politically minded, Alabama's officials are anxiously scanning reports from municipal elections over the state for possible trends in the forthcoming short term senate race, to say nothing of next year's primary, when Democrats nominate from governor to constable. They confessed negligible results.

While some of the stirring fanfare of a decade or more ago will be missing, Alabama's Confederate veterans who will hold their annual reunion at Montgomery October 7-8, are insisting upon an automobile tour of the city as among the closing convention features, according to Gen. Paul Sanguinetti, state adjutant. The annual grand ball in Montgomery's new city auditorium will be an opening night feature.

Death laid a heavy hand on the rapidly thinning line of the gray clad veterans during the past year, Gen. Sanguinetti reporting the rolls reduced by 30 names, to a remainder of 126.

Gov. Bibb Graves, returning to his desk this week after visits to Washington Atlantic City, and New York, was expected to name a Mobile Circuit Judge, and consider appointment of a Commissioner of Welfare.

Talladega has joined the growing list of Alabama counties seeking to reconsider its vote by which a dry majority was cast in the state-wide repeal election. The second election has been set for October 19, the result to be binding for a minimum of two years under the alcoholic beverage control act.

Other counties voting dry in the state-wide referendum, and who now are seeking a second election under the local option clause of the repeal act are Cullman and Calhoun, voting September 28; Dale, September 30; and Autauga, October 5.

Petitions seeking a second referendum under the local option clause are now being circulated in Tuscaloosa, Marengo, and Marshall Counties.

Chief Walter K. McAdory, of the state highway patrol, has announced completion of the state-wide short-wave police radio system which is expected to be Alabama's No. 1 deterrent to crime. The net-work has been tested, and with few minor adjustments to combat static, will be in perfect working order by October 1.

MRS. MURR DIED

Mrs. Minnie Mae Murr, age 20 years, died at a Montgomery hospital Wednesday of last week, following an appendix operation. Burial was at Mt. Pisgah Thursday afternoon, services conducted by Rev. A. L. Lumpkin.

Surviving are her husband, one small daughter and her mother, Mrs. Cleckler, of Mt. Pisgah community. Martin & Sons directed.

Each of you will take notice that the United States of America, by the United States Attorney of the Middle District of Alabama has filed a petition in the United States District Court for the Middle District of Alabama, Northern Division, for the condemnation under the provisions of an Act of Congress approved June 7, 1924 (43 Stat. 653), and under the provisions of an Act of Congress approved August 1, 1888 (25 Stat. 357) of certain lands consisting of 517.57 acres, more or less, situated in the County of Chilton, State of Alabama, of which you may own or have some right, interest, or title thereto.

That the Court has appointed and fixed the 2nd day of November, 1937, as the day to hear and pass upon said petition at Montgomery, Alabama, at 10:00 o'clock A. M.

Said lands being more particularly described as follows:

E. E. Jackson Company, Tract No. 1. T 20 N, R 11 E. Section 14, NE¼ NE¼, situated in Chilton County, and according to survey containing 40.05 acres.

Jefferson Lumber Company, Tract No. 13. T 21 N, R 11 E. Section 16, E½ SE¼ NW¼; SW¼ SW¼; E½ SW¼; situated in Chilton County, and according to survey containing 477.52 acres.

Total, 517.57 acres.

Now, therefore, pursuant to the order of the Court, each and all of the above-named persons, including all persons who are non-residents, and defendants whose residences and places of business are unknown, and all persons who have been absent from the State of Alabama for more than six months next before the filing of said petition, and all persons who have been absent from the jurisdiction of this court for more than six months next before the filing of said petition, and all persons and firms whose addresses and residences are unknown, and all corporations, whose place of business are unknown, and all corporations having no president, secretary, cashier, or managing agent within the State of Alabama, and having no person in the employ of such corporation, or doing business for it in the State of Alabama, upon whom legal process can be served, and all corporations without an agent in the State of Alabama upon whom legal process can be served, and in addition to all of the above persons, all unknown persons, firms and corporations, whoever they may be, or wherever located, whose names, residences, and places of business are unknown, who may have some interest, right, title, or claim of any kind or character whatsoever in and to said lands, or any part thereof, or who may have some interest in this proceeding, are hereby notified to be and appear before the District Court of the United States for the Middle District of Alabama, Northern Division, at Montgomery, Alabama, the place of hearing same, on the 2nd day of November, 1937, at 10:00 o'clock A. M., to contest this proceeding or to make known to the Court any objection, if any they have, to the condemnation of said lands above described, or any part thereof.

Done by order of the Court.

Witness my hand, and the seal of this Court this 22nd day of September, 1937.

O. D. STREET, Jr.,
Clerk, United States District Court.

JEMISON SINGING

Editor of The Union-Banner:

Just a few words in regard to the singing at Jemison High School. We said before, that we were expecting one of the best singings that have ever been held in Chilton county. So I believe that every one that was there will agree with me. It seems that every one did their part in making this a real good singing. I would say that the directors were too numerous to mention. We were glad to have such well known music writers as: Eugene Wright, Carlos Barrentine, P. B. Shaw and quartet, Shirley quartet, Deason's quartet, Alabama Harmonaires, B. L. Cofer and son, Stamps Southernaires, and Walker County Four.

We also had two solos which were enjoyed by all; one by Mr. Floy Devaughn and one by Inez Wyatt.

Those known to me that took part in feeding the singers are as follows: Jemison Hardware, Langston Cash Store, Mrs. T. A. Haggard, Cobb Bros., L. H. Bean, Mrs. T. V. Mims, Mrs. Ellis Martin, Mrs. John Gothard, Mrs. Leo Shaw, Mrs. Grover Bice, Mrs. Arch Glass, Mrs. Lige Glass, Mrs. Fleetwood Rasberry and family, Mrs. O. B. Martin, Mrs. Lona Walton, Mrs. Howard Roper, Mrs. W. H. Thompson and many others that I do not know about. I sure do appreciate the help and kindness of all who took part in this affair. Above all, may I express my thanks to sheriff Ward, of Centreville, for taking the Shaw sisters to the cafe for their dinner. Mr. Ward is a mighty good man and a good friend of mine, who always does his part in helping make the singings go.

May I say as manager, I could not use all of the directors. I hope that any one that I did not use, will not think I did not want to use them. I did the best I could. Thankink every one again for their help.—J. E. Martin, Manager.

CENTER HILL

Old man "Fall" made a very becoming entrance this year, and it seems he is determined to hang on. Maybe though, he can hold the rain off a while longer so the people can get their cotton out, for there is still plenty of it in the fields in this part of the country.

Mrs. Geo. Thornbroe spent last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. A. Dennis, and her sister, Mrs. Comer Lenior.

Mrs. Rufus Scott was at her mother's the latter part of the past week.

A few from here went to Cane Creek for the singing Sunday afternoon. They reported a nice singing.

Mrs. Loyd Cobb had as her guests through the week end her sister, Miss Bessie Glass of Montgomery, and her father, Mr. Dock Glass.

A goodly number from here were present for the singing at Jemison Sunday, and heard one of the best singings ever held since the convention have been held there.

NEW HEARING SET ON MITCHELL DAM

Washington, Eept. 28.—The District of Columbia federal court of appeals ordered the federal power commission Monday to reopen hearings on the valuation of the Alabama Power company's Mitchell dam on the Coosa river in Alabama.

The court ruled on an appeal from a federal district court decision denying the power company an injunction against enforcement of a commission order of June 30, 1932, knocking $3,-725,895.64 off the power concern's claim of $10,646,056.76 valuation for the dam.

The appeals court instructed the power commission to hold further hearings to determine what capital properly should be allocated on the cost of the project for rate making purposes. The dam has been in operation since 1923.

PLEASANT HILL

Our Sunday school is doing very good, but we need those who are being absent. We hope they will soon be back with us.

A few from here attended the singing at Jemison Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Blow and three daughters, Hazel, Alta Mae and Clara Nell, visited some relatives in Birmingham last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Allie Cost and little daughter, Sarah Ellen, of Shelby, visited Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Cost and Mrs. J. R. Cost last week end.

Remember Sunday School next Sunday morning.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

COUNTY-WIDE MEETINGS PLANNED FOR OCT. 4-9

Auburn, Sept. 25. — Arrangements have been made for county-wide meetings to be held in every Alabama county during the week of October 4-9 to decide the kind of national farm legislation which should be passed by congress.

In addition to discussing various questions, it is expected that each county meeting will select one person to represent the county at the state meeting to be held in Auburn on October 14. Those attending the meetnig will endeavor to consolidate the county recommendations for the entire state. Such consolidated recommendations will then be presented to the United States Senate on Agriculture when it meets in Montgomery on October 21.

"We believe that farm legislation proposed to be passed at the next session of congress holds more importance to Alabama and the Southern cotton grower than any other question confronting us at present. Consequently. we feel that we cannot impress upon you too forcibly the necessity for your consideration of this question," say P. O. Davis, Director, Alabama Extension Service, and R. J. Goode, State Commissioner of Agriculture, in urging farmers to attend their county meetings.

"Do you favor a compulsory program for cotton to be administered by the federal government?" is one of the questions to be discussed.

"Do you favor a program which will permit cotton growers ot use the diverted acreage in the expansion of livestock production and the growth of food and feed crops necessary thereto?" is another.

1937 TURKEY PRODUCTION

A reduction of about 10 per cent in the number of turkeys on hand September 1 compared with numbers last year is indicated by returns to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics from more than 7,000 producers.

The indicated decrease brings the size of the turkey crop this year down toward the level of the 1932 and 1933 crops, prior to the small crop of 1935 and the unusually large turkey crop last year. Turkey growers also reported to the Bureau that they intend to market their birds earlier and at a heavier weight than last year. The average date of turkey hatchings appears to have been earlier this year than last.

FARMERS WARNED TO WATCH HOG CHOLERA

Auburn, Sept. 27.—Hog Cholera outbreaks of even greater severity than last fall are striking in almost every leading hog producing state and have probably not yet reached their peak, according to a warning to farmers issued here today by the Alabama State Serum Plant.

The outbreaks are in widely scattered areas, sometimes leaping across several counties before new ones occur, according to results of a survey of a number of states recently announced by the American Foundation for Animal Health.

"Farmers should inspect their herds daily, as a safeguard," the bulletin warns. "Some of the worst losses have been suffered in communities where cholera has existed on one or two farms for several weeks without neighbors knowing it.

"Any farmer who discovers cholera in his herd should notify his county agent and all his neighbors immediately, so they can have their hogs vaccinated before the disease spreads. Outbreaks can be easily controlled if all other hogs ni a locality can be immunized before they contract the disease. At the first suspicious signs in a herd, a veterinarian should be called immediately."

Alabama has 14 cities with a population of over 10,000. They are, in the order named: Birmingham, Mobile, Montgomery, Gadsden, Anniston, Bessemer, Tuscaloosa, Selma, Dothan, Decatur, Phoenix City, Florence, Huntsville, and Fairfield.

Over 2,000 pasture demonstrations have been established throughout Alabama, announces J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist, in reporting that efforts are being made to place demonstration within the reach of every farmer in the state.

NEW GAME FISH IS PROTECTED BY LAW

The white lake bass (Roccus Chrysops), found in great numbers in the Tennessee Valley area or North Alabama, is the newest specimen of fresh water fish to come under the protection of this state's laws. By unanimous vote of the 7-member conservation board Commissioner I. T. Quinn recently was authorized to draw up regulations declaring the white lake bass a game fish and as such entitled to protection. The creel limit and legal size of the fish will be announced later.

Thousands of white lake bass have been caught in Lake Wilson, Lake Wheeler, and other streams in that section this summer. Sportsmen became alarmed over the rapid depletion of the stock and asked that regulatory measures be passed. The fish is commonly called the striped bass in that section.

HEALTH DEPT NOTES

Montgomery, Sept. 27.—"The enjoyment of good health may be viewed largely as the product of the exercise of good common sense, to be retained or regained in much the same intelligent way that the successful man or woman attains or retains wealth," Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, said today in discussing the tendency of many persons to become unduly enthusiastic or excited over various health fads.

"The person who is usually most successful in accumulating worldly goods carefully steers clear of 'get-rich-quick' schemes," he added. "He takes a long-range view of the problem of acquiring a competence, and carefully lays his plans, not for the next few months or years, but for the rest of his life, or until he is able to retire to well-earned leisure, if he so desires. He does not take any stock in schemes to become extremely wealthy overnight. Strangely enough, however, many persons who take such a wise attitude toward the accumulation of wealth fail to show such wisdom in health matters. They fail to realize that the one requires as much intelligence and planning as the other."

THE COMMODITY CREDIT CORPORATION

1937 Cotton Circular Letter No. 1.

The executive Committee of Commodity Credit Coporation has made the following ruling with reference to loans under the 1937-38 cotton loan program:

No. 1. "The provisions of Section 1 (b) of the printed instructions (1937-38 C. C. C. Cotton Form A), providing that a landlord cannot borrow on the tenant's share nor on cotton taken in on account, have been and are hereby waived, but this shall in nowise effect the requirement that cotton must have been produced by a "producer" as defined in Section 1 (a) of the instructions (1937-38 C. C. C. Cotton Form 1)."—Ben Johnson, Vice-President.

UNEMPLOYMENT COMPENSATION

Montgomery, Stpt. 27. — Chester E. Knight, native of Sylacauga, professor of accounting at the University of Alabama, has been appointed supervisor of merit examinations for the Alabama unemployment compensation commission by the advisory committee on personnel.

Mr. Knight's duty will be to supervise the examinations which will be conducted by the advisory committee on personnel under the commission's order for the inauguration of the merit system for appointment of all employes in the future.

October Record Week

Bigger and Better than ever. In fact, it's one of the Major demonstrations of our Golden Jubilee Year.

Beginning October First

Loveman, Joseph & Loeb
BIRMINGHAM, ALA.

Dr. Paul Studenski, Professor of Economics at New York University, recently completed a survey of the drinking habits of 2,379 young people in New York state. He found that 63.9 per cent of women students have increased their hard liquor drinking in the last two years as compared to 43.7 per cent increase for the men. The reasons given for drinking by the young people were these: "Alcohol makes one gayer and more attractive." "It helps one to forget one's trouble." It is significant that the group that gave the latter excuse for drinking hard liquor averaged under 25 years of age. It is also significant that 65 per cent of the young people questioned said their parents had no objection to their drinking.

The preceding paragraph tells its own story. Comment is hardly necessary. "Many mothers and fathers act like they do not care if their children go to the devil." That is what a man said to the writer some time ago. The trouble is not with the young people. It is with the older people and with the educational system. Prohibition, when we had prohibition, did not produce lawlessness. The violation of the prohibition law was a symptom of the lawlessness of the age. Young people have been taught under our modern educational system, to express themselves, to have what they want, to live their own lives, to do as they please. Millions of young people have come to believe that whatever they want they have a right to have. If they want liquor they have a right to have it, according to their understanding of the philosophy they have been taught. That is the Satanic philosophy which has wrecked the morals of the world.

"Haven't women the same right to smoke and drink as men have?" The question is often asked. In the sight of God any sin that will damn a woman will damn a man. The Ten Commandments were given to men as well as to women. The Christian standards are for men and women alike. That is true. However, as far as world consequences are concerned, it is far worse for women to smoke and drink than it is for men. Women are made of finer clay. Women do not live in this world on the same plane as men. They either live above or beneath men. Some of us preachers have been pleading for many years for one standard for men and women. But we did not mean that we want women to come down to the plane where men were living. We meant we wanted women to pull men up to their plane. We had better have two standards like we used to have than to have women come down to where men have lived. This nation needs a revival of old time honest to goodness womanly modesty and purity. When women drink liquor and travel the gait coarse men have travelled in the past, there isn't much hope for the world.

TENT MEETING AT LOMAX

The tent meeting at Lomax is conducted by R. L. Huffman and J. J. Daniel, of the Church of Christ. It has gained in interest and attendance from the start. The meeting will continue until futher announcement is made.

Material for the new church building is being placed on the grounds. A work day, with dinner on the ground is to be announced later.

Everybody is invited to attend the meeting. Our motive is to do all the good possible, in the shortest time. Come. Services at 7:30 p. m., daily.—R. L. Huffman.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

Montgomery, Sept. 27. — The week of October 2-9 has been set apart as "Fire Prevention Week" and will be observed throughout Alabama, according to an announcement by the office of the State Fire Marshal, in cooperation with the Alabama League of Municipalities, in directing programs in keeping with the occasion.

In an effort to appropriately call to the attention of the citizens of every locality in the state, the joint sponsors of Fire Prevention Week programs are urging proper observance by the schools, fire departments, and municipal governing bodies.

There are 5,326 elementary schools in Alabama. Of this number 2,885 are for white people and 3,441 for negroes. These schools are divided into six classes according to the number of teachers employed. There are 2,459 one-teacher schools, 1,148 two-teacher schools, 489 three-teacher schools, 229 four-teacher schools, 145 five-teacher schools, and 856 that employ six or more teachers. There are nearly twice as many one-teacher negro schools as white, the number of whites being 888 and the negro schools being 1,571. In all other classes the number of white schools exceeds the number of negro schools.

Axe Champion To Chop Here Tuesday, Oct. 5th

Murray-Bell Hardware Company To Present Famous Chopper

Peter McLaren, who claims the wood chopping championship of America, will stage a log cutting contest and demonstration here on Tuesday, October 5, at 2:00 p.m.

This contest has been arranged by Murray-Bell Hardware Co., who is to be congratulated for arranging for the visit of this colorful champion McLaren, whose wizardry with an axe has carried him from a poor farm lad in Australia to the peak of his profession.

PETER McLAREN

In chopping tours covering a score of years he has chopped before hundreds of thousands, both here and abroad. McLaren, who is nearly 50 years old, claims that outdoor chopping is a great physical developer. His own condition bears out this claim.

The contest is open to any local men who has not previously competed against McLaren. A prize of $50 will be paid to any contestant if McLaren fails to chop through a log in two-thirds of the time the contestant takes.

The handicap gives all good choppers a sporting chance to win the prize money, as it is just like giving 33 yards in a hundred yard dash.

The only restriction made is that no contestant be permitted to use a Plumb axe. This is the only axe which McLaren himself ever uses, and he refuses to chop against a Plumb axe and also allow the handicap.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend the demonstration. Choppers wishing to compete should bring their axes with them. It costs nothing to enter the contest. 9-23-2t

NOTICE TO OFFICERS OF THE CHILTON COUNTY ASSOC'N

To all pastors, church clerks, and chairmen of committees to report at the 1937 annual session of the Chilton County Association:

May we urge you to be making all necessary arrangements for a full and complete session of our body, which is soon to meet with Shiloh church, located about 8 miles southwest of Clanton, on Route 3.

We wish to call to the attention of the churches the all-importance of filling every item possible on your associational letter, also doing it plainly, completely and accurately, but putting all amounts and numbers under their proper headings, that we may have the correct information by whcih to have our minutes printed, thereby giving all churches full and complete credit for the things worked for by them during the year.

Pastors, will you please urge all your churches to pay at least some on the Cooperative Program? May we all pray that we may have a great meeting, to our good, and especially that the Master's name will be very greatly honored in our meeting together.—G. G. Williams, Moderator; S. J. M. Webb, Clerk.

REFUGE NEWS

We will meet Sunday in special conference, to finish our work for this associational year. We urge all members if possible to be present.

Rev. M. Lockhart has been called to the work here for the next year. He will take up his work the 3rd Sunday in October.

CHILTON HIGH OPENS WITH VERBENA HIGH FRIDAY P. M.

Locklear, the swivel-hipped one, will likely get the call at the barker's post, and weighs 135 pounds. Bucky Armstrong at 144, and Stella Williamson at 160, are almost sure starters at the halves, with Morris Johnson at fullback with his 145 pounds. This gives a backfield with an average poundage of 146, and all pretty fast. In reserve will be Kink Chambers at 148 pounds, Snowy Melton with 137, and Thornton with 140. Thornton and Chambers are both good, hard driving backs, while Melton is a fit running mate for Williamson — how those two lads can take that poundage to town—and the others are not so slow as to be lost in the shuffle.

At the ends the likely choice will be Littlejohn at 182, and Jones with 165. Tackle posts will likely be cared for by Ware at 175, and Ted Reynolds at 170. At guard, McDowell with 160, and Aldridge with 174, are likely to start. There are good replacements, including big J. W. Johnson, a hefty, hard-hitting lad, who has just rounded back into shape after twisting a knee; the big one is a bit green, but has a world of power and drive, and plenty of grit; he will be heard from. There are others, too, whom Coach Spicer can use to rest the first stringers. At center, Red Mims will likely hold forth, having been shifted to the post this year; he alternated to guard and tackle last year. Red tips the beam at 175, is a stone wall on defense, and will likely do a lot of coming out of the line to back it up on defense.

This gives a starting line which averages 171 pounds, and a complete starting team with an average of 162—not at all bad for a high school these days. And the prospects are bright for more material as the season gets under way.

Coach Spicer has put the boys through their paces since the first day of practice, and they have responded wonderfully, adhering to their training rules in earnest, and making a religion of their practice. The tackling dummy has caught fits. As a result, Coach Spicer will show you next Friday a hard charging line with plenty of life and snap and fight—one where every man knows his job and does it well. He will show you a nice array of backs, and no doubt will try several combinations in the rear works in the opener.

If you like football, if you like to see a well trained team in action, be on hand Friday afternoon. You may not see Chilton run up a big score—they might not want to, even if they could—and then you might see them riding high, wide and handsome. Look them over; watch their general play, their spirit and drive, and then see if you believe the touchdown drouth is over at Chilton High. You'll see a football team!

GIPSY ANN BOYD WINNING HONORS AS AN EQUESTRIENNE

The following article clipped from Monday night's Birmingham News will be read with interest by the young lady's many friends and admirers in Clanton. Gipsy Ann and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Boyd, lived in Clanton up until six or eight years ago.

"Gipsy Ann Boyd, young equestrienne, of Selma, and her new pony, "Cotton Stockings," have been scoring some remarkable wins in horse shows in Kentucky, according to word received by Selma friends. Her latest exploit is placing second in a show billed as world championship event in the five-gaited pony class. In an earlier show she placed first in her class. Gipsy Ann won a large number of blue ribbons last year with her three-gaited pony, Hot Toddy, and has switched to the five-gaited class with her new pony this year. She is considered the outstanding young rider in Alabama. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Boyd, of Selma. The home folks are expecting to see Gipsy Ann in action at the Selma Horse Show, which will be held October 19."

It cost about $400,000 and is the first unit of a plan for harmonizing all departmental structures with the Statehouse.

REGISTRATION OF NEW VOTERS TO BEGIN THURSDAY, OCTOBER 14

The Board of Registrars of Chilton County, composed of A. J. LeCroy, W. W. Wingard, and C. A. Rutherford, will begin their round for the purpose of registering new voters on next Thursday, October 14.

The first three days, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 14, 15 and 16, the registrars will be at the court house. Schedule for the other places in the county, together with dates for each place, have been announced, and will be published in complete form in next week's issue of The Union-Banner.

Everyone who has become of age since the last registration period, or who have never registered, are urged to do so during this round.

Watch for the full schedule in next week's paper, and register, if you have not already done so.

PATROLMEN'S REPORT

State Highway Patrolmen Wallace Waites and Earl Henley report the following arrests during the week beginning Monday, September 20, and ending Sunday, September 26:

L. O. Stagg, driving while intoxicated; in jail.

L. L. Ellis, speeding; fine and cost $10.50.

Alvin Parson, driving while intoxicated; bond.

Jackson Bailey, public drunkenness; in jail.

Fred Murphree, no driver's license; fine and costs $16.50.

E. C. Bell, violating flag and flare law; bond.

Jack Howard, speeding; bond.

Dr. John W. Hayes, driving while intoxicated; bond.

The patrolmen wish to serve notice to all truck and car owners that they must start giving tickets for no tail lights, no headlights, or any kind of improper lights, and urge that all auto owners check their lights closely.

UNITED STATES ARMY INFOMATION SERVICE

Major General George Van Horn Moseley, Commanding the Fourth Corps Area, with Headquarters at Atlanta, Ga., announces that a campaign is being inaugurated to secure approximately 1500 recruits for the United States Army from the eight southeastern States comprising the Fourth Corps Area, to fill existing vacancies in the Panama Canal Zone, Hawaii and the Fourth Corps Area.

Service in Hawaii appeals to the southern lads and it is anticipated that the 600 vacancies existing in the Infantry, Coast Artillery and Field Artillery organizations stationed in Hawaii will be filled rapidly. Under present plans applicants enlisting for Hawaii will sail from Charleston, South Carolina to New York on the 12th of October and the 22nd of November. From New York they will sail for Hawaii through the Panama Canal.

Approximately 600 vecancies exist in the 14th Infantry and the 33rd Infantry, our two Infantry regiments in Panama. Young men enlisted for Panama are scheduled to sail from Charleston, South Carolina, November 5th, 1937.

ARMY AND NAVY SCHOLARSHIPS

Senator Graves Has One Appointment For West Point And Two For Annapolis

Montgomery, Sept. 28. — Senator Dixie Graves announced today that she had one vacancy to fill at West Point and two at Annapolis.

The appointment to West Point is to be made from young men between the ages of 17 to 22, and the appointments to Annapolis from young men between the ages of 16 and 21.

Applications for these places should be filed with the Senator at her office in Montgomery not later than October 15, and should be accompanied by a certificate showing that the applicant is a person of good character.

When they ask for something, they get it; get a boost in pork prices, even through such drastic measures as government destruction of 3,000,000 pigs, to keep down production.

But the Southern farmer, the dear old cotton producer, who has for 70 years been the backbone of the Democratic party, is getting it in the neck. With his beloved party in power in Washington, with all the billions that have been poured out in an orgy of government spending, all that he has been able to obtain so far is the promise of a niggardly loan, based on below-cost-of-production. You do not read anywhere about Uncle Sam buying up and burning 3,000,000 bales of cotton. You see, the Southern farmer, as we have just said, is the backbone of the Democratic party, and backbones are useful to bear burdens for other people. For many decades, the Southern cotton farmer has carried the load for the Democratic party, until he has come to be looked upon like "Old Beck", who pulls the plow in the cotton furrows. Without the millions of "Old Faithfuls" down here in Dixie, the Democratic party would not have a look-in; it owes the South everything, and shows its gratitude by keeping the Southern cotton farmer on the lowest economic plane in the nation.

It is quite true that the South, very recently, began manifesting some signs of political independence. Some of its leaders in Washington kicked over the traces, voted against the iniquitous court packing bill, the wages-and-hours bill. The trouble was, these expressions of independence came too late, and proved a boomerang to the agricultural interests of this section. The South had been in political bondage to the Democratic party so long that when finally it did voice a protest, such conduct was regarded as unheard-of presumption, deserving of punishment from the powers that be. Result, 9 cent loan on cotton, sudden cessation of sympathy from the boys behind the mahogany desks in Washington. The boys up there have always been taught that a Southern Democrat is a docile, in fact rather dumb creature, whose chief virtue lies in doing, and voting, exactly as he is told. When an entire section has been held in slavish subjection to a one-party machine for nearly three-quarters of a century, it takes more than a brief flare-up to assert its independence. Only when the Southern voter rears up on his hind legs and votes his convictions instead of his inherited prejudices can the South hope to command the respect and consideration that it deserves. So long as a man behaves as a slave toward anything, he can expect that thing to treat him exactly as his behavior warrants. Recent history indicates that even the great and benign Democratic party is not above kicking a section that persists in offering the bosom of its pants to the boot.

The idea we are trying to express holds good in politics, from the top right down to the bottom. Let us suppose, for example, that Bill Smith is running for member of the county board. He knows that Tom Jones is bound to be "fer him, right or wrong", because Tom's grandfather and the grandsire of Bill's opponent fell out over a section line or a hound dog or something 50 or 75 years ago. When Bill gets in office and starts handing out the rewards, you can bet that Tom won't find his name written there. On the contrary, the "pie" will go to some of the smart boys who sort of flirted around and kept Bill a little in doubt about having a lien on their undivided affections, and votes.

Chief trouble with this fair Southland, as we see it, from a political standpoint, is that we have some millions too many who are in the same boat with Tom, hog-tied by ancient prejudices, their votes delivered and "in the bag" even before they are counted. They get so they are just sort of taken for granted, like "Old Beck". And, like that faithful animal, so appropriately chosen as their party emblem, they get just enough fodder to enable them to pull the plow and deliver the electoral votes every fourth November.

High Vote Period Ends In Subscription Drive Oct. 9th

Next Saturday Night Ends Second Big Vote Offer of Campaign. Candidates Are Urged To Drive Forward, As Time Is Short; Closing Period Near

With Saturday night ending the second big vote offer of the campaign and the final days right at hand this community is about to see some of the hardest campaigning and the most spectacular work yet experienced in The Banner's $2,000.00 "Free Gift Distribution." All through this section this campaign is assuming its rightful place as the one affair of importance.

No Candidate Certain

Never was there such a glittering array of such splendid gifts—never were there such battles waged for them. Present indications unmistakably point to a hair-breadth finish, and from the way it looks now the big prizes will be won by very narrow margins, as no candidate can be over certain of victory. There is abundant speculation as to the final outcome. First one candidate and then another is picked to land the prize and this undoubtedly due to the extreme closeness of the race. It is true those who rise to the occasion and maintain a stiff upper lip brushing aside every obstacle that may arise have the best chances of winnings.

The race is too close to bank on any possibilities. Relaxation at this state is suicidal to success. Determination to win in connection with relentless activity in vote getting will make any candidate a success. What is intended to be done Must Be Done Now. To temporize, to dilly dally or to delay is to let some other candidate sweep ahead of you. If there ever was a time when candidates should be up and doing, it is right now. The prizes are worth every bit of effort in you. Where else or how else can your spare time be as productive or remunerative? No one has anything "cinched," standing so easily that he or she need not put forth every ounce of energy possible. In fact, it would not be a hard matter for a candidate well down in the list or an ambitious new contender to make a spurt before 6 o'clock Saturday night and get themselves into running for the Chevrolet, but get a good start for the extra $50 cash to be awarded for second and third period effort ending Saturday night, October 16th.

Work as you never worked before. Win your choice of a car and $50 cash by 6 o'clock Saturday night, October 16th.

Warning

Candidates should remember that votes decrease Saturday night at 6 o'clock. Also points on the extra $50.00 cash. You can win two prizes. Remember, also, that you must remain active or forfeit your right to a prize or commission. Office open until 6 o'clock Saturday night.

NOTICE

The Chilton County Farmers Union will hold their regular monthly meeting Saturday, October 9th, at 1:30 o'clock, at Center Hill. All local unions please send delegates and be on time.—Gresham Smith, Assistant County Secretary.

FOUR INJURED TUESDAY IN AUTO MISHAP NEAR CALERA

J. Mell Martin's ambulance answered an emergency call Tuesday about 11:30 o'clock, and picked up four wreck victims near Alabama Poultry Farm below Calera, and carried them to Birmingham for hospital care. The car was driven by Mr. Stewart S. Crippen, and the other occupants were Mrs. Crippen, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Mershan, all of Fairhope, Ala.

Mrs. Crippen, age 43, was seriously injured, and was not expected to live at South Highland hospital, where she was carried. The others were painfully but not seriously injured.

A front tire blew out and the car swerved into a telephone pole; Mrs. Crippen was thrown out of the car through an open door.

Carload Of Negroes Pinched On Monday

The short-wave police radio hook-up recently installed in the highway patrolman car proved a success Monday night, when Earl Henley, Mr. Leary and Mr. Hicks spotted a car going north through Thorsby which they had just heard described over the police broadcasting apparatus in Montgomery. The car was described as bearing an Ohio tag, with sugar cane tied on the back, and only one of the negro women's name was known. The car soon passed through Thorsby, and the officers nabbed it, returning the six dusky passengers to jail in Clanton.

One negro man in the crowd was wanted in Evergreen, alleged to have taken a suit of clothes from another negro down there; the Ohio negroes had been at Evergreen attending a camp meeting for a few days.

The suit was said to have been taken from James Presley, and the occupants of the car were: Jim Griffin, John Favors, Marlett Brown, Parlee Brown, Velma Stanford, and Hazel Griffin.

Sheriff W. A. Moore of Conecuh County, Evergreen, was summoned, and came up Tuesday morning, bearing the entire group back to Evergreen for investigation and further legal actions.

ROCKETT'S SHELL SALE

As you will notice from the announcement elsewhere in this issue of the Union-Banner, Clanton Building Supply Company is again this week advertising their annual fall shell sale. If you expect to do any hunting this season which is about to open, then you had better take advantage of this shell sale for next Saturday only. Look at the adv. and read the prices.

CIRCUIT COURT IN SESSION ALL THIS WEEK AND NEXT

The Circuit Court of Chilton County started a two weeks grind on the civil docket Monday of this week. It is a jury session, and will last all through this week and next.

All of the cases on the docket for the two weeks are civil cases, except the case of Ernest Littleton, charged with murder, is set for Thursday of next week, October 14.

JONES-McCARTHY

Mrs. G. D. Retherford of Clanton announces the marriage of her daughter, Vera Jones, of Washington, D. C., to Dr. Ralph McCarthy, of Boston, Mass., on Saturday, October 20, 1937.

NAMES OF LAW VIOLATORS WILL BE PUBLISHED

The Union-Banner is hereby announcing that in making our report of law violations, taken from the records in the Sheriff's office, that of the Mayor of Clanton, and of State Patrolmen, the names of the violators will be published.

It is not our desire to humiliate anyone, but this is done in order that the committing of crime may be made less inviting to people so disposed to disregard the law.

Therefore, if you get caught by city, county or state officers, you may expect to see your name in the paper the following week. And when it does appear, do not blame anyone except yourself.

Thomas Sims Was Struck By Auto

Injured Wednesday Night Near Fair Ground; Died at Hospital Thursday Morning

Supposedly while walking along the street on the west extension of 2nd Avenue, near the new home of Rip Burnett, Thomas Sims was struck by an automobile and fatally injured Wednesday night of last week about 7 o'clock. The injured man was picked up and carried to Central Alabama Hospital by Spigener's ambulance, where he lingered until Thursday morning and died about 9 o'clock. He was 30 years old.

Funeral services were held from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Smith Friday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, and the body was taken to Elmore county and buried at Mt. Hebron cemetery near Elmore station. Spigener directed.

Surviving are two brothers: B. Rucker Sims, of Scottsboro, Benson Sims of Clanton; four sisters, Mrs. Loren Smith, Mrs. Joe Higgins, Mrs. Imogene Mollison and Miss Edith Sims, all of Clanton.

ALABAMA COTTON MILLS TO RUN SERIES OF ADVS.

Will Give Interesting Facts Pertaining To Leading Industry Of The State

Beginning next week a series of advertisements will be carried in The Union-Banner by the cotton mills of Alabama, signed "Alabama's Cotton and Cotton Mills."

These are very attractive advs., and they will portray to the readers of this paper some interesting facts on the industry in which we are all vitally interested.

Some years ago, in 1928 to be exact, the Alabama Mills Company placed one of its units in Clanton, and this is the only cotton mill in Chilton County. We are all proud of the mill here, the people who operate it, and the benefits that our city has already derived from its operation in our midst. The mill here employs 300 people, and the weekly payroll runs around $4,500. There are six overseers of various departments; Mr. Homer F. Roberts is superintendent.

It is very obvious the benefit that Clanton and hte county derives from the regular and dependable payroll that comes from our cotton mill. This much money turned loose week after week naturally serves as quite a stimulant to general business conditions in the county.

And too, the taxes paid by the company into our county is another item of benefit not to be overlooked; this tax, or a pro rata portion of the same, goes toward maintaining our schools, our local governments, Etc. All of which goes together to make up the innumerable benefits derived locally from our cotton mill. Take into consideration the many big mills all over Alabama and you can begin to realize the real immensity of the cotton industry in Alabama.

"THE SALT OF THE EARTH"

NOTE—This article appeared in the "Man in the Moon" column last week but is being reprinted on the front page this week by request.

If there is any one group of people in this country, or any other country, for that matter, which holds the welfare of all in their hands to greater degree than any other group, it must be the farmers. They are the salt of the earth. On them depends the general well-being of all. When they prosper, all prosper—when they fail, chaos prevails.

The reason for this is not hard to find. First and most important of all, they feed the people of the world—and they must eat if they are to live. The next most important fact is that a majority of the people of any nation are farmers, and furnish the greatest market for manufactured products. Business cannot survive without them, and the better financial condition farmers find themselves in, the better off business finds itself.

We have had several chances to measure the comparative worth of various industrial groups through the series of strikes that have pestered our nation during the last few months. At times the greater part of the automotive industry has been shut down, but few people other than the strikers, themselves, have been discomfitted. Mining has had its strikes, with no one suffering in great degree except those directly concerned. Steel mills closed for long periods, yet no one felt hard pinched. But suppose the farmers should go on strike for higher prices for their products, and refuse to plant the seed or till the soil until they were assured certain minimum prices. That would be a calamity without equal. True, there are vast stores of foodstuffs stored away, but if production of foodstuffs should cease overnight, prices would skyrocket so that soon none but the rich could buy, and very soon not even they would be able to secure food.

When farmers flourish, and receive top prices for their products, they buy clothes, tools and implements, automobiles, and all kinds of articles. These purchases keep the various factories humming, so that the industrial worker has a steady job, and he in turn can again afford to buy the farmer's products, so that the cycle of prosperity is perfect.

When farmers are depressed, they cannot buy those manufactured articles, the manufacturer cannot sell his goods and cannot keep his factory running to keep the industrial worker busy, and he, in turn, cannot buy the farmer's products. Result—the whole economical cycle and set-up breaks down. True, as a rule farmers are the poorest paid of any group, but "a chain is no stronger than its weakest link," and if this nation is ever to completely pull itself from the slough of depression it is STILL in, the climb must start at the root of the trouble—the farmer. If he is made able to sell his products profitably, the rest of the economic cycle will take care of itself.

If President Roosevelt and the congress want to start the ball to rolling back to prosperity for the whole country, let them start with "the salt of the earth." They can pass wage and hour bills until they are black in the face, but unless the cause of the money troubles of the country is corrected, it will do no permanent good; cause of those money troubles starts right back there where the raw products are grown which feed the nation. If they want to help the farmer, let them keep their hands off his production—American farmers will not raise too much, if they can have their own market, and not be hampered with cheap products flooding into our country in competition with their own. Instead, let them pass regulatory measures on the amount of mports of certain commodities that can be shipped into this country. Let them take steps to keep politics out of farmng—to keep politics within the realm of politics, and out from between the cotton and corn rows, and out of the cattle and hog pastures.

Let them close the gap between the price farmers receive for their raw products, and the prices they must pay for manufactured articles—close the gap between less-than-10-cent cotton, and prices on manufactured articles which are on a level with 20-cent cotton. Let the congressman stop trying to figure out what they can do TO farmers, and start trying to find out what they can do FOR them. Let them stop trying to tell them how much they can raise, and start trying to furnish them a market for what they raise.

If congress can regulate wages and hours for industry, why is it that a minimum price cannot be set for farmers' products? Let congress recognize farmers for what they are—"the salt of the earth"—and treat them accordingly, and all other economic and governmental functions will take care of themselves.

NEW SERIES OF ADS TO APPEAR FOR CREOMULSION

The Union-Banner is again on the select list of weeklies picked by the Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga., to run a series of advertisements on their product, Creomulsion, a prescription for coughs and bronchial irritations due to colds.

Creomulsion, recommended by thousands of doctors and druggists, is sold by all drug stores. All druggists are authorized to refund the purchase price to any customer if not satisfied with the results from the very first bottle.

VOTE YOUR CARD ON THE PHONE CHANGE AND MAIL TO MAYOR

Mayor C. Fenn Jones informs The Union-Banner that a number of cards have been voted and returned to him on the proposed telephone change in Clanton, but there are a number of them still unvoted. Mr. Jones urges that all vote one way or the other by filling out the cards and mailing them in. Attend to this matter at once.

The Leader To Celebrate Anniversary With Big Sale

Big Dry Goods Store In Clanton Will Observe Its Eighteenth Birthday By Offering Many Special Bargains; Watch For Further Notice

The Leader is about to have another birthday, and if you trade in Clanton, you have an idea about what that means. Of course, you cannot realize exactly what it means until you see the complete list of bargains offered by this already big but still growing establishment, but Mr. Lande has been here long enough that you can pretty well guess that he is going to offer bargains that can scarcely be matched in Central Alabama—and hundreds of them at that.

Mr. Lande is making the announcement of the sale in an adv. in this week's Union-Banner; read what he says in advance of the big event. Then a little later you will receive more literature about it; watch the mails and be ready to take advantage of the offerings at first sight. They will go like hot cakes, because they are red-hot bargains—and things that folks need every day. Keep your eyes stretched and be prepared for any kind of shock.

CANNED GOODS SALE NOW ON AT HILL'S

Mr. Stewart at Hill Grocery Company is this week offering some specials in canned goods. You can get most anything you want in cans at three for a quarter this week end. Read the Hill adv. elsewhere in this issue of the paper and see what all you can get for so little money.

And too, that good flour at Hill's is still going at bargain prices. Grandma's Wonder and White Tip are the famous well-known brands that are being offered special.

BABY GIRL BORN

On last Sunday night an 8½-pound baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Rutherford of Mt. Springs community. They have named her Mary Esther.

Chilton County Fair Came To A Successful Close

Downpour Of Rain On Week End Cut Down Attendance, But Place Was Full Saturday and Saturday Night. Expect To Repeat Project In 1938

NEGRO MAN ARRESTED FOR INJURING THOMAS SIMS

As soon as the news got out about Thomas Sims being seriously injured by a hit and run automobile last Wednesday night, city and county officials got busy working on clues in trace of the driver of the car doing the damage. It seems that Mr. Plyler, the night policeman in Clanton, worked up a clue and traced it out, with the aid of county officials and the highway patrolmen, that led to the arrest of the alleged killer.

A car was located down near New Cedron, which had been wrecked up in front and bore the marks of the car that might have done the damage. The car was said to have been left there in front of a man's house to be repaired. Futher investigation by the officials revealed that the driver of the car was Jule Chapman, a negro man about 30 years old residing at West End, Clanton. The negro was arresed and placed in jail in Clanton, the charge of manslaughter being placed against him.

Futher investigation revealed that two negro women were in the car with Chapman at the time, they all three being on their way to the Chilton county fair. Chapman is said to have admitted to the officers that he drove the car that hit Thomas Sims, fatally injuring him.

THREE FACTS AND A SUGGESTION

From reports from up Washington way it seems that Mr. Justice Hugo Lafayette Black is determined to prove his lack of racial and religious prejudice.

The wise boys on the Potomac are said to be up in arms on account of a few of the new justice's appointments.

He has appointed as his messenger a Catholic negro. His secretary likewise is a Catholic. And he has taken as his law clerk a Jew.

That he may complete the job he has begun, and show no partiality, we suggest that he change his middle name, so that his title shall read "Mister Justice Hugo Isadore Black".

"TIGERS" TRIMMED VERBENA 33 TO 0

Game Featured By Williamson's 70-Yard Sprint; Wet Field Slows Speed Merchants

The 1937 Chilton Tiger got away to a good start last Monday evening, defeating their down county neighbors, Verbena High, 33 to 0, although hampered by a wet field, which slowed down the Chilton speedsters.

The game was scheduled for last Friday, but was postponed on account of the downpour of rain. The Tigers played straight football throughout, attempting but few passes, and relying on straight line bucks and end runs. Anyone who might have been scouting the Tigers learned little, for they were never forced to bring out the bag of tricks they are reputed to have.

Chilton scored the first touchdown within five minutes of the opening whistle, with the speedy backs ripping off long gains through the line and around ends; during the first quarter the Verbena safety man was getting nearly every tackle.

Four Chilton backs had a part in the scoring; Bucky Armstrong sprinted around end for 11 yards and touchdown; Littlejohn snagged a short pass behind the line of scrimmage and wiggled through the entire Verbena team for his counter; little Snowy Melton, playing his first game, got his big thrill when he whipped left end for 18 yards and a touchdown; Duck Williamson plunged four yards for his first touchdown, and later, taking the oval on his own 30, sliced through the line, hestitated for his interference to mow down the secondary, then eluded two would-be tacklers and out-ran the safety man for his 70-yard feature of the whole game.

Although game to the core, the fighting Verbena team were no match for the Tigers. They were unable to stem the hard blocking line, and were unable to score even one single first down.

The Verbena team showed plenty of grit and fight, but appeared green and inexperienced. Chilton line charged as a unit for the most part, although a few times it could have done better. It would be hard to pick a star out of that Chilton line; all were in there scrapping, and opening huge holes through which the backs raced for gain after gain.

CARTER BROTHERS AT ROCKETT'S HARDWARE

Grady and Curtis Carter, radio specialists and electricians, have formed a connection with Clanton Building Supply Company, and will have the second story of that store as their headquarters in the future.

The boys will be glad to figure with you on your radio repairing and electric wiring, Etc., when you need such done. A telephone call at No. 14 will have them coming in a trot.

The Chilton county fair came to a successful close Saturday night about midnight, despite the fact that incessant rain considerably hampered attendance during the last two days and nights. There was nothing at all to it Friday night, except rain and mud, but the people braved the weather the last day and attended enmasse.

This was the first fair to be held here since 1915, and measured up very favorably with the results of those back in the good old days. It is the fond hope of the sponsors that the affair may be enlarged next year and held on a bigger and better scale next year and the years to follow.

Officials of the Kiwanis Club, the county agents, and others of the sponsors wish to express their appreciation to the farmers of the county and all others lending their assistance in any way in making the fair the success that it was. It is hoped that all may work together to make it still bigger and better in 1938.

Livestock—best mare, bred, Bill Fiquett, $5; best mare, unbred, R. M. Foshee, stud fee; best mare, over 900 pounds, and colt, R. M. Foshee, $7.50; best mare, under 900 pounds, and colt, Frank Parrish, $7.50; best mare and colts, two or more, J. M. Moore, $7.50; best colt, under 6 months old, J. M. Moore, $5; best colt, 6 months to 2 years old, Bill Fiquett, $5; pair mules, R. M. Foshee, $7.50; home raised mule colt, under 2 years old, J. M. Moore, $5;. Second and third prizes were awarded, which consisted of bridles, halters, traces, and other items of harness and articles useful on farms.

The agricultural exhibits were under the supervision of Mr. J. W. Fant, county agent. Home and ladies' work was looked after by Miss Meta Grace, and the livestock was under the supervision of Dr. W. L. Parrish.

The livestock could not be shown at the fair ground, on account of the rain Friday, the day set aside for livestock. The animals were carried to Mr. Reed Mullins' stables at West End, and judged there. Dr. Parrish was mighty well pleased with the noble manner in which people responded by bringing their animals out even such a day as Friday was. If it had been a pretty day, the livestock exhibits would have been second to none anywhere.

All of the exhibits in all departments were much above the highest expectations, the people of the county co-operating most nobly in this phase of the fair work.

All are urged to keep up the spirit, so that in 1938 Chilton county may have a real fair which we can be proud of. We must begin working now on the 1938 fair, and not cease until it is put over in grand fashion next fall. If we cn get up as good one in a few weeks as we did this year, we can really do wonders in a whole year.

The fair this year was sponsored by the public affairs committee of Clanton Kiwanis Club, of which committee Dr. V. J. Gragg is chairman. The least that can be said is that Dr. Gragg and this committee are certainly to be commended for the splendid work accomplished.

Anyone desiring to know more about the 1938 fair, and wishing to lend their co-operation, should contact Dr. Gragg or J. Mell Martin, and they will be glad to furnish all the information and aid at their disposal.

GAME CONSERVATION NEWS

Fox Hunting Begins

With the advent of October, fox hunters all over Alabama are looking forward to the annual gatherings to chase Sir Reynard, which are a traditional part of the hunting season in this state. Several fox hunts already have been held, and others are eagerly being planned. There are a number of regional and county fox hunting groups, and the sport furnishes diversion in the fall and winter months for many people. The Southeast Alabama Fox Hunters Association will hold its annual field trials on October 25, 26, 27, and 28, at the old Dowdell place, 11 miles north of Opelika, and six miles south of Lafayette. A blanket invitation is extended to all fox hunters to attend the event, which will include a bench show, barbecue dinner, and other entertainment. The annual hunt of the Blount County Fox Hunters took place on September 30, October 1 and 2, near Blount Springs, and those taking part reported a successful event.

Hunting Licenses Due

On October 1 all hunting and fishing licenses in Alabama became due, and to avoid possible confusion and embarrassment, hunters and rod anglers are urged to procure these licenses before going into the field or stream. The licenses may be secured at offices of probate judges, and the schedule is as follows:

Hunting — resident; state $3, county $1; non-resident, annual $25, trip, good for seven consecutive days $5.

Children under 14 not required to have license.

Fishing — non-resident, annual $5, trip $2; resident, $1 for persons over 16 using rod and reel or artificial bait, lure or fly in public streams or bodies of water where fresh water fish appear.

Information Wanted

Frequent requests are received by the Conservation Department from out-of-state people for information about hunting and fishing in Alabama, and annually many hunters and fishermen come to this state to enjoy its outdoor possibilities. That Alabama's quail hunting is known far and wide is attested by a recent letter from a business man in Middleton, Wis., who asked for open seasons and license requirements for quail shooting, and indicated that he might come South for a try at the quail.

LIVINGSTON S. T. C. NEWS

Miss Mildred Durbin is among those on the Livingston State Teachers College honor roll for this past summer.

Livingston State Teachers College opened its 55th annual session September 13. Registration was held on Monday and Tuesday, September 13 and 14. An orientation program for freshmen was held on Tuesday to help the first year students to get acquainted with the college. The Y. W. C. A. cabinet took an active part by meeting buses and trains and helping freshmen with their baggage, rooms, and school programs. Classes were begun Wednesday.

On Tuesday night the Woman's Athletic Association had charge of the Y. W. C. A. program. Saturday afternoon the annual Big Sister-Little Sister party was given in the Y. H. C. A. hall. On Sunday night, September 19, the Y. W. C. A. recognition service was held on the lawn in front of Webb Hall.

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

There are few men who can keep their humility and hold positions of power. It is so easy for people to become self-centered. The writer happens to know a prominent statesman who was at one time a very spiritually-minded man. He now shows every indication of having back-slidden spiritually. He has been blinded by power. He doesn't realize his condition. All power comes from God. If statesmen would only realize this, it would make a difference in their attitude toward life. No man could rule for one moment without the permissive will of God. Men may rule without the directive will of God. God is all-powerful. No man could think or breathe were it not for the power imparted by the Omnipotent God.

Years ago in a Southern state there lived an old community atheist. He was a little better read than the average man around him. The atheist used to laugh at God when clouds would be gathering in the sky. He would shake his fist at God and say, "God, kill me because I am an atheist." Then he would laugh and say, "God didn't kill me, you notice." The atheist was so blasphemous Christians hesitated to visit him. One day a cloud was coming up. The atheist's little girl was playing in the yard under a tree. Lightning struck the tree and killed the little girl. The atheist picked up the lifeless form of the child and carried her into the house and put her in bed. He went into a rage. "Why don't you kill a man, you Christian's God? Match arms with a man. You are a wonderful God to kill a little child," he said. Neighbors began to gather. They were preparing to shroud the dead child. The atheist reached down to pick up an axe to cut some wood. An insect under the axe-handle bit him. He died within a few hours of blood-poison. God didn't need a flash of lightning to kill the atheist. All He had to do was to hide an insect under the handle of the axe. How helpless man is! God can hide a germ, that cannot be seen without a microscope, in a glass of water and destroy a human life. Poor, helpless, dependent man! Who are we to strut and boast and defy God? The Bible teaches that we should not say, "Tomorrow we are going to a certain town to do a certain thing." We should say, "God willing, we are going tomorrow to a certain town to do a certain thing."

W. L. Sanders Writes About Farmers' Problems

Editor Union-Banner:

In one of your columns I would like to express my views as well as give some facts about our farming condition.

With 30 years of experience, I feel that I know something about the farming industry. We have thousands of economic thinkers and tinkerers in this great industry, and yet we find the farmers of this nation in a state of bankruptcy. The agricultural problem is yet unsolved, and as long as we retain some of our present farm leaders it will remain unsolved. The policies used, past and present, are inconsistent, and doomed to destruction.

Any system that destroys necessities of life in order to have those necessities more abundantly is unsound; it simply doesn't make common sense.

In 1933 the cotton farmers plowed under 10,000,000 acres of cotton when millions of people were in rags. We destroyed cotton, and at the same time asked the Boy Scouts to gather the old clothes of the more fortunate in order to clothe the needy. Can any sane person say such policies are sound?

Under the AAA the United States cut the production of cotton 26 per cent under the 10 year average. At the same time India increased her production 6 per cent, Egypt increased 18 per cent, and Brazil stepped up her production 216 per cent; Argentina is developing her land for cotton growing. All these countries need capital and labor. The United States is furnishing the machinery. The manufacturers of farm machinery in this country are encouraging the production of cotton in other countries, and at the same time tne administration and 100,000 bureaucrats are encouraging the reduction of cotton in this country.

Since the inception of our curtailment program, our exports have been on the decline, and our imports on the incline. The United States has lost the "balance of trade" not only in cotton but in all other main products of the farm. Let us examine the government records and see if we should curtail production.

Imports

First 10 months 1935	First 10 months 1936
Cotton—pounds— 40,336,000	88,140,000
Cotton cloth— square yards— 53,591,000	89,402,000
Wheat—bushels— 28,227,000	43,799,000
Animals and animal products—value— $61,408,000	$74,748,000

The records of the exports and imports of the United States for the year 1934 in the commodities given, show the following:

Exports	Imports	Times as much
Corn—bushels— 177,382	43,242,290	243
Wheat—bushels— 232,965	38,970,398	167
Cotton seed oil—pounds— 160,423	166,687,367	1,035
Peanut oil—pounds— None	80,723,225

These figures should convince any sane person that curtailment will not solve our problem. The more we take out of production the more the other countries will put in production.

We have been fed the bunk of "overproduction", that the farmers of this nation have produced too many good things to eat and too much of the raw material out of which clothing is made. "Over-production" of the good things to eat and wear is bunk. What we have an over-production of is empty stomachs and bare backs. We also have an overproduction of unemployed and evicted farmers.

What we need to curtail are the crooked politicians, the gamblers on the cotton exchanges, and the speculators through the channels of commerce. To control production will get us nowhere, because we will still be at the mercy of the price fixing group on the big exchanges.

The farmer suffers regardless of the amount he makes. The kind of farm legislation we need is to preserve American markets for the American farmer, and then give him the "cost of production" for that part consumed within the United States. If the farmer can receive pay for what he does, it will not be necessary to pay him for what he does not.

Under the AAA the farmer was made to believe that he was receiving pay for services that he did not render, but the truth of the matter was that he paid for more than he received, with the exception of a favored few.

The farmers were persuaded to believe that the AAA was initiated by the real "dirt" farmers of this nation, but on page 8 of the hearings before the committee on agriculture of the United States senate on H. R. 3835, Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace gave the committee the list of names of those who wrote this bill. Space will permit only the most prominent authors of the bill, as 34 names were given. First, we find the great farmer, Mr. E. F. Creekmore, who labors for the A. C. C. A. at the meagre salary of $75,000 per year. This friend of the farmers helped with the bill.

Mr. M. W. Thatcher, employe of the National Grain Corporation, at a salary of $15,000 a year—this great farmer helped with the bill. Among those of the brain trust who assisted in the construction of this legislation, we find the name of Dr. J. Phil Campbell, director of extension, Athens, Ga.

Here is another group of patriots who rendered valiant service in the construction of this farm relief measure. They are editors of commercial agricultural papers. The prosperity of these papers depends upon the advertising they receive from the big business interests that exploit the farmers. Here they are:

Dr. Tait Butler, editor Progressive Farmer, Memphis, Tenn.; C. V. Gregory, editor Prairie Farmer, Chicago, Ill.; Dan Wallace, editor The Farmer, St. Poul, Minn.; Dante M. Pierce, with the Wallace Publishing Co., Des Moines, Iowa.

There were many more listed as having part in drawing of this bill, but the names just mentioned are sufficient to convince us that farmers were well represented in this wonderful piece of legislation.

The next question is: How did this bill become a law? The Secretary of Agriculture, through the extension services of the various states, through the county agents of the various counties, through the hoard of "yes-men" in the various communities, approved this bill, and told the officials in Washington that the majority of the farmers wanted the AAA enacted into law.

You know the fallacy of the statement as to how the majority of the farmers stood on this proposed legislation. You know the people were promised one thing and received another.

The people who opposed the bill were ignored by the county agents, and the result was the enactment of the AAA into law. The Supreme Court killed the old AAA, but did you know there is a 1937 AAA in Washington ready to be enacted into law as soon as congress convenes? Henry Wallace and the group who want farmers put under a dictator are waging a campaign for the support of this bill. Did you know that every Alabama county is having meetings from October 4 to 9 to discuss the principles of this proposed legislation? Under the county agent's notes there appeared an announcement in the county papers last week that Chilton County would have meetings this week, but did not tell the people where the meetings would be held. I suppose they are hunting more "yes" votes.

The 1937 AAA is being sponsored by the Farm Bureau. The discriminations in this bill are greater than in the one killed by the Supreme Court. This bill makes the Secretary of Agriculture the farmers' distator. This bill will make the big class of farmers rich and the poor farmers paupers.

It is a great pity that many of our honest farmers are led to believe that this legislation is best for them. It matters not what kind of compulsory legislation is enacted, the "allotment plan" will be inserted. This means your income is limited, and that you are a criminal if you make more than your allotment.

Why punish the man who has an income equal to the price of two or three bales of cotton, and at the same time let the speculators in the channels of commerce go unmolested?

Who can call this justice? Another great insult to the farmers is to offer them 3 cents per pound on their cotton for their economic liberty. They propose to use your own money to buy your freedom. Where can justice be found? What has become of the Golden Rule?

Space will not permit me to give my philosophy on all our economic ills, but in later issues I will discuss the policies of some of our fake farm organizations. Let us be careful and not be caught in the snares of those who would destroy us.—W. L. Sanders.

NOTICE TO OFFICERS OF THE CHILTON COUNTY ASSOC'N

To all pastors, church clerks, and chairmen of committees to report at the 1937 annual session of the Chilton County Association:

May we urge you to be making all necessary arrangements for a full and complete session of our body, which is soon to meet with Shiloh church, located about 8 miles southwest of Clanton, on Route 3.

We wish to call to the attention of the churches the all-importance of filling every item possible on your associational letter, also doing it plainly, completely and accurately, but putting all amounts and numbers under their proper headings, that we may have the correct information by whcih to have our minutes printed, thereby giving all churches full and complete credit for the things worked for by them during the year.

Pastors, will you please urge all your churches to pay at least some on the Cooperative Program? May we all pray that we may have a great meeting, to our good, and especially that the Master's name will be very greatly honored in our meeting together.—G. G. Williams, Moderator; S. J. M. Webb, Clerk.

Just a little say Mr. Eritor. We guess that striking editorial, "Political Slavery in the South" was widely read, it was a clincher, unanswerable; it may be replied to, but not answered.

The cotton growers are sure blue these days. We recall that long ago Judge Reynolds said, "that under the administration like the present one, we always reached a period of hard times," so the cotton grower can only economize, retrench, seek the bargain counters, sacrifice luxuries and necessities too. But what if he was to strike.

Our hope is union, vote together, secrifice some of our own cherished ideas for the good of others. Evidence keeps accumulating that our eyes are opening. "Union," should be our slogan, and we guess it will be as we get more of this political slavery, now fastening it's fetters on us. We see no reason or common sense in people bringing handicaps on themselves as we have in Chilton County. The earlier we get rid of the present local inconvience the better.

We just wonder where have all the people derived any benefit from all those government restrictions we have had to endure; then why vote directly or indirectly for such programs.

Mr. T. J. Hubbard has recovered sufficiently to be able to visit his daughter at Cottondale.

State Capitol News

Having served the state and nation for many years as a law maker, soldier, and holder of many executive positions, Gen. Robert E. Steiner stepped out of the political picture last week as chairman of the State Docks Commission, while expressions of regret were voiced by Gov. Graves and many others in high places.

Gov. Graves has temporarily assumed chairmanship of the docks board, and announced he would give long and careful study before making an appointment.

U. S. Senator Dixie Graves and Gov. Graves were among honored dignitaries at Montgomery's open house party last Thursday, the occasion being the 100th anniversary of the city's incorporation. Visitors from all sections of the state joined Montgomerians in the observance, which was climaxed in the evening by dedication of the city's new million dollar city hall.

Operating under direction of the State Welfare Department, recruiting stations were open in various Alabama localities this week to sign up 4,270 young men in the Civilian Conservation Corps. The allotment to Alabama was more than twice the previous number. Enrollment was to be conducted over a period of 17 days from October 4. Of the total number of enrolees, 3,331 are to be white.

The state last week divided $16,000,000 in insurance business among 110 agencies operating in the state. The total represents a gain of about $5,000,000 from school and other construction projects.

Gov. Bibb Graves revealed last week that Alabama's long range highway construction program is to serve as a model for the Argentine government which is about to launch a vast road building program of its own. After six months study in practically every state, the delegation selected the Alabama program as the best, and announced it would be recommended as a model.

Nationally known as one of the South's most effective advocates, Gov. Bibb Graves has become head of a conference of nine governors who have undertaken the job of selling the South to the nation.

Under the title, "We, The Governors," the conference proposes to publicize the South as to its advantages in labor, cheap material, climate conditions, and other advantages. The campaign will be directed by Lawrence Wood Robert, Jr., nationally known industrial consultant. A fund of $500,000 annually for advertising is expected to be raised.

A 4-point objective which the governors will seek for the South was listed as: proper freight differentials, equitable taxes, promotion of friendly labor relations, and cooperation with the federal government in a program of industrial development. Gov. Graves was enthused over the free port zone designation given Mobile, and declared Alabama stands to benefit most under the program.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Alabama farmers and processors are losing $41,000,000 annually which could be kept in the state, according to the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce, which released these figures recently upon completion of a survey.

One of the immediate objectives set out by the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce was:

"To provide in Alabama, to the extent possible, good year-round cash markets for Alabama-grown farm and orchard and garden products—and in so doing 'level up' the income of agriculture and bring up its buying power."

In order to accomplish this, a study of markets and market conditions was begun immediately. This study naturally divided itself into two fields; first, a study of local markets for these products here in Alabama, and, second, a study of the larger consuming markets of the country. Only in this way could it be determined what products should be raised in Alabama for which ready market existed, where the market was, what special type the market demanded, how raded, packed, etc.

Each of you will take notice that the United States of America, by the United States Attorney of the Middle District of Alabama has filed a petition in the United States District Court for the Middle District of Alabama, Northern Division, for the condemnation under the provisions of an Act of Congress approved June 7, 1924 (43 Stat. 653), and under the provisions of an Act of Congress approved August 1, 1888 (25 Stat. 357) of certain lands consisting of 517.57 acres, more or less, situated in the County of Chilton, State of Alabama, of which you may own or have some right, interest, or title thereto.

That the Court has appointed and fixed the 2nd day of November, 1937, as the day to hear and pass upon said petition at Montgomery, Alabama, at 10:00 o'clock A. M.

Said lands being more particularly described as follows:

E. E. Jackson Company, Tract No. 1. T 20 N, R 11 E. Section 14. NE¼ NE¼, situated in Chilton County, and according to survey containing 40.05 acres.

Jefferson Lumber Company, Tract No. 13. T 21 N, R 11 E. Section 16, E½; SE¼ NW¼; SW¼ SW¼; E½ SW¼; situated in Chilton County, and according to survey containing 477.52 acres.

Total, 517.57 acres.

Now, therefore, pursuant to the order of the Court, each and all of the above-named persons, including all persons who are non-residents, and defendants whose residences and places of business are unknown, and all persons who have been absent from the State of Alabama for more than six months next before the filing of said petition, and all persons who have been absent from the jurisdiction of this court for more than six months next before the filing of said petition, and all persons and firms whose addresses and residences are unknown, and all corporations, whose place of business are unknown, and all corporations having no president, secretary, cashier, or managing agent within the State of Alabama, and having no person in the employ of such corporation, or doing business for it in the State of Alabama, upon whom legal process can be served, and all corporations without an agent in the State of Alabama upon whom legal process can be served, and in addition to all of the above persons, all unknown persons, firms and corporations, whoever they may be, or wherever located, whose names, residences, and places of business are unknown, who may have some interest, right, title, or claim of any kind or character whatsoever in and to said lands, or any part thereof, or who may have some interest in this proceeding, are hereby notified to be and appear before the District Court of the United States for the Middle District of Alabama, Northern Division, at Montgomery, Alabama, the place of hearing same, on the 2nd day of November, 1937, at 10:00 o'clock A. M., to contest this proceeding or to make known to the Court any objection, if any they have, to the condemnation of said lands above described, or any part thereof.

Done by order of the Court.

Witness my hand, and the seal of this Court this 22nd day of September, 1937.

Making the grade

Every thoughtful mother recognizes this fact . . . mothers know too that children need help to build and maintain blood strength.

Particularly is this true with those who have suffered some illness or who look pale . . . tire easily . . . are underweight . . . or have lost their zest for food.

S.S.S. Tonic is especially designed to build-up children's health through the red-blood-cells, thus putting them in better condition to enjoy the food they eat and to regain lost weight . . . all which make for greater strength and vitality.

Help your child to "make the grade" by starting him or her on a course of S.S.S. Tonic now. There is no substitute for this time-tested remedy and no ethical druggist will suggest something "just as good."

Census figures show that the population of Alabama has steadily increased since it was admitted as a state. The greatest percentage of increase was during the first 10 years, or from 1820 to 1830, when the increase was 142 per cent. The lowest percentage was from 1860 to 1870, when the increase was only 3.4 percent. The population in 1870 was 996,992. The last census shows it to be 2,646,248 in 1930.

The gasoline tax collected by the state during the first 11 months of the present fiscal year amounted to $11,923,897.01. For the 12 months ending September 30, 1936, the state collected $11,110,275.08. In other words the state has collected $813,621.93 more in 11 months this year than it did in 12 months last year.

Contributions to the Alabama unemployment compensation fund for September are now due, and will be deliquent after October 31. Interest of 1 per cent a month is collected on deliquent contributions.

What's RIGHT with ALABAMA

NAVIGABLE STREAMS MODERN PORTS

FROM Alabama's earliest days, her waterways have played a part in her development. Practically all "cities" of the early history of the so-called "Gulf Country" were visioned on the streams.

Later, the thoughts of men turned toward the canalization of the rivers by means of locks, as in the case of the Warrior River, which now offers an all-water route from the rich coal and iron fields to the ports of the Gulf of Mexico. Others, notably William P. Lay, Coosa River steamboat captain and founder of Alabama Power Company, turned their thoughts to power development, seeing the vision of the gradual transformation of Alabama from a backwoods frontier into the hub of southern industry as the result. Still others, observing the cargoes being moved from shore to ship at Mobile, imagined the Port of Mobile as becoming one of the great gateways of commerce to points on the Seven Seas.

So, today, few states are blessed with a more serviceable system of waterways than Alabama—1,488 miles of navigable streams, three of which have been developed for power production—flowing from the very heart of Alabama's rich mineral regions, through fertile farming lands.

Thus products of Alabama mines, farms and factories may move by an all-water route from deep in the interior, to Alabama's splendid port at Mobile, where facilities constructed by the State Docks Commission constitute one of the most modern and complete port terminal systems in the United States.

Accessibility to consuming markets is today of increasing importance to industrial enterprises. Hence it seems certain that our rivers, ports and railroads which have done so much toward Alabama's development, will play an ever larger role in Alabama's future progress.

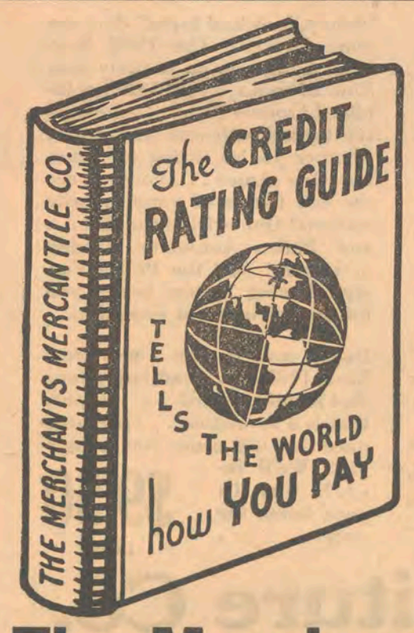
Thos. Wyatt
President,
ALABAMA POWER COMPANY

ENTERPRISE STILL LIVES

Power available to the Mobile area and a large part of Southern Alabama will be doubled by the projected new high tension line of the Alabama Power Company, involving an investment of about $1,700,000.

The announcement is heartening and significant in several particulars.

It shows that despite all the assaults upon it, the power industry in America still lives—and in Alabama, where few, if any, of the broad assaults were justified—may be said to be thriving, alert and enterprising.



This great program, we read, is to be financed out of cash resources, although there is a warning that unless the "unfair competitive condititon" declared produced by the TVA, "is soon changed, the company will be unable to finance the extension of its system to supply power requirements which will be demanded by new industries in many parts of the state."

The announcement further calls emphatic attention to the great potentialities of Alabama's great port area and the almost virgin industrial territory in the southwestern part of the state. The Aluminum Company's recent announcement of a great plant at Mobile and the developments in the paper industry are only forerunners of what is to be.

Incidentally, this power line construction will itself be a strong stimulant to employment and the Alabama market for many materials.

The enterprise principle still is strong in America, however dormant it may have seemed to some to be.

Y. W. A. ELECTS OFFICERS FOR 1938

A business meeting of the Y. W. A. was held at the home of Mrs. Jakie Teel Monday night. The meeting was opened with devotional being read by Gertie Fiquette, after which she gave an interesting talk on China. Miss Fiquette presided over the election of officers. The following new officers were elected:

President, Willie Maude Kelley.

1st Vice President, Dorothy Manning.

2nd Vice President, Mary Charles Larrimore.

3rd Vice President, Mary Frances Duke.

Secretary, Euna Powell.

Treasurer, Gertie Fiquette.

Reporter, Mary Charles Larrimore.

Associate teacher, Sarah Mullins.

Chairman of Telephone Committee, Lucille Taylor.

After the business meeting a short social meeting was held. Mrs. Agnes Powell Lowe was given a kitchen shower. She received many useful gifts.

PARENTS - TEACHERS TO STUDY SAFETY

The October meeting of the high school Parent - Teachers Association will be devoted to a study of safety. Mr. J. T. Searcy has prepared a program including a moving picture showing many phases of safety education. Mr. Earl Hearne of Montgomery is bringing some material belonging to the American Legion that carries the lesson of being safe. This material will be shown on the Program.

In this day of congested highways, fast motor cars, and many other factors that make life and human welfare uncertain, a study of safety and devices that promote safety is very timely. Every patron and friend of the high school, in fact everyone interested in the education of our people, are cordially invited to attend this meeting.

There is a membership drive on, so bring 50 cents for dues, and join the organization.

If you have not visited the high school this year, then make it a point to attend this meeting Tuesday afternoon, October 12, at 3:15 o'clock. The officers and members of the Parent-Teachers Association will be delighted to have you present at this meeting.—Mrs. S. J. Ezell, Chairman Program Committee.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Jadie Mims on last Wednesday, September 29, a baby girl. They have named her Ann Elizabeth. Both mother and baby are doing nicely.

Mrs. Otto Jones Entertained For Visitor—

Mrs. Otto Jones entertained with two tables of bridge at her home Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, honoring her house guest, Mrs. Dean Ashley, of Akron Ohio.

The games were played on the porch, and at the conclusion of a series, the prizes were awarded. Mrs. Dick Hayes received high score prize, a beautiful piece of pottery. Mrs. W. E. Huddleston won cut prize, also a piece of pottery. The honoree was presented a lovely gift.

HIGH SCHOOL FACULTY ENTERTAINED LAST WEEK

Miss Geraldine Hollis and Mr. and Mrs. John Hollis of Mitchell Dam were hosts last Wednesday evening when they entertained the Chilton County High School faculty with a Mexican buffet supper.

The long table in the dining room was artistically appointed with red cloth, and large colorful sombreros filled with fruits and red peppers. Miniature sombreros held burning tapers that gave an effective glow to the gaily colored Mexican dishes.

The double sun rooms were decorated to represent a Spanish patio. Large softly lighted urns, filled with tall grasses, and baskets of flowers overhung small tables with place cards, to carry out the Spanish atmosphere. Games were played, and prizes were Mexican hats.

The invited guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Hicks, Mr. and Mrs. Searcy, Mr. and Mrs. Mullins, Mr. and Mrs. Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. Varnell, Mr. and Mrs. Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Alred, Mr. and Mrs. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Spicer, Mrs. Kimmey, Miss Simpson, Miss Ward, Miss McRee, Miss Cook, Miss Morton, Miss Blackshear.

Guests of Mrs. J. R. Mullins and Mrs. Hugh Foshee last week were: Mrs. Thornhill and Miss Marguerite Hill, of Monroe, Louisiana.

Miss Mary Newell and Miss Ruth Gowan, of Alabama College, spent the week end in Clanton in their respective homes.

Mr. Garland Foshee was a visitor at the state fair Tuesday.

Dr. and Mrs. John Kimmey and sons, left Friday for Pinckard, where they were guests of Mrs. Kimmey's parents.

Singing Convention Held Last Sunday

The Chilton County Singing Convention held its regular fall session last Saturday night and Sunday, both periods proving to be a grand success. The weather was unfavorable, and several other hindrances prevailed, but the convention was a success just the same.

Visiting quartets and singers were: Southernaires, Prattville quartet, Minzo C. Jones trio, Mr. P. B. Steel from Coosa County, and Johnnie Stamps from Birmingham. Also contributing to the program were the Burkhalter quartet and the Devaughn quartet.

Officers were elected for the coming year, as follows: Chairman, W. M. Devaughn; Vice Chairman, Akins I. Collins; Secretary - Treasurer, T. E. Wyatt. The chairman has appointed the following to serve as Executive Committee: Joe Calloway, A. H. Glasscock, Marion W. Easterling, Joseph E. Varner, and A. B. Stanley. The chairman and vice chairman are ex-officio members of the executive committee, which will be called into session at an early date.

The purpose of the executive committee is to arrange all business of the convention, including the place and date of its regular and special sessions.

The members of the committee are asked to be on the alert at all times for anything that will contribute toward making the convention a greater success in the future, and to make every effort to attend the meetings of the committee when called.

NOTICE! FARMERS' MEETING!

In compliance with a request made by P. O. Davis, director of Alabama Extension Service, I am calling a meeting at the following place to discuss the 1938 adjustment program on Thursday, October 7th, 1937, at the New Wadesonian Theater, Clanton, at 10 o'clock a. m.

This meeting is for the purpose of getting suggestions from you as to what kind of a program you want in 1938. It is important that every producer, and others who are interested in cotton production in Chilton County, attend this meeting.—J. W. Fant.

VATCHEL LINDSEY RETURNED

Vatchel Lindsey returned home on Tuesday afternoon, after spending nine weeks with relatives and friends in Coosa County. While away he visited at Fayetteville and Weogufka, attending several family reunions and birthday parties.

Mr. and Mrs. Osmond Middleton of Montgomery, were her for the week end.

Mr. Jack McKinstry spent the week end in Birmingham as a guest of his parents.

VERBENA TO PLAY ISABELLA NEXT FRIDAY AFTERNOON

After losing to Chilton County High School last Monday, Verbena will go to Isabella High Friday afternoon, October 8. The Verbena team is composed almost entirely of new men, but expect to make a much better showing again Isabella. This game is expected to be tight, and you are invited to come out and see the boys scrap it out.

SCANNING THE HORIZON

In a recent speech on his Western tour, President Roosevelt announced that he "expects" to have the federal budget balanced by the next fiscal year. This is the sort of news that, a few decades ago, according to the style of journalism then in vogue, would have been heralded as "important, if true".

An element of humor was injected into the situation by press reports from Washington quoting Secretary Morgenthau and Federal Reserve Board Chairman Eccles, on this budget-balancing question. These gentlemen are quoted as believing that Uncle Sam should get out of the red "even if new taxes are necessary to do it". Of course, Mr. Morgenthau and Mr. Eccles, and all of us, know full well that if this country ever gets rid of the debtor's millstone hung around its neck by the New Deal, it will be only through more taxes and still more taxes. With the public debt standing at the stupendous figure of $36,800,000,000, it requires no Eccles or Morgenthau to opine that we will never get from under it except by such sweat of the taxpayer's brow as has never before been dreamed of. Unless, of course, the government should follow the course that many serious minds have feared, and repudiate its debts, like a drunk repudiating a check when he sobers up.

Sen. Byrd of Virginia rather pungently remarked that the only way to stop spending money is to stop writing the checks, and recently urged Mr. Roosevelt to act economy rather than talk it. The Virginia senator pointed out that the government is spending $7,500,000 a year for its "regular activities", as compared with only $3,000,000,000 in 1929 and 1930, during its most prosperous period.

Speaking of taxes, it is already reported that Secretary Wallace favors another "processing tax" on cotton. This means robbing Peter to pay Paul, with the burden ultimately passed on to the consumer in the form of increased price of the manufactured article. Alabama farmers cherish some sad memories of the Bankhead Cotton Act, when it took a Philadelphia lawyer to figure out how to sell a bale of cotton without running afoul of some of the innumerable red tape regulations thrown around the transaction.

There has been a lot of comment in the papers recently about the downfall of Tammany Hall, as result of the New York City election. The truth is that poor Tammany turned out to be a bunch of pikers, as compared with the super-Tammany outfit that is running the country. Tammany Hall may be on the wane in New York, but men trained in its schools are applying its tactics on a scale never imagined before. After all, what is the comparatively petty plunder of New York City when you have millions to squander from coast to coast and from Canada to Mexico? Tammany has merely been superseded and outdone at its own game.

Begins to look like Alabama Democrats may be limited to a choice between Hill and Heflin, for a successor to Sen. Black. We do not know much about Hill, except that he belongs to the school of thought that contends that Mr. Roosevelt is always right, even when he is wrong. We do know that Mr. Hill has pledged to vote for the wages-and-hours bill, and also to go along with the president on the court question. We do not know just how he stands on the anti-lynching bill, but since he is running as a 100 per cent Rooseveltian, and since Roosevelt leaders have backed that measure, we assume that he is for it also.

Tom Heflin has already served in the senate. In many respects he fell short of the qualifications of an ideal senator. He is a good deal of a demagogue, and he has in the past allowed unfortunate obsessions to make him rather ridiculous, and go far toward destroying his usefulness. At the same time, no one has ever accused Tom of being a political coward, however much they may have disagreed with him. He shows again that he has convictions and courage, by coming out against the Black-Connery bill and the court-packing scheme. With all his faults, no one has yet accused him of signing a blank check and turning it over to someone to fill out, in return for their support.

Of course, there is still plenty of time for another man to enter the arena, as the entries do not close until November 1.

DRYS HOLD LEAD IN AUTAUGA COUNTY

Prattville, Ala., Oct. 5.—With only two of its boxes not yet reported, Autauga County tonight had apparently voted to retain its dry status in a local option referendum showing a "dry" majority of 241 votes.

County officials said the two missing boxes would return dry majorities. Both are in the rural area of the county, and were to report Wednesday morning.

Prattville, county seat, showed a wet majority of 21 in two boxes.

On March 10, this year, in the statewide referendum, the county voted dry by a margin of 86 votes. On that date 1,136 voters went to the polls, and 610 of them voted dry, while 526 voted for repeal.

Mrs. J. H. Heflin of Moulton, Ala., was the guest of her son, Mr. Grady Heflin and Mrs. Heflin the past week end. She was on her way to Greensboro.

COUNTY CALF CLUB BOYS WON HONORS AT STATE SHOW

A number of Chilton County boys attended the calf showing in Birmingham Tuesday of last week. Both individually and as a county group, the boys won fine recognition from the judges in the show; the total amount of money being won by the group and the boys being $144.

Among the boys attending were: Charles Popwell, Howard Martin, Ned Dennis, Billy Moore, Herbert Dennis, Henry Lawrence, W. B. Crowe, Jr., Ed Miner, Quinton Kelly.

County agent J. W. Fant carried a load of the boys up to Birmingham to take part in the contests.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Ashley of Akron, Ohio, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Jones.

Dr. and Mrs. Sam Johnson of Pensacola, were here Sunday. Mrs. Johnson remained in Clanton on account of the illness of her mother, Mrs. Harper.

Miss Callie Watts was in Montgomery last Thursday.

Third Man In Race For U. S. Senator

Tuscaloosa, Ala., Oct. 7.—There will be a third candidate in the race for the United States Senate seat vacated by Hugo L. Black, and he will run on a platform pledging determined opposition to federal wage-hour fixing and court packing.

This was disclosed this week by William L. White, Tuscaloosa safety engineer, who was a candidate for lieutenant governor in 1930 and is widely known in political circles. Mr. White announced that the dark horse candidate, whose name was not immediately revealed, would file his qualification papers before entry lists closes November 1.

"I have definite information," said Mr. White, "That this dark horse will enter the race against ex-Senator J. Thomas Heflin and Congressman Lister Hill, and wage a vigorous statewide campaign. This candidate will be an aggressive young business and professional man who has been quietly surveying the situation for some weeks. In this survey he has found, according to his statement, that there is a widespread demand for another candidate. Many thousands of Alabama Democrats, he declares, are determined not to be forced into a choice between Heflin and Hill. Strong assurances of support from every section of the state have been given the dark horse, who already has visited 38 counties and who gives assurance that he will make his formal announcement as soon as he completes his swing through the other 19 counties."

While Mr. White did not intimate that he was the "dark horse" candidate in question, it is a well known fact that he is being urged and solicited by many friends throughout the state to make the race.

Mr. White's statement that a third candidate will enter the field before November 1 stirred new interest in the senatorial campaign and caused wide-flung speculation as to the identity of the "young dark horse."

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Easterling and daughter, Dean, were in Birmingham Tuesday and were visitors at the state fair.

Mrs. Spurgeon Calloway and Mrs. Otis Miller attended the state fair in Birmingham Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Horsley White and daughters, Misses Thelma and Essie White, were in Selma Sunday. Mr. White attended a sales meeting.

DON'T MAKE THE SAME MISTAKE TWICE
THIS TIME, USE . . .
CONCRETE

EVERY STREET—business or residential—that has developed bumps, ruts or chuckholes, cries for repaving with concrete.

Don't let the old mistakes be made again. Concrete is smooth, safe and clean—and stays that way through decades of hard service.

Concrete actually costs less than any other pavement of equal load-bearing capacity—and costs far less for upkeep. It saves motorists money by reducing car operating expense. Its non-skid surface is safe to drive on night or day, wet or dry. Its cleanliness and attractive appearance improve property values.

Urge your public officials to use concrete when they pave your streets.

YOU KNOW IT'S SO

The notion is constantly spread that President Roosevelt is a man of marvelous ability and a politician of unparalleled skill. It may be so. We pose this question: Were the subsidies to cotton, the WPA and PWA allotments, the "relief", withdrawn and the new offices abolished, how many supporters would remain to him in South Carolina? Had he balanced the budget the last two years several congressmen in South Carolina would have deserted him. He may be a man of great ability, but there is no measure to apply to him, for the reason that no other president in time of peace has spent any sum comparable with the 35 thousand millions of dollars that his administration has spent in less than five years. He has increased the public debt to the tallest peak in history, the period of the World War not excepted. He may be a man of surpassing mentality, but any man, however dumb, who, with a congress trading with him, could have gotten his clutches on one-fourth the money that the Roosevelt administrations have had to scatter would be esteemed "the greatest president of all times." You know that's so.—Charleston News and Courier.

PAYING THE BILL

The disclosure that the federal government took in $612,000,000 in liquor taxes during the calendar year 1936 underscores the extent to which repeal of the 18th Amendment has contributed to the solution of the nation's fiscal problem. It also suggests by implication the degree to which the treasury is still dependent upon indirect levies for the wherewithal with which to pay for the New Deal's expenditures.—Baltimore Sun.

They've named a peak in Colorado for Franklin D. Roosevelt, and intend to "dedicate" it some time next summer, but a Denver Post columnist suggests that it may be late, as he suspects Roosevelt passed his peak early this summer.—Goodland (Kan.) News.

WE DON'T NEED BACKERS

Word comes from Paris that France is ready to "back" the United States in any action it may take over the bombing of an American liner by Chinese planes.

Thanks a million.

The United States doesn't need backing by France or any other country in looking out for its interests in the Far East.

And it would be in much more comfortable position today if countries in Europe, which are so ready to get behind it, would get out in front of it instead, and stop trying to push it into a war from which they would profit while Americans absorbed the grief.

Apart from a common interest in an early ending of hostilities in China, American interests in the Orient are not sufficiently identcal with those of any other country to justify our ceasing to hoe our own row.—Detroit Free Press.

NO PEACE YET

When the scheme to "pack" the Court was defeated only a few weeks ago, the people of the nation assumed, with some reason, that the long fight over the proposal had ended. Now they are warned it must still go on despite their victory. First at Roanoke, now directly from the White House, the president has served notice that he will not be content until he has gained his objectives. The consequences of his decision are incalculable. Already the fight in the recent session has destroyed his effective political leadership. Already it has split his party in two. Already it has deeply aroused public opinion, creating suspicions and stirring fires that ought, in all conscience, to be put down as speedily as may be. Even so, the president, consulting his own damaged pride, has decreed that peace is not yet to be. The responsibility that he has assumed is tremendous.—Hartford Courant.

National Affairs

(By FRANK P. LITSCHERT)

The September break in the stock market, which in its severity seemed to be remindful of 1930 and 1931, has been diagnosed by various experts in many different ways. In some quarters it has been maintained that the extraordinary volume of selling which forced prices down almost to the low of 1936 has come from Europe—that the people across the Atlantic are disposing of American securities. Other sources have attributed the slump to the war scare abroad. Probably there is something in both of these contentions, but the reasons for the continued slump must be deeper than this. A keen financier who has been studying the markets for years gave this explanation of the slump to the writer recently:

"The decline in the markets in September to the point where the April, 1936, lows were threatened is due in the main to our fiscal policies during the past year. First came the 1936 boom, followed by the 1937 recession. In the fall of last year many corporations who had good earnings, distributed their entire surplus in the way of dividends to avoid the surplus profits tax. This looked good in the financial reports published in the newspapers. The unprecendented dividends seemed to foreshadow even greater prosperity and the value of stocks was marked up.

"Then came the morning after. The strikes and wage adjustments caused higher costs and lessened profits, together with increased consumer resistance. This year it became evident that the excess profits were going to dwindle. Many corporations found their reserves for expansion depleted because of the excess profits law, and their immediate profits dwindling because of higher manufacturing costs which include, of course, higher taxes as well as higher wages. The public gradually came to realize that there would not be so much melon-cutting in the fall and winter of 1937. There was a rush to sell and the experts said that declining securities were 'discounting a slump in business this winter'. Higher manufacturing costs and a prospect of still higher taxes in the future—this is the real reason for the slump in the value of securities."

If this explanation is a valid one, and it certainly sounds reasonable, then the natural question is: When can we expect a real correction? The answer, of course, is in hands of fate. Temporary splurges are likely, but it does not seem that there can be a real correction until economy at Washington succeeds extravagance, and there is a promise of a real balancing of the budget which will stop the threatened increase in taxes and of manufacturing costs through inflationary tendencies. With our national debt mounting higher, costs increasing and greater taxes in prospect, a real boom doesn't seem to be in the making just now.

Of course, there is a lighter side to the picture. The farmers of the nation are blessed with bountiful crops, and due to the world-wide shortage of the past year or two, prices are still good. Buying power released in the agricultural sections of the country ought to make many bronches of business good this winter. It is to be hoped that in this respect we will not be disappointed. This prospect, however, does not obviate the necessity for real constructive effort at Washington.

A CHALLENGE TO THE SOUTH

It becomes increasingly evident that if government, as visioned by the fathers of the American republic, is to survive, and if faith in the men who wrote the federal Constitution is to remain undimmed, the old-line stalwarts of Democratic faith in the South must reassume leadership and steer the party ship away from the shoals of socialistic experimentation.

Democrats of the South have given greater allegiance to President Roosevelt than to any president since Cleveland. They have hailed his broad program of benefits for the submerged portion of the population because of the great humanitarian principles it embodied. They agree wholeheartedly in the objective of social security for all and a fairer division of the comforts of life.

But they cannot, and should not, condone abandonment of the fundamental principles of the American form of government, regardless of the objectives sought. There are ways to gain the ends desired in full accord with the limitations of the Constitution, and Southern Democracy will support with all its strength a program that sticks to this rule.—Atlanta Constitution.

HISTORY RE-WRITTEN

The WPA re-write boys in Washington appear to have produced a work of art in "Massachusetts, a Guide to Its Places and People." It may be less a Guide than communist editorializing, but it has all the elements of surprise, suspense, tragedy and unconscious humor that make interesting reading. It affords further evidence that in Washington, history is not only made, but re-written, amplified, and even distorted to suit political requirements.—Springfield Union.

New Jersey fruit growers are shaving the fuzz off of peaches for finicky purchasers. May be all right, but we don't want any sissy peaches in ours, at least not that kind of peaches.

Things certainly do happen in American politics. Who would have dreamed a month ago that the Klan would be a national issue again before Thanksgiving?

If the government ever goes into the business of building and operating chicken ranches, we are expecting to hear that the eggs cost 15 cents per unit.

President Roosevelt recently sharply criticised Lord Macauley for statements he made a long time ago, and it is said that some of the boys want to take Mac over to the next Jefferson Island picnic and see if they can't sweeten him.

The government of Costa Rica has held that a Spanish postage stamp bearing the likeness of Gen. Franco is no good. Doubtless they would approve one coming from the United States bearing a picture of Santa Claus.

The British would be willing to avenge the unfortunate wounding of their ambassador to China if it took every United States battleship and marine to do it.

DANGEROUS FREEDOM

Red freedom in Russia is apparently the freedom to be butchered for thinking independently, just as the red freedom in the United States is apparently the freedom to be battered to death for daring to prefer to keep a labor contract rather than joining the Lewis soviet. It is impossible to retain patience with people who, while reducing law to anarchy and making a shambles of peaceful cities, have the insanity or the roguery to talk of the chaos of capitalism. Followers of Sir Stafford Cripps are well advised to realize that parlor bolshevism in this country is the first step toward the gangster tyrrany now being blatantly displayed in Russia and America with results affecting the comfort and security of millions of families all the world over through the consequent disruption of trade and the reversal of recovery.—London Dispatch.

The society is composed of sophomores in the University School of Medicine. At the end of each year five per cent of the members are elected to a life-long honorary membership in the society.

J. W. Newman, Dean of Men at the University, and Wilbert Jordan, former president of the University Y. M. C. A., will be among the principal speakers scheduled to speak at the state Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. state conference for white colleges, which is set for October 8, 9 and 10 at Camp Mary Munger.

Compulsory school attendance and frequent quizzes are most welcome to Miss Marjorie Baker, who has returned to the University of Alabama after 14 months at the University of Heidelberg in Germany.

After going to school where class attendance is at the student's will and where professors seldom give examinations more often than every third semester, Miss Baker says, "it is good to be back where instructors make you come to class and keep your work organized with frequent quizzes."

Miss Baker studied anatomy, organic chemistry, physiology, surgery and urology while she was at Heidelberg. Next year she intends to enter a medical school.

First class elections of the year on the University campus were held last week.

Complete slates of officers in all classes were picked by the College of Arts and Sciences, the School of Commerce and Business Administration, the School of Home Economics, the College of Engineering, the School of Medicine, and the School of Chemistry, Metallurgy and Ceramics.

Alabama will play hostess to an invading South Carolina football team Saturday at 2 o'clock in Denny Stadium in the third game of the season for both theams.

Tilden Campbell, Tide backfield coach, scouted the Gamecocks in their initial start and reported that they flashed a good team with a polished passing attack and four dangerous backs.

U. S. MARINE CORPS TO TAKE IN NEW MEN

A recruiting party for the U. S. Marine Corps will be at the post office in Selma, Ala., from 9 a.m., October 12, to 5 p.m., October 13, to interview and examine young men for enlistment in the marine corps.

Applicants must be white, single, 18 to 28 years of age, 64 to 74 inches in height, must have satisfactorily completed at least one year in high school, or its equivalent, be of good moral character, and in excellent physical condition.

Young men who qualify will be transported to Macon, Ga., for enlistment. Those enlisted will be transferred to the Marine barracks, Parris Island, S. C., for training.

The Alabama Department of Agriculture has started blood testing work for farmers wishing to enter the National Poultry Improvement Plan next year. Farmers may receive full details about this work by writing R. B. Jones, poultry inspector, State Department of Agriculture, Montgomery.

Approximately 200 University students participated in the Pontiac Varsity Show which went over the NBC blue network to 71 stations last Friday night.

As a rule, boys read more in general and delve into serious works to a greater extent than do girls.

This is the conclusion of Miss Alice Wyman, head librarian of the University, who has watched "library goers" at Alabama since 1913.

JUST FROM SHOULTS

No news again. Farmers had three weeks of sunshine, but cotton still in the fields. Charles Walker has quit fishing and gone to killing snakes. I guess he will be killing squirrels in a few days. He is always into something. He leaves a gap down so he can get out. He reminds me of Louis Easterling—when he is not at work you will see him in Clanton. He has got to where he is not afraid of the sheriff. I would set a trap for him if I knew what kind of bait to use. I am going to use North State smoking tobacco on him. Well, when it quits raining I will come again.—Uncle Remus.

SINGING AT ALPINE ON SECOND SUNDAY IN OCT.

There will be a singing in the old books at Alpine the second Sunday in October. All singers and lovers of the old songs are invited to attend. Alpine is located between Pletcher and Plantersville.

C. C. H. S. PARAGRAPHS

— By "KALUTE" WYATT —

"TIGERS" SWAMP VERBENA

The season opens for C. C. H. S. with a 33 to 0 victory over Verbena. Each team played a good game.

The old "Tiger" spirit is back at the C. C. H. S. again. Most of the old players seemed to be pleased with the way the boys were able to carry the ball.

Verbena fought hard to hold the line, but were unable to do so. Little "Bucky" Armstrong played a good game until he received a broken arm, and had to be taken out of the game. "Duck" Williamson also played a good game, running 70 yards for a touch down. The other boys played a fine game, unfortunally it rained most of the last quarter.

The outstanding players for Verbena were "Big-un" Calloway and "Bitsy" Barrett. Both of these boys played exceptionally good games.

Come and see the Tigers go against Wetumpka.

Injured Player

Unfortunally "Bucky" Armstrong received a broken arm in the game last Monday. We are sorry this happened. All were betting on "Bucky" to show some real football blood, but as it is we give him credit for doing his part in the game Monday.

OLD TIME FIDDLERS CONTEST

The Jemison F. F. A. is sponsoring an old-time fiddlers contest, Friday night, October 8th, at the Jemison High School Auditorium. All fiddlers are invited to compete for prizes.

Admission will be 10 cents and 15 cents.

Chestnut Grove

Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Nabors visited relatives in Birmingham last week end and attended the state fair.

Mr. J. R. Hall took a crowd to the county fair on a school bus last Wednesday.

Mrs. Gladys Woods and Misses Clarisse and Wilma Lucas spent the week end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Lucas.

Mr. J. R. Hall was in town Saturday on business.

Rev. Horace Nabors will fill his regular appointment here Sunday at 11 a.m. Let's all come and hear him.

MRS. HALL TYUS BURIED

Funeral for Mrs. Mary Ann Tyus was held Tuesday at 2:30 p.. m., at Mt. Pisgah with Spigener directing. Mrs. Tyus, age about 45 years, died at Woodlawn Hospital, Birmingham, following an operation.

Survving are her husband, D. H. Tyus of Clanton; two sons—Burton and Hall, Jr., of Clanton; two daughters, Mrs. Murrah Martin and Miss Sarah Tyus of Clanton; one brother, H. D. Headley of Clanton; three sisters—Mrs. Bessie Hand and Mrs. Aulsie Payton of Clanton, and Mrs. Emma Davidson of Birmingham; her mother, Mrs. Adaline Headley of Clanton.

MT. CREEK CITIZEN DIED IN BIRMINGHAM

Fred Henderson, age 39 years, died in a Birmingham hospital last Friday. The body was brought here and prepared by Martin; the funeral was held from the home in Mt. Creek at 9:30 Sunday, conducted by Revs. Rogers and Goss. Burial was in the Greenwood cemetery, Montgomery.

Pallbearers were: Batson Culver, Pierce Culver, Paul Culver, Rolland Culver, Charles Dennis and J. W. Hand.

Lesson for October 10

THE CHRISTIAN IN GOD'S KEEPING

LESSON TEXT—Jude 1-4, 17-25.

GOLDEN TEXT—Keep yourselves in the love of God, looking for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto eternal life.—Jude 21.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Why David Sang.

JUNIOR TOPIC—In God's Keeping.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Keeping Oneself Christian.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Safe in God's Keeping.

To be born is only to begin life. The years which stretch out before with their growth, their struggles, their joys, call for courageous living.

So it is with the Christian. He is a "born one," as we saw in our lesson of last Sunday. But when he is born again he is just ready to begin the Christian life.

The Epistle of Jude sheds much light on the dangers which beset the Christian's pathway and exhorts him to holy living and sacrificial service. It opens with a description of the Christian and closes with an ascription of praise to God. It reveals the Christian as one who is

I. Called in Christ (vv. 1, 2).

The entire Trinity is seen to be active in our redemption (See Revised Version). Jude writes "to them that are"

1. "Called"—The Holy Spirit calls men unto salvation.

2. "Beloved in God the Father"—for God is love.

3. "Kept for Jesus Christ"—until he appears.

II. Living for Christ (vv. 3, 4, 17-23).

As Jude began to write of the "salvation" which he had in "common" with his readers, the Holy Spirit moved him to deal with a very urgent and vital problem—the hostility of wicked men toward the gospel of Christ, and their efforts to destroy "the faith." The Christian life includes

1. Contending for the faith (vv. 3, 4). "The Faith" is the body of revealed truth, the gospel, the good news of redemption in Jesus Christ.

The world hates the gospel, and attacks upon it are to be expected, but the most insidious assault is that of those within the church (v. 4) who profess to believe in Christ. Against them and their destructive work Christians must "contend earnestly," at the same time praying that they may be delivered from their sin and its terrible judgment (vv. 15-16).

2. Observing the times in which they live (vv. 17-19). Some folk seem to think that being a Christian means entering into a place of security and rest and promptly going sound asleep. Far from it. The Christian, knowing God's Word, is keenly alert to the dangers of this ungodly world.

3. Keeping their own souls (vv. 20,21). The best defense is a vigorous offense. The way to contend against error is to build up one's own faith by the study of God's Word, by communion with his children, but above all by prayer "in the Holy Ghost." And above all there will be an abiding in the love of God and a looking for the fulfillment of the mercy of Christ at his coming again.

4. Saving the souls of others (vv. 22,23). Soul-winning is (or should be) the normal expression of the Christian's life. It is his crowning joy. It most effectively counteracts error and worldliness. It builds up the church. Why not do it?

Note that there are two types of sinners to be rescued. Some are "in doubt" (R. V.), needing tender and careful instruction. Others are in grave danger, and must be rescued by drastic reproof and decisive action. Soul-winning is urgent business.

III. Kept by Christ (vv. 24, 25).

The doxology at the close of Jude has been a haven of comfort and assurance for God's children throughout the centuries. Hither have come the strong in faith to rejoice and praise God. Here has been found the strengthening of faith by the fearful and trembling soul who had not yet learned that he may fully trust God. These verses present two truths.

1. Assurance. Our Saviour is able to keep us from falling, yes, even from "stumbling" (R. V.), and to present us "faultless" "without blemish" (R. V.), with exceeding joy, before the glorious presence of God.

2. Worship. Such a God and Saviour is indeed worthy of the outgoing of every Christian heart in adoration and worship.

Work and Wait

Haste is not always speed. We must learn to work and wait. This is like God, who perfects his works through beautiful gradations.

Greatness of Trifles

"Commit thy trifles unto God, for to Him nothing is trivial; and it is but the littleness of man that seeth no greatness in a trifle."

Sabbath Days

Free Ferry Wanted

In as much as the people of Chilton and Coosa county are paying a very heavy tax on gasoline, and since we have a good road from Clanton to Rockford, the writer believes that we should have a free ferry across Coosa River, instead of having to pay a toll of forty cents each time we cross the river.

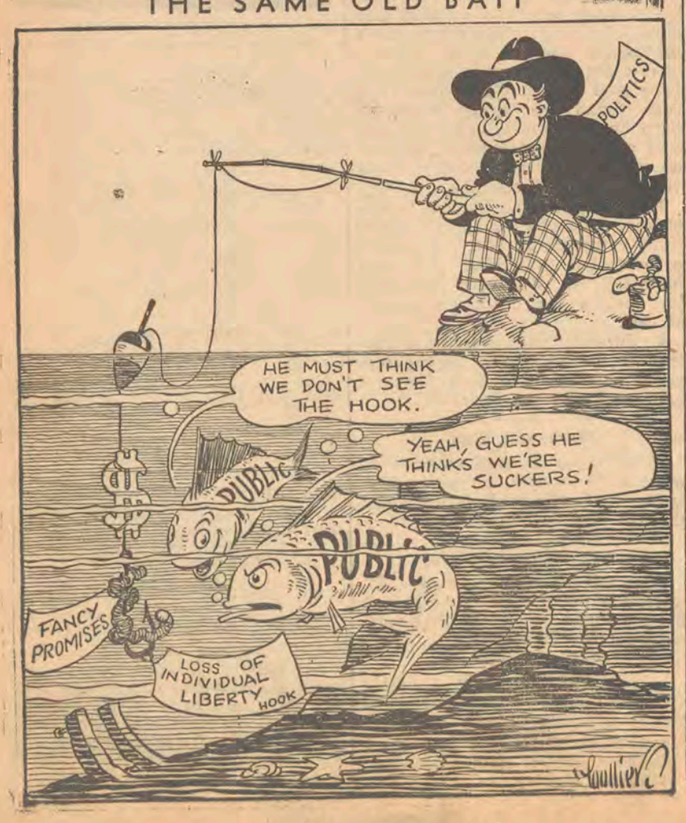
As it now stands if we go to Coosa County, or if someone in Coosa County comes to Chilton County, it costs them eighty cents to cross the river, this eighty cents just about ruins a dollar bill.

During the month of August the tax on gasoline amounted to more than $11,000 for each county of the state.

If Coosa County and Chilton County will join in the expense of operating a free ferry it will not cost the counties but very little.

A financial report of road operations in Chilton County for the months of May and June of this year, showed an expense of about $900 for labor and $2,200 for supervision and office expense. As a citizen of Chilton County, the writer feels like he received very little benefit from this expense of $2,200 for read supervision and office help.

The writer has conferred with Judge Winston Stewart of Coosa County, and Judge Lee Smith of Chilton, and we are glad to state that each judge is in favor of having a free ferry.



The writer is taking this method of asking the citizens of each county to talk with their commissioners about a free ferry.

Most people know that Chilton County now has several thousand people who at one time lived in Coosa County, and in as much as most of the people in each county has cars or trucks, it is perfectly natural that people would like to visit their friends and relatives pretty often, but they do not like to ruin a dollar crossing the river, in addition to paying such a high gasoline tax.

Most of us had rather have a bridge across Coosa River, but since we cannot get a bridge right at this time, a free ferry is the next thing to a bridge.

Permit me to again request you Coosa County people to talk with your commissioners about this matter. Judge Smith of Chilton County tells me that Chilton County is now ready to get busy.—Chas. Cooper, Mountain Creek, Ala.

HOW ALABAMA FARMERS CAN IMPROVE FARMING

Aubu n, Oct. 2. — There is plenty of room for Alabama farmers to expand and improve agriculture within Alabama, says P. O. Davis, director, Alabama Extension Service, in calling attention to the amount of products produced and the amount farmers of the state ought to produce.

As prepared by F. W. Gist, well-known agricultural statistician, we give the following statistics on the Alabama agricultural situation.

Produce	Should Produce	Per Cent
Meat, pounds—
263,000,000	397,000,000	140
Milk, gallons—
134,424,000	250,000,000	186

WAYS TO KILL PEACH TREE BORERS GIVEN

Auburn, Oct. 2. — The best way to control the peach tree borer on trees 4 years of age and older is to apply paradichlorobenzene around the tree trunks in the fall of the year, advises W. A. Ruffin, horticulturist of the Alabama Extension Service.

The material should be applied October 1 to 10 in North Alabama, October 5 to 15 in the Central part of the state, and October 10 to 20 in South Alabama, says the Alabama Experiment Station. It is very important that the material be applied at the dates recommended. For trees 4 to 5 years old 3|4-ounce should be used per tree, while on older trees 1 ounce should be applied.

To apply this material, remove all stones and trash from around the base of the trees and level the soil, but do not dig it up. Apply the proper amount ni a continuous band about 1 or 1½ inches from the trunk. Several shovelfuls of soil, free from trash, should be placed over this, forming a mound, and packed. On 4- and 5-year-old trees this mound should be torn down at the end of 4 weeks, while on older trees it should be removed in 6 weeks. After tearing down these mounds, the soil around the tree trunks should be leveled.

Trees under four years of age can be treated safely by the parodichlorobenzene - cottonseed - oil - emulsion method. Two pounds of paradichlorobenzene is dissolved in 1 gallon of cottonseed oil, 1 pound of fish-oil soap added, and the mixture stirred well; after this it is emulsified by pumping twice from one container to another. One-half pint of the stock emulsion is then mixed well with 7½ pints of water, and ½-pint is used for 1- and 2-year-old trees, or 1 pint used for 3-year-old trees. The emulsion should be applied directly to the base of the trunk, and the soil mounded around the tree as in the band method.

POULTRYMEN ORGANIZE FOR BETTER BREEDING

Auburn, Oct. 4. — Alabama poultrymen have organized the Alabama Poultry Breeders Inc., and launched a long-time poultry breeding project to improve Alabama's home, farm and commercial breeding flocks.

F. G. Bridges, Notasulga, is president, while E. R. Jamiecon of Greensboro, Ben Marshall of Mobile, C. V. Shell of Chapman, and E. W. Norris of Montgomery, are directors.

P. O. Davis, director, Alabama Extension Service, has agreed for the poultrymen to use the egg laying section of the poultry plant at Auburn for carrying out the breeding project. Plans are at present being made for this to be done.

Cooperation of the State Department of Agriculture in this project has been assured by R. J. Goode, commissioner of agriculture. John E. Ivey, extension poultryman, also will assist the poultrymen with the project.

FARMERS OF MID-WEST VISIT ALABAMA FARMERS

Auburn, Oct. 4. — Approximately 135 farmers of 12 mid-West states visited Alabama and other Southern states during the past week to ascertain what the AAA program has done and is doing for Southern agriculture.

They came to Montgomery from Louisiana by special train and were carried from Montgomery to Auburn by automobiles. They visited farms in Montgomery, Elmore, Tallapoosa, Macon and Lee Counties, and were greeted by some 500 Alabama farmers during their visit.

After leaving Alabama they visited Georgia, Tennessee, and other states and made a tour of the Tennessee Valley area.

Three crops — black locust, kudzu, and slash pine — are proving important factors in erosion control in Alabama. At Greenville, the Soil Conservation Service planted almost 1,700,000 trees and vines on a 25,888-acre tract.

Tuscaloosa County 4-H club boys will have the advantage of an agricultural library in each club this year, announces C. E. Teague, assistant county agent.

JEMISON F. F. A. NEWS

The Jemison Chapter of F. F. A. has been very active during the past month. The chapter was host of the Chilshellauga district on the night of September 21. They served chicken stew, cake and lemonade.

The chapter initiated 17 greenheads. They held a chilean nitrate of soda guessing contest. The boys that have the demonstration are Gaston Williams and Hobson Cost.

They are sponsoring a Fiddlers Contest on the night of October 8th, at 7:30 o'clock. The admission will be 10c and 15c.

The chapter won the first prize of $50 at the Chilton County Fair. They had a very nice booth of agricultural exhibits.

They have one candidate for American Farmer Degree.

PEANUT DIVERSION PROGRAM FOR 1937 ANNOUNCED BY AAA

A program to maintain prices to peanut growers for their 1937 crop by diverting a portion of the crop to oil and by-products was announced today by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

The diversion program authorizes regional associations of producers, recently organized to carry out the program, to pay the following prices for farmers' stock peanuts grown in 1937:

The associations will buy 1937 farmers' stock peanuts directly from producers at these prices. All prices are for peanuts delivered to the association warehouses.

Growers in Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Mississippi may sell to the Georgia-Florida-Alabama Peanut Association, Camilla, Ga.

The associations will divert the peanuts from markets for out-of-hand eating and manufacture of peanut butter and confections, and sell them under contract to crushing mills for production of oil and by-products.

If demand for edible consumption develops, the associations may sell part of their supplies back into the edible trade. Under the terms of the program the AAA offers to reimberse the associations for losses from diversion purchases.

No state is required to enact unemployment compensation legislation, but without such a law a state's unemployed wage earners would not obtoin unemployment benefits, and its employers would be required to pay taxes on pay rolls nito the federal treasury.

J. D. Samford of the Alabama Extension Service has started a study of the operation of terracing outfis in each Alabama county in an effort to secure information to be used by the county agents.

ALABAMA HEALTH DEP'T

Montgomery, Oct. 4. — From the point of view of mouth hygiene, it is the brush, and not the dentifrice, that is most important, Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, pointed out today in urging people to consider more seriously the effect of decayed teeth and diseased gums upon general health.

"The dentifrice merely acts as a lubricant for the brush," he said. "In selecting it, a person should be sure that it contains no acid or gritty substance and, to insure that feeling of mouth comfort and cleanliness which is one of the functions of the good dentifrice, the one selected should have a pleasant flavor.

Dr. Baker added that the gums should be brushed as carefully as the teeth, especially by those following the present day tendency toward eating of soft food, which requires little chewing, and therefore robs the gums of the stimulation they need.

"Neglected, unbrushed gums in time become flabby and soft, bleed easily, and fall victim to various forms of infection, which, if not checked, may result in the loss of the teeth," he warned.

POLL TAXES IN OTHER STATES

There are 10 of the 48 states that make the payment of poll tax a prerequisite to the right to vote. All of these except Rhode Island are in the South. The Rhode Island law differs from the poll tax laws of the other states, as it contains a provision that by taking the "pauper oath" a person can vote without paying his poll tax. The states that make the payment of poll tax prerequisite to voting, in addition to Rhode Island, are Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, and Virginia.

In Alabama there are 1,348,401 people in the voting age, that is, over 21 years of age; of this number 401,140 are negroes, and 947,261 are whites and could vote if all poll taxes were paid. From this number, of course, would be deducted inmates of insane hospitals, and persons who have been convicted of felonies. This state cast only 275,743 votes in the presidential election in 1936. This was only 20.4 per cent of all persons, including negroes, in the voting age, or less than 30 per cent of the white population over 21 years of age.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Rally day plans were such a success we hardly know how to begin this week to tell you about it. Maybe you were there and saw and heard for yourself. If you were not there maybe some one who was there has told you about it. Any way, we had a good crowd in spite of the weather, and if you missed any part of the program, we feel that you missed something fine. The church appreciates the efforts made by each person contributing to the success of the day.

If you were precented from rallying with us last Sunday, we hope you can and will rally with us next Sunday, and regularly henceforth. May this rally day be but the beginning of a continuous rally in our Sunday school and church.

Our pastor preached two good sermons, sermons powerful with holiness last Sunday to audiences of gratifying numbers.

Come, hear our preacher, not sometimes, but all the time. Help him to help yourselves.

Don't forget to be in your regular places next Sunday at 9:45 a.m., for Sunday school, at 11 a.m., for preaching service, and again at 7:30 p.m., for another preaching service. Bring your friends with you.

OLD BOOK SINGING

Don't forget the all day singing at Alpine church, 4 miles west of Pletcher on the second Sunday of October, the 10th. Everybody is invited to come and bring along your old books, and if convenient, a well filled basket of something to eat. We hope to have a great day, singing praise to God.—J. N. Scott. 9-30-2t

Beware Coughs from common colds That Hang On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

100,000 CLUB VOTES FREE!

WITH EVERY CLUB OF $10.00 IN SUBSCRIPTIONS TURNED IN

Bear in mind that the Second period Vote Schedule goes out of effect Saturday night, October 9. One 5-Year Subscription with club counts 250,000. If new, 150,000, or a total of 400,000 votes. A dozen 5-Year Subscriptions can count up to 4,800,000. Second payments or extensions given during first and second periods will count big. One 4-Year extension, if new, counts 430,000. A dozen new 4-Year extensions with club can count to 5,160,000 votes. . . . . Grand Prizes Within Reach of All—Wake Up, Candidates! Do your best now, during the next two days! Time is flying fast! Hustle is the keynote!

Time Is Short --- Hurry If You Want To Win!

SOMETHING TO REMEMBER!

SECOND PAYMENTS—Second payments on subscriptions given early in the campaign count for thousands of votes while the second period schedule is in effect. Contestants should keep in mind the fact that second payments on subscriptions will not count for extra votes later in the campaign. The next few days is the time to benefit by the Second Payment schedule.

NEW SUBSCRIPTIONS—During the Second Period 30,000 extra votes are allowed for each year on new subscriptions. It should be remembered that this extra vote ends at 6 o'clock p.m., October 9th.

The Second Period Vote Offer, the biggest of the remainder of the campaign, ends Saturday night, October 9th. The 30,000 extra vote offer ends on the same day at the same hour.

100,000 EXTRA VOTES are given away with every $10 worth of subscriptions, new or old. As close as the race for the big motor car stands, much importance is attached to results obtained while the big Second Period Vote schedule is in effect. The next few days subscriptions will count for almost double the number of votes that they will in the final week of the campaign.

THIS IS THE LAST CHANCE candidates have to secure big votes. For this reason the winning votes for automobile can be and no doubt will be gotten during this period.

Five year subscriptions will count up to 200,000 votes these next few days. It will pay to work. Bonus on new subscriptions is extra.

A wonderful opportunity is presented for new candidates and late or slow workers in this Special Grand Competition for the $50 Cash Special.

There is no excuse for you now. Here's an extra $50 in cash waiting for you. You start on even terms with everyone else. Remember, a new worker can enter and win the extra $50. What a new worker can do a present entry can do. You can win two prizes.

Several names have been dropped from the list this week. They may be reinstated if they wish to work for the extra prize of $50 cash to be awarded for second and third period. It is hoped that it will not be necessary to drop any more names from the list, but instead, there will be several more added.

HOW THE $50 WILL BE AWARDED

To the candidate turning in the greatest number of points in subscriptions to The Union-Banner during the Second and Third periods, from Saturday, October 2, which is now in progress and closing Saturday, October 16, will be given this $50.00 in cash. Points on subscriptions turned in on this special offer will be given as follows:

FROM SATURDAY, OCTOBER 2, TO 6 P.M., SAT., OCT. 9

Each 1-year subscription, new or old	2 points
Each 2-year subscription, new or old	5 points
Each 3-year subscription, new or old	7 points
Each 4-year subscription, new or old	15 points
Each 5-year subscription, new or old	25 points

FROM 8 A.M. MON., OCT. 11, TO 6 P.M., SAT., OCT. 16

Each 1-year subscription, new or old	1 point
Each 2-year subscription, new or old	3 points
Each 3-year subscription, new or old	5 points
Each 4-year subscription, new or old	10 points
Each 5-year subscription, new or old	15 points

Regular votes on larger prizes to be credited as usual. This offer is extra and separate from the big prizes first announced. Subscriptions secured before 6 p.m., Saturday, October 16, have really a double prize value.

Entirely new candidates have the same chance of winning as those entered. If you have been thinking of entering this campaign, do so now! Never again will you have such a two-fold opportunity of making real money in just your spare time.

All Grand Prizes including the $50 will be awarded Oct. 23.

T. L. McKEE WRITES TO PEOPLE ON REGISTRATION AND POLL TAX

To the people of Chilton County:

The Constitution of the State of Alabama of 1901, and the amendment of woman suffrage of 1920, provided that a person, to be a legal voter, must register and pay a poll tax of $1.50 each year from 21 years to 45 years of age. The law sets out a specific time in which the poll tax must be paid, and that time is from October 1 to and including February 1.

If you become of age before October 1 you are due a poll tax for that year; if you become of age after October 1 you are not due a poll tax for that year.

The Board of Registrars will be in session this month for the purpose of registering those who have become 21 since the last registration, as well as those who did not register, and those who have moved nito the county and have not registered. So let me advise that you meet the board and register, and then let me insist that you pay your poll tax and prepare yourself to be a qualified voter so that you can have an equal say in the government and the officers who enforce same.

I konw of no greater act that you can perform for yourself than prepare to cast a ballot. I would especially like to appeal to the young voters of this county to register and pay your poll tax this year, and keep paying it each year, and it will never be a heavy burden, and you will never be deprived of casting a vote of your choice in whatever presents itself.

We will have several important elections next year. One will be held in January, and for you to vote in this election it will be necessary for you to pay your poll tax this year, since, as I understand it, the election will be called January 9, 1938. I am sure that most all of you would like to cast your vote in that election, since a U. S. senator is to be nominated.

We have in the way of election several of our county officers and most of the state officers to vote for in the primary and in the November election. I feel sure that all of you will be very much interested in electing the best qualified man or woman for the office to be filled.

Thanking you for your indulgence in reading this, and trusting it to be worth your while, I am, Yours very truly,—T. L. McKee.

MILT TOLBERT SHOW TO STAR "LASSES" WHITE

Black Face Comedian In Stellar Cast Here Saturday, October 9

Memories of another day when the Al G. Fields minstrel roamed the nation will live again on Saturday, October 9, when the Milt Tolbert tent show plays in Clanton. headlining a cast of 75 performers will be "Lasses" White and his partner in comedy, "Honey Boy" Wilds.

The team wrote a new definition of black face comedy when they toured the circuits with Al G. Fields, and later with Neil O'Brien. In more recent years they have entered every American home via the radio in "Lasses" White's own minstrel, "Lasses and Honey".

With them will be other nationally known radio artists in persons of Uncle Ezra "Slim" Williams and his Barn Dance Revue, featuring such stars as the Cannon Sisters, Red Jenks and his magic trumpet, Stan Stanley, and Wyley Kilpatric the dancer.

The show also includes a 10-piece orchestra, a chorus sparkling with beautiful girls, 15 vaudeville acts, "Lamoaa" and her troupe of tropical dancers whose act has been hailed throughout the nation as the true interpretation of native Hawaiian dances and songs.

With seating capacity of 3,500, the Milt Tolbert show is the largest in the nation under canvas, travels in a fleet of specially built trucks, and carries its own light plants. It will show on the lot next to the Thomason Hotel. Doors open at 7 p.m., and the show starts at 8 p.m.

LARGE CROWD SEES WOOD CHOPPER AT MURRAY-BELL'S

Between two and three hundred people attended the wood chopping contest at Murray-Bell Hardware Company Tuesday at 2 o'clock. An amateur contest was held to determine the contender against the Plumb champion. Winning this contest was Preacher Davis.

Preacher Davis required four minutes and 15 seconds to cut the log in two—a green pine log about 16 inches in diameter. The man representing Plumb axes cut it in two in one minute and 10 seconds. That was some cutting.

West Chilton Citizen Buried Last Sunday

Was Former Tax Collector, Serving 13 Years Back In Late Nineties And 19 Hundreds

Many older citizens of Chilton County were saddened last week end to learn of the death Friday of Thomas J. Hubbard, for thirteen years tax collector of Chilton County, and for more than half a century one of the leading citizens of Chilton County. At the ripe old age of 84, Mr. Hubbard departed this life at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Lloyd Young, at Tuscaloosa.

Interment was in the Macedonia cemetery, near his old home in the western part of Chilton County, following the funeral there Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. Maurice Hodgens conducted the services, Spigener of Tuscaloosa directing.

Surviving, besides his second wife, is one son, Raymond Hubbard of Birmingham; three daughters—Mrs. Lizzie Collum, Mrs. Lois Sims, and Mrs. Lloyd Young. There are a number of other relatives scattered all over the county.

The Union-Banner is touched with emotoin to report the passing of this good man and sterling citizen. He was a friend of this paper if we ever had a friend, always lending his aid in every emergency and extending help whenever he saw that help was needed. We, as well as hundreds of others, will really and truly miss Uncle Tom Hubbard.

There will be a fiddlers convention at Billingsley High School, Friday night, October 15th. It is being sponsored by the P.-T. A. First prize $5.00, second prize $2.50. Other cash prizes will be offered.

Admission will be 10c and 20c.

FIDDLERS CONVENTION AT COLLINS CHAPEL

There will be a fiddlers convention at Collins Chapel schoolhouse on Friday night of this week, October 15, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Coffee and sandwiches will be served. All musicians are invited to attend and vie for the prizes to be offered. Proceeds will go toward the piano fund.—Herman Lecroy.

WALNUT CREEK

The 4th Quarterly Conference of Clanton Circuit Methodist Pretestant Church, will convene at Walnut Creek church Sunday, October 17th. All of the officials are urged to be present.

Lunch will be served at the church.

YOUNG MAN INJURED IN WRECK

Theo Wilson, son of Justice of the Peace J. L. Wilson, was brought to Central Alabama Hospital Sunday night about 7 o'clock by Martin's ambulance. The young man was suffering injuries sustained in an automobile wreck which happened on the bridge at Verbena. He was released from the hospital Monday morning.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to acknowledge with sincere thanks the kind expressions of sympathy from our many friends during our recent bereavement. Especially do we thank Dr. Franklin and Martin & Sons.—Mrs. J. A. Duncan and family.

REPUBLICANS, REGISTER NOW THROUGH DECEMBER

The Union-Banner again wishes to call to the attention of the Republicans of Chilton County the importance of our young voters registering during the next few weeks. The Board of Registrars will begin registering on Thursday, October 14, at the courthouse. Voters may register either when the Board is in session at the courthouse or while they are in your respective beat.

If you know of a young Republican, or one who has recently moved into your beat, impress upon him or her the importance of registering and getting qualified to vote.

CHILTON COUNTY COTTON REPORT

Census report shows that there were 11,499 bales of cotton ginned in Chilton County from the crop of 1937, prior to October 1, as compared with 12,163 bales ginned prior to October 1, crop of 1936.

Kiwanis Had Guest Last Thursday P.M.

The Clanton Kiwanis Club had a very prominent man of the state as its guest speaker last Thursday night at its weekly meeting, in the person of Hon. John M. Ward, secretary of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Ward spoke most interestingly on Alabama and its industries.

Some interesting figures were given about our own native state, which we ourselves know very little about. Mr. Ward pointed out that 87.5 per cent of our population of 2,815,000 were actually born within the confines of Alabama; 99.99 per cent of our population are American citizens by birth; and 72 per cent of the state's population is rural, whereas the national average is only 44 per cent.

But here is a regrettable point mentioned by Mr. Ward. With our large percentage of population living on the farms, there is a total of $41,000,000 spent by Alabamians every year for stuff that we could raise in Alabama but do not. This is where we fall down. This last fact should be indelibly written on the minds of our people, and we should strive courageously to overcome at least a part of this economic defect. We might profitably cut down on our cotton a little and raise more of the things we have to buy. Think it over.

Meeting This Thursday Night

At the regular weekly meeting this Thursday night, the guest speaker will be Miss Edith Green of the county educational department; her subject will deal with the work of the schools and the attendance officer. The meeting will be held at the Thomason Hotel.

Mr. John C. Page is the local director for the Chamber for Chilton County.

MANNA! MANNA!! MANNA!!!

Congress has left behind it another new "high" in the national debt of more than $36,000,000,000. During the entire session no concrete move was made in the direction of economy. Instead, another mortgage was laid on the future, heavier shackles placed on the opportunities and welfare of coming generations.

The pity is that our contemporary log-rolling, pork-barrelling politicians will not be in office when the day of reckoning arrives, to be scorned and hated for the spineless profligates that they are for squandering today the as-yet-unearned savings of the citizens of tomorrow. No, luckily for them, they will not be around, and they know it. That is why they are living in luxurious dissipation now, and doing their level best to educate the American public to the idea that extravagance is a virtue.

For seven years now the country has been rolling in a drunken welter of spending. For seven years staggering public deficits have been incurred annually. No one seems to know, and few seem to care, where this mad orgy is leading the nation. Nothing is more insidiously deadly than a national spendthrift policy. Before it the heritage of high character, freedom and protection for the individual citizen, can ultimately be swept away.

Aside from this spending, little darts have been shot against the sins of a few of the big taxpayers. Some of them are just, others unjust. Hidden in the government one can find much immorality, too. Perhaps as soon as the few sins of the big tax payers have been expiated, the multitudinous sins of the army of tax-eaters will receive some attention.—The Mobile Post.

THE TRAP

The Leader Celebrating 18th Anniversary Of Merchandising

Opened Doors Here In Clanton During October, 1919, As The New York Store, Manas and Lande, Proprietors. Store Has Had Very Rapid Growth

TIGERS GO TO TALLASSEE FOR GAME FRIDAY NIGHT

The Chilton Tigers travel to Tallassee Friday night for a game with Tallassee's Red Raiders. This will be the first game for the locals under the lights. The Raiders are said to have one of the best teams in this part of the state; Chilton will again be the underdog. But you never can tell—they might upset the apple cart again, just as they did last Friday against Wetumpka. The Aggies were doped to win, you know, yet they bit the dust, and that little thing could happen again. If Chilton comes through with a victory Friday night, we might be calling them champion upper-setters, or something. If you want to see our plucky Tigers really under fire in a big way, make the trip with them Friday night. They will appreciate hearing a few cheers when they lug the leather, and they will no doubt make you feel proud of the old Orange and Blue.

DR. TOY WILLIAMS AT BAPTIST CHURCH

In the absence of Dr. Ezell, who is in Attalla holding a revival, Dr. Toy Williams of Shanghai, China, will fill the pulpit at the Baptist church at both hours next Sunday. Dr. Williams is a native of Chilton County, and a man of wide experience. The general public and his many friends over the county are urged to hear him, both at the 11 o'clock hour and at 7:30 at night. Dr. Ezell will be in Attalla until October 21, assisting Rev. E. B. Eddington in a series of meetings at the Baptist church.

COBB SISTERS AT RANDOLPH

Announcement is made that the Cobb Sisters will be at Randolph on Friday, October 15. Admission 10c and 20c.

A good program is expected, and you are urged to attend; the program will be given at the schoolhouse.

On October 23, 1919, there appeared a three column six inch adv. in The Union-Banner, which started off: "Announcement of the Opening of The New York Store, carrying a Complete Line of Ladies', Men's and Children's Furnishing Goods, also Shoes and Hosiery." The next week the space was increased to three columuns by 11 inches, and a slogan coined: "Clanton's New Ready-To-Wear Store." This adv. said: "We have the latest styles of the season and our goods must be satisfactory. We have come to Clanton to stay."

Thus began a business establishment whose name has become a family byword to the people all over Chilton County and adjoining neighborhoods. The Leader, M. Lande, proprietor, is known from one end of Chilton County to the other, and is always associated with high class merchandising, true values, satisfaction, and all such similar phrases. This is a reputation to be proud of—extending over a period of eighteen years.

This week The Leader is celebrating its birthday by offering what it terms "Hot Shot Specials — The Treat's On Us — We Are Among the Disappointed — Souvenirs Absolutely Free Opening Day," Etc. Large 12-page circulars are being mailed to most every home in the county, and a large adv. in this week's papers is proclaiming the good news, as it were, from the house-tops.

If this might be termed a day of exceptions, surprises, and the like, then The Leader is completely in step with the procession, or maybe it is a few jumps ahead.

When you receive your copy of the big birthday catalog from The Leader, look over it carefully; also take particular note of the messages in their adv. in this week's paper. You will certainly not lose anything by doing so, and you are liable to gain by it.

SUBSCRIPTION CAMPAIGN IS MARKING TIME THIS WEEK

Will Run For Two Weeks After This Week

The manager of The Union-Banner's subscription drive got married last Sunday evening, and he and his happy bride are honeymooning this week. For this and other good reasons, the third period of the campaign has been extended one week. Therefore, the contenders for the prizes will be permitted to work an extra week; there will be two weeks of the drive after this one. So, everyone make good of this extension by pushing subscriptions every bit we can; and let us appeal to our friends to help us out.

There will not be another extension, but the prizes will be given away on Saturday, October 30th.

ADULT UNION ORGANIZED AT CLANTON BAPTIST CHURCH

A Baptist Training Union, or adult union, has been organized at Clanton Baptist church, and will hold its first meeting Sunday night at 6:30 o'clock.

The adult members of the church are urged to attend the first meeting next Sunday night, and help get the union started off in grand style. Be present and on time—6:30 o'clock.

After spending several months in the United States studying the highway systems of the various states, engineers from the Argentine believe Alabama has the best system, and will use it as a model to set up a highway system for that South Amercan country.

SPECIAL FLOUR SALE ON AT YELLOW FRONT STORE

An advertisement from the popular and attractive Yellow Front Store of Clanton, appearing in this issue of the Banner, is listing many grocery and other bargains.

Of special interest in the advertisement is the attention created by a big flour sale on at that store now. D. L. Blackketter, manager of the Yellow Front Store, stated that they have some most attractive prices on flour there now. See the ad for futher information.

Captured Big Still At Lilly Hill Oct. 1

The force of deputies of Sheriff Hardy brought in a big still from Lilly Hill community, near the south county line on Friday morning, October 1st. The officiers report that they had been at the still the latter part of the night, and two negro men came to it and fired up just before daylight the next morning. When the officers flushed, the negroes fled.

The still was brought to the county jail. It was a 120-gallon copper outfit; 15 barrels of beer were destroyed, together with about one gallon and three quarts of whiskey. No arrests have been made yet.

NOTICE

I have been requested to announce that there will be a meeting of all Farmers Union members who are interested in buying Austrian winter peas, vetch and seed oats. This meeting will be held at Thorsby next Saturday, October 16, at 1:00 p.m. Be sure and come. We have some good prices. — Gresham Smith, Assistant County Secretary.

HOME MAKERS SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS

The Home Makers' Sunday School Class of Clanton Baptist Church will meet at the home of Mrs. Grady Taylor Friday night of this week, October 15th, at 7:30 o'clock, for the regular monthly meeting. It is being held at night for the benefit of some members who work in the day time. All are urged to attend.

TAGGART-GRAGG

Mr. and Mrs. L. Taggart of Tuscaloosa announce the marriage of their daughter, Sara Clyde, to Mr. Thomas Albert Gragg, of Clanton, Saturday, October 2, 1937.

PORCH-BRADDY WEDDING

On last Sunday afternoon at 6:00 o'clock Mrs. Loraine L. Porch of Sylacauga was married to Mr. Henry R. Braddy of Birmingham. The wedding, which a few close friends attended, was held at the Methodist parsonage, Rev. Branscomb pronouncing the nuptial rites.

Mrs. Porch is active in music and club work, taking considerable interest in church activities. She enjoys a large circle of friends and admirers in her home town of Sylacauga.

Mr. Braddy is in special newspaper work, having been doing this kind of business for the past twelve years. This work has taken him into all parts of the country.

Mr. and Mrs. Braddy are making their home in Anniston, Ala.

Chilton High Defeats Wetumpka 6 to 0

Tigers Outweighed Average of Ten Pounds To Man, But Outcharge Opponents For Decision

Outweighed by at least 10 pounds to the man, from end to end, as well as in the backfield, the rejuvenated Chilton Tigers outcharged and outfought their larger rivals from Wetumpka last Friday on the local field, to gain a well-earned 6 to 0 decision.

The Tigers were rated the underdog, running far under the Aggies in size and weight. In addition to this, the Tigers were handicapped with injuries. Melton was ailing with a sore leg, and took part in only a few plays; Punk Johnson, too, was ailing with a sore arm and shoulder, but did yeoman duty at his fullback post; Bucky Armstrong, plucky little halfback, was out completely with a broken arm, and will likely not see service again this season, certainly not until the last game or two. However, the Tiger line was charging like demons possessed, and time after time hurled the heavier Aggie line back, opening the way for Tiger backs, or tearing through to throw their ball-toters for losses.

Littlejohn and Reynolds looked fair at the ends, taking care of the end runs in pretty good shape; at tackle, Aldridge and McDowell were bucking much heavier men, McDowell's man weighing 225 pounds, but they were important parts in a stone wall defense; Ware and Jones put up the same old Tiger fight at guard, and little was the yardage gained through them; Red Mims held down the pivot post in his usual good form; Red goes in for a lot of heated conversation with his opponent, and then backs up all his threats with real action; Red is making a good center.

While the Wetumpka team was fast and large, they didn't seem to put as much spirit into their play, and appeared a bit over-confident until late in the game, and then, with the Tigers fighting like fiends, there was nothing the Aggies could do about it. Chilton registered 11 first downs to 3 for the Aggies. In the second quarter, after missing two good scoring chances, Williamson took a reverse around his right end, gathered terrific speed, shook off three tacklers, stiff-armed another, and churned 11 yards over the pay-off stripe standing up. After that the Tigers fought only to protect that slim 6-point margin, and did.

There was much fumbling during the afternoon, with both teams about splitting even on this. Twice Chilton had touchdown drives halted by fumbles, while the Aggies lost the ball by fumbles twice inside Chilton's 30-yard line.

Local fans were much impressed with the play of the Tigers against this larger team, and many were the words of praise for Coach Spicer's charges. Our people are beginning to turn out to watch these plucky lads, too. All the world admires a fighter, and these Tigers certainly live up to their name.

Follow these boys—they're not so large, but they have what it takes in grit and determination; that goes a long way toward winning any kind of fight. The boys are under a competent coach, too—"Bull" Spicer is drilling real football training into those boys. They are coming to know football—they are proud of their team, jealous of that goal line, determined to keep it uncrossed if it is humanly possible. In short, they have the fight in them, and Coach Spicer is drilling the training into them—that's a real football team, and don't let anyone tell you differently. Just come out and see for yourself! Watch for announcements of future games.

THEY REALLY SING AT TITUS

The editor of the Union-Banner with his wife and daughter had the rare pleasure of attending the anual all day singing at Titus last Sunday—that is, the afternoon part of the program. It was among the best singings we have ever had the pleasure of listening to and taking part in. Those Coosa and Elmore people really put something into their singings, and they put them over in grand style. They do not make a shindig affair of them, as is the case some times, but they sing with a worshipful spirit, and everybody tries to make everybody else have a good wholesome time.

Judge Posey, of Prattville, was present, and made a short and impressive talk near the close of the services. It is a pity that we do not have more public men and officials of Judge Posey's calibre and type, whose hearts are warmed and softened by strains of sweet music, and who enjoy congregating with their friends and constituents in such gatherings as that at Titus last Sunday. If we had more officials who were also men of God, like we believe Judge Posey is, we woul' have different conditions in this great State of Alabama and our glorious nation; God will make things come out right where His power is recognized; but where man leaves God out and tries to run things by his own streng h, he soon finds three is something lacking. That is what is causing most of our economic and social troubles today—too many of our leaders and officials are trying to run things with their own steam and leave God out. We will only run into the rocks when this is attempted—that is as sure as night and day.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

FARMERS TOLD TO PLANT FOREST SEEDLINGS NOW

Auburn, Oct. 11. — The season for planting forest tree seedlings is just around the corner, and farmers should be making arrangements to secure the necessary planting stock for planting under the Soil Conservation program, or to simply convert poor land into profitable acres and prevent erosion.

The state nursery is the only hope as a source of trees this year, and they have agreed to furnish pines, black locusts and other species at 80 cents to $1 per 1,000, advises Lylt Brown, Alabama extension forester.

Your county agent will assist you in making application for trees and give you information and care of the trees. See him at once.

PUBLICATION TO NON-RESIDENT

The State of Alabama, Chilton County. Circuit Court In Equity. No. 1446. October 11, 1937. S. H. Rollins, Complainant, vs. Cora Lee Rollins, Defendant. Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of Percy M. Pitts, attorney for Complainant, that the Defendant is a non-resident, and that her place of residence and post office address is unknown, and that such address cannot be ascertained after reasonable effort; and, further, that in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant is over the age of twenty one years:

It is, therefore, ordered by the Register that publication be made in The Union-Banner, a newspaper published in the County of Chilton, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring her, the said Cora Lee Rollins, to plead, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 15th day of November, 1937, or, in thirty days thereafter, a decree pro confesso may be taken against her.

Done at office in Clanton, this 11th day of October, 1937.

6-POINT COTTON PROGRAM OUTLINED BY SECRETARY

Auburn, Oct. 11. — Secretary Wallace outlines a 6-point cotton program that he believes will give cotton farmers the greatest income from cotton.

After describing the program as a "middle course" between two extremes of limiting cotton production to domestic needs and unlimited production, Secretary Wallace suggests the following points:

1. Continue such moderate adjustment of production as would preserve and build up the fertility of the soil and still allow production of at least as much cotton as the markets of this and other countries have been accustomed to take.

2. Greater consumption of cotton in ways that would raise hte standard of living of all our people.

3. Provide for an increased production of home food and feed crops.

4. Serve notice to the world that the United States intends to keep its place in the world cotton market and supplement the market price with payments to cooperating farmers on an allotted cotton production goal.

5. Provide authority for loans to prevent price collapse.

6. Provide authority for marketing quotas on the entire crop, to be used after a referendum of producers in time of emergency as a further protection against disaster from crushing surpluses.

FARMERS ADVISED TO CORRECT DISCOLORATION OF TURNIPS

Auburn, Oct. 11. — It often happens, especially with the fall-sown crop, that turnips develop a distinct internal discoloration. When cut lengthwise, general areas of brown tissues appear, and while the roots are edible, they have lost that clear, white color characteristic of a high quality product.

This niternal discoloration is due to a deficiency of boron, says Prof. L. M. Ware, head of the horticultural department of the Alabama Experiment Station. The trouble may be corrected by the application of a very small quantity of this element, he advises. Approximately 10 to 15 pounds of borax to the acre is sufficient. This material may be mixed with the fertilizer and applied at the same time the regular application is made, or used as a very light side application.

Mr. and Mrs. Grady Heflin had as their guest recently Mrs. J. H. Heflin of Moulton, Ala. Mrs. Heflin was en route to Greensboro.

Mr. and Mrs. Reese Mullins and Mr. Ed Mullins were recent visitors in Troy.

FARM WOMEN PLAN HOME IMPROVEMENT PROJECTS

Auburn, Oct. 11. — Many Alabama farm women are planning a 3- to 5-year home improvement program to be financed by contributions from their husbands and by sales of miscellaneous farm products on curb markets.

Nell Pickens, economist and home management specialist of the Alabama Extension Service, is working with the women in formulating their plans. The work has already started in 16 counties, including Clarke, Escambia, Butler, DeKalb, Lamar, Pickens, Geneva, Houston, Crenshaw, Perry, Tuscaloosa, Blount, Lauderdale, Conecuh, Limestone and Montgomery, and will startin others soon, says Miss Pickens.

In addition to the women repairing their own homes and home grounds, many of them are joining in community and county projects of improving the storage of clothing and foods, in screening their homes, and improving health conditions.

GIVE THE PINES A CHANCE!

The presidential proclamation setting aside the period October 3-9 as National Fire Prevention Week is a timely reminder to citizens of the Southern states of the importance of mobilizing every means at the command of public and private interests to keep fire out of the woods. The South has a vast stake in forestry. Its pine woods are growing in importance with the expansion of markets for their products in the paper development, the brisk demands for lumber and naval stores, and the base materials for feeding these industries are far too valuable to be allowed to go up in smoke.

Joseph C. Kircher, Southern Regional Forester of the U. S. Forest Service in Atlanta, says that effective fire control is the basis and essence of forestry, and that state and federal foresters and other organized agencies have united in a concentrated drive to secure adequate forest fire control. Due to this effort, there are now in the Southern region more than 80 million acres of forest land under organized protection through the cooperation of the U. S. Forest Service and the southern state forestry commissions.

FARMERS ADVISED TO SELECT LAYING HENS

Auburn, Oct. 11. — Alabama poultry producers are advised by John E. Ivey, poultry specialist of the Alabama Extension Service, to make final selection of hens for their laying flocks.

The selection of breeding stock, Mr. Ivey says, should be based on (1) early maturity, (2) rate of laying, (3) non-broodiness, and (4) persistence of laying.

SERIOUS COTTON SITUATION FACING SOUTHERN GROWERS

Auburn, Oct. 11. — In working out national legislation for solving the knotty problems facing southern agriculture, farmers and agricultural leaders must consider a number of factors in the cotton situation. As outlined by Secretary Wallace, the South is faced with the following conditions:

1. Increased domestic production due to a moderately increased acreage and a greatly increased yield — a prospective 16,000,000-bale crop produced on 34,000,000 acres.

2. Increased foreign production following a consistent long time trend — total foreign production, 19,000,000 bales, or 8,000,000 bales more than 1932.

3. Increased domestic consumption and increased foreign consumption to the highest levels in history, but lagging behind domestic and foreign production. Domestic consumption nearly 8,000,000 bales and foreign consumption 23,000,000 bales.

4. The carryover of American cotton increasing again because of the large crop in this country. Prospect of 8,000,000 or 9,000,000 bales next August compared with a little over 6,000,000 August 1, 1937.

5. The prospective world carryover of all cotton — 17,000,000 or 18,000,000 bales — by August next year about equal to the largest in history.

6. The American farm price of cotton around 8 cents a pound compared with a depression low of 5 cents and a post-depression high around 14 cents.

7. Foreign consumption of American cotton down 1,000,000 bales from 6,400,000 in the year ended July 31, 1936, to an estimated 5,300,000 in the year ended last July 31.

Mrs. J. P. Hayes left last Thursday to spend a few days in Chicago with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hayes, and to attend the city series between the Chicago White Sox and the Cubs. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hayes and Mrs. Hayes returned to Clanton Wednesday.

Mrs. Thornhill and Miss Marguerite Hill of Monroe, La., were recent guests of Mrs. J. R. Mullins and Mrs. Hugh Foshee.

MINERAL SPRINGS CLUB NEWS

The Mineral Springs Home Demonstration Club met at 2 o'clock Monday, September 13, at the Mineral Springs church.

The meeting was called to order by the president.

After the old business had been disposed of, the officers for the new year were elected which are as follows:

President, Mrs. F. E. Paschal; vice-president, Mrs. D. D. Ashcraft; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. T. R. Gore; Leaders, Mrs. H. C. Burgess, Miss Maude Retherford, Miss Gladys Dobbs, and Miss Gertrude Gore.

There being no other business the meeting adjourned until next month.

Guess Who for Boys

He is short, and his legs are bowed at the knees and has earned a name as "swivel hips."

He is little, but he is loud, and boy, is he a pencil thief; he is the cotton headed half back.

Mabe Its A Teacher

He's a "ladies' man", as well as a "G-man," you never see him when he hasn't got some funny idea in his head.

Guess Who For Girls

She is very little, in fact, she is so little she is "lump", lumps of what —sugar or salt? I often wonder.

She is very short, not so little, very neat at all times; noted for good grades, and is so "hard boiled" till she is a "Rockett."

"Tigers" Smash through To Another Victory

Last Friday the "Tigers" won a hard fought game, played against Wetumpka by the score of 6 to 0.

The marker came in the second quarter, with "Speedmerchant Duck" on the end going across. The team showed some splendid improvement. The Clanton boys played a much better game than Wetumpka, because the "Tigers" were out-weighed about ten pounds to the man, and that makes a lot of difference.

The "Tigers" go to Tallassee Friday, October 15th, with blood in their eyes. Clanton has beaten Tallassee, Why can't it be done again? It can, and the "Tigers" are out to do it.

The "Tigers" have won the two first games this year. The scores are as follows:

Verbena 0—Clanton 33.

Wetumpka 0—Clanton 6.

Follow the C. C. H. S. paragraph's, the scores will be added each week.

The friends of Mrs. Bob Alexander are delighted to know she is recovering rapidly from a recent illness at St. Margaret's Hospital.

HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUBS SUCCESSFUL AT STATE FAIR

The County Council of Home Demonstration Clubs decided several weeks ago that they would represent Chilton County with a booth at the state fair. This meant much work and constantly at it for the club women. They began to hustle. Several canning days were spent among the clubs getting speical canned goods ready for the exhibit. The Council furnished standard jars for the occassion and soon an assorted variety of vegetables, fruits and meats had been collected. Various farmers contributed farm products from over the county and when the entire materials were assorted, prepared and placed Chilton County had a most attractive exhibit and when the day for the judging came they were all smiles because the judges saw fit to place in their hands for the Council $215.00.

These ladies deserve much credit for their cooperation, the time and effort spent in putting up the exhibit. The people who assisted in putting up the exhibit itself were: Mrs. J. M. Roper, Mrs. Horace Popwell, Mrs. Joe Mims, Mrs. Frank Jones, Mrs. Lillian Driver, Mrs. J. D. Aldridge, Mrs. J. D. Williams, Mrs. Ruth Jones, Mrs. Harry Anderson, Mrs. Spencer, Mrs. Jewell Sutley, Mr. Clifford Manning, Mr. C. C. Williams, Mr. Howard Oden and Miss Meta Grace.

At the local fair the council president, Mrs. Karl Christiansen, and a committee of women put the local exhibits up. These exhibits included exhibit of miscellaneous articles, a booth of sack articles and a booth of canned goods.

At the stand the various clubs sold eats and drinks and each day different clubs did their bit.

We want to thank each and every one who took part and for the people who so graciously helped us in this first undertaking.

MT. PLEASANT CLUB

The Mt. Pleasant Club met Tuesday, October 5, at the home of the president, Mrs. Emmett Smith. The meeting was called to order and we all joined in singing the "smile" song. The Bible reading, Pslams 130, was given by Martha Kennedy, and was followed by the roll and reading of the minutes of the last meeting, by the secretary, Mrs. Roy Wilson.

Immediately after a discussion of the success of both county and state fairs, the president presented to Miss Grace a lovely table lamp as a birthday gift from the club.

After a few games Miss Grace read the constitution of the club, and explained a few of the most outstanding points.

Each one reported that she had an excellent time at the club party of a few weeks ago. We are looking forward to the next social, which we hope will be in the near future.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Emmett Reid on November 2.

IT'S GREAT TO BE BACK AT WORK

when you've found a way to ease the pains of RHEUMATISM and do it the inexpensive way, too.

You can pay as high as you want for remedies claimed to relieve the pain of Rheumatism, Neuritis, Sciatica, etc. But the medicine so many doctors generally approve—the one used by thousands of families daily — is Bayer Aspirin — 15¢ a dozen tablets — about 1¢ apiece.

Simply take 2 Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Repeat, if necessary, according to directions.

Usually this will ease such pain in a remarkably short time.

For quick relief from such pain which exhausts you and keeps you awake at night — ask for genuine Bayer Aspirin.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

On Saturday afternoon, October 9, the many friends of Lorene Huett met at the home of her parents to celebrate her 12th birthday. Little Sarah Francis Collins had charge of the register, where the following registered: Evelyn Wilson, Mary Sam Vinson, Kathleen Thornton, Sarah Francis Collins, Edna Billingsley, Juanita Newell, Fay Zimmerman, Audrey Popwell, Louise Hand, Onzelle Popwell, Cecil Thompson, William Popwell, Junior Newell and Wayne Billingsley.

After many delightful games the children assembled on the lawn where refreshments were served. At a late hour the children returned to their homes wishing Lorene many more happy birthdays.

FARMERS UNION MEMBERS ADOPTED RESOLUTIONS

Farmers Educational and Cooperative Union in general convention, this, the 9th day of October, 1937, at Center Hill, Chilton County, Ala., do pass the following resolutions:

Resolution No. 1

Whereas, the farmers of Chilton County, Ala., are in a destitute condition caused from being forced to sell their products far below cost of production, and, whereas, the high cost of production is partly due to excess profits charged by the distributing class, and whereas, many farmers, if forced to pay in full, will be dispossessed through foreclosures of their homes, their bread, meat, syrup, milch cows, meat hogs, and all that is necessary to sustain life, and, whereas, we feel that human rights exceed property rights; therefore, be it resolved, that this Convention ask all members of the Union who are dispossessed through foreclosures, to the extent that human suffering among women and children will prevail, to turn over to the Convention the name of said party or parties making such foreclosure. Be it further resolved, that after due consideration, the party or parties making such foreclosures are guilty of increasing human suffering, that the name of said party or parties be placed on the "Unfair List" in every local Union in the county.

Resolution No. 2

Whereas, the proposed 1937 AAA is filled with discriminations against and among the farmers by: (1) The allotment plan which gives to one group of farmers a sufficient income to maintain a luxurious standard of living and at the same time give to another group of farmers such allotment as will place them down to the poverty level, and on the relief roll; (2) That the allotment plan limits the income of those in the farming industry, while those of commercial interests have no limits to the profits they can charge for the handling of the farmers' products, and whereas, all taxes collected on production above a stipulated amount is an income tax because it is a tax on the farmers' income, and, whereas, to control production without controlling speculation will be detrimental to both producer and consumer; Therefore, be it resolved, (1) That we declare our opposition to any program that violates our Constitutional right of having equal opportunity to earn a living; (2) That we declare our opposition to any law that limits the farmers' income and at the same time allows the corporations and commercial interests to go unmolested; (3) That we oppose any curtailment program until the American people are well fed and well clothed; (4) That we oppose any curtailment program until the American market is preserved for the American farmer; (5) That nothing less than cost of production for that part consumed within the United States will solve our farm problem.

Resolution No. 3

Whereas, the Chilton County unit of the Farmers Educational and Cooperative Union of America has made such great drive in membership in 1937, and, whereas they see the necessity of more unionism in our county and state as a whole, and, whereas, we find that there is no other class of people which permits themselves to be misinformed of the functions of everyday life's problems; therefore, be it resolved, that all members of the Chilton County Farm Union be present at the county meeting at Pates Chapel on November 13, 1937, from 10 o'clock a.m., until —?

Resolution No. 4

Whereas the state convention of the F. E. & C. U. of A. is to be held in Birmingham, Ala., in October, 1937, and, whereas, the policies of the state union will be set up for the ensuing year, and, whereas, it is necessary that all locals send delegates to this convention; therefore, be it resolved, that this convention ask all locals to elect delegates, giving proper credentials, to attend said convention. Be it further resolved, that we urge all members, whether delegates or not, to attend this important convention. — W. A. Barnett, County President; Gresham Smith, Assistant County Secretary.

CARD OF THANKS

We take this means of thanking our friends for their kindness shown us during the sickness and death of our darling baby, Vera Nell. We especially thank Revs. Lockhart and Parker for their many words of comfort, and also for the beautiful flowers offered by our friends.—Mr. and Mrs. Jodie Minor and family.

What's RIGHT With ALABAMA

WORLD-WIDE MARKETS

TRAVEL into almost any country of the world today and you will find the products of the mines, factories and farms of Alabama.

Cotton goods from Alabama clothe Polynesian belles of the South Seas. Gins from Alabama gin the cotton of South Africa, India, Mexico, Brazil and China. Alabama-built bridges span mountain streams in Central and South America. Alabama coke melts pig iron in the foundries of Mexico and Canada. Alabama sugar mill machinery grinds the sugar cane of Cuba, Haiti and Brazil. Chips of Alabama marble make terrazzo flooring in the fine buildings in Porto Rico and Canada. Tire repair kits from Alabama are used in Palestine. Over steel rails, made in Alabama, flows the commerce of many foreign nations. Alabama furnaces heat homes in the Canadian Northwest and Alabama ranges cook meals for Chilean and Argentine families. And in almost every state in the entire United States, Alabama products find a market.

Today Alabama has a network of trunk line railroads—5,399 miles of track—over which even local freight trains travel at far greater frequency and speeds than the "flyers" of earlier days—over which roll air-conditioned steel caravans in which the passenger rides, quietly, comfortably, at modest cost, and what is more important, safely.

Not only have the railroads opened many markets for the products of Alabama farms and factories, but they have helped develop and sustain the industries they serve by consuming vast quantities of Alabama coal, lumber, steel and other commodities.

BUILDING AN INDUSTRIAL STATE

With the Alabama Power Company there are several other large corporations that are spending their money to make Alabama a bigger and better State and with the awakening of the people of this State to the possibilities and vast stores of raw material then and only then will the mission of the Alabama Power Company terminate in "well done thou faithful servant."

Nature gave this land of rest to the world and the Alabama Power Company was quick to see that latent possibilities should be brought out in the open to work for the development that will not end until time is no more.—The Hurtsboro Press.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

Recently the writer read with much interest a news story which came out of South Dakota. A former school teacher returned her old age assistance check to the state social security director, and withdrew her application for aid. "We had another crop failure here, and it will be hard for me to get along, but I feel that I would rather go hungry than live on money that is a part of the liquor tax. I taught school for many years, and I cannot bear to think that my accepting such money might have had a bad influence on some of my former pupils. I thought that the appropriation for the pension would come from some other source rather than from whiskey taxes." It is encouraging to read such stories. There are some people left who have conviction. I tell my boys and girls in the Bob Jones College to be for something and to be against something. It is better to be against buttermilk than it is to be against nothing. This nation needs old time moral conviction. It is better to die for something than it is to live for nothing.

A great deal is heard in our day about "academic freedom". Most of the school teachers who are insisting upon this usually have some pet theories they wish to put over, and they wish to use the school room as a platform for their propaganda. I happen to be the founder and president of a college which believes that whatever the Bible says is so. The people who support our school support it because of its uncompromising orthodoxy. No teacher would have a moral right to accept a position in our institution and receive a salary from the institution and destroy the foundations upon which the institution is built. No teacher has a right to accept a position in a state institution supported by taxation, and undermine the loyalty of students to the government that supports the school in which the teacher teaches and from which he receives a salary. If the public schools of this nation belong to the people, they have a right to say what philosophy of theory is taught in the institution. As a matter of fact, students go to school to learn mathematics, English, history, language, science, etc. We believe in America in separation of church and state. No denominationalist has a right to enter our state schools and sell his peculiar denominationalism to young people. If a denominationalist has no right to do this, then certainly no atheistic, communistic, behavioristic, godless teacher has a right to enter our public schools and receive a salary while he is robbing boys and girls of their denominational faith and of their belief in God. The writer believes in our form of government, and he is unalterably opposed to any chonge in our form of government. There is all the freedom any man should want in this nation. We have freedom of worship, freedom of speech, freedom of thought. However, a school teacher has no right to use his liberties in such a way as to rob other people of their liberties.

FOREST FIRES AND SOUTHERN INDUSTRIES

National Fire Prevention Week brings to attention the importance of forest protection to permanent industrial development in the South.

The magnitude of the industries dependent on the products of the forests for their raw material supplies is apparent when one considers that our naval stores, our pulp and paper, our pole, piling, cross tie and lumber industries all utilize this basic resource. For years lumber production has been a major activity in every Southern state. More recently the migration of the pulp and paper mills to the South has been a most important factor in our industrial development. Three large mills are now operating in the state of Alabama.

Our fertile soil and long growing season gives us an advantage over all the rest of the nation in the production of timber products. Potentially the South is capable of growing more timber annually than all the remainder of the United States combined. Foresters assure us that with proper culling methods and protection from fire our forest industries can operate forever, each year's cut being promptly replaced by growth. Such industries based on conservation of national resources could mean permanent prosperity for our state.

We have been prone to blame the lumberman and the naval stores operator for the depletion of our forest resources, but are not we, who annually allow the burning of thousands of acres of our woodland, equally to blame? New forests cannot grow where annual fires destroy the seedling trees. We and our children are being robbed of our forest wealth by the fires that every winter sweep the timberlands of our state. No one knows their number, and their extent can only estimated, but the cumulative damage they have wrought is tremendous.

Fortunately, this appaling waste can be stopped. These fires are preventable. Over 95 per cent of them are caused by human agencies, by carelessness or by wanton incendiarism. It is for the people of Alabama to decide whether or not this destruction of our natural wealth is to continue. Carelessness with fire can be avoided.

The forest industries of Alabama cannot continue to exist, and cannot expand as they should expand, without growing timber. Protection of our state's timber supply is a challenge and an opportunity for every citizen.

Under authority of the legislature Gov. Graves reduced the state ad valorem taxes from 65 cents on the hundred to 60 cents. This becomes effective on property now being assessed and on which taxes will be due on October 1, 1938. This reduction comes off the 2½ mills now being collected for general state purposes, and does not affect the amount being collected for education and Confederate pensions. This reduction will save property owners approximately a half million dollars on their taxes next year.

THE CITY SLICKER

THORSBY JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

The 1937-38 school session of Thorsby opened on Tuesday, October 5th, with a large group of parents and friends along with the unusually heavy enrollment of students being present for the exercises. Superintendent Little was the principal speaker for the occasion, with Mrs. Jackson conducting the devotional. The enrollment was perhaps the largest for any opening day in the history of the school with 199 registrations. The enrollment has now increased to 215; with 59 of this number being in the Jr. High School grades.

On last Friday night, October 8th, the P.-T. A. sponsored a reception honoring the faculty. Eighty-one were present for the evening's festivities. By 7:30 the cheerful group had assembled at the school auditorium where several lively games were played. Several members of the Institute faculty were present, each contributing to the fun and frolic of the social. After a number of exciting games and contests, refreshments, composed of fruit punch and cakes, were served.

Prof. Griffin carried the Jr. II science class down to the Baggett's farm last Friday afternoon to observe and study the soil conservation project.

A new member was added to the faculty last week, due to the heavy enrollment. This new member is Prof. Percy M. Johnson, who taught here several years ago. He has the 5th grade.

The basketball boys organized last Thursday, electing as their field captain, Mack Askins, and as vice-captain C. D. Hayes. The former played on the Enterprise Jr. High team last year, while C. D. represented this school. Prospects appear very promising for the Jr. High team this year. The following boys have trotted out in hopes of landing a berth on this season's quintet: Mack Askins, C. D. Hayes, Curtis Collins, Douglas and Jack Lowery, Wellington Collins, Aubrey Collins, Jack Littleton, Thomas Kincaid, G. W. Collins, William Hicks, Thomas Childress and Ed. Nations. Several scrimmages have been held in checking each player's ability. The players, apparently too enthusiastic, presented several glaring defects, mainly unnecessary roughness and excessive fouling. This condition, Coach Johnson, expects to eliminate before the first game of the season. The boys have shown a real spirit of cooperation, and sportsmanship plus a genuine willingness to eliminate as many defects as possible in order to mold a winning combination to represent the school this season.

A basketball schedule for the 11 Jr. High Schools of this county is now being drafted. A copy will be inserted in both the county papers just as soon as completed. All basketball fans clip this copy and know when and where all games are being played during the season.

The Thorsby Independents are scheduled to meet on Tuesday night of this week for the purpose of organizing their team. This team will be built around only three regulars from last years quint,, namely: Arnold (Bull) Littleton, Ralph Pate, and Cecil Ellison. All candidates interested in trying for a place on this team please report on practice nights. In order to avoid over-lapping expenses the Jr. High team and Independent team will play on the same nights when possible to arrange games with communities having two corresponding teams. Watch for the schedule.

The Jr. High English classes will collect news items relative to our school and present them to our county papers each week for publication. Read your school news.

The Athletic Clubs expect to sponsor an entertainment in the near future. Definite announcemet will be forth-coming soon.

Efforts are now being promoted throughout the school body toward the encouragement of proper care of the school building, campus, equipment, Etc. The several rooms are developing the spirit of neatness, cleanliness and precision in the arrangements of the respective home classrooms.

Parents and friends of the Thorsby schools are cordially requested to visit us at any time most convenient to them. Visiting the school where your child attends, creates a mutual understanding between the parent, teacher and child which far surpasses the thought the average person might give. This is your school, the training place for your child, so visit it and thus lend your support to the cause of your child's welfare.

SAVE YOUR OLD MAGAZINES AND NEWSPAPERS

Agriculture earned 9.4 per cent of the $63,799,000,000 national income of 1936, compared with 23 per cent for manufacturing. The 14.5 per cent of the nation's income that went to government (including work relief wages) was the second highest percentage received by any division, the Department of Commerce reports. A detailed study of the national income from 1929 through 1936, which was announced in a preliminary form on June 13, was made public in a booklet by Robert R. Nathan, chief of the National Income Section of the Division of Economic Research. "Agriculture counted for a larger proportion of the national income produced in 1936 than in any other year covered by the study," said the report.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

Minding Your Business.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—A society is forming in England for the defense of the former Edward VIII, now the duke of Windsor and honorary citizen of all places in this country named for the Simpson family.

This society does not hope to restore the duke to the throne. That would not only annoy the archbishop of Canterbury, he already having things to annoy him, such as Americans, but would seriously upset Mr. Stanley Baldwin, who upsets so easily that it seems strange the British never have thought of calling him Reversible Stan. Besides, the throne would be quite crowded if the duke tried to snuggle in there along with the present occupants.

Irvin S. Cobb

What some of us over here think—and that goes for many Canadians, too—is that England has a crying need for a society dedicated to the broad general principle of minding its own business and suffering the duke and his wife to mind theirs. We have a rough idea that both of them can better endure long-distance snubs than officious meddling in their private affairs. Just being an ex-king is a hard enough job—even if you can get it to do.

Political Afterthoughts.

MASTER ROLLO, aged seven, and city raised, was visiting relatives in the country. On his first morning he came in wearing a worried cast of countenance.

"Mother," he said, "I've been out under the mulberry trees."

"Yes."

"Mother, do mulberries have hard backs and six legs and crawl around on the ground?"

"Why, certainly not."

"Then, Mother," said Rollo in stricken tones, "I feel I have made a dreadful mistake."

What's the point? Oh nothing, only I got to imagining what the brooding regrets of some members of the administration and a majority of the members of the senate must be when they recall the alacrity with which they moved to fill a certain recent vacancy in a certain very high court—in fact, the highest one we've got.

* * *

Hirsute Virility.

PARISIAN boulevardiers believe a dense arboreal effect of whiskers is proof that the wearer is indeed a man, without, in all cases, being absolutely convincing about it.

We haven't gone that far yet, but I would like to know whence comes this notion of appraising masculine vigor by the amount of hair along the breast-bone? Morbid, I calls it.

Two distinguished authors battle when one intimates the other is scantily adorned in that regard, forgetting that, in the immature summer peltage of his kind, an author has but a scanty growth as compared with the richer winter coat. And then prying reporters ask the new glamor prince of the movies whether he has any fleece at all upon his chest, their tone indicating they rather expected to find trailing arbutus there, or at least some shy anemone.

Years ago in the hospital, when I was being shorn for an operation I remember remarking to myself that here was the only barber who'd ever worked on me without trying to sell me a bottle of hair tonic.

Miss America—1937.

AT LAST some rational excuse—in moral values, anyhow—has been found for a so-called national beauty contest.

The seventeen-year-old New Jersey girl chosen as "Miss America of 1937" is not going into vaudeville, is not going to make any personal appearances, is not coming to Hollywood for a screen test, is not going to accept a radio contract, is not even going to write her life story for publication. She will return to school and to the normal home life of a well-raised normal girl—that is, unless she changes her mind about it all.

If she shouldn't change her mind, she stands out as probably the sanest young person of her age at present residing on this continent, or, should we say, this planet.

If she should change her mind—well, the American populace has been fooled many a time and oft before. Our grandfathers didn't believe human beings ever could fly. Our fathers didn't believe anybody would ever lick John L. Sullivan. Only the other day our United States senators didn't believe their fellow-statesman, Mr. Black of Alabama, could be a Klansman. They thought that low but persistent sound of "Ku-Klux, Ku-Klux" was but the voice of a modest hen.

CHEAHA ALABAMA STATE PARK

Colors of the Grand Canyon are in process of reproduction on Cheaha and its surrounding peaks at this season of the year, with tints added that the famous canyon of the Colorado does not exhibit, including the jade green highlights in mountain pines under autumnal sunshine.

Daily the shades of red and brown grow brighter in the Talladega National Forest, where Cheaha State Park is located. Sumac was first of the native plants to add its splash of purple and vermillion to the color scheme, and then the gum trees began to take on hues almost as bright. Scrub oaks, nearly as numerous as the pines on some of the scenic patches, are gradually taking on their Joseph's Coat of many colors, blending with the yellow of fading hickory foliage in the varicolored scheme. With the coming of the first frost the mountain, valleys and clustering hills will change from bright to brilliant and the vista from the watch tower of random rubble that crowns Cheaha will be worth traveling many miles to see on bright, clear days, when high spots in the counties of Clay, Cleburne, Coosa, Calhoun, Randolph and St. Clair, as well as hills and valleys in Talladega County will be clother in their full colors. Points in Georgia and Tennessee are said to be within the range of the telescope from this, the highest spot in Alabama, 2,407 feet above sea level, and the watch tower 60 feet higher still.

Cheaha State Park occupies 2,200 acres and has been imroved with five 60-foot towers, foot trails, mountain roads, picnic grounds, and shelters.

Cabins for over-night visitors have not yet been built, but these and other ublic conveniences will come in time. A 300,000-gallon reservoir has been completed. It is fed by perennial springs which give a flow sufficient to supply a large population.

The road, 26 miles from Talladega, to Cheaha Park, leads in a northeasterly direction over State Highway No. 11 to a right turn five miles from town, across the Mineral Belt Line of the Louisville & Nashville Railroad and a short stretch of county dirt road to a point where the U. S. Forest road, built for fire protection and as a scenic highway, begins. Thirty-five miles of mountain road has been completed by the engineers with CCC labor. It winds around and through the hills, passes lovely Cheaha Lake and continues to and along the mountain's summit. The "Skyway-Motorway" is being constructed along the summit of the mountain chain of which Cheaha is a part. It will, when completed, connect the area with other state and national park or forest sites, and form a scenic route of great attraction.

The proposed "Skyline Drive" will connect Cheaha with DeSoto Park, Lookout Mountain, and on into the Carolinas and Virginia.

Alabama has 15 state parks and two monuments comprising a total of more than 23,000 acres and practically all of the improvements made thereon have been done with federal funds.

STRIKING NEW STYLES BOON TO WOMEN EAGER TO DRESS WELL ON SMALL BUDGET

NOVELTIES in Fall and Winter styles, just announced by the country's fashion leaders, will delight every woman anxious to dress well, but who must watch her pennies and dimes.

Washable outfits, made from a surprising array of fabrics that look like the most expensive materials, can be bought far more reasonably than garments made from the goods they resemble and, better yet, can be cleansed easily and quickly in the household washer and finished, ready for use again, in a minute or two on the family ironer.

No one would suspect that the two-piece polka dot frock of rayon, green, with military braid trim, and the black shantung with dramatic white flower applique shown here are washable, but they are. At practically no cost each can be freshened as often as the wearer wishes, if she has a household washer handy.

Designers admit that the fast growing popularity of washers, now in use in more than 12,000,000 homes, has an important effect on styles. Fashions are planned to fit the living habits of the majority of women. Since there are washers everywhere, why not design garments that can be cleansed in them, even for Fall and Winter wear?

Big Progress in Chick Care and Feeding Since 1900

Tremendous progress has been made in poultry raising the past three decades. Both in chick feeding, and in chick management have new and important discoveries been made.

Before 1900, chicks hatched out into a world where bugs, worms, weed seeds, corn bread, rolled oats, table scraps and clabber were the chief starting feeds. Only the strongest had a chance to live. They were hatched and brooded under hens. More than half died before they were six weeks old and those that did live seldom weighed more than a pound at six weeks.

In 1900, commercial scratch feeds for chicks were first placed on the market. Chicks fed these feeds showed an improvement over those on the "bug-diet." In 1904, a leading feed manufacturer brought out a laying mash for hens, which many poultrymen used as a starting feed. Although not intended for them, chicks came through the six weeks starting period far more satisfactorily on his feed. Sixty-five per cent of them lived, with an average growth of three-quarters of a pound at six weeks.

Alfalfa Meal Added

The addition of alfalfa meal to the laying mash fed baby chicks was one of the important innovations of 1915. The same feed manufacturer who had brought out the first laying mash pioneered alfalfa meal, a vegetative source of minerals, vitamins and proteins.

Research workers now turned their attention to the problem of preventing rickets in young chicks. This leg weakness which sent many chicks to an early grave, could be prevented, it was found, if enough vitamin D was included in the starting ration. Good grades of cod liver oil provided this necessary vitamin. In 1922, cod liver oil became one of the standard ingredients in chick feed. The additon of cod liver oil greatly simplified brooding since an abundance of vitamin D in the starting feed eliminated the necessity of keeping chicks in the sunshine to absorb vitamin D from the sun's rays.

80% Livability With Startena

A red-letter year in chick history came in 1922 when startena, a special mash feed made to fit the nutritional needs of baby chicks, was put on the market. Although somewhat inadequate judged by the standards of 1937, startena was a decided improvement over any feed up to that time. By feeding startena, chick raisers found that livability could be stepped up to 80 per cent, and the weight at six weeks increased to seven-eights of a pound—almost double what chicks had weighed previous to 1900.

But there were still other valuable discoveries to be made. In 1928, soy bean meal, a rich source of protein, was added to checkerboard startena, and chicks did even better than before.

The year 1930 saw the appearance of all-mash startena, a complete, all-in-one starting feed that solved the problem of what to feed baby chicks. Almost every nutritional need of the chick was met in this new all-mash starter. Only ten per cent died, and at six weeks birds averaged one pound.

Disease Cut Down

Since 1930, progress has been even more rapid. Feeding, breeding, and management have been tremendously stepped up. Improved incubation has resulted in stronger chicks. Improved brooders have greatly helped livability. Chicks today have every opportunity to live, compared to the chicks of thirty years ago who chilled in drafty houses or followed their mothers around in damp grass. Efficient sanitation agents have been very helpful in keeping surroundings and drinking and feeding troughs clean. Disease and infection have been cut down.

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

Rivals for Nudism.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—I took part in a parade celebrating old days in California, riding in an ancient open carriage with our postmaster here—he calls Jim Farley "Jim"—and our congressman, who like practically all Democrats in good standing in the southern part of the state, craves to be the next nominee for governor.

If any more aspirants bob up, there won't be anybody left to vote for them. This certainly has been a banner year for oranges and candidates.

Irvin S. Cobb

Our outfit got a lot of cheers from the crowds and a perfect ovation when passing a given point where the Elks also were giving away beer. All three of us felt pretty proud of ourselves until we realized that probably the applause wasn't meant for us. There must have been thousands in that crowd who'd never before seen a horse-drawn pleasure vehicle.

If Lady Godiva, dressed only in her long hair, rode on a white horse through any modern city street, there'd probably be ten who'd hurrah for the horse against one who looked a second time at the lady. Sight of a white horse would be a treat to one and all, whereas in these days of nudism and public undressing on the beaches—but that will be about all for that.

International Messes.

WITH the great powers tottering on the brink of hostilities to a more tottery extent than usual; with the Spaniards still willing to fight to the last Italian from Brother Mussolini's loan collection; with China battered to a bloody hash-meaf in what would closely resemble a war if only Japan had so declared it, which must indeed be gratifying to the ghosts of the thousands already slain and the homeless refugees from ruined cities—this seems a mighty good time for us to keep our shirt on.

Kindly recall that other historic occasion when Uncle Sam felt called upon to hop into a mess cooked up by foreign nations and, as a result, not only lost his shirt, but has never since been able to collect the laundry bills for washing the said shirt. This, if you get the drift, is a subtle reference to those defaulted European debts.

Let us, therefore, highly resolve that, no matter how great the pressure from within or without—mainly it'll be, as was the case before from without—we'll keep the old shirt on.

* * *

Classifying Bores.

I'VE been classifying bores. Class B bores are those still using the lapel clutch or buttonhole grapple, whereas a class A bore is one whose boast is that he never lays a finger on you—just holds the victim by psychic power.

Lately I've met what I should call a super A type, the same being a gentleman who, in addition to having perfect technique otherwise, had been imbibing garlic to excess—and didn't care who knew it. When finally rescued, they had to use a pulmotor on me.

Meeting this champion reminded me of what I heard the late Wilson Minzer say to a gentleman who insisted on boring Wilson while suffused with the afterglow brought on by combining bourbon whisky and Bermuda onions in his diet. His hiccoughs were not only frequent but had echoes to them.

Finally, when Wilson was practically ready for artificial respiration to be applied, he said:

"Dear sir, your breath would start the windmills turning in an old Dutch painting."

* * *

Typical Texans.

I USED to think a typical Texan was one who said he was going to send you a ten-gallon hat and then didn't do it. But he is a subspecies.

A really orthodox Texan tells you he's giving you a pair of genuine Texas steer horns. They'll be along as soon as he can have them shipped. But he never ships 'em—that's what makes him typical.

So many typical Texans have volunteered to send me sets of long horns that, if all these parties were laid end to end, you'd have one of the finest consecutive strings of born liars ever seen. But they wouldn't say that way; they'd rise right up and start looking for Easterners to promise long horns to.

Not that I'm craving any long horns. They stretch so far from tip to tip they make you think of a muskellunge fisherman trying to show you how much that biggest one measured. If you hang them low, they prong people in the eye. If you hang them high, they're chiefly useful for cobwebs to drape on. And no self-respecting wife will let you hang them anywhere.

HOGS DO BETTER WHEN KEPT CLEAN

Greater Growth Fewer Losses, and Bigger Profits Result.

With humans, cleanliness is next to godliness. With hogs, cleanliness is the backbone of profits. Big dividends in the form of healthier hogs, fewer losses, greater growth, and minimum disease and infection are the results of keeping hogs clean.

That the hog is naturally a dirty animal is disputed by most hog raisers and swine specialists. The old expression "dirty as a pig," they say, should be blamed on hog raisers rather than on the animals themselves. Hogs, without the help of their owners, are unable to clean up their surroundings, and consequently are forced to accept filthy environment.

Clean Hogs Pay Profit

The responsibility of keeping hog quarters clean rests on hog raisers. Like all other animals hogs do better in clean surroundings. A few simple rules of sanitation and cleanliness go a long way in producing money-making hogs.

"Sanitary precautions should be taken before pigs are farrowed," says Ellis Hamel, swine specialist with Purina Mills. A few days before farrowing time the farrowing pen should be thoroughly cleaned. All loose dirt and dust from the ceiling and walls should be brushed down, and all old litter and manure scraped off the floor. The entire farrowing house should be thoroughly disinfected with a solution of one half pint of cre-so-fec in about ten quarts of water. Watering and feeding equipment should be scrubbed in the same solution several times a year, but should be particularly well cleaned before pigs arrive.

Straw Makes Good Bedding

"The best bedding is made from clean, dry straw covering the floor of the farrowing pen. If the straw is finely chopped and scattered as a thin carpet on the floor, little pigs will not get tangled up in it.

"But cleaning just the pen is only half the story in successful hog sanitation," Hamel points out. "The sow herself must be cleaned for the occasion. Several days in advance of farrowing time, the sow should be brought into the farrowing pen and thoroughly washed with soap and water. Disease germs and worm eggs may escape soap and water," Hamel says, "so to play doubly safe, the entire body should be disinfected by a thorough scrubbing with a third of a pint of cre-so-fec in ten quarts of water.

"These precautions insure young pigs a clean start in life and eliminate a great deal of the danger of infection. The possibility of pigs getting worm eggs from the sow is also prevented.

SPENDTHRIFT TERMS

Early last spring we read of the almost frantic efforts of the treasury to maintain "orderly conditions in the money market," but in spite of masterful financial manipulations we none the less witnessed an alarming sag in "governments". The situation, fortunately, was patched up in time for the continuance of "deficit financing" to the tune of another billion dollars or so before the end of the fiscal year 1936.

During the past summer, things have gone along pretty smoothly outside of intermittent smatterings of "easy" and "weak" markets. With the coming of fall, however, new "quarterly financing" must be faced. "Tightening of the money market," or in layman's language, higher interest rates on borrowed funds, must be avoided; therefore, the "stage" must be set by further financial juggling. Likewise, the bond market has just taken another slide and must be "rescued".

Whence came all these strange words and phrases—"deficit financing", "orderly conditions in the money market", "setting the stage", and "rescued"?

The answer is simple. The public debt of the federal government recently passed the 37 billion dollar mark. The nation is continuing to go into debt at the rate of several billions of dollars annually. And, no effort has been made to correct this sad state of affairs. The average citizen, while he may know all the details of a big league baseball game, knows little or nothing of the government's financial affairs — and cares less! — Ansonia (Conn.) Sentinel.

We have never practiced ancestor worship in this country like the Chinese practice it, but just wait 'till the old age pensions get to functioning.

Now that fall has arrived the fond parent can blame little Johnny's shortcomings on to his teacher.

THEY'RE NOT LIBERAL

The statement of Sen. Norris of Nebraska heartily endorsing the appointment of Sen. Black to the United States Supreme Court is typical of the attitude of many of the so-called "liberals" toward our constitutional ideals of government.

The Nebraska statesman characterizes the appointment of Mr. Black as "wonderfully good," says that he is courageous, able and shrewd, and that there is no legal objection to his being a member of the Klan even if it develops that he is identified with the hooded order. Other supporters of Black have called attention to the fact that during his career in the senate he supported to the extent of 100 per cent the measures of the New Deal.

Here is then the standard of qualified membership of the Supreme Court according to the New Dealers. The candidate must be heartily in favor of the regimentation of the new dispensation. He is not qualified to pass on the legality of legislation because he understands our fundamental constitutional law and desires to apply it. He will only make a good judge if he is in favor of what the socialistic college professors endorse.

Nothing could be further from the intent of the American constitutional government. Our fundamental law gives certain rights to the American individual, beyond which congress and the presdent cannot legally go. The very defense of these rights has made the Constitution of the United States the bulwark of liberalism. The Constitution is the greatest liberal document ever designed by man, because it provides the way by which there may be ordered liberty and equality of opportunity.

In seeking to thwart its principles the so-called "liberals" are proving they are not liberal at all. They would seek to substitute for individual liberty and opportunity the deadening influence of a regimentive national government. This is quite the reverse of liberalism.

National Affairs

(By FRANK P. LITSCHERT)

The celebration of Columbus Day on October 12 each year serves to remind us of what might be called the unexpected development of colonization on that part of the American continent known as the United States. Chritopher Columbus, the intrepid Italian navigator who first saw the New World, was under the commission of the King and Queen of Spain. He planted the flag of Hispanola as the first European standard to flutter in the breezes of the New World. Other Spanish explorers followed him in rapid succession. The Spaniards founded the first permanent settlements in what is now the continental portion of the United States, a half century before the British started provinces along the Atlantic coast. In the north, French explorers rapidly penetrated the wilds of what is now Canada, and then turned south in the Mississippi Valley. England's claims to the New World were based on the explorations of John Cabot.

And yet that part of North America from which later evolved the United States was English. The Spanish and the French were thrown back and their civilizations swept away. Those Spanish and the French were brave adventurers and hardy soldiers. British success came from other reasons than military superiority.

When the Spaniards came to the new country they were in search of silver and gold and other riches. They were not interested in clearing the wilderness, and were anxious to get back to the mother country as soon as their task of collecting riches was done. Even the French came as traders rather than as pioneers seeking to found a new civilization. But with the British it was different. Most of the Englishmen who crossed the Atlantic were in search of religious or political liberty. They thought not so much of the natural wealth of the new land as of that peace of mind and liberty of action which would come to them so far removed from an arrogant and despotic monarch. Colonies founded on love of liberty proved to be more lasting than trading posts and mining camps. From other nations of Europe came hardy common folk in search of liberty and opportunity. They mingled with the English in their own settlements, or the little colonies they started were absorbed by the British. And so the government grew, and that people demanded liberty in a larger and larger measure from the mother country, until the full measure of freedom was achieved through the long arduous years of the Revolutionary War.

Americans who study the colonial history of their country ought to remember that it was founded not by gentleman adventurers in search of material wealth, but by sound, liberty-loving, God-fearing people from the best nations of Europe. The sturdy Englishman, and Scotch-Irishman, the liberty-loving Celt, the Puritan, the Catholic, and the French Huguenot, the solid Rhinelander, the sane Dutchman and Swede—they came to America in seach of freedom and opportunity, and they builded a great nation. Finally in this year of 1937, a century and a half after the signing of the Constitution, let us remember that they achieved a free and orderly government which has afforded us the greatest period of development in the history of the world. If we desire to maintain this record unsullied, let us keep to the paths of the founding fathers. True it was that Christopher Columbus rendered a priceless service to humanity in 1492. But it was the love of liberty coming with the real homesteaders which made America great.

PAINFUL DILEMMA

Not the least interesting — some would say pleasant — feature of the situation growing out of the elevation of Sen. Black to the Supreme Court is the dilemma in which so many New Dealers now find themselves. As true liberals, they want to support Franklin D. Roosevelt in every move he makes, and regard desertion of his cause as equivalent to treason. But, also, as true liberals, they cannot in any conscience approve the appointment of a man who belonged or belongs to an organization dedicated to the principle of racial and religious intolerance.

That many of these individuals and periodicals are suffering acute discomfort is no longer a secret. Yet they can hardly complain if the rest of us are amused by their wriggling and squirming as represented in frantic efforts to absolve themselves of the charge of two-sidedness. At least one consolation is granted them. They have the comfort to be derived from the knowledge that no matter how much pain they have been caused by recent developments, it is not one jot less than that which the president himself is undergoing.—Boston Transcript.

WORTHLESS CENSUS

A sane solution of the unemployment problem is dependent altogether on accurate data concerning its nature and extent. For four years constant pressure has been exerted for a census that would mean something, but the administration has vigorously and consistently opposed it. Why? The uses to which relief funds were put in the last elections and the uses to which they will inevitably be put in the next elections provide the answer.

It is clear, and becoming clearer, that the administration does not want the public to know how this relief money is being spent. It is therefore necessary to keep the public in the dark as to the nature and extent of the problem. The result is an unemployment census which is not a census at all, whose results will be deceiving, and therefore worse than inaccurate, and whose only virtue is that it will be relatively inexpensive.—Springfield Union.

PING-PONG

Japan has not declared war, though she has invaded China. China has not declared war. She has been too busy defending herself. Thousands of soldiers and civilians have been killed in this unofficial example of international incivilities.

So now our esteemed Secretary of State, Cordell Hull, addresses a note to Japan expressing the pious hope that Japan will not resort to war. Probably Japan will heed the admonition, but certain the little men from the flowery kingdom are putting up a swell game of ping-pong.—Emporia Gazette.

The 150th anniversary of the signing of the Constitution found a lot of folks seeking to undermine it. But the same was true at the time the Constitution was adopted. State Capitol News

Gov. Bibb Graves, ardent advocate of freight reduction as a means of promoting economic development of the southeast, was in Atlanta last week attending a conference of governors called to map procedure before the interstate commerce commission. Gov. Graves served as chairman, and announced results would be laid before the southeastern conference to be called in a few weeks, probably for Birmingham.

Chief Walter K. McAdory, of the Alabama Highway Patrol, has renewed his appeal to motorists for greater care on the highways, following the death of four Alabamians in an automobile-train crash near the Tennessee line last week. The patrol chief pointed out in a statement that his men attended a special course in traffic safety at Montgomery two weeks ago, but that their efforts are virtually nullified without cooperation of drivers.

Asserting the official figures show for themselves, Gov. Bibb Graves has announced that he needs no defense for an adequate corps of collectors of revenue due the state.

Alabama, through the various federal and state employment agencies, is prepared to cooperate with the federal government in the unemployment census to be conducted nationally on November 16-17. Prompt and complete answers to the 14 questions propounded in the unemployment questionnaire are essential to success of the census as provided by an act of congress. The questionnaires, to be delivered by mail carriers, also will convey a message from President Roosevelt, stressing their importance.

Continuing his program of further developing "the nation's most beautiful state capitol grounds", Gov. Bibb Graves has petitioned for a $351,000 allotment from the PWA for construction of the long-agitated state memorial building. The memorial structure's style of architecture would harmonize with the capitol building proper, the new highway department building now nearing completion, and be located directly opposite the south entrance to the capitol at Washington Avenue and South Bainbridge Street.

The stork had it over the grim reaper by almost 100 per cent in Alabama during August, the vital statistics bureau, reporting the daily average of births at 171 compared with 73 deaths. Monthly totals were listed at 5,301 births to 2,264 deaths.

Seating of Hugo L. Black of Birmingham on the U. S. Supreme Court bench while his eight associates studied the merits of ouster proceedings instituted against him, met with general approval at the capitol last week.

Action was slightly more pronounced last week in the short term race for the U. S. Senate, with the two avowed candidates, Congressman Lister Hill of Montgomery, and ex-Senator J. Thomas Heflin on the stump and a new crop of rumors developing as to other candidates announcing before the entry list closes November 1.

There appeared from Tuscaloosa the "Southern News Service" mimeographer, which quoted A. M. White, one time candidate for lieutenant-governor, as saying he was positive there would be at least a third entrant in the race who would be an avowed opponent of President Roosevelt's wage-hour and court reform bills. No names were called.

Alabama traffic deaths increased from 48 in August to 64 in September according to the state patrol's monthly report. Persons injured in highway accidents decreased from 258 to 212.

Patrol Chef Walter K. McAdory noted in the report that while the number of accidents in the state declined by approximately 50 per cent, they were of a more serious nature in point of casualties and property loss. He attributed a sharp decline in drunken driving arrests to the renewed campaign of his men in all parts of the state.

Chief McAdory said his quadrennial report would recommend enactment of a 55-mile-an-hour speed limit on the highways.

COUNTY BIRTHS AND DEATHS

Montgomery, Oct. 11. — Deaths in Chilton County totaled 14 in August, while the county's births numbered 59, according to the monthly report of the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health, which has just been prepared.

August deaths for the state as a whole totaled 2,264, the death rate for that month being 9.3 per cent per 1,000 population. The state's August births totaled 5,301, giving it a birth rate of 21.7 per 1,000 population, which is considerably more than twice as high as its August death rate.

Heart disease, listed as responsible for 328 weaths in various parts of the state, was the leading cause of death. Next in importance came various forms of violence, responsible for 172 deaths. Other leading causes of death during August, with the number of deaths attributed to each, were as follows: cerebral hemorrhage 160, cancer 157, nephritis 157, motor vehicle accidents 62, diseases associated with childbirth 24, diarrhea and enteritis (under two years) 53, pneumonia (all forms) 84, pellagra 37, malaria 50, tuberculosis 136, and influenza 22.

During the entire history of this nation only one attempt has been made to impeach a justice of the U. S. Supreme Court, and it failed. That was in 1805, when impeachment proceedings were brought against Associate Samuel Chase for remarks he made before a federal grand jury criticising President Thomas Jefferson. He was acquitted.

HONEYCUTT FAMILY REUNION HELD ON WEOGUFKA ROUTE 1

On Sunday, October 3, a number of relatives and friends met at the home of W. J. Honeycutt, on Weogufka Route 1, and enjoyed the day together. They included: Mrs. Margaret Honeycutt of Fayetteville, Ella Deason, Ella Dennis of Sylacauga, Mary Lou Curry, Avrilla Darby, Earl Honeycutt, Miss Lelage Butler, Firro Robertson, Billy Dooley, Harmon Darby, Fannie Honeycutt, Margy Sears, Oscar Honeycutt, Marie Honeycutt, Willie Joiner, Annie Lou Miller of Hanover, Myrle Robinson, Andrew Deason, Nora Pearl Blankenship, Audrie Sayers, Myrtie Honeycutt, Arthur Lee Honeycutt, Gertrude Sayers, Carl Sayers, Monroe Blankenship, Silas Robertson, Finks Varner, Aulsie Mae Varner, Zilla Honeycutt, Victor Blankenship, Daisy Joiner, W. P. Honeycutt, C. N. Dozier, Dovie Honeycutt, J. O. Stewart, J. R. Robinson, P. C. Honeycutt, Clint Robinson, W. J. Honeycutt, J. M. Lowery, Annice Robinson, W. H. Robinson, J. H. Littlejohn, J. R. Morris, C. M. Littlejohn, O. J. Honeycutt, T. S. McGrady, Vatchel Lindsey.

Impeachment of a federal officer is handled very much like criminal cases are handled in our state courts. The House of Representatives sits in the capacity of a grand jury. They make investigation of the charges preferred. If they find the evidence justifies it, an indictment is drawn, which is designated as a bill of impeachment. The Senate then, acting as a petit jury, tries the case. Their verdict is final.

worth of COTTON per year	in WAGES per year

Alabama's cotton mills are its largest industry. They give employment to over 39,000 mill operatives. In addition, they employ thousands of others —mechanics, engineers, executives, clerical help.

Alabama's cotton mills annually consume an average of 667,777 bales of cotton . . . In addition, they are large purchasers of power, fuel, lubricants, hardware and mill supplies. Through their payrolls, they supply the purchasing power for millions of dollars worth of Alabama-grown foodstuffs.

Alabama's textile industry has made rapid strides in recent years. By the understanding cooperation of operatives, management, merchants, doctors and legislators — it will continue to go forward, to the greater prosperity of Alabama and its citizens.

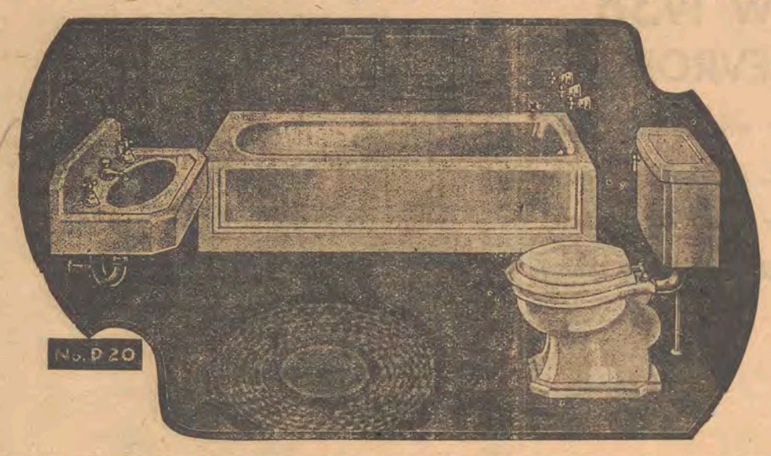
GAME CONSERVATION NEWS

Game Wardens Meet

Annual meetings of the district game wardens of Alabama were held last week at Birmingham, Montgomery and Mobile, to discuss game and fish regulations and review accomplishments of the Conservation Department during the past fiscal year. Commissioner I. T. Quinn, accompanied by J. M. White, field assistant, W. G. Wharton, chief game warden, Tom Ford, director of county conservation planning, and Neilson B. O'Rear, editor of publications, met with the north Alabama wardens in Birmingham on Tuesday, October 5. The Montgomery meeting, attended by the field men from central Alabama counties, was held October 6, and the Mobile meeting for south Alabama men was held Friday, October 8. Changes in the game laws and educational work connected with their positions formed the chief topics. There are 36 salaried game wardens in Alabama.

Don't Shoot CCC Boys



Alabama hunters are asked to refrain from hunting within rifle range of Civilian Conservation Corps works projects by Robert Fechner, Washington director of the corps, in the fifth annual appeal to the Alabama Conservation Department for cooperation in elimination of fatal accidents of this type. There are a number of CCC work projects in Alabama, and the workers are scattered throughout the woods and fields daily. Extreme caution on the part of Nimrods is necessary if accidents are to be prevented. The Alabama department, through Commissioner I. T. Quinn, assured Director Fechner of cooperation in this matter.

Training Bird Dogs

The training of bird dogs in Alabama is a flourishing business and one that is increasing as this state's fame in the bird dog kingdom spreads. Last year there were more than 30 professional bird dog trainers licensed by the Department of Conservation, and already several of the licenses have been renewed for the current fiscal year. For many years Alabama dogs have led the field of hunting, and the credit is due in large measure to the men and women who train the setters and pointers.

SOCIETY

Miss Mary Ellis Honored at Luncheon—

From the Montgomery Advertiser comes the following society notes that will be of interest to many Clanton people:

Miss Mary Ellis, whose marriage to Mr. Raymond Calloway Smith, will take place early in November, was honnoree of a pre-nuptial party at which Miss Marion Moody entertained yesterday when she gave a buffet luncheon at the home of Mrs. Owen Brewer on Felder Avenue.

The rooms were in adornment of rich-hued flowers.

The buffet table was in lovely setting and adornment. The central ornament was a miniature silver chariot filled with pink and purple grapes and other tropical fruits. On the table was effective arrangements of fruits in colors of purple, yellow and red.

Twenty-five guests were assembled.

Mrs. Sam Johnson of Pensacola is the guest of her mother, Mrs. Harper. She was accompanied here by Dr. Johnson, who returned to Pensacola after spending the week end here.

Miss Margaret Floyd spent last week end in Clayton with her mother, Mrs. W. E. Floyd.

Mrs. James Wade left Friday for Fort Myers, Fla., where she was called on account of the illness of Mr. J. Q. Wade. The latest report on Mr. Wade's condition was that he was better, although still confined to a Fort Myers hospital.

Mrs. W. E. Huddleston, Jr., and Mrs. James Wade were visitors in Montgomery Friday.

Mr. Alex Hayes, a student at the University of Alabama, spent the week end here with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Hayes.

Mr. Cohen Stapp of Selma spent last Thursday in Clanton.

Mrs. Hugh Jones spent Saturday in Troy.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude C. Craig and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Locklear attended the state fair in Birmingham Thursday night.

Mrs. Hugh Jones Hostess To Study Club—

The living and dining rooms were artistically decorated in baskets and vases of beautiful fall flowers.

In the absence of the president the meeting was called to order by the vice president, Mrs. Horsley White. After a short business meeting, a most interesting program on "Science of Alabama" was given. Mrs. John M. Vanderveer most interestingly discussed the "Life and Work of General Gorgas". "The Life of Dr. G. W. Carver" was given by Mrs. Dick Hayes. The club was honored to have James Duke Heflin as a guest. He rendered two piano solos. Mrs. Claude C. Craig was made a new member.

At a late hour the hostess served delicious refreshments, assisted by Mrs. Craig, Mrs. Hayes, and Mrs. Omar Reynolds.

The club members present were: Mesdames J. P. Hayes, N. S. Johnson, J. E. Gowan, John Mullins, J. R. Mullins, Claude C. Craig, Grady Heflin, J. M. Vanderveer, J. W. Hayes, M. L. White, J. Watts Moore, Omar Reynolds, M. F. Jones, Omar Reynolds, L. C. Ross. Mrs. John McSwean and James Duke Heflin were guests of the club.

Mrs. James Hugh Jones Hostess—

Members of the Thursday Contract Club were entertained on last Thursday afternoon by Mrs. James Hugh Jones at 3 o'clock. This was the first meeting of the club since they disbanded for the summer.

The home was effectively decorated in a profusion of fall flowers. Two tables were arranged for bridge. After a series of games Mrs. Grady Reynolds held high score and was presented a pretty piece of pottery. Mrs. John Kimmey received the guest prize, which also was a piece of pottery.

Delicious refreshments were served at a late hour to Mesdames Grady Reynolds, J. C. Page, L. F. Gerald, J. W. Hayes, John Kimmey, J. Lee Smith, John Deramus, and Arthur Johnson.

Mrs. Whittle Weds Phil S. Webber In Verbena—

Of interest is the announcement of the marriage of Mrs. Katherine Fitzpatrick Whittle to Phil Sheridan Webber, both of Birmingham, which took place October 6 at the home of the bride's cousin, Mrs. Lila Sheppard, in Verbena, in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends.

An improvised altar was formed in the bay window recess with an effective antique setting. Autumn foliage and garden flowers added to the attractiveness of the scene.

Mrs. Webber wore a traveling suit of coronation blue and gray satin blouse. Her hat and other accessores were in harmonizing tones of blue. Her flowers were a corsage bouquet of valley lilies and sweetheart roses.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held. In the dining room, the table, covered with lace, held on embossed brides cake. Placed on opposite end of the table was a silver basket holding blue argeratum and bride's roses. White tapers in silver holders were placed at intervals throughout the rooms. Other flowers were placed at intervals bouquets of white cosmos.

Following a wedding trip to southern points Mr. and Mrs. Webber will make their home in Birmingham, where he is prominent in business and civic circles.

Guests from Montgomery were: Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Sheppard, Rozanne Sheppard, Mrs. Louise Willingham, and Miss Lila Shephard; from Birmingham were: Mrs. Julia Binford, Robert and Frances Binford, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Whittle, Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Whittle, Miss Fannye Charles Mitchell, and Mr. John Bryon; Mrs. K. C. Redish of Houston, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. Foster Hamilton, of Jasper; and Dr. and Mrs. Warren Baldwin, of Mountain Creek; the Rev. and Mrs. T. K. Roberts, of Columbiana, and Mr. and Mrs. Blocker Williamson, Miss Annie Laura Williamson, Miss Elmore Shephard, and the Rev. Alfred Bowen, just returned from China.

Mr. Phillys Nelson was at home for the week end with his mother. He has been working in Birmingham for some time.

Mr. Proctor Nix, of Birmingham, was in Clanton last week attending duties of a juryman.

Oscar Jones, who is employed with the goyernment and is located in South Alabama, was at home for the week end with his family.

Mrs. Mack Golson and little son, of Prattville, were the week end guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. Hogan.

Miss Guy Lois Dickey, who is teaching in Rockford, spent the week end at home with her parents.

Mr. Ralph Jones, of Birmingham, accompanied by his mother, Mrs. Willie Jones, spent the week end in Montgomery with Mr. Wallace Jones.

Week end guests of Judge and Mrs. L. H. Reynolds were Mr. and Mrs. John M. Bridges.

Dr. and Mrs. C. O. Lawrence had as their guests the past week end Dr. Lawrence's brother, Mr. Bill Lawrence, of Mobile.

Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Webb and children, Bobby and Polly, spent Sunday at Mrs. Webb's home in Jasper.

Prof. and Mrs. Patterson Hicks visited relatives in Montevallo Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. John McSwean and little son, John, were visitors in Montgomery Saturday.

Mrs. J. R. Mullins spent last Thursday in Birmingham, where she was one of hte art judges at the state fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson White were arrivals in Key West Sunday evening over the highway. Mr. White, who is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. White, had been attending the CCC camp at Clanton, Ala., for a period of two years. He was discharged from the organization with an excellent record, it is stated.—Key West (Fla.) Citizen.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Just wondering — wondering friends if we honor our church with the esteem, respect, reverence and holy pride we should. Wondering, fellow workers, if we, as separate individuals, are putting forth our very best efforts for our church. Wondering, fellow members, if we, as individual members, are working for our church as we might work — working as we would if there was a tangible, earthly, coveted reward for our work. Wondering if we are talking for our church in a boosting way like we shall be glad in the future to remember we did. Wondering, friend, fellow worker, fellow member, if we are praying enough.

Sunday school attendance last Sunday was good. Every department is going along good now, and just needs your continuous cooperation to grow uninterruptedly.

The sermon of last Sunday morning was truly inspiring, although the attendance was not what it has been or what it might—and should—have been. The sermon of Sunday night was too good to miss. In the words of one of our good people: "I wouldn't have missed it for anything."

May we look for you and see you next Sunday at Sunday school at 9:45 a.m., at the preaching services at 11 a.m., and at 7 p.m.? Don't miss any of these services for anything.

The members of the Junior Department of the Sunday school are wanted and requested to sing in the choir each Sunday night. We are looking for you and depending on you, Juniors.

Lesson for October 17

CHRISTIAN SPEECH AND CONDUCT

LESSON TEXT—James, Chapter 3.
GOLDEN TEXT—Let no corrupt communication proceed out of your mouth.—Ephesians 4:29.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Words I Say.
JUNIOR TOPIC—A Bridle on the Tongue.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Christian Speech.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christian Words and Works.

Christian speech and conduct may well be studied in the book of James, for he stresses the importance of works as demonstrating faith. There are two common errors—one is to attempt to be justified by good works apart from faith in the Lord Jesus Christ—the other is to talk about believing in him and then fail to live in accordance with one's profession. Some have assumed that James fell into the former error, urging works as a substitute for faith, but an intelligent reading of his epistle clearly indicates that he is in no sense contradicting the Scripture doctrine of justification by faith, but is showing that professed faith which does not result in Christian living is in reality a dead and useless thing.

I. Christian Talk (vv. 1-12).

As he enters upon his searching and convicting discussion of the tongue and its misuse the writer distinguishes between

1. Two kinds of talkers (vv. 1, 2).

a. "Teachers" (v 1.) who have a peculiar responsibility because they stand as the representatives of God at the sacred desk. It is not a place to be sought after, and the man who fills it at God's call needs divine grace and direction that he may speak the truth.

b. "We all" (v. 2). The speech of every one of us counts either for or against God, even though we may not fill the teacher's chair or stand in the pulpit.

2. A single danger (vv. 3-12). All of us have the one danger—lack of "tongue-control." Developing that thought the text first points out that

a. Powerful things need control (vv. 3-5). The horse is a wild and useless animal without the directing and restraining bit. A ship without a rudder will be lost. A tongue needs direction and control, for while a little thing, it is tremendously powerful.

b. An uncontrolled tongue is dangerous (vv. 6-8). How vivid is the imagery of the words before us. A fire spreading and destroying, an untamed animal running wild in all its fury, a deadly poison eating away the life—such is the uncontrolled tongue.

We recognize the truth of these things. We see how vile and careless speech debases man, how words chosen for their power to destroy pour forth from the press, over the footlights, from man to man and literally "set on fire the course of nature" (v. 6).

c. An uncontrolled tongue is inconsistent (vv. 9-12). Again the figure is striking. The fountain which pours forth fresh pure water to sustain life does not at the same time bring forth the bitter brackish water. Fig trees do not bear olives, vines do not bear figs. Nature is consistent and dependable.

But the tongue—ah, that is another matter! How sadly do we confess our failure, for here do we "offend all" (v. 2). We bless God, and defile and destroy man, with the same lips. "These things ought not so to be" (v. 10).

II. Christian Walk (vv. 13-18).

The word "conversation" in v. 13 is an English word which now means "talk" but which formerly meant "manner of living."

1. Words and works must agree (vv. 13,14). It is only right that those who speak of following Christ should prove it in their manner of living. Talk may be smooth and broad in its claims, but the demonstration of its reality and honesty is in the daily walk. This calls for wisdom which is divine—earthly wisdom will not suffice.

2. Earthly wisdom is false (vv. 15,16). There is a wisdom apart from God. Men of the world are brilliant and able, but scrutinize their wisdom and you will find that it is "sensual"—that is, of the senses—or natural as distinguished from spiritual. All too often it is downright "devilish" (v. 16).

3. True wisdom is from above (vv. 17,18). Undefiled, unselfish, uncompromising, but not quarrelsome or stubborn, impartial and sincere—and "full of mercy and good fruits"—such is God's wisdom for the Christian's life.

Strength Unto Strength

The strength of a man consists in finding out the way in which God is going, and going in that way too.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Physical and Spiritual Growth

We develop physically by acquiring for ourselves; but spiritually we develop by giving to others.—Rutledge.

Opportunities

A wise man will make more opportunities than he finds.—Bacon.

University News

Reasons for the shift of the cotton goods industry from the North to the South from 1913 to 1935 are set forth in an article appearing in the Business News, monthly publicaton of the Bureau of Business Research at the University of Alabama.

The article, published in the issue of the News, released recently, was written by Miss Lillie Lee Atkinson, assistant statistician of the Bureau, the writer receiving her B. S. degree from the University's School of Commerce and Business Administration in 1936, and her M. A. degree from Northwestern University in August, 1937.

There are 32 University of Alabama students who are making plans to attend the sixth annual Alabama Methodist Students Conference at Birmingham-Southern College October 15-17.

Nearing mid-season form, Alabama's Crimson Tide football team rolls north to Knoxville Saturday for an engagemen with the Volunteers of the University of Tennessee.

Both teams have been rated among the first three aggregations in the Southeastern conference this year.

Most surprising of the several major developments of the Alabama football team this season has been the uncovering of vast resources of reserve material.

Head Coach Frank Thomas of Alabama has alternated in the use of two teams thus far this season, and has also used third stringers extensively.

Several field trips for University of Alabama geology students will be conducted this fall by the department of geology. Purpose of htese trips is to let the students see geological formations they have studied about.

When Charlotte Sigrest is graduated from the University of Alabama next May, she will leave vacant a room in Tutwiler Hall, main women's dormitory, that has become almost a family "tradition".

The room has been occupied successively since 1925 by four Sigrest girls, all daughters of Dr. and Mrs. O. R. Sigrest of Gadsden.

R. L. Boworon, general superintendent of the Ensley works of the Tennesset Coal and Iron Company, is the new sponsor-in-industry for the University student chapter of the American Institute of Metallurgical Engineers.

When buying a bushel or more of pears, ask the merchant to cut several lengthwise; this will show if they are infected with the brownish decty which starts from the core.

Watch Your Kidneys

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

FACTS FROM THE RECORD

Written By F. G. STEPHENS Publisher of The Southern Democrat, Oneonta

LEGISLATION BENEFICIAL TO THE TRAVELING PUBLIC

The present legislature enacted a number of laws that have added to the convenience and safety of the traveling public.

It passed laws that have enabled the state to pave approximately 1,200 miles of road during the past two years. During this same period 2,300 miles of gravel and sand clay roads were built, and more than 100 additional miles were graded and drained.

All bridges in Alabama have been made free of tolls. There were 15 toll bridges owned by the state, and one privately owned bridge that was acquired by the state, that were made free.

A law was passed creating the highway patrol which has made travel on the highways safer. Drunken drivres are being arrested, as well as others who violate the traffic laws.

Laws were enacted making it unlawful to use gasoline taxes for any purpose other than for construction and maintenance of roads, streets and bridges.

Laws were passed permitting county authorities to participate in two way and three way paving projects.

It passed laws providing for closing grade crossings, and pledged 1|12th of the gasoline tax for the next five years to be used in matching federal funds for paving.

It passed a law reducing the license fee on automobile tags.

A law was passed giving voters the right to vote on a constitutional amendment limiting the use of gasoline tax to building and maintaining roads, bridges and streets.

Inspect sheep now for lice and ticks and dip the sheep before cold weather to check these pests.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean Ashley of Akron, Ohio, left Friday after spending several days here with Mr. and Mrs. Otto Jones. Mr. and Mrs. Ashley will visit friends in Atlanta and Montgomery, and then spend some time in Mobile, Gulfport and New Orleans before returning to Akron.

"Charged With Murder"

"Prisoner at the bar, have you anything to say, why sentence of death should not be passed upon you?"

A solemn hush fell over the crowded court room, and every person waited in almost breathless expectation for the answer to the judge's question.

The judge waited with a dignified silence. Not a whisper was heard anywhere, and the situation had become painfully oppressive, when the prisoner was seen to move, his head raised, his hand clenched, and the blood rushed to his dull, careworn face. Suddenly he rose to his feet, and in a low but distinct voice, said:

"I have. Your honor, you have asked me a question, and now I ask, as the last favor on earth, that you will not interrupt my answer until I am through.

"I stand here, before this bar, convicted of the wilful murder of my wife. Truthful witnesses have testified to the fact that I was a loafer, a drunkard, a wretch, that I returned from one of my prolonged debauches and fired the fatal shot that killed the wife I had sworn to love, cherish and protect.

"While I have no remembrance of committing the fatal deed, I have no right to condemn the verdict of the 12 good men who have acted as jury in this case, for the verdict is in accordance with the evidence.

"But, may it please the court, I wish to show that I am not alone responsible for the murder of my wife."

The startling statement created a tremendous sensation. The judge leaned over the desk, the lawyers wheeled around and faced the prisoner, while the spectators could hardly suppress their intense excitement.

"I repeat, your honor, that I am not the only one guilty of the murder of my wife.

"The judge on this bench, the jury in the box, the lawyers within the bar, and most of the witnesses, including the pastor of the old church, are also guilty before the Almighty God, and will have to stand with me before His judgment throne, where we shall be righteously judged.

"If it had not been for the saloons of my town I never would have become a drunkard, my wife would not have been murdered, I would not be here now ready to be hurled into eternity. Had it not been for the inhuman traps, I would have been a sober man and an industrious workman, a tender father and a loving husband. But today my home is destroyed, my wife murdered, my little children—God bless and care for them!—cast upon the mercy of the world—while I am to be hung by the strong arm of the state.

"God knows I tried to reform, but as long as the open saloon was in my pathway, my weak, diseased will-power was no match against the fearful, consuming, agonizing appetite for liquor. For one year our town was without a saloon. For one year my wife and children were happy, and our little home was a paradise.

"I was one of those who signed remonstrances against the re-opening of the saloons of our town. Half of this jury, the prosecuting attorney on this case, and the judge who sits on this bench, all voted for the saloons. By their votes and influence the saloons were re-opened, and they made me what I am."

The impassioned words of the prisoner fell like coals of fire upon the hearts of those present, and many of the spectators and some of the lawyers were moved to tears. The judge made a motion as if to stop further speech, when the prisoner hastily said:

"No! No! Your honor, do not close my lips. I am nearly through.

"I began my downward career at a saloon bar, legalized and protected by the voters of this town. After the saloons you have allowed made me a drunkard and a murderer, I am taken before another bar—the Bar of Justice—and now the law power will conduct me to the place of execution, and hasten my soul to eternity. I shall appear before another bar—the Judgment Bar of God—and there you, who have legalized the traffic will have to appear with me! Think you that the Great Judge will hold me, the poor, weak, helpless victim of your traffic, alone responsible for the murder of my wife?"

"Nay. In my drunken, frenzied, irresponsible condition I have murdered one, but you have deliberately voted for the saloons which have murdered thousands, and they are in full operation today with your consent.

"All of you know in your hearts that these words of mine are not the ravings of an unsound mind, but God Almighty's truth. You legalized the saloons and made me a drunkard and a murderer, and you are guilty with me before God for the murder of my wife.

"Your honor, I am done. I am now ready to receive my sentence and be led forth to the place of execution. You will close by asking the Lord to have mercy on my soul. I will close by solemnly asking God to open your blind eyes to your own individual responsibility, so that you will cease to give your support to this dreadful traffic."—From Alabama Christian Advocate.

WOMAN'S MISSIONARY UNION

The Chilton County Woman's Missionary Union Quarterly meeting will be held at Cane Creek church on Thursday October 21, at 10 o'clock. All Members of each W. M. S., officers and nominating committee are urged to be present, as this is the time to elect officers for another year.

Just a few words cannot handle this great work, God has given each one a talent to do some one thing or more for His Kingdom work here on earth, and let's do not hide it, but get busy about our Masters work, for the day is far spent and the laborers are indeed few.

Make an effort to be there and receive a blessing.

BIGGEST CIRCUS FEATURES "INDIA"

Mighty Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Presents Hosts of New Internationally Famed Features

The Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey combined circus, known the world over as The Greatest Show on Earth, making its 1937 tour with a seven-ring-and-stage program of which it is unusually proud and featuring a new and dazzling introductory spectacle, India, will positively exhibit in Montgomery Thursday, October 14th.

With 2,000 people and animals participating in its brilliant pageantry, India fills the world's largest big top with moving color, flashing gems, costly habiliments, gorgeous robes and headdresses, rare fabrics, ornate floats, dazzling banners in a panorama of ineffable beauty. It surpasses all previous spectacles in every respect—in cost, in color, in splendor and in immensity.

This year the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey agents have been amazingly successful in contracting outstanding foreign attractions and features. The circus great of the entire world are with The Greatest Show on Earth. The famous William Heyer of Holland and his wonder horses; the celebrated Magyars, Europe's largest and most thrilling somersaulting troupe; the great Aloys, sensational aerial upside down glider and flier; the Lu-Lolita family of aerial thrillers; the Maysy-Brach troupe of lofty unicycle acrobats; the Qualtieros, airplane sensationalists; the Cleveres, acrobatic whirlwinds—these are but a few of the top flight new acts from abroad. The Naittos, with Nio, only girl somersaulter on the tight wire; the Yacopis, The Uyenos, the Maschinos, the Yom Kams, the Cannestrellis, the Walkmirs, the Antaleks, and the Torrence-Dolores are European stellar groups, as are the Wallendas, the Loyal-Repenskis, the Rieffenachs, the Walters, Mlle Gillette and the great Rudy Rudynoff.

The Concellos, the Comets, the Randolls, the Rooneys, the Belmonts, the Melbournes, the Fiorettas and the Palmeros head the great aerial displays. There are 800 performers in the five rings, on the two stages, in the air and on the quarter mile hippodrome track as the 1937 program unfolds.

The mighty combined circus will arrive on four long trains of 100 bouble length, steel railroad cars, carrying 1600 people, 50 elephants, 1009 menagerie animals and 700 horses.

We review our parent-teacher accomplishments, appraising them in terms of our objects that we may not in our enthusiasm depart from that purpose to which all of our endeavor is dedicated — the welfare of children and youth.

GOVERNOR'S PROCLAMATION

Whereas, the interest and devotion of the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers to the cause of childhood and youth has been of valuable service to the State; and

Whereas, the ideal which has been so tenaciously held by them, that nothing is so important as the child, its environment and its education; and

Whereas, the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers has always come to the rescue when assaults have been made upon education by those who insist upon false economy; and

Whereas, the future of the State depends upon the future of its children—

Now, therefore, I, Bibb Graves, as Governor, do hereby proclaim the week beginning October 17th, to 24th, inclusive, as PARENT-TEACHER WEEK and request its observance by all citizens of the State during that period, that the physical, mental, social, and spiritual welfare of our boys and girls may be safeguarded, and especially do call attention to the agency through which this high purpose may be accomplished — The Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Great Seal of the State of Alabama to be affixed at the Capitol, in the City of Montgomery, on this, the 16th day of August, 1937.—Bibb Graves, Governor; attest, Howell Turner, Secretary of State.

MARS HILL

Our Sunday school was kindly short Sunday, but we hope everybody will come out next Sunday. We have a real good subject for our lesson, "Christian Words and Works."

Next Sunday evening is our regular singing evening, and we invite other communities to come be with us.

Mr. and Mrs. Velpo Mims are moving to Birmingham this week, and Mr. H. C. Montgomery and family are also moving to Birmingham. They will be missed much, but we hope they will all like their new homes.

Mr. Everette Lawley and Miss Eula Langston were quietly married last Saturday. We wish the young couple a long happy and prosperous life together.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Bernice Childress on Monday, October 4th, a baby boy, of which they are very proud.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Waldrop are the proud parents of a nine and one-half pound baby boy, which arrived on the 5th.

Miss Evelyn Warn visited Miss Eula Bee Ray Sunday.

Mrs. Sudie Smith spent Sunday with Miss Dovie Leach.

The singing at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Velpo Mims Sunday night was enjoyed by all,

Remember our services and we invite you to come.

CANE CREEK

Last Saturday and Sunday were our regular preaching days. We had a large crowd Sunday and Sunday night. Our B. Y. P. U. is improving, and the interest in the B. Y. P. U. is good. We had several visitors Sunday.

Some of our members attended the B. Y. P. U. convention that was held at Maple Springs Sunday afternoon.

The W. M. U. will meet next Friday afternoon, October 15. On Thursday after the 3rd Sunday, the W. M. U. quarterly meeting will meet with us. We invite all the ladies in the community and adjoining communities to come and bring your lunch and spend the day with us.

Rev. J. P. Littleton will preach for us next Sunday at 11 o'clock, Sunday school at 10 o'clock and B. Y. P. U., at 6:45.

Our singing society will meet on the 4th Sunday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Singers have a special invitation to come help us out. Bring your new song books.

We are glad to have Mrs. Lelia Belle Smith with us as our school teacher. We believe she will be a great help to us in our church as well as in our school.

NAMES OF LAW VIOLATORS WILL BE PUBLISHED

The Union-Banner is hereby announcing that in making our report of law violations, taken from the records in the Sheriff's office, that of the Mayor of Clanton, and of State Patrolmen, the names of the violators will be published.

It is not our desire to humiliate anyone, but this is done in order that the committing of crime may be made less inviting to people so disposed to disregard the law.

Therefore, if you get caught by city, county or state officers, you may expect to see your name in the paper the following week. And when it does appear, do not blame anyone except yourself.

Thursday, November 11 Begins Annual Roll Call Of Red Cross

Intensive Drive For Memberships Will Be Made In Chilton County Again This Year. Red Cross Is Humane Agency

Armistice Day to Thanksgiving Again Designated As Roll Call Period

And again, the time has rolled around to begin thinking and talking American Red Cross and the season for the annual roll call for memberships. The period will begin on Thursday, November 11th, and close on Thursday, November 25th, according to J. Mell Martin, roll call chairman for Chilton County. The organization of forces all over the county is being perfected, so that the drive will be carried to all parts of the county.

Last year the roll call netted a total membership of 212, and less than one month after half of that amount of money had been sent into national headquarters there was a storm in the southwestern part of the county in which eight families were left some without homes and some with damaged homes. For the relief of these stricken families, the national Red Cross mailed the local chapter a check for $600.00. This was the storm in which Mr. Sewell, Mr. Owens, and others suffered damage last December. For the relief of these storm victims, there was raised locally a total of $127.85 in cash and 54.25 in clothing. From the above figures, one can readily see that Chilton County has received much more from the Red Cross than we have paid into it. The storm relief back in March, 1932, will also bear out this statement, when the Red Cross built homes and donated hundreds upon hundreds of dollars for the relief of storm sufferers in the neighborhoods of Lomax, Union Grove, and Lawley.

As further activity of the local Red Cross there might be cited some of the work done for the flood sufferers in the mid-west early last spring. For the relief of these sufferers there was raised in Chilton County a total of $1,379.30 in cash, and $1,345.10 in food and clothing.

Also Mr. Martin points out that most of the work done locally in the county this past year was for the aid of pellagra sufferers in the county. Most of the money kept in the local chapter from last year's roll call was used for this purpose.

The local officials of the Red Cross wish to extend words of appreciation for the response given on all occasions of the past. Our people have responded in a most noble manner, and those in charge are most grateful for it.

Red Cross Handled Greatest Disaster In Peace Time History During The Past Year

As an agency of the American people, the American Red Cross last year cared for the largest number of disaster victims in the organization's peace time history, it was revealed recently by Dr. C. O. Lawrence, chairman of the local Red Cross chapter.

"During the recent Ohio-Mississippi Valley flood the Red Cross gave assistance to 322,300 families," Dr. Lawrence said. "This represented 1,450,000 individuals and far exceeded the number we were forced to care for during the previous all-time high water in 1927."

To carry out this great relief task, Dr. Lawrence pointed out, American people generously contributed more than $25,000,000 to be administered by the Red Cross.

The local chairman said, however, that while the Red Cross had been called upon to assist victims of 24 floods during the year, a variety of other disasters called for relief work. These included cloudbursts, dust storms, earthquakes, epidemics, explosions, forest fires, hailstorms, a landslide, mine explosions, mine fires, tornadoes, truck accidents, typhoons, and general windstorms.

"In all, the Red Cross assisted victims of 128 disasters during the year, including 106 in continental United States," he said.

"Disasters struck 36 states, Alaska and the District of Columbia, and touched 384 counties. The American Red Cross also assisted victims in the Phillipine Islands and in three foreign countries in answer to calls from Red Cross Societies there for assistance."

HAYES CHEVROLET COMPANY TO HAVE PARTY FRIDAY NIGHT

Minstrel and Pictures Will Be Presented at Used Car Lot at 7 O'clock

There will be a free picture show and minstrels at the Hayes Chevrolet used car lot Friday night of this week, October 22nd, beginning at 7 o'clock. The admission will be free, and everybody is invited.

At the close fo the program, the spectators will be permitted to get the first squint at the new 1938 Chevrolet. Dick and Jack ask their friends to be their guests on this extraordinary occasion. Read more about it elsewhere in The Union-Banner.

CLANTON SENIOR I BOY IS A REAL DRAFTSMAN

Kenneth Thompson, Senior I student at Chilton county high school, is what one might call a real amateur artist (and not so amateur either) when it comes to mechanical drawing.

Evidence of this fact is on the bulletin board in the office of Superintendent of Education Luther E. Little in Clanton. The specimen is a very fine likeness of a compound microscope, and the Thompson boy is said to have drawn it free hand.

It would not be time lost if you dropped in Mr. Little's office and saw this drawing. Kenneth Thompson is a nephew of Mr. Leo Thompson, operator of Clanton Laundry.

AMERICAN LEGION CONFERENCE

Montgomery, Oct. 8. — The second annual American Legion District Conference of the Fifth District will be held in Birmingham, Ala., on October 29, at 6 p.m. The Fifth District comprises the following counties: Jefferson, Shelby, Chilton and Autauga.

This is a very important meeting, at which the Legion's program for the ensuing year will be outlined, and reports of the various posts in the District will be received. All Legionnaires in this District should attend this conference. It will be held at the Redmont Hotel.

Many outstanding state officers of the American Legion will be present and make addresses. Among those who have accepted invitations to appear on the program are Dr. B. F. Austin of Montgomery, Department Commander; R. S. Ward of Hartford, Department Vice Commander; and D. Trotter Jones of Montgomery, Department Adjutant. In addition to these, many of the Department Committee Chairmen, and Area Commander Otis R. Burton of Talladega are expected to be present.

District Commander W. S. Buck of Fairfield will preside at the conference. Each post commander in the district should contact his membership and ascertain how many members will attend the conference and notify the Commander of the host post in order that proper preparations may be made.

FOUR ROWS TO THE EAR

Mr. E. E. Plier of Clanton Route 1 left with The Union-Banner one day last week two ears of corn, on which had grown four rows of grains to the ear. The rows are about full and fairly regular. The grains are exceptionally large.

DR. J. TOY WILLIAMS HERE

The congregation at Clanton Baptist church was greeted with a message by Dr. J. Toy Williams, returned missionary from China, last Sunday and Sunday night. Dr. Williams brought two fine messages; the attendance was rather small on account of the bad weather. Until the mission board releases him to go to China, Dr. Williams and his family are living in Tuscaloosa, Ala.

STATE SINGERS CONVENTION IN MONTGOMERY NOV. 13-14

The Alabama State Singers Convention will hold its fall session in Montgomery the second Sunday and Saturday before in November, which is November 13 and 14. The place of meeting is the new municipal auditorium, and there will be a session Saturday night at which nearly all singing will be by quartets. There will be the best quartets in the South to take part in Saturday night's program. Mr. Arthur Heustess is chairman of the convention; new officers will be elected at an executive session of the convention. Delegates from all county conventions in the State will constitute the electors for the State officers for next year.

All singers everywhere are invited to attend this convention.

FLOY DEVAUGHN WILL TEACH A VOICE CLASS

J. Floy Devaughn will begin a voice class at the home of Mr. T. E. Wyatt, Monday, October 25th. The class will be private, and will last 30 minutes. The price will be 50 cents per lesson, 3 lessons a week. He will teach on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

He is a pupil of Vaughn's School of Music, of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., and studied voice at Dalton, Ga., and Detroit. Anyone interested may write J. Floy Devaughn, Clanton, Ala., or call at The Union-Banner.

MRS. CHESTER MIMS IS BACK IN BEAUTY SHOPPE

Mrs. Chester G. Mims has returned home from a visit to Chattanooga, Tenn., and is now back in the Helene Curtis Beauty Shoppe. She will be glad to have her friends call to see her when they want beauty work.

PREACHING AT THE FIRE BAPTIZED HOLINESS CHURCH

There will be preaching at the new Fire Baptized Holiness Church at Clanton on Saturday night, October 23, and Sunday at 11 o'clock. Everyone invited.

JESSE FRANK FOSHEE IS GOING GOOD AT ALABAMA

Jesse Frank Foshee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion D. Foshee, of Clanton, and former member of Chilton County High School "Tiger" teams, is cutting a pretty nice through as a member of the famed Crimson Tide at the University of Alabama.

Jesse Frank doesn't get a lot of credit from the Birmingham and Montgomery papers, because they have their Bostick, Monsky, Kilgrow, Holm, and others, and naturally they only follow the human bent to boost the home boys first and most.

However, Jesse has been assigned the same position that team captain Monsky holds down. And when you are listening to a Tide game, and hear that Monsky is leaving the field, you can know then that Foshee is taking his place, and filling the shoes of the captain of any team or group is a rather responsible undertaking. However, those who have seen the Tide in action so far this year, say that Jesse Frank is nobody's slouch in that "thin red line", but in there on every play, and getting his share of the tackles and hard knocks.

Jesse Frank was one of the best linemen Chilton High ever had, and so far as we can remember, is the first Chilton County boy ever to make the varsity at Alabama—certainly he is the only one in recent years. He has plenty of grit, and he "knows his stuff."

So, when you are by your radio listening to an account of the next 'Bama game, listen for Foshee's name—you'll hear it often enough. Or if you attend in person, look for the big boy in action—you'll see plenty of it on his part. Chilton County and Clanton—all of us—are proud of Jesse Frank Foshee. He's our boy in that Alabama line that is known throughout the football world.

Chevrolet Announces New Models For '38

Noteworthy advances in performance, economy, safety, durability and style, gained through systematic refinement of features already thoroughly proved in the hands of the public, mark the two new passenger car series which Chevrolet is introducing for 1938. Both lines embody an improvement destined to rank as outstanding in the industry this year—the revolutionary new "Tiptoe-matic" clutch combining more positive action with greater operating ease, and adding importantly to the safety, comfort and durability of the car.

The 1938 line, Chevrolet engineers assert, represents important advances over even the highly successful 1937 models. Refinements extend to bodies, both interiors and exteriors, and to numerous units of the chassis, design of which, however, remains fundamentally unchanged. The power plant in both series is the 85-horsepower high-compression valve-in-head six-cylinder engine whose power, economy, smoothness and freedom from service interruptions are already familiar to millions of owners throughout the world.

All models have Chevrolet's perfected hydraulic brakes, all-silent, all-steel turret top bodies by Fisher, and the trouble-free hypoid rear axle. On the Master DeLuxe series, Chevrolet fully-enclosed knee action is starting its fifth year.

Outwardly the most notable change in the new Chevrolets is their advanced styling, which is especially evident at the front end. The top of the hood sweeps forward from the cowl in a graceful curve, to cap the lamost vertical flat-topped radiator and grille. The latter, a radical improvement over previous design, consists of chromium-plated horizontal bars, flowing back from the center line of the grille to blend into the radiator shell. Accentuating these lines, every fifth bar is of double width, pin striped down the center with vermillion enamel. The new Chevrolet emblem, in cream letters on blue, embossed in a die-cast winged shield, is centered at the top. The speedline which introduced a new style note is continued in 1938.

Dr. Gragg Well Pleased With Outcome Of Chilton County Fair

Well we had the Chilton County fair. I did not have much to do with it. The Kiwanis made it one more of their many successful objectives.

While I was not very active, there were others who put forth almost superhuman efforts and worked day and night. And in spite of a late start, half time raining, and a license of one hundred and fifty dollars from the State and one hundred dollars from the City of Clanton; it was a grand success in every way.

All expenses were paid, including policing the grounds. All individual and community displays that won prizes or awards have been paid in full, and, so far as I know, not one cent is now owing for anything, and a few dollars left on hand.

It was a bundle of surprizes to me. I was surprized at the many and wonderful agricultural and home demonstration displays that were put on with only about one month's notice. What could we do if we started now, take a full year, as we should, to get ready, to get together and grow these things especially for this display.

My next greatest surprise was that, after some of us had lost considerable time, put out lots of energy and some money, to hold a county fair to put our farmers in position to display their products for their benefit, and to get a crowd here to spend money with our business men and keep our money at home rather than go to Birmingham or Montgomery to a fair and trade there; I say my next greatest surprise was that our own town charged $100.50 for a county fair license, although there was no schedule for any such license. And right here, I want to say that last night I heard one of our leading merchants say that he found the fair crowds from almost every section of the county brought him a most satisfactory trade, and he considered it a money maker for him.

Another surprise to me was the large midway that catered to the public in such a smooth and satisfactory way without trouble or criticism.

Another surprise was the free shows which were the largest and most varied that I had ever witnessed at a county fair. Some of them were big enough and good enough for any State fair.

Right here I want to pay my compliments to all who took part in this county fair, especially those who got up such good displays within such a short time. My hat is off to you.

Now I wish I knew the sentiment of our farmers and business men. Do we want another county fair next fall or do we not? Please, you who would take part, express yourself freely for or against it in the papers or by letter to me.

If we are going to have it, say so now, so that the necessary buildings, Etc., may be arranged in time to accommodate a good fair and stock show.—Dr. V. J. Gragg.

ERNEST LITTLETON FOUND GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

The trial of Ernest Littleton, charged with murder in the first degree, was held in Circuit Court here last Friday before Judge Arthur Glover. The jury returned a verdict of manslaughter, first degree, and the court imposed a sentence of five years in the penitentiary. Littleton took an appeal, the bond being fixed at $750.

COY LOCKHART IN AUBURN

Among the list of Chilton county boys at Auburn will be found the name of Coy Lockhart, now doing first year's work there. He is the son of Jim Lockhart of Clanton Route 6.

Coy graduated from Baker Junior High School, then later from Chilton county high school, class of 1936. In Auburn he is studying to be a veterinarian, and has prospects of being a good one. A neighbor of Coy's—an opposite however in politics—extends congratulations and best wishes that he makes the outstandingest mule doctor in Alabama.

The Leader Anniversary Sale Is Going Over Fine

Many Have Already Taken Advantage of Offerings, But There Is Still a House-Full of Big Bargains Left

HAD BIGGEST DAY SATURDAY IN HISTORY OF 18 YEARS HERE

Mr. Maurice Lande and the personnel at The Leader express themselves as being mighty well pleased at the response the trading public of this section has accorded them on the occasion of their Eighteenth Birthday Anniversary Sale, which begin last Friday. Many have come, seen and bought, and gone home sublimely pleased with the values received; but still a house-full of the most astounding bargains ever offered in Clanton—or most any place else—is still there for you.

Mr. and Mrs. Lande and the clerks in the store ask The Union-Banner to express their gratitude and appreciation to the trading public for sharing with them their jubilation on this once-a-year occasion. They have already enjoyed the visits from hundreds of friends and customers, and during the coming week they hope to have the pleasure of waiting on still multi-hundreds more.

Just because the sale has been running a week, do not think that the best is already gone—that is not the case. New goods are arriving every day to replenish the stock as space is emptied—fine, new, seasonable goods bought in huge quantities, hence the price is altogether right.

You may be sorry for a long time if you fail to take advantage of the exceptional bargains offered during the remaining days of this Eighteenth anniversary sale at The Leader. Better act now than be sorry later.

JOBLESS MAN HAULED FROM ALABAMA RIVER

Montgomery, Oct., 18.—An elderly man tentatively identified as J. J. Hampton, of near Clanton, was reported by the police last night to have been pulled from the Alabama River, near the Union Depot, by a negro boat tender. Drenched and shivering, Hampton told police that he was jobless and without funds. Detective O. M. Cobb quoted the man as saying "there didn't seem to be any other way out." He was sent to a hospital for the night on the order of a city physician.

CLANTON GOSPEL TABERNACLE

Rev. J. J. Dubose has been called as pastor for this church for the next year. He filled his first appointment last Sunday and preached two wonderful sermons. The blessing of the Lord was felt by all present.

Our Sunday school is growing. We invite all who do not go to Sunday school at present to come and be with us. We have a class for everyone. All look alike to us, rich or poor. We are also helping the poor and needy. Jesus said that when we give to the poor we lend to the Lord; He also said, "it is more blessed to give than to receive."

You are welcome to all our services.

WORLD'S PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 1 IS HONORED AT WHITE HOUSE

Washington, Oct., 18.—Cain invented murder—was branded with God's curse and driven from the face of the earth—a fugitive criminal.

In our day comes murderer Vittorio Mussolini, proud son of an arch murderer—and beautiful American women vie with high officialdom in feting and coddling this "hero" who, in his own words, "enjoyed as a beautiful sport" his dropping of bombs on defenseless and unoffending Abyssinians. This young son of the world's Public Enemy Number 1, still boastfully flaunting his own mark of Cain, bedecked with medals commemorative of his slaying of thousands, is received at the White House and honored by a professedly Christian civilization — while the blood of Abel cries up from the sands of Ethiopia.—By James E. Pope.

BAND CONCERT AT COURTHOUSE FRIDAY NIGHT THIS WEEK

There will be a concert by the Clanton Band at the courthouse Friday night of this week, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. Admission will be free. Everybody is invited to come out and hear the Clanton Band.

Big Race Now Being Run To Exciting Finish

"Who Will Go Under The Wire?" Is Big Question Now Being Asked On All Sides

Nothing Succeeds Like Success; and the Only Way to Top A Hill Is To Keep Climbing

One week longer to run your score up in the Banner's subscription drive.

That week will go by with a rush. Everybody connected with the campaign will be on the quiver! The hours will pass swiftly, and 6 o'clock Saturday, October 30th, will come all too soon for those who are interested.

There is more interest being manifested in the campaign just at this time than at any other time during the campaign. Everybody is talking about it, and are speculating on which of the contestants will go under the wire in the lead. The candidates are now doing better work than at any other time. Their friends are rallying to their support in a very satisfactory manner.

The goal is now in sight! Each candidate for the beautiful new Chevrolet car and the cash prizes can now take his or her final aim and go forward with a winning stride.

Each contestant is requested to check up carefully with the campaign manager some time during the next week that his or her count may be verified beyond the shadow of a doubt.

Now, here is breaking a bottle of the best soda pop in the city of Clanton over the bow of the printing press in honor of the candidate who goes under the wire first at 6 p. m., Saturday, October 30th. Nothing succeeds like success, and the way to climb a hill is to climb. Who will get the Chevrolet car and who will win the cash prizes? The candidate themselves will have to answer that question.

Let each candidate exert himself or herself for another week, and then the strain will be over. All that will be left then will be the shaking the hands of the winners.

MINE EXPLOSION VICTIM BURED AT JEMISON TUESDAY

One mine explosion victim was buried in Chilton County Tuesday of this week, he being Mr. Onnie T. Davenport, age 37 years. He, with 33 others, was killed in Mulga mine near Birmingham late Friday night when an explosion occurred four and a half miles from where the shaft entered the ground.

The body of Davenport was brought to Clanton Monday afternoon by Spigener's ambulance and left at the home of the victim's sister, Mrs. Lake Jones. Burial was at Jemison Tuesday, Spigener directing.

Surviving are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Davenport of Jemison; two brothers, C. A. and J. E. Davenport; five sisters, Mrs. A. W. Butts, Mrs. E. Manuel, Mrs. E. V. Brown, Mrs. P. M. Blackwell and Mrs. Lake Jones.

The Mulga mine explosion was throught to have occurred when a miner struck a match to light a safety lamp. A mechanical lighter was supposed to be used for that purpose instead of a match.

Davenport had been unemployed for sometime, according to reports, and was killed on the second shift he worked after taking up his new job.

CHILTON TAKES ON SYLACAUGA NEXT FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Next Friday afternoon, October 22, Chilton High takes on the Aggies from Sylacauga, at 3:00 o'clock on the local field, in what should be a good game. The Aggies are said to have a good team; we know the Tigers have; and it should be a grand scrap.

Don't forget—Friday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock at the high school park.

ARKANSAS NEW DEAL CANDIDATE DEFEATED BY AN INDEPENDENT

Precedent of 77 Years Broken When Democrat Was Defeated By Free Lance

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 19. — In a precedent upsetting special general election, the Arkansas electorate yesterday rejected the candidacy of a Democratic nominee unreservedly pledged to the New Deal and sent to the United States Senate Congressman John E. Miller, Democrat, who ran as an independent.

Miller will succeed the late Senate Majority Leader Joe T. Robinson for the term expiring January 1, 1943. His victory over Gov. Carl E. Bailey marked the first defeat of a Democratic nominee for a major Arkansas office by an independent in 77 years. Miller promised independent action in the senate.

PROMINENT VISITOR TO BE HERE AT KIWANIS CLUB MEETING

Captain E. Potter Smith, of the State Highway Patrol, will be the guest speaker on the subject of the evening. The club is glad to have Capt. Smith, and urges all members to be present.

This is the annual meeting of the Club, and a full attendance is urged. The subject of "Safety" is of importance to all.

THE LEADER

MANAGER, M. LANDE

CLANTON, ALABAMA

IN MEMORY

On Friday, October 8th, the death angels wafted away the spirit of little Vera Nell Minor to it's Heavenly Home. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jodie Minor, who lives near Sunshine church. She was the victim of an extended illness that resulted in her death at St. Margaret's Hospital in Montgomery.

All was done for her that loving hands, attending physicians and nurses could do, but God called and Vera Nell did as you and I must do, "Answer The Call."

It is out of a heart of love and sympathy that the writer offers these lines in behalf of the family. Remember, that "All Things Work Together to the Good of Them That Love The Lord."

Vera Nell would have been 20 months of age, October 26th, 1937. She leaves to mourn her death, her father and mother, four brothers, Dewey, Reedie, Marcus and Bernie; one sister, Ethel.

The funeral was held at Sunshine church, with Revs. Lockhart and Parker officiating; Martin & Sons in charge.

CHANGE IN TITLE TO OLD AGE INSURANCE SOCIAL SECURITY ACT

Mr. Martin C. Folmar, Field Manager of the Social Security Board Office at Birmingham, calls attention to the fact that the term "Bureau of Old-Age Insurance" has been substituted for that of "Bureau of Old-Age Benefits." This is the division of the Social Security Board which administers provisions for working people who qualify for old age insurance.

It was pointed out by Mr. Folmar that the change in name will aid in clearing up misunderstandings concerning the two old age measures of the Social Security Act—that is Old-Age Assistance and Old-Age Insurance.

"Old Age Assistance, (public assistance for the aged) is relief measure intended to provide financial aid for people 65 years of age or over who are unable to work and have no other means of support," said Mr. Formar. Old-Age Insurance is based on wages and will be paid to wage earners who are entitled to it, regardless of need.

MARS HILL

On October 14th, our community was made sad over the death of Mrs. Ida Leach. She was laid to rest in the cemetery at this place, with Rev. J. N. Green, the pastor, conducting the funeral services. She leaves to mourn her death, a husband, Mr. Robert Leach; two daughters, Mrs. Esther Cofer and Mrs. Annie Payne; three sons, Edgar, Hall and Luther Leach; one sister, Mrs. Dora Terry; two brothers, Mr. Charlie and Martin Langston.

Next Saturday night and Sunday are Bro. Green's regular appointments, and we invite everybody out to hear him.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sturdevant, October 15th, a nine-pound baby boy, of which they are very proud.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Baggett spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Claud Underwood.

James Abbott was the guest of Milton and Winford Smith Saturday night.

State Capitol News

Montgomery, Ala.—With the cotton market crash from near record production forecasts steadily sending prices to levels making crop production unprofitable, Senator Dixie Bibb Graves last week urged immediate remedial action when Congress reconvenes.

Senator Graves said she did not have a concrete plan to offer at this time but pointed out that she recently appealed to congressmen from cotton producing states to submit to U. S. Senator John H. Bankhead, leader in the crop control movement, and his brother, Senator William B. Bankhead, their views on how the problem can be met. From such suggestions she believes an acceptable plan can be worked out.

"That means foreign purchasers are laying in heavy supplies of the American staple while the price is down and our Southern grower foots the bill," the governor declared. He endorsed Senator Graves' view that the time for action is "now, before the cotton farmer is wiped out."

Announcement by Frank Bunkley of Mobile that he "already is running" for the first congressional district seat now held by his fellow townsman, Frank Boykin, stirred considerable interest at the capitol last week. Bunkley said he would defer formal announcement "until the proper time." Boykin has made no formal announcement of seeking re-election but is regarded as a certain candidate. He has been active with Governor Graves in seeking PWA funds for Alabama and is in frequent conference with the executive here.

Senator Dixie Graves has added Administration at Washington against closing state PWA headquarters here November 1. Senator Graves declared many pending PWA undertakings make it desirable for a state office to be maintained in the capital city. Under a recent order, the Montgomery office, under H. S. Geismer, was to be consolidated in general southeastern headquarters in Atlanta.

Governor Bibb Graves spent Thursday of last week in Atlanta presenting the south's case to an interstate commerce commission examiner for lower freight rates. The governor, as spokesman for a conference of southeastern states, declared that unless relief is granted, development of southern industries will be further strangulated.

Mr. Ermon (Tinhorn) Johnson, is now on his way to the Hawaiian Islands, where he will serve in the U. S. Army.

One Hundred Thousand Extra Votes

LAST CHANCE

—TO GET 260,000 VOTES FOR NEW 5-YEAR SUBSCRIPTIONS.

—are given away with every $10 worth of subscriptions, new or old. As close as the race for the big motor car now stands, much importance is attached to the results secured while the big Third Period vote schedule is in effect.

IMPORTANT DATES—The "third period" vote offer, the biggest of the remainder of the campaign, ends Saturday night, October 23, at 6 o'clock. The entire campaign ends October 30.

YOUR CHOICE—Will be governed entirely by your own personal efforts and the interest of your friends to do it all for you. Every home in Chilton County is a prospective customer for you. There are several thousand homes in the county.

How many of these people have you asked to subscribe to The Union-Banner? Think this over and decide for yourself whether you are doing your best.

SECOND PAYMENTS — Second payments on subscriptions given early in the campaign will count for thousands of votes while the "Third Period" is in effect.

Contestants and subscribers alike should keep in mind the fact that second payments on subscriptions will not count for extra votes the last week of the campaign. The next two days is the time to benefit by the "Third Period" schedule.

The next two days' subscriptions will count for almost double the number of votes that they will the final week of the campaign.

THIS IS THE LAST CHANCE candidates have to secure Big Votes. For this reason the winning votes for the automobile can and no doubt will be gotten during this period.

New 5-year subscriptions will count up to 260,000 votes these next two days. Ten such subscriptions count 2,600,000.

Your ultimate success depends largely on what you do in these next two short days before 6 o'clock Saturday night, October 23. Get busy. Show the other fellow what you can do. Don't stand idly by, waiting to see what the other fellow is going to do, but do it yourself. Here's to you! Let's go!

LAST CHANCE

—ONE NEW 4-YEAR EXTENSION FROM FIRST PERIOD COUNTS 390,000 VOTES.

—LAST CHANCE PERIOD FOR EXTENSION OF ANY KIND.

—BETTER BE SAFE THAN SORRY!

Votes Decrease After Saturday, October 23 - Details of Final Count

IN ORDER TO MAINTAIN THE UTMOST SECRECY AS TO THE NUMBER OF SUBSCRIPTIONS TURNED IN BY EACH CANDIDATE THE LAST FEW DAYS OF THE UNION-BANNER'S BIG CAMPAIGN, THE RACE WILL CLOSE UNDER A SEALED BALLOT BOX FROM MONDAY UNTIL SATURDAY EVENING.

DRIVE ENDS OCT. 30

THE CAMPAIGN ENDS PROMPTLY AT 6:00 O'CLOCK P. M., SATURDAY, OCTOBER 30

All subscriptions in the sealed ballot box must be accompanied by cash, money order or certified check for full amount to cover. Personal checks will not be accepted. This rule will be STRICTLY adhered to.

JUDGES

Some of the members of the Advisory Board, selected at the beginning of the campaign, will be asked to act as judges to canvass the findings of the ballot box and award the prizes. It is calculated that it will require some time, however, to canvass the findings in the box and determine the winners. The official results will be published as soon thereafter as possible.

WARNING

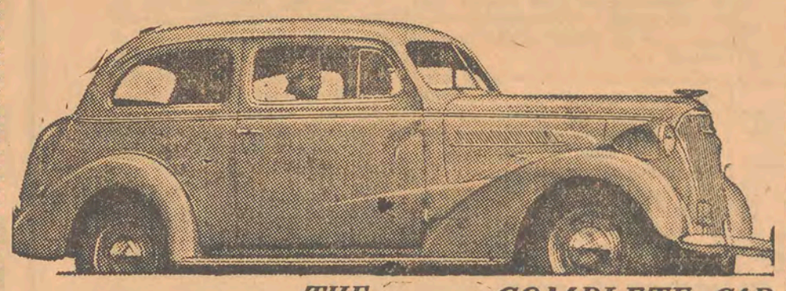
Every candidate is urged to compare his or her totals with the records of The Union-Banner. If The Union-Banner's count is not correct, according to your figures and records, notify the Campaign Manager immediately so that the proper corrections can be made. No corrections will be made after Friday, October 29—CANDIDATES MUST verify and attest the correctness of their counts by Friday, October 29.

All subscriptions, with money to cover, must be deposited in the sealed ballot box before 6 o'clock p.m., Saturday evening, October 30.

OUT-OF-TOWN CANDIDATES ATTENTION

Heretofore, out-of-town candidates have had the privilege of mailing their letters containing subscriptions from their home town as late as the closing hour of the various "period". This will not be permitted the last night of the campaign. ALL votes and subscriptions MUST be in the sealed ballot box when the race is closed at 6 o'clock sharp.

Out-of-town candidates should, where it is possible to do so, arrange to deposit their envelopes in person in the ballot box. But where this cannot be done, letters containing final remittances should be addressed to "CAMPAIGN DEPARTMENT" and plainly marked "FOR SEALED BALLOT BOX—NOT TO BE OPENED". Particular care should be taken to post such letter in time to reach this office before the final hour, and it is advisable that they should be under special delivery stamp.



No subscriptions whatever will be accepted through the Campaign Department the last few days from Monday morning until the close, but instead candidates themselves will deposit the final collections in the SEALED BALLOT BOX, located in the FIRST NATIONAL BANK. By doing so, no one, not even the Campaign Manager or the publisher can possibly know the voting strength of the respective candidates, which precludes any possibility of favoritism, and insures fairness to the minutest degree.

Locked and sealed, the ballot box will be placed in the FIRST NATIONAL BANK, where it will remain from Monda until the closing hour of the campaign—6 o'clock Saturday evening, October 30.

When the final hour arrives the campaign will be declared closed, the judges will break the seal, unlock the box, and immediately thereafter, or as soon as the votes can be issued on subscriptions contained therein, the last count will begin. The winners will be determined by merely adding the published totals which appear for the last time in the next issue of The Union-Banner to reserve votes and those contained in the ballot box. There will be no waiting, no complicated count, but simply a matter of adding the totals and announcing the winners.

THE LAST COUNT

According to the rules of the campaign the ballot box will be locked and sealed and placed in the FIRST NATIONAL BANK, where it will remain until Saturday evening. Candidates and their friends are to drop their votes in the sealed ballot box from Monday until the close. The standing of candidates includes every coupon, every subscription and every vote that has been cast for publication up to and including October 23.

WARNING

In accordance with the rules and regulations published at the beginning, only those candidates who have made a weekly cash report of the campaign are entitled to commissions. It will be best to "stay alive" during the short time that remains making at least one cash report each week.

100,000 REGULAR CLUB VOTES

A special ballot for 100,000 votes will be issued on every Club of $10.00 in subscriptions turned in. This is in addition to the regular votes allowed on every subscription secured up until 6 o'clock Saturday evening, October 30.

Thorsby Junior High School News

Our P.-T. A. met last Friday afternoon at the school building. This was the initial meeting of the presen school year. The meeting was called to order by the president. A program centering around the subject of "Safety in traffic as a present day need," was prepared by Mrs. Williams. Professor Griffin outlined some of the highlights of the recent state-wide P.-T. A. meeting held in Birmingham. Several plans for the improvements or our school were discussed, with several being drafted. There were thirty members present, a fair representation, but there are other parents who need to join. We hope to see you at the next meeting.

Work is now under way in the construction of additional rooms to take care of the large enrollment thus registered.

Several new students have entered this week. The Junior high department now has 59, and the grammar school 158.

A number of new seats (deskchairs) were installed last Friday.

We regret the extended illness of Mrs. Taylor, 3rd and 4th grade instructor. It is our sincere wish that she may soon recover and be back in her line of duty. However, we are indeed fortunate to have Mrs. Mixson to ably carry on Mrs. Taylor's classroom work during her absence.

Rev. L. L. Stanley, pastor of the Congregational church, visited our school last Monday morning and conducted the chapel exercises. He presented to the student body a most inspiring 10-minute talk on the subject of "The Hard Way versus The Easy Way of Life."

Athletics began to take on more color last week when the Independents opened up a barrage of uncanny shooting for the basket in their first practice game of the season. The junior high team will meet coach Shaw's Black and Gold quint from Union Grove tomorrow, (Friday) night, at 7 o'clock. This will be classed as only a practice game, but come out and see the boys go gunning for each other.

Thorsby Institute News

Next Friday night, at 7:45, in the Institute auditorium, Miss Kathryn Foss of the Institute family, and Mrs. Henry Stanley of Clanton, who has done program work over W. A. P. I., will give a concert to which the public is invited. Miss Lois Townsley will give a reading. No admission will be charged.

The first open meeting of the Helen Keller Literary Society was held Friday night in the auditorium. The music and the play, "Thanks Auwfully" were very much enjoyed. Miss Lois Townsley coached the play.

The six week term tests take place Thursday and Friday of this week. The new term will begin October 25.

November 13, has been set aside as stunt night. Admission of ten cents will be charged. Every one is invited.

The young people's Christian life conference will be held November 26, 27 and 28. All young people are invited. A registration fee of 50 cents will allow one to attend the banquet, breakfast and supper out of doors.

Christian Endeavor News

The Christian Endeavor Society held its weekly meeting on Sunday, October 17, at 6:30, in the fellowship room of the Congregational church.

The program was centered on missionary work. The topic was "The Roads of a Missionary." Ouida Mae Wright was the leader. The following took part: Margaret Golson, Inez Duke, Ruth Clark, Miss Townsley and Elizabeth Battles.

Special music was provided by Margaret Golson and Frances Wood.

A business meeting was held at the close of the meeting, and Ouida Mae Wright was elected a delegate to the district convention to be held at Blackwoods church, Headland, Ala. Margaret Golson and Richard Petersen had already been appointed delegates to the convention.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

DOAN'S PILLS

The saddest sign on road or street—
"Concrete Ends—400 ft."

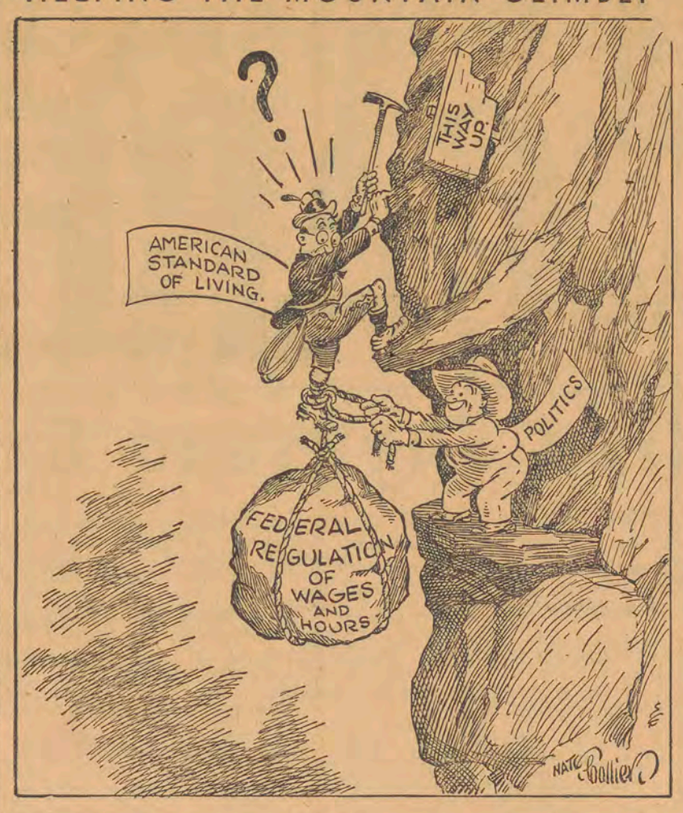
For Safety's sake PAVE THE GAPS WITH Concrete

Why do state highway departments warn the public: "Concrete pavement ends"?

Because it is universally accepted that speeds which are reasonable and safe on concrete become dangerous on other surfaces.

To save lives, to prevent accidents . . . demand concrete all the way.

True and even, it has no high crown—is usable to its full width. Brakes are at their best on its gritty non-skid surface. Its light gray color and sharply defined edges give high visibility at night. Any car is a better car on concrete.



And concrete saves money for motorists and for taxpayers. Insist on concrete for your roads.

HELPING THE MOUNTAIN CLIMBER

First Factory of 100-Year Old Firm

ON the corner of 6th and Main Streets in Cincinnati stood this building, the first factory-warehouse-store of the company which is celebrating its 100th anniversary as the largest manufacturer of soap and allied products in the United States.

Founded by two young merchants, William Procter, a candle maker, and his brother-in-law, James Gamble, a soap maker, the firm of Procter & Gamble was established in August, 1837.

During the century of its existence, Procter & Gamble has played an important and noteworthy part in the industrial life of the nation. It was one of the first firms to apply scientific research to the manufacture of its products and one of the first firms to adopt a policy of enlightened and fair relationships with its employees.

At first the Company sold its products from door to door in what was then the little frontier city of Cincinnati. Its business spread to include the city of Louisville, Ky., and soon its shipping crates, trademarked with the now-famous stars and crescent moon, became a familiar article of commerce along the Ohio River.

Today the products of Procter & Gamble are in millions of homes, throughout the world, and the names of its products are familiar household words in every civilized land.

IN MEMORY OF T. J. HUBBARD

On Sunday, October 10, the remains of T. J. Hubbard were laid to rest at Macedonia with his loved ones who had gone before, in the presence of a vast concourse of his friends. The floral offerings were beautiful and abundant.

Mr. Hubbard was baptized back in the 80's, at the hands of Elder James M. Gothard. He was a man of loyalty —loyal to his family, his friends, his community, his county — an honest man. His dying testimony was that he had "tried to do right, and wherein he had failed, for that he asked forgiveness, being all he could do."

He was a descendant of one of the pioneer families that located in West Chilton around 100 years ago. As a public official, he was a friend to the poor, a man of leniency.

In his passing we have hope that he will ultimately live again; his recovery from death is sure.

his recent (international) declaration through to its logical conclusion. Moreover, congress adopted a Neutrality Act at the last session. The president took it upon himself to repeal the principle of the act.

"Now the job for the congress will be to decide whether the president's own policy is to be followed, or whether we are to adhere to the policies which the last congress adopted."

Landon called for "workable" revision of the Wagner Labor and Social Security Acts, and in general charted a Republican viewpoint for the forthcoming special session of congress. He assailed in particular the administration's governmental reorganization proposal.

There will be singing at Sriendship Church Friday night of this week, October 22nd, beginning at 7 o'clock. Everybody is invited to attend.

REPUBLICANS, REGISTER NOW THROUGH DECEMBER

The Union-Banner again wishes to call to the attention of the Republicans of Chilton County the importance of our young voters registering during the next few weeks. The Board of Registrars will begin registering on Thursday, October 14, at the courthouse. Voters may register either when the Board is in session at the courthouse or while they are in your respective beat.

If you know of a young Republican, or one who has recently moved into your beat, impress upon him or her the importance of registering and getting qualified to vote.

LANDON SEES ROOSEVELT'S POWER AS A GREAT PERIL

Curb On President Is Plea of G. O. P. Leader In Radio Address To Party Tuesday Night

Topeka, Kan., Oct. 19 — Alf M. Landon summoned the nation's Republicans tonight to shut off "too much power" for the Roosevelt administration, and to insist upon "workable legislation achieved by constitutional methods."

Landon asked of President Roosevelt "How far does he intend to go in pursuing international peace?"

"We are faced with a situation," said Landon, "where he may make a mistake that would indeed be tragic that might lead to war. Close observers have increasing doubt if he thought

TALLADEGA COUNTY REJECTS LEGAL LIQUOR IN SECOND VOTE

Dry Margin Over 600; Margin Last Spring Only 97 Votes

Talladega, Oct. 19. — Voters of Talladega County today decided to retain prohibition in a referendum called by repeal advocates who sought to reverse Talladega's traditionally dry position.

The unofficial tabulation of votes from 29 of the 36 boxes tonight gave 1,207 for repeal and 1,845 for retention of prohibition.

The seven missing boxes, all rural, are in territory which has been dry in previous elections.

Talladega was the fifth dry county to vote on repeal since the March 10 referendum, in which 24 Alabama counties ended prohibition in Alabama.

Geneva County will vote November 9, the first wet county in which a referendum has been called.

In the March 10 election, Talladega was dry by 97 votes. In 1935, the county gave prohibition a margin of approximately 600.

READY TO BRING YOU RELIEF IN MINUTES

THE REASON
BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a tumbler of water.

By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating.

This speed of disintegration enables genuine BAYER Aspirin tablets to start "taking hold" of headache and similar pain a few minutes after taking.

YOU can pay as high as you want for remedies claimed to relieve the pain of Headache, Rheumatism, Neuritis, Sciatica, etc. But the medicine so many doctors generally approve — the one used by thousands of families daily — is Bayer Aspirin — 15¢ a dozen tablets — about 1¢ apiece.

Simply take 2 Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Repeat, if necessary, according to directions.

Usually this will ease such pain in a remarkably short time.

For quick relief from such pain which exhausts you and keeps you awake at night — ask for genuine Bayer Aspirin.

SOCIETY

Mrs. L. F. Gerald Hostess—

Members of the Thursday Contract Club were delightfully entertained on last Thursday by Mrs. L. F. Gerald.

The lovely home was decorated effectively in a profusion of dahlias and other fall flowers.

Two tables were arranged for bridge in the spacious living room. At the conclusion of a series of games, Mrs. Hugh Jones held high score and was awarded a dainty crystal gift. The guest prize, also of crystal, fell to Mrs. John Kimmey.

Mrs. Gerald served delicious refreshments to her guests, who were: Mesdames J. Lee Smith, J. C. Page, J. W. Hayes, Hugh Jones, Arthur Johnson, John Kimmey, Norman Roberts, Frank Callen.

Mrs. John Kimmey Entertains With Bridge Party—

A pretty affair of the season was the bridge party given by Mrs. John Kimmey on last Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Three tables were arranged in the living and dining rooms, which were decorated in baskets of autumn flowers and potted plants.

The high score prize, a pretty crystal fruit juice set, was awarded Mrs. J. W. Hayes; cut prize, a dainty sugar and cream set, fell to Mrs. John Mullins.

At a late hour a tempting salad plate and hot coffee were served to the following guests: Mesdames Hugh Jones, John Mullins, J. W. Hayes, Claude Craig, Billy Smith, Frank Callen, Henry Stanley, Dubb Huddleston, John McSwean, Jackson, Paul Locklear.

Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Edgar Compliment Mr. and Mrs. Broadus Connatser, and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Connatser—

On last Friday evening Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Edgar entertained with a picnic at Gulledge's Camp, honoring their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Broadus Connatser, of Tulsa, Okla., and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Connatser, of Chicago, Ill.

At 8 o'clock a picnic lunch, with the Hallowe'en idea carried out in the salad sandwiches and cakes, was served to the guests. Games and dancing were enjoyed. About 40 guests enjoyed this hospitality.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hayes Entertain With Dinner Party—

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hayes entertained recently with a pretty dinner party.

The home was effectively decorated in baskets and vases of dahlias and roses. The dining table, covered with an Italian cut cloth, was centered with a crystal bowl of pink and white rosebuds and fern. On each side burned pink tapers in crystal holders.

A 4-course dinner was served to Mr. and Mrs. John Hollis, Mr. and Mrs. J. Hance Alred, Mr. and Mrs. J. Lee Smith, Mrs. Arthur Johnson, and Mr. and Mrs. Hayes.

Mr. and Mrs. Dubb Huddleston and little daughters, Anne and Pat, spent Sunday in Tuskegee with Mr. Huddleston's parents.

Mrs. Claude Goodman and Miss Thelma Rasberry were business visitors in Birmingham Monday and Tuesday.

Mr. Henry Floyd of Opelika spent last Friday here with relatives.

Mr. Claudie Pipes spent Sunday in Birmingham with Mrs. Pipes, who is visiting her sister there.

The friends of Mrs. Bob Alexander are delighted to know she is improving rapidly from a recent operation, and is at home after being in St. Margaret's Hospital for two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Hosea F. Downs are attending a postmasters' convention in California.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hayes of Chicago arrived this week to spend the winter months at their home here. They were accompanied home by Mrs. J. P. Hayes who spent several days as their guest during the city series between the Chicago Cubs and the White Sox.

Mrs. Dubb Huddleston and little daughter, Pat and Anne, Mrs. John McSwean and John, Jr., and Mrs. Dick Hayes and Helen were visitors in Montgomery Saturday.

Mrs. James Wade returned this week from a 10-day visit to Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. Wade in Ft. Myers, Fla.

Miss Littie Dunn of Sylacauga will be the guest of Miss Myrtle Pitts this week end.

Miss Jane Pitts, a student at Alabama College, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy M. Pitts.

Mr. and Mrs. Patterson Hicks are entertaining the high school faculty with a dinner at the Thomason Hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Hollis, and Mr. and Mrs. Pitts are included as guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Searcy and Mr. and Mrs. Varnell motored to Knoxville for the Alabama-Tennessee game last Saturday.

SHELBY HIGH 31 — VERBENA 2

Verbena High School went to Columbiana Friday to play Shelby High. At the first of the game it seemed as if Verbena would hold her own, but the tide turned in the second half.

Columbiana outnumbered Verbena in men and weight. Also, Shelby High lost no players last year, while Verbena lost seven.

Verbena got within a foot of scoring and perhaps would have scored in the fourth quarter, but hte time was up.

In the first quarter Verbena punted down to the 5-yard line, and on the next play Shelby was downed behind the goal line, which gave Verbena two points.

Next Friday, October 22, Verbena will play Marbury on the latter's field. This game is expected to be a good one, with a close score.

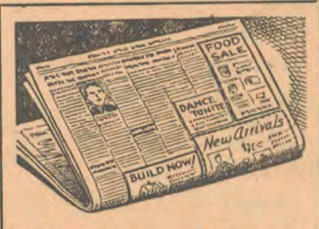
...teen Speed Boats Expected in Great International Gold Cup Race On Labor Day

By LATTIMER SHAW



THE United States will be invaded this summer and the invasion will sound like a regular battle, machine guns and all.

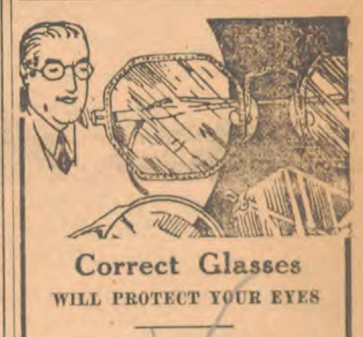
It will be a sports invasion. The noise of it will come from the roar of high speed engines, totalling 7,000 horsepower or more, in $250,000 worth of 90-mile-an-hour racing motor boats participating in America's oldest and most glamorous marine speed contest, the Gold Cup race. This year the 90-mile blue ribbon motor boat event will take place at Detroit on Labor Day, September 6. Thrown open for the first time in 33 years to foreign boats and drivers it will be the most spectacular international motor boat race ever held, with two boats from Italy, three from France, one from England and one from Canada competing against a possible ten of the finest American speed craft driven by George Reis, Horace Dodge, Victor Kliesrath, Bill Horn, Frithiof Ericson and other veteran Yankee pilots.

The foreign invasion will be led by the young and personable Count Theo Rossi of Italy. An officer in the Italian Army, Count Rossi is not only the leading motor boat sportsman of Europe, having created and raced 22 high power speed boats during the past ten years, several of them to world's records, but he is also one of the most successful industrial figures in his country, as Europe's vermouth king, being head of the great Martini and Rossi vermouth company, known all over the world. Count Rossi's other boat will be driven by Guido Cattaneo, engineering officer of the famous Isotta-Fraschini Motor Company, and world record holder in the 12-liter Gold Cup class at 85.51 miles an hour.

Three new French speed creations will be brought over by Maurice Vasseur, Emile Piquerez and J. Dintilhac, all wealthy and experienced devotees of marine speed. The boat from Canada will be Miss Canada II, the new craft of E. A. Wilson, of Ingersoll, Ont., with a new 12 cylinder, 450 hp. supercharged Miller motor. The British boat will be Delphine IX, with a supercharged Miller motor, owned and driven by Horace Dodge, whose other boat, Impshi, present holder of the Gold Cup, will be driven by the veteran Commodore Ericson.

A crowd of more than 500,000 people is expected to witness this thrilling international speed contest which will undoubtedly be the high spot of our greatest marine racing season.

"Cross View of Life"



That's what some critics say of a new book which exploits one or two unusual characters.

But the real cross-section of life is found among the ad pages of this newspaper.

Here are folks who are building, furnishing and keeping homes. They are feeding, clothing and training children. Homes, homefolks and home children give us the true picture. The folks who read our ads are planning for a better tomorrow. A better tomorrow for them means a better tomorrow for our advertisers . . . and they will be alive when a new book is displaced by some other sensation.

WHERE, OH WHERE, HAS THE SCHOOL MONEY GONE?

When the present legislature first convened, the schools of Alabama were in a bad way. "We must increase taxes for the sake of the schools," went up the cry, although the new state administration had gone in on a plea of economy and tax reductions.

And so, in one way or another, the Legislature provided more income. The sales tax was need for schools, it was said; so a sales tax was voted. Legalization of liquor provided additional revenue.

Alabama accepted the sales tax without undue protest because the citizens believed it would relieve the school situation. Schools are very close to the heart of the taxpayer, and when convinced that schools are in need, he will dig down into his jeans for additional support.

But of late there have been a number of indications that the schools are still in a bad way. Dr. Frank Grove, editor of The Alabama Educational Journal, says 2,000 more teachers are needed in Alabama. The Birmingham public school system has funds for only a seven-month term, with a deficit even then of $450,000. The reserve built up by the City Board of Education is exhausted.

Rep. W. S. Welch told the Birmingham Real Estate Board that the Legislature had voted the state a $22,000,000 increase on the plea that the schools needed money, but that apparently the schools had gotten only $2,500,000.

Where has the money gone? Oh well, maybe it has gone into good causes, all of it, but the point is that it has not gone to the schools in sufficient amounts to enable the schools to meet their minimum program. And to that extent the public has been deceived and it has been cheated.—Birmingham News.

They say that every third baby born in the world is Chinese, but the Japs are doing their best to liquidate the surplus Chinese population.

"ONLY" $9,000,000,000!

There seems to be considerable confusion as to just how big the national debt is. One member of the appropriations committee puts it in the neighborhaad of $40,000,000,000, while another member of the same committee places it between 36 and 37 billions. Likewise, they disagree as to just how much money the last session of congress authorized the government to spend. One concludes from his figures that it was in excess of $10,000,000,000, while the other estimates it was "only" $9,000,000,000!

Granting that the discrepancy is mostly due to political heckling based on technicalities regarding reappropriations, etc., the fact remains that even optimistic calculations leave a staggering total, a total far beyond the present revenues. And, the most that optimists hope for in fiscal 1938 is a "layman's balance"—that is, a balance except for public debt retirement.

As the New York Times points out: "This is not a reassuring calculation, even if it works out. For it means that expenditures are now at so high a level that even the boom years of a business cycle do not provide for the retirement of debt accumulated during the depression years. Under such a policy, there is nothing to keep the debt from mounting endlessly."

WE'VE COME A LONG WAY

This past October 12 marked another anniversary of Columbus Day—445 years from the day Christopher Columbus and his adventurous voyagers sighted the western world.

The United States, as part of the new world, has come a long way since that discovery. Today it stands as the wealthiest and most democratic nation of both the old and new world. It is a nation whose citizens have more of the material wealth that makes for better living and happiness than of any other nation.

There are many important chapters in America's history of progressive development. Every phase of that history is important, but two are of particular import to every one of this nation's 130,000,000 citizens. One is the growth of our nation under the Constitution of the United States. The other is the development of America's progressive industrial system.

Without the Constitution as it was drafted by our forefathers, Americans today would not have the freedom of speech and action that they have found vital to their happiness; without American industry they would not have those things which make their lives more comfortable, healthier and happier.

Industry provides American workers with the money and material needs with which to live a fuller life; the Constitution protects those possessions. Without either, the liberty and possessions of which we have so rich a share could not be preserved for us and our children.

Child labor has shown a striking decline since 1900, the number of children employed in manufacturing industry today amounting to but one-half of one per cent of total manufacturing employment. All the time there are fewer and fewer children at work and more at school.

In a Rochester hospital color movies are being made of the blood stream. It would be interesting to know what proportion of them are blue.

MAN IN THE MOON

BACK AGAIN, FOLKS

Well, here I am back again, folks. It's been almost a year since this column ran regular. When it stopped, some didn't seem to miss it, some did, some asked about it and wanted it started again, some merely asked why it was stopped, and maybe there were some who were glad to see it stop, although, if there were any like this, they had the decency and good manners to say nothing, but just offered a silent word of thanks.

The truth of the matter is that when a fellow works about 60 or more hours a week on a regular job, he doesn't have an awful lot of time to devote to sitting in front of a typewriter putting together articles for someone to read—and perhaps sneer at. It looks very easy but suppose you take a fling at it just once. You'll learn things.

But I am trying it all over again. I hope to be able to keep the old column going every week. If, however, some week you should find your Union-Banner carries no "Man in the Moon" column, you can be sure that the reason is that the old star gazer just didn't have the time to put it all together, or was too tired and sleepy to think it all up.

In beginning again, I want you to know that there are a few things I know about this column and the different impressions it makes on different people. I know there are some who read it, and like it. There are others who read it, but don't like it. Some read it because they want to see what I have to say that pleases them, while others will know in advance that none of it is worth while, but will read it just the same, if only to find out what new crazy ideas I have hatched up. I know that some agree with me, and appreciate it. I also know that others do not agree with me, nor do I expect it. Those who do not agree have the same right to their view as I have to mine, and I would be the last to deny any of them that right.

However, you who do read and like my column, remember, I would appreciate your word of commendation—not to me, but to your friends. To you who do not like it—just remember there is no law to force you to waste your time with it, and I will not feel the least little bit slighted if you pass it by just as you would a smallpox sign. And with that—here goes!

LET'S LIGHT THE ATHLETIC FIELD

Not long ago a rumor got around that plans were on foot to light the athletic field at the Chilton County High School. It was the general impression that some kind of committee had been appointed to look after the particulars of it all—the money, and a few little necessary items like that. But of late I have not heard much about it. What has happened? Do we get the lights, or don't we?

I believe the project would be a successful one, in case anyone is standing back on account of the money involved. I went to Tallassee Friday night with the Chilton Tiger team for their game there under the lights. I saw one of the prettiest athletic fields any high school and moderate sized city could ask for. A nice grandstand, fine bleachers, and everything as clear as noon-day under the big light clusters. And was there a crowd present? There was—and a big one!

Many people will go to games of any kind at night who cannot possibly do so by day, because of their work, while those who can go during the day can usually go at night, too. At Tallassee Friday night, I believe I saw more Clanton people than usually attend a game here in the daytime. Receipts for that game must have been between $300 and $400, perhaps more. And after the football season, it is not long until baseball comes along, and that would provide more games than baseball—and more money to help pay for the new "stadium". I see no reason why it would not be a financial success here—it is in every other town and small city where it has been tried.

I saw Mr. John C. Page at Tallassee, and it may be that he was taking a look at the prospects of a lighted field. I understand that he is the chairman of the committee working on this project, so perhaps he can and will tell us something about what to expect. What about it?

MY PET PROJECT

And while we're on the line of public benefits and civic improvements, there is another item I'd like to mention—again. I suppose everyone at some time or another has a pet project tucked back in the close corners of his head, somewhere. Dr. Gragg's big idea was an airport for Clanton—and he finally got it through. He had another, a Chilton County Fair—and he has made a fine beginning on that, even if there were a few official stumbling blocks thrown in the way. Mayor Jones and others believe we should have a new and different telephone system, and are going at the preliminary business of getting it.

And I, too, have a pet project. I have studied about it much, and have mentioned it a number of times in the past, but never seemed to get anyone interested enough in it to start anything. That project is a radio broadcasting station for our City of Clanton. True, Clanton is a small city, but even so, we could do with a small station, and let it grow with the city. As to the cost, I am advised that it would not be so high, and that advertising, both local and national, support such small stations in a big way.

I think it would be great for Clanton to have such a station, daily telling Alabama and the world that "this is station WCHA in Clanton—the Heart of Alabama". That's only a suggestion, of course, the call letters. I believe it would be a fine thing, and worth every cent it would cost. Our city would certainly receive some worthy and much-needed advertising. Suppose you talk it over with your neighbor, with members of the various civic clubs, and with the mayor and city fathers. Let's hear what you think of the idea.

It is becoming increasingly plain that occidental footholds on the Asian continent will become less and less tenable as time goes on. If Japan succeeds in mastering China she will take over all the perquisites; if not, China herself will become more and more self-assertive. American interests in China are, frankly, not worth a war.—Los Angeles Times.

The Department of Commerce has reported that the paint consumed annually in the United States would cover a fence 500 feet high entirely encircling the earth. The amount of lipstick used each year by American women would paint 40,000 barns.

AGITATORS—THEN AND NOW

The author of the following words can hardly be accused of having an axe to grind in the present situation, for he has been dead nearly 90 years. Yet his words ring peculiarly true today as we see irresponsible agitators fomenting riots, strikes and property seizure. That man wrote:

"There are persons who constantly clamor. They complain of oppression, speculation and the pernicious influence of accumulated wealth. They cry out loudly against all banks and corporations and all means by which small capitalists become united in order to produce important and beneficial results.

"They carry on mad hostility against all established institutions. They would choke the fountain of industry and dry all streams. In a country of unbounded liberty, they clamor against depression. In a country where property is more evenly divided than anywhere else, they rend the air shouting agrarian doctrines. In a country where wages of labor are high beyond parallel, they would teach the laborer he is but an oppressed slave.

"What can such men want? What do they mean? They can want nothing but to enjoy the fruits of other men's labor. They can mean nothing but disturbance and disorder, the diffusion of corrupt principles and the destruction of the moral sentiments and moral habits of society."

Yes, the man who wrote this has been dead nearly 90 years. He was the great Daniel Webster.

Profits in American industry for the 11-year period, 1923-1933, including both boom and depression years, averaged but 4 per cent of capital invested.

A writer on finance says America has too many prima donnas. Maybe so, but our prima donnas at Washington pay the folks to listen to their singing.

FACTS FROM THE RECORD

Written By F. G. STEPHENS Publisher of The Southern Democrat, Oneonta

FACTS ABOUT OUR CONSTITUTION

On November 4th, surviving members of the 1901 Constitutional Convention will meet in Montgomery for a reunion.

This calls to mind the fact that our present Constitution was adopted 36 years ago and has served longer than any of its predecessors except the first one which was our organic law for 42 years.

The people of Alabama have lived under six State Constitutions. The first was adopted in 1819 and served until 1861 when the State withdrew from the Union. The one written at this time served until 1865. After the close of the War between the States another Constitution was written which was in effect until 1868 when what was known as the "Carpetbag Constitution" was framed and submitted to the people. It was rejected by a vote of the people, the vote being 70,812 for ratification and 79,566 against it. The Federal Congress, however, put it into effect and it remained in force until 1875 when a Constitutional Convention was called and a new Constitution was framed and adopted.

On December 11, 1900, a resolution passed by the legislature calling a Constitutional Convention, was approved by the Governor. The Constitution framed by that Convention was adopted by a vote of the people in an election held on November 11, 1901. It was put into effect by a proclamation of the Governor on Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, November 28, 1901 and is the Constitution we are living under today.

Wm. D. Jelks, was Governor at the time the Constitution was adopted. In issuing his proclamation putting it into effect he did not state how many votes were cast against it, but stated "that the whole number of votes cast For Constitution is 81,734."

In another paragraph in his proclamation he declares that the majority cast "For Constitution" was 26,879. In no place in his proclamation does he mention the number of votes cast "Against Constitution."

It will be noted that only was the resolution calling the Convention approved by the Governor on the 11th day of the month but the Constitution was ratified by the people on the 11th day of the 11th month, and become operative on Thanksgiving Day which is always in the 11th month.

In celebrating Armistic Day, the day the World War ended, Alabamians might well celebrate the adoption of our State Constitution. Or let it have its place in our celebration of Thanksgiving.

These dates mark important events in our State history as well as important epochs in our National history.

STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

Montgomery, Oct. 18.—One baby died in Chilton County during the month of August before reaching its first birthday, the county's infant mortality rate for that month being 16.9 per 1,000 live births, according to the monthly report of the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health. One stillbirth was reported in the county during that month.

In the State as a whole, 291 deaths of babies under one year of age were reported, the State's August infant mortality rate being 54.9 per 1,000 live births. Stillbirths totaling 228 were reported.

Premature birth was listed as the chief factor in Alabama's August infant mortality rate, 81 such deaths being attributed to this cause. Gastro-intestinal diseases ranked in second place, with 38 deaths, while malformation and diseases of early infancy ranked third, with 36 deaths.

ENORMOUS GAIN IN FEDERAL REVENUE OPENS WAY TO REPEAL OF GASOLINE TAX

A statement by D. H. Bohler, Chairman of the Alabama Petroleum Industries Committee reports that enormous gains in the revenue of the Federal Government will now permit the repeal of the Federal duplicating gasoline tax which was enacted by Congress as a temporary measure in 1932, according to an anlysis of internal revenue statistics by the American Petroleum Industries Committee, which shows that such revenue is nearly four billion dollars above the 1932 level. Repeal of the tax, Mr. Bohler said, would be welcome by the states, many of which have petitioned Congress to withdraw from the field of gasoline taxation. Elimination of the tax would also be pleasant relief to 28,000,000 taxpayers, whose annual gasoline tax bill is increased approximately 25 per cent by the levy.

"In 1932, the year in which the Federal tax was enacted, internal revenue collections, because of the big slump in national income, had dwindled down to $1,557,729,043. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1937, internal revenue collections, exclusive of social security taxes, totaled $4,387,450,007, an increase of 182 per cent over 1932, and the largest amount every collected by the government in a peace-time year. Despite continuous opposition to the duplicating gasoline tax in the face of the enormous expansion in Federal internal revenue tax receipts, the duplicating levy has been extended repeatedly, always with the understanding that it would not be re-enacted.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

HOW FARMERS VOTED AT COUNTY-WIDE MEETINGS

Auburn, Ala.—A summary of votes cast at county-wide mass meetings of farmers in Alabama in reference to the kind of national farm legislation they desire passed revealed:

1. That 92 per cent of those who attended the county meetings voted in favor of a compulsory control program for cotton to be administered by the Federal Government; that 70 per cent of such farmers favored a program based on acreage allotment with no restriction on production or sales of all cotton grown on the allotted acreage; that 79 per cent of such farmers favored that the cotton base should be determined on a percentage of cultivated land rather than a historic cotton production and acreage base.

2. That 99 per cent of those voting favor a program which will permit cotton to use the diverted acreage in the expansion of livestock production and the growth of food and feed crops necessary thereto.

3. That 83 per cent of those voting favor parity of adjustment payments on the entire cotton crop.

4. That 89 per cent of those voting favor that there be a minmum acreage allotted to small farmers regardless of past history.

5. That 89 per cent of those voting favor some provision being made for the new farmer going into cotton production.

6. That 88 per cent of those voting favor parity defined as "net income of farmers equal to the income of individuals other than farmers" rather than parity based on the period 1909-14.

7. That 98 per cent of those voting favor a tariff on jute and edible vegetable oils for the protection of the producers of cotton.

8. That 59 per cent of those voting favor a loan plan to enable farmers to hold surplus production; and that 41 per cent of those voting favor a plan for the Federal Surplus Commodity Corporation to buy any excess surplus that may be produced until it is needed in the market.

ALABAMA IS ALLOTTED $615,531 FOR TENANTS

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama has been allotted $615,531, under Title I of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act, to be loaned to Alabama tenants, farm laborers and share-croppers for the purchase of family sized farms, according to official announcement received by Julian Brown, state director, Farm Security Administration.

Counties in which loans will be made will be determined by the Secretary of Agriculture after recommendations are received from the Farm Security Advisory Committee to be established in Alabama.

FARMERS ARE MAKING SYRUP BY NEW METHOD

Auburn, Ala. — Three Alabama farmers this year made sorghum syrup by the new process which prevents scorching, clabbering and jellying, announces M. D. Harman, syrup specialist of the Alabama Extension Service.

The three sorghum mills operated by Claudie Bice, Rockford Coosa County; A. A. Palmer, Hamilton, Marion County; and J. W. Howell, Jr., Gordo, Pickens County.

"These three syrup plants will manufacture a small quantity of sugarcane syrup when the sorghum season is over," says Mr. Harman in announcing that plans are being made for several plants in south Alabama to manufacture sugarcane syrup in such a way to prevent crystallization to the syrup.

ALABAMA GROWERS FAVOR 5-POINT COTTON PROGRAM

Auburn, Oct. 18. — More than 125 farmers, selected as official delegates by mass meetings in 66 Alabama counties, met here the past week and recommended that "legislation adequate to meet the problems of American cotton growers should provide for:

1. An agricultural conservation program every year, with payments for carrying out soil building practices and payments for diversion of acreage from soil depleting crops such as cotton to soil conserving crops.

2. Cotton price adjustment payments on all cotton produced on allotted acres in any year in which the income of farmers is below parity. This is necessary in order to compensate cotton growers for the tremendous losses they suffer because of the American protective tariff.

3. Loans on cotton or purchase of cotton by government agencies in emergencies to prevent drastic price collapse.

4. Compulsory acreage control every year when necessary to hold the supply of cotton down to effective demand.

5. That yields on which any payments are based in any year be established on the basis of the average for the preceding five years.

These recommendations will be presented by 9 Alabama cotton farmers, P. O. Davis, director, Alabama Extension Service, and R. J. Goode, commissioner of agriculture, to the U. S. Senate Committee on Agriculture when it meets in Montgomery on October 21. Farmers on the committee are: T. M. Borland, Pinckard; N. B. Carlisle, Birmingham R 5; W. H. Crawford, Nixburg; G. W. Creel, Boaz; Allen Grubbs, Eutaw; N. L. Hasty, Mobile; T. H. Martin, Gordo; Clarence McCullum, Huntsville; and Ben F. Strickland, Luverne.

Tallassee Wins Over Clanton 27 to 6

The Chilton County Tigers lost a hard fought game to Tallassee last Friday night. This was the first game Clanton has lost this year, and because they lost is no reason to be ashamed of them. Tallasse's team was much larger than the Tigers, but when they started line plays the Tigers held like pillows of stone, but Tallassee broke loose with a razzle-dazzle and the guy galloped across for a marker.

Clanton held them 6 to 7 in the first half, but during the last half Tallassee began to make those passes work and the score began to climb. Those Clanton boys sure did fight, but it seems Tallassee got all the breaks.

The Tigers are out for revenge, and they tie up with Sylacauga next Friday.

They are jealous of the white mark at the end of the field, and it is going to be hard for Sylacauga to cross. The Tiger is out for revenge, and Sylacauga is the prey. Come down and see a good game Friday, October 22, at 3:00.

TIGERS BOWLED OVER BY TALLASSEE 27 TO 6

Too Much Power, Too Many Replacements Beat Down Plucky Bengals

Last Friday night the plucky Chilton Tigers bowed to Tallassee 27 to 6 for their first loss of the season. It was not to a "better" team that Chilton lost, but to superior numbers, for as long as the boys in Orange and Blue were able to keep their physical strength those Blue Raiders knew they were in a football game.

Outweighed again heavily, and unaccustomed to the lights, the boys from Chilton gave way to a Raider touchdown late in the first quarter. But just as their namesake fights most when cornered, just so our Tigers gave the Tallassee team an idea of what they might expect if they could have had anything like the number of replacements to throw into the place of tiring men.

After Tallassee had worked their way to their first touchdown, the fighting Bengals came right back in the second quarter to drive, drive, drive their way through the big blue team, and would not be denied until the last white stripe was crossed. But that drive, against heavier men, sapped the strength from our Tigers, and as there was no one to replace the tiring boys, they were easy meat the rest of the way. Not too easy, however, for they made the going fairly hard all the way.

But, having given just about all there was in them in that one hard, desperate drive to score, the Tigers were too tired to stop a long, fast pass just as the second quarter closed, which brought the count to 14 to 6, Chilton having failed for the extra point.

Williamson, the spearhead of the Chilton attack, was a marked man as the second half opened, although all the Tigers were putting up an excellent fight, and the Raiders lost no time in "getting" him out of the game, with as brutal a physical assault as could be imagined. The Raiders knew that with Williamson in there, he was a touchdown threat on every play, and so he was promptly kicked in the face. It is significant that this "accident" came just after the Raiders had received their mid-game instructions from the coach, although, of course, it was done so nicely that the referees "didn't see the play" that took the speedy Williamson out; too, no one knows exactly that they had received instructions to "get" Williamson.

With Williamson out, and the other Tigers tired and demoralized by his loss, they were easy prey for the razzle-dazzle passing attack the Raiders displayed—and how it worked, twice, putting the count to the 27 to 6 mark. Williamson went back into the fray in the fourth quarter, and again it is significant that the razzle-dazzle was not tried with him in there. Perhaps he might have snagged one of those loosely thrown footballs and gone to glory land with it; perhaps the Raiders decided that, too, and took no chances.

There is no criticism to be handed the Tigers for losing that game, but a lot of praise is due them for their gallant fight in holding the score as low, and for their determined drive for a touchdown for themselves. The odds were too great. Tallassee had four full teams in uinform, and let on one tell you they are not good, and really know football. They block like a college team, and have plenty of weight, speed, power and drive. The Raiders deserved to win. They have one of the finest high school teams the writer has ever looked upon.

Once again we wish to praise that fighting Tiger team. It gave no ground. What it lost was from sheer difference in power, weight and numbers. During the game, numbers of the Tallassee team's followers warmly admired the Tigers' spirit and the scrap they put up. No one who saw that game has anything but a high opinion of them. Tallassee kept a steady stream of fresh men coming into the game—the Tigers couldn't do that, because they did not have them—and therein lay the margin of victory.

CENTER HILL

Mr. and Mrs. Jno. W. Collum and sons spent Thursday of last week in Birmingham shopping.

Mr. Ottis Littleton and Miss Clorene Simpson were quietly married by Mr. B. L. Cobb at his home Saturday night.

Mrs. L. A. McGraw returned home Sunday from a visit to relatives at Eoline, Brent, and other places.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Price, Mr. and Mrs. William Price and children were visitors to relatives in Dry Valley Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. T. I. Ward of Birmingham were dinner guests of the latter's sister, Mrs. Jno. W. Collum, Sunday.

The people of this community extend their sympathy to Mr. and Mrs. G. E. George in the loss of their daughter, Mrs. Harvey Castleberry, of Coopers, Ala.

Everybody remember next Sunday afternoon is regular singing afternoon at this place.

Mr. B. L. Cobb is having his teeth pulled, and is forced to stay close during this damp weather.

Mr. and Mrs. Lem Sims and daughter of Sylacauga visited friends and relatives in this community over the week end.

We are sorry to hear that Mrs. J. I. Hudman is suffering with granulated eye-lids and sore eyes together.

Miss Irene Lesley is continuing her work at the Central Alabama Hospital in Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Cobb spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb.—Mrs. Jno. W. Collum.

CENTER HILL SINGING SUNDAY

The regular fourth Sunday afternoon singing will be held here Sunday afternoon. We are expecting quite a number of visitors, and singers and directors from other places. Be sure to come and bring your books. Everybody invited.—Mrs. Jno. W. Collum.

MRS. W. H. CASTLEBERRY

On Saturday morning, October 16, about 6:10 o'clock, the death angel visited the home of Mr. Harvey Castleberry, 2½ miles east of Marbury, and carried away his beloved wife. She was 34 years old, and had been sick for almost two years, but had only been in bed since August 2.

She leaves to mourn her going, her husband; five children—Earl, Duffie, Murrell, Earmon, and Delton; her parents, Rev. and Mrs. J. E. George of Jemison; three sisters—Mrs. A. G. Jackson of Elmore County, Mrs. F. L. Gray of Montgomery, Miss Lelia George of Jemison; and a host of relatives and friends.

Funeral services were conducted on Sunday at 11 o'clock by Rev. Lawrence Culpepper, at New Hope church, in Elmore County.

We want to thank all the friends, neighbors, and especially the doctors, for the kindness and charity shown during her sickness and death. May God bless each and every one of you. —A sister, Lelia George.

TIME IS EXTENDED FOR FILING SALE RECEIPTS

Auburn, Ala.—A time extension for filing cotton sale receipts to qualify for price adjustment payments has been announced by I. W. Duggan, acting director of Southern Division, Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Sale receipts on all cotton from the 1937 crop sold up to October 15 must be filed by the grower with his county Agricultural Conservation Association not later than October 30 and receipts covering cotton sold after ctober 15 must be filed within 15 days after the date of sale to qualify for payment.

Previously it had been announced that the grower would be required to file receipts on all sales of cotton made prior to September 15th within 15 days of the date of sale. The extension will enable growers who were not able to submit their sale receipts within the time limits previously set to get their receipts on file. The sale receipts must be filed in the order of the sales.

Payments are to be made on cotton grown in 1937 ond sold before July 1, 1938, up to 65 per cent of a grower's 1937 base production, provided the grower complies with the 1938 agricultural adjustment program. The payment per pound will be the difference between 12 cents and the average ⅞-inch middling cotton on the ten spot markets on the date of sale, the amount not to exceed 3 cents per pound in any case.

FALL AND WINTER ON THE STATE PARKS

Montgomery, Oct. 18.—While the hot sultry days of midsummer drive more people to the woods, mountains and seashores than any other season, fall and winter nevertheless have many attractions as periods of outdoor recreations. The more moderate temperatures contribute greatly to the comfort of hiking and rambling. The clear atmosphere and the changing autumn foliage comprise a background of life in the open unexcelled at any time of the year. Cool evenings and nights afford appreciation of the camp fire and the cabin fireplace. Those with opportunity to spend time in the State Parks during the fall and winter will find their visits peculiarly enjoyable.

Relieved somewhat of the congestion existing during the hot months of the year, Gulf State Park in Baldwin County and Cheaha State Park in Cleburne County have established special rates for the use of cabins and cottages for the period beginning November 1 and extending through April 30.

CARD OF THANKS

Please allow me space to, in a small, way, express my gratitude to my many friends for their letters, cards, and flowers sent to me while in the hospital. I wish to thank them, one and all. Especially do I wish to thank Dr. Fonville for his professional service and kind attention; also, the nurses on the third floor of the Highland Avenue Baptist Hospital at Birmingham. Their kindness to me will live in my memory while life shall last. I can say from the bottom of my heart, "God bless them all!"—Q. C. Meroney.

Lesson for October 24

CHRISTIAN RENEWAL

LESSON TEXT—Titus 3:1-11.
GOLDEN TEXT—For the grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men.—Titus 2:11.
PRIMARY TOPIC—The Good Shepherd.
JUNIOR TOPIC—In His Likeness.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A New Life in Christ.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Renewed Life Through Christ.

The pastoral epistles, of which Titus is one, were written by Paul to his young brethren in the faith who had been called to the ministry of the gospel to instruct them concerning three important matters—(1) Church order and organization, (2) sound doctrine and (3) holy living.

The third chapter of Titus, our lesson for today, deals with the life of believers in Christ in their relation to unbelievers. The great underlying reason why Christians should conduct themselves in meekness and humility toward others is that except for God's grace we who bear the name of Christ would be, and indeed were before our regeneration, just like the unbeliever.

We shall best study our lesson, therefore, by considering first of all v. 3 which indicates the lost condition of man by nature, then follow him through the miracle of redeeming grace, vv. 4 to 7, and finally see him as a living testimony in vv. 1, 2, and 8 to 11.

I. Lost—by Nature (v. 3).

It is not a pleasant picture that is painted in the graphic words of this verse, but, remember, it is God's picture of the unbeliever. He is said to be "foolish"—that is, irrational and senseless in his course of living. He is "disobedient" to the law of God. He is "deceived," literally "out of the way," misled by Satan. He thinks his pleasures and lusts are serving him, but alas, he is only a slave in bondage to and serving them. Such a life can only result in a man's becoming hateful to his fellowmen. They in turn are hateful to him, and so he hates them. Thus the whole world becomes a hateful place where men are "living in malice and envy."

How we thank God that we need not stop at this point. Man is by nature lost in sin—but he may be

II. Saved—by Grace (vv. 4-7).

How sweet are these three words in the sinner's ears! Saved by grace, not works, and made heirs of eternal life.

1. "Not by works" (v. 5). Someone has said that man is determined by one means or another to claim salvation by his good works. To do so may flatter the flesh, but it surely finds no support whatever in Scripture. We are to work for Christ because we are saved, and after we are saved, but no man can be saved by works.

2. "By his grace" (v. 7). God shows his unspeakable kindness and love toward man—saving him by grace, through Jesus Christ. Grace has well been defined as "unmerited favor." We deserve but the just condemnation of our sin, and God in his mercy saves us, through faith in his Son.

3. "Made heirs" (v. 7). Saved now? Yes, thank God! Satisfied? Yes, praise his name! But there is more yet to come. We who deserved only God's judgment are now made heirs of an eternal hope. 'Tis indeed no small thing to be a child of God.

Now—we are ready to approach in the right spirit the admonition to live out our salvation as a daily testimony to others.

III. Witnessing, by Holy Living (vv. 1, 2, 8-11).

The young preacher Titus is told to "put them in mind" to be

1. Subject to rulers (v. 1). True patriotism (and we did not spell it "pay-triotism") stands very close to godly living. National leaders would do well to recognize that the decay of our national life will follow the decadence of spiritual life. A man who is right with God will be right with his fellowmen, and a noble and useful citizen.

2. Meek and kind to all men (v. 2). Meekness is not weakness. Gentleness is the attribute of strong men and women.

3. Maintaining good, avoiding evil (vv. 8-11). It is the tendency of man to divorce morals from religion, to profess a faith which does not touch his daily life. Let us affirm "constantly" and "confidently" (as the R. V. has it) that those who believe in God should "be careful to maintain good works"—yes, and at the same time to "avoid" that which is "foolish," contentious, "unprofitable and vain."

Knowledge and Ignorance

The best part of our knowledge is that which teaches us where knowledge leaves off and ignorance begins.—O. W. Holmes.

Justice

Justice is the idea of God, the ideal of man, the rule of conduct writ in the nature of mankind.—Theodore Parker.

The Test of Truth

The truth makes free, brings joy, hope, encouragement.

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR NATIONAL PARK SERVICE

Richmond, Va., October 18.—Discontinuance of a Civilian Conservation Corps camp assigned for the last three years to a development program at Oak Mountain State Park, 16 miles south of Birmingham off U. S. Highway No. 31, will not affect in any way the work operations in progress at the adjoining Oak Mountain Recreational Demonstration Area, the National Park Service announced today at its eastern field headquarters here.

Development of the demonstration lands, where facilities are being established for a low-cost group camping center available to Birmingham civic and welfare organizations, is being carried forward by relief workers who have no connection with CCC activities. More than 40 buildings, including cabins, lodges, dining hall, infirmary and other quarters, are in various stages of construction with several of the structures nearing completion. A group of the cabins, with sanitation and water systems installed, is expected to be ready by December 1 for short-term occupancy by local camping organizations.

STATEMENT OF THE OWNERSHIP

Management, Circulation, Etc., Required by the Acts of Congress of August 24, 1912, and March 3, 1933, of The Union-Banner, Published Weekly at Clanton, Ala., for October 1, 1937.

State of Alabama, County of Chilton, ss.

Before me, a N. P. Ex. Of. J. P. in and for the State and county aforesaid, personally appeared T. E. Wyatt, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the owner of The Union-Banner, and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management, etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, as amended by the Act of March 3, 1933, embodied in section 537, Postal Laws and Regulations, to wit:

2. That the owner is: T. E. Wyatt, Clanton, Ala.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are: None.

T. E. WYATT.

(SEAL) My commission expires Jan. 4, 1939.

The State of Alabama paid more for the operation of her schools in 1935 than has ever been paid before in the history of the state. Local revenues were less because of the shrinkage in ad valorem tax values. There were more children enrolled in the schools than ever before.

There were 137,188 white school children being transported in buses to and from school in Alabama in 1935. Of this number 87,929 are in the elementary grades and 49,59 are in the high school grades. The number of negroes transported was 2,599.

According to the American Petroleum Industries Committee there are more than ten million families in the United States owning automobiles that have never purchased a new car. They have always bought used ones.

The Panama Canal was completed 23 years ago. Mobile is nearer the Canal than any other American seaport. It is nearer all South American ports than any other port on the South or Eastern Coast of the United States. It is to be made what is designated a "free port" as soon as certain conditions are met. Plans are being made to meet these conditions and will be completed before January 1. There is only one other "free port" in the United States; it is at New York.

Fall farrowed pigs should be weaned at 8 weeks of age in order that the sow may be bred back for the spring litter. Young pigs should be encouraged to eat as soon as possible. A mixture of ground corn 60 pounds, wheat shorts 30 pounds, tankage 5 pounds, and cottonseed meal 5 pounds is an excellent mixture for growing pigs.

Oats and vetch or rye should be planted planted to furnish late winter and spring grazing for the fall farrowed pigs. It has been estimated that green grazing will reduce the amount of grain required to produce 100 pounds of pork 15 per cent. In addition, it reduces parasite infestation by keeping the pigs on clean ground. One acre per sow is recommended.

There are about 10 per cent fewer turkeys on farms in the United States this year than at the same time last year.

Dairymen can materially reduce the amount of grain needed during the winter months by feeding their cows all the legume hay and silage they will clean up twice daily. About 3 pounds of silage and 1 pound of legume hay should be fed for each 100 pounds of live weight of the cow daily. If silage is not available, two pounds of hay per 100 pounds of live weight will be required.

The United States ranks second among the countries of the world in the production of soybeans. During the past two years the soybean crop in this country has averaged nearly 40 million bushels a year, about 8 times as much as it did 11 years ago.

One hundreds pounds of cottonseed meal is equal in feeding value to 170 pounds of cotton seed. It will pay livestock producers to exchange seed for meal this fall.

There are 272 accredited high schools in Alabama for white children, 2,029 teachers are employed, and 59,181 pupils are enrolled.

GAME CONSERVATION NEWS

Alabama Doves Are Reported On Increase

The native dove supply in Alabama is greater than at any time in recent years, according to reports of game wardens from widely scattered sections of the State. Efforts of the U. S. Bureau of Biological Survey, which has control over the migratory dove, and the state departments of conservation to restore the dove population are beginning to show results. Wardens reportea a goodly concentration of doves in the peanut growing areas of the State, with other birds, nests and eggs being observed throughout the entire State.

Alabama has the distinction of being the scene of the first attempt in history to compile an authentic record of the nesting habits and life of the mourning dove.

Quail Restocking

Many inquiries about the Conservation Department's quail restocking program and many requests for birds have been received in recent weeks. The distribution plan for quail, raised on the new state game farm in Autauga County, has not been worked out yet and probably will not be decided until the State Conservation Board holds its semi-annual meeting in January. All of the birds hatched this year—more than 2,000—will be kept for breeding stock next year, and none will be placed in the fields until the fall of 1939. At the proper time methods and procedure of distribution will be announced.

JUST FROM SHOULTS

Mr. Jack Frost visited our bottom land last Wednesday morning. As I was gathering corn I saw a little skim of frost, which made my fingers burn with cold.

My cotton is making a new crop. Had the cool weather stayed off a little longer it would have made another crop. For 10 years I have said that the little man tries to cultivate too much land. They should cut out one-third of the acres, use the same fertilizer, and make more much easier.

University News

"Firing the furnace" is just part of the day's work for Miss Mae-Goodwin Tarver, of Selma, the only girl at the University of Alabama taking the ceramics course, which deals in part with the production of heat by means of furnaces.

Alpha Epsilon Delta, University of Alabama honorary pre-medical fraternity, gave a banquet Friday night in honor of Dr. R. S. Hill, veteran Montgomery physician, at the McLester hotel in Tuscaloosa.

Nearing the completion of his work toward a Ph. D. in linguistics, James B. McMillan, assistant professor of English at the University of Alabama has come to the conclusion that there is "absolutely no evidence" of Negro influence on Southern pronunciation.

Newly-discovered facts, says Professor McMillan, indicated that the Southern dialects was derived mainly from southern British provincial dialects spoken by people who settled in the Deep South.

J. C. Hearne, University student from Cuba, Ala., was selected state president of the Y. M. C. A., at a conference which recently closed at Camp Mary Munger, near Birmingham. He succeeds Wilbert Jordan, of Robertsdale, also a University student.

Having watched the conduct of University of Alabama students for many years, Tuscaloosa Police Chief, H. D. Billingsley believes that the University student body as a whole has outgrown the "hey-hey and rah-rah" period of its existence.

"Although Alabama students never were wild," says Chief Billingsley, "even the usual collegiate pranks have been cut out in recent years, and the studens have assumed a more grown-up attitude."

Prof. Oto H. Lunde, head of the department of aeronatical engineering at the University of Alabama, is the author of an article, entitled "Stabilizing Action of the Dihedral Angle," which is appearing in magazines in the United States and Latin America this week.

Professor Lunde's article presents a visual conception of how the dihedral angle, one that is formed by upward-tilting of airplane wings with the horizontal, tends to return the airplane to an even keel when air disturbances change its lateral equilibrium.

Alabama's Crimson Tide football team, impressive in early-season performances, rolls north to Washington, D. C. Saturday for an engagement with the Colonials of George Washington university.

Both teams have been ranked with the best aggregations of their respective sections for the present season.

Defeated once and tied once during the 1936 season, the Colonials have virtually the same squad that represented the capital city school last season.

Spearheaded by Joey Kaufman, the colonials have a fast-moving ground and aerial attack.

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

Recently the writer received an interesting book on the subject, "Was Jesus Crucified on Wednesday, Thursday or Friday?" This is technically interesting; however, the important things is not what day Jesus was crucified. The important fact is that He was crucified. The Bible is very definite in its teaching about the death of Jesus. Jesus said that He had the power to lay His life down and He had the power to take it again. He said that no man could take His life. According to the Bible, Jesus did not die just a martyr's death. There is something about the death of Jesus that is not true about the death of anyone else. His death was vicarious and substitutional. He died on our account. He died in our place. He paid the debt. Men say the theories of the atonement have changed. That is true. But the Bible teaching about the atonement has not changed. God makes it plain in His Word that Jesus was wounded for our transgressions, and bruised for our iniquities. He bore our sins in His body on a cross.

In the Garden of Gethsemane when perspiration like drops of blood fell from the brow of our Lord He prayed "this cup may pass from Me if it be Thy will". What did He mean by that prayer? Some say that He prayed the prayer because His humanity shrank from the thought of death. Others say that since He was the sinless Son of God the horror of bearing the sin of the world overwhelmed Him. It is not my desire to be dogmatic, but I believe He was praying to be delivered from death in the Garden. It is the writer's opinion that Satan concentrated all of his demons on that one spot, and that Jesus under the assault felt as if life was about to slip away, and He prayed to be delivered from death in the Garden. I think this is set forth clearly in Hebrews. I am positive that Jesus never prayed to stay off the cross. He said, "I, if I be lifted up from the earth will draw all men to Me". This does not apply to His resurrection, although the resurrection was essential. According to the verse which follows the quotation Jesus said this referring to the manner of death He should die. The prophetic finger had pointed to the cross. "Cursed is every one that hangeth on the tree." "In the cross of Christ we glory." It was there that atonement was made for the sins of the world.

19 CHILTON COUNTY STUDENTS AT AUBURN

Total college enrollment is 2,721, which represents an increase of approximately 15 per cent over last year. Eighty-three per cent of those enrolled at Auburn are residents of Alabama, approximately this percentage having remained constant at Auburn for many years. Of the 464 out-of-state students, 361 are from Georgia, Florida, and other southern states.

The complete list of Chilton County students at Auburn is as follows: They are Byron Vinson Bean, Clanton; Jas. Hodo Boykin, Maplesville; Francis Horatio Brown, Maplesville; James N. Dennis, Clanton; Carson John Elland, Chanton; Joseph Walter Graham, Maplesville; Edmund W. Green, Maplesville; Riley Monroe Hayes, Maplesville; Coy Zebie Lockhart, Clanton; Wm. Luther Martin, Clanton; Forest Homer Morgan, Thorsby; Wm. Alton Murrah, Clanton; Charles Vickles Parnell, Maplesville; Virgil Benton Robinson, Clanton; Jack Preston Shaw, Jemison; Dan Crawford Smith, Clanton; Woodfin Smitherman, Stanton; Melvin Woodrow White, Maplesville; and James Dewey Williams, Clanton.

By planting immediately 4 to 5 pounds of Italian rye seed per 1,000 square feet of law area, Alabamians can have green lawns throughout the winter months. The lawn should be fertilized with 5 to 10 pounds of cottonseed meal or mixed fertilizer per 1,000 square feet.

Alabama farmers have $2,601,283 outstanding in loans from the New Orleans Credit Corporation, announces Jesse Hearin, president.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

There are times when we feel that no matter how we work, how we boost our church, or how we pray, it seems that all our work, our boosting, and our prayers are of no avail. It is then our faith is being tested, and if we can stem the tide of discouragement or "blues" which all but overwhelm us, we sooner or later find ourselves happier and stronger.

There are times when it seems we have reached the last foot of the last long mile of our endurance and we feel that life, with all our efforts, is a failure—miserable indeed. How many times have we thought, "Only to God can I turn for this particular need"? And each time we turned in humility and grief and trouble, did we meet a blank wall, emptiness, or did we receive the comfort and help needed? Then we remember and realize the truth of "Man's extremity is God's opportunity". But friends, let's don't wait for an extremity to allow God an opportunity.

We appreciate the attendance of last Sunday morning. Maybe now we know who are the really faithful. Let's rejoice in the faithfulness of those and hope that there are many more just as faithful who were unavoidably kept away last Sunday.

Each department in the Sunday school is really to be complimented on its work now, and as long as each member and worker continues his and her faithful, accretive work, each department will thrive.

May each of us be at church next Sunday at Sunday school at 9:45, and at the preaching services to hear good, inspiring, as well as inspired messages from our pastor.

CONFERENCE NOTICE

The 4th Quarterly Conference of the Verbena Circuit, M. P. Church will be held at Mt. Pisgah church Saturday, October 23rd. There will be preaching at 11 a. m., by Rev. J. M. Truitt, pastor of the Clanton M. E. Church South.

Lunch will be served at the church, and the quarterly conference will be called to order at 1:30 p. m. This is our last round before our annual conference, and we hope to have all reports in full. The public is invited.

Preaching at 11 a. m., and 7 p. m. If you would like to attend an old time service, come out to Mt. Pisgah Sunday and worship with us.—Arthur L. Lumpkin, Pastor.

VERMONT 4-H CLUB GIRLS

The Vermont 4-H Club girls met at 11 o'clock Thursday morning, October 14, at the Vermont junior high school.

The meeting was called to order by Miss Meta Grace. Then we all sang, "The More We Get Together."

After we had finished singing the song, the officers for the new year were elected which are as follows: President, Elverna Klinner; vice-president, Alma Abbott; secretary, Tommie Lou Klinner; treasurer, Myrtle Lee Smith; leaders, Eva Crane, Louise Owen, Louise Sansom and Myrtle Lewis.

There being no other business, we were dismissed by the club pledge until next month.—Reporter.

STATE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Readiness for the development of suitable, new industries in many Alabama counties is revealed by a state wide survey partially completed by the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce to ascertain resources and possibilities of the state.

Considering farm products, natural resources, available labor and other factors in each county, it appears from the survey that there is an opportunity for the profitable operation of many types of industry in various sections of the state, including pulpwood or paper mills in three or more counties, canning plants for vegetables and fruits ni a large number of counties, factories manufacturing crates, hampers, Etc., in several counties, plants manufacturing wood products in at least six counties, ceramic industries in six counties, farm and garden implement factories in two or more of the larger industrial counties.

With some further perfecting of manufacturing process, starch plants utilizing sweet potatoes offer real possibilities to a number of counties now without industry. Cold storage plants would be feasible in at least two counties in different parts of the state, in the large truck growing sections, for preservation of fruits and vegetables when markets are flooded.

The manufacture of certain types of furniture could be considered in approximately five counties, while further development of the textile industry seems desirable in many localities. Garment factories are likewise on important possibility, as well as knitting and silk mills.

As the livestock industry in the state increases, additional packing plants will nievitably follow in four or five counties. At least three counties are ready for creameries. Cheese factories and milk plants are logical in three or more counties in the cattle and dairy sections of the state.

Investigation further discloses counties suited to such developments as asphalt plants, stave mills, creosote plants, cotton seed products plants, chemical plants, other peanut products plants, Etc.

Those of us who believe in the old American tradition of attending to our own business and keeping clear from foreign entanglements may well view with alarm the recent change of front by the Democratic administration. President Roosevelt's Chicago speech, and the following pronouncement from the State Department condemning Japan for aggression in China, indicate a return to the Wilsonian doctrine of trying to make other folks behave. It is a doctrine that has been most thoroughly repudiated at the polls. They will repudiate it again, if given a chance. Meanwhile, however, many close observers believe that Europe and Asia are drifting into another general war. The recent utterances of our leaders tend to carry us along into it with the others, when and if a general war comes.

One redeeming feature of the Roosevelt regime, in the past, has been its non-interference in foreign affairs that do not concern us. In this Mr. Roosevelt has merely followed the Republican lead, as result of a bitter lesson learned at the polls in 1920. In that year, the League of Nations was the issue, with the Republican party opposing American entry into this Old World league, and the Democrats favoring it. Roosevelt was then running for vice president on the ticket with Cox, and went down to crushing defeat on the issue of whether we should undertake to police the world. He seemed to learn something from the lesson, until recently; today, his utterances begin to sound more like those of Woodrow Wilson, when he was preparing us for the last war.

We all remember the noble and high-sounding emotions with which we entered the World War. It was "a war to end war." It would be followed by the millenium, and all nations would live happily ever after. The ghastly failure of these ideals is written in history today. Instead of making the world safe for democracy, we merely succeeded in making the petroleum deposits of Mesopotamia safe for the British oil industry, in making the disputed provinces of Alsace Lorraine safe for France and in making the continent of Europe safe for a new gang of dictators who have replaced the old hereditary rulers. Today, with the exception of England and France, practically all of Europe is ruled by dictators with more absolute power than any Kaiser or Czar ever weilded. In Germany, in Italy, in Russia, the word of one man is law; many of the lesser countries have supplanted parliamentary rule with the rule of the dictator.

The line-up in Europe is a fight between the "haves" and the "have nots". England, France, Russia, have all the territory, all the colonies they want, so they are for the existing order, which gives them what they want. Germany has no colonies, Italy and Japan have few; all three need room to expand; so they are for smashing the existing set-up and forcing the others to split the spoils. Germany, for example, wants her old colonies returned. Before the World War, Germany owned quite a bit of land in Africa. This was taken from her and given to France and England on the pious ground that the Germans were a bunch of brutes unfit to rule over subject populations. The real reason, of course, was the greed of England and France for more territory, and this hypocrisy has not done much to promote world peace.

Japan is undoubtedly waging a war of aggression against China, just as Italy waged a war of aggression against Ethiopia, just as the United States waged a war of conquest against Mexico nearly a century ago, when a large part of our West was obtained from the Mexicans with no earthly claim but force of arms. Today, we have all we want, and so are prone to condemn wars of aggression, even as an old man who perforce can sit no more is heard to rail out against the follies of his youth.

It boils down to this: Are we to allow our sympathy for China, or for one of the warring factions in Spain, to drag us into another World War? The recent action of Mr. Roosevelt in chiming in with the League of Nations indicates that we may. It would seem that the events of the last 20 years should convince anyone of the futility of trying to enforce American ideas of international morality upon the rest of the World. However, it begins to look very much like we might be headed for another attempt.

* * * * * * * * * * *

On his recent Western tour, Mr. Roosevelt was reported as being much interested in popular reaction to the third term idea. One report had him "grinning broadly" when one of his admirers shouted a "Hurrah for Roosevelt in 1940!"

Perhaps it might be a good idea for the Democrats to renominate Mr. Roosevelt and get this third term business settled once and for all. There is absolutely nothing in our Constitution to prevent a president from serving the balance of his life, provided he can get re-elected every four years. The only thing against it is the example of George Washington, which has the force of an unwritten law, and the firm belief of our people that too long a tenure of power by any one man is bad. This belief is well-founded in history. Napoleon Bonaparte, for example, started out by getting himself named "First Consul" for a fixed term, then for life, finally Emperor of France.

If Mr. Roosevelt can get the votes, he is entitled to the office for as many terms as he can win. We would relish the attempt.

HIGHLIGHTS OF E. J. H. S.

The Junior III class of Enterprise Junior High School met on Wednesday, October 13, for the purpose of organizing an English Class Club. The following officers were elected: President, Mitcheline Mims; News Editor, Mary Pearl Griffin; Secretary-Treasurer, Irene Griffin; General Reporter, Elvie Devaughn; Sport Reporters, Samuel Burkhalter and Bunyan Yeargan.

The colors of the school have been changed from orange and black to crimson and blue. Numbers of the students are wearing bands with E. J. H. of blue on the crimson background.

Enterprise school is offering a commercial course in typing and shorthand, taught by a new member of the faculty, Mrs. Elsie Jones, from the Wheeler Business College in Birmingham. We are very glad to have a teacher for these courses. They will be of great benefit to those taking advantage of them.

The school is proud of several new maps, which have made geography, history and civics more interesting.

The Enterprise girls met with Miss Meta Grace, our county agent, to reorganize the 4-H club for the year 1937-38. At the opening of the meeting we sang our opening song, "The More We Get Together". After that, Miss Grace made an interesting talk about her summer vacation. We then elected officers for the year; they are as follows: President, Mitcheline Mims; Vice President, Irene Griffin; Secretary, Inez Williams; Treasurer, Elvie Devaughn; Reporter, Mary Pearl Griffin; Song Leader, Esther Burkhalter; Leaders Dorohty Nell Jones, Margie Sue Courtney, Irene Gray, and Mary Earl Martin. Girls, let's keep our motto in mind, and strive hard to really "Make the Best Better".

The Enterprise boys who are going out for basketball this year met last Friday with Mr. Evans, their coach, and organized their ball team for this year. They elected as their captain, Rayford Jones. The boys were assigned to the following places: Rayford Jones, right forward; Bunyan Yeargan, left forward; Chester Jones, standing guard; Earl Neeley, running guard; Hubert Williams, center. The substitutes are: William Griffin, Edsel Wilkins, and Sam Burkhalter. Although we have lost several of our players, we are expecting to have the best basketball team we have ever had.

Sh! Here she comes! Who? "Here Comes Hattie!" You come, too, and see her. She will make her appearance in the faculty play Saturday night, October 23, at Enterprise Junior High School, at 7:30 p.m. There will be fun, laughter, and interest for about two hours. The characters are: Homer Greene, Clarke Burkhalter; Clara Green, Mrs. Myrtle Taylor; Ann Greene, Mrs. Myra Griffin; Thomas Greene, W. A. Evans; Florence Ryan, Mrs. Betty McLaurine; Bill Billings, Raymond Bonnett; Etta, maid, Mrs. Elsie Jones; Velda Wayne, Miss Elsie Conway; Hattie King, Mrs. Icy Belle Gandy. Admission, 10c, 15c, and 20c. Don't miss it! Come! Don't fail to be here when the curtain rises.

TWIGG-HORNSBY

On October 8th Mrs. Geraldine Twigg and Mr. George Hornsby of Monroeville, were married at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb, near Jemison, with Judge Cobb performing the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Hornsby left immediately for Birmingham and Leeds, Ala. After a short honeymoon, they will return to their home in South Alabama.

Crappies are biting in Walnut Creek. Get Minnows and boats at Walnut Creek Camp.

CANE CREEK SINGING

Our singing society will meet Sunday, October 24, at 1:30 p. m. We invite all singers and lovers of music to come and be with us. Bring your new song books.

We will have Sunday school at 10 o'clock, and preaching at 11. Everybody is invited to attend.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

On Sunday, October 17th, a crowd gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Mims to celebrate Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Smith's birthday and their granddaughter's birthday, Sarah Nell Mims, who's birthday comes on the same day as her grandfather.

At noon a bountiful dinner was served which everybody enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. Smith and Sarah Nell received many presents.

The afternoon was spent in talking and laughing. Though the day was cool and rainy there were several present.

Those included in this affair were: Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Mims and children, Sarah Nell, Edmund, Janet; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Smith and son, Eugene; Mr. and Mrs. Leon Mims, Mr. and Mrs. Gresham Smith and daughter, Marjorie Ann; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Mims, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Mims, Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie Chambers and son, Richard, of Birmingham, and Mr. and Mrs. William Turner.

Late in the afternoon every one departed for their homes wishing Mr. and Mrs. Smith and Sarah Nell many more happy birthdays.

CARD OF THANKS

I hereby tender my thanks to all my neighbors and friends for their valued assistance during the illness and death of my husband, Mr. T. J. Hubbard. Your kindness was a priceless treasure. Particularly do I thank Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Dennis.—Mrs. Belle Hubbard.

POPLAR SPRINGS

Last Saturday and Sunday were our regular preaching days. Services were very well attended, considering the weather. Rev. Robinson preached two wonderful sermons. We hope we will have better attendance when the weather is better.

It was impossible for Bro. Robinson to preach for us Sunday night, but he will preach the fifth Sunday night in this month.

On Monday night after the fifth Sunday we will start a study course at this place. The course will last all through the week, and church members are urged to attend.

Rev. Leslie Gilliland from Sylacauga preached at the home of his father, Mr. W. F. Gilliland, last Friday night.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Summerlin went to Sylacauga last Sunday to visit their son.

Members of this church are urged to attend all services, and visitors are welcome. Where do you attend church? If you do not attend, then visit us.—Reporter.

SIMPSON-LITTLETON

On last Saturday night Miss Clorene Simpson of Clanton was married to Mr. Ottis Littleton of Thorsby. The wedding, which a few close friends attended, was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb, Judge Cobb pronouncing the nuptial rites.—Mrs. B. L. Cobb.

Mr. Briggs Crumpton of Bessemer is visiting his parents in Clanton this week. Briggs has just gotten out of the hospital, following a severe burn. He is now doing fine.

Annual Roll Call Of Red Cross Begins Thursday, November 11

Intensive Drive For Memberships Will Be Made In Chilton County Again This Year. Red Cross Is Humane Agency

When the annual Roll Call of the Red Cross opens on November 11th, Chilton County will be expected to go far beyond the regular quota set in memberships. In fact, this county will necessarily have to go to the very last limit in memberships and contributions if its people wish to repay the American Red Cross for the many outstanding instances in which it has come to the rescue of stricken areas and residents of the county.

The above statement comes from sentiment of those citizens of the county who have experienced just what the American Red Cross has done and is still doing in this county.

Work Is Continual

The work of the Red Cross in this county is not confined to emergencies or disasters such as the county has experienced, but is continually being carried on year after year. As was pointed out in a statment last week by J. Mell Martin, disaster chairman, and chairman of the 1937 Roll Call, many deserving cases of pellagra have been given treatment in this county through the funds provided by memberships in the Red Cross.

During the past year when the states of Ohio, Kentucky, and others were suffering heavy property loss and loss of lives from flood waters, this county raised, through the Red Cross organization here, $1,379.30 in money for the flooded section, and approximately $1,345 in food and clothing, which was also badly needed there.

Had Alabama and Chilton County been in need of aid, the Red Cross in other sections would have certainly responded immediately. That this is true was demonstrated in this county in 1932.

Volunteers Needed

Mr. Martin stated that volunteer membership solicitors are needed this year to work in their respective communities. Memberships are sold at one dollar each. The contributor is given a membership card and a button, both of which are symbols of a kind heart and good citizen when carried.

J. R. MULLINS & SONS OFFERING PRETTY FALL GOODS

"The Farmers' Friends," sometimes known as J. R. Mullins & Sons, are this week, through an adv. in The The Union-Banner, offering some extraordinary inducements to the trading public of this territory—especially to the lady customers. Those beautiful warm coats, those woolen dresses and other materials too, those nice shoes, that exquisite hosiery, and so on, is to be found in abundance at Mullins's.

These people are inviting you to come there to do your fall trading. The ladies will be waited on by Mrs. Clara Mullins or Miss Ruby Branch. The heavy business is amply handled by John and Ed Mullins, Charlie Rasberry and of course J. Renfro himself. Any or all of them will smilingly receive you at the door and escort you to whatever counter or department you wish to investigate. Turn to their adv., read what they have to offer, and then permit them to serve by supplying at least a part of your wants in merchandise.

MRS. BERNICE TURNER BOUGHT IDEAL BEAUTY SHOP

The Ideal Beauty Shoppe, located three doors above The Union-Banner office, has recently been purchased by Mrs. Bernice Turner. In the future the place will be known as Bernice's Beauty Shoppe.

This week in The Union-Banner Mrs. Turner is advertising some introductory specials. Turn over and read them.

Injured In Wreck Monday Evening

About 7 o'clock Monday night a Chevrolet sedan and a V-8 pick-up collided on the Maplesville highway near the CCC Camp, and one man, Herman Culpepper, was carried to Central Alabama Hospital with rather severe injuries. The sedan was driven by Miss Mabel Harris, and accompanying her were Miss Dorothy Sessions and Mr. Red Nix. Neither of the girls were injured, but Mr. Nix is said to have suffered considerable shock; he was not otherwise injured.

The pick-up, which was said to have been going at high speed by Patrolman Earl Henley who made investigations, was considerably crushed on the front. Mr. Culpepper's head went partly through the shatterproof windshield, and he suffered many severe lacerations, losing much blood.

Mr. Henley arrived at the scene shortly after the wreck and carried Mr. Culpepper to the hospital.

PEOPLE OF CITY ASKED TO CONSERVE WATER SUPPLY

Mayor C. Fenn Jones is urging the people of the city to co-operate with the waterworks department by not wasting water. It may be that we will need water to out a fire sometime, lots of water; therefore we should not wast it.

The Union-Banner is helping Mayor Jones remind the people to do their part in conserving the water supply. It will not be many months until arrangements will be made so that we can have all the water we may choose to use; but until then, let us urge you to use only what it is necessary to use.

"Although the city," Mayor Jones says, "wishes to sell its water, yet at the same time, we want as near adequate reserve for protection from fire as possible."

A PUBLICATION FOR THE SCHOOLS OF THE COUNTY

Last week there appeared Volume 1 No. 1 of the Chilton County School Journal, published by the County Board of Education, Luther E. Little, Superintendent. We understand it is the purpose of Prof. Little to publish the little school paper monthly, and devote it entirely to the cause of education in the county.

The first issue, we would sum up as being a very creditable beginning, excusing the front page, which was considerably marred by two ugly blots of news ink somewhat resembling the mugs of the two newspaper editors of Clanton. But we can probably excuse Prof. Little for this, inasmuch as this is his first attempt at the game of journalism.

The Union-Banner considers this a most praiseworthy venture on the part of the County Board of Education. We venture the prediction that much good will be accomplished by the periodical.

ANNOUNCING ORPHANAGE DAY

We are announcing Orphanage Day at the Methodist church next Sunday. We, in behalf of the parentless children of our church, plead for a hearty response and a liberal offering to the needs of the orphanage. Next Sunday at Sunday school the offering will be taken for the orphanage.

Clanton To Have New Telephone System

City Council Voted To Permit Southern Bell To Install New Improved System

Mayor C. Fenn Jones announces that the city council has voted to permit Southern Bell Telephone Company to install the new improved battery system of telephones in the city of Clanton.

The council took a vote of the phoneholders of the city a few weeks ago, and it was based on this result that the mandate was given by the council. A total of 325 cards were mailed out and 206 were voted and returned; all but 38 of these voted in favor of the improved system.

Mayor Jones has informed the telephone company of the wishes of the majority of the phoneholders of the city and has instructed them to proceed toward putting in the new central office and making all other changes and adjustments necessary. It is not known how soon actual work will begin on the new system, but certainly it will not be many days.

ROOSEVELT'S LUST FOR POWER

[AN EDITORIAL]

In his recent radio address over a nationwide hook-up, Alfred M. Landon scored the Roosevelt regime on its weakest point—the greed for power of the chief executive. The Republican presidential nominee of 1936 made other telling points against the New Deal gang, but his hardest blow was when he struck at the lust for power which has made Roosevelt subordinate the welfare of the nation to the ambition of Roosevelt.

In these columns, we have more than once called attention to the dangerous personal vanity and ambition of the man in the White House. We pointed out how he wasted the entire last session of congress in a spite move against the Supreme Court, trying to nullify that body because it had dared to thwart some who will "have his way or bust". He bids fair to go down in of his radical legislation. Mr. Roosevelt is the sort of person history with the long list of other men whose careers have been ruined because of too much love for themselves.

We noted with interest that Mr. Landon did not fail to score the administration for its league with lawlessness in the matter of the sit-down strike. He told how, when private property was being forcibly seized and men shot and beaten, the president shrugged his shoulders and said it was none of his business. This is a matter of record, and it is a record which will rise to confound Mr. Roosevelt if he runs again in 1940, or one of his creatures who may run in his place.

Finally, Mr. Landon confirmed our hitherto expressed fears of the dangers of Mr. Roosevelt's foreign policy. He accused the president of virtually repealing the Neutrality Act passed by congress to keep us out of war. In other words, as though the domestic plagues he has inflicted upon us were not enough, Mr. Roosevelt has gone un-American in foreign as in local problems. By lining up with the internationalists, he puts the Democratic party back where it was in 1920, as the party of foreign leagues and entangling alliances. It has been said more than once of European dictators that when they got "in bad" with the folks at home, they would try to detract attention from their blunders at home by trying to focus the attention on foreign affairs. We hope Mr. Roosevelt is not seeking this way out. At any rate, his recent pronouncements warning everybody to behave and be good is a stride in the footsteps of Wilson and away from the sane pathway marked out by George Washington.

All in all, there was plenty of food for thought in Mr. Landon's utterances. He told us facts already known and of record, but his presentation was forceful and his logic unanswerable.

RAZORBACK JUSTICE

The free State of Arkansas held an election last week, result of which should bring encouragement to every lover of our American liberties. The election was to choose a United States Senator, to succeed the late Joe Robinson, the Democratic majority leader. Robinson died in harness, while leading the fight for New Deal radicalism which he personally did not favor, but was forced by his party position to espouse. In order to insure another vote for Roosevelt in the senate, the Democratic state committee named Gov. Bailey as the party nominee. This appeared to clinch things, for Arkansas is as Democratic as Alabama, and any opposing candidate was forced to run as an independent, as result of the committee's action. Congressman John E. Miller did just that very thing, and won a landslide victory over the hand-picked Roosevelt tool, Gov. Bailey. Mr. Miller not only ran as an independent, but told the voters he would vote independently, regardless of presidential orders. He stressed his opposition to the Black-Connery bill, and assured the razorbacks that if elected, they would have in him a genuine, unterrified, 100 per cent senator to represent them, not a servile "yes man" to jump in line whenever Roosevelt and Farley cracked the whip.

This sort of thing, coming from a typical Southern state, is most heartening. We have long contended that sooner or later Southern Democrats would realize the impossible nature of their present political affiliations, and get tired of sleeping in the same bed with Lewis, LaFollette, and the rest of the radical gang up north. Arkansas has pointed a way which Alabama may well follow.

CLAUDIE PIPES, JUNIOR

A newcomer arrived to Mr. and Mrs. Claudie Pipes on October 19th, at a Birmingham infirmary. Both mother and son are reported doing nicely.

STILL CAUGHT NEAR SHOULTS

Sheriff Hardy, with Deputies McCary, Nivens and Crowe captured a wild-cat still seven miles west of Maplesville Tuesday afternoon of last week. Porter Shoults, a white man, and a negro named Hub Rasberry were taken into custody and brought to jail in Clanton.

The still was a 100-gallon outfit; there was 8 gallons of whiskey and one barrel of beer.

Mrs. John Armstrong and Mrs. Lancaster, were visitors in Birmingham Friday.

Miss Helen Roberts and Miss Sarah Lawrence were guests in their respective homes the past week end. They returned to their school at the University Sunday afternoon.

ATTENDED KIWANIS DISTRICT MEETING

Several members of the Clanton Kiwanis Club attended the district meeting at Tuscaloosa the first of this week; they have already returned home, and report a most successful district meeting.

The meeting of the local club this Thursday night will be devoted to reports on the proceedings of the district meeting, to be made by Prof. Luther E. Little and Mr. O. T. Dickey, and summarized by Prof. Patterson Hicks.

JOHN EZELL WON NATIONAL HONORS AT WAKE FOREST

More laurels have been added to the already coveted crown of Clanton's own John Ezell, who is a senior this year at Wake Forest College, North Carolina. Just recently he was elected to Who's Who of American College Students, which is a distinct national honor.

He was also elected a member of Golden Bough, an honorary organization of Wake Forest, which is based on scholarship, Christian character, and efficient leadership. Ten or 12 students from the junior and senior classes are named as members of this organization by the faculty of the college and by the older members of the organization.

A member of the educational fraternity, national Kappa Phi Kappa, he has been president of the Baptist Students Union for two years, and has been assistant professor of history in the college for the same length of time. Last year he won the orator's medal of the Junior class, having been adjudged the best speaker in his class.

John Ezell is a graduate of Chilton County High School. He came to Clanton at the age of five years, when Dr. Ezell became pastor of Clanton Baptist Church sixteen years ago. Therefore, we Clanton people can claim him as almost our very own; and we can truthfully say that we are proud of the record he is making at college. He is undoubtedly a very promising young man—and we are pleased to say, a Christian.

ROCKETT IS OFFERING SPECIALS IN DRY GOODS

Rockett Dry Goods Company, through an adv. in the local papers this week, is offering some attractive bargains in seasonable dry goods You know what Rockett Dry Goods Company stands for and lives up to, so you may expect the right treatment from them.

Turn to their adv. on another page and see in detail what this up-to-date firm is offering the trading public.

FIDDLERS CONVENTION AT THE COURTHOUSE

There will be a fiddlers convention at the courthouse next Saturday night, October 30th, beginning at 7 o'clock. Sponsors are Circle Four of Clanton Baptist church. There will be a cash prize, and other prizes for every fiddler. All contestants be there by 6:30; and all musicians of the county are invited. Admission will be 10 cents for everybody.

Mrs. Duby Chancellor of South Clanton is improving from an attack of flu.

Alabama Power Co. Enlarging Office Here

Will Have One of Nicest Offices in City When Present Plans Are Worked Out

Workers are busy clearing away the old walls and other debris at the local Alabama Power Company office preparatory to enlarging and generally remodeling the entire place. When completed, which will require nearly two months time, the power company will have a really creditable office place.

There will be a frontage of twenty-eight feet and a depth of about sixty feet. Modern front show windows will be built, enabling the company to display their line of electrical appliances and wares.

While the work is going on, the power company is occupying the old Tom Kemp building two doors west of their permanent place.

STALWART REPUBLICAN VISITS UNION-BANNER SATURDAY

Mr. P. M. Martin, that stalwart Republican and fine citizen of Union Grove, Beat 12, was a visitor to The Union-Banner Soturday. The Banner man regretted that we were too busy to spend much time with Mr. Martin, as conversations with him are always most enjoyable, but the subscription contest and other pressing matters had us so tied up that time was hard to find any slack in. Come to see us again, Mr. Martin, and we will try and find some time to talk to you.

PURE BRED BABY CHICKS AT CLANTON HATCHERY

The Clanton Hatchery, J. J. Freeman proprietor, has the whole place up there covered with baby chicks, and they are still coming in—or maybe we should say coming out. Mr. Freeman, who also runs the Western Tire & Supply Company, is very proud of his chickens, and so is his helper, Walter Kelly Gillespie. Of course, they do not like them so well that they would not sell them. If you want to see some pretty baby chicks—pure stock, blood tested, drop in at the Clanton Hatchery.

As has been announced right along The Union-Banner's Great Campaign, in which a motor car and cash will be awarded, comes to a final close at 6 o'clock Saturday night.

On the eve of the close of this big event The Union-Banner thanks each and every candidate who has participated in the campaign; it has been a success and the credit is due entirely to the character and popularity of the contestants.

The whole thought on the part of the management has been to conduct the campaign fairly, squarly and honestly in every detail. That this effort has been appreciated by the participants is evident from the remarks of all the men and women hustlers these last closing hours. And let it be said that The Union-Banner appreciates this feeling even more than the hundreds of subscribers that have been added to its list.

The management regrets that it is not possible to give everyone of these energetic hustlers an automobile. However, it has been so arranged that each and every active participant will profit nicely either in cash or in a car so that all will have added greatly to their incomes by taking an active part in the campaign.

With the final hour, 6 o'clock Saturday night, emblazoned on their minds, stirring scenes are being enacted in the great automobile and cash campaign, now swiftly drawing to a close. Aroused to unprecedented opportunity of winning a beautiful motor car and other prizes of big value, every passing hour is installing new energy into ambitious workers. Everywhere they are swarming in eager and anxious quest for subscriptions that will win them big votes, and in the end one of the big prizes.

These workers pay no attention to frequent rumors that circulate with the home of damaging effect to discourage competitors in the race. Misleading stories have but one effect—influencing some candidate to retire for fear of being passed by someone in the race. Such tales have no foundation whatever. It is too obvious that no one can determine the ultimate results of the campaign.

Courage and downright hustle are the two main things to observe. Votes are the only things that win the big prizes and every candidate should and for that matter, they are, taking it upon themselves to annex just as many votes as possible between now and the close, 6 o'clock Saturday night.

The road ahead may be strewn with barriers but these will be of slight consequence to those who go steadily forward through the corridors of change and out in the "Land Where Happiness Lies."

These final and fateful hours of this race are here. Time waits for no one. In order to win you MUST put forth your utmost effort. All subscriptions with money to cover must be in the Ballot Box before 6 o'clock Saturday night. Campaign closes promptly at 6 o'clock forever. Ballot Box located in the First National Bank.

NOTICE—Campaign closes at 6 o'clock p. m. promptly Saturday, October 30th. Announcement of winners will be made Saturday night.

SOUTHERNAIRES AT CONCORD ON THURSDAY NIGHT, NOV. 4

The Southernaires Quartet from Birmingham will put on a musical concert at Concord Junior High School on Thursday night, November 4, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. This program will consist of a big variety of sacred numbers, comedy songs, duets—in fact everything that goes to make up a real rounded out musical concert.

The admission price will be 15c and 25c. Everybody is cordially invited to attend.

CLANTON GOSPEL TABERNACLE

There will be preaching at the Tabernacle on Tuesday and Wednesday nights, November 2 and 3, with Rev. Grover L. Langston, delivering the messages. You are invited.

Leader Now In Third Week Of Big Sale

Big Eighteenth Anniversary Sale Will Not Last Many More Days

The crowds are still swamping The Leader, especially every Saturday, on account of their big anniversary sale, which opened October 15th. But goods are still stacked to the ceiling and bargains are galore. If you have already visited this sale and seen what Mr. Lande is offering, you will want to come back for more; if you haven't been, by all means don't let these remaining few days lapse before you do.

Mr. Lande and the array of clerks are mighty well pleased with the past two weeks of business, and they anticipate another good week this week. "The treat is on The Leader, so you'd better be pleased now than sorry later."

University News

Dr. James Holladay, professor of economics at the University of Alabama, is the author of what is considered to be the first complete book ever written about the Canadian banking system. The book has been accepted by the Banker's Publishing Company of Boston.

The professor has worked on the book, while not teaching, since 1926. He has spent two summers in Canada to get first-hand knowledge of the system.

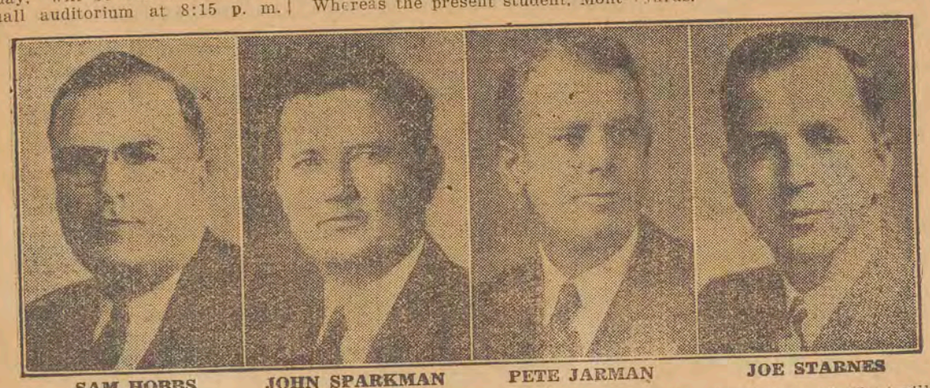
A noted English author, journalist and lecturer, Vera Brittian, will speak at the University of Alabama on Wednesday, November 3rd, under the auspices of Mortar Board, national honorary sorority.

Her lecture, "Women in the World of Today," will be delivered in Morgan hall auditorium at 8:15 p. m.

The University of Alabama campus will assume an air of gaiety this Saturday with the staging of many festive events for the several thousand expected homecoming visitors.

Features on the homecoming day program will be the football game between the University of Alabama and the University of Kentucky and a dress parade by the R. O. T. C. unit Saturday morning.

Governor Bibb Graves; his wife, Senator Dixie Bibb Graves, and Governor A. B. "Happy" Chandler of Kentucky, have all accepted invitations to attend the homecoming celebration.



The great, great grandson of the first student to enroll at the University of Alabama is now registered as a junior in the University's school of commerce and Business Administration.

Whereas the present student, Montgomery Inge of Mobile, has as his school mates approximately 5,000 other young men and young women, his ancestor, William Bullock Inge, the first enrollee, was one of only 35 students—all men.

An estimated homecoming throng of 20,000 is expected to see the clash between the Wildcats of Kentucky, and the Tidesmen of Alabama when they lock lines at Tuscaloosa Saturday in their annual encounter.

The big Blue and White team will flash one of the most elusive southeastern conference backs against the Tide. He is Bob Davis, leader of scoring in the southeastern loop at the present time. Against Washington and Lee, the slippery Kentucky ball later scored five touchdowns, two of them on runs of 100 yards and 80 yards.

SAM HOBBS JOHN SPARKMAN PETE JARMAN JOE STARNES

Joe Starnes, Guntersville (Ll. B. 1921)—baseball, president of University Masonic club, president of Vetrewar (composed of students who had served in the world war).

Another man who earned his way through the University was Senator Pepper, who nevertheless "made" Phi Beta Kappa, the honor roll and the intercollegiate debating team, and did cross-country running.

Speaker William B. Bankhead, Jasper, not only was a member of the varsity football and baseball teams, but won the trustees' prize for the best literary society oration, made the honor roll, was class poet and president of Erosophic Literary society. He received his A. B. in 1893 and returned for an M. A.

Three University of Alabama degrees are held by Representative John Sparkman of Huntsville. He was graduated with an A. B. in 1921, a Ll. B. in 1923 and an M. A. in 1924.

Representative Lister Hill of Montgomery, third of the "BMOC'S", (A. B. 1914, Ll. B. 1915), has the ristinction of being the first student body president. Besides, he was business manager of the Crimson-White, editor of the Aurora magazine, a Phi Beta Kappa and a varsity debator.

Honors and activities of the remaining representatives include:

Sam Hobbs, Selma (Ll. B. 1908)—honor roll, football, Glee club.

HUGO BLACK

University, Ala., Oct. 25.—Participation in extra-curricular college activities is pretty good training for statesmanship, if the undergraduate records of Alabama congressmen who have attended the University of Alabama are any indication.

Ten of the II men elected to represent the state of Alabama in the latest session of Congress hold degrees from the University. In addition, two senators from other states—Kenneth McKeller of Tennessee, and Claude D. Pepper of Florida—are Alabama graduates.

The present governor of Alabama, David Bibb Graves, and his two immediate predecesors, B. M. Miller and William W. Brandon also claimed the University as their alma mater.

Alabama's two senators in the recent Congressional sesion—John H. Bankhead of Jasper and Hugo Black of Birmingham—were none too active in college organizations, but for different reasons.

Ex-Senator Black, now a justice of the United States Supreme Court, says he was so busy working his way through school that he had little time for outside activities. He was awarded his Ll. B. in 1906.

State Capitol News

Montgomery, Ala.—A senate agricultural sub-committee, charged with shaping a new farm control plan, departed from Alabama last week after hearing widely divergent views on procedure. Compulsory control, based on an acreage basis was advocated by R. J. Goode, state commissioner of agriculture, who said he represented the views of 15,000 farmers taken in a poll through the Auburn extension service. Donald Comer, Birmingham industrialist, opposed the processing tax method of curbing production as generally injurious while among others R. H. Sartin, president of the Alabama Farmers' Union, advocated government guarantee of a minimum subsidy and Walker Martin, Committee for Industrial Organization representative, voiced disapproval of any crop curtailment.

Brig. General Frank T. Hines, veteran affairs administrator who was a visitor here last week, promised speedy selection on available sites for the million-dollar hospital awarded the capital city. Three sites have been proposed from which General Hines said there was little to choose, all being qualified. He forecast construction starting early in 1938.

The Alabama Aviation Commission is petitioning the federal government for assistance in further development of 80 airports and landing fields in the state at an estimated cost of $4,000,000. The improvements would be in runways, aprons, taxi strips and lighting systems for practically every city in the state.

Mrs. Leila Holladay, of Birmingham, has been installed as worthy matron of Alabama, Order of the Eastern Star. She succeeded a fellow townswoman, Mrs. Jeannette L. Kerlin, at state convention ceremonies here last week.

Governor Bibb Graves is awaiting a report from special investigators into last week's explosion four miles underground in the Mulga shaft of the Woodward Iron Works in Jefferson county which snuffed out the lives of 34 men, 14 of them white. Hundreds of others working on other shafts escaped. Preliminary investigation indicated an effort to light a safety lamp with a match caused ignition of gas and the subsequent explosion, but Governor Graves demanded a detailed report on what happened.

Cottonseed meal, when used as a fertilizer, is exempt from the state two cents sales tax, under an opinion of Atorney-General Albert A. Carmichael. The opinion was rendered at the request of Probate Judge S. P. Poyner, of Houston county.

Francis J. Inge, one of the state's most distinguished lawyers, this week held a commission to assume the bench as junior Mobile circuit judge. The appointment was made over many contestants. Judge Inge succeeded late Joel W. Goldsby, who died in the summer. The job pays $8,500 a year to which the state contributes $5,000.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Raccoons Increase

An appreciable increase in the raccoon population of the counties of Dallas, Marengo, Wilcox and Perry as the result of a year-round closed season was reported recently by game wardens. In the summer of 1936 it was found that so many raccoons had been taken in this territory that the existence of the species was threatened. The Conservation Board ordered a closed season for one year, and this was extended an additional year beginning in July, 1937. Encouraging results were reported from the move, especially in Marengo County.

Fur Trapping Laws

A more rigid enforcement of Alabama's laws and regulations governing the trapping of fur-bearing animals and the sale of pelts is planned this season by the Department of Conservation. Evasions of the laws requiring trappers and dealers to have licenses and to affix a fur tax tag to each pelt will be investigated to the fullest extent, according to officials. At a recent meeting of game wardens, the field men were instructed to check regularly on fur catchers and dealers to see that the laws were being observed. The commercial fur trapping season is open from December 1 to January 31, with the exception of muskrat, which may be taken from December 15 to February 15. Pelts of the coon, fox, civet cat, o'possom, mink, weasel, beaver, otter, bear and muskrat yield large returns to Alabama fur trappers and dealers annually.

First Hunting Fatality

The death of a young man in Morgan County on October 18 from a self-inflicted gunshot wound was the first fatality of the current season in Alabama. He had leaned his shot gun against a log, and in stepping on the log he caused the gun to slide, catching the hammer and firing the load into his chest. Careful handling of firearms in the field is urged by the Conservation Department to reduce fatal accidents that mar the hunting season each year.

Cotton producers must sell their entire interest in cotton in order to receive adjustment paymens from the $130,000,000 appropriated by Congress from making adjustment payments to farmers who agree to cooperate in 1938.

BAKER CLUB

The Baker Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. Kate Smith on Tuesday, October 12, with seven members and three visitors present. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. J. A. Marcus, followed by the roll call and reading of the minutes of the previous meeting by the secretary.

After the old business was disposed of, Miss Grace discussed the success of both the county and state fairs. Mrs. J. A. Marcus read the constitution of the club, and Miss Grace explained a few of the most outstanding points.

We were very glad to have Mrs. Stanley Kennedy and Miss Martha Kennedy of the Mt. Pleasant club with us. The gave an interesting program, which was enjoyed by all.

A committee of three was appointed by the president to put on a program at the next meeting. This committee consisted of Miss Gladys Roper, Mrs. G. E. Stutt, Mrs. J. M. Roper.

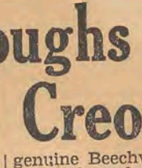
There being no other business, the club was dismissed with the club pledge to meet Tuesday, November 9, at the home of Mrs. J. A. Marcus.

COOPER 4-H CLUB

On October 15, 1937, the 4-H Club of Cooper school met. New officers were elected, and Miss Grace acted as chairman. These officers are as follows:

President, Lola Grant; vice president, Ruth Vinson; Secretary, Avolene Taylor; treasurer, Mildred Todd; reporter, Blanch Taylor; leaders, Mary Cooper, Sara Mae McSwain, Jane Robinson, Vera Mae Nelson.

Several new members were enrolled, and we are looking forward to our next meeting, which will be in November.



U. S. FOREST SERVICE ANNOUNCES PLANS FOR ANNUAL DEER HUNT

Frank W. Rasor, Forest Supervisor of the Alabama National Forests, announced today plans for the annual deer hunt on the Black Warrior National Forest in Lawrence and Winston counties.

The large number of hunters participating in the hunts in recent years has created considerable confusion and has caused apprehension to the Forest Service as to the safety of the hunters. Consequently, it has been deemed advisable to limit the number of hunters to 1,000; 500 to participate on December 6 and 7, followed by 500 other hunters on December 8 and 9. Each hunter will be permitted to hunt one period only.

The Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation is again this year offering to buy storage or fresh shell eggs in an effort to protect returns to producers by maintaining normal relationships between the prices of the various grades.

HEADACHE REMEDY
STARTS WORKING IN SECONDS

THE REASON BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST
Drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a tumbler of water. By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating.
This speed of disintegration enables genuine BAYER Aspirin tablets to start "taking hold" of headache and similar pain a few minutes after taking.

All people who suffer occasionally from headaches ought to know this way to quick relief.

At the first sign of such pain, take two Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Sometimes if the pain is unusually severe, one more tablet is necessary later, according to directions.

If headaches keep coming back we advise you to see your own physician. He will look for the cause in order to correct it.

Bronchial Coughs Need Creomulsion

Just a common cough, a chest cold, or a bronchial irritation of today may lead to serious trouble tomorrow. They may be relieved now with Creomulsion, an emulsified Creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medicinal combination designed to aid nature in soothing and healing infected mucous membranes by allaying irritation and inflammation and by aiding in loosening and expelling the germ-laden phlegm.

The Medical Profession has for many years recognized the beneficial effect of Beechwood Creosote in the treatment of coughs, chest colds, and bronchial irritations. A special process was worked out by a chemist, for blending Creosote with other ingredients and now in Creomulsion you get a real dose of genuine Beechwood Creosote which is palatable and can even be taken frequently and continuously by both adults and children.

Creomulsion is one preparation that goes to the very seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm. When coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles—due to common colds—hang on, get a bottle of Creomulsion from your druggist, use it as directed, and if you are not satisfied with the relief obtained, the druggist is authorized to refund every cent of your money. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief that you want. Adv

HALLOWE'EN PARTY AT COOPER SCHOOL FRIDAY NIGHT, OCT. 29

There will be a Hallowe'en party at Cooper school Friday night, October 29th. Everybody is invited to attend. Come and get a bunch of thrills.

LEADERSHIP MEETING

On October 13 the first leadership meeting was opened by singing "The Song of the Open Country." Dr. Truett gave the devotional. Miss Grace gave a short talk, after which Miss Helen Kennedy, food preservation specialist from Auburn, took charge of the meeting and gave a wonderful demonstration on the "Family Food Supply."

An explanation of what was gained from this lesson was given by Miss Martha Kennedy, Mrs. Stanley Kennedy, Mrs. Geo. E. Spencer, and Mrs. D. E. Edwards.

After lunch, we met back at 1:30 o'clock. A play was given by Mrs. J. D. Williams, Miss Sallie Jo Cox, and Miss Inez McKee on "Neighbors at the Grocery Store."

Miss Kennedy asked the following members to discuss the difference in price and value of different foods: Mrs. Claudie Popwell, Mrs. A. B. Jones, Mrs. John Lett, Mrs. Geo. Spencer, Mrs. W. B. Strock, Mrs. D. E. Edwards, and Mrs. J. A. Marcus.

The following clubs were represented by their leaders and presidents: Alpine-Pletcher, Fairview, Verbena, Minooka, Midway-Mt. Creek, Mineral Springs, Baker, Mt. Pleasant, Poplar Springs.

Mrs. Grady Reynolds and Mrs. N. S. Johnson attended a mission meeting of the Presbyterian church in Wetumpka last Thursday.

MUSICAL CONCERT AT MT. NEBO SATURDAY NIGHT, NOV. 6TH

Prof. W. M. Devaughn and his family quartet will put on a program at Mt. Nebo church Saturday night, November 6th, beginning at 7 o'clock. Admission will be 10c and 20c, part of proceeds to go for benefit of the church. Mt. Nebo is located nine miles southwest of Clanton.

The program will consist of plenty of quartets, duets, solos, Etc. It is expected to be the best yet. Everybody invited.—W. L. Henley. 2t

CLANTON, ALA.

MT CARMEL

Jack Frost made his appearance here in a big way Saturday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Higgins moved to Clanton last week. We hope they like their new home, and that Mr. Higgins will soon regain his health.

A good many people here are suffering with colds. We hope they will all be able to attend Sunday school next Sunday.

Mrs. J. P. Smith of Birmingham, and Mrs. Mary Davenport and daughter, Louise, spent Thursday of last week with Mrs. Silas Oden.

Jack Sanders cut his foot badly last week while cutting cane. He will hate to miss those "possums" and squirrels.

Our sympathy is extended to Miss Eula Sanders, who is suffering with a disease of the bone. She has been staying for some time at Billingsley, but is at home with her parents now.

Mrs. S. C. Sewell has returned home after a visit of several weeks.

To the ladies of the W. M. S. who have not given in the quilt squares: Please send them to Mrs. Silas Oden before next Saturday. And to those who did not fix a square, please bring or send your part in money to help buy a lining and thread for the quilt. The amount will be appreciated, however small, and your name will go in with the quilt.

Mr. and Mrs. Odell Higgins are now living at the place vacated by Mr. Ben Higgins.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Smith spent last week visiting relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Oden and little granddaughter, Juanita, spent a while Monday afternoon of last week with Mrs. Silas Oden.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Leach were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Scott.

Mrs. Leonard Holley of Samaria visited relatives here last Sunday.

VIVISECTION VS. CIVILIZATION

"American thought has advanced in its protection of children, of prisoners, of the insane and the economically underprivileged," writes Elizabeth Butler Howry, President of the Animal Defense and Anti-Vivisection Society, and asks: "Is there no place in our civilization for the protection by law of dumb creatures?"

For sheer horror, she declares, nothing in print is comparable to the thousands of reports written by American vivisectors themselves to describe their experiments to each other, and cites instances where frequently a dog used one week for a severe operation is used the following for an even more terrible and painful experiment on another part of its body.

Miss Howry's report concludes: 'Does not propriety suggest that other research methods can and must be found? We ask the vote of every Member of Congress for Representative James L. Quinn's bill that would prohibit experiments on living dogs in the District of Columbia, and that every humane person write their Members of Congress supporting it."

It Won't Be Long Now!

WHO IS GOING TO WIN?

SUBSCRIPTION CAMPAIGN ENDS SATURDAY NIGHT

All Subscriptions and Ballots Must Be In Ballot Box By 6:00 O'clock SATURDAY NIGHT

Get Busy, Be The Winner!

DETAILS OF FINAL COUNT---READ CAREFULLY

DRIVE ENDS OCT. 30

THE CAMPAIGN ENDS PROMPTLY AT 6:00 O'CLOCK P. M., SATURDAY, OCTOBER 30

All subscriptions in the sealed ballot box must be accompanied by cash, money order or certified check for full amount to cover. Personal checks will not be accepted. This rule will be STRICTLY adhered to.

JUDGES

Some of the members of the Advisory Board, selected at the beginning of the campaign, will be asked to act as judges to canvass the findings of the ballot box and award the prizes. It is calculated that it will require some time, however, to canvass the findings in the box and determine the winners. The official results will be published as soon thereafter as possible.

WARNING

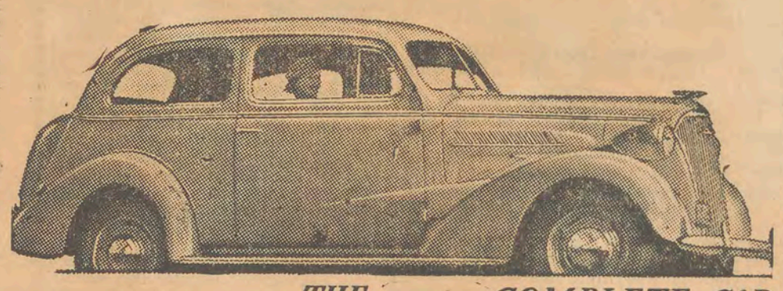
Every candidate is urged to compare his or her totals with the records of The Union-Banner. If The Union-Banner's count is not correct, according to your figures and records, notify the Campaign Manager immediately so that the proper corrections can be made. No corrections will be made after Friday, October 29—CANDIDATES MUST verify and attest the correctness of their counts by Friday, October 29.

All subscriptions, with money to cover, must be deposited in the sealed ballot box before 6 o'clock p.m., Saturday evening, October 30.

OUT-OF-TOWN CANDIDATES ATTENTION

Heretofore, out-of-town candidates have had the privilege of mailing their letters containing subscriptions from their home town as late as the closing hour of the various "period". This will not be permitted the last night of the campaign. ALL votes and subscriptions MUST be in the sealed ballot box when the race is closed at 6 o'clock sharp.

Out-of-town candidates should, where it is possible to do so, arrange to deposit their envelopes in person in the ballot box. But where this cannot be done, letters containing final remittances should be addressed to "CAMPAIGN DEPARTMENT" and plainly marked "FOR SEALED BALLOT BOX—NOT TO BE OPENED". Particular care should be taken to post such letter in time to reach this office before the final hour, and it is advisable that they should be under special delivery stamp.



No subscriptions whatever will be accepted through the Campaign Department the last few days from Monday morning until the close, but instead candidates themselves will deposit the final collections in the SEALED BALLOT BOX, located in the FIRST NATIONAL BANK. By doing so, no one, not even the Campaign Manager or the publisher can possibly know the voting strength of the respective candidates, which precludes any possibility of favoritism, and insures fairness to the minutest degree.

Locked and sealed, the ballot box will be placed in the FIRST NATIONAL BANK, where it will remain from Monda until the closing hour of the campaign—6 o'clock Saturday evening, October 30.

When the final hour arrives the campaign will be declared closed, the judges will break the seal, unlock the box, and immediately thereafter, or as soon as the votes can be issued on subscriptions contained therein, the last count will begin. The winners will be determined by merely adding the published totals which appear for the last time in the next issue of The Union-Banner to reserve votes and those contained in the ballot box. There will be no waiting, no complicated count, but simply a matter of adding the totals and announcing the winners.

TIGERS EASILY BEATEN BY SYLACAUGA 33 TO 7

Chilton Team Badly Off Form; Ted Reynolds' End Play Only Bright Spot

The Chilton Tigers suffered a complete let-down last Friday, after playing good football so far this season, and were easily swamped by the Sylacauga Aggies 33 to 7. Wednesday afternoon, Buell Locklear, regular quarterback, came out of the scrimmage with a broken arm, and his loss may have had something to do with the beating the Tigers took.

Sylacauga struck early, scoring 13 points in the first quarter, making both touchdowns as a result of passes that might easily have been broken up by a wide awake defense. The Tigers came right back with a spirited drive to put over a touchdown with the extra point. But then they lapsed back into heir semi-coma, as it were, and the Aggies romped home, scoring almost at will.

Sylacauga brought over a big team that was enough to make it a good tight football game if the Tigers had been up to normal, and perhaps outweighed the locals a bit, but there was no excuse for their heavy score except listless play on the part of the Chilton team. They showed a few trick plays, but their big scoring plays were old fashioned power drives, and passes. They blocked well, and ran the ball with a world of drive.

On the Chilton side, everything seemed to go stale at once. The line was not charging, plays got under way too slow to be effective, and their blocking was conspicuous by its absence. On top of all this, Williamson, who has been the spearhead of the Chilton attack all season, injured a knee, and was not up to par. The only bright spot in the whole affair was the fine defensive work of Ted Reynolds, who seemed to be in on every tackle almost; the Aggies have not yet gained an inch around Ted Reyonlds' end, who put up the best game he has played so far.

Chilton's team seemed bewildered. They fumbled, they missed easy tackles, and for the first time this season seemed to do everything wrong. And therein hangs the story of a 33 to 7 defeat at the hands of a team they should have taken, after a good fight.

KIPLING'S "WEE WILLIE WINKLE" STARS TEMPLE, MCLAGLEN IN HEROIC ADVENTURE

Famed Story Brought to Screen by Twentieth Century-Fox In Spectacular Production of Gallant Action At India's Untamed Khyber Pass

Kipling's colorful characters live glamorously, adventurously and courageously on adventure's last frontier in the Twentieth Century-Fox picturization of his famed "Wee Willie Winkie," which shows Sunday and Monday, at the Wadesonian Theatre, with Shirley Temple and Victor McLaglen in the starring roles.

From the heart of mighty India, where all the world is wild and strange, where the British raj ends at Khyber Pass, in the land of the Bengal Lancers, comes this glorious adventure of the Scottish Highlanders in action and of the little girl who won he right to wear their plaid.

The most spetacular production in which Shirley Temple has yet appeared, "Wee Willie Winkie" gives Victor McLaglen a powerful role as a fearless, fighting fool, and provides splendid opportunities to C. Aubrey Smith, June Lang, Michael Whalen, Cesar Romero, Constance Collier and young Douglas Scott.

Life at a frontier army post in India is not too happy for Shirley and her widowed mother June Lang, for her grandfather, C. Aubrey Smith, is a gruff old disciplinarian. The youngster decides that the only way to win the Colonel's approval is to become a soldier herself, and her friend, Michael Whalen, a young lieutenant, turns her over for training to the burly sergeant Victor McLaglen who dubs her "Wee Willie Winkie" because of the quaint way she has of screwing up her eyes when she asks questions.

Shirley gets into plenty of trouble at the post, but wins the gratitude of an imprisened chieftain, Khoda Khan, when she returns his lost amulet. In a surprise raid on the post, the proud chieftain is freed, and the border is immediately ablaze with crimson warfare, with McLaglen's life being one of those lost.

Feeling that both Khoda Khan and her grandfather would prefer peace, Shirley takes a desperate step to end the killing, and sets out at night for the Pathan camp. When her departure is discovered, the Highlanders set out grimly for Khyber Pass, graveyard of many a soldier, determined to rescue her or die in the attempt. With lives at stake, Shirley makes one last desperate gesture to save them and restore peace, bringing the picture to a thoroughly thrilling climax.

Darryl F. Zanuck, Twentieth Century-Fox production chief, chose John Ford, noted Academy Award winner, to direct "Wee Willie Winkie," from the screen play by Ernest Pascal and Julien Josephson. Gene Markey was associate producer.

A MILLION FUTURE CITIZENS

NOTE—Below is given a radio talk which was delivered by C. B. Smith, Extension Service, broadcast Sunday, October 2, in the National 4-H Club program, over 83 stations. This is being put in print for the benefit of those who did not hear the talk. This article brings out the foundation and progress made by the 4-H clubs up to the present time. Chilton County for more and better 4-H Clubs!—B. N. Ivey, Assistant County Agent in 4-H Club Work.

Boys and Girls of the 4-H Clubs:

You will be interested to know that since 4-H Club work was started in the United States about 25 years ago we have grown to an organization of more than 60,000 clubs, with over 100,000 local leaders, and a membership of over 1,145,000 boys and girls 10 to 20 years af age. Within the past 25 years, over 7,000,000 rural boys and girls have taken part in these clubs in the United States alone, and your club and each one of you are a part of this great organization.

So well have you done your work and so significant does it seem to visitors who come to this country from abroad and see what you are doing that they have gone back to their own countres in many cases and organized 4-H Clubs for their own boys and girls. So, today we find 4-H Clubs in China, in India, in the various countries of Europe, in Africa, and some South American countries, the Philippines and some of the other islands of the seas and each year the work is spreading into still other countries. There are probably 300,000 boys and girls enrolled today in 4-H clubs in foreign countries.

Now, what is there about 4-H club work that makes people everywhere like it and want their own boys and girls to have part in it?

Farm people like 4-H club work because it teaches youth how to do farm, home, orchard, and garden work, and many other things, in a better way, and have a good time and earn a little money perhaps in doing it. It gives you boys and girls a chance to make exhibits at community, county, State, regional, and National fairs and perhaps win some prizes and get a lot of valuable experience. It gives you a chance to go to camps and make educational trips and take part in short courses. It gives you a chance to meet together in groups at monthly meetings and learn parliamentary practices, how to conduct a meeting, make a report, act on committees, play and sing and have a good social time together. In your demonstration and group work, it teaches you the thing the whole world is so much in need of, and that is cooperation.

Farm fathers and mothers like to have their children in 4-H clubs because such children develop a broader vision of rural life and farming is made more interesting because it is made more mind-stimulating.

You members of 4-H clubs may not have realized it, but 4-H club work is distinctly educational. Educators endorse 4-H club work because it teaches each of you members how to do and see and understand things. You are educated to the extent that you can do things with your hands—plan and care for a garden, care for an animal, make a dress,—to the extent that you can see significant things when you look at them—insects in your cotton, disease in your corn or poultry—to the extent that your mind can perceive the truth—the relation of fertilizers and moisture to yields—and to the extent that you can express the truth with your tongue or pen. And 4-H club work gives you practice in all these things and helps maks you really educated people. In 4-H club work you are extending the schools out into new frontiers.

Religious organizations throughout the United States—Catholic, Protestant, and Jew alike think highly of 4-H club work, because it stands for activities that are clean, wholesome, and constructive; because it develops a generous and kindly heart and wholesome living and a cooperative spirit.

Business men, bankers, and those engaged in commerce think highly of 4-H club work because the rural boys and girls who have been trained in club work are industrious; they know how to work; they know the virtues of thrift, sobriety, and integrity; they want such boys and girls in their business and in their city life.

Finally, 4-H club work has come to have the support of State legislatures everywhere and of the Federal Congress, because these agencies of government have come to believe that 4-H clubs promote the best in rural life—more science in agriculture and home making, more recreation, more social life, more rural culture—and because 4-H clubs help build character and train for fine citizenship. And that is why we believe in 4-H club work, and that is why it is spreading out into new frontiers all over the world today.

WOODLANDS TREATED RIGHT HELP WITH FARM EXPENSES

Many farmers are reporting to the United States Forest Service that growing fuel and lumber and pulpwood or other forest products cuts down the running expenses on a farm. Good cash returns also are obtained when some of the forest products are sold off the farm.

One farmer says: "Farm your woods as you do a crop of corn. Take out the weed trees and the unhealthy and chippled ones and give the best trees a chance to develop. Cut the trees only when they are ripe."

Still another farmer says: "My woods are my bank. I keep going to it and getting money, and each time the money keeps right on coming back."

A fourth farmer says: "Cross ties are legal tender around here. We bring in our ties and take home flour, sugar, coffee, tobacco, calico, and overalls."

Another farmer says: "Money from the sale of timber has helped to pay for the farm, taken care of taxes, and assisted in giving the children a good education. In addition, our farm woods has furnished lumber, posts, and fuel for the farm."

And another reports: "Timber farming is different now from the old days when woods work was just chopping down trees and cutting them up just as you came to them, one after the other. Now you take care of trees as a paying farm crop."—J. W. Fant, County Agent.

2 CARS, NEW TRUCK IN 1938 FORD LINE

New York, October 27.—An advance showing of 1938 Ford V-8 cars and trucks opened this afternoon at the Ford Metropolitan showrooms at 1710 Broadway.

Two distinct Ford V-8 cars, differing in appearance, appointments and price, were presented. One was the de luxe Ford V-8, the other the standard Ford V-8.

The standard car is designed for owners to whom economy in first cost and operating cost is paramount. The de luxe car provides added luxury and style for those who desire them.

Both cars have the same V-8 chassis. The eight de luxe types are available only with the 85 horsepower V-8 engine, the three standard types with either the 85 horsepower or the 60 horsepower engine.

The de luxe car is a stylish sister of the standard. It is entirely new in appearance. The radiator grille is of new design. Appearance of the hood is longer and more sweeping. Fenders are massive. Interior appointments are in keeping with the styling of the exterior. Substantially more room in the closed sedans, greater passenger comfort and much larger luggage space are provided.

The standard V-8 cars reveal new styling, with a different radiator grille design, long hood and flowing contours. The spacious interiors are roomy and attractively upholstered and appointed.

In addition to the two passenger cars, Ford is to present an expanded line of V-8 trucks and commercial cars. Both are newly styled to lend added "eye appeal" in commercial transportation.

A new group of "one-tonner" trucks also is offered, in addition to the 112-inch commercial cars and the 134-inch and 157-inch wheelbase trucks.

The new "one-tonner" is designed specifically to bridge the gap between the commercial cars and the truck groups. Available with either 85 horsepower or 60 horsepower engine, it is expected to make the economies of the latter engine more widely available in commercial transportation.

Other advances for 1938 are the new 134-inch wheelbase truck, replacing the 131½-inch wheelbase in the big truck line, a new frame width for the 134-inch and 157-inch wheelbase units, improved brakes and easier steering and stronger construction throughout.

NEW CHEVROLET—1938 PRICE ANNOUNCEMENT

New York, October 23.—Simultaneously with the announcement of its new 1938 passenger cars, now being displayed in 9,600 dealer showrooms throughout the United States, Chevrolet today made public its new prices. They represent an increase ranging from 3.4 per cent to 5 per cent, or in dollars, of $26 to $34 per model.

The popular sedan in the Master DeLuxe series shows an increase of $26, from $770 to $796. The increase in the case of seven models is less than $30, and in the case of the other five is between $30 and $34, the latter figure applying to the Master Sport Sedan.

These new prices now include the S. A. E. group of accessories such as front and rear bumpers, spare tire and tube, radiator ornament, and in addition, on the DeLuxe models, the right hand tail lamp, all of which were not heretofore included in the total prices listed but were sold at an extra charge to the buyer.

The increase bears out the statement made by M. E. Coyle, General Manager of the Chevrolet Division of General Motors, before the company's National Sales Convention last month. Addressing the field wholesale organization, Mr. Coyle asserted that the forthcoming new models would be introduced at an increase in price due to the steady advance in manufacturing costs.

Master DeLuxe Series: Sedan, $796; Coach, $730; Coupe, $714; Sport Coupe, $750; Town Sedan, $750; Sport Sedan, $817.

These clubs are a part of the Helen Keller Literary Society whose meetings are generally at night and are open to the public.

A week from Saturday school will be in session again, closing at 1:15.

Two weeks from Saturday, November 13, the "Annual Stunt Night" program by the four classes will be given. Every one is invited. Admission will be ten cents.

Rev and Mrs. E. W. Butler, who have been away on a vacation in New York State, have returned to Thorsby—and are gladly welcomed back.

The Ladies Guild, an organization of ladies whose special interest is Thorsby Institute, will have a social Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Arthur Villadsen. Mrs. Anna Villadsen will be hostess also. Every one is invited to come.

We would call attention to the fact that any one is welcome to draw books from the Thorsby Institute Library. No charge is made, but if a book is not returned within two weeks a fine of one cent a day is charged and one may not get another book till the fine is paid. If a book is lost it must be replaced.

MRS. BECKIE COLLINS

Funeral services for Mrs. Beckie Collins, age 72 years, were held at Cedar Grove last Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, with Rev. Wm. E. Robinsin officiating. Spigener directed. Mrs. Collins passed away at her home in Clanton Thursday night, October 21, at 11:30 o'clock.

Surviving are three sons and five daughters—G. J. Collins, Cordova; Dewey Collins, Mt. Creek; Odis Collins, Decatur; Mrs. Emma Wilson, Clanton; Mrs. Sadie Smith, Columbus, Ga.; Mrs. Genna Jones, Clanton; Miss Dovie Collins, Clanton; Mrs. Lessie Gore, Clanton. There is one sister, Mrs. Texan Bussie, of Clanton.

LUQUIRE COMPANY WINS A DECISION IN COURT

In a recent court decision the Luquire Funeral Homes Insurance Company was legally established as being a life insurance company. This decision was an important victory for Luquire and of great importance to all who consider funeral insurance.

The meaning of the ruling is that Luquire not only acts under the jurisdiction of the Alabama Insurance Department, but also maintains reserves such as are required of the life insurance companies.

J. Mell Martin & Sons are morticians for Luquire in Clanton.

CANE CREEK

Sunday was our regular preaching day, we had a nice crowd and good preaching services—Sunday school was attended.

In the afternoon, our singing society met and had a good singing.

Mr. Emmett Wilson was elected president of the society. The opening song was led by Mrs. D. F. Willis; prayer by P. C. Weldon. Directors for the afternoon were:

Orene Wyatt, Loranza Sanders, Mrs. J. D. Collins, Miss Hilda Smith, Howard Maddox, Miss Ludelia Cleckler, Evelyn Wilson, Floyd Little, Mrs. D. F. Willis and Jim Parrish. Pianists for the afternoon were Miss Lillie Mae Weldon and Mrs. Emmett Wilson.

We were dismissed by Mr. Cleve Wyatt. We invite everybody to come back again.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

We were made quite happy Sunday by the attendance at Sunday school. Almost every teacher, as usual, was right at his or her place and each department is complimented on its numbers present and the work it is doing. Your superintendent says, "keep it up."

Attendance at church services was really good too. We appreciate that and feel sure that each one who attended was glad and blessed. We trust all will return regularly and bring others. We sincerely hope the absent ones will take notice of themselves, remember the church next Sunday and attend both Sunday school and church services.

The Sunday school offering next Sunday is to pe sent to our orphanage. Let's remember the children of our orphanage and give most liberally to that most worthy institution.

Remember, we miss a mighty good message when we fail to hear our pastor's sermon. We don't have the gratified sensation of duty well done and a pleasure enjoyed when we stay away from church. Rather, we feel depressed and often times the rest of the day "goes wrong", just because we feel that all is wrong. We might have felt that all is right if we had attended church. We don't want to feel that going to church is a duty. It is really an opportunity—an opportunity to learn more of the stabler the higher, the secure, the holier parts of life; an opportunity our better nature cherishes and longs for.

Let's go to church at our very next opportunity.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY AT BAKER

There will be a Hallowe'en party at Baker scholhouse Friday night, October 29th, beginning at 7 o'clock. Admission will be 5c to everybody. There will be booths of all kinds—plenty of fun for all.

The affair is being sponsored by Mt. Pleasant, Baker, and Fairview Home Demonstration clubs. Everybody is invited.

HIGHLIGHTS OF E. J. H. S.

The pupils of this school received the first issue of the Chilton County School Journal enthusiastically, and no doubt the paper was equally as well received by the patrons. We believe it to be an excellent part of this year's school work. Let us read every word of it every month.

School attendance this month has been very satisfactory except in the cases of a few. The teachers wish to emphasize the importance of a pupil being in school every day. Let us help them to be there.

The girls in the occupations class are studying "the house", and have almost completed some articles they have been making for the home. Some of the articles are pillow cases, pot holders, pot holder racks, and dresser scarfs.

The basketball boys went to Thorsby Wednesday night of last week for a practice game. A number of the girls went along as enthusiastic spectators. Enterprise made the first score and led the Thorsby team all during the game. The score at the half was 13 to 0; at the end of the game it was 24 to 9. Yeargan, who made 12 points, was high point man. Both teams showed good sportsmanship throughout the game. The Thorsby boys will return the game on the Enterprise court Friday, October 29. Union Grove will play Enterprise on the Enterprise court Friday, November 5. Be present at both games.

IN MEMORY

On Monday afternoon, October 18, at 3 o'clock, the death angel visited the home of Mr. W. E. Maddox and carried away his beloved wife. She had been sick for about six weeks, but had been in bed only one week.

She leaves to morn her death a husband, five sons, three daughters, and three sisters; besides these a host of friends who will miss her.

She was a devoted wife through their 51 years of wedded life. She was always a loving mother and a kind and friendly neighbor. She had a smile and cherry word for everyone which will be keenly missed by her family and friends. She leaves a vacant place in the home which can never be filled, but though we miss her here so sadly we hope to greet her again in that other Home above. We miss her, yes, we miss her,

No one can ever tell;
We said good bye for only a while,
But didn't say farewell.
Do not worry friends and loved ones,
For we know she is at rest.
Though she has been taken from us,
'Tis because God picks the best.

We want to thank every one for the beautiful flowers and deeds, and words of kindness shown us during the illness and death of our dear wife and mother. Especially do we thank Dr. Johnson for his untiring efforts.

May God bless each and every one of you.—W. E. Maddox and Children.

SOIL CONSERVATION SERVICE

Taking time by the forelock, farmers cooperating with the Soil Conservation Service area near Clanton are making plans now for better pastures next summer by building contour furrows to store moisture and conserve soil during winter and spring rains, according to Mr. James H. Wood, Camp Superintendent.

As soon as winter crops are planted, cooperators will begin laying off contour lines and constructing contour furrows. Follwing the demonstration idea, they are finding that it is better to improve a few acres each year, and do the job well, until a good sod has been esablished on all their pasture acreage, Mr. Wood said.

Beginning with the best available pasture land, contour lines are laid off just like terrace lines, except that they are level. Between these lines, furrows are laid off much the same as corn rows, starting at the upper side and constructing the furrows downhill parallel to the line until the middle of the narrowest point in the interval is reached. Then furrows are laid og uphill from the line below and short furrows are put in just like laying off rows for row crops, he explained.

Two back furrows are constructed with a turn plow, leaviug a balk 8 or 12 inches wide, which is broken out with a disc harrow or other suitable farm equipment that will leave some soil in the bottom of the furrow and distribute some on the sides to provide a good seed bed.

urther information on constructing contour furrows seeding recommendations, requirements for proper first-year grazing, and weed control to establish a sod which will control erosion and provide good grazing can be obtained from Mr. James H. Wood, Camp Superintendent or County Agent J. W. Fant.

POLITICAL TAX PLANS

A treasury official hints that middle-bracket income taxes are to be increased. Nothing is said about broadening the tax base to require people in the lower brackets to pay something. Therein revealed anew the fundamental fault with tax tinkering on a political basis.

There could be little objection to increasing taxes on a basis equitable to all. The necessity is recognized of finding more revenue as a companion measure to drastic reduction of government expenditures. The budget can never be balanced otherwise, and if the budget is not brought into balance, and the mounting of debt stopped, the country will gravitate to ruin within a few more years.

It is fair that all who earn should contribute something of what they earn to the upkeep of government. It is fair to make the load on small earners proportionately lighter than on larger earners, but all should be made to contribute something. A lower-bracket tax that would be only nominal on the individual would run into a very substantial aggregate when multiplied by millions. Too many among our population now escape direct taxation altogether. There are hidden taxes that they all pay, but they are not conscious of these. Sympathetic support for economy measures can only be inculcated by making everybody tax conscious.—Portland Oregonian.

From 1879 to 1929 horsepower used in industrial plants increased 12½ times; factory wages 12¼ times, and jobs 3¼ times. And during that time our population increased only 2½ times.

Greater efforts are to be put forth to induce the states to pass the child labor act. If successful it means bigger and better benches in the drug stores.

In 1886 the life of finished steel produced in the United States was 15 years. In 1936 the average life of steel products was estimated at 33½ years.

MAN IN THE MOON

ABOUT FACE

It is quite amusing at times to watch the editorial, managerial and political gymnastics of The Chilton County News. The twists, flips, turns and somersaults that The News can put on under the proper pressure would put a trapeze performer to shame. Judging by its past record, The News has no more policy, no more crystallized editorial opinion of its very own than a rabbit. A rabbit sits and pants, waiting to see where the next threat is coming from, looking for the closest safe hole to jump in; when that threat appears, no matter from what direction, Mr. Rabbit promptly makes for what he believes is the closest and safest hole. He just jumps, and thinks afterward, if at all—and so does The News.

The latest of these fancy hurdles was concerning the road supervisor scrap. When the new system was first being set up, Judge J. Lee Smith called in a few representative citizens of the county, together with the Commissioners Court, all of whom were against the high-handed action of "Representative" Charlie Cox. The press of the county was invited to send representatives also. I was present to represent The Union-Banner, and Mr. Billy Smith represented The News.

After much discussion, and talks by various men attending, some mention was made by Judge Smith about plans to combat the new move. He asked about the support of the county's people, and was assured by everyone present that it was the general belief that the whole people were with him, Republicans and Democrats alike, in fighting such arbitrary action. He asked for the opinion and support of the press, and I assured him at once that The Union-Banner took no stock in such dictatorial action, and would fight it to the last ditch. Mr. Smith said nothing until pointedly asked about the view and intention of The News, and then did not give a direct answer, but stated that his paper had not yet made up its editorial mind on the question, and that he preferred to have nothing whatever to do with the scrap either way, until it had done so.

That seemed to be somewhat of a surprise to Judge Smith and the others, but inasmuch as every person or publication has a right to its own view, granting due fairness, his paper received the benefit of this right. You know the never-ending fight that has been waged since that day. And from then The News embarked on a policy of saying nothing of its own about the road scrap. It opened its columns, as did The Union-Banner, to letters regarding this fight, but nothing of its own was ever voiced by The News. That is, nothing was said until the heat was turned on—recently.

The Union-Banner has made good its promise—we did not believe in the new road law, and we have backed up that conviction by fighting the law relentlessly.

The News was between the devil and the deep blue sea. When the road bill was being put through, The News was doing all the advertising of the proposed bills by Cox and Thomas, as is required by law. Now The News could hardly afford to raise the "dander" of Cox or Thomas just while all that legal advertising was coming in—this legal advertising pays a high rate, and brings in a nice sum.

After all this was over, The News still played shut-mouth, because it couldn't be sure which side of the Democratic scrap would have the next chance to throw another rich advertising morsel its way. It kept mum until it found out where that next bunch of money was coming from. That information popped up in July of this year, and came in the form of the treasurer's semi-annual report, which is a nice little order, and pays a tidy sum for publication.

It has been a custom of several years' standing to "split" this little plum between the county papers—allowing The News to print it one time, and The Union-Banner the next. That was kept up all during the Republican administration, after The News had procured equipment to enable it to print a readable sheet. Not long ago the date of publication of this report was changed from January and July to April and October. Accordingly, the first such publication for this year was for only three months, and as it was time for The News to get it, it did, and published it. At that time there was no complaint from The News that it was being allowed to publish only a three-month report. The complaint and the whining came in July and August of this year.

Mr. T. E. Wyatt, editor of The Union-Banner, met the Commissioners Court in July, and according to custom, was awarded the publication of this report, it being his time to receive it. But on August 9, Mr. Smith met the court, complaining that he had been allowed to publish only a short report, and asked that The News be awarded the contract. His request was granted. We wonder if The Union-Banner would hove received a like consideration if the case had been reversed. We doubt it!

That August 9 was on Monday. And, mind you, The News had had not one word to say to help the court in its fight against the supervisor act during all this time. But on the following Thursday, August 12, after being awarded the contract for publishing the next treasurer's report, on the Monday before, The News suddenly became fully aware of its responsibility to "the better interests" of the county, and to the Commissioners Court, and blazed forth with a resounding front page editorial in which it declared that the road question had been a political football long enough, that it believed the new plan was unworkable, and should be done away with forthwith.

Truly, the powers of the filthy lucre are great, that it can so easily sway the beliefs and "convictions" of mankind. For more than 15 months The News was unable to make up its mind on the road question, yet when the proper pressure was put on from the faction of the Democratic party which seemed to be leading, and the rich morsel of a big advertising bill was dangled as bait in front of its eyes, this same studious, long-considerate Chilton County News was able to make up its mind to a definite and very certain conclusion in the short time of THREE DAYS! Truly, the tortoise had sprouted rabbit legs!

What steadfast policy! What consistency! How The News must have wrinkled its editorial brow! How it must surely have sweated blood in laboring so long and hard and patiently in making up its mind! How it must have suffered as it trod the valley of the shadow of doubt and indecision for those 15 long months! And what a relief it must have been when, happily, after all this editorial occupation and patience, it found itself able, due to prevailing circumstances, to come to a definite and very decisive conclusion—within THREE SHORT DAYS!

THE POWER OF THE PEOPLE

Why does our Constitution make the people the supreme authority, and what protection does it provide so that "we the people" may keep our supremacy?

"I know no safe depository of the ultimate powers of society but the people themselves," said Thomas Jefferson, long after completing his term as president. "My personal interest in such questions is entirely extinct, but not my wishes for the longest possible continuance of our government on its pure principles.

"If the three powers, Congress, the President, and the Supreme Court, as provided in Articles I, II, and III of our Constitution maintain their mutual independence of each other, it may last long, but not so if either can assume the authorities of the other."

Truly—"Consistency, thou art a jewel!"

Now, if there be any "doubting Thomases" among you—any who do not believe the above, or any certain part of it—any who may want to get his back up about any of the statements made, first consult the records before you speak too hastily.

Take a file of The News from the date the road law became such; see if you can find ONE WORD against it, even though it was easily evident that almost the whole people of the county opposed it, and were holding their referendum (which proved so useless, because "the people were not properly informed", though both Cox and Thomas were invited to "inform" them). See if The News did not "pussyfoot" on the question. Ask Judge Smith if Editor Billy Smith did not refuse flatly to join in the fight against the bill. See if The News did not publish the last treasurer's report. Ask Judge Smith and the Commissioners Court if The News complained at the time because their publication of the last report was short. Ask Judge Smith and the Court if it has not been a custom to alternate with the publication of this report, and verify this fact by scanning the files of the papers for years past. Ask them if they did not award the publication of the next report to The Union-Banner, according to custom. Ask them if they did not "renege" on this award and give it to The News on the request of Mr. Billy Smith, or examine the minutes of the Commissioners Court meetings for July and August, just to be sure. See if this did not happen on August 9. Again scan your Chilton County News of the issue of August 12, and see if the "Political Football" editorial did not appear on the front page, THREE DAYS after the report award was made. Look Judge Smith full in the eye and ask him if he did not "turn on the heat" on the editor of The News—Judge Smith will tell you the truth, if he tells you anything..

Check my every statement above carefully. When you have done these things, if you still believe that I have departed one iota from the truth, either in word or spirit, you are at liberty to take me to task, but please be kind enough to point out wherein I have erred, and I will be glad to apologize. And, may I add, I do not expect to be challenged, either by The News, Judge Smith, members of the Commissioners Court, or anyone else.

And while you are reading that issue of August 12 of The News, be good enough to read the first column on the editorial page. Of all things, The News carries in that column an editorial which is a scathing denunciation of "Pussyfooting". If there is such a thing as travesty on justice, that editorial is it, to the Nth degree. Read it for yourself, and laugh with us!

The Progressive-Republican party vs. the Democratic party is all the talk in The Union-Banner and The Clanton Press of October 12, 1912. F. M. Wood of The Press is hollering "nigger woman voters" from the housetops, while F. B. Ticknor of The Union-Banner, assisted by Judge Reynolds, M. D. Foshee and W. H. Gillespie are defending the Progressive or Bull Moose cause from every angle. It is fun to read these political exhortations.

Seniors To Sponsor Play Friday Night

The Chilton County High School seniors are sponsoring a play next Friday night in which several Alabama College students from Montevallo take part.

The Montevallo Dramatic Club is to put on several plays over the state, and our high school is fortunate in having one of them put on here. The seniors are sponsoring this play instead of putting on one themselves. They cordially invite everyone to attend.

The Senior III class has been divided into two groups, each trying to sell the most tickets to the play, "Hobson's Choice". Get your tickets early. Admission, 20c for all high school students, and 25c for adults.

Injured Football Players

Last Wednesday our little swivel hipped quarterback, Buell Locklear, sustained a fractured arm during the practice scrimmage. He will likely be out for the rest of the season.

Bucky Armstrong is already out with a like injury, while Ducky-Wucky Williamson is nursng a lame knee that may go bad any minute.

Diversified Occupations Class

The Diversified Occupations Class under the supervision of Mr. B. E. Evans has settled down and is now doing some fine work, which we hope will continue throughout the school, and also throughout many successful years for all people interested in this work.

New Janitor

Our new janitor is doing well, he's keeping the fires going and the building well swept.

Sylacauga Swamps Tigers 33 To 7

Chilton lost a very disheartening game to Sylacauga last Friday. The Sylacauga team outplayed our Tigers in every respect. For some unknown reason the Tigers got off on the wrong foot, allowing the visitors two touchdowns in the first quarter. It is probable that the injured players was a big reason for the one-sided score. Locklear and Armstrong were both out, and Williamson's leg was in bad shape, although he was still in the game. Outstanding for Chilton were Ted Reynolds and Duck Williamson.

The Tigers go to Montevallo Friday, looking to a much better game.

AMERICAN LEGION CONFERENCE

Montgomery, Oct. 8. — The second annual American Legion District Conference of the Fifth District will be held in Birmingham, Ala., on October 29, at 6 p.m. The Fifth District comprises the following counties: Jefferson, Shelby, Chilton and Autauga.

This is a very important meeting, at which the Legion's program for the ensuing year will be outlined, and reports of the various posts in the District will be received. All Legionnaires in this District should attend this conference. It will be held at the Redmont Hotel.

Many outstanding state officers of the American Legion will be present and make addresses. Among those who have accepted invitations to appear on the program are Dr. B. F. Austin of Montgomery, Department Commander; R. S. Ward of Hartford, Department Vice Commander; and D. Trotter Jones of Montgomery, Department Adjutant. In addition to these, many of the Department Committee Chairmen, and Area Commander Otis R. Burton of Talladega are expected to be present.

District Commander W. S. Buck of Fairfield will preside at the conference. Each post commander in the district should contact his membership and ascertain how many members will attend the conference and notify the Commander of the host post in order that proper preparations may be made.

Senior II Paper

The Senior II English class is sponsoring a newspaper, which will contain all kinds of items which go to make up a real newspaper. The class will appreciate your cooperation. The paper's office holders are as fillows: Editor-in-chief, Carlos Wyatt; Sports Editor, Nell Jones; Social Editors, Maurice Wyatt, Hazel Nivens; Art Editors, Mildred Maddox, Buster Popwell; Joke Editors, Buster Popwell, Mae Frances Bruce; Business Managers, Buell Locklear, Sidney Nelson, Annie Pearl Honeycutt; Circulation Managers, Harold Lawrence, Myrtle Pitts; Typists, Peggy Page, Myrtice Mims.

STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

A warning agains the use of sulphanilamide for self-medication, which has resulted in the recent death of 13 persons in various parts of the United States, was isued Wednesday by Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, after receipt of a telegram from Dr. Morris Fishbein, of the American Medical Association, stating that these deaths were definitely due to this drug. Dr. Baker's statement follows:

"About a year ago a new drug—sulphanilamide was introduced for the treatment of various infections. This drug has been shown to be extremely efficient, but it has also been shown to be dangerous under certain conditions. The medical profession, accordingly, have been checking very carefully the type of case in which it is indicated and the form of the drug that could be used with safety. Warnings against the indiscriminate and wholesale use of this drug have appeared in all the medical journals.

"The recent reports in the press of 13 deaths in Oklahoma and Missouri attributed to this drug emphasize again these warnings. The American Medical Association advises that all deaths were used to Elixir Sulphanilamide put out by a single manufacturer and it is understood that the preparation has been withdrawn from the market. How much of this was distributed in Alabama is unknown and no reports of fatalities have been received. Any physicians or druggists carrying this particular formula, however, should remove it from circulation. Sulphanilamide is too dangerous a drug to be dispensed by pharmacists for self-medication."

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

State of Alabama, Chilton County.

The Commissioners Court of Chilton County, Alabama, will receive sealed bids until 10 o'clock November 1st, 1937, at the Probate Office for lease on the County Farm (known as the County Almshouse), for the year 1938. Said lease will be awarded to the highest and best bidder for cash; the Court reserves the right to reject any and all bids.—J. Lee Smith, Judge of Probate. 1t-ch

SOCIETY

Mrs. Huddleston Entertained With Party—

Mrs. W. E. Huddleston entertained with a bridge party at her home Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Fall flowers were tastefully arranged in bowls and vases about the living and dining rooms. An old fashioned bouquet setting the attractive center piece for a table near the door.

Games were played at five tables. High score prize was awarded to Mrs. John Deramus, a lovely piece of pottery, and cut prize went to Mrs. L. F. Gerald, a double deck of cards.

Delicious refreshments, a salad plate with iced tea, were served by the hostess following the games.

The guest list included Mesdames J. Lee Smith, Arthur Johnson, Claude Craig, L. F. Gerald, Hugh Simpson, John Kimmey, Hugh Jones, Omar Reynolds, Julius Burnett, John Armstrong, John Mullins, John Deramus, Grady Reynolds, Hance Alred, John McSwean, John Browder, Frank Callen, N. S. Johnson, Dick Hayes, and Jim Wood.

Sub-Deb Club Has Progressive Week End House Party—

The Sub-Deb Club had a grand time last week end. They had as their visitor Sara Elizabeth Venable, of Wetumpka, an honorary member with them. They began their house party at a lovely luncheon at Alee Stewart Johnson's home. The table was beautifully decorated, and souvenirs, which were Hollowe'en horns, were near the place cards. After lunch the party went to the movie to see "The Emperor's Candlesticks," and then to the drug store.

At 7 o'clock they met at the home of Peggy Page. Six boys came in for supper with them. They were Callen Alred, Buell Locklear, Guy Alred, Guy McKee, Harold Lawrence, and Marvin Truett. After supper the crowd played games and danced. When the boys left the girls drove over to Olive Rainer Elmore's home. They slept in the Elmores' new servant house that has not been occupied yet. The house was decorated with black cats of paper, and colored lights.

Ghosts were found in the closets, but best of all was the feast at midnight. They had all sorts of fruits, candies, and pop corn. The next morning they were awakened by the bugle blown by Jack Elmore. They then went to Lump Pitts' home for breakfast. After breakfast they rode a while with Jane Pitts, and were carried to the drug store. They then went to church at the Methodist church. After the sermon, they continued with their party to the home of Nell Rockett. Immediately after dinner they went to the movie to see "Easy Living". They then hurried to the train to see Sara Elizabeth off. After doing so, the members scattered to their different homes.

Grady Heflin, Jr., Has Birthday Party—

On last Thursday afternoon, Grady Heflin, Jr., celebrated his 7th birthday when his mother, Mrs. Grady Heflin, entertained with a party for children.

Guests present were: Johnnie Kimmey, Richard Reynolds, Billy Burnett, Barbara Burnett, Frances Ellis, Joe Mullins, Jr., Sally Gowan, Charles Bradford, Ben Popwell, Ann Maddox, Julia Nell Parrish, John Deramus, Jr., Bobby Webb, O. K. Welch, Jack Elmore, William Crutcher Ross, Jeanette Ross, Evelyn Lowe, Sonny McCutcheon, Donna Blacketter, Ina Saxon McCraney, Buddy Roberts, L. J. Stewart, Jack Waite, Johnnie Faut, and others.

Mrs. John Kimmey Entertains Contract Club—

Mrs. John Kimmey was hostess to members of her bridge club on last Thursday afternoon. The club prize was won by Mrs. Kimmey, and the guest prize fell to Mrs. Dick Hayes.

At a late hour a tempting salad plate with hot coffee was served to the members and guests present, who were: Mesdames Claude Craig, Paul Locklear, Dubb Huddleston, John McSwean, John Mullins, Jack Hayes, Dick Hayes, while Mrs. George McCain was a tea guest.

Mrs. E. E. Upchurch Compliments Miss Mary Ellis, Bride-Elect—

Mrs. E. E. Upchurch entertained on last Thursday afternoon from 3:30 to 6:30 with a miscellaneous shower complimenting her niece, Miss Mary Ellis, who will be married to Mr. Raymond C. Smith on November 2.

The spacious living room of the Upchurch home was artistically decorated in baskets and white standards of pink dahlias. The guests were met at the door by Mrs. J. Lee Smith. In the receiving line stood the hostess in a gown of lavender crepe. Miss Ellis was never more lovely than in a gown of rose taffeta. Mrs. J. T. Ellis, mother of the honoree, wore black crepe, with a corsage of red roses. Mrs. A. C. Sith wore a becoming attire of black with silver trimmings. Also in the receiving line were Mrs. Walter Bentley of Springfield, Tenn., Mrs. Turner Dennis, Mrs. Betsy McConnell of Montgomery, and Miss Mamie Middleton of Birmingham.

Assisting in the artistically decorated rooms in which the gifts were displayed were Mrs. J. W. Hayes, Mrs. J. P. Hayes, Mrs. S. J. Ezell, Mrs. J. Watts Moore, Mrs. J. R. Mullins, and Miss Della Latham.

The guests were served cream, cake, and dainty mints by Miss Anne Ross and Miss Nell Rockett. Love lyrics were sung by Mrs. Ed Glasscock and Mrs. Henry Stanley, accompanied by Mrs. W. L. Longshore. Miss Grace Ezell gave several piano solos. Many friends of the bride called during the afternoon.

Plans Of Ellis-Smith Wedding Announced—

Miss Mary Ellis, who will be married to Mr. Raymond C. Smith on November 2, announces her wedding plans.

The marriage will take place at the Clanton Baptist Church at 5 o'clock on next Tuesday afternoon, with Dr. S. J. Ezell officiating. Miss Ellis has chosen for her maid of honor her niece, Miss Mamie Middleton, of Birmingham. Mrs. Cecil Smith, of Lakeland, Fla., sister-in-law of the groom, will serve as matron of honor. The bridesmaids will be Misses Marion Moody of Scottsboro, and Viola Vail of Mobile. Little Bettye Ellis, attractive little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Latham Ellis of Birmingham will act as flower girl.

The groom will be attended by his brother, Mr. Cecil Smith, of Lakeland, Fla., who will serve as best man. The ushers will be Earle Ellis, Jesse Sam Gowan, Edwin Mullins, and Charles Moore. The nuptial music will be presented by Mrs. Henry Stanley, and Miss Kathryn Foss of Thorsby, accompanied at the piano by Miss Beverley Hester. Mrs. W. L. Longshore of Birmingham will also accompany on the violin.

Luncheon Party Is Compliment To Miss Ellis—

Miss Mary Ellis, whose marriage to Raymond C. Smith will be an event of November 2, was complimented at a luncheon party on last Saturday, when Miss Kittye Clyde Austin of Montgomery was hostess at the Mary Lou Tea Room on South Perry Street, Montgomery.

The table was centered with a silver bowl of white chrysanthemums. A silver motif was carried out in the service, and two beautiful silver peacocks.

A delicious luncheon was served to Mesdames John T. Ellis of Clanton, Edward Gresham, E. A. Greene, Misses Betsy McConnell, Marion Moody, Viola Suttles, Phyllis Frances, Odele Carmichael, Martha Branscomb, Mary Ellis of Clanton, and Kittye Clyde Austin of Montgomery.

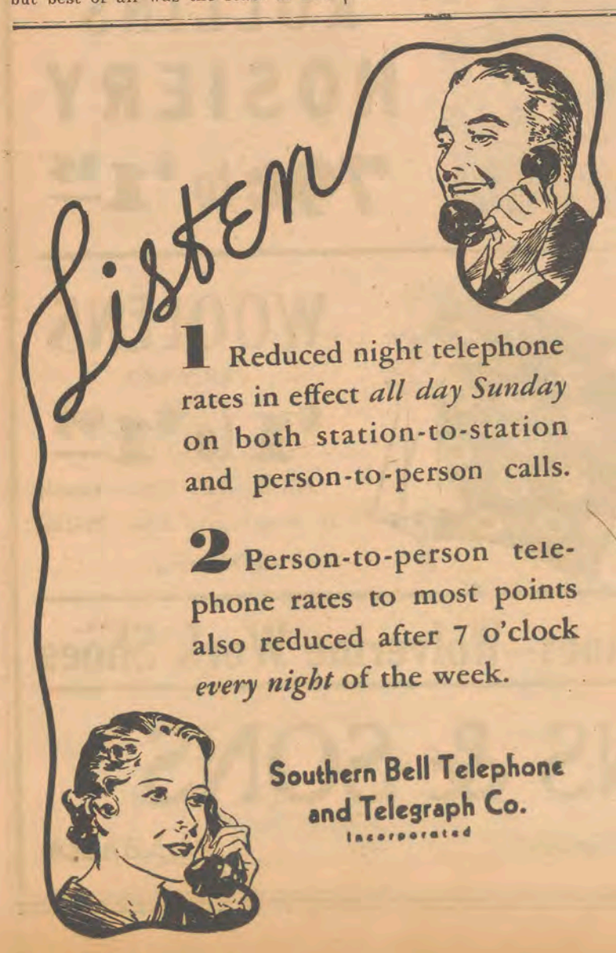
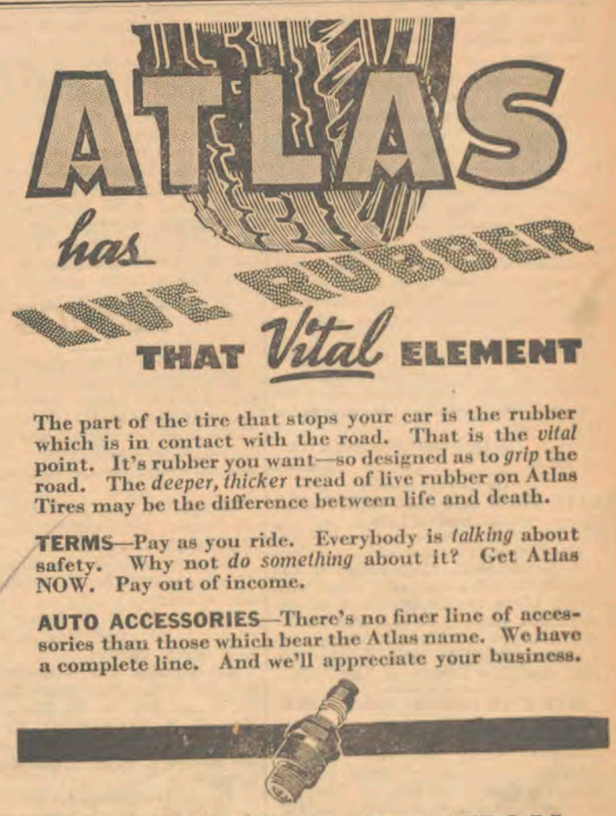
ALABAMA ARMORIES

Alabama has 25 new armories that have been built in the past two years. Two others are now under construction and will be completed soon. Still two others are to be completed before July 1, 1938. The state already owned five armories, and this will give it a total of 35.



These 25 armories, that have been completed during the past two years have not cost the state a penny. They have been built with federal money and donations by the communities where they are located. The Federal government contributed to the building of these armories $1,320,000, and when the full program is completed will have contributed approximately 1½ million dollars. The securing of this federal money and the building of these armories was made possible by an act of the legislature in 1935 creating the Alabama Armory Commission.



The location of these armories and the amount contributed to each by the federal government follows: Florence $25,000, Athens $25,000, Troy $25,000, Decatur $25,000, Huntsville $60,000, Guntersville $25,000, Albertville $25,000, Gadsden $65,000, Jacksonville $30,000, two at Birmingham $455,000, Tuscaloosa $40,000, Greensboro $25,000, Selma $25,000, Prattville $25,000, Montgomery $60,000, Luverne $25,000, Greenville $25,000, Ozark $25,000, Elba $25,000, Enterprise $25,000, Dothan $45,000, Samson $30,000, Florala $30,000, Prichard $30,000, Mobile $150,000.

The two new armories now under construction are one at Opelika to cost $40,000, and the enlargement and rebuilding the one at Evergreen to cost $12,000.

Others to be built in the next few months are one at Hartselle to cost $25,000, and one at Boaz to cost the same amount.

MARS HILL

Last Saturday night was our regular preaching night. Due to the cold weather very few were present. Come on, folks, and let's keep the Lord's work growing.

Our Sunday school was small last Sunday. Everybody remember to come next Sunday at 10 o'clock.

The program given by the Stamps Southernaires of Birmingham was enjoyed very much by all attending.

Mr. Buddie Ervin spent this week end with his wife and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Velpo Mims spent Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gothard.

Mrs. Tone Cofer spent the week with Mrs. A. J. Leach.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnie Smith spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Ferguson of Randolph.

Mr. Cobern Cofer, Miss Leafie Smith and Miss Essie Mae Scott were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Cofer Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Baggett visited Mr. and Mrs. Claude Underwood Saturday night.

Mrs. Herdman Cofer visited her mother, Mrs. Belle Brantley, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Luther Cofer spent a while with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Crumpton Saturday night.

We miss the boys of this community, Winford Smith and Snukk Durans, who joined the CCC recently.

Mrs. Jeff Holsemback has just returned from a visit with friends in Birmingham.

Several from this community attended the singing at Center Hill Sunday afternoon.—Reporter.

MT. PLEASANT NEWS

The first meeting of the year at Mt. Pleasant was very interesting. Mr. Ivey discussed our project for next year and the livestock show and prizes won.

We talked about the good times we had during the summer, about the trip to Muscle Shoals, the 4-H club rally and camp.

We want all our club members to be present at the next club meeting, as we are going to elect new officers.

There being no other business the meeting adjourned until next month.

Miss Evelyn Melvin of Pensacola, Fla., is visiting friends at Jemison.

PUBLICATION TO NON-RESIDENT

The State of Alabama, Chilton County. Circuit Court In Equity. No. 1446. October 11, 1937. S. H. Rollins, Complainant, vs. Cora Lee Rollins, Defendant. Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of Percy M. Pitts, attorney for Complainant, that the Defendant is a non-resident, and that her place of residence and post office address is unknown, and that such address cannot be ascertained after reasonable effort; and, further, that in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant is over the age of twenty-one years:

It is, therefore, ordered by the Register that publication be made in The Union-Banner, a newspaper published in the County of Chilton, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring her, the said Cora Lee Rollins, to plead, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 15th day of November, 1937, or, in thirty days thereafter, a decree pro confesso may be taken against her.

Done at office in Clanton, this 11th day of October, 1937.

SALLY JOHNSON ROBERTS,
Register.

MRS. ILA B. CASTLEBERRY

On Saturday morning, October 16, God, in His infinite wisdom, saw fit to take from our midst Mrs. Ila B. Castleberry, of Marbury. It was sad to give her up; to know her was to love her. She was ill for about two years, but bore her pain with patience. She was bed ridden for the last two weeks. But weep not, dear ones, for you know she has no pain, and is asleep in Jesus.

She leaves to mourn her: her husband, Harvey Castleberry; five children—Earl, Duffey, Ermon, Merrell, and Delton; parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ed George of Jemison; three sisters — Miss Bell George of Jemison, Mrs. Berta Mae Gray of Montgomery, and Mrs. Janie Mann of Beat 14; and a host of other relatives.

She was born in Coosa County 34 years ago, moving to Chilton when a child; she lived in Chilton County until early last spring, then moving to Autauga County.

She joined the Missionary Baptist church when a young girl.

Burial was at New Hope, Ala., Sunday morning, Rev. Culpepper officiating.—One who loved her, Mrs. Cordelia Hall.

HALLOWNE'EN AT ISABELLA

There will be a Hallowe'en party at Isabella schoolhouse Friday night, October 29th, beginning at 7 o'clock. Everybody is invited with the assurance of having plenty of fun.

THORSBY JR. HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Attendance for the first three weeks was good.

Work is advancing nicely on our new class rooms. We hope to be in them within a few days.

The Jr. High School basketball team divided honors last week in two practice games. They lost to Enterprise 24 to 11, winning from Union Grove 22 to 12. The former game was a wild and wooly affair, with most everything happening except good basketball. Niether team showed anything in the way of clear cut basketball skill. The game was entirely too rough to hold much appeal for the large audience. We trust that our next game will offer more enjoyment. In the Union Grove game, both teams gave a demonstration of basketball technique, each team working and moving smoothly in its efforts to register pointage. No disposition of roughness was manifest during the entire game. The Union Grove team led Thorsby during the early part, but lost their lead during the middle period.

Our boys go to Enterprise tomorrow (Friday). We are expecting both of these teams to fight cleanly for a margin. The game will be called at 2 o'clock.

This week brings to a close the first month's activities—also monthly tests. With a steady hand and a courageous heart we strive to make the marks of honor.

Mrs. Taylor is still absent, due to illness.

The P.-T. A. is sponsoring a Hallowe'en Party for tomorrow (Friday) night, to be held in the Junior High School auditorium. Games, refreshments, contests, fortune telling, ghosts, spooks, black cats, weird happenings, 'n' everything to round out a good evening's Hallowe'en entertainment. Everyone is cordially invited to come and share in the fun, frolic and foolishness. Admission 5c to all school children; 10c for adults.

Mrs. Fred Howard was a most gracious visitor to our school last Monday.

Miss Jones, 6th grade instructor, presented a novel program in chapel exercise last Monday. She dramatized the story, "The Water Clock", from the 6th reader, and allowed the grade to render it in the form of a playlet.

REFUGE

Sunday school was somewhat small Sunday for some unknown reason. We missed all the absent ones, and hope they will all be back next Sunday. The lesson is on temperance, and we should be very much interested in this subject; everyone should be interested in it.

Our pastor, Rev. M. Lockhart, filled his regular appointment at New Cedron last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Mims visited their daughter, Mrs. Andrew Minor, last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Minor were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Minor near Lomax Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Easterling visited Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Minor Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Willie Mims, Mr. and Mrs. M. N. Mims, Louis Mims, Cora Easterling, and A. H. Mims all visited Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Minor Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. M. Lockhart and children visited Mrs. T. B. Easterling Sunday.

C C C ENROLLMENT

On Friday, October 22nd, 56 boys from Chilton County were enrolled in CCC Camps. This is the largest number of boys ever to be enrolled from Chilton County at one enrollment. As each boy sends $25.00 per month home to his family, this enrollment will place $1,400.00 per month into circulation in the county for the next six months, provided each boy remains for the full term of enrollment; in addition to providing board, clothing, medical care and incidental expenses for the boys themselves.

Quite a large number of eligible applicants were unable to enroll because the quota was not large enough to take care of all eligible applicants. These applications will be held pending and will be given every possible consideration in the next enrollment.

Out of 51 white boys examined for selection, only one was rejected because of physical handicaps, and out of 8 colored boys presented, only two were rejected. This rather remarkable fact was due in large measure to the active cooperation of the County Health Officer and the physicians of the county who made very thorough physical examinations of all applicants in time to enable them to have dental work done or other physical handicaps corrected, which would otherwise have rendered them ineligible for enrollment.—Nolan Meroney, Director Chilton County Department of Public Welfare.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY PAYS HUGE SUM FOR SCHOOLS

Birmingham, Oct. 22. — Swelling the special Educational Trust Fund of Alobama by $349,110.98 was the check delivered today by Lamar Aldridge, Treasurer of hte Alabama Power Co., in payment of the hydro-electric kilowatt hour tax. The entire amount of this check will be devoted to educational purposes. Of Alabama's 67 counties, 39 will receive over $5,000 each for high schools and elementary schools. Chilton County is not among the 39.

The payment today is only part of the Alabama Power Company's taxes for 1937. It is the state's largest taxpayer. Its total taxes for 1937 are estimated at over $2,750,000 by Thos. W. Martin, president, who, commenting on the company's tax bill, said:

"There is a vast difference between the millions of dollars in taxes we will pay this year and the few thousands, $55,615.64 to be exact, paid by the Tennessee Valley Authority, whose untaxed physical property in Alabama cost as much or more than ours. Should the TVA be successful in its apparent effort to destroy the power companies, the millions now paid in taxes by Alabama Power Company must be made up from other sources. Not only the state, but counties, municipalities, and the U. S. government are beneficiaries of taxes paid by the company.

"In addition to the loss of the taxes now collected from Alabama Power Company, the state and some counties and municipalities will suffer a loss in tax collections because thousands of acres of rich agricultural lands and other properties are being acquired by TVA; most of it will be flooded; all of it will be removed from the tax rolls. Already several counties in north Alabama are feeling the tax pinch of the TVA where real estate assessments have been hiked to offset the loss in the amount of taxable property; because TVA is a governmental agency and its properties are non-taxable.

Thus, as its area of activities enlarges and it takes over more and more privately owned property, the remaining tax payers in other parts of the state will be burdened with additional taxes to make up the difference.

"In addition to tax losses, there is an estimated loss to the general economy of the state of 12½ million dollars in farm income because of the flooding by TVA of some of the richest agricultural lands in Alabama.

"When all this is considered, perhaps the people of our state will feel they are paying an extraordinarily high price for a slight, subsidized saving in retail electric rates."

PLANT WINTER LEGUMES FOR SOIL IMPROVEMENT

Auburn, Ala.—The most important problem of any farmer is to obtain the largest possible net return from his farm operation. Greater net returns may be obtained by either increasing the gross return or by reducing the cost of production or by the operation of both these factors. The farmer can obtain greater gross returns per acre by increasing the yields. Lower production costs per unit of product can be most effectively obtained by the use of those practices which give the highest yields a the least cost.

No practice is known which will give higher yields per acre and lower costs per unit of product than planting winter legumes. Experiments conducted by the Alabama Agricultural Experiment Station have shown that a good crop of vetch or Austrian peas will greatly increase cotton and corn yields at a very low unit cost. These increases have averaged approximately 600 pounds of seed cotton and 15 bushels of corn per acre. The cost of these increases is very low.

It is rather late to plant these winter crops in North Alabama. However, in Middle and South Alabama vetch and Austrian peas may be planted with safety up to November 1 if the proper precautions are taken. The precautions are as follows: Plant 20 pounds of hairy vetch or 30 pounds of Austrian winter peas per acre. Inoculate the seed with the commercial culture and with soil from a place where the crop has successfully grown when vetch or Austrain peas are planted on land for the first time. Apply 300 pounds of superphosphate or 600 pounds of basic slag per acre at the time of planting.

Alabama has only two Ex-Governors living. They are Thomas E. Kilby of Anniston, who is now 72 years old and B. M. Miller, who is 73. Kilby is the only Lieutenant Governor to be elected governor. The only other men who have served as Lieutenant Governors, now living are Charles McDowell of Eufaula and Hugh Merrill, of Anniston.

DRUNK DRIVER TESTS MADE

Auburn, Oct. 25. — Chemical tests to determine the state of intoxication of a person accused of drunkenness have been used successfully in Recorder's Court here.

This information was made public today by local officials who are cooperating with the Alabama Motorists Association and Dr. H. W. Nixon, state toxicologist, in an effort to have several such testing laboratories placed on Alabama's principal highways as an aid to State Highway Patrolmen in their fight against drunken drivers.

G. F. Hawkins, Auburn Chief of Police, Dr. C. S. Yarbrough, Mayor of Auburn, and Roberts H. Brown, Recorder of the Auburn court, were authorities for the statement made to the Alabama Motorists Association that chemical tests to determine the extent of drunkness have proved successful in their court.

While no names were used, the officials stated that in several instances the tests have been used and that persons were convicted upon the chemical analysis.

In a statement to the motorists association, Chief of Police Hawkins said:

"In every case where evidence of laboratory tests have been employed, our charges have been sustained at court. It is valuable to a police officer to have such corroborative information, and it strengthens his stand in bringing definite charges of drunkenness while driving. In certain cases there is an element of protection for the officer where witnesses may unfairly convince the court that the accused was not intoxicated and has been a victim of malicioUus persecution.

"A police officer will become more accurate in his observations after having an opportunity to compare his findings with the interpretations of laboratory tests.

"We have had only one suspect in more than a score of actual cases who refused to submit to the scientific test. In that case, I was convinced that he was afraid of the results of a laboratory test, which strengthened my opinion that he was definitely intoxicated."

The largest vote polled by the Republican party in Alabama in many years was in 1928, when the Republican electors received 120,725 votes and the Democratic electors received 127,796. The Democrats carried 40 counties and the Republicans 27. In the general election in 1930 J. H. Bankhead, the Democratic nominee for U. S. Senator, received 150,985 votes and J. Thomas Heflin, running as an independent, received 100,952 votes. Heflin carried 11 counties. They were: Chambers, Chilton, Clay, Conecuh, Coosa, DeKalb, Escambia, Henry, Shelby, St. Clair and Winston.

The Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation is offering to buy cottonseed oil to strengthen cotton seed prices to cotton farmers by diverting cottonseed oil from normal channels.

VALUE OF TIMBER SHOULD BE KNOWN PRIOR TO ANY SALE

Auburn, Oct. 25. — Selling the stand of timber or the trees on any area for lump sum often is like selling a herd of cattle without counting them, says Lyle Brown, extension forester for the Alabama Extension Service.

Disposing of standing timber or stumpage without knowing the number of board feet or cords of wood that can be cut or the price per thousand feet or per cord is aboutu the same as selling farm animals without knowing the number or the price per pound, Mr. Brown says.

The Forest Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture makes a number of recommendations to owners of timberland or farm woodlands who have timber or pulpwood for sale.

The first suggestion is that the timber owner get a reliable estimate on the cords of pulpwood, or the number of poles or posts, or the board feet of saw timber that is being sold. County agents can help obtain this service.

Culling out the poorer trees from 5 to 10 inches in diameter helps the better trees to grow faster, but cutting the smaller sized better trees reduces the yield of the woodland.

FARM LEADERS RECOMMEND A 6-POINT FARM PROGRAM

Auburn, Oct. 25. — When congress convenes in special session on November 15 it will have before it a statement of principles and recommendations signed by presidents of the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Grange, the Farmers' Union, Farmers' Holiday Association, and the Secretary if the National Cooperative Council.

The statement was formulated by about 60 farm leaders of the country who met on February 9 and recognized that "any permanent nationol farm program must be a program of balanced abundance and security for both farmer and consumer."

Secretary Wallace recently outlined and endorsed the principles and recommendations which he listed as follows:

1. That agriculture has a right to a fair share of the national income.
2. That consumer as well as farmer interests should be safeguarded by an ever-normal granary.
3. That conservation of the soil is vitally important to the nation.
4. That farmers ought to be assured of security of tenure of the farms they occupy.
5. That the farmers' cooperative movement ought to be encouraged.
6. That provisions ought to be included in any national farm program favoring the family sized farm.

AGRICULTURE AND LABOR SHOULD HELP EACH OTHER

Auburn, Oct. 25. — "It is high time for both agriculture and labor to realize that the national goal must be increased abundance and a higher standard of living for both farmer and consumer," says Secretary Wallace.

"The highest price per bushel and the highest wages per hour will ultimately lead to serious disappointment unless they result in increased balanced abundance and higher standards of living for all the people," he continues. "Farmers want a fair share of the national income, not merely in terms of dollars but in terms of goods and satisfactions in life. In striving for that share they want to cooperate with the other classes so that the total volume of goods to be divided will be increased."

NEW METHOD OF SAVING HOME SUPPLY OF MEAT

Auburn, Oct. 25. — For farmers who have trouble in saving their meat during warm winters, the Alabama Experiment Station has worked out a brand new method of curing pork for home consumption. It is a very simple method and can be used successfully by any farmer during the seven months from October to May.

The method was developed by W. E. Sewell, associate animal husbandman, who has just issued a special leaflet giving full information on results obtained through the experiments and the directions for farmers to follow in using the method.

"In order to cure hams and shoulders during warm months it was necessary to remove the bones from these pieces before chilling the carcass," he says. "This procedure destroyed the original shape of the ham and shoulder, resulting ni a ragged slab of meat resembling bacon, but the cured meat was desirable for food."

Directions for slaughtering the hog, cutting the carcass, and curing the meat are given by Prof. Sewell in the special leaflet, copies of which may be had by writing Prof. Sewell at Auburn, Ala., or from county agents.

SEVEN-POINT WOODLAND PROGRAM RECOMMENDED

Auburn, Oct. 25. — Agricultural leaders outline a 7-point farm woodland program that any farmer can follow in making every part of his farm pay dividends and in controlling soil erosion. The program follows:

1. Keep stock out of the woods.
2. Confine annual cutting to a definite area of the farm woodland.
3. Make no larger openings in the woods.
4. Favor the thriftiest, best formed trees.
5. Remove some larger crop trees where crowding exists.
6. Cut inferior trees for wood.
7. Protect the woods against fire.

Under the law November 14, is the last day on which motor vehicle license plates can be purchased without a penalty. November 14, falls on Sunday this year and it will be necessary for motor vehicle owners to purchase their tags before that date. Penalties for failure to purchase such license plates will go into effect on Monday, November 15.

What's RIGHT with ALABAMA

A TREASURE CHEST OF MINERALS

Let's look into this buried chest of treasure which Nature stored in Alabama long years ago.

In Alabama's northern counties are vast beds of red iron ore (hematite) estimated by geologists at some 1,970,000,000 recoverable tons, and lesser deposits of brown ore (limonite), first used to make Alabama iron in 1818.

Coal bearing formations in four fields—the Warrior, Cahaba, Coosa and Plateau—underlie some 8,000 square miles.

Dolomite, used for furnace flux in our great iron industry, outcrops in extensive belts and at many points is practically adjacent to both coal fields and iron ore deposits.

Limestone, principal ingredient in cement manufacture, valuable ally of agriculture and important in the manufacture of many chemicals, is found throughout the state.

Marble, noted for its fine texture, variegated colors and beautiful veining, occurs in many sections and has been used in many prominent buildings.

Asphalt rock for paving roads is another mineral whose full possibilities have not been developed.

There are many other minerals in Alabama which remain to be commercially developed on any considerable scale. Among these geologists list bauxite, barytes, manganese, mica, graphite, slate, corundum, and Fuller's earth.

How may one survey these mineral riches—how may one observe the many growing industries which they have already caused to be located in our state—without a feeling of confidence in Alabama's future?

The Alabama Power Company and Our State

Because the Alabama Power Company is a neighbor rather than a kinsman, The Advertiser feels free to come to its side from time to time and say a good word for it. We think that the Alabama Power Company, as led by Mr. Thomas W. Martin, is the most progressive, economic force in Alabama. We think that in pursuing its natural interests it is performing a high service to all the people of Alabama. The Advertiser does not profess to be an expert upon the question of electric rates, but, speaking for itself and for those whom it knows best, it does not think that the power company is an exploiter. It thinks that electricity in Alabama is low in cost, and at all events a blessing to all of our people. . . .

As native industries require electricity, the power company will accomodate them and so withdraw service to consumers in other states. This policy is well known and it is grossly unfair to attack the power company because it sells its surplus to other states pending the consumption of its surplus by native industries, all of which it stands ready to serve.

Why should business interests in Alabama malign and misrepresent so useful a public agency as the Alabama Power Company? That company is doing its best to make this state prosperous. All that it is or hopes to be depends upon the goodwill of Alabamians. The Alabama Power Company is not a thief striving to escape the state with a lot of loot. It is a home industry whose natural self-interest requires that it benefit the highest possible number of people. Why should any good citizen make himself the enemy of the Alabama Power Company?—The Montgomery Advertiser.

THE MORAL ISSUE IN THE DRINK PROBLEM

LESSON TEXT—Romans 13:12-14; 1 Corinthians 6:9-11; Galatians 5:16-24.

GOLDEN TEXT—Walk in the Spirit, and ye shall not fulfil the lust of the flesh.—Galatians 5:16.

PRIMARY TOPIC—My Neighbors.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Greatest Law.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why Is It Wrong to Drink Alcoholic Beverages?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Moral Issue in the Drink Problem.

First, let it be clear that there is an issue. Those who have business, social, or political connections with the liquor traffic would like to have us believe that the repeal of prohibition settled the matter once for all. But let us be sure of this fact—the liquor problem is at our very door, and it must be met.

In the second place, many would have us think that the matter of drunkenness is a social, political, or even a physical problem, without any moral implications whatever. But those who are informed know that even the supposedly innocent beer is inextricably tied up with vice and crime. A prisoner in a federal penitentiary writing before prohibition was repealed said, "Criminals hail with delight . . . the return of liquor via the beer route and the greater license that the return of the saloon will inevitably bring. With the return of beer will come open prostitution and gambling." His words were true.

I. Drunkenness Is a Work of Darkness (Rom. 13:12-14).

Just as there are darkness and daylight in the physical universe, so there are two contrasting spiritual realms, of darkness and light.

Men "loved darkness rather than light because their deeds were evil," according to the Lord Jesus. (See John 3:19.) This spiritual realm of darkness is directed by "rulers of the darkness of this world" (Eph. 6:12), and their purpose is "spiritual wickedness." With the "works of darkness" the believer is to "have no fellowship" (Eph. 5:11), but is to "reprove them" and bring them into the light where their true nature is made manifest (Eph. 5:13).

"God is light, and in him is no darkness at all," and those who have fellowship with him "walk in the light." (See I John 1:5-7.)

Drunkenness is a work of darkness. It separates man from God and makes him fear the glorious light of his countenance. The solution for that awful condition is revealed in v. 14. "Put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ."

II. Drunkenness Is a Work of Unrighteousness (I Cor. 6:9-11).

No drunkard "shall inherit the kingdom of God" (v. 10), and the man who takes his first drink has put his foot on the path that leads to the drunkard's grave. Of course no man plans to go that far, but the fact is that such is the tragic conclusion for hundreds of thousands of men and women—damned for time and eternity by drink.

Again in this passage we have the answer to our problem. Not reformation, not education, not culture (desirable and useful though we recognize these things to be), but being "washed," "sanctified," and "justified" in "the name of the Lord Jesus and in the Spirit of God." Try that on your town drunkard. Thank God, it works!

III. Drunkenness Is a Work of the Flesh (Gal. 5:16-24).

The flesh—that is our bodies ruled over by self-will as opposed to God's will—is revealed in the Scriptures to be thoroughly bad, and in opposition to God. Consider the appalling list of the works of the flesh in verses 19 and 20. And note that in the midst of them stands drunkenness.

It is the lowest in man that responds to intoxicants. Little wonder that the Brewers' Journal came out right after the election of 1932 with the statement that "not one tenth of one-per cent of American youths know the taste of real beer. We must educate them." In other words the normal taste of an intelligent person would revolt at the stuff, but once give it a chance to stir the lusts of "the flesh" and the victim is caught.

Once again, note the antidote—live in the power of the Holy Spirit, and the flesh with its lusts is crucified (v. 24). How shall we have the Holy Spirit and his power in our lives? By taking the Lord Jesus Christ as personal Saviour.

Words Without Action

Few men suspect how much mere talk fritters away spiritual energy—that which should be spent in action, spends itself in words.

Killing Time

People partial to this crime of killing time might be pardoned if they'll only kill their own.

HELP KIDNEYS

To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste

Your kidneys help to keep you well by constantly filtering waste matter from the blood. If your kidneys get functionally disordered and fail to remove excess impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be a warning of some kidney or bladder disturbance.

You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. A multitude of grateful people recommend Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

Some modern professors have led young people to believe that science has made sin safe. They have conveyed the idea to youth that it is not necessary in our day to be good. All we have to do is to be careful. We read about birth-control clinics and prophylaxis stations. This is nothing more or less than a scientific effort to do wrong and get away with it. It can't be done. "The wages of sin is death." "The soul that sinneth it shall die." No man was ever big enough, shrewd enough, or enough of a genius, to do wrong and get away with it. The game of sin is unbeatable. Napoleon was a great genius. Alexander the Great was a great conqueror. They could not beat the game. If there were no God and no heaven and no hell, it would still pay to live a decent, straight, upright life.

We read a great deal about the "new morality." This "new morality" idea has grown out of teaching that man is an animal. He has no mind and no soul; therefore, whatever he wants he has a right to have. We have heard a great deal for the last few years about trial marriages. That is an animal idea. It belongs to the branyard and the forests. The evolutionary hypothesis has done more to dom the modern world than any other idea in our modern world, according to the opinion of the writer.

The writer has often referred to the behavioristic philosophy abroad in the land. Watson, the psychologist, taught that man has no mind and no soul. He is just a piece of animal machinery. He responds to the stimuli. He is affected altogether by his surroundings. As a matter of fact, that he is not morally responsible. There is no God, no heaven, no hell, no mind, no soul—nothing but man and he is nothing but a piece of animal machinery. Whatever he wants he has a right to have. That explains the way a great many people live. The young people are not altogether to blame. Modernistic school-teachers, supported by taxation, and sometimes by church money, are responsible to a great extent for the breaking down of the morality of young people.

Under Alabama's first Constitution members of the House of Representatives were elected annually and sessions of the legislature were held annually. Members of the Senate held for three years and one-third of the members were elected each year.

JEMISON BRIDE HONORED

Mrs. Margie Reynolds Cobb, of Jemison, was the inspiration of a beautiful miscellaneous shower on Thursday, October 21st, when Mesdames H. H. Denson F. O. Sims and Seymour Reynolds were hostesses in the Denson home. Mrs. Sims and Mrs. Reynolds received and directed the guests to the register that was presided over by Miss Elizabeth Bald.

Miss Frances Glasscock opened the afternoon's entertainment by sweetly singing "Always," as Mrs. Seymour Reynolds struck the notes of "Lohengrin's Wedding March." Little Miss Mary Edna Reynolds, neice of the honoree, attired in a white wedding gown with her wedding veil and orange blossoms, entered on the arm of Greer Sims in a full dress suit. Just after the petite bride and groom entered; the radiant honoree, Mrs. Cobb, whose brunette loveliness was enhanced by her gown of black transparent velvet. Miss Glasscock favored the guests again by singing, "Truely I Do."

Two interesting contests then followed. First was the "Bridal Contest" answered by flowers, and Miss Juanita Allen was highest and received as her award a blue vase. Second, was the dressing of a clothespin bride in which Mrs. Lloyd Cobb excelled and Mrs. Elizabeth Aye, one of the judges, presented her a beautiful salt and pepper set, for her skill as a dressmaker.

Little Alice Dorr Denson dressed in a lovely blue net evening dress, brought a beautiful "shower" bouquet and presented it to the bride. This bouquet brought these messages: "Look under Mrs. Denson's old arm chair and you will find something very rare" in which Margie found a lovely basket laden with many gifts; on another card, hanging from the bouquet was, "Look in the guest room, behind the door, there are things you'll simply adore." Then, on another card was this inscription, "In the bathroom where roaches crawl, you will find packages both large and small."

On and on the unique treasure hunt ran until it seemed that Margie was a very treasured friend by the many, many gifts bestowed upon her. After opening and passing the gifts Mrs. Cobb made a very appropriate "Thank you" speech. The hostesses served a delectable party plate to the 54 guests. The flowers, pink and white rosebuds, the stately pink dahlias so beautiful in floor baskets, pink baskets that the gifts were in, the big bow of tulle on the brides choir, all carried out the color scheme of pink and white. On the honoree's plate was a dainty bride.

Out of town guests for the occassion were: Mrs. W. A. Reynolds, Mrs. L. H. Reynolds, both of Clanton; Mrs. E. S. Howard, Mrs. Anna Phalin, both of Thorsby; and Mrs. W. O. Mulky, of Montevallo.

HALLOWNE'EN AT BILLINGSLEY

There will be a Hallowne'en party at Billingsley schoolhouse, Saturday night, October 30th. Dress in costume for free admission or otherwise pay a small door fee of 5c. MITCHELL DAM CARDINALS ELECT OFFICERS FOR YEAR

The Mitchell Dam basketball aggregation met Wednesday, October 20, for the business of electing officers for the coming season, and to form plans for the schedule itself.

R. C. Ross was elected Secretary-Treasurer of the Cardinal club this year, with A. B. (Steve) Stanley as Business Manager again. J. T. Cobb was elected captain for this year's team.

Mitchell Dam is expected to have another fast club this year, to include Cobb, Tiny Mayfield, Dock and Dutch Baker, Ross, O'Brien, Cecil Jones and others. Last year's club played 60 games last year, losing only about six or seven. That was a good record, and will be something for the boys to shoot at again this year.

Practice is getting under way this week, and it should not be long before the Cardinals find the range and will be in condition to take on a little heavy warfare between the hoops.

Business Manager Steve Stanley is anxious to schedule several practice games within the next few days, or as soon as any teams can get set for such. If there is anyone interested in such practice games at any time before the regular season opens, write—A. B. Stanley, c|o Mitchell Dam, Route 2, Verbena, Ala., and he will get in touch with you and arrange the details.

HOT UNDER THE COLLAR

Even those with a calm and peaceable disposition may get "hot under the collar" when subjected to just the proper environment. This fact is attested to by Dr. Vincent Ward, he having experienced such an incident recently when a yellow jacket started down his shirt but hesitated a while in the vicinity of the upper vertabrae. Vincent says that was the first yellow jacket he has ever seen with four stingers. Any way, the calmly doctor is now carrying a slightly enlarged and stiff neck.

FELLOWSHIP MEETING AT NEW HOPE

There will be an all-day fellowship meeting at New Hope, near old Macedonia in Beat 11, the fifth Sunday in October. Several visiting preachers will be present, and all are invited to attend. Come prepared to spend the entire day together.—Sam Connell, Pastor.

HALLOWE'EN AT MAPLESVILLE

There will be a Hallowe'en party at Maplesville schoolhouse Saturday night, October 30th, at 7 o'clock. Admission will be 10c and 15c. Prizes will be awarded for the best Hallowe'en costumes.

PREACHING AT COLLINS CHAPEL

People of Collins Chapel community are reminded of preaching services Sunday at 11 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. Maurice Hodgens. All members especially, are urged to attend.

The many friends of Mrs. J. L. Ruffin will be pleased to learn that she is still improving and is now able to be up some.

PILOT CONVENTION TO BE HELD NOVEMBER 13.

The Pilot Convention of District No. 1, Pilot International, which was announced to have been held October 16 was postponed until November 13 due to the fact that the International President Hester Bingham of Tuscaloosa, and the District Governor, Martha Aldridge, Selma, Alabama, were in the western part of the States. Their plans now are to be back in Alabama and attend the Clanton Convention on November 13.

With the capable Clanton President, Gertie Fiquette and cooperating committees, plans are nearing completion for one of the most enjoyable and successful convention's ever to have been held in Clanton.

HAD HALLOWNE'EN PARTY

Mrs. C. J. Cobern, of near Maplesville, entertained children and grownups with a "Hallowne'en Party" Saturday afternoon, at 2:45 o'clock.

The house was appropriately decorated in a color scheme of orange and black. Small orange pumpkins, black cats and witches hung from chain of orange and black paper in the living room and dining room. A real funny jack-o-lantern pumpkin sat grinning in the center of the dining table.

Many contests were enjoyed and prizes awarded during the afternoon.

Little Misses Evelyn and Lillian Cobern entertained, dressed in clown suits with acrobatic stunts; standing on their heads, turning wagon wheels

The high light of the party was the "Chamber of Horrors," the keeper of the chamber was a ghost, Miss Edna Earl Tucker. She kept it to a perfection and much fun was had.

The Egyptian fortune teller was Claude Atchinson. One would have never known him in his ancient costume, sitting in his tent with a real hawk perched just above the door of it.

Mrs. Elizabeth Edwards helped Mrs. Cobern served refreshments to 18 guests late in the afternoon.

PATROLMEN'S REPORT

State Highway Patrolmen Henley and Waites report the following arrests during the past two weeks, beginning Monday, October 11, and ending Sunday, October 24:

John Hatcher, violating flag and flare law; fine and costs $11.50.

N. M. Smoltz, no driver's license; fine and costs $15.50.

J. L. Willis, passing car on crest of hill; bond.

W. J. Williamson, speeding; bond.

Myrtle Bean, no driver's license; fine and rosts $15.50.

Brady Patterson, no driver's license; bond.

Feophus Cleckler, reckless driving; fine and costs $32.50.

Reed Nicholson, reckless driving; fine and costs $32.50.

Cecil King, no driver's license; bond.

Maddox Jones, passing car on crest of hill; fine and costs, $15.50.

Frank Thompson, public drunkenness; bond.

R. O. Payton, reckless driving; bond.

The patrolmen again issue a special warning to motorists regarding their lights, especially tail lights, the flag and flare law, speeding trucks, and riding the black center line. They say they have been lenient in cases of this kind, but that the motoring public has had time now to know that such laws exist, and that it is their aim to see that these laws are observed, as measures to make driving on the highway safer.

Mrs. D. Hogan went to Birmingham Friday.

VOLUME 45.—EIGHT PAGES CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1937 NUMBER 29

Time Drawing Near For The Opening Of Red Cross Drive

Dr. C. O. Lawrence and J. Mell Martin Are Now Perfecting Plans For County Campaign To Run From November 11 To 25

JOIN RED CROSS

State-wide accomplishments of the American Red Cross in Alabama in the past year set a peace-time record in health, safety and disaster activities, it was reported this week by Dr. C. O. Lawrence, Chairman of the Chilton County Chapter, in his annual accounting of the organization's work.

On November 11, which is Armistice Day, the campaign for memberships and donations to the Red Cross will open in Chilton County, and every resident of the county should make arrangements now to become a member.

Memberships cost only one dollar. Each member is given a membership card and lapel button.

It was pointed out this week by J. Mell Martin, who is serving as Roll Call chairman, that Chilton County is far down the line in memberships as compared with other counties in the state, many of those being much smaller counties in population.

It was also brought out that the county has another opportunity to show that it does appreciate the Red Cross and that the citizens of this county will rally to this organization just as it rallies to the aid of this county in any great emergency.

That the Roll Call of the Red Cross is of vast importance is shown by the fact that 69 companies who use radio for advertising, are giving much time on their programs to the Roll Call campaign, at their own expense.

Red Cross membership in the state also sprang sharply upward to the highest point it has reached since the World War—37,462 members, he said, and Chapter officials in Chilton County, along with other Red Cross officers throughout the state, are determined to reach an even higher goal this year.

"For two years," the Chapter Chairman added, "Alabama has been at the bottom of the list in National Red Cross enrollment. Every other state in the Union enrolled a greater percentage of its population than we did.

"Last year we decided that Alabama had been at the bottom long enough, and by lengthening our stride a bit, we surpassed the membership of any year since the war. This year we are out for an even greater increase—one that will pull us out of the 'cellar' and give us another boost toward the top of the heap."

Nationally, Dr. Lawrence added, the Red Cross has just completed its busiest year since 1917-18. Growing public sentiment against the mounting accident death toll, widespread demands for more adequate health protection, and the worst disaster in the nation's history combined in the last twelve months to give the Red Cross more to

SENTENCED SATURDAY

Judge Glover heard the pleas of two defendants in Circuit court here Saturday, and sentenced them.

Sam Coker entered the plea of guilty to violating the prohibition law, and a sentence of 20 days was imposed for the $50 fine, 64 days for the court cost and 30 days additional. On a petit larceny charge against the same man, a sentence of 20 days was imposed for a $50 fine, 27 days for court cost and 6 months additional.

L. B. Price plead guilty to the charge of abusive language, and was sentenced 20 days for a $50 fine, 27 days for court cost and 5 months additional.

ROBERT W. HEFLIN DIED AT HOME FRIDAY AFTERNOON

Robert W. Heflin, age 70, and a well known citizen of the county, died at his home in the Pinedale community last Friday afternoon.

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at Mt. Springs, conducted by the Rev. Jimmy DuBose, assisted by the Rev. W. S. Cox and the Rev. M. Lockhart. He is survived by his widow, two sons and five daughters.

CHILTON COUNTY MINUTES IN PROCESS OF PRINTING

The Banner Print Shop has the copy for the minutes of the recent Chilton County Baptist Association, held at Shiloh. The minutes will be out of the press within three weeks, and ready to deliver to the clerk of the association, Mr. S. J. M. Webb, or to the different churches.

The Unity minutes were delivered to Mr. Grady Harris, clerk of that association, last week.

LARGE PLANE TO FLY IN CLANTON NEXT SATURDAY AND SUNDAY

A giant airplane, brought here by the Reimers Flying Service, will fly here next Saturday and Sunday.

The big plane is a $53,000 Cosby, weighs four tons, is powered by three Wright whirlwind motors, and carries 14 passengers. It was built by the Ford Motor Company.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED FOR ALABAMA KIWANIS DISTRICT

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 5.—Lieutenant governors for the Alabama Kiwanis district to serve for 1938 were announced today by Judge Seybourn H. Lynne, of Decatur, governor-elect of the Alabama district. Judge Lynne is attending the council meeting of Kiwanis International being held here this week.

The following three lieutenant governors will take office in January: William D. Self, Fairfield; Bert M. Meadow, Birmingham; J. Theodore Jackson, Dothan. Samuel F. Clabaugh, of Birmingham, a member of the International board of trustees, is in attendance at this council meeting.

Two other Kiwanians from Alabama will take a prominent part in Kiwanis affairs in 1938. John Parks Newsome, of Birmingham, is a member of the committee on classification and membership, and Rush H. Pearson, of Montgomery, is a member of the committee on vocational guidance.

Bray Bros. Show Here On Saturday, Nov. 6th

Bray Brothers Shows after a tour of the Central and New England States, will exhibit in Clanton, afternoon and night, Saturday November 6th. The show presents a program of all feature acts and is one of the season's all around attractions. The equipment is second to none and the slogan of the show if "You Never Saw So Much For So Little," as the prices are within reach of everyone. Twenty-five cents for adults, with a special price of 10 cents to children at the matinee. No doubt this will be the last show of the season and as it has been years since we have had an attraction like it, large crowds will attend.

New York G. O. P. Sweeps Big Election

Bruce Barton Defeated Democrat For Seat; Two Others Replaced Former Republicans

New York, Nov. 3. — Bruce Barton, advertising executive and outspoken opponent of the New Deal, and two other Republicans today had captured the New York congressional seats vacated by deaths and a resignation.

In his first contest for public office, Barton defeated Tammany - backed Stanley Osserman and George Backer, first congressional candidate of the American Labor Party.

The advertising man and widely read author takes the post of Theodore Peyser, Democrat friendly to the Roosevelt administration, who died while representing the normally Republican "silk stocking" (17th) District embracing the heart of Manhattan.

The other two representatives succeed Republicans.

Lewis K. Rockefeller, Columbia County Republican and former deputy state tax commissioner, defeated Mrs. Nancy Schoonmaker, Democrat, suffragist and writer, of Woodstock, in the 27th District (Sullivan, Greene, Ulster, Columbia, and Schoharie Counties).

Ralph A. Gamble of Larchmont, seven time Republican member of the state assembly, won the 25th district seat over Homer Stebbins, Hastings Democrat, by 79,928 to 49,511.

Fiorello H. LaGuardia, the first "reform" candidate ever to beat the city Democratic machine twice in a row, was reelected by the greatest vote ever given a mayoral candidate in New York.

His historic victory meant also the worst licking, figured on the basis of plurality, that machine ever took.

LaGuardia ran on a Republican-Fusion-Labor ticket.

To top it off, the mayor appeared to have added to his victories by the apparent victories of men friendly to him in four of the races for president of the five boroughs of the city.

With LaGuardia into office went Thomas E. Dewey, a special rackets prosecutor who defeated the Tammany candidate for district attorney of the Borough of Manhattan, Harold W. Hastings.

HIGHWAY PATROLMEN'S REPORT

For week beginning Monday, October 25, and ending Sunday, October 31:

Ross Knox, no driver's license; fine and cost $16.50.

H. N. McHenry, violating flag and flare law; fine and cost $15.50.

Emmett Taylor, no brakes; fine and cost $7.50.

Earl Davis, reckless driving; bond.

Lee Pate, driving while intoxicated; bond.

NEW DEAL DEPRESSION

[AN EDITORIAL]

We have only to look around us to see on all sides evidence of the New Deal Depression into which we are being plunged. We may see the signs of the times in the unprecedented stock market crash that has brought financial ruin to thousands and shaken confidence of the business world. Closer to home is the evidence of a depressed cotton market, returning less than cost of production for the South's staple crop. On all sides we find a growing lack of confidence in the government that has in large measure taken over what formerly were the citizen's personal affairs, and an utter failure on the part of this government to do anything about the tottering economic structure which it promised to rear anew on solid foundations.

This depression of today cannot be charged off by the New Deal to the errors of the previous party in power. Eight months ago the country seemed on the road to returning prosperity. The natural vitality of American business, the resources of this great country, appeared to have a chance to triumph over the obstacles imposed by the gang of swivel-chair theorists in Washington. It appears, now, that the odds were too great. Had Roosevelt and his admirers adopted a sane and conservative policy toward business, all might have been well. Instead, we had the same old policy of sniping and harassing at men whose only crime was their ability and success, continuation of the demagogic damning of industry and business leaders, while coddling and exalting the sit-down striker and others of his breed. Result, a total loss of confidence by business in both the sincerity and the ability of those in power at Washington. And, at the same time, a complete break-down in the government regulatory system that was supposed to protect us from just the situation in which we find ourselves today. No wonder that the markets went to smash, and that we face today the possibility of an era of depression and chaos beside which anything hitherto experienced will be mild.

An able writer recently struck at the very core of the trouble with the country today. He pointed out that while we still retain the outward forms of our old American, capitalist system, the political party in power is hostile to that system. The New Deal would like to replace our American economic order with the collectivist system in vogue in Germany and Italy, the key to which is total subordination of the individual to the State.

It would seem that we must take one of two ways out of our present state of uncertainty and unrest. One alternative is for the New Deal to go all the way, to abolish private property and individual liberty entirely, and let Washington tell us what to eat, read, and think. Failing this, the choice is for the American people to drive from power the half-hearted imitation Hitlers, and restore our political and economic life to the freedom it enjoyed before Roosevelt.

Our economic structure, our business men, our farmers, cannot continue to exist half-free and half-enslaved to the will of the New Deal witch-doctors. Return to the old freedom is the best remedy. Even total enslavement might be better than the present state of uncertainty, the doubt as to whether a man is still his own boss, or to be bossed by a governmental bureaucrat.

When this fundamental issue is decided, and only then, can we hope for a return to the sane, happy days we knew before we got our first taste of government by decree.

C. C. CRUMPTON DIED FROM PARALYTIC STROKE

Christopher Columbus Crumpton, age 84 years, died at the home of his granddaughter, Mrs. Ruby Cobb, three miles west of Jemison, on Wednesday afternoon, October 27th, at 6 o'clock p. m. The aged man was stricken with paralysis about two o'clock that afternoon while picking up potatoes. Up until that time he was apparently in good health.

Funeral services were held at Pleasant Grove, Thursday, Rev. Wells of Columbiana, officiating. Grandsons served as pallbearers. An undertaker from Tuscaloosa was in charge.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Sarah Crumpton; one son, Dr. James P. Crumpton of Clanton; two daughters, Mrs. Frank Merchant of Jemison, and Mrs. Hugh Merchant of Centreville. There are two sisters, Mrs. Bettie Merchant of Jemison and Mrs. Wilse Gibson of Jemison.

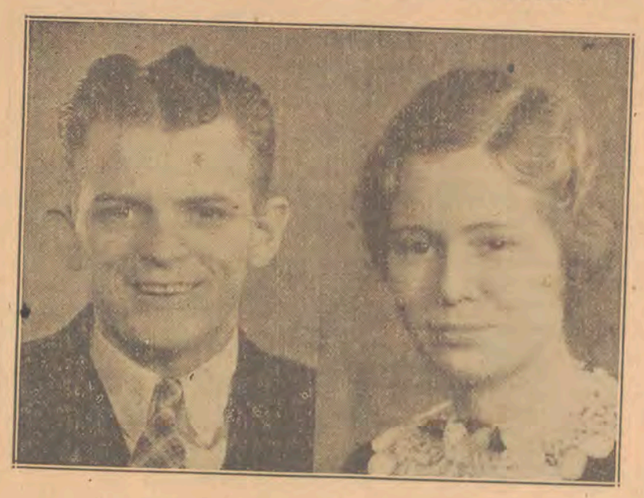
C. C. Crumpton, a prominent citizen in his community and county, was born and reared in Pleasant Grove community, out from Jemison, and lived in that neighborhood all his life except a few years which he spent in Clanton back 15 or 20 years ago. He became a member of the Baptist church when a young man, and has been a faithful member ever since.

DRAINAGE WORK RESUMED ON SWAMPS AROUND CLANTON

Twenty-Five WPA Workers Will Be Furnished To Broaden And Grade Ditches

Work began Monday of this week on furthering the control of mosquitoes in the section by broadening and grading the swamp ditches in Walnut, Goose Pond, Polley Bridge and Black Snake Creeks in the vicinity of Clanton.

Under the supervision of T. G. Wyatt, 25 WPA workers began the excavation of mud and rubbish from the ditch below Dake's old mill. It is not known to what extent the work will be pursued, but it is the intention to carry it to completion if possible.



It is a three-way proposition—that is, the WPA furnishes the labor the city and county are co-operating in the cost also.

WELL KNOWN CITIZEN DIED IN JEMISON

William Thomas Hand, one of Chilton County's widely known residents, died at Jemison, Ala., last Saturday afternoon, following a brief illness. He was 67 years old.

Mr. Hand, in the early part of his life, took an active part in politics in this county and in the state, and always gave a helping hand to religious matters during his entire life. He was also engaged in the lumber business following the death of his father, Loss Hand. He was well known as a farmer and established Havengreen Spa, summer resort at Mineral Springs.

Funeral services were held Monday morning at the home, with the Rev. Maurice Hodgens officiating, assisted by the Rev. Homer Carroll. Interment followed in the Pine Hill cemetery, with Martin & Sons, of Clanton, in charge.

Pallbearers were C. C. Conway, Dr. A. A. Conway, S. P. Shaw, D. L. Langston and Walter McNeil.

Arthur Heustess, President of this Convention, advises that the Vaughan Radio Quartet, V. O. Stamps of the Stamps-Baxter Music Co., Dallas, Tex., and his Radio Quartet, Morris-Henson Quartet, A. J. Showalter & Company Quartet, and many others will be present at this Convention. 11-4-2t

An Evening Of Fun At The High School

Homemakers S. S. Class To Sponsor Funniest Affair Ever Staged In Clanton

On Friday evening of this week, November 5th, a side-splitting comedy will be presented at the high school building, sponsored by the Homemakers Sunday school class of Clanton Baptist church. The fun will begin at 8 o'clock and last for nearly two hours. The play is being coached by an artist in that work, Mrs. Beulah Garland of Atlanta, Ga.

Beyond doubt, this will be one of the funniest plays ever presented from any stage in the county. It was put on at Pell City last week, and the people there proclaimed it the most delightful entertainment they had ever witnessed.

The sponsors absolve themselves of all responsibility if your eyes run oceans of tears, your sides ache, and you almost pass out with laughter. Anything may happen if you venture near this feast of fun.

Mrs. Alma Huddleston is pianist, and the cast of characters is: Madame Jarley, Mrs. Garland; Bride, Rev. Truett; Groom, Dr. Ezell; Sis Hopkins, John D. Mullins; Black Mammy, Marvin Marcus; Babies, Earl Parrish and Maurice Lande; Flapper, Dick Hayes; Social Butterfly, Ed Glasscock; Rufus Rastus, J. C. Jones; Giggling Girl, Mrs. Ed Glasscock; Silly Lizzie, Mrs. John Hollis; Mary Jane, Mrs. Alma Huddleston; Follies girls, Lois Rockett, Helen Hayes, Mary Ellen Higgins, Ina Saxon McCraney, and others. Porters, Howard Austin and Luverne Cooper.

Lovely society women will be impersonated by 25 or 30 prominent men of Clanton, including Judge Smith, Mayor Jones, J. Watts Moore; Dr. Hayes, J. Mell Martin, Dr. Sam Gowan, Will Sartor, Dr. Moore, Raymond Mims, Ed Mullins, Virgil Glass, Honri Little, Reese Mullins, Dutch Nivens, Clifford Manning, J. E. Easterling, Julian Evans, Claude Goodman, Reuben Lowe, Dr. Lawrence, Tom Burdette, Grover Walker, and others.

These satellites will appear in the grand finale, and a prize will be awarded to the prettiest and best dressed one.

Children under 14 will be admitted for 10c; high school students, 15c; and adults, 25c.

If you miss this extravaganza of fun and laughter, you will always regret it. So, make arrangements to attend.

SHERIFF'S REPORT

Jack Nelson, violating federal law; in jail.

John Maddox, violating prohibition law; bond.

The Union-Banner's big subscription campaign and profit sharing free gift distribution, following nine weeks in which a large list of candidates thoroughly canvassed Clanton and adjoining trade territory, came to a close October 30th, at 6 p.m., at which hour the judges began the official count, and on completion of the same, announced the following results:

Judges' Statement

We, the undersigned members of the Executive Committee appointed to have supervision of the Free Prize Gift Campaign concluded this date, and who have been selected to act as counting judges and auditors, certify and state that we have this date made a careful count and check of the ballots cast in this election and find the results as follows:

It is our belief that the campaign has been conducted in a fair and impartial manner to everyone interested and concerned, and we commend The Union-Banner, Mr. T. E. Wyatt, and the Campaign Management for the businesslike methods employed in conducting the campaign.

We further find that the candidates whose names are hereby given, received the votes opposite their names, and are declared the winners in their respective positions.

Signed:
R. R. SUTLEY,
F. L. THOMPSON,
MARION W. EASTERLING.

First prize, Chevrolet Coach, Mrs. Earl Gore, 42,173,450 votes.

Third, $100 cash, Mrs. C. S. Howard, 21,705,000 votes.

Fifth, $50 cash, Mrs. Tom Parrish, 8,551,000 votes.

Cash $50 special, Mrs. Earl Gore, 677 points.

R. R. SUTLEY, Recorder.
Clanton, Ala., Oct. 30, 1937.

All the candidates who were non-prize winners, and who qualified under the rules of the campaign, received a liberal commission of 20 per cent on the amount of business produced.

During the last period of the campaign the votes were deposited by the candidates in a sealed box.

It truly was a wonderful race. The number of votes cast for the various candidates ran into the millions, and it was only after several hours of labor when diligent judges, who worked hard, finally announced the results. Utmost accuracy was observed by the judges in tallying each contestant's vouchers and votes. To say it was an intricate, most difficult task would be putting it very mildly. Very fortunately, the gentlemen who served as judges were accustomed to handling figures and were able to complete the count more quickly than if inexperi-

MRS. HOWARD OFFERS THANKS

The Union-Banner has received the following note of thanks from Mrs. C. S. Howard, of Thorsby, one of the candidates in our recent subscription campaign:

"I wish to thank you for the prize I received from you in the campaign, and wish you to know I appreciate the fair manner in which it was conducted. Also, will you please print the following in your paper.

"I wish to thank all those who so kindly and generously subscribed to The Union-Banner with me during the past campaign. Your friendliness and good will is worth so much to me, as well as the material support.—Mrs. C. S. Howard."

MUSICAL CONCERT AT MT. NEBO SATURDAY NIGHT, NOV. 6TH

Prof. W. M. Devaughn and his family quartet will put on a program at Mt. Nebo church Saturday night, November 6th, beginning at 7 o'clock. Admission will be 10c and 20c, part of proceeds to go for benefit of the church. Mt. Nebo is located nine miles southwest of Clanton.

The program will consist of plenty of quartets, duets, solos, Etc. It is expected to be the best yet. Everybody invited.—W. L. Henley. 2t

NAMES OF LAW VIOLATORS WILL BE PUBLISHED

The Union-Banner is hereby announcing that in making our report of law violations, taken from the records in the Sheriff's office, that of the Mayor of Clanton, and of State Patrolmen, the names of the violators will be published.

It is not our desire to humiliate anyone, but this is done in order that the committing of crime may be made less inviting to people so disposed to disregard the law.

Therefore, if you get caught by city, county or state officers, you may expect to see your name in the paper the following week. And when it does appear, do not blame anyone except yourself.

THE REASON HEADACHES ARE RELIEVED SO FAST

THE REASON BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a tumbler of water.

By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating.

This speed of disintegration enables genuine BAYER Aspirin tablets to start "taking hold" of headache and similar pain a few minutes after taking.

All people who suffer occasionally from headaches ought to know this way to quick relief.

At the first sign of such pain, take two Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Sometimes if the pain is more severe, another dose is necessary later, according to directions.

If headaches keep coming back we advise you to see your own physician. He will look for the cause in order to correct it.

The price now is only 15¢ for twelve tablets or two full dozen for 25 cents — virtually, only a cent apiece.

STATE SINGERS CONVENTION IN MONTGOMERY NOV. 13-14

The Alabama State Singers Convention will hold its fall session in Montgomery the second Sunday and Saturday before in November, which is November 13 and 14. The place of meeting is the new municipal auditorium, and there will be a session Saturday night at which nearly all singing will be by quartets. There will be the best quartets in the South to take part in Saturday night's program. Mr. Arthur Heustess is chairman of the convention; new officers will be elected at an executive session of the convention. Delegates from all county conventions in the State will constitute the electors for the State officers for next year.

All singers everywhere are invited to attend this convention.

CARD OF THANKS

May we express, through your paper, our sincere thanks and appreciation to our neighbors and friends for their good deeds and kindness shown us during the short illness and death of our husband, father and grandfather.

May God bless each and every one of you.—Mrs. C. C. Crumpton, Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Merchant, Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Merchant and Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie L. Cobb.

CHEVROLET — 1938 SALES QUOTA

New York, Nov. 1.—Officials of the General Motors Corporation have elected to sponsor the Chevrolet Division for 1938, to give special attention to the plans and programs of the largest unit of the corporation and to aid Chevrolet in every possible way during the coming year to attain its objective of new car and truck sales. "This year's quota is the highest sales quota ever undertaken by any division of General Motors."

A. P. Sloan, Jr., and W. S. Knudsen, Chairmen of the General Motors Board, and President, respectively, have communicated with the more than 300,000 shareholders of the corporation, telling why General Motors is officially sponsoring Chevrolet for the new model year that started this week with the opening of the New York Automobile Show.

They complimented M. E. Coyle, Chevrolet general manager, and W. E. Holler, general sales manager, for the large growth of the company during the past four years and pointed out that Chevrolet is now a million-car-per-year company with sales of 1,015,000 for 1937 and 1,168,000 for 1936.

Both Sloan and Knudsen were enthusiastic concerning the advanced dealer-factory relationship that W. E. Holler has organized in the Quality Dealer Program and the Dealer Planning Committees.

"What Chevrolet does in any given year," said Sloan, "is of vital importance, not only to General Motors and the Chevrolet Division, its dealers and retail salesmen, but also to business in general, for Chevrolet's operations are so large and extensive as to have a marked influence on the welfare and the lives of millions."

Alabama will be represented at the 75th anniversary of Landgrant colleges and the United States Department of Agriculture in Washington, D. C., November 15, 16, and 17.

GAME AND FISH NEWS

Annual Deer Hunt In Warrior Forest

Alabama hunters, 1,000 strong, will go into the Black Warrior national forest in two separate sections on December 6, 7, 8, and 9 for the annual hunt that has become one of the major sporting events in the state. The dates were announced this week by the Alabama Department of Conservation and the U. S. Forest Service. There will be 500 permits issued for the first two days, and 500 for the last two days.

All permits will be issued during November through the Decatur office of the U. S. Forest Service, where Ranger Thomas A. Wilson is in charge. No permits will be issued in the forest, it was stressed. As in the past, a competent staff of Conservation Department wardens under Chief Game Warden W. G. Wharton, will supervise the hunt.

Last year 1,500 hunters went into the forest at the same time, and the resultant confusion led to the decision to conduct the hunt in sections this year. It is estimated there are 3,000 deer in the forest. Last year 16 bucks were bagged, and the year before 26 were killed.

The open season on deer in parts of five counties exclusive of the national forest area also is limited to December 6, 7, 8, and 9, and includes Winston, Morgan, Lawrence, Franklin, and Cullman Counties.

Forest Turkey Season

The open season on wild turkeys in the Black Warrior National Forest of North Alabama this year will be from March 15 to April 15, it was announced this week. This period coincides with the last half of the split season in effect for the remainder of the state. The first half begins November 20 and ends December 31, reopening March 15 for a month in all sections except the national forest.

Any person shooting wild turkeys in the national forest at any time other than between March 15 and April 15, niclusive, will be subject to arrest and prosecution.

Lesson for November 7

CHRISTIAN CHARACTER AND PEACE

LESSON TEXT—Colossians 3:1-17.
GOLDEN TEXT—And let the peace of God rule in your hearts, to the which also ye are called in one body.—Colossians 3:15.
PRIMARY TOPIC—In His Name.
JUNIOR TOPIC—In His Name.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How May I Have Peace?
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Christian Cure for Strife.

Armistice day is but a few days away, a fact which was probably in mind when the title of our lesson was chosen, for while it speaks of "Christian character" it also refers to "peace." But the peace spoken of here is the peace of God which is the result of peace with God and which issues in holy living. The only hope of this world for a real and lasting peace is in the winning of men and women to glad allegiance to the Prince of Peace, our Lord and Saviour, Jesus Christ.

Altogether proper is the close connection in Scripture between the most profound spiritual truth and practical holy living. Whether it be done in a land of enlightenment or in the midst of heathen darkness the teaching of the deep things of God brings forth in the receptive heart an appreciation of God's provision for our redemption, a consciousness and hatred of sin and an appropriation of victory in Christ. All three of these factors emerge in the study of our lesson.

I. "Seek Those Things Which Are Above" (vv. 1-4).

Faith in Christ makes us one with him in his death and in his resurrection. We are therefore to live in resurrection power. Our Lord has entered into heaven, and is there seated at God's right hand. If we are in him, if we have died and arisen with him, we are dead to the things of this world and our one desire is to "seek those things which are above."

The mystic union of the believer with Christ brings us so close to God our Father that we may say with the poet:

"Near, so very near to God,
Nearer I could not be,
For in the person of His Son
I am as near as He."

We are "hid with Christ in God." He is our very life. Note however that this union with Christ expresses itself in a most practical manner for we as Christians are admonished to

II. "Mortify Your Members . . . upon the Earth" (vv. 5-9).

The most spiritual Christian is the one who is most sensitive to sin and most earnest in his purpose that it should be mortified—which means "put to death." We may not temporize—we must not compromise with sin. Put it to death.

The list of things which are to be put away include a number of sins which we recognize at once as utterly inconsistent with a Christian profession. But note also that there are a number of them which are all too common among Christian people — covetousness, anger, wrath, malice, and so forth. Lying and shameful talk are condoned by some (and practiced by many).

III. "Put On the New Man" (vv. 11-17).

Christianity is positive. We put off sin—we put on righteousness. Knowing no lines of racial or creedal distinction we recognize Christ as "all and in all." Then as "God's elect, holy and beloved," we are clothed with the Spirit of Christ. Tenderhearted, kind, lowly, meek, of a forgiving spirit, long-suffering: all these Christlike ways of living should appear in those who are hid with him in God. As the encircling band which holds together these beautiful and precious virtues, we have love, "the bond of perfectness" (v. 14).

These outward manifestations of our oneness with Christ have an inward controlling power—for in our hearts "the peace of Christ" is to "rule." The word means to serve as "umpire," as a referee in times of difficulty. There in the Christian man's inmost being we also find the "word of Christ" dwelling, really abiding, and not in scarcity but "richly." Small wonder that there is in such a heart a never-ending song which glorifies God's grace and which helps and admonishes others.

Our final verse sums up the life of the Christian, for in whatsoever he does there is but one motive, one purpose—a willing thankful response to the will of God. He does nothing that he cannot do in the name of the Lord Jesus..

Hoover Calls On New Deal's Foes

G. O. P. Urged To Draft An Entirely New Declaration Of Principles

Boston, Mass., Oct. 26. — Declaring a coalition of anti-New Dealers was "devoutly to be wished for", Herbert Hoover Tuesday night called on the Republican party first to draft a new declaration of principles that would fuse the foes of the Roosevelt administration.

The former president, in a nationally broadcast address, both reiterated his call for an off-year national convention of G. O. P. leaders, and asserted flatly that he, himself, did not "want" any public office.

Speaking from a platform raised before a dinner of the Republican Club of Massachusetts, Hoover hit out at opponents of the plan to have the party's chieftains draft and approve in national conclave, prior to the 1938 congressional elections, "an honest, courageous declaration of convictions, of positive principles for forward action."

Fusion Is Sought

He warned the Republican party against trying to win elections by "joyriding on mistakes", and added:

"There is talk of fusion and coalition. Let me make but one remark on that. It is a result devoutly to be wished for. But the people fuse or coalesce around ideas and ideals, not around political bargains and stratagems.

"If the Republican party meets the needs and aspirations of the people who are opposed to the New Deal, they will fuse and coalesce, and not before. They only join in and march if they know where they are going."

These were the only words addressed by the only living former president to the subject of a coalition of those opposed to the present administration —a matter mentioned before by Sen. Vandenburg (R., Mich.) and others.

Criticizing the Roosevelt regime, Hoover asserted that the New Dealers "seek to make us believe that abuse cannot be cured without that creeping collectivism called planned economy."

Collectivism Called "Evident"

"That gradual 'collectivism' is creeping upon us should be evident by this time to every thinking American," he said. "The government manipulation of money and credit, government restriction of production, government control of hours and wages, the entry of the government into competitive business on a large scale, government coercion of upright citizens—these are but part of it . . . . .

"There cannot be a system part collectivist and part regulated private enterprise. The very conflict of two systems creates one economic emergency after another. We witness that at this very hour."

Hoover made an apparent reference to the controversy about the appointment of Justice Black of the Supreme Court in part of his speech, warning Republicans to "make a distinction between true and pseudo" in using the word liberal.

"The term liberal," he said, "has now become the fashionable clothing of all collectivism, or frank and open Socialists, or the unconscious Fascists. Its folds can apparently even be entered through the Ku Klux Klan."

L. N. Allen, seed analyst of the Alabama Department of Agriculture, at Montgomery, has been elected vice president of the Association of Seed Analysts of North America.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

This is being written in my room in one of the leading hotels of one of our large American cities. Usually I am a good sleeper. That explains why I am able to keep going under the strain of the many responsibilities I am trying to carry. But last night I slept very little. The reason? There was a big party in the hotel. A big convention is on. People are here from almost every state. Last night they (to use their expression) "pulled" a big party. Whiskey, music, dancing, yelling, rough necking, wild oats! Most of "the gang" of these supposedly decent American citizens were above middle age. Talk about young people! I never in all my travels saw any young people's party as rough and vile as the party anticipated in by "the old crowd" last night. I am more convinced than ever that the trouble in America is not with the young people. It is with the old folks. What has gone wrong? Can it be that the cloud of war and uncertanity which is gathering over the earth has anything to do with this orgy of old-age dissipation? Can it be that the feeling that the years are passing and whatever fling old age is going to have it must have quickly, has driven men and women into this fury of wild sensuality? Can it be the fruition of the false education philosophy of "do as you please" which started in the school room when the "old gang" were high school boys and girls? Can it be that men and women are getting drunk to drown a conscience which was given to them by their parents who believed that right was right and wrong was wrong? Can it be that human depravity, which modernism says does not exist, has driven the world insane? Whatever it is, let us remember that judgment (not prosperity) is just around the corner. God is waiting with a thunderbolt of wrath in His hand. What He did for Rome He will do for America. He will do more. Rome did not have a good beginning. America did.

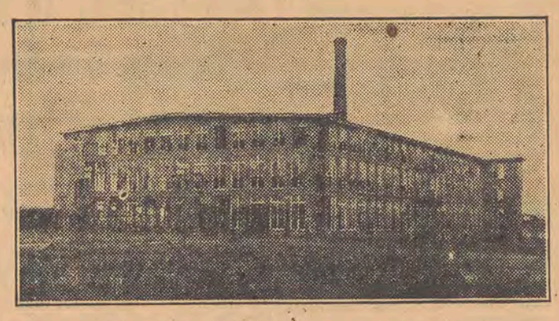
DOLLARS WASTED ON UPKEEP CAN'T BUY NEW ROADS

Inferior roads seem cheap and easy to build. They stretch a paving fund so that it covers a lot of territory. But after a year or two, the trouble begins! Maintenance costs go up and up. Soon all your paving money is spent on upkeep . . . and no more new roads are built.



That's why it's wise—and economical—to build concrete roads. Concrete lasts! It requires almost no upkeep. Each year, the paving fund builds more miles of concrete until the whole job is done—for keeps.

Concrete's smooth, non-skid surface is safe and satisfactory to drive on. It speeds up traffic . . . reduces accidents . . . saves gas, tires and repairs.

Get concrete. Insist on it—for safety, comfort and economy.

Here's what happens

. . . when burdensome taxes, exorbitant wage demands, and throttling legislation are carried to a logical conclusion. The abandoned plant of the Lincoln Manufacturing Company, at Fall River, Massachusetts (shown above), is a $1,000,000 monument to discord.

This must not happen in Alabama. Scores of Alabama communities are dependent upon the mills for their very existence . . . Over 39,000 Alabama men and women earn their living in Alabama cotton mills.

Cooperation and understanding between the cotton farmers, the cotton mills, the mill operatives, merchants, doctors and the lawmakers of Alabama, will assure the farmer a good price and a nearby market for his cotton; fair wages and steady work for the mill operatives, and a fair return on their investment to the thousands of Alabama citizens who own stock in Alabama cotton mills.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

COTTON SITUATION IS IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Auburn, Nov. 1. — "We are faced with a world supply of close to 50,000,000 bales of cotton, with every indication that the carryover at the end of this year will be the biggest on record," says P. O. Davis, director, Alabama Extension Service, in calling farmers' attention to the seriousness of the cotton situation facing cotton growers.

"The world supply of American cotton for the 1937-38 season is now estimated at approximately 23.7 million bales," says I. W. Duggan, acting director, Southern Division, AAA, in a letter to Mr. Davis.

"This is the fourth largest in history and is slightly larger than the supply in the 1926-27 season which we all remember as being disastrously large," he says. "However, the world supply of all growths of cotton for the 1926-27 season was 38.7 million bales, while today private estimates are placing the world supply of all growths at 50 million bales. This is almost seven million bales larger than the supply for the 1936-37 season and the 1933-34 season, which were the largest up until this year.

"Should world consumption of all growths for the present season continue at as high a rate as was established last season, namely, 30.9 million bales, the world carryover next August would amount to approximately 19 million bales, or possibly more, which would exceed any previous carryover by some 2 million bales.

"With a supply situation such as we have, the price outlook is not encouraging. With the 1926-27 world supply of 38.7 million bales, the price of American cotton was 12.5 cents. In 1932-33 with a supply of 41.5 million bales, the price was 6.5 cents; in 1933-34 with a supply of 43.4 million bales, the price was 10.2 cents; and in 1936-37 with a supply of 43.1 million bales, the price was 12.3 cents. It is, therefore, apparent, that we cannot expect anything approximating 12 cents for the 1937-38 season".

Highest October farm wages in 7 years are reported by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. The October 1 index of farm wage rates was 126 per cent of pre-war, compared with 110 on October 1, last year.

AAA REDUCES COTTON GOAL 2,000,000 ACRES

Auburn, Nov. 1. — The AAA has made a 2,000,000-acre reduction in the acreage it has set as a limit to be planted to cotton next year.

The new 1938 goal has been set at 27,000,000 to 29,000,000 acres in cotton instead of 29,000,000 to 31,000,000 acres previously set.

"The reduction was decided upon because of the unusually large cotton crop this year," says an official report from Washington to Walter L. Randolph, administrative officer in charge of AAA work in Alabama. At the time the previous goal was tentatively decided upon the crop forecast put the 1937 crop at around 16,000,000 bales. This estimate has been increased to about 17,500,000 bales. "Consequently, the goal has been revised so as to put cotton acreages in 1938 more in line with needs in view of the further increase in the indicated supply of cotton this year," says the report.

In view of the change in the goal for cotton, the rate of payment was increased to 2.4 cents a pound on the normal yield of each acre in the cotton goal. In the tentative outline the rate was 2 cents per pound on the larger goal.

With the national provisions approved, the next step in the 1938 program will be the preparation of bulletins for each state or region containing the applicable provisions of the national bulletin.

Appropriation for next year's program has not been made, therefore, the 1938 program is dependent upon the action of congress.

MOST CARRY-OVER COTTON FOUND TO BE TENDERABLE

Auburn, Nov. 1. — A survey by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics shows that the cotton carry-over is not excessively untenderable or unspinable, as has been reported.

The bureau inquired into the carryover records for the 1928-37 decade, and found that the carry-over did not include large quantities of "unspinable" cotton or an excessive amount of untenderable cotton. It found that less than 1 per cent of upland cotton held over was of lower grade than the lowest of the established grades, and that only about 12 per cent was untenderable.

Southeastern farmers are beginning to respect Bermuda grass as a good crop for controlling erosion, report soil conservation specialists. "Bermuda grass has proved especially useful in meadow strips where the steepness of the slope calls for the use of heavy duty vegetation," they say.

FARMERS ARE PLANTING MORE LEGUMES THAN EVER

Auburn, Nov. 1. — Alabama farmers are this year planting more winter legumes for soil improvement and temporary grazing than ever before, according to numerous reports reaching P. O. Davis, director, Alabama Extension Service.

"Conecuh County farmers are this year increasing their planting of winter legumes about 600 per cent over the acreage planted in 1936. About 300,00 pounds of seed are being planted in the county this year."—T. P. Whitten, county agent.

Limestone County farmers are planting about twice as many vetch seed this year as last year, and about three times as many crimson clover seed, reports G. B. Phillips, county agent. Hairy vetch is being planted on about 10,000 acres in the county this year, compared with 4,000 acres last season, while about 2,500 acres are being seeded to crimson clover this year, compared with 1,000 acres last year.

LEGUME-GRAIN MIXTURES ARE SOIL-CONSERVING

Auburn, Nov. 1. — A mixture of legumes and small grains seeded in the fall of 1937 will classify the land on which it is planted as soil-conserving if the mixture contains 50 per cent or more of the normal seeding of legumes if such legumes had been seeded alone, advises Walter L. Randolph, administrative officer in charge, AAA.

"It is our opinion that a legume and small grain mixture seeded in the fall of 1937, where the rate of legumes seeding is at least 50 per cent of the rate of seeding recommended by your state agronomist, will classify the land as soil-conserving whether or not preceded in 1937 by soil-depleting crops," says I. W. Duggan, acting director, Southern Division, AAA, in a letter to Mr. Randolph.

COTTON CONTEST WINNERS ARE NOW BEING SELECTED

Auburn, Nov. 1. — County winners are being selected in a better staple cotton contest sponsored for Alabama farm boys by the Alabama Cotton Manufacturers Association, announces J. C. Lowery, extension agronomist.

The boys are at present submitting their cotton samples for judging, and are submitting statements listing all expenditures in producing and marketing the crop. The closing date for the contest is December 1, this year.

Prizes ranging from $12.50 to $50 are being offered to 50 winners in the contest. Farm boys interested in competing should advise with their county agent, says Mr. Lowery.

State Capitol News

Montgomery, Ala. — For the first time since the State quit giving "bad checks," all appropriations for education have been paid in full out of collections for a current year. This announcement is made following the release by Comptroller Charles Lee of funds collected during the past year for payment of obligations incurred prior to September 30, 1937.

Politically the State Capitol was rather dull the past week. Announcement by Governor Bibb Graves that he would support J. Lister Hill in the Senatorial race, and reports from a few scattering parts of the State on the activities of the candidates, marked the only news of the campaign. Announcement last Friday that Charles W. Williams, of Wilsonville, Shelby County, had qualified as a candidate for the U. S. Senate brings the race from a duet to a trio. Congressman J. Lister Hill ws actively campaigning in the Wiregrass area last week while former U. S. Senator J. Thomas Heflin was active in the Western part of the State. Monday is the deadline for entries in the primary for the short term. The first primary will be held on January 4, and the run-off February 8, if no one receives a majority on January 4.

Alarmed that the state's prison population should increase approximately 34 per cent during the midst of his second administration. Governor Graves has announced his quadrennial message to the new legislature will include sharp reforms in the state's criminal statutes pertaining to the indeterminate sentence law.

"I am convinced the indeterminate sentence law is a failure," Governor Graves declared. "Hardened criminals, or repeaters in crime go to some other state and violate the law." Governor Graves said. "Through the present fingerprint system, they are quickly detected and sent back to Alabama as a parole violator, whereas they are prisoners of other states. I shall ask that the judge or jury let him go free. If he is a habitual criminal, he won't be out long."

Latest figures on the State's prison population showed 7,000 men and women behind the bars, whereas the state now has facilities for only about 5,000. A new prison is being built at Speigner to replace the structure razed by fire several years ago and it is expected to relieve congestion to some extent. Progress on the $350,000 structure was reported satisfactory last week by Hamp Draper, head of the convict department.

Alabama Scottish Rite Masons have accepted the state's offer to purchase their temple on Dexter Avenue and work will soon start on converting the magnificent structure into a hall of justice. The building located on the northwest corner of Dexter Avenue and North Decater Street is adjacent to state property. It will house the supreme court, court of appeals and the attorney general's department. The building, erected only a few years ago at a reported cost of $325,000 is being acquired by the state for approximately $160,000.

Governor Bibb Graves is again attempting to enlist the support of U. S. Army engineers for the nine-foot Coosa-Alabama river channel which several years ago they turned down for lack of potential revenue.

Governor Graves said new industries brought to Alabama under the New Deal would "change the picture" and reverse the findings on the proposed $40,000,000 project. The project would provide a nine-foot channel from Rome, Georgia to Mobile via the Coosa and Alabama rivers, much of which has already been improved through a series of private power developments.

While federal and state public health officers were scouring the state last week for remaining portions of death dealing elixir sulfanilamide, the sixth death from use of the preparation was reported from Arab. Dr. J. N. Baker said the hunt for the death dealing drug would be pressed but expressed the opinion that most of that sold in the state already has been confiscated. Previous deaths reported were three at Eufaula and one at Headland and Clayton, all neighboring communities of southeast Alabama.

Montgomery was host last week to the National Guard Association of America, the convention bringing together distinguished military men from practically every state. Numerous social events were held for the visiting guardsmen and their wives, including a barbecue given by the state on the Kilby Prison reservation and a grand military ball.

Louisiana's famous 156th Infantry band of 100 pieces which was built up and became the pride of the U. S. Senator Huey P. Long, was here with the Louisiana delegates and serenaded Governor Bibb Graves and capitol employees at the main entrance to the state house. They were warmly congratulated by the governor on their ability, in a brief speech.

Earlier Governor Graves expounded the doctrine of preparedness for war as the best insurance for peace in addressing the convention opening. Governor Graves, a World War veteran, advocated a universal draft law that would be "bomb proof."

Governor Bibb Graves has instructed the state highway patrol to campaign against Alabama automobilists seeking to evade the driver's license law. His instructions to Patrol Chief Walter K. McAdory were to get the deliberate offenders, not bother those who have paid.

Governor Graves revealed a system has been developed whereby automobile owners will be listed county by county. He said the current year's issuance of tags is about 16 per cent over driver's license and announced that he would demand driver's license be obtained with tags.

The governor's announcement followed a query as to whether this year's orange and blue tags, honoring Howard College would be withdrawn because of difficulty in their discernibility on a machine traveling at a rapid clip. Numerous complaints have been raised to the new tags by officers but the governor said he did not think their withdrawal would be ordered because of the expense involved and difficulty in resupplying those who have already made their purchases.

Unanimous election of Miss Loula Dunn, of Grove Hill, as State Welfare Commissioner, was announced last Friday by Governor Bibb Graves following a meeting of the State Welfare Board. She succeeds Dr. A. H. Collins, who recently resigned to accept the position of State Superintendent of Education to succeed Dr. A. J. Keller. Dr. Keller resigned to accept the presidency of Florence Normal.

Miss Dunn, daughter of the late W. D. Dunn, State Senator from Clarke County, comes to her new position fully qualified for the work by previous training. She had several years of active welfare work under Mrs. Lorena Tunstall, while Mrs. Tunstall was head of the Child Welfare Department.

It was revealed that John W. Crump, welfare board auditor, who was boomed about the capital for the post of welfare commissioner, had not formally applied for the place. Mr. Crump was among the first to praise Miss Dunn's selection.

It happened to me

—maybe, I was lucky.

It happened this way: I found myself in a run-down condition . . . I was listless . . . despondent . . . my appetite was lagging . . . I was losing weight.

I wasn't desperate, as I knew I had no organic trouble . . . but I was puzzled as to why I was losing ground.

I was lucky because a friend suggested that I try S.S.S. Tonic . . . she said it had greatly benefited her in building back her strength and now she felt like her old self again.

You, too, will want to take S.S.S. Tonic to regain and to maintain your red-blood-cells . . . to restore lost weight . . . to regain energy . . . to strengthen nerves . . . and to give your skin that natural health glow.

At all drug stores in two convenient sizes. The larger size at a saving in price. There is no substitute for this time tested remedy. No ethical druggist will suggest something "just as good." © S.S.S. Co.

RED CROSS SPONSORS LARGEST YOUTH ORGANIZATION IN IN THE WORLD

A comprehensive picture of activity created by members of the world's largest organization of youth, the Junior Red Cross, was given yesterday by Dr. C. O. Lawrence, chairman of the Chilton County Red Cross Chapter, who pointed out that the organization functions in 52 countries.

"The growth of the Junior Red Cross, not only in the United States but in many foreign countries as well, has been phenomenal," Dr. Lawrence remarked. "We in the adult Red Cross attribute this great growth to the fact that the Juniors have been organized for service, and that there have been so many things found by them to be done."

The local chairman pointed out that members of the Junior Red Cross had been responsible, during the past spring, for the inauguration of a recreation and playground service among the children of flood refugees in Red Cross camps and temporary shelters along the Ohio and Mississippi Valleys, thus creating new standards for disaster relief work. Members of the Junior Red Cross in all sections of the country contributed toys, books and money for this undertaking.

"From the national children's fund maintained by the junior society," Dr. Lawrence said, "appropriations were made during the year to buy playground equipment and books for children in communities unable to support such projects and those hard hit by disasters; lunches were provided for school children in disaster districts; library and schoolbooks for schools destroyed by catastrophes of various kinds, as well as for schools in mountain or rural areas without funds for such expenditures, were purchased from the fund."

KIWANIANS WILL HEAR AN INTERESTING PROGRAM

Members of the Clanton Kiwanis Club will hear a program on Vocational Guidance at their regular meeting tonight at the Thomason Hotel.

The program is in charge of Sam Ezell, chairman of the Vocational Guidance committee. The principal speaker will be Hon. Rush Pearson, of Montgomery, who is a member of the International Vocational Guidance Committee and also chairman of the Kiwanis state committee. All members are urged to be present.

Y. W. A. HOLDS BUSINESS MEETING

Mary Frances Duke and Eloise Gray were hostesses Monday night to the Y. W. A., the meeting being held at the home of Mrs. Grady Heflin.

The devotional was read at the beginning of the meeting by the President, Gertie Fiquette. Plans were discussed for a package sale at the next Y. W. A. meeting, and plans were also discussed about the annual Christmas party. Miss Fiquette gave an interesting talk.

MRS. SARAH ANN EILAND

Mrs. Sarah Ann Eiland, age 90 years, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. J. N. Littlejohn, at 12:10 a.m., last Monday, following an illness of two weeks. The funeral was held Monday at 2 o'clock at Cedar Grove church, with Rev. Enfinger officiating; Spigener directing.

Surviving are: five sons—Felix Eiland of Thorsby, F. M., of Underwood, J. H., and C. N., of Clanton Route 4, T. V., of Thorsby Route 1; seven daughters—Mrs. J. N. Littlejohn, Mrs. Rebecca Riggins, Mrs. Frances Riggins, Mrs. Seburn Riggins, Mrs. C. C. Hayes, Mrs. James Price, and Mrs. Jennie Riggins.

AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK

Fathers, mothers, and citizens of America:

Visit your schools during American Education Week, November 7-13, 1937. Next to the home, itself, the school is your greatest ally in helping to prepare your children to take their places in the world. During this week, let us thank God for schools and for a country where all may learn to think for themselves, and then have the freedom of intelligent self-directing citizenship. Government by dictatorship is repugnant to the American spirit. Such government will never be needed in America so long as we have an intelligent, responsible citizenry. Such a citizenship is the great product of our schools—the reason why education is so important in the United States. Visit your school and help make it better.—Caroline S. Woodruff, President N. E. A.

"HOOVER PLAN" WINS NATION-WIDE FAVOR

Majority Of G. O. P. Favors 1938 Convention

Chicago, Nov. 4.—A majority of the Republican National Committee members who will meet here November 5 and 6 favor former President Herbert Hoover's proposal for an interim national convention, a United Press nation-wide survey showed today.

Fifty-one members from 38 states and the District of Columbia replied this way to the United Press inquiry:

In favor of the "Hoover plan"—32.
Opposed to the "Hoover plan"—1.
Non-committal—18.

Some leaders estimated 90 per cent of the committee would vote in favor of the convention next year.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this means to express to the ladies of Pleasant Grove church and community our appreciation and heartfelt thanks for the very great surprise in the nice dinner and shower of many nice and useful gifts brought to us on Monday, November 1, 1937, and to extend to all a welcome to visit us in our new home at any time. "Blest be the tie that binds our hearts in Christian love." May God, the giver of all good gifts, bless and reward those who have been so helpful in time of need; for every kind word, every "flower" that has been given.—Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Franklin.

SERIES AT S. D. A. CHURCH

Beginning Sunday night, November 7th, at 7:30 o'clock, W. H. Westermeyer of Montgomery, and minister of the Seventh-day Adventist Churches in the Montgomery district, will conduct a week's revival in the Clanton Seventh-day Adventist church. The sermons will be on the following subjects: Sunday night, "The Japanese-Chinese War and the Impending Battle of Armageddon." No meeting Monday night. Tuesday night, November 9th, "The Key That Unlocks Heaven;" Wednesday night, November 10th, "The Future Form of World Government, Dictatorship, Democracy or Monarchy. Which? Come and hear what the Bible says.

Thursday night, November 11th, "When Three Men Became Four;" Friday night, November 12, "A Glimps Into Hell;" Saturday night, November 13th, "Satan in the Chaingang for 1000 Years."

Sunday night, November 14th, "1000 Signs in Clanton Showing that the Second Coming of Christ is near."

"FAMILY FOOD SUPPLY"

Twelve clubs met during the month with 161 ladies present, the demonstration was held on "Family Food Supply." The "Family Food Supply" was also given by the Foods Specialist, Miss Helen Kennedy, including simplified facts on the importance of keeping "Food Budgets," making and going by a "Canning Budget," "Work Sheet" to calculate the amount and kind of food needed by each woman's family for each year. A "Table of Average Weights" was studied which gave approximate weights of various commodities given in the foods budget. An "Inventory of the Storeroom" was discussed and records in each farm home was stressed. "Special Farm Menus" were discussed and last, but not least, a total amount needed by each leaders family was determined and discussed according to the requirements for the family needs.

THIRTEEN CLUBS ENROLLED 555 MEMBERS THIS MONTH

Thirteen clubs, including Baker, Mt. Pleasant, Collins Chapel, Vermont, Maplesville, Stanton, Thorsby, Thomas Jr., Cooper, Verbena, Concord, Enterprise and Union Grove, have been organized with 555 enrolled, with prospects of more being added next month.

The Maplesville club was so large that the club will have to be divided into a Junior and Senior club.

At each meeting a demonstration was held on "Parliamentary Rules and Procedures" for the benefit of new officers and leaders. The duty of each officer and leader was clearly explained. A plan is being developed whereby each club is to be responsible for it's own dicipline and any person openly violating this agreement must apologize either to the Board of Directors or the Home Agent, if held in the "A" class.

U. S. FOREST SERVICE ANNOUNCES RECREATIONAL DEVELOPMENTS

Initiation of work during the past month on three new recreational areas on Alabama National Forests was announced this week by Frank W. Rasor, Forest Supervisor of the Alabama National Forests.

Completion two months ago of the Natural Bridge picnic grounds on the Black Warrior National Forest marked the first of such projects, said Mr. Rasor. The areas are being developed for public use by the Civilian Conservation Corps under the direction of the U. S. Forest Service.

Two areas under construction are located on the Black Warrior National Forest, in Lawrence and Winston Counties. Construction was also recently started on an area in the Conecuh National Forest, in Covington County. In addition, the Skyway Road now being constructed along the crest of the Talladega Mountains in the Talladega National Forest will provide one of the finest scenic drives in the state.

Work was initiated last week on the Black Warrior National Forest's biggest recreational project, the Brushy Creek Dam. A 35-acre lake will be impounded when the dam is built across a narrow place in the valley. Boating, bathing, and camping facilities for as many as 1,500 visitors will be provided when the project is completed. The area will probably be closed to fishing until the lake can be stocked with bass, bream, and other game fish.

4-H CLUB ADD NEW FRUITS TO THEIR ORCHARDS

Five clubs, including Shoults, Minooka, Mt. Pleasant, Verbena and Mt. Creek, decided they were short on orchard products and along with the foods program now being studied they would add new fruits to their orchards during the year.

Nineteen homes have been visited during spare hours between club meetings and on Mondays, getting acquainted with new people and visiting those who need special attention on various problems. Sixteen other meetings were held in relation to the projects as the teachers institute, health contest, leadership school, Hallowne'en festival. At these various meetings an attendance of 352 were present.

THORSBY CLUB MANIFESTS MUCH INTEREST IN THE FAMILY FOOD SUPPLY

The ladies of the Thorsby club became so interested in the "Family Food Supply", which was given them at the leadership school that they figured the exact amount of foods per person from the approximate quantity as given from their booklet and it was found from the results that the estimate was no high, but an everage amount stated. Several of the members said they would keep records of what they produced at home, according to the market prices and also the amount of food that was bought for the family.

VAUGHAN RADIO QUARTET IS COMING TO COOSA COUNTY

On Friday, November 12, at 7:30 p.m., the famous Vaughan Radio Quartet will appear in concert at Richville Junior High School auditorium. This promises to be one of the best programs of the season, so don't miss it.

The quartet is composed of: Dewey Yeager, 1st tenor; G. K. Vaughan, 2nd tenor; John Cook, baritone; Jim Waites, bass; Dwight Brock, accompanist.

This quartet sings twice each week over radio station WSM, at Nashville.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Were you ever just so delighted or thrilled and happy because of something, and you wanted to tell all about it, and yet every way you could think to express it seemed quite inadequate? That is just how we feel about our Sunday school and preaching services of last Sunday. We had the best attendance at each that we have had in a long, long time. The full line of teachers at Sunday school. And wasn't it a good Sunday school lesson! As announced last week, the Sunday school offering was to go to the orphanage. The offering was the largest we have ever had to send to the orphanage, and on behalf of it, we thank every contributor, and know you will each be blessed.

Our choir was most excellent last Sunday. We've never enjoyed it more. We are grateful to you, choir members, for the music last Sunday, and trust you will henceforth be the wonderful inspiration to the preaching services that you were last Sunday. Our preacher never preached greater than he did last Sunday. His sermons went right to our hearts, and we hope he realizes we do appreciate his soul-stirring messages.

Let's be back next Sunday in just the same force, service, and in even greater numbers than last Sunday.

Newcomers to town, we have a Sunday school class you will enjoy, and we most cordially invite you to join us in Sunday school at 9:45 a.m., and at preaching services at 11 a.m., and 7 p.m.

ADULT SCHOOL AT VERMONT

There will be an adult school conducted at Vermont school Thursday evening at 7 o'clock, by Mr. Gordon Holmes and Miss Laura Callan, vocational teachers a Isabella. Miss Callan's subject will be "Foods the Family Need". There will be two girls to take care of the children, so come and bring them.

A THREE-FOLD OBLIGATION TO MY CHURCH

Yes sir, I am a church member, and I am not ashamed of it. I hope that my church is not ashamed of me.

Yes, I figured this thing out. I think that I owe my church certain things. I call this obligation my "Three-Fold Obligation". I will tell you what it is.

First—Pray It Up

I believe that every Christian should remember his church in his prayers. The church brings God to me. Why should I not try to bring God to my church? This is an obligation of first importance.

We have the habit of expecting the minister to pray for us. Why should we not pray for him? I try to do it. If my church falls down on some task or my minister fails to register in some particular sermon, I always feel a little guilty. Maybe I did not pray for him as I should.

Second—Say It Up

It it were not to get the rhyme I would just say, "Talk It Up". Every place I go I try to say a good word for the church. When men get together and someone remarks that the church is a worn-out institution, I get in my say. I remind folks that people still have worries and that babies still die. I guess that modern civilization has made it no easier for the mother who stands at an empty grave than it was 100 years ago. There is only one answer for these things. That is God.

Even in some church societies people talk about everything except the church. If we could turn the energy consumed in just plain gossip into verbal publicity for the church I am sure that our pews would be filled and our preachers grow eloquent.

Third—Pay It Up

Pray It Up! Say It Up! Pay It Up! But it isn't necessary for me to say anything about that, is it? Every good church member knows how badly money is needed. So his pledge is paid up-to-date.

REPUBLICANS, REGISTER NOW THROUGH DECEMBEI

The Union-Banner again wishes to call to the attention of the Republicans of Chilton County the importance of our young voters registering during the next few weeks. The Board of Registrars will begin registering on Thursday, October 14, at the courthouse. Voters may register either when the Board is in session at the courthouse or while they are in your respective beat.

If you know of a young Republican, or one who has recently moved into your beat, impress upon him or her the importance of registering and getting qualified to vote.

Tigers Defeat Montevallo By The Big Score Of 26 To 7

Again the Tigers got off to a bad start letting the Montevallo eleven go over the line in the first quarter, but soon the Tigers stopped the onrushing eleven.

In the second quarter the Tigers made three of the four touchdowns made. These three markers put them considerably in the lead. Again in the last quarter the Tigers went over for another marker.

Morris Johnson and J. L. Littlejohn made a touchdown each, and Matt Ware tops the list by making two markers.

Matt Ware is a new discovery for the back-field of the Tiger Squad. His first time to see service as a back dashed off tackle for a 65 yard run, one of the most spectacular runs of the season; the 65 yard run counted for one of the two touchdowns credited him.

Little Snowy Melton saw a good deal of service last Friday, when they needed a few yards they would give him the ball, and in his jumping way he would gain the yards needed.

Duck Williamson also served in the game although he was unable to carry the ball he is credited with doing the passing for the Tigers, and on the end of one of the passes "Tall Boy" Littlejohn found that he had went over for a marker.

Little "Punk" Johnson did not fail to cross the white line which gave him credit for a marker.

Clanton plays Selma at Selma next Friday night, all go and support the team to the end.

Wonder Who

We wonder who Miss Cook was out with last week end, but it is no wonder, she wants to be a good cook. They have got to eat you know.

Visitor In Chapel

Mrs. Garland was in chapel Monday telling us something of the entertainment to be here Friday night, November 5th, at 8 o'clock.

The characters will be the business men of Clanton dressed in different costumes. Be sure to be here. Admission will be 10, 15 and 25 cents.

Program In Chapel

The Sr. Class gave us a very interesting program in chapel. This program contained various acts such as, tap dancing, singing and guitar playing. Every one seemed to enjoy this very much.

It's Gone

We all arrived at school last Monday to find something of great importance gone. What? The hair on Mr. Hicks's head.

P.-T. A. Meets

The P.-T. A. of the high school will meet Tuesday afternoon, November 9th, at 3:15.

The subject for the meeting is one every patron of the school should be interested in. "School Administration in Chilton County," is to be discussed by Mr. Little. All Patrons and friends of education are cordially invited to attend.

Man From Montevallo

Two years ago Alabama College began a series of experiments looking forward to the improvement of speech among the students who came to Montevallo. Conferences were held with students who had speech defections, and suggestions were made for correcting these defects. In some instances, the student was asked to talk into a recording machine so that a record could be made of his voice, then the record could be reproduced that the students might study his defects in talking.

This year the work is being offered to the high schools. Mr. Herning and his assistants are to visit the Chilton County High School Monday, November 8th, for the purpose of confering with the students as to how they may go about improving their speech.

Mr. Herning will have his recording machine with him, and will make a record of any student's voice for a small fee.

No one seems to know why the eight Russian generals were stood against tht wall, but as Voltaire once said, it may have been to encourage the others.—Stockton (Calif.) Independent.

Anyhow, this talk about Japan's outrages against China serves to take the mind of the public off such things as the Klan, the Supreme Court, and the slump in tne stock market.

A recent report from Sweden shows that there are less than 10,000 unemployed in the country. Pretty good showing for a country that can't afford a New Deal.

DANGEROUS VIEWS

One of the revealing observations made by President Roosevelt upon his return to Hyde Park was that he believed the people of the country are interested only in objectives and not in the means used to attain them.

If that is so, the whole future of America is threatened.

Do the people of America believe that if an objective is ownership of an automobile, stealing may be the means employed to attain it? It is an exaggerated example to show that the means are fully as important as the objective —and may, indeed, prove more important.

The objective may be "reform" of the Supreme Court, in the president's mind remaking the Court so it will hold New Deal laws valid. But the means employed may destroy totally the Bill of Rights, the vital guarantee of the rights and liberties enjoyed by all the people. The proposal to pack the Court would have done just that.

The proposed wage and hour bill is destined to eliminate the chiseler, the sweatshop operator who pays insufficient wages and forces his employes to work for long hours. Yet the means may be so drastic that it would seriously hurt hundreds of thousands of small employers who are seeking honestly to manufacture good products and build up more employment.—Syracuse Post-Standard.

THE FIRESIDE CHAT

The president's fireside chat and his calling of a special session of congress for the middle of November brought forth little that was new or unexpected. For some time, ever since the failure of the court packing bill, in fact, it had been generally expected that there would be a special session of congress this fall.

The four suggestions for necessary legislation as outlined by President Roosevelt were: a reorganization of the various branches and activities of the federal government; a regional planning for public works in the future; the enlargement of a minimum wage and a maximum hours bill; an act to control surplus farm production and establish "normal income" for the farmers in the place of price parity which has proved a sorry failure.

The president has expressed the hope that legislation covering these matters may be disposed of before the regular session in January, and he has also expressed the wish that the next regular session dispose of its business by next May. There is to be a congressional election in November, 1338, and it would naturally be deemed desirable to have congress out of the way for the primaries and the general election.

The president's remarks on the Sino-Japanese situation were reassuring after the amount of heat generated in the press following the Chicago speech. He expressed little more than the general idea that the nations adhering to the nine power treaty attempt to find a formula for peace in the Orient, and expressed our determination to work well with China and Japan to this end.

The president reminded his hearers that as assistant Secretary of the Navy he was close to international affairs from 1913 to 1921, and had learned what ought to be done and what ought not to be done. Doubtless, if he studied the situation carefully, he must have become convinced from what happened, that one thing which ought not to be done is to mix in the affairs of foreign nations.

Just how much opposition the president will meet in attempting to put through his suggestions in the coming session of congress remains to be seen. On paper he has an overwhelming New Deal majority in both houses, although things sometimes get out of hand. Perhaps he will have the greatest difficulty with the wages and hours bill.

The president's recommendations were most significant for what they failed to include. Nothing was said about enlarging the Supreme Court. Evidently the chief executive is willing to have this subject dismissed for the time being, at least. It is the failure to inject the court issue which gives him the most promise for an early and successful conclusion of the special session. It was the fight on his court legislation which jammed other bills in congress during the last session. If this is avoided within the next few months doubtless the decks can be cleared in one way or another.

Some figures worth thinking about: The total of all internal revenue tax collections by the federal government from 1873 through the last fiscal year was 74 billion dollars. The gross national debt today is 37 billion dollars. So we, as a nation, owe today just exactly half as much as we, as a nation, have taken in during the last 64 years.—Pittsburgh Press.

MAN IN THE MOON

CAN REPUBLICANS "COME BACK"?

A lot of folks must think I am some kind of political prophet or something, by the way they are forever asking me about what our Chilton County Republicans are going to do. A week never passes that several do not put this question to me: "What are the Republicans going to do?"

Now, I am no prophet of any kind, and most certainly not a political one, else I could have foreseen that I would run a poor second back in 1936, and would have stayed out of the ring. But I believe I can look forward enough to foretell a few things, and point out a few "ifs" and "whens".

In the first place, if you want my candid opinion, there is not much we can do unless our voters have their poll taxes paid. Many of them are behind, and I doubt very much if they will pay them up unless the pressure is put on in great gobs.

Then, there comes the most important question—the party split. That split must be closed, whatever it takes, if we are to even make a start. And to close that split there must be a little heavy thinking on the part of many of our voters. Day after day I hear members of both sides popping off their mouths about the other side. That gets us exactly nowhere. I hated to see our voters "jump the fence" as badly as any of you, and I still firmly believe they should have stuck, although I believe I know and understand both sides of the scrap, and am willing to concede that each had its points. But here is a fact that we must recognize, and the quicker we do it, the quicker we will regain control of the county government—and it makes no difference how bitter the dose, we MUST recognize this fact: The Democrats and Republicans are so evenly divided in Chilton County until that little group of "bolters" (if we may so designate them) hold the balance of power between the two parties, and whichever gets their support takes over the reins. Let them be what they may—Democrats, Republicans, or what have you?—they do the ruling. They have the last word, so what we want to do is get them back.

We can hate them as much as we wish for bolting; we can call them what we will, pollywogs, bolters, fence jumpers, or plain Democrats, but the good, plain, old fashioned truth is that no matter what they are, they hold the balance right in their hands, and we must have them if we are to win. We can make up our party mind whether we had rather win with them or lose without them. When our leaders (if we have any such) realize this, and are smart enough to go about the all-important business of effecting a truce, then we will have made a great beginning, and not until then.

No one ever won a friend or an ally by fighting him, and we will never win those fence-jumping Republicans back by talking about them for their action, and reviling them. I believe our wayward brethren are ready to come back into the fold. I have talked to a number of them, and I find them in a good frame of mind for a fusion back into the solid Republican front we once had. What we need to do, and must do, is for every real Republican who is looking to the best interest of his party, to forget his bitterness, forget his intra-party enmity, and do his bit to get one or more of those votes back. If every steadfast Republican will make it his job to regain one of those who left us, then we will be getting somewhere. That is the one and only way, and everyone of you know it. The Democrats know this, too, and will be doing their best to keep dissension ablaze in our ranks. They are perhaps more wide awake to our party troubles than many of our own people. It is to their interest to find out just what is best for us so that they may go about blocking it. Now that gives us our cue to think what is best for ourselves and then go about the big job of doing it.

And then, there is a matter of leaders. Who are our leaders. Who is looking after the affairs of our party? How long has it been since there was a Republican caucus, or even a meeting of the executive committee? Who is looking out after the poll taxes of our voters and urging that they be paid? Who? I'm asking you! When our party was badly beaten in 1934, it was a rescult of a scrap between the leaders, or so-called leaders, of our party. And after that beating the last one of them went his way and has kept his mouth shut to this day. They tore down the house, but they have done nothing to rebuild it, and there are no signs as yet that they expect to do anything. NONE of them have done anything.

This does not apply to the executive committee, and the general county organization, which, no doubt, is doing all it can. But its very best efforts are hampered by a lack of party leadership which has always been easily apparent, and has become more or less expected. The executive committee stands ready to "execute" decisions of the general county organizations, but it must know what the general campaign plan of the party is before it can do its work, and the general organization must secure leadership before such plans can be drawn up.

Let him who believes that he is a leader of the Republican party in our county speak up! Let him be busy. Let him call upon the Republicans of our county to bury the hatchet—but not in each other's heads. It will take time and money, and lots of work, but when the Republicans held power we could find plenty of men who were ready to supply all of these. Now the party is down on its knees. Let him who would lead take his place at the head—and lead! A leader doesn't lead from the rear rank, nor even from the rank and file. He must be at the head. I believe none of our Republicans would look upon anyone as presumptive if he should aspire to leadership, but rather would welcome the chance to rally to the support of anyone who showed spunk enough to strike a course of action as a leader of our party.

Summarizing, let me say again that if our Republican party is again to rule, these things we must do: We must forget petty differences; we must work together for the good of all; we must select our leaders and back them to the limit. And last, but far from least, we must each and everyone of us work like the very dickens for the Republican party in the general campaigns to come, and not for any certain wing or faction. A solid Republican party can and will win, while two divergent groups of Republicans cannot and will not win. That's the whole thing in a nut-shell. If you want the Republican party to win, do your part!

The New Deal in France isn't going so good. Well, they haven't any Wallaces and Hopkinses over there to put it over.

THE TAX BURDEN

During the last fiscal year, federal, state and local taxes collected in the United States amounted to $12,500,000,000. If every person who had an income of $25,000 a year or more, had been taxed to the limit—100 per cent—collections would have reached less than $4,000,000,000, one-third of the tax load. And if the government had confiscated 100 per cent of the incomes of all persons earning $5,000 a year or more—a sum which is certainly a far cry from riches—collections would have reached about $10,000,000,000, more than $2,000,000,000 less than the amount necessary to pay our extortionate tax bill.

The taxpayer who provides the bulk of tax funds in this country, whether he knows it or not, is the average small-salaried worker—the man or woman earning $20, $30, or $40 a week. Indirect taxes are the principal support of all units of government—taxes which are hidden in the cost of food, clothing, tobacco, amusements, gasoline, beauty preparations, and everything we use. The 20th Century Fund has found that a $1,000 wage earner in New York pays $123 in taxes; a $2,000 salary worker, $238; a $5,000 a year man, $618; and a $100,000 executive, about $60,000. —Ansonia Sentinel.

NOTES ON CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION OF 1901

The surviving members of the Constitutional Convention of 1901 are meeting in Montgomery on November 4th, for a reunion.

There were 155 members of that Convention. Only 32 of them are now living according to the best information obtainable at this time. Only two elective officers of that Convention survive. They are Frank N. Julian, the Secretary, and W. F. Herbert, Assistant Secretary. John B. Knox, President of the Convention, died about two years ago.

This convention was composed of four delegates from the State-at-Large, two from each Congressional District, one from each Senatorial District and one hundred from the counties, being apportioned on the same basis as the House of Representatives.

These delegates were selected in an election held on April 23, 1901, at which time the people voted on the question as to whether a convention should be held. The vote on this issue was 70,305 for holding the Convention and 45,505 against holding it.

The Convention convened on May 21st, and continued in session until September 3, 1901. It consumed 82 working days. The members were paid $4.00 per day and were allowed no extra mileage and expense money.

In the Convention there were four members who had served in the Convention of 1875. They were: John F. Burns, of Dallas; George P. Harrison of Lee; Joel Murphree, of Pike; and Wm. C. Oates, of Henry.

The Convention had 21 standing committees and they had six committee clerks. There were 14 clerical employes in the Secretary's office.

On the final adoption of the Constitutional 136 delegates voted for it, 12 voted against it and seven did not vote. Those who voted against it were: Bartlett of Marshall; Byars, of Franklin; Cofer, of Cullman; Foshee, of Conecuh; Phillips, of Clay; Porter, of Coosa; Spears, of St. Clair; Studdard, of Fayette; White, of Jefferson; Reynolds, of Chilton; Sloan, of Blount; and Freeman of Winston. Beddow, of Jefferson at first voted against adoption, and later changed his vote and voted for it.

Only one member of the committee selected to prepare an address to the people on the new constitution is now living, O. R. Hood, of Gadsden. This committee was composed of John B. Knox, President of the convention, as Chairman, and one member from each Congressional District. The first district was represented by Gregory L. Smith, the second by Thomas G. Jones, the third by Thomas M. Espy, the fourth by Henry F. Reese, the fifth by James E. Cobb, the sixth by Thomas W. Coleman, the seventh by O. R. Hood, the eighth by R. W. Walker and the ninth by James Weatherly.

The election for ratification was held on November 11, 1901, and the total vote cast, as shown in the record, was 108,613. Of this number 81,734 votes were cast for ratification and 54,855 against ratification. Thirty-one counties gave majorities against ratification and 35 for ratification.

The largest majority for ratification was in Dallas, the vote being 8,125 for and 235 against. The next largest was in Hale with 4,698 for and 95 against. Chambers gave a majority of 4,051 for ratification.

The largest majority cast against ratification was in Jackson, where the vote was 633 for ratification and 2,893 against. Other large majorities against adoption were 1,816 in Marshall, 1,706 in Shelby, 1,377 in Tallapoosa, 1,270 in Chilton, 1,220 in Cullman, and 1,197 in Lee.

The final draft of the Constitution was enrolled on imported parchment with India ink. The task required 48 hours of continuous work. This work was done by Robert Chapman, of Montgomery who now is a resident of Hattiesburg, Miss. He was a son of Reuben Chapman, a delegate to the Convention from Sumter County.

Frank N. Julian, Secretary of the Convention, has tried to get in touch with every surviving member of the Convention and invite him to attend the meeting to be held in Montgomery his week. All are urged to attend whether they get a special invitation or not.

PUBLICATION TO NON-RESIDENT

The State of Alabama, Chilton County. Circuit Court In Equity. No. 1446. October 11, 1937. S. H. Rollins, Complainant, vs. Cora Lee Rollins, Defendant.

In this cause it is made to appear to the Register by the affidavit of Percy M. Pitts, attorney for Complainant, that the Defendant is a non-resident, and that her place of residence and post office address is unknown, and that such address cannot be ascertained after reasonable effort; and, further, that in the belief of said affiant, the Defendant is over the age of twenty-one years:

It is, therefore, ordered by the Register that publication be made in The Union-Banner, a newspaper published in the County of Chilton, once a week for four consecutive weeks, requiring her, the said Cora Lee Rollins, to plead, answer, or demur to the bill of complaint in this cause by the 15th day of November, 1937, or, in thirty days thereafter, a decree pro confesso may be taken against her.

Done at office in Clanton, this 11th day of October, 1937.

STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

Montgomery, Nov. 1.—"Although Alabama's diphtheria death rate dropped more than 50 per cent between 1915 and 1935, and the 1936 death rate was even lower than the 1935 rate, it is a tragedy that 120 residents of the State, the vast majority of them young children, died of this disease last year," Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, said today in urging parents to give their children the protection which modern science has provided.

"With modern agencies of prevention and cure readily available,' he added, "there is no reason why this disease should not practically disappear as a health problem in Alabama and elsewhere. The laboratories of the State Department of Health developed in 1932 a toxoid which gives virtually complete immunity with a single injection. Parents should by all means see that their children receive this injection, perferably between the sixth and twelfth months after birth. If they fail to provide this immunity and a child develops diphtheria, no time should be lost in administering the diphtheria antitoxin. The loss of even a single day before administering it greatly lessons the patient s chance of recovery."

For seven years Alabama's government existed under a Constitution that its citizens refused to ratify. This period was from 1868 to 1875. Many negroes were members of the legislature during this period.

The District of Columbia, with an area of 70 square miles, eight of which are water, has a greater population than the State of Florida had in 1900. Florida's population is now three times that of the District of Clumbia.

RECENT BRIDES SHOWER HONOREE

Mrs. C. D. Collins and Mrs. W. R. Nations were hostesses at a shower Friday evening at her home, honoring Mrs. Eugene Collins and Mrs. Commie Collins, Jr., recent brides.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. V. Aycock, who also presided over the bride's book.

Fall flowers were arranged throughout the house carrying out the color scheme of black and yellow.

Many gifts were received, and refreshments were served to several guests by Mrs. Hubert Aycock, Mrs. Askew Davis, Mrs. Cecil Marcus and Mrs. Preston Mims.

CARD OF THANKS

We sincerely thank our many friends for their kindnesses shown us during our recent bereavement, in the death of our dear son and brother. We especially thank our friends for their kind, sympathetic words, and their beautiful flowers. May God bless each and every one of you is our prayer.—Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Davenport and children.

THANKS FRIENDS FOR HELP IN WINNING CAR

As it impossible to see each one of you in person who helped me in the Union-Banner campaign, I take this method of thanking you for your help in winning grand prize. — Mrs. Earl Gore.

MISS ELIZABETH BALD HONORS BRIDE WITH TEA SHOWER

On Saturday, October 23, Mrs. Sidney Reynolds, a recent bride, was honored with a tea shower at the home of Mrs. L. D. Duffie in Jemison.

Mrs. George Naish met the guests at the door, and Miss Ruth Reynolds led them to the living room, where Miss Maragaret Robinson presided over the bride's book. After signing their names they were met in the guest room by Mrs. Sidney Reynolds, the bride, and Mrs. L. C. Reynolds.

After each had seen the many lovely and beautiful gifts presented to the honoree, they were shown to the dining room by Mrs. Seymour Reynolds, where they were served coffee, cakes and sandwiches. Mrs. Elwyn Ballard gracefully presided over the coffee urn. During the afternoon between 35 and 40 guests called.

University News

Miss Helen Nix of Maplesville took part in a huge convocation of women students held at the University of Alabama as a feature of the annual Homecoming celebration.

The featured speaker was U. S. Senator Dixie Bibb Graves, wife of Alabama's governor, who has spoken at seven previous Homecoming convocations.

Presiding at the meeting was Mrs. Truman A. Smith of Mobile, president of the University Alumnae association.

Miss Nix represented the women's council of the University as a member of its board of directors.

With six games behind them, the Tidesmen of Alabama invade New Orleans Saturday for an engagement with the Green Wave of Tulane University.

The Crimson Tide rules as a favorite to win the game.

Tulane has played in-and-out football this season, holding Auburn to a tie, defeating Colgate, but going down before the attack of a powerful North Carolina team.

Paced by Dub Mattis, halfback, who has led the Greenies' offensive this season, the New Orleans team packs both speed and power in the backfield department. Bill Flowers, also a halfback, has teamed with Mattis this season in heading the Tulane ground-gaining crew.

Coach "Red" Dawson, Tulane mentor, will toss a well fortified forewall against Alabama. End Wentzel, at 222, a sophomore, is the heftiest man in the forward fortifications.

Sen. Dixie Bibb Graves told a convocation of women students here last week that women are showing unprecedented interest in politics.

"Through many years," Mrs. Graves asserted, "women have striven for social justice, universal education, child welfare, and the care of the handicapped and underprivileged; and now this administration has acknowledged human welfare as its continuous responsibility."

An oustanding figure in the history of the University of Alabama, Amelia Gayle Gorgas, was the subject of a commemoration exercise last Saturday when her portrait was unveiled in Tutwiler Hall, located in the main women's dormitory at the school.

Ex-Congressman W. B. Oliver presented the portrait to the University as the main feature of the alumni luncheon held at noon Saturday, the University's Homecoming day.

Owen G. Gresham of Birmingham, president of the University of Alabama Alumni Association, presided at the luncheon.

Tau Kappa Alpha, honorary debating fraternity, initiated five new members last week. They are: George Murray, Bessemer; Frank W. Gaines, Jr., Selma; Thomas Adair, Tuscaloosa; J. C. Hearne, Cuba; and Thomas Reuben Bell, Jr., Lineville.

Blackfriars, University dramatic organization, presented "Earth Takes Its Toll" Monday night. It was the first long play to be given experimentally by the University dramatic club. Miss Sara Mayfield of Tuscaloosa is the author.

The Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity debating team, composed of William Pollard of Newbern, and Cecil Dean Gray of Jasper, last week won the first intramural debating tournament held at the University of Alabama in many years.

The University of Alabama Rifle Squad, Southeastern conference champions last year, has begun elimination practices, with the national intercollegiate title as its goal.

The 'Bama marksmen will fire matches with Georgia, L. S. U., Mississippi State, University of Mississippi, Georgia Tech, Florida and other Southeastern foes.

Dr. O. C. Carmichael, chancellor of Vanderbilt University, is scheduled to speak at the annual commencement dinner of the University of Alabama Phi Beta Kappa chapter next May, Ralph Adams, secretary of the local group, and executive secretary of the University, has announced.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

Intriguing Construction.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—Downtown I saw some sort of siege-wall going up. At first I thought it must be a part of the proposed plaza leading from our new terminal.

Our new terminal has been under construction almost as long as New York's unfinished Cathedral of St. John. Inch by inch it progresses, giving creeping defiance to those critics who say that what Los Angeles needs is not any additional entrances, but more exits.

Irvin S. Cobb

On second glance I decided the owner of the business property behind this strange rampart probably made the same mistake I did. I saw a picture in the paper and I said, "Pretty late to be printing a photograph of Fifth avenue showing how it appeared when the World's war heroes got through pranking last month." I looked again and saw it was only a scene in Shanghai after the Japanese finished bombing.

So I figure this forehanded Los Angeleno is just getting ready for next year's convention of the vets out here. When his wall is absolutely impregnable against assault, he'll no doubt paint a big sign on it reading:

"Welcome, American Legion."

* * *

Kindness for Reptiles.

UNDER the slogan, "Kindness for reptiles," the National Park service discourages people from destroying every creature they encounter, merely because it wriggles or crawls.

I'm what you might call an occasional snakist, indulging in snakes only in moderation. In other words, I can take my snakes or I can leave them be. But realizing that practically all snakes destroy noxious vermin, I refrain from murdering every passing snake, regardless of his private habits and personal disposition, just for being a snake.

I was raised in a locality where moccasin snakes were so numerous the Republicans used to accuse us of voting them at county elections. Yet I recall only one instance of a moccasin snake biting anybody, and it must have been tempted beyond all power of self-control, for the fellow bitten was a pious party who didn't think little children should be suffered to believe in Santa Claus. I regret to state that he recovered. It was the snake that died.

* * *

Movie Preferences.

I DON'T like movies about hospitals where an impossible young surgeon performs impossible operations, in four strokes under par, using his irons all the way 'round; and then, while replacing the divots, makes love to an impossible although beauteous nurse. But between operations he washes his hands. Dadgum him, he's always washing his hands! Who does he think he is, Pontius Pilate?

I don't like movies about newspaper offices where the hero is a drunken reporter who behaves in a manner peculiar to newspaper reporters (in the movies); which is so darned peculiar that, in a real newspaper office, somebody'd beat out his brains with a wet towel.

I like movies showing Myrna Loy, when not playing nurse; and Spencer Tracy, when not playing reporter.

Anyhow, nothing could be an absolute failure that has a Walt Disney short separating the ultra-colossal or regular feature from the extra-special four-star absolutely unparalleled super-stupendous preview feature.

Gossip About Cobb.

JUST a little effort to trace down gossip now going around:

(I) The claim that I am going to play Scarlett in "Gone With the Wind" is absolutely unfounded. Latest word is that the coveted role will go to Fannie Brice, although the Ritz brothers are being mentioned. If they should be chosen, Scarlett will be played as a three-handed quartette.

(II) Dame Rumor hath it that the Atlantic sperm whale will be renamed the Justice Black sperm whale. Not yet confirmed, but sounds sort of plausible. The Atlantic sperm whale has a hide almost two feet thick.

(III) The statement that Charley McCarthy may join the reorganized brain trust at Washington remains unsettled. Probably without foundation. For while Charley is trained to sit upon his master's knee, he cannot be depended on to keep silent and has too many brains to be trusted.

(IV) Stories to the effect that Representative Ham Fish will be Republican nominee for President in 1940 may be regarded as absolutely authentic so far as Representative Ham Fish is concerned.

CHILTON TIGERS SWAMPED MONTEVALLO HIGH 26 TO 7

Shifted Line-Up From Injuries Clicked In Grand Style; Mat Ware Steps Sixty Yards

Hampered with injuries, which necessitated several changes in the line-up, Coach Spicer's Chilton Tigers snapped back to their winning ways last Friday, after two successive losses, and trounced Montevallo on the latter's field last Friday, 26 to 7.

Montevallo made things look dark in the first quarter, when they took the ball in the first quarter, put on a sustained drive, and went over for a touchdown without giving up the ball, adding the extra point.

That touchdown proved the spark needed to stir the Chilton team, however. In the second quarter, the Tigers marched down the field in a determined drive that would not be denied until Morris Johnson stepped over the goal line on a slice through the line. Having tasted blood, the Tigers went to work. After working the ball deep into enemy territory, Williamson flipped a pass to Littlejohn, who raced over the goal line to put the Tigers in front. But that was not all. A few minutes later Mat Ware, Tiger captain, who had been shifted from line to backfield, due to injuries, sliced through his left tackle, sidestepped one tackler, stiff-armed two others, and raced 60 yards for the third touchdown. In the fourth quarter, Chilton worked the ball down on straight line plunges and end runs, until Ware plunged through center for the fourth and last touchdown.

The Chilton team is reported as playing a jam-up game all the way, with Mat Ware showing up well. Snowy Melton also gave a good account of himself, also, slicing through for several, neat gains, behind a fine blocking line. Williamson, due to injuries, saw little service, being used mostly to toss passes.

Chilton goes to Selma Friday night to do battle with the high school there. The Tigers have won three and lost two, so far.

More than 1,500,000 pounds of tree and shrub seeds and nearly 700,000 pounds of native grass seeds will be collected between now and next July for use in the nation-wide erosion-control program.

All the States in the Union hold regular sessions of their legislature every two years except six. In Alabama regular sessions are held once every four years, and in Massachusetts, New Jersey, Rhode Island and South Carolina regular sessions are held annually. Special sessions in 35 of the States were held in 1933. Even with the sessions being held every two years very few of the States are able to avoid special sessions.

WOULD APPRECIATE HELP FROM PEOPLE OF CHILTON COUNTY

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me a small space in your paper for a letter to my friends here in Chilton county. I am sick in bed with heart dropsy, and am unable to work or be around. I am at the home of my son-in-law, who has five in the family, and is making only $21.00 per month. So friends, you see he can't pay house rent and buy food and clothing for six of us on that small amount; if you have anything to give me, I sure would appreciate it. If you could bring us a load of pine or wood we would also be thankful. I live in one of Mr. Tyus's houses near the cotton mill. If you have anything to give, bring it to the house or at the Union-Banner.—T. B. Dison.

MAPLE SPRINGS

Sunday school was very well attended last Sunday. Let's be back next Sunday, and bring someone with us.

Mrs. W. F. Glenn and children visited Mrs. G. A. Glenn and children Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Rollan were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Glenn.

Mr. Joe Wilson spent a while last Thursday night with Mr. W. F. Glenn and son.

Mr. Ollie Hayes visited Mr. Joe Wilson Friday afternoon.

Messrs. Arnold and Oliver Glenn visited Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Glenn and children Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Glenn were the Friday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Davis.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gray and children were past week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Will Gray and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ware visited Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Davis Sunday.

Mrs. Kena Wells visited Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Davis during the past week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Festus Wells and children were in this community Sunday afternoon.

TRADES AND INDUSTRIES COURSE IS OFFERED IN CHILTON COUNTY

The Chilton County Board of Education, through its department of Trades and Industries, is offering the people of Clanton and Chilton County an opportunity to gain more technical and general information about their jobs.

Evening school will open at the high school in Clanton Monday evening, November 8, at 7 o'clock. Classes will be held three nights each week. This school is for anyone who is 16 years of age or over, and who are not attending any regular day public or high school, regardless of occupation or employment.

The purpose of the evening school is to help individuals increase their efficiency if employed, and to give to those who are not employed enough technical and general information about some job that they may obtain employment.

Classes will be organized at the high school, but may be changed to some shop or business where better instruction may be given.

The following is a suggested list of courses:

1. Shop Arithmetic.
2. General and Special Textile Classes.
3. Blueprint Reading and Estimating (Building Trades).
4. Trouble Shooting and Motor Analysis.
5. Show Card Writing and Window Trimming.
6. Theory for all Building Trades.
7. Salesmanship.
8. Service Station Managers' Conference.
9. Painting and Decorating.
10. First Aid for Industrial workers.
11. Barber Science.
12. Lumber Grading.
13. Display, as applied to Retail Selling.
14. Radio Servicing.
15. Printing.
16. Refrigeration.

Classes in any other subject will be organized if 10 or more people enroll for the course.

Teachers in the evening school will be selected from the trades and crafts in the field where they have been successful.

There will be no charges or fees of any kind accepted from night school students.

No academic entrance qualifications will be required. Anyone may enter evening school, regardless of their present education. The length of class periods will be two hours, and length of courses may be from six weeks to 72 weeks.

Levine Bros. Observe Birthday Anniversary

Business Concern Has Grown Like Magic Since Beginning Business In October Of Last Year.

Saturday of this week has been set aside by Levine Brothers, I. S. and Sol, as the day to celebrate their first birthday in Clanton. They especially invite their friends to look at their windows while in town Saturday. They do not disclose anything about what the windows will contain, so, unless you want to miss something, you had better look at Levine's windows Saturday.

I. S. LEVINE

When the Levines went into business a year ago, their store was small, and the biggest stock they had was friendly hospitality, smiling countenances, and good will toward everybody. Today they still have that stock of hospitality, Etc., but there has been added merchandise galore. The partition has been moved back to provide more room, and every inch of available space has been taken.

SOL LEVINE

And now comes the big birthday celebration. Nothing for sure has been released as to what is going to happen at Levine's; if your curiosity has been aroused, then you will just have to go there Saturday and see what all the commotion is about. We can assure you of only one thing, and that is, you will be greeted with courtesy and friendliness. You will have to see for yourself what the rest is.

PREACHING AT MT. NEBO

Dr. H. M. Andrews, presiding elder of the Selam district, will preach at Mt. Nebo church November 9th, at 11 o'clock. Dinner will be served at the church; conference after dinner.

"THE ADVENTURES OF GRANDPA"

Does Grandpa's nephew, Monte, need him as much as his farm in Yellow Bud, Ohio, with the cows, chickens, and Aunt Samanthy? You can find out by coming to Jemison High School Friday night, Novmeber 12, at 7:30 o'clock.

SUBSCRIPTION CAMPAIGN

enced judges had been chosen.

The Union-Banner wishes to express its thanks and sincere gratitude to every contestant who helped to make the campaign the rousing success it has been and also to those subscribers who helped the respective candidates.

It is doubtful if there is a home in the entire territory that was not vitally interested in the success of some of the candidates toward the home stretch. Every individual candidate, regardless of his or her standing in the list, should feel proud of their friends who supported him or her through the campaign.

Real Contestants

It would be impossible, according to the judgment of the management of the campaign, to go through the country adjacent to Clanton and select a like number of workers who possess more friends, or who are more popular in their communities, than those who were candidates in The Union-Banner's circulation campaign.

To the very competent judges, who worked so faithfully and carefully in the task of counting the millions of ballots cast, the management is indeed grateful.

RED CROSS DRIVE

do than in any year since the tunes of "Tipperary" and "Over There" were hits of the day.

In Alabama, Red Cross classes in first aid, life saving and home hygiene were sharply increased to meet the demands this new interest in health and safety activities created. Over 3,400 persons were taught the simple principles of first aid, so often the means of saving the life of an accident victim; 1,897 men, women and children received Red Cross life saving instruction, and more than 1,300 Alabamians to date have been taught home hygiene and care of the sick.

Last January, when the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers swept through the cities, towns and villages in the middle west, Alabama contributed $261,916 to the $25,000,000 flood relief fund with which the Red Cross gave emergency relief, household goods, building repairs, or new homes to 1,035,000 flood victims. Over $2,183,000 of this fund was expended in floods of lesser intensity in Alabama, Louisiana, Mississippi, and Tennessee during the same period.

In addition to these achievements, Dr. Lawrence continued, the Chilton Chapter and the other Red Cross societies in the state continued aid to disabled ex-service en, their dependents, and to men in active military service, giving assistance in more than 9,100 cases. Junior Red Cross, one of the greatest youth movements in the world today, dedicated to the principle of service and to the fostering of international good will, increased by 6,000 members during the year, bringing total Alabama enrollment to 116,850.

Red Cross volunteers in Chapters throughout the state made hundreds of garments for the needy; chapter accident prevention committees sponsored campaigns to reduce the appalling number of accidents in homes and on farms, and on the highways of the state 13 emergency first aid stations were set up in an effort to curb the tremendous number of deaths from automobile accidents.

"These accomplishments show a marked increase over previous years," Dr. Lawrence said. "But they are none the less only a start over the road we have to travel. If we had the means, all of our services could be doubled or even trebled, and still not meet all the demands with which we are confronted.

"What we need today is more partners under this Red Cross Emblem—more members to share in the work we are doing. So remember the Red Cross on Armistice Day, and greet the Red Cross worker who comes to see you with a smile—and with your membership fee."

SOUTHERNAIRES AT CONCORD ON THURSDAY NIGHT, NOV. 4

The Southernaires Quartet from Birmingham will put on a musical concert at Concord Junior High School on Thursday night, November 4, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. This program will consist of a big variety of sacred numbers, comedy songs, duets—in fact everything that goes to make up a real rounded out musical concert.

The admission price will be 15c and 25c. Everybody is cordially invited to attend.

PILOT CONVENTION TO BE HELD NOVEMBER 13.

The Pilot Convention of District No. 1, Pilot International, which was announced to have been held October 16 was postponed until November 13 due to the fact that the International President Hester Bingham of Tuscaloosa, and the District Governor, Martha Aldridge, Selma, Alabama, were in the western part of the States. Their plans now are to be back in Alabama and attend the Clanton Convention on November 13.

With the capable Clanton President, Gertie Fiquette and cooperating committees, plans are nearing completion for one of the most enjoyable and successful convention's ever to have been held in Clanton.

CULPEPPER HOSIERY MILLS AT DANVILLE, VIRGINIA

Former Chilton County People Are Operating Successful Plant At Danville

The Union-Banner is in receipt of a communication, a newspaper and a nice pair of hose from Culpepper Hosiery Mills at Danville, Va. The letter reads: "Virginia Culpepper is the youngest daughter of C. H. Culpepper, who was born and raised near Clanton. Mr. Culpepper is now associated with his son, C. H. Culpepper, Jr., operating the Culpepper Hosiery Mills, Danville, Va. They manufacture their own brand of half hose, "Culperknit Hosiery," which is rapidly becoming popular in 28 states."

The newspaper referred to is "The Chatterbox," gotten out by the students of George Washington High School of Danville. Miss Virginia Culpepper, a student in that school, is Editor-in-Chief of the publication, a seven-column four page affair, printed on a good grade of book stock. A picture of the Editor-in-Chief appears on the front page of the paper, alongside three other students and members of the staff. Of itself the Chatterbox says: "Founded in 1922, is now the only seven-column weekly published in Virginia, except one." The Chatterbox enjoys two All-American honors and one international honor; it has a nice array of both local and foreign advertising.

The pair of hose sent to The Union-Banner is of pure thread silk reinforced with rayon, extra strong toe and heel, and bears the trademark brand "Culperknit."

The Union-Banner thanks the Culpepper Mills for the nice pair of hose, and are indeed glad to hear from these former Chilton county people. Some of our readers in the county, no doubt know them and likewise will be pleased to learn of their whereabouts and to know that they are climbing in the industrial world.

VOLUME 45.—EIGHT PAGES CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1937 NUMBER 30

Today Marks Opening Of Red Cross Drive In Chilton County

Workers In All Sections Of The County Launch Out On Intensive Drive Thursday Morning. Everyone Is Urged To Join At Once

The roll call for membership in the Red Cross is now in progress in Chilton County. Personal workers have been selected by J. Mell Martin, roll call chairman, and these workers are making an effort to see everyone in their respective sections. The workers are:

Clanton—Mrs. T. E. Wyatt, James Carl Martin, Mrs. G. C. Harris, Mrs. Mamie C. Smith, Mrs. Percy M. Pitts.
Cotton Mill—Mrs. Francis Mims.
CCC Camp—Mr. T. H. Walker.
Cooper—Mrs. Janie Moore.
Verbena—Mrs. Barnett Deramus.
Mitchell Dam—Mrs. A. B. Stanley.
Mt. Creek—Mrs. Mary Henderson.
Enterprise—Mrs. C. L. Wilkins.
Pletcher—Miss Mollie Bell Ousley.
Stanton—Miss Mildred Burnett.
Maplesville—Mrs. Bess Hayes, Miss Estelle Davis.
Isabella—Mrs. D. O. Manning.
Thorsby—L. L. Stanley, Mrs. C. S. Howard.
Jemison—C. C. Conway.
Minooka—Mrs. W. G. Shaw.
Union Grove—Prof. C. M. Williams.
Collins Chapel—Henry Robinson.
Lay Dam—Mrs. R. D. Woodson, Mrs. Crit Jones.
Concord—O. H. McDowell.

Argument after argument has been presented through the papers and otherwise to the people of Chilton County, relating the importance of everyone lending their aid to this humanitarian agency, which has done and is doing so much for unfortunate and stricken humanity. We feel that it is needless to say more.

We feel that it is sufficient to urge our people to see the worker in your respective section or community, and make a donation to them at once. Don't wait for the worker to have to hunt you up; but remember that they are generously donating their time toward the cause. Therefre, make for your worker as little ill-convenience as you can. If you can't pay anything, then kindly tell the worker so, and you will not be bothered any more. If you can help, then do so as generously as you feel like you are able. The matter is now in your hands. The drive will close Thursday night, November 25.

Baptist Church Will Buy Electric Organ

The Clanton Baptist church last Sunday voted to buy a Hammond electric organ to be installed in the church at an early date.

The Woman's Missionary Society of the church has been assembling funds for an organ for the past few years, and they have raised nearly enough to buy a Hammond. The church will co-operate by supplementing that fund.

The Hammond electric organ has been demonstrated in the church on two different occasions, and it has proved most satisfactory. The larger churches, conservatories and colleges are installing the electric organ, and it is becoming very popular all over the country. It is cheaper than the regular pipe organ, and seems to do just as good work and at much less operating expense.

MORE WATER IN CITY RESERVOIR

Mayor C. Fenn Jones announces that the two new wells dug some weeks ago are now being unilized to supplement the old wells. Water in the new wells was inspected by State health authorities two weeks ago and pronounced fit for use.

Therefore, we have plenty of water in our veins and arteries now to take care of all immediate needs. Of course, the wells will not supply a sufficiency of water through next summer, Mayor Jones adds, but there is ample supply for our immediate needs now. Some other arrangements will be made before the drought of next summer sets in.

RUFFIN-ROCKETT

Jefferson Davis Ruffin, of Helena, announces the engagement of his daughter, Ola, to John Askew Rockett, of Troy, Ala., the wedding to take place in December.

BETTY JEAN MAHAN

Funeral services for Betty Jean Mahan, age 6 months, who died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hobson Mahan, in Clanton Thursday morning at 12:30, after a long illness, were held at the Mullins-Jones cemetery, with the Rev. Jimmy DuBose officiating; Spigener directing. She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hobson Mahan, of Clanton.

FIRST BIG POTATO

Mr. S. L. Broadhead brought the first big sweet potato of the year into the Union-Banner office last Saturday. It weighed 8¼ pounds, and was raised by Mr. M. H. Headley, Clanton R 6, in the Pleasant Grove community.

SHERIFF'S REPORT

KIWANIS ELECTED OFFICERS FOR 1938

At a recent meeting of the Clanton Kiwanis Club, officers for 1938 were elected, as follows: President, Patterson Hicks; Immediate Past President, John W. Fant; Vice-President, John C. Page; Secretary-Treasurer, J. Mell Martin.

The Board of Directors are: John Armstrong, O. T. Dickey, Saul M. Goldstein, Dr. V. J. Gragg, John L. Hollis, Dr. C. O. Lawrence, Luther E. Little.

GIRL BORN LAST WEEK

On Wednesday night of last week, November 3rd, a baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. Calvin L. Robinson of Providence. It weighed eight pounds, and has been named Gloria Jaynelle. Both mother and baby are doing nicely.

Cardinals To Play Jemison Sat. Night

Notice is given by business manager A. B. (Steve, himself) Stanley, that the Mitchell Dam Cardinals, crack basket ball team, will open the 1937-38 season on their court next Saturday night, taking on the Jemison quint, which defeated the Cardinals in an early season game last year.

The Cardinals have been practicing during the last week, and although they will of course not be in top form, yet the game should be a good one, as these two teams always put up a good scrap, Jemison's team being rated very highly this year.

After the game, which is a kind of "Opening Night Celebration", a group of the youngsters will do "The Big Apple," and all in all an enjoyable evening is expected.

Mr. Stanley said the team would be furnished new uniforms this year, and these will be purchased during this week. The Cardinals will return the Jemison game on Friday night, November 18.

You are urged to attend "Opening Night" on Saturday night, November 13th. The Cardinals are not at all superstitious about beginning on the 13th. Come and look them over.

MISS RUTH GOWAN TO REPRESENT CLANTON

Miss Ruth Gowan has been chosen to represent Clanton at the Christmas carnival to be held in Birmingham in a few weeks. Miss Gowan, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. E. Gowan, is a charming young lady of our city. Clanton was represented in the carnival last year by Miss Ruth Sheppard.

ALL STAR QUARTET AT CALERA TUESDAY NIGHT, NOVEMBER 16

Frank Stamps and his All Star Quartet, of Dallas, Texas, will appear in concert at the Calera school auditorium at 8 p.m., Tuesday, November 16. This is a very fine quartet, and their program will delight you.—P. B. Shaw.

KIWANIS PROGRAM ON ARMISTICE

The program of Clanton Kiwanis Club for Thursday night of this week will be along the lines of Armistice Day. All members are urged to be present. The meeting will be held at the usual time and at the customary place.

CLANTON GOSPEL TABERNACLE

Next Sunday is regular preaching day, and Rev. J. D. Stephens will be here to deliver three sermons — on Saturday night, and Sunday, both in the morning and evening. Rev. Stevens is from New Brockton, and is a good preacher. Come along to all of these services, and bring someone with you.

Rev. Stevens will fill the pulpit on the above dates in place of Rev. Jimmy DuBose, the regular pastor.

We had a good service last Sunday, with a good number present. We are glad to have you at any of our services either Sunday school or preaching. Come and be with us.

WE WILL CONTINUE TO PUBLISH NAMES OF LAW VIOLATORS

There has been some criticism and complaint as to The Union-Baner publishing the names of law violators in the city and county. We will say in the outset that we are going to continue publishing names just as we have in the past several months, but will offer a little further explanation than we have heretofore.

When a man's name appears in the sheriff's, mayor's or patrolmen's report, it does not necessarily mean that such a man has become a hardened and dangerous criminal. Any good citizen is liable to get on the wrong side of the highway once in a while, or violate one of the other numerous laws on our statute books, and get called down by the officers. Therefore, we can truthfully use the old adage: "It happens in the best of families".

And publishing names is not intended to humiliate anyone, but as we have said time and again through the paper, it is our hope that the publication of same will tend to make people more careful about violating laws, and we believe it has already had its effect.

Of course, to tell you the plain truth, The Union-Banner holds little brief for violators of the whiskey laws, and frankly we have no sympathy at all for a man or woman who gets to looking double or thrible and crawls behind the steering wheel of a high speed car. A man who will do that has no more sense than to look down the barrel of a loaded shot gun, or to sit peaceably by and permit his child or his neighbor's child to play with a rattle snake. One is just as dangerous as the other, and a man or woman who will do either by all means should be locked up at the first opportunity.

Therefore, The Union-Banner reiterates what it has already said time and again—if you are arrested, you may look for your name in the next issue of this paper. And what is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander. If this editor gets pinched, you will see his name there too, just the same as you will see your own.

PETE JARMAN VISITED HERE

The Union-Banner was pleased to have our distinguished Congressman, Hon. Pete B. Jarman, call on us Saturday afternoon. Although, as usual, Mr. Jarman made his visit very brief, yet we were glad to see him again. Pete is a very likable young felow, jolly, congenial and popular. In fact, there is only one thing short about him—he is one of those New Deal Democrats, and to us old hard-shell Republicans, that is almost an inexcusable failing. But Pete is our friend as he is a friend of everyone in this district; and we are always proud to have him call on us.

Unemployed Census To Be Gathered In Chilton County

The job of taking a census of the unemployed and partially employed will begin in Chilton County on November 16. The Clanton Post Office will distribute blanks in every home in the city, and rural carriers will see that one reaches every rural family.

This is to be a nation-wide census of unemployment, and is being taken under direction of President Roosevelt and by the authority of an act of congress.

If you are not working, or if you are partially employed, you are asked to fill out one of these blanks and return it to the post office immediately upon receipt. All information thus collected will be assembled and forwarded to Washington immediately.

Postmaster H. F. Downs urges the cooperation of all citizens of Clanton and Chilton County in making this census a complete success. No accurate figures are available at the present time as to the actual number of persons out of work or who are only partially employed.

This census, the purpose of which is to secure an actual picture of unemployment conditions in the United States, will be conducted by distribution of report cards to the 31,000,000 American homes on November 16 and 17. It is intended that the unemployed fill out these cards and return them to the local postmaster by midnight November 20.

This census has been found necessary in order to ascertain an accurate count of the unemployed; their geographical distribution; reasons for their unemployment; trades and workers most affected; and provide data for scientific approach to this national problem. Following completion of the census, the returns will be analyzed by the Bureau of the Census and the studies made available to congress and the president and executives of cities of 10,000 population and over.

For the information of the public we are listing here in concise form the qualifications of those persons who should register and those who are excluded from registration.

Those Who Should Register

1. All persons who are totally unemployed, able to work, and want work.
2. All persons who are partly employed, able to do more work, and want more work.
3. All persons working full time or part time on projects of WPA, NYA, and CCC, or other emergency work prjects which are supprted by public funds.

Those Excluded From Registration

1. Persons who are working full time for wages or commissions.
2. Persons who are working part time, and who do not want more work.
3. Persons on strike, unless actively seeking another job.
4. Persons sick or disabled, but who have a full time job to which they will return.
5. Persons who are on vacation from jobs to which they will return.
6. Administrative officers of projects supported by public funds.
7. Those totally disabled or unable to work because of chronic illness.
8. Persons who are retired from active business.
9. Young people excluded from work because of child labor laws.

Coosa River Waterway Plan To Be Given Consideration

State Consolidates Forces In The Promotion Of $39,000,000 Project. Waterway Will Run From Rome, Georgia, To Mobile Bay

PATROLMEN'S REPORT

Patrolmen Henley and Waites state to the motoring public that beginning Tuesday, November 16, they will wage an intensive campaign aganist drivers of motor vehicles without driver's licenses. The patrolmen warn that no matter who you may be, if you are stopped and asked to produce your driver's license and are unable to do so, a case will be made against you for driving without a license. They point out, particularly, that the driver of a motor vehicle must have his or her license at hand. If you forgot and left your license at home, the penalty is the same as if you had never bought it. The patrolmen expect to check on every driver of a motor vehicle as they can, and are serving this notice to save any drivers undue expense and embarassment, and ask that all drivers take notice, as you will certainly be asked to produce your license.

Arrests by the patrolmen for the past week were as follows:

Carriebe Armstrong, violating carrier law; fine and cost $10.50.

John Motley, driving while intoxicated; bond.

Joe Clethen, hit and run driver; bond.

Sam Powers, driving while intoxicated; bond.

Sam Gardner, no driver's license; fine and cost $16.50.

Jack Smith, speeding; fine and cost, $10.50.

J. M. Harbson, violating carrier law; fine and cost $10.50.

J. C. Moon, no flags and flares; fine and cost $11.50.

Special Temperance Resolutions Adopted

The attitude of the Chilton County Baptist Association representing 38 churches and a membership of more than 6,000;

We do hereby go on record against the present set-up legalizing intoxicating liquors, wines and beverages and its attitude toward candidates in the next year's primaries for the legislature. We cannot be misunderstood from the following resolutions adopted at this asser bly, and which has become a part of the report on Temperance:

BE IT RESOLVED, by the Chilton County Baptist Association in annual session assembled:

1. We deplore the legalization of liquor, beer, wines and other intoxicating beverages by the Legislature of Alabama;

2. That we are opposed to the present or any other set-up for the sale of alcoholic drinks and beverages:

3. That we will not support any candidate for the legislature who is not in favor of state-wide prohibition, all candidates for the legislature who do not openly declare themselves for state-wide prohibition we will not support. Further, we will not support any candidates who refuse to so commit themselves. They will be classed by us against state-wide prohibition.

4. That a copy of these resolutions be furnished by the clerk of the Association to each of our county papers, with a request to publish the same, and a copy to the Alabama Baptist, also a copy be furnished all candidates for the legislature in the primaries next year, with a request for each candidate's views on the question herein above set out.

5. That we call upon our sheriff and his deputies of our county to do all in their power to enforce the Temperance laws, gambling laws and violation of the laws of our Sabbath Day, and that a copy of these resolutions be furnished the Hon. J. R. Hardy, sheriff of Chilton County, by the Clerk of our Association.

SINGING AT FRIENDSHIP

There will be a singing at Friendship church Friday night of this week, November 12th, beginning at 7 o'clock. All singers are invited to come and bring new song books.—Jim Parrish.

ALL-DAY RALLY AT PATES CHAPEL

The Chilton County Farmers Union will have an all-day rally at Pates Chapel, Saturday, November 13th, beginning at 10 o'clock.

Our new State president has promised to be with us. Every farmer in the county and surrounding counties have a special invitation. Bring your lunch and come help us solve our problems.—Gresham Smith, Assistant Secretary.

MAYOR'S REPORT

Only two cases came up before Mayor C. Fenn Jones the first of this week. They were:

W. H. Cleckler, public drunkenness; fine and cost $8.25.

Alvin Parson, driving while intoxicated; continued to November 12.

Alabama consolidated forces Tuesday in promotion of the estimated $39,000,000 Coosa-Alabama waterway project which would furnish transportation between Mobile and Rome, Ga. The latest move to secure federal approval of the plan was made by Governor Bibb Graves who said several agencies had been asked to join in "the common cause" of the development campaign.

Orville Rush, formerly the chief executive's Washington representative, will act as "liasion officer to co-ordinate data and push things along," Graves said.

Counties May Aid

Chambers of commerce in Selma, Montgomery, Talladega, Anniston, Gadsden, and Rome also have been asked to lend their aid. Headquarters are to be opened by Rush at Birmingham to study reports of surveys and confer with engineers.

"Transportation," the governor said, "is fundamental in this day of mass production. You've got to be able to get to the markets. That's the thing."

Other agencies enlisted in the move included the state planning commission and the industrial development board. The University of Alabama's school of commerce will assist in obtaining data and studies of the proposed route, and a comparison of rail and water rates in the territory will be made by the public service commission.

ALABAMA COTTON REPORT AS OF NOVEMBER 1, 1937

An Alabama cotton crop of 1,520,000 bales is indicated in 1937 by the November 1 report of the Crop Reporting Board of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. This is an increase of 95,000 bales over the October 1 forecast and 375,000 bales over last year's production of 1,145,000 bales. Production for the state was: in 1935, 1,059,000 bales; in 1934, 952,245 bales; and for the 5-year 1928-32 period, 1,255,000 bales. In no year since 1914 has production exceeded that indicated for 1937.

The yield per acre for Alabama is indicated at 284 pounds of lint cotton which is the highest on record by 48 pounds. In 1936 the yield was 236 pounds, and the 10-year 1923-32 average was 172 pounds.

United States production of cotton is indicated at the record figure of 18,243,000 bales compared with 12,399,000 bales produced last year, and 14,667,000 bales the 5-year 1928-32 average. The previous record crop of 1926 was 17,977,374 bales. The indicated yield for the entire country of 258.8 pounds of lint cotton per acre is also the highest on record and compares with 197.6 pounds in 1936, 184.2 pounds in 1935, and the 10-year 1923 32 average of 169.9 pounds.

"Radio Cowboys" At Courthouse Sat. P. M.

The "Radio Cowboys" in person, presented by Hank Penny, will appear at the courthouse in Clanton on Saturday night, November 13th, at 7:30 o'clock. The troupe includes Sheldon Bennett, the ace fiddler of Texas, Louis Dumont, artist of the banjo, Carl Stewart, master of all instruments, Julian Akins, novelty singer. Regular artisis over WAPI.

They invite you to come and learn to play "King Bee" the latest in games. Admission 15c and 25c. Sponsored by Liberty Hill B. Y. P. U. for benefit of the church.

SOUTHERNAIRES WILL BE AT COLLINS CHAPEL

The Southernaires quartet from Birmingham will appear in concert at Collins Chapel school Friday night, November 12th, beginning at 7:30 o'clock. This appearance of the quartet is sponsored by the P.-T. A., and the public is urged to attend.

These boys have appeared in several concerts in the county, and every one knows they are really good. Be sure and hear them at Collins Chapel Friday night.

STAMPS-BAXTER HAPPY HITTERS AT JEMISON SATURDAY NIGHT

Hear the Stamps-Baxter Happy Hitters in musical concert at Jemison High School auditorium on Saturday night, November 13. An extraordinary program of sacred and comical music; a black-face comedian who is a scream. Come out and enjoy an evening of good, clean entertainment. If you don't feel better afterwards, see a doctor. Proceeds to go to Center Hill Church. Admission 15c and 25c.

MR. STEWART OFFERING SPECIALS AT HILL'S

Miss Ellis, Mr. Smith Wed In Beautiful Ceremony—

The marriage of Miss Mary Ellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Ellis of Clanton, to Mr. Raymond C. Smith, took place Tuesday afternoon, November 2, at the Baptist church in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends.

A scene of floral beauty was created. Radiance in the church was from myriads of burning tapers. Within the chancel there was a background of palms and Southern smilax. Three trellises entwined with smilax, and holding graduated tiers of burning tapers formed a pretty setting for huge floral baskets of white chrysanthemums, tied with white tulle.

Dr. Ezell, pastor, performed the ring ceremony.

The musical program was rendered, with Mrs. W. L. Longshore, violinist, and Miss Beverley Hester, accompanist. Miss Kathryn Foss of Thorsby sang "Devotion", by Schumann, followed by Mrs. Henry Stanley, who sang "I Love Thee" and "Silent Night."

The march from Lohengrin was processional, and for recession the march from Mendelssohn was played.

The ushers were Mr. Earl Ellis, Mr. Edwin Mullins, Dr. Jesse Sam Gowan, Dr. Charles Moore. The bridesmaids were Miss Marian Moody of Scottsboro, and Miss Viola Vail of Mobile; they wore gowns by Vionnet in shades of wine and rust velvet, with small hats of velvet and net, and carried bouquets of roses in contrasting colors.

Miss Mamie Middleton of Birmingham, niece of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a royal blue velvet gown similar to those of the bridesmaids, and her turban was of velvet and net. Her flowers were talisman roses.

Mrs. Cecil Smith of Lakeland, Fla., sister of the groom, was lovely in wine velvet, with a velvet hat and an off-the-face veil. Her flowers were an Ann bouquet of souvenir roses.

Little Betty Allis of Montgomery, niece of the bride, served as junior maid, and wore an old fashioned dress of coral taffeta. Her flowers were a miniature colonial bouquet.

The bride entered with her brother, Mr. Latham Ellis of Birmingham, by whom she wa given in marriage. Mr. Cecil Smith of Lakeland, Fla., was his brother's best man.

The bride was lovely in her wedding gown of ivory satin supreme. The gown was princess style, graduating into a long train. The half veil was worn over a halo, and her bouquet was of white roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

An informal reception at the home of the bride followed the ceremony. The rooms were in adornment of a profusion of flowers in shades of yellow and bronze The dining table was covered with a lace cloth, and centered with a 3-tier wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom. From the chandelier fell showers of white satin ribbon, tied with valley lilies and fern. White tapers burned on each side in crystal holders.

Miss Ellis possesses brilliant intellect and charm. She received her preparatory education at Huntingdon College, later taking her degree at Judson. She studied also at the University of Alabama, and the University of Chicago. Since leaving college she has been connected in this county and in Montgomery with welfare work.

The groom is one of the outstanding young attorneys of Clanton, having completed his law studies at the University of Alabama. He entered into partnership with his father, the late A. C. Smith, who before his death, was a leading attorney and counselor for the state.

After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Smith will be at home at 315 Pueblo, Beacon Hills, Lakeland, Fla.

The many friends of Dr. and Mrs. John Kimmey and children regret to know that they will leave next Monday to make their home in Anniston, where Dr. Kimmey will be county health officer for that county.

Mr. and Mrs. Parr and family were in Clanton several days this week.

STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

Montgomery, Nov. 8.—"Preventable disease of various kinds impose upon the American people an annual economic loss estimated at more than three billion dollars, or approximately twice the value of all taxable property in Alabama in 1936," Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, said today in urging the people of the State to check these illnesses in their early stages by means of periodic health examinations.

"It is probably too much to hope that the conquest of preventable diseases is likely soon to be so complete that this huge economic waste will be reduced more than fractionally within the next few years," he added. "However, a reduction of only ten per cent would result in a saving, on the basis of this estimate, which was made by the Committee on Elimination of Waste in Industry, of about 300 million dollars a year. It is generally agreed among health workers that a wider recognition of the wisdom of periodic health examinations offers one of the most effective means of reducing this huge economic waste and the tragic human waste that cannot be expressed in dollars and cents."

All toll bridges in Alabama have been made free and there are now only a few ferries being operated on State Roads.

Fifteen toll bridges were constructed in this State, under an Act of the Legislature passed in 1927. These bridges took the place of ferries on important State Roads. Under an Act of the Legislature passed in 1935 the tills frim these bridges were lifted.

Through an Act of Congress the State in being re-imbursed for one half the amount of the cost of construction of these bridges, that are located on Federal Aid Roads. The balance of the indebtedness on these bridges is being retired from funds received from the gasoline tax.

Another toll bridge that was not included in the original Act was the Cochrane Bridge across Mobile Bay. This was built with private funds and was recently acquired by the State, the indebtedness againct it being retired in the same manner as the indebtedness against the other toll bridges.

This removes the tolls from the last of the highway bridges in Alabama.

University News

University, Ala., Nov. 8.—With approximately 200 out-of-town students representing nine Alabama colleges attending the 15th annual state Baptist Student convention was held at the University last week. Including a series of religious services and addresses, the program extended from Friday night through Sunday afternoon.

The colleges represented besides the University were: Alabama college, Auburn, Huntingdon, Judson and Howard colleges, Jacksonville, Florence, Troy and Livingston State teachers colleges.

A student talent parade, with delegates from all the schools represented participating, was presented Saturday night, under the direction of C. DeWitt Matthews, Baptist Student Secretary at the University. A playlet, "Master's Minority," was presented by the Alabama college B. S. U., Saturday night also.

With Fletcher Sims and "Dutch" Kenemann, both backs, leading the Tech ground-gaining department, the Atlanta aggregation boasts the most dazzling offensive system in the South.

Glenn Cushing, takle, and Bill Jordan, end, are the bulwarks of the Tech forewall. Jordan has been receiving wide recognition as one of the best wingmen in the Southeastern conference this season.

Although he uses but one hand, and his left one at that, Jack Fondley of Oneonta, has been called the ideal typing student by his instructor, Sidney Collins, typing instructor, told his class in secretarial studies recently that Fondly's touch was excellent.

Commenting on the neatness of the Oneontax boy's type-written copy, the instructor stated that he was the ideal typing student. Fondley was one of four students in his class who made an "A" grade in the preliminary exams. After only six weeks of practice, he can type approximately 20 words a minute.

GIRL'S 4-H CLUB AT COOPER

On October 15th, the 4-H club of Cooper school met. We elected our new officers while Miss Grace acted as chairman. The following officers were elected: president, Lola Grant; vice-president, Ruth Vinson; secretary, Avolene Taylor; treasurer, Mildred Todd; leaders: Mary Cooper, Sarah Mae McSwain, Jane Robinson, Vera Mae Nelson; reporter, Blanche Taylor.

We enrolled old and new members.

SINGING AT SHILOH

There will be a singing at Shiloh church, next Sunday afternoon, November 14th, beginning at 2 o'clock. Everybody is invited. Bring your new song books and let's have a real good singing.

C. C. CRUMPTON

Mr. Columbus Crumpton, one of our most outstanding citizens is gone. He was born and raised at Macedonia in West Chilton, was baptized by Elder R. M. Honeycutt about 1873, was married about 1875 to Miss Sallie F. Smitherman. Mr. Crumption was a good man, a good neighbor. He lived to a ripe old age. It is sad to think of his passing after having known him intimately so long.

We regard him as an earnest Christian. In his latter years the light of present truth shined into his heart and life, giving hope and cheer in his last days; enabling him to see the eternal future joyfully, as he saw the out working of the plan of the ages.

We entertain a cheery hope for Mr. Crumpton that eternal life awaits him in the sweet beyond.

We extend our sympathy to his bereaved loved ones.

POPLAR SPRINGS

Sunday school and B. Y. P. U., were well attended Sunday and Sunday night. Several new members were added to our Sunday school Sunday morning. The school was graded and new teachers elected for the new classes.

The subject for B. Y. P. U. was teamwork, and was thoroughly discussed. The subject for next Sunday night is "Paul, Attorney for the Defense." This should be very interesting, as we have some good material to study from.

Don't forget that the third Saturday and Sunday are our regular preaching days, and everybody is invited. On the third Sunday night we will have a special service and the community is especially invited to attend.

We are very sorry to know that Mrs. Raymond Cox is in a Montgomery hospital. We hope for her a speedy recovery.

Several met at the church Monday afternoon and really did a fine job of cleaning.

The Home Demonstration Club held a fine meeting with Mrs. Reedie Patterson. It does people good to get together in a good community club and get some community spirit.

Don't forget to go to Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. somewhere next Sunday. If you are not a regular attendant somewhere, come and join us. You will always be welcome.

Lesson for November 14

THE CHRISTIAN MINISTER

LESSON TEXT—I Timothy 4:6-16; II Timothy 2:1-4.

GOLDEN TEXT—Neglect not the gift that is in thee.—I Timothy 4:14.

PRIMARY TOPIC—Two Brave Preachers.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Two Brave Preachers.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Why and How Ministers Are Trained.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Christian Minister in the Modern World.

"The Christian Minister"—there is no greater calling among men, but none is more often the target for misrepresentation and abuse by those outside, and all too often the victim of the carelessness, weakness, and sin of those within its own circle. On the other hand it has had, and continues to have to this day, within its ranks such a noble army of faithful and sacrificial men as would probably be impossible to duplicate in any other calling.

The study of today's lesson should arouse in the hearts of Christian peop'e a high regard for the ministry as a calling, and a kindly purpose to aid their minister to live up to its glorious possibilities. Every true minister who studies it will find his spirit humbled before God in thanksgiving for the privilege of service, and in prayer that he may be forgiven for his failures and empowered for the work of the future.

The need for such a study is indicated in the verses just preceding our lesson, namely, I Timothy 4:1-5, where we read of the express warning of the Spirit of God that in the latter times there should be teaching and preaching which departed from the faith, substituting men's wisdom for God's Word. One who looks around him cannot but feel that we have fallen upon that evil day.

I. What to Preach (I Tim. 4:6-9). The "good minister of Jesus Christ" preaches the words of God. To do this he must himself be "nourished" by them. Spare your preacher the necessity of running errands, serving on boards and committees, and encourage him to study his Bible.

Preacher, are you studying God's Book, learning and teaching "good doctrine"? If so you will have no interest in or time for "profane and old wives fables."

II. How to Preach (I Tim. 4:10-12).

1. Sacrificially (v. 10). The man who regards the ministry as a nice, easy, respectable occupation is not in the same calling as was the apostle Paul. In fact, there is nothing to indicate that he is in the Christian ministry at all, for in that calling there is labor and suffering of reproach. This is not something to be borne in a spirit of resigned submission. The minister knows and "trusts in the living God," and gladly bears every responsibility with which God may entrust him.

2. Authoritatively (v. 11). The minister of Christ speaks for God. In doing so he teaches with assurance and is to "command" men in the Lord's name. All too often the servants of the Lord feel and act like "grasshoppers" (see Numbers 13:33), and everybody else regards them as feeble and impotent, when they should be "strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus" (II Tim. 2:1).

3. Actively (v. 12). Whether young or old, the minister is to be an example, a pattern in his active daily life. Note how discriminating is the scripture. He is to be a pattern for others in speech, manner of living, in love, in spirit, in faith, and in purity of life.

III. Who Is to Preach (I Tim. 4:13-16).

1. The man who is divinely called (v. 14). God called Timothy; men recognized that call and ordained him to give his life to the exercise of his God-presented gift. This is the right order for our day.

2. The man who is properly prepared (vv. 13, 15-16). The ministry calls for the best preparation that a man can possibly obtain. He must know how to read God's Word, both publicly and privately. He is to be skilled in exhortation, and in teaching Christian doctrine.

In conclusion, let us consider the portion from II Timothy 2 which properly presents the work of the minister as that of a soldier at war against the world, the flesh, and the devil. He must be prepared to bear hardness, and he must not yield to the temptation to get into "sidelines," no matter how dignified and profitable they may be. His sole business is to serve and to please God.

What Education Means

The real object of education is to give children resources that will endure as long as life endures; habits that time will ameliorate, not destroy; occupation that will render sickness tolerable. solitude pleasant, age venerable, life more dignified and useful, and death less terrible.—Sydney Smith.

WEST CHILTON

About the best thing we could say would be to approve of what "The man in the moon" said last week.

There is no need for present political divisions in the Republican party in this county. Why should we keep them? We all know the difference between our present situation and what we had a few years ago. Conditions now are going true to form, just as we expected after noting the trend of things from the days of Grover Cleveland until now. Do we wish to keep the present condition indefinitely? We think not. Then through the power of unoin it can be changed. Divisions and factions are no good. One faction can not win without the assistance of the other. Then union and self secrifice should be our battle cry.

"The man in the moon" spoke of party leaders. We modestly suggest the name of Hon. W. A. Reynolds for that place. No one has inspired this suggestion, just our judgement only, that is all.

MT CARMEL

Bro. Nix filled his regular appointment Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night. All of the services were well attended.

There were 15 visitors at Sunday school, and we are always happy to have visitors.

The Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Watley were: Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Sewell, Mrs. S. C. Sewell, Gladys and Perry Oden, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas, of Cedar Grove; and two of the Pates Chapel girls.

Mr. and Mrs. Silas Oden were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lum Scott.

We are sorry to report that Miss Eula Sanders is not improving very much. She underwent a minor operation last Friday, but it seems that another one will be necessary.

Mrs. Sid Higgins is on the sick list this week.

Bro. Nix and wife were the dinner guests of Mr. Tom Foshee last Sunday.

Mrs. Ida Warren, Mrs. Gladys Anthony, of Potters, and a daughter of Mrs. Warren's, who lives in Gainsville, Fla., visited the Sanders family Sunday afternoon.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

This is being written in New York City where the writer is making Gospel transcriptions for radio broadcasting. A large number of broadcasting stations will run a 15-minute Gospel message a week during 1938. For many years I have been engaged in evangelistic work and I do most of my thinking on my feet and practically all of my messages are given extemporaneously. I have always considered it a serious responsibility to deal with immortal souls, and that is what a preacher of the Gospel does. The Gospel is the power of God unto salvation. Somehow I have never taken my ministry as seriously as I do when I go into the studio and speak into a microphone which carries my message into the recording room and there the record of every utterance is recorded and can be preserved forever. Suppose I should miss the truth, say the wrong thing, and then die and go to heaven and find out that I had left a message on earth that I might lead some one away from the real truth about Jesus Chirst. I have devoutly prayed that God would help me, and I have tried in every message to be loyal to Jesus Christ my Lord Who has done so much for me.

"I think Jesus was just a man like other men," a gentleman told the writer one time. "You can't think that. Even if you think He was a man, you can't think He was a man like other men," I replied. There has never been but one Jesus Christ. When we think of great men we think of them in comparison with other men. But when we thing of Jesus there is no one with whom to compare Him. He claimed for Himself what no other ever dared to claim. "I am the Light or the World;" "I am the Resurrection and the Life;" "I am the Way, the Truth and the Life;" "No man cometh unto the Father except by Me;" He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father;" "No man taketh My Life from Me. I lay it down of Myself. I have power to lay it down and I have power to take it again." These are just a few of the things Jesus said about Himself. Only God or a madman could have uttered such words. No wonder the people said, "Never man spake as this man." I have had many doubts in my life, but the older I get and the more I think about Jesus Christ, the more certain I am that He is the Son of God. I feel perfectly safe to trust Him as my personal Savior Who bore my sin in His body on the cross. With His stripes I am healed.

PLEASANT HILL

Our Sunday school was better last Sunday; not so many absent. But come on, folks, and let's make it a perfect attendance. Let each member consider that he has part in church and be present next Sunday.

Next Sunday afternoon is our regular singing date, and we invite other communities to come and be with us.

Our preaching dates have been changed to the third Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night.—Reporter.

MRS. H. L. RATLIFF WRITES

Editor Union-Banner:

I wish to thank you for the prize received from you in the campaign, and to you, dear friends, who so generously subscribed to The Union-Banner with me. I will never forget you, for it meant so much to me.

I enjoyed the work until the last day, when I found out our campaign manager had failed to carry out his promises, and I had lost first prize, which I had worked so hard for.

I wish to thank the judges for their fairness in counting the votes. To you, dear friends, who asked me so many times how many papers I had sold: I turned in $410—eleven 5 year subscriptions and 365 one-year subscriptions. I will never forget you, my friends. My heart almost failed me a few times, when I knew some of you gave me your last dollar. If I can ever help you in any way, let me know. —Mrs. H. L. Ratliff.

Production of commercial truck crops in 1938 is expected by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics to equal or slightly exceed the record volume of 1937 if yields are about average in 1938.

JOHN W. CARROLL DIED

John W. Carroll, age about 65 years, died at his home one and one-half miles south of Coopers Wednesday night of last week. Burial was at Mt. Hebron in Elmore county Friday. Rev. J. A. Raines conducted the services; Martin & Sons in charge.

Pallbearers were: E. B., A. L., T. B., W. C. and I. E. Carroll, and E. V. Dozier.

Surviving are the wife, one daughter, four sons and 13 grandchildren.

MT. PLEASANT CLUB

The Mt. Pleasant Home demonstration Club met Tuesday, November 2, at the home of Mrs. Emmett Reid

We discussed plans for moving the club to the Mt. Pleasant community and adding the names of a large number of the Mt. Pleasant ladies to our roll. We would like to have the cooperation of the old members as well as the prospective new ones in this endeavor.

We, the old members, wish to extend a very cordial welcome to each lady of the community to our club. We hope to see every one out for the next meeting, which will be at the home of Mrs. Roy Wilson on Tuesday, December 7, at 2 o'clock. At this time we will have a demonstration on "Foods and Nutritions" and Economical Buying." A short play, "Neighbors at the Grocery Store," will be given by three of the members.

THE MIDWAY-MT. CREEK HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB

The Mid-way-Mt. Creek Home Demonstration Club met at the club house Friday, October 29, with five members and two visitors present. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. S. R. Hudson. Conducting devotional was followed by roll call and reading of minutes of the previous meeting by the secretary. This finished, Mrs. Cooper discussed the kind and amount of food per person for one year. Miss Grace read some real interesting articles on "Cheerfulness", which were greatly enjoyed by all present.

Our next meeting will be on November 17, at the club house.

TROY TEACHERS COLLEGE

About 450 new books have recently been ordered for the Troy State Teachers College Library. Many of the volumes have already arrived and been placed in the open shelf section where students may come in direct contact with them.

Dr. Sarah M. Sturtevant, head of the Department of Student Personnel Administration at Teachers College, Columbia, visited Troy State Teachers College October 30-31. Dr. Sturtevant is on a trip to southern colleges and universities, including the University of Alabama, Birmingham-Southern and Judson.

Play Day

Play Day at Troy State Teachers College was attended Saturday, October 30, by about 200 girls from 14 high schools in District 2. Miss Laureson Forrester director of women's physical education, was in charge. Schools that sent revresentatives are as follows: Geargiana, Troy, Spring Hill, Glenwood, Ozark, Luverne, Dothan, Cottonwood, Highland Hime, Dozier, Blue Springs, Goshen, Brundidge, and Daleville.

About 50 boys from eight high schools in District two attended the first Sports Day at Troy State Teachers College. Professor Curren A. Farner, director Men's physical education, was in charge.

NOT WHEN GENUINE BAYER ASPIRIN EASES HEADACHE IN A FEW MINUTES

The inexpensive way to ease headaches — if you want fast results— is with Bayer Aspirin.

The instant the pain starts, simply take 2 Bayer tablets with a half glass of water. Usually in a few minutes relief arrives.

Bayer tablets are quick-acting because they disintegrate in a few seconds — ready to start their work of relief almost immediately after taking.

It costs only 2¢ or 3¢ to relieve most headaches — when you get the new economy tin. You pay only 25 cents for 24 tablets — about 1¢ apiece.

Make sure to get the genuine by insisting on Bayer Aspirin.

DOCTOR OFFERS RULES FOR AVOIDING COLDS

"Common Colds Most Prevalent In Late Autumn," Says Dr. Fraser

With the annual high point in the number of common colds occuring regularly in the late fall season, Dr. Robert A. Fraser, Chief Medical Director of the New York Life Insurance Company, offers ten rules that will help men, women and children avoid this widespread malady. They are:

1. Get plenty of sleep, fresh air and sunshine.
2. Eat all the nourshing food you need, but avoid overeating.
3. Dress sensibly and with regard to the climate.
4. If you get wet, change to dry clothing as soon as possible.
5. Breathe through your nose, not your mouth.
6. "Cleanliness is next to Godliness." Bathe daily.
7. Avoid constipation.
8. Get outdoor exercise every day. Long walks are excellent.
9. Avoid sudden changes of temperature.
10. Keep away from people who have colds.

"It goes without saying," Dr. Fraser adds, "that those with colds must use handkerchiefs when sneezing, coughing or expectorating, to avoid infecting others.

VACCINOL

Not Only Kills the Termites But Prevents New Infestation

Vaccinol's highly penetrating qualities insure thorough impregnation of every piece of wood treated.

Vaccinol fumes mean quick death to termites.

Destructive fungi, as well as termites, are destroyed and prevented by Vaccinol, preserving wood against warping and decay. Timbers are frequently treated by Vaccinol, as a seasoning and preserving precaution, before the building is erected.

Have the Vaccinol representative estimate your house for anti-termite treatment immediately. This inspection will be made without cost or obligation. It is the BEST insurance you can have.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Our Sunday school was fine in every way and in every department last Sunday, Some members must be, and we hope every member is, doing some mighty good work for the Sunday school. We hope each one will continue his and her good work and help our Sunday school to thrive continuously.

Attendance at church was fine too. We trust all will be back next Sunday with others. We are promised comfort next Sunday in the church, however cold the weather on the outside may be, because plenty of coal has been purchased this week for the church.

Remember that conference meets next week and we should surely hear our pastor next Sunday. Let's give him a record attendance at both preaching services, 11 a. m., and 6:30 p. m., and thereby hear another of Dr. Truett's good, spiritual sermons, and also in that way tell him we appreciate his efforts throughout the year.

If you aren't a regular attendant, begin next Sunday to attend each church service regularly. You will enjoy them.

BURIED AT BIG SPRINGS

J. R. Smith, age 87, passed away at his home on Billingsley Route 2 Tuesday of this week. Funeral services were held at Big Springs Wednesday at 1 p. m., with Rev. G. G. Williams officiating. Spigener in charge.

Surviving are two sons, one daughter—J. F. Smith, A. P. Smith and Mrs. H. C. Jackson, all of Billingsley.

NATIONAL AUTOMOBILE SHOW

In response to inquiries for a statement in connection with the National Automobile Show, Walter P. Chrysler, Chairman of the Board of Chrysler Corporation, has authorized the following:

"Looked at from almost any angle, the contribution which the automobile industry has made and is making to the social and economic welfare of our country is nothing short of remarkable. Every year, through the National Automobile Show, the industry gives renewed assurance of its extraordinary vitality, its constant search for improvement, no matter what conditions it has to meet.

"Some years ago, it will be recalled, there was a notion prevalent that the automobile industry was nearing, if it had not already reached, a so-called saturation point. Actually we seem to be farther away from it now than we were then. Recently there has been another notion equally unfounded, that the industry has passed its peak of spectacular advance and could be expected to settle down to the level of progress of older established industries. It was throught that automobile engineers had produced about as good a car or truck as could be built. Yet in the new models built for 1938, engineering improvement has again produced still higher standards of motor car value.

"Engineering and engineering research have always been the heart of Chrysler Corporation's product development, as they must be in any progressive organization. Through its research, activities, new ideas are infused each year into cars and trucks which are readily recognizable for their improvement over their predecessors. This has been the history of the Corporation's engineering achievements ever since it began. It is a matter of considerable pride and satisfaction that these achievements have been recognized by adoption in some form or other by the rest of the industry, as well as by increased sales of the Corporation's products to the public.

"I believe this industry is still a young industry. I believe also that notwithstanding its years, it will remain a young industry and that the public, which has been the beneficiary of automobile accomplishments, will continue to profit by the industry's search for automobile perfection and economy of operation as long as the spirit of competitive progress continues to inspire its engineers, its manufacturers, its dealers and salesmen, as it has always inspired them in the past."

CENTER HILL

Everybody in this community is still busy, trying to finish gathering.

A goodly number of young people surprised Miss Berney Dean Cobb Saturday night with a party. A large number were present, including visitors from Birmingham, Columbiana and Calera.

Little Janice Cobb, who was ill the latter part of last week, is improving.

Mrs. Loyd Cobb and daughter, Peggy, spent two days last week in Montgomery.

Some of our people attended singing at Oak Grove last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Price spent last Friday night with their daughter, Mrs. Simon Carden, in Dry Valley. Mrs. Carden is the proud mother of twins, whom she has named Horis and Doris.

Everybody remember next Sunday is our regular preaching day, and be on time for Sunday school at 10 o'clock. We have let our Sunday school go down for the past month, but now is the time to build it back up. It is your duty to be there and take your part. Let's let our superintendent know we appreciate her efforts in trying to carry on despite our negligence.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Gillespie spent last Tuesday night with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb.

Mr. Doyle Gay and Miss Nannie Barrett were quietly married at the home of Mr. J. B. Price last Saturday afternoon.

Messrs. Sam Brasher of Columbiana, and Hoyt Freeman spent Saturday night with Leo Collum.

As you will find announced elsewhere in this paper, the Stamps-Baxter Happy Hitters will be at Jemison High School auditorium Saturday night, sponsored by the Center Hill church, in behalf of their piano fund. Come, one and all, and hear the good music, and get a good laugh from their comedian.

Mr. and Mrs. Comer Lenoir and daughter, Louise, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Ed Lenoir of East Jemison.

WHAT PROSPERITY IS LIKE WITH SOME FARMERS

Prosperity is like a gourd vine
With little gourds growing fine,
But the bears and bulls got out
And scattered the vines all about;
And before the vines got rotten,
They fixed the price on cotton;
And as the bears did not have a horn
They fixed the price on wheat and corn.

The poor farmer went out of his house
And saw a cat playing with a mouse.
Well, the bears are playing with me,
And singing the song, "The farmers are free."
Roosevelt must have thought he could put the bears to sleep,
And said, "Cotton is entirely too cheap,
I'll start up a real New Deal,
So people will not starve, nor have to steal;
I'll make the rich pay the bill,
And pull the poor to the top of the hill".

It seems the New Deal is on the decline
And leaving us with a torn up gourd vine.
The sun beat upon Jonah's head,
After a gourd vine was dead.
Just read the fourth chapter of II Kings,
About the wild vines and other things;
And they said their death in the pot,
For the wild gourds made things bitter and hot.
Many who have cotton too short in lint
Will hardly be able to pay their rent;
They may go to county and state fairs,
But they are sure not climbing up the stairs.

If your cotton is graded below middling
You just as well get out and be fiddling,
If you wish to make a 10-cent loan,
You will pay expense on cotton you own;
For the 9-cent loan is like a dragnet,
And likely to put you deeper in debt.
Many people cannot buy what they need,
Because there is too much graft and greed.
Prosperity has gone to see a game of ball,
And may not be back until next fall;
And then stop in Birmingham
And have a long chat with Uncle Sam,
About the high Supreme Court,
And of Hugo Black's report.

—Retired Farmer.

HIGHLIGHTS OF E. J. H. S.

The Enterprise 4-H Club girls met with Miss Grace last Friday for the second meeting this year. Since Miss Grace came a week early, we didn't have a program but our president and Miss Grace discussed with us some of the conditions of our club.

Since each girl is working for a certificate this year, we made some rules to follow regarding the order at each meeting which will also be counted on the certificate. We elected five girls to serve on the commissionary board. They were: Annie Mullins, Beaulah Mims, Vera Rushing, Lela Logan and Freddie Cox. Those girls are going to do their best to help everyone else carry out this plan and to keep the following rules:

1. Each officer should perform her duty as required.

2. Each club member should serve on program when asked.

3. Each girl who disturbs her club in any way shall have a point against her record.

4. Each girl must get permission from the president before speaking.

5. No girl shall discuss anything except club work during meetings.

6. Each girl shall talk loud and not whisper.

After making our rules Miss Grace discussed a school lunch, then gave us our text book on foods, which is going to be our major project, and also our second issue of the club paper which everyone enjoys reading.

Sport News

The basket ball boys are getting the spirit of real basket ball now, and it isn't long until the season opens and we hope they will be the top team in the county this year. They have already played some of the teams just for practice. The scores of the games were: Thorsby 9, Enterprise 24; Thorsby 7, Enterprise 25; Collins Chapel 7, Enterprise 29.

Our boys wil go to Collins Chapel to play next Friday afternoon.

The girls also have the spirit of good baset ball playing. They have their suits and are doing some good practice work. They hope to play some interesting games this season. The line-up of the girls are: centers, Mitcheline Mims, Freddie Cox; forwards, Inez Williams, Mary Pearl Griffin; guards, Clydie Ruth Collins, Lucille Baker.

There will be special meeting of the Ladies Guild on Friday afternoon, November 12, at 2:30 p.m.

Mrs. Camilla Foss, who was with us last winter, arrived from Chicago on Thursday evening to spend the winter here.

Mr. and Mrs. Drake arrived from Chicago Thursday morning for a visit with Mr. Drake's sister, Mrs. Charles Lucas.

Miss Marguerite Davison arrived on November 9.

Mr. C. A. Peterson is still very sick.

The Foss family is moving from Thorsby to Clanton. They expect to move next week. We certainly shall miss them, as they are old settlers, and seem a part of Thorsby.

Mrs. C. M. Jones is here for an extended visit with her son, Mr. J. L. Mixson, and his family.

The contract has been signed for the building of a new outer wall on the dining hall. This wall will be of red brick. Work begins this week.

Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Butler spent the week end in Montgomery with Mr. Clarence Butler and family.

There will be regular services next Sunday, both morning and evening, at the Baptist church. Everyone invited.

The Baptist social will be held on Thursday of this week, November 11, at 2 p.m., at the home of Mrs. Luncy Martin.

Thorsby Institute News

Rev. George Luther of De Tour, Mich., who is an uncle of Miss Charlotte Luther, librarian, gave an interesting talk at chapel on Monday, bringing out the thought that God is in nature, and the wonderful things He has created are all about us. He is staying in Thorsby at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Johnson.

Saturday night at 7:30 in the Institute auditorium the four classes of the Institute are to put on various stunts. Everyone is invited to come. Admission is 10 cents.

The officers of the Christian Life Conference are Ouida Wright, chairman; Carl Foss, Treasurer; and Martha Green, secretary. The Conference will begin on Friday night, November 26, and last through Sunday night, November 28. Young people are especially invited. The registration fee will be 50c, payable in cash or provisions.

Among the many very interesting books of fiction in our library is one which is proving especially popular, "The Dear Pretender", by Alice Ross Colver. Here Miss Colver has written humanly and sympathetically of a young woman who faced difficulties bravely and with gay pretense, and ultimately found romance in the home of her employer.

Another interesting novel is "K", by Mary Roberts Rinehart. It tells of a doctor who wins back confidence in himself, and of a girl who finds herself and him.

"Life Begins At Forty", by Walter B. Pitkin, is a famous book which has dispelled doubt and brought a vital, dynamic philosophy to thousands of men and women who dreaded "middle age". Here in simple language is a practical way to achieve a richer, happier and more useful life.

Christian Endeavor News

The Christian Endeavor Society held its regular weekly meeting on Sunday at 6:30 p.m., in the Fellowship Room of the Congregational church. The program topic was "Be Grateful". Frances Woods was leader. The following took part: Anita Fretwell, Ouida Wright, Kathleen Petty, Ella Mae Dixon, Ruby Leigh Wilkes, Oleita Nowell. Special music was given by Inez Duke and Louise Clark. Ouida Wright gave an interesting talk on the Fifth District Conference held recently at Blackwoods church in southern Alabama. Sarah Nell Collins was selected delegate to the Congregational State Conference to be held in Pilgrim Congregational Church, Birmingham, November 9-11.

SELMA WINS OVER CLANTON

The Tigers lost a hard fought game to Selma last Friday night. The Tigers should have no regrets for loseing this game because they were out classed and hardly had a chance of scoring. With the odds against them they did not give up, they had the Tiger spirit with them to the end, and fought all the way through the game.

The Tigers made their touch down by hard work and lots of it. Tall boy Littlejohn found that he had again went over for the only score of the game. Little Snowy Melton played a very good game, in that jumping way of his he got away for some nice long runs. Matt Ware, the new discovery, also played a good game; in fact, the team as a whole played a good game.

Tigers Go To Holtville

The Tigers go to Holtville next Friday to play one of the most outstanding games of the season. This Holtville gang has beaten the Tigers back in the past, but don't be surprized if the Tigers come out on top, anyway that is what to expect.

Guess Who For Girls

She is a medium in height, and between a blond and brunette, and she is known as a cat-snatcher. She is in the senior class.

Guess Who For Boys

He is slim and tall, and he has a flock of nice names. For instance, Sheriff and Longshore. They say he sings as well as plays the piano and violin.

Mr. Henning In Chapel

Mr. Henning, of Montevallo, was with us last Monday morning, telling us some of the facts of speech. He gave us several demontrations of defective speech, and how to correct these faults.

Show Coming Soon

The Senior II Class is sponsoring a "Marionette Show", to be presented at the high school anditorium November 24, at 1:30 o'clock.

Everybody has an invitation to attend. Following the show will be a football game. Everybody come.

Senior II Paper

The Senior II paper is coming along fine and with a little co-operation they should make a big success. The first issue of the paper came out last Friday morning, and every one seemed to be very interested in it; we hope the interest will grow with the paper.

They are having a contest, trying to get a name for the paper. If you have a suggestion we would appreciate you telling us.

Night Classes Organized

The night classes have been organized and are making much progress. These classes are for the purpose of helping the people of the town get a little better prepared for their work.

Two of the classes met last Wednesday afternoon. These classes of shop arithmetic for various crafts and show card printing.

There is a possibility of more classes being organized if there is enough demand for any certain kind of training.

There is also a colored class being taught at the mill village.

Visitor In Chapel

We were very glad to have with us last Friday morning, Mr. Spearman. He gave us a very interesting talk on vocational guidance. He has had much experience in this line of work, and he gave us some very good points about training for our work in life.

ALABAMA ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

The executive committee of the Anti-Saloon League of America, meeting in Columbus, Ohio, October 21, 1937, made the following statement:

Any system of liquor control, to be considered successful, must reduce progressively the demand for and the consumption of alcoholic beverages. Judged by that standard, every present day system, by whatever name it may be called, is a failure. Since repeal was consumated, the demand for and consumption of alcoholic beverages has increased at an alarming rate.

For the year ending June 30, 1937, the consumption of distilled spirits increased approximately 25 per cent over the preceeding year. While the increase in the sonsumption of malt liquors was not so great, yet the people of the country consumed over 12 gallons of malt liquors per capita. This tremendous increase in the consumption of alcoholic beverages is contrary to sound public policy, and against the public interest. Hence the wise citizen and faithful official will seek diligently to learn how to stem this liquor flood, and avert a national calamity.

When, as a nation, we come to look for a reason for this dangerous situation, we find certain facts.

First, there is wide-spread and deplorable ignorance on the part of men and women as to the effects of alcohol on mind and body. Today, as at no time in the last 25 years, it can be said—This "peaple perish for lack of knowledge." As we face this situation, we demand an immediate and nation-wide campaign of education for total abstinence.

We urge that our public schools once again become the instrument of alcohol education. In nearly every state this teaching is required by the Education Law, but owing to indifferences or worse, thes provisions of the Education Law are not generally observed. As a result, our boys and girls are not prepared to face the present day pressure of the alcoholic beverage industry.

Second: Liquor Advertising. We rejoice in the confirmation by Walter Lippman of the historic position of the League. He says:

"The liquor industry differs from other industries in that its commercial expansion it not in the public interest."

Here, in a few words, is summed up the case against liquor advertising.

Because of the nature, volume and object of liquor advertising, we demand its immediate and complete prohibition.

Much of the liquor advertising is misleading, to say the least. It makes claims for alcoholic beverages which are contrary to all the findings of modern science.

Its assertion that it wants no money that ought to be spent for bread, must be taken with more than several grains of salt. Its avowed object of making liquor attractive to youth must be viewed with severe disapproval.

Its continued assaults upon American womanhood is shot through with danger for the race.

Because of all this, we heartily endorse the Capper-Culkins Bills, and urge upon our State Leagues the importance of their enthusiastic support. We insist that the Congress cannot serve the public interest unless it gives favorable consideration to these bills.

The slaughter of the innocents by drunken drivers is the daily tradedy of the common life of every community. The blood of these slain cries aloud to the whole nation to put an end to this awful slaughter.

According to the National Safety Council, the number of fatal highway accidents caused by drunken drivers has greatly increased during the present year. Since both State Legislatures and the National Congress have the Constitutional rigat or authority to prohibit the use of alcoholic beverages, we request our legislature committee to have prepared and introduced legislation prohibiting the granting of a driver's license to any drinker of alcoholic beverages.

MOUNTING COSTS

The cost to the government of regulating agriculture is mounting. During the first year of the soil conservation program, benefit payments aggregated some $500,000,000. This year a similar sum is to be paid out, while in addition the cotton subsidy payment will involve about $180,000,000. This is aside from any sums that may be lost in connection with loans offered to cotton growers and possible similar advances to corn farmers.

This costly program, it is now clear, is not yielding the desired result in the form of production control and price stability. Hence, it is not surprising to see the administration officials turn their thoughts from a voluntary program of the kind now in effect to compulsory restriction of output. Thus, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace last week urged the public to debate whether voluntary production control induced through conservation and adjustment payments, or compulsory control of production, supplemented by relatively high loans to growers, was the more desirable. President Roosevelt hinted in his Chicago address that a constitutional control program may be worked out through substituting promises to farmers for the old compulsory AAA contracts. Such promises probably would involve liberal loan offers under an ever normal granary plan.

If present policies are continued, the cost of farm control threatens to become a major obstacle in the way of the avowed intention of the government to balance the budget for the next fiscal year. Hence, we may well witness, in the prospective new agriculture legislation, not only renewed resort to processing taxes if these can be worked out on a constitutional basis, but also a shift in emphasis from voluntary to compulsory crop curtailment.—New York Journal of Commerce.

We read in a dispatch from Europe the other day that Hitler was preparing a program for peace. If he does that we are willing to believe even that our budget will be balanced.

MAKES NO IMPRESSION

A first rate example showing why Washington assurances of a balanced budget and no new taxes make less and less impression as they recur is Secretary of Agroculture Wallace's sketch of the way in which he and others propose that the new crop quantity and price control system shall work.

It was revealed just the other day that at the present rate of outgo and income, the federal government is going to run more than two-thirds of a billion dollars short by the end of the fiscal year. In his summation, Mr. Roosevelt singled out the congress for blame, noting that it voted expenditures in excess of the administration's program. Yet on top of that, an additional administration program is sketched with the bland admission that it will cost about $200,000,000 more than the system now functioning, in its fsahion. Some observers raise the estimate of additional cost to half a billion.

It is explained that the additional expense would not throw budgeting farther out of balance, because resort would be had to comething like the processing taxes. The sad public and legal reputation of those seems to have been all too soon forgotten. But the point is that budget balancing, insofar as it impresses the administration at all, does not seem to have anything to do with lessening the load of taxation on the people.

They seem to think that it would be sufficient, if possible, to increase taxes—Mr. Wallace says that "human ingenuity" can meet the situation—to the point where they will cover any and all spending. They do not think of budget balancing in the sense of restricting spending to the point where even the present largest tax exaction in the history of the country will cover it.—New Haven Register.

MAN IN THE MOON

ADVERTISER "STRATEGY"

The Montgomery Advertiser is generally credited with being smart, politically, but at times the best of the boys make a slip which they wish could be recalled. Now The Advertiser IS pretty smart, yet none too particular about its methods and ethics, and this lack of ethical conscience has just gotten The Advertiser and would-be Sen. Lister Hill into a peck of trouble.

A few weeks ago The Advertiser set out on the job of smearing Tom Heflin with barber-pole paint—that is, they decided to throw every possible accusation, obstacle, and derisive comment his way. They brought up his filibustering tactics while in the senate before, they brought up his bolting of the party in 1928, they pictured in dreary terms the picture of the disgrace that would be Alabama's in the eyes of the nation if Heflin should be sent to Washington. They charged Republican support to Heflin in a desperate effort to check-mate President Rosevelt.

In short, they smeared Heflin with everything that the fertile (but not too meticulous) minds of Grover Hall and Atticus Mullin could conjure up. And then they proceeded to rub it all in—hard. But this "rubbing in" process is where The Advertiser slipped—they rubbed too hard, and rubbed the dirty mess down so thin that people began to see through the plaster that had been daubed on Heflin, and the inevitable resentment of honest folk rebelled against such tactics. Reports began coming in from all over the state that The Advertiser's smear campaign was doing more harm than good to the Hill cause, and The Advertiser dropped it like a hot brick, no doubt by orders of the Hill campaign heads.

The people of Alabama, as a whole, are Democrats, but they are nevertheless a fair-minded people who like to see a clean fight, even if they have been deluded and had their confidence betrayed so often and so regularly that it has become a habit and an accepted fact and an expected result. They have not appreciated the unfair tactics the Advertiser has used, and back in their heads have branded this stripe of campaigning as cowardly, and not deserving of their support. Further, it is quite likely that not many of the generous sprinkling of Republicans had thought of entering the primary and voting for Heflin, as The Advertiser charged they were being asked to do, but since The Advertiser has suggested it, some—perhaps many—of them will very likely do that very thing. Having once got wind of the fact that they had overplayed their hand, The Advertiser and other proponents of "Pretty Boy" "McCarthy" Lister Hill have soft-pedaled the campaign along these lines. After all, Hill never has been any too solid with Democrats over the state. Born with a golden spoon in his mouth, and having been coddled, both physically and politically, by certain strong elements in the Montgomery city Democratic machine, Alabama Democrats are not at all sure that if they should elect him whether he would go as a representative of the City of Montgomery, or as a U. S. Senator from the State of Alabama. Hill can't afford to lose any votes!

In my humble opinion, Alabama would not be disgraced by sending Tom Heflin to the senate nearly so much as it would by sending "Dummy" Hill up. We think "Dummy" is the proper name, for Hill has openly admitted that he will merely be present in the senate chamber (if elected!) to say nothing whatever in behalf of the people of Alabama, but would merely wake up long enough to nod to the every wish of the administration. We would do just as well if we sent a ventriloquist's dummy, or an illiterate, kinky-headed 10-year-old negro boy up. The kinky-head would have enough sense to get to the senate chamber and nod every time the president snapped his finger—and Mr. Hill BOASTS that this is all he intends to do. Certainly the people of the nation would know that our people of Alabama would not be represented at all. What kind of impression of our people would that leave in the eyes and minds of the people of the nation, that we are so uninterested, so biased and so narrow-minded that we would send a mere "dummy" up to represent us? Perhaps they would take it for granted that such dummy would be a true representation, in that case—and they wouldn't be too far wrong, at that, should we do such!

On the other hand, if Heflin should be elected, and followed his policy of voting with the president when he believed him right, and against him when he believed him wrong, the nation, and the people of Alabama, could draw no other conclusion than that right or wrong, at least Alabama was being represented by one who reserved himself to vote according to his best judgment, instead of merely doing as told by the machine bosses.

In the light of what has transpired in the last few weeks and the results it has obtained, it seems that Mr. Hill would do well to dispense with the services of Hall and Mullin before they bring the electorate around to a state of nauseation and militant opposition by their cheap, cowardly, narrow minded methods of conducting his political campaign.

ALABAMA NATIONAL GUARD

The Alabama National Guard is composed of 2,650 enlisted men and 265 officers. It is divided into 63 separate units.

It has one full regiment of Infantry, one full regiment of Artillery, one Squadron of Army Engineers, one Quartermaster Battallion, one Flying Squadron, one Tank Company and several special units.

It has 160 trucks to transport these troops and supplies and several ambulances to take care of the sick and wounded.

Ample supplies and ammunition are kept at the Arsenal, near Kilby prison, and at Fort McCellan, to fully equip these men, and the Adjutant General says he can mobilize an army of at least 2,500 men and 225 officers, all fully equipped in 24 hours.

The Federal Government allots to this State for maintenance and equipment, caretakers, encampments, army drills, Etc., $600,000.00 annually.

The State Appropriation is $88,400, which is budgeted as follows:

Salaries and wages $15,575 supplies and materials $1,000, postage, telegrams, Etc. $1,500, traveling expenses $1,800, printing and binding, $200, operating motor vehicles $1,000, quarterly allowance to units $51,575, armory service allowance $10,000, premiums on bonds $600, expense of annual encampment $2,600, and national rifle match $1,000.

The appropriation to pay the National Guard when on actual duty in suppressing riots or protecting prisoners, Etc., is not limited but $40,000 is set aside each year for this purpose to be used if needed.

The Governor is Commander-in-Chief of the National Guard.

The average production of all fruits during the next five years, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, will probably be larger than the average for the five-year period just past and the total income from fruit production will probably be somewhat higher.

Sweet potato acreage in 1938 is expected to increase about 20 per cent above the acreage harvested in 1937. With average yields this would mean a production of about 88,000,000 buhels, or an increase of about 20 per cent above the 1937 production. It is probable therefore that, with a larger prospective crop in 1938, sweet-potato prices will be lower than those received for the 1937 crop.

State Capitol News

Montgomery Ala.—Dr. Hubert Searcy, 30-year-old member of Birmingham-Southern college's faculity, has formally accepted the presidency of Huntingdon College, Methodist school for girls here. He will assume his new duties on December 1, succeeding Dr. Walter D. Agnew, who resigned after 15 years service, upon reaching the age of 65.

Dr. Searcy is a graduate of Birmingham-Southern and Duke University. While he will take over active control of the college in December, Dr. Agnew will remain in an advisory capacity until next June.

Governor Bibb Graves has been advised of presidential approval of a $174,000 grant in federal funds with which to build the long projected Memorial Building. Ultimate cost of the structure is expected to be about $351,500, with the State supplying the balance. Governor Graves said the state's share is in the treasury. The new building will front on the south entrance to the capitol and will house the Department of Archives and History.

State Senator J. Miller Bonner, of Camden, during a visit to the capitol last week, definitely eliminated himself as the prohibitionists' candidate for governor next year, but announced he would seek re-election to the state senate and the first bill he would introduce would be to re-establish Alabama's stringent dry laws.

"I have no desire to be governor," said Senator Bonner. "I did want to go to the United States Senate, since I consider that the greatest honor in the world. However, since I have withdrawn from the senate campaign I shall content myself with the race for the state senate.

Out of gasoline tax collected during the month of October, each county will receive $8,659.09, compared with $8,109.64 a year ago. Warrants covering distribution out of October collections will reach each county in the State sometime during the week of November 8.

The number of lambs fed this winter probably will be larger than a year earlier, says the Bureau of Agricultural Economics in reporting that "at the beginning of the fed-lamb marketing season in December, prices of lambs probably will be higher than a year earlier, but the seasonal advance in prices from January to April next year is expected to be lss than in 1937.

Game & Fish News

Transplanting Rabbits

The transplanting of Alabama swamp, or marsh, rabbits to areas in southeastern Alaska was the subject of an inquiry from the Alaska Sportsman, official organ of the Alaska Sportsman's Association, published at Ketichikan. A representative of the publication asked if it would be feasible to attempt to propagate the rabbits in that part of Alaska, pointing out that the climate is mild, but very wet. He also asked for names of persons to whom he could apply for rabbits to be used in stocking. The Alabama Department advised him that the rabbit, as a game animal could not be transported out of the State, and that it also was improbable that the rabbit could survive the difference in climates.

Wildlife Class Started

A class in wildlife conservation for enrollees of Civilian Conservation Corps camp SP-12 at Auburn, has been organized, according to Kenneth P. Strickland, assistant educational adviser. The CCC boys come in contact daily with many forms of wildlife, and organized instruction along this line will enable them better to understand the conserving of wildlife rescources. The Alabama Conservation Department furnished literature for use in the class.

Quail Survey

As part of the educational and informational service to Alabama, the Conservation Department is now engaged in making a county-by-county survey of the quail supply in the State. Indications are that the crop has increased to some extent this year, and when the reports are all in, it is believed a pretty fair picture of the outlook can be offered. The shooting season opens on November 20, and sportsmen who desire a copy of the report may have it by writing the Conservation Department at Montgomery. The report is expected to be ready in about ten days.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

NEW ALABAMA AAA COMMITTEE NAMED

Auburn, Ala. — The Alabama State Agricultural Conservation Committee for administering the 1938 AAA program in Alabama is composed of T. H. Martin, Gordo, chairman; W. B. Crawley, Banks; G. W. Creel, Boaz; L. S. Fluker, Livingston; and J. B. McClure, Florence.

The new committee met in Auburn the past week and made recommendations to the Agricultural Adjustment Administration regarding soil-building practices for Alabama farmers to carry out in qualifying for benefit payments under the 1938 program. Terracing of land and planting of legumes are being emphasized at present.

FAVORABLE CONDITIONS FOR DAIRY PRODUCTION

Auburn, Ala.—The coming winter (1937-38) will probably be one of the most favorable for dairy production since 1930, says the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

"During the next three or four years conditions in the dairy industry are

LIVESTOCK AND FEED SITUATION DISCUSSED

Auburn, Ala. — Supplies of both forage crops and feed grains will be more than sufficient in most of the important feeding areas to furnish ample rations for the livestock now on farms, says the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

"Corn supplies are larger than in any recent year, and are near the 1928-32 average, whereas livestock numbers are considerably below average," says the report. "Larger supplies of feed grains per animal are expected to result in heavier feeding of livestock now on farms, and an increased production of hogs, fat cattle, and dairy and poultry products.

"The general level of feed grain prices will average considerably below the high levels of 1934-35 and 1936-37, but may average slighlty higher than two years ago.

"Livestock-feed price rations are expected to be favorable to producers of

In 1935 he won first prize in the state essay contest and state prize in an essay contest sponsored by the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

A year later he was winner of the chapter public speaking contest and placed second in the district contest. During this time Wells held the position of reporter for the Jemison Chapter and the Chilsheltauga District and was elected to the presidency of both bodies, but resigned the Chilsheltauga post when he was elected prsident of the Alabama Association of Future Farmers of America. Wells is interested in all sports but has not allowed his extra-curricula activities to interfere with his studies. His scholarship average for his entire high school career is a high B, giving him the rank of third in a class of 31. He will graduate this year with 20 credits at the age of 18. Upon completion of his high school course, Wells plans to attend the Alabama Polytechnic Institute and study Chemistry and agriculture.

Joseph Pearson, at the time of his graduation from high school in 1936, had completed three years of Vocational Agriculture and had been a member of the F. F. A. for five years, having served his chapter as president during his junior and senior years.

Lawrence Crawford, 17, attended Perry County High School and was a member of the Marion F. F. A. Chapter. He completed his high school course at Auburn Summer School and is now studing Agriculture and Veterinary Medicine at Auburn.

THORSBY 4-H CLUB

The Thorsby 4-H Club met at the schoolhouse for the first time after vacation on October 21. Mr. Ivey acted as chairman.

Mr. Ivey explained the record books which we are to turn in during November and receive a certificate for our efforts.

Our next club meeting will be in November at which time we will elect new officers for the year 1937-38.

Mr. Hubert Ellison was in Clanton on Saturday of last week.

MT. PLEASANT 4-H CLUB

The Mt. Pleasant 4-H club was reorganized Wednesday, November 3, by our club leader, Mr. Ivey.

The following officers were elected for the next year: president, W B. Crowe; vice-president, Ellie Jones; secretary-treasurer, Frank Collins; reporter, Louie Crowe; song and yell leader, Curtis Daniel; local leaders and advisors, Mr. J. L. Wilson and Mr. J. D. Price.

We are going to strive to do better club work and have more good times together this year than we did last year.

MOUNTING COSTS

The cost to the government of regulating agriculture is mounting. During the first year of the soil conservation program, benefit payments aggregated some $500,000,000. This year a similar sum is to be paid out, while in addition the cotton subsidy payment will involve about $180,000,000. This is aside from any sums that may be lost in connection with loans offered to cotton growers and possible similar advances to corn farmers.

This costly program, it is now clear, is not yielding the desired result in the form of production control and price stability. Hence, it is not surprising to see the administration officials turn their thoughts from a voluntary program of the kind now in effect to compulsory restriction of output. Thus, Secretary of Agriculture Wallace last week urged the public to debate whether voluntary production control induced through conservation and adjustment payments, or compulsory control of production, supplemented by relatively high loans to growers, was the more desirable. President Roosevelt hinted in his Chicago address that a constitutional control program may be worked out through substituting promises to farmers for the old compulsory AAA contracts. Such promises probably would involve liberal loan offers under an ever normal granary plan.

If present policies are continued, the cost of farm control threatens to become a major obstacle in the way of the avowed intention of the government to balance the budget for the next fiscal year. Hence, we may well witness, in the prospective new agriculture legislation, not only renewed resort to processing taxes if these can be worked out on a constitutional basis, but also a shift in emphasis from voluntary to compulsory crop curtailment.—New York Journal of Commerce.

We read in a dispatch from Europe the other day that Hitler was preparing a program for peace. If he does that we are willing to believe even that our budget will be balanced.

MAKES NO IMPRESSION

A first rate example showing why Washington assurances of a balanced budget and no new taxes make less and less impression as they recur is Secretary of Agroculture Wallace's sketch of the way in which he and others propose that the new crop quantity and price control system shall work.

It was revealed just the other day that at the present rate of outgo and income, the federal government is going to run more than two-thirds of a billion dollars short by the end of the fiscal year. In his summation, Mr. Roosevelt singled out the congress for blame, noting that it voted expenditures in excess of the administration's program. Yet on top of that, an additional administration program is sketched with the bland admission that it will cost about $200,000,000 more than the system now functioning, in its fsahion. Some observers raise the estimate of additional cost to half a billion.

It is explained that the additional expense would not throw budgeting farther out of balance, because resort would be had to comething like the processing taxes. The sad public and legal reputation of those seems to have been all too soon forgotten. But the point is that budget b

ADVERTISER "STRATEGY"

The Montgomery Advertiser is generally credited with being smart, politically, but at times the best of the boys make a slip which they wish could be recalled. Now The Advertiser IS pretty smart, yet none too particular about its methods and ethics, and this lack of ethical conscience has just gotten The Advertiser and would-be Sen. A few weeks ago The Advertiser set out on the job of smearing Tom Heflin with barber-pole paint—that is, they decided to throw every possible accusation, obstacle, and derisive comment his way. They brought up his filibustering tactics while in the senate before, they brought up his bolting of the party in 1928, they pictured in dreary terms the picture of the disgrace that would be Alabama's in the eyes of the nation if Heflin should be sent to Washington. fruit production will probably be somewhat higher.

Sweet potato acreage in 1938 is expected to increase about 20 per cent above the acreage harvested in 1937. With average yields this would mean a production of about 88,000,000 buhels, or an increase of about 20 per cent above the 1937 production. It is probable therefore that, with a larger prospective crop in 1938, sweet-potato prices will be lower than those received for the 1937 crop.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

NEW ALABAMA AAA COMMITTEE NAMED

Auburn, Ala.—The Alabama State Agricultural Conservation Committee for administering the 1938 AAA program in Alabama is composed of T. H. Martin, Gordo, chairman; W. B. Crawley, Banks; G. W. Creel, Boaz; L. S. Fluker, Livingston; and J. B. McClure, Florence.

The new committee met in Auburn the past week and made recommendations to the Agricultural Adjustment Administration regarding soil-building practices for Alabama farmers to carry out in qualifying for benefit payments under the 1938 program. Terracing of land and planting of legumes are being emphasized at present.

FAVORABLE CONDITIONS FOR DAIRY PRODUCTION

Auburn, Ala.—The coming winter (1937-38) will probably be one of the most favorable for dairy production since 1930, says the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

"During the next three or four years conditions in the dairy industry are likely to average better than during the last four or five years," says the dairy outlook report. "The number of milk cows per capita is somewhat below average and no marked increases are probable during 1938. Rising prices for milk cows in 1938 and possibly in 1939, and fairly high prices for dairy products, will tend to increase the number of heifers saved and may reduce culling, particularly in the intensive dairy states."

The acreage planted to Irish potatoes in 1938 is expected to be about the same as that planted in 1937 and, if yields should be averaged, the production in 1938 would total about 365,000,000 bushels.

LIVESTOCK AND FEED SITUATION DISCUSSED

Auburn, Ala.—Supplies of both forage crops and feed grains will be more than sufficient in most of the important feeding areas to furnish ample rations for the livestock now on farms, says the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

"Corn supplies are larger than in any recent year, and are near the 1928-32 average, whereas livestock numbers are considerably below average," says the report. "Larger supplies of feed grains per animal are expected to result in heavier feeding of livestock now on farms, and an increased production of hogs, fat cattle, and dairy and poultry products.

"The general level of feed grain prices will average considerably below the high levels of 1934-35 and 1936-37, but may average slighlty higher than two years ago.

"Livestock-feed price rations are expected to be favorable to producers of livestock during the coming winter and spring, and remain favorable for another two or three years, if feed grain production continues near average.

"The situation of the livestock producers and of farmers who use all of their own feed grain will be much more favorable than during the last few years. For those who sell a large part of their grain or buy most of their livestock, the situation will probably be somewhat less favorable than it has meen during the last few years."

Mrs. Dora Calloway and Miss Zonie Robinson are visiting Dr. Lamar Calloway in Durham, North Carolina.

938 POULTRY AND EGG OUTLOOK IS SUMMARIZED

Auburn, Ala.—In sizing up the poultry, egg, and turkey outlook for nex ear, in Bureau of Agricultural Economics expects:

The feed-egg price situation to improve from the producer's view point nd nearly 1938 to be much more favrable than a year earlier.

The spring hatch in 1938, therefore, o be greater than the spring hatch n 1937.

Poultry marketings to be less than hose of a year earlier from July 193 o June 1938 because of the small 937 hatch, and to exceed marketings n the remainder of 1938 because of the arger 1938 hatch.

Poultry consumtion to be under that of a year previous in the period July 937 to June 1938 and to be above for the remainder of 1938.

Fall and winter broiler production, 937-38, to be heavy but prices are not expected to be correspondingly depressed except possibly for short periods in view of the smaller supplies of other meats.

Poultry storage stocks, first half of 1938 to be above average because of the heavy summer carry-over in 1937 but much below 1937.

Turkey production in 1937 to be about 10 per cent less than the record crop of 1936.

The turkey hatch in 1938 to be greater than the hatch in 1937.

Turkey prices in the fall of 1937 to be above those of 1936 and possibly above 1935 and to decline in the fall of 1938 with the prospective larger crop.

Chickens prices to advance in the period July-December 1937 and although expected to be above 1937 during the first half of 1938, they will probably be under during the last half.

Laying-flock size to reach a cyclical low point early in 1938.

The rate of egg production per hen in 1938 to be under that of 1937.

Egg marketings in 1938 to be less than in 1937.

Egg storage stocks, last half of 1938, to be much less than in 1937.

Egg prices throughout 1938 to be above corresponding periods of 1937.

FERTILIZER, FARM LABOR, EQUIPMENT MAY BE HIGHER

Auburn, Ala.—The level of prices of commodities and wage rates used in agricultural production probably will average a little higher during 1938 than in 1937, states the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics in summarizing next year's outlook for farm labor, equipment and fertilizer.

Farm wage rates have been advancing since 1933 and are expected to average somewhat higher in 1938 than in 1937. This advance in farm wage rates was greater than the rise in living costs and is likely to remain low relative to living costs in 1938.

Along with higher wage rates, farmers apparently will have to pay somewhat higher prices for farm machinery, automobiles, building materials, equipment and supplies, says the Bureau. Fertilizer prices also will be a little higher but advances in these prices ore not expectel to be as large as for other groups.

"On the other hand, the prices of feed, which represent an important proportion of the costs of many farmers, will be substantially lower than a year earlier at least in the first half of 1938. Seed prices, during the Spring planting season, also will be considerably lower than in the spring of 1937," concludes the report.

FARM DEMAND AND PRICES MAY BE LOWER NEXT YEAR

Auburn, Ala.—Demand for farm products probably will not be as favorable in 1938 as in 1937, says the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics in its 138 outlook to P. O. Davis, director Alabama Extension Service. This means that the net cash income available for farm living and for savings may be somewhat lower in 1938 than in 1937.

"This outlook is based upon an analysis of the general situation, which indicates that in the fall of 1937 the upswing of the business cycle has been temporarily halted," says the report. "Although it is impossible to determine definitely to what extent the present recession will continue into 1938, the chances appear to be against a sufficiently early and vigorous rise in 1938 to bring the average of industrial activities and of consumer incomes for that year up to that of 1937. Foreign demand is expected to show little if any, improvement.

"Trend of wholesale prices in the United States has been slightly downward since April, 1937, and this general tendency is expected to continue into 1938, with lower prices for some raw materials, farm products and manufactured goods offsetting higher prices in 1937 for some finished and semi-finished products.

"Increased supplies of farm products in the United States and decreased supplies available in foreign countries should result in a materially larger volume of agricultural exports from this country in 1938. The larger volume is expected to move into export channels at lower average prices than in 1937.

"Both prices and buying power per unit of farm products are expected to be lower in 1938 than in 1937. Cash farm income in 1938, including cash income from farm marketings and Government payments, may be somewhat less than in 1937."

What's RIGHT With ALABAMA

EDUCATIONAL PROGRESS

RIGHT with Alabama is the progress made by Education during the past twenty-five years. "Readin', writin' and 'rithmetic" were taught in many sections of Alabama in poorly furnished one-room schools to which pupils often trudged for many weary miles. Fortunate were the few who, on the completion of the grammar grades, could afford to go on through high school. Privileged was the mere handful who enjoyed the opportunity of a college education.

In 1904-05 for instance, there were in Alabama only 15 public high schools with an enrollment of 2,600 pupils. Today there are 323 senior high schools and 70 junior high schools with an enrollment of over 160,000. Many of the one-teacher grammar schools have been replaced with modern consolidated schools, offering an enriched program of study.

At the University of Alabama, the 1904-05 enrollment records show about 400 students. Alabama Polytechnic Institute had only 450. Today the enrollment at the University of Alabama is around 5,000; at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, about 2,500. Enrollment at Birmingham-Southern, Howard and Spring Hill Colleges—and other schools in the state—show proportionate increases.

Administration of the schools and supervision of instruction has kept pace with the increase in enrollment, and in this respect our state ranks high. Educational opportunities in the poorer counties of Alabama are more nearly equal to those in the richer ones than in some of the wealthier states.

Credit for Alabama's great advance in educational facilities and methods during recent years belongs largely to her many able educators, their associates, and Parent-Teacher Associations.

No state can have a more valuable asset than an educated citizenry. List high, therefore, among the RIGHT things we have in Alabama, the progress being made in Alabama to attain this end.

Alabama Power Pays Large Tax Sum Into State Educational Trust Fund

Swelling the special educational trust fund of Alabama by $349,110.98 was the check delivered today by Lamar Aldridge, treasurer of the Alabama Power Company, in payment of the hydro-electric kilowatt hour tax. The entire amount of this check will be devoted to educational purposes. Of Alabama's 67 counties, 39 will receive over $5,000 each for high schools and elementary schools.

The payment today is only part of the Alabama Power Company's taxes for 1937. Its total taxes for 1937 are estimated at over $2,750,000 by Thomas W. Martin, president, who commenting on the company's tax bill, said:

"There is a vast difference between the millions of dollars in taxes we will pay this year and the few thousands—$55,615.64 to be exact—paid by the Tennessee Valley Authority, whose untaxed physical property in Alabama cost as much or more than ours. Should the TVA be successful in its apparent effort to destroy the power companies, the millions in taxes now paid by Alabama Power Company must be made up from some other source. Not only the state, but counties, municipalities and the United States government are beneficiaries of taxes paid by the company.

"In addition to the loss of the taxes now collected from Alabama Power Company, the state, and some counties and municipalities, will suffer a loss in tax collections because thousands of acres of rich agricultural lands and other properties are being acquired by TVA; most of it will be flooded; all of it will be removed from the tax rolls. Already several counties in North Alabama are feeling the tax pinch of the TVA where real estate assessments have been 'hiked' to offset the loss in the amount of taxable property; because TVA is a governmental agency and its properties are non-taxable. Thus, as its area of activities enlarges and it takes over more and more privately owned property, the remaining tax payers in other parts of the state will be burdened with additional taxes to make up the difference.

"In addition to tax losses there is an estimated loss to the general economy of the state of 12½ million dollars in farm income because of the flooding by TVA of some of the richest agricultural lands in Alabama.

"When all of this is considered, perhaps the people of our state will feel they are paying an extraordinarily high price for a slight, subsidized saving in retail electric rates."

Three Young Men Win High Honors

Auburn, Ala., Nov. 8.—Three Alabama boys—C. W. Wells, Jr., Jemison; Joseph Pearson, Dixon's Mills; and Lawrence Crawford, Marion—were among the 75 young farmers awarded the American Farmer Degree at the National Convention of the Future Farmers of America held recently at Kansas City, Mo.

The American Farmer Degree is the highest award that may be bestowed by the F. F. A. Recipients of this honor must have completed successfully three years of high school work in Vocational Agriculture, supplemented by successful farming and community service and evidence of leadership. They must previously have passed through the three lower degrees in the organization, earned at least $500 in their home project work, and have been outstanding in the state in cooperative endeavors and rural leadership.

Each state may submit applications for only one American Farmer per thousand members and the 120 applications received this year were further reduced to a total of 75 by a national F. F. A. constitutional ruling. Awards went this year to boys in 33 states and the territory of Hawaii.

C. W. Wells, Jr., a fourth-year student of Vocational Agriculture, is president of the Jemison F. F. A. Chapter. During his four years of Vocational Agriculture, Wells has carried out an outstanding program of scientific farming enterprises. Among the projects listed in which Wells has demonstrated proficiency are home orchard, cotton, corn, beef calves, meat hogs (sow and litter), watermelons, and poultry. In addition to satisfactorily conducting a program of supervised farming, Wells has consistently won state and chapter agricultural awards. In 1935 he won first prize in the state essay contest and state prize in an essay contest sponsored by the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

A year later he was winner of the chapter public speaking contest and placed second in the district contest. During this time Wells held the position of reporter for the Jemison Chapter and the Chilsheltauga District and was elected to the presidency of both bodies, but resigned the Chilsheltauga post when he was elected prsident of the Alabama Association of Future Farmers of America. Wells is interested in all sports but has not allowed his extra-curricula activities to interfere with his studies. His scholarship average for his entire high school career is a high B, giving him the rank of third in a class of 31. He will graduate this year with 20 credits at the age of 18. Upon completion of his high school course, Wells plans to attend the Alabama Polytechnic Institute and study Chemistry and agriculture.

Joseph Pearson, at the time of his graduation from high school in 1936, had completed three years of Vocational Agriculture and had been a member of the F. F. A. for five years, having served his chapter as president during his junior and senior years.

Lawrence Crawford, 17, attended Perry County High School and was a member of the Marion F. F. A. Chapter. He completed his high school course at Auburn Summer School and is now studing Agriculture and Veterinary Medicine at Auburn.

SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTISTS ARE HAVING SERIES OF SERMONS

"Back to the Bible and God is the call of the hour to the church of God," declared Rev. W. H. Westermeyer of Montgomery Sunday night at the Seventh-Day Adventist church in Clanton, where he opened a week's revival meeting.

In his opinion, the Book of Revelations is of unusual importance today. "It is of interest," he said, "to note the comparisons between the first book of the Bible, Genesis, and the last book, the Revelations. In Genesis Satan is victor, in Revelations he is defeated. In Genesis the sentence is pronounced, in Revelations it is executed. In Genesis the divine face is hidden, in Revelation we shall see His face. In Genesis the curse is pronounced, in Revelations it is removed. In Genesis the gates of paradise are shut against us, in Revelation they are never shut. In Genesis death overtakes all men, in Revelations there is no more death. In Genesis we see all faces wet with tears, in Revelations 'God shall wipe all tears from off all faces'. In Genesis terror comes with the night, in Revelations 'there is no night there'. In Genesis we are exiled from the earthly garden, in Revelations we are inheritors of the heavenly city."

The meetings will continue through Sunday night. Sermon topics for the rest of the week are:

Thursday night, "When Three Men Became Four".

Friday night, "Glimpse Into Hell".

Saturday morning, 9 o'clock, "Man's First Sin, and the Sin Which Will Keep Most People Out of Heaven".

Saturday night, "Satan In The Chain Gang".

Sunday night, "A Thousand Signs In Clanton That the Second Coming of Christ Is Near".

PILOT CONVENTION TO BE HELD NOVEMBER 13.

The Pilot Convention of District No. 1, Pilot International, which was announced to have been held October 16 was postponed until November 13 due to the fact that the International President Hester Bingham of Tuscaloosa, and the District Governor, Martha Aldridge, Selma, Alabama, were in the western part of the States. Their plans now are to be back in Alabama and attend the Clanton Convention on November 13.

With the capable Clanton President, Gertie Fiquette and cooperating committees, plans are nearing completion for one of the most enjoyable and successful convention's ever to have been held in Clanton.

MRS. LEE WELLS BURIED

The remains of Mrs. Lee Wells were buried at Bethel cemetery Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock. Mrs. Wells, age about 60 years, died in Birmingham Monday night. Burial was in charge of Spigener.

Besides the husband, surviving are three sons and three daughters—Tom and John Wells; Mrs. Jim Mims, Mrs. Arant, and Mrs. Horace Ray. The youngest son's name could not be ascertained.

A NIGHT OF FUN

The "Roving Rangers" will give one of their good "Hill-billy Shows" Friday night, 7:30, at the courthouse. Admission 15c and 25c.

Everybody come and enjoy the fun.

STATE SCHOOLS BEGAN IN 1854

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 8.—"It is a long educational journey the state of Alabama has taken since 1854, the year when the state school system was established," explained Miss Lorine Barnes, president of the Alabama Educational Association when interviewed in Montgomery Saturday relative to the observance of American Education Week in Alabama schools, scheduled for November 7-13.

"It was on February 18, 1854 that the Legislature adopted the Meek bill setting up our state system of schools," explained Miss Barnes. "The author, A. B. Meek, of Mobile, lawyer, judge, poet, and statesman, had been ably assisted in framing the measure by former governor, Robert M. Patton, of Lauderdale, a member of the Senate, and J. M. L. Curry, of Talladega, humanitarian and minister. The bill as adopted was definitely progressive and revealed a deep concern upon the part of the legislature of the middle fifties for the future of the rising generations."

Under the act referred to by Miss Barnes an educational fund was established, a state superintendent of education was authorized, and machinery organized for the local administration of schools.

TO MY FRIENDS, THE CITIZENS OF THE SIXTH DISTRICT

I have thoroughly enjoyed my work this year and am gratified to feel that it has been my good fortune to get a good start as your Representative in Congress. There is much to do and my entire time has been devoted to the performance of these duties. I shall remain so accupied.

Throughout the year I have looked forward with pleasurable anticipation to spending at least several months in our district this fall, during which time I sincerely hoped it would be my privilege to see each of you. Unfortunately, between the late adjournment of the first session and the special session which convenes Monday, very little time has been available for this purpose and I have been denied the pleasure of seeing many of you, although I have visited every county in the district and practically every town.

While I sincerely regret that the very limited available time required me to cover the district so rapidly that I was denied the pleasure of seeing many of my friends, I am naturally quite anxious to contribute anything possible toward the well being of agriculture, the backbone of our county, and very much hope the special session will be quite productive in that respect.

I am rather confident of comparatively early adjournment next summer and equally certain that, barring some very out of the ordinary occurence, no special session will occur next fall. Consequently, I feel sure that much more time will be available next year for me to divide between my district office and visiting you in your various communities, at which time I can enjoy a real visit and exchange of ideas with you. In the meantime, if I can serve you, please command me.

Reasuring you of my deep appreciation of your friendship, confidence, cooperation and support, and with kind personal regards and every good wish I am, Sincerely,—Pete Jarman.

Mrs. W. C. Robinson has purchased the old Morgan home on Selma Highway, and will renovate it.

Drys Defeat Wets In Geneva County

Wet County Reverses Stand, To Give Dry Vote of 1,481 Against 1,157 Wets

Alabama drys Wednesday of last week hailed a victory in wet Geneva Co. as an indication of a growing sentiment of a return to the old prohibition era which this state abandoned last March.

Complete but unofficial returns from Tuesday's special election in Geneva, one of 24 counties which voted wet in a state-wide referendum March 10, showed:

For retention of the state store system—1,157.

Against—1,481.

This was a dry majority of 324 votes with all boxes reporting.

E. C. Boswell, Geneva County representative in the state legislature, and author of Alabama's liquor control law, conceded a dry victory in his home county.

Geneva voted to permit the legal sale of liquor, 1,316 to 1,012, in the March referendum. Tuesday's election was the first to be called in a wet county on a petition by dry forces.

Five other counties have balloted since the March election, but only one has left the prohibition ranks—Cullman. Calhoun, Autauga, Dale, and Talladega voted to retain their dry laws.

The Geneva victory gave drys added fuel for their announced campaign to seek the election of a prohibitionist governor and the repeal of the liquor law in the next session of the legislature.

Harry Denman, president of the Alabama Temperance League, said state dry forces were "very happy over the Geneva vote", and forwarded congratulations to the Geneva County Temperance Alliance, which petitioned for the election.

He urged that "the governor now see that the law was enforced".

Under the Alabama liquor control act, counties voting in special elections since the March referendum cannot ballot again for two years.

The next legislature convenes in January, 1939.

CLANTON GOSPEL TABERNACLE

Rev. J. D. Stevens preached here Saturday night and Sunday, delivering fine sermons each time.

After the Saturday night service was finished, Rev. Stevens pronounced the nuptial vows for Mr. Johnnie E. Easterling and Mrs. Rosa Powell, with the assembled audience as witnesses.

Our Sunday school is growing by leaps and bounds, and if you do not now attend Sunday school you are invited to meet with us each Sunday morning at 9:45.

Our sewing club will meet every Thursday at the church, sewing for the less fortunate of the community.

We will take a church census of Clanton, and solicit the help of everyone in this important undertaking.

A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to attend any and all our services.

MRS. DORA WELLS BURIED AT BETHEL LAST WEEK

Mrs. Dora Wells, age 60, wife of Lee Wells, died in Birmingham on November 8. The body was prepared by Brown and shipped to Spigener in Clanton. Interment was made at the Bethel cemetery Wednesday, November 10th, Spigener directing. Services were conducted by Elders Kelley and Davis.

Surviving are: the husband; four sons—John, Tom, Carl and Jerrell Wells; three daughters — Mrs. Jim Mims of Birmingham, Mrs. Horace Ray, and Mrs. Luther Arant. There are two brothers—Mack Downs of near Quincy, Fla., and Ben Downs of Deatsville; one sister—Mrs. W. H. Wells of Faceville, Ga.

Mrs. Wells was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ephriam Downs of Maple Springs and Bethel communities.

MR. UNDERWOOD NOW IN CHARGE OF SPIGENER FUNERAL HOME

Mr. Raymond Underwood took charge of the Spigener Funeral Home in Clanton the first of this week, succeeding Mr. Sam Cope who has been here for two years. Mr. Underwood comes here from Tuscaloosa, where he has been connected with Spigener for seven years. Mr. Underwood lives with his mother and two sisters, and is occupying the same location as Spigener has been occupying heretofore. The Underwoods originally came from Birmingham.

Mr. and Mrs. Cope have moved to Troy, where Mr. Cope will work for Wood Funeral Home.

CONCORD CLUB

Mr. B. N. Ivey met with the Concord 4-H Club Tuesday morning, November 9. The club was reorganized, and the following officers were elected: president, Cecil Little; vice president, Lawrence Driver; secretary-treasurer, Howard Mims; song and yell leader, Edwin Taylor; reporter, Shelton Woodfin; local leaders, E. L. Glasscock and Clarence Baker.

Project cards were signed for the coming year. After this we adjourned until next month.—Shelton Woodfin, reporter.

Mitchell Dam Beat Jemison 32 To 26

The Mitchell Dam Cardinals got off on the right foot in their first basket ball game of the season last Saturday night, defeating a scrappy little team from Jemison, 32 to 26.

The Cardinals showed a sad lack of speed and co-ordination in their passing. The boys are carrying around a lot of excess beef that will have to be worked off before they encounter any stiff competition. The last half of the game found them tiring fast. Regular practice should correct both these faults, however.

The Jemison bunch showed a little but fighting team, good passers, and apparently in far better condition than the cardinals. They took the wraps off a right smooth center; J. Smith led his team in some pretty pass work, as well as banging the boards for 8 field goals, good for 16 points to lead both teams in individual scoring. Tiny Mayfield, Mitchell Dam's 200-pound guard, led his team with 13 points.

According to Business Manager A. B. Stanley, the Cardinals will try to have a game on their court every Saturday night, if possible, once the season gets under way. Mr. Stanley was not sure if he could get a game for the coming Saturday night, however. He expects to keep the county papers informed from week to week on the Cardinals' schedule, and you will be able to keep track of their games by watching for announcements in this paper every week.

Line-ups:

Mitchell Dam (32)—Cobb (11) rf; Dutch Baker (8) lf; Ross c; Mayfield (13) rg; Jones lg.

Jemison (26)—Davis (6) rf; Cleckle y(4) lf; J. Smith (16) c; Cost rg; G. Smith lg; substitutes, W. Smith and J. Smith.

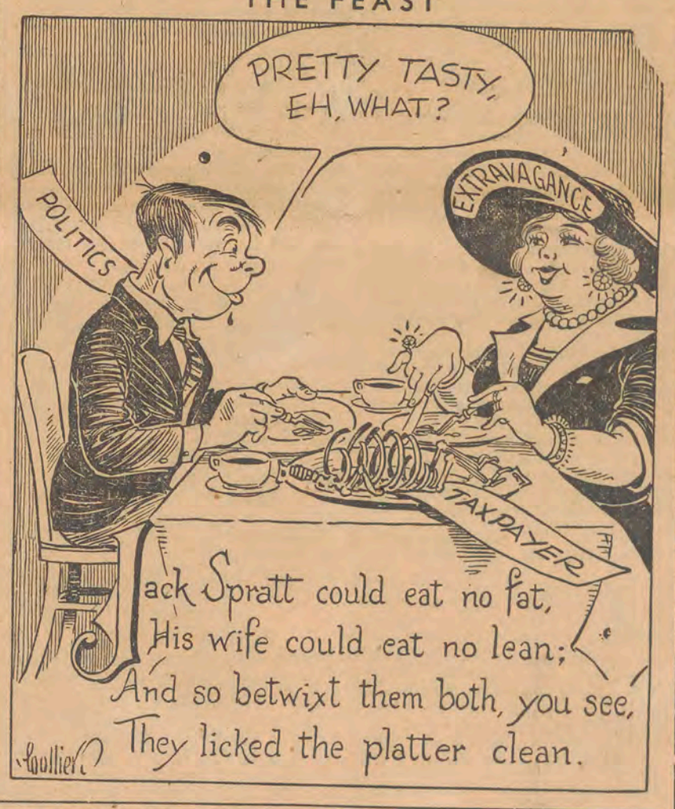
ELECTION TRENDS

[AN EDITORIAL]

It is amusing to watch the antics of the Democratic press and politicians, trying to make light of the recent disastrous defeat of their party machine in the New York election. Strive as they may, they cannot get away from the fact that in the nation's largest city, normally Democratic, the regular party nominee for Mayor, backed by leading New Deal stalwarts, was defeated by the Republican candidate by a margin of nearly half a million votes. It is indeed enough to jolt the New Dealers out of their complacency, and make them look around for all possible alibis and excuses.



The outcome was especially significant when we remember that New York City has been strongly Democratic, even in the lean years when the party was out of power from the national standpoint. Nearly always they have managed to retain control of the nation's biggest city, with the stupendous plunder it contains as their reward. Now, for two consecutive elections, they have been decisively beaten by a Republican running with independent support.

LaGuardia's reelection has more political significance than his election for his first term, four years ago. When he was elected the first time, the Democratic party in the big city was split apart. The regular Tammany machine backed O'Brien, while the New Deal wing of the party supported an independent Democrat, McKee. The result was a three-way division of the votes that enabled LaGuardia to win the office without receiving a majority of the total vote. In the election of last week, however, the Democrats avoided their mistake of four years ago, and got together solidly behind Jeremiah T. Mahoney, the regular party nominee. He had the hearty support not only of Tammany, but of such New Deal champions as Jim Farley, the president's mouthpiece, Gov. Lehman, and Sen. Wagner.

In looking around for a way out, Democrats are pointing to the fact that Mr. Roosevelt personally said nothing before election. This argument is silly, in view of the fact that his man Friday, Mr. Farley, was in there fighting for the party nominee. The simple fact is that the combined power of the New Deal and Tammany, with all their patronage and means of controlling votes, were unable to carry the city for the man behind whom they had united. Tammany and its New Deal allies lost most other offices in New York, besides that of Mayor. Even

THE FEAST

IGNORANCE DROPS by J. N. SCOTT

Editor Union-Banner:

After so long a time, here I am, asking for another space in your good old paper to say a few words. I have seen so many articles in the papers and heard so many things over the radio which need to be answered until I don't know where to start in, but here I go, out into deep water, swim or drown.

Many people say that we are in the worst condition we have ever been in as a whole, and I believe this is true. But the people don't seem to know what has brought it all about. That is easy to understand—just too many taxes on the people's backs—too many drones to feed just to sit around—this has brought it all about . There have been too many dictators and bosses set up who are no good to the fellow who works, yet they live from the backs of those who pay taxes. Those who pay the taxes receive nothing in return, and that brings bad conditions.

We have been told for the last four years that prosperity was just around the corner, so I have been looking for it, but haven't seen it. Some nights I would hear them singing over the radio, "Happy Days Are Here Again," and I would almost run out in the dark to see, they sang in such a positive manner, but the next morning I would get up and find it was not so, but all just the same as before. If the happy days came, they went back before I got a glimpse of them, and I was disappointed again. So I have decided to take the advice I find in the Bible: "Blessed is the man who expecteth nothing", for he is not disappointed. I am not expecting anything better until we trade off the old horses that have been going to Montgomery and Washington for new horses. Some claimed that the Supreme Court members were too old on the job, but I believe some of our senators and congressmen are too old for the job, and on next election I hope that we can swap some of them off, especially J. H. Bankhead, who wants us farmers to farm just like him and others want it done—just allow us so many acres to plant in cotton and no more. And, as I understand it, there is to be a tax levied on all cotton, corn, wheat and rice, and practically everything we grow. Yes, they want another AAA, and if they do, I am sure we will have to swap off all of them as quickly as possible so as we can keep our rights to farm as we want to.

Farmers, I want to say that there has come to be too many meddlers these days in other people's business affairs. I really believe that if those in Washington had stayed out of private business, the people of the United States would have been much better off today than what they are. How much do you imagine those fellows up at Washington know about farming—the ones who are trying to tell us how we must farm? They are mostly all lawyers, doctors, newspaper men, mine owners and bankers. It is very doubtful if even one of them ever grew a stalk of cotton; perhaps many of them never saw a stalk. No doubt some of them are like those fellows up in Shelbyville, Ky., who asked me if the cotton grew in bundles like it was shipped.

Mr. Farmer, do you suppose those people up at Washington really love us old farmers as they appear to, or are they only wanting to get a hold on us and open up another tax channel leading into Washington? I hope the latter is not the case, but that they will get out of our way and let

A DAY EARLY NEXT WEEK

As usual, this year Thanksgiving comes on Thursday, and most weekly newspapers are somewhat thrown out of joint as to delivery, since they are generally published on Thursday, and delivered by the rural carriers on that day.

Of course, the carriers do not go on Thanksgiving Day, and in order that our readers may not have to wait until Friday to get their copies of The Union-Banner, we will get the paper to you on Wednesday of next week.

Correspondents will please bear this in mind and get your copy to us just as early as possible. You will greatly oblige us by bearing this in mind; and our advertisers will please take notice too.

COBB SISTERS IN CONCERT AT ISABELLA FRIDAY NIGHT, 26

The Cobb Sisters quartet, of Birmingham, will put on a musical concert at Isabella auditorium Friday night, November 26, beginning at 7 o'clock. Admission will be 10c and 20c, proceeds to go to Mulberry Baptist church. The public is cordially invited to attend.

The Cobb Sisters have the reputation of putting on an exceptionally good program. They do singing of gospel and popular songs, put on funny comedy skits and playlets, and do some acrobatics. You are assured of an hour and a half of good, wholesome entertainment.

FRANK STAMPS AND QUARTET PASSED THROUGH CLANTON

Mr. Frank Stamps and his all-star quartet, from Dallas, Texas, passed through Clanton Tuesday afternoon, on their way to Calera, where they put on a program last Tuesday night. In the quartet besides Mr. Stamps, is Palmer Wheeler, who sings the high tenor.

Power Co. To Spend $4,000,000 In '38

Birmingham, Nov. 15. — Thomas W. Martin, President of Alabama Power Co., announced today that its capital expendiutres for 1938 will be about four million dollars, or more than one million dollars less than for 1937. Its capital expenditures for next year could be nearly nine million dollars except for conditions over which the company has no control. Some of the conditions mentioned by Mr. Martin were: the apprehension of business generally over the effect of existing laws such as the capital gains law, threatened legislation such as the Black-Connery Bill, and the punitive attitude of the administration toward business generally. In addition, the public utility is suffering under the fear that through unfair competition, the government is seeking to destroy it.

"If these conditions did not exist," said Mr. Martin, "or there were reasonable certainty that they would be abated within the near future, we could budget expenditures amounting to nearly nine million dollars for the next 12 months instead of the four million minimum budget decided upon for 1938.

"It has long been apparent that the restricted construction schedules of public utilities have proved a drag on recovery, especially in the durable goods industries. It is an important factor in the present industrial retreat from recovery.

White Man Killed By Negro Sunday

John Caver Used Shotgun To Settle Old Quarrel With Forrest Littleton

Forrest Littleton, white man, age 40, is dead, and John Caver, negro, is in jail charged with murder, as a result of an old feud which reached its climax last Sunday morning about 8 o'clock.

Reports are that Littleton was in his home shaving when a quarrel arose between him and the negro about some calves being turned out. The negro is said to have shot Littleton with a shotgun, the load entering near his heart. Littleton is said to have had a gun also; it is not known whether or not Littleton had his gun drawn.

John Caver surrendered to county officers without offering and resistance.

The shooting occurred at the old Lewis Littleton place above Lay Dam John Caver lived on the Littleton place.

Forrest Littleton was an adopted son of Lewis Littleton, who died about a year ago. Funeral services for the dead man were held at Mullins-Jones cemetery Monday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock; Martin and Sons directing. Services were conducted by Rev. T. W. Davis.

Surviving are the wife and five children.

STAMPS-BAXTER HAPPY HITTERS AT COURT-HOUSE THURSDAY EVENING

The Stamps-Baxter Happy Hitters quartet, of Birmingham, will present a program at the courthouse in Clanton Thursday night, November 18, at 7:30. This program is sponsored by the Pilot Club, and the public is urged to attend.

MRS. TALETHA ANN WILKINS WERE BURIED AT STANTON

Mrs. Taletha Ann Wilkins, age 76 years, died in Birmingham Saturday, November 6th. The body was prepared and shipped by Spigener to Stanton and interment made in the cemetery at that place on Wednesday, November 10th.

Mrs. Wilkins was the widow of David W. Wilkins, who died some time ago.

CHILTON COUNTY P.-T. A. TO HOLD SCHOOL OF INSTRUCTION

The Chilton County Council of the Parent-Teachers Association will hold a school of instruction at the city hall in Clanton at 1 o'clock Friday, November 19.

Mrs. Hill, of Montgomery, and Miss Mary Henderson, of Talladega, will be present to address the gathering.

All members of the P.-T. A. are urged to be present, and all others interested have a cordial invitation.

KLINNER-DICKINSON

The marriage of Miss Alma Klinner, of Birmingham, and Mr. Wilton Crawford Dickinson, of Clanton, was solemnized at the home of Mrs. Celestia D. Colley, sister of the groom, Sunday, November 14th, at 10 o'clock. Rev. S. A. Bishop read the vows before the altar of white chrysanthemums and ferns. Tom Colley, nephew of the groom, lighted the cathedral tapers.

Mrs. Dickinson was attended by Mrs. Celestia D. Colley, as matron of honor. Mrs. Colley wore a dress of Wally blue, with black accessories. Her flowers were briarcliff roses.

The bride was lovely in a brown blistered crepe with brown accessories. Her flowers were gardenias.

Mr. Vernon Klinner, brother of the bride, was best man.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. W. W. Klinner, and a discendant of a long line of ancestors prominent in South Alabama. She received her education at Alabama College.

The bridegroom is the son of the late William Crawford Dickinson and Julia Mallory Dickinson, pioneers of Alabama. He received his education in State Normal School, at Troy and Valparaiso College. Mr. Dickinson is connected with The Klinner Furniture Company of Clanton.

HOMEMAKERS SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS TO MEET

The Homemakers Sunday school class of Clanton Baptist church will meet on next Friday afternoon, November 19, at 3 o'clock, at the home of Mrs. Dewey Rockett. All members are urged to attend, as this is a very important meeting of the class.

MONTGOMERY, ALABAMA

I'M FEELING FINE THIS MORNING
— FREE FROM THAT THROBBING HEADACHE AND READY FOR A GOOD DAY'S WORK.

All people who suffer occasionally from headaches ought to know this way to quick relief.

At the first sign of such pain, take two Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Sometimes if the pain is more severe, a second dose is necessary later, according to directions.

If headaches keep coming back we advise you to see your own physician. He will look for the cause in order to correct it.

The price now is only 15¢ for twelve tablets or two full dozen for 25 cents — virtually, only a cent apiece.

GET UP NIGHTS?
FLUSH KIDNEYS WITH

Juniper oil, buchu leaves, etc. Make this simple test if passage is scanty, irregular, smarts or burns, have frequent desire, get up nights, or if kidneys are sluggish, causing backache. Use juniper oil, buchu leaves, etc., made into little green tablets called Bukets to flush the kidneys, just as you would use castor oil to flush the bowels. Help nature eliminate troublesome waste and excess acids. Ask any druggist for the test box of Bukets. Locally at Upchurch Drug Co., and Alred Drug Co.

JUST FROM SHOULTS

We are glad to hear that Mrs. Crof Shoults is getting along nicely with her broken leg. Ross Ford is getting along very well with his broken leg, but he will not walk any more without crutches.

A lot of people are having bad colds just now. Well, I never saw a good cold yet. By the way, hog killing is on the way now, what a blessing it is to have hog and hominy, sweet and irish potatoes to eat. My, my, that good old cane syrup; in fact, we have a big crop of everything, too much cotton, children going without clothes and shoes. This reminds me of war times, plenty to eat and wear, but just can't get to it. There is something wrong up the branch, don't you think so? I had rather see our leaders draw a good salary and do nothing, than to see them over do the thing. Is there any way to send honest men to Montgomery? Just wait until next spring, that will be wash day.—Uncle Remus.

W. H. WESTERMEYER WRITES

"This age in which we live is different from every other age of which we have any record. It is an age of inventions, of development of human knowledge and ingenuity, of progress and advancement, or incredible achievement. Nothing has ever been known like it before" asserted Rev. Westermeyer last Sunday night at the Seventh-day Adventist church in Clanton in his sermon, "1,000 Signs in Clanton which show that the Second Coming of Christ is Near."

He stated further "For millenniums the world jogged along at an even pace. Noah, Abraham, and Pharaoh would have been very much at home in Europe 125 years ago. Vision the beginning of the 19th century, with no railroad trains or steamship transportation; while telegraphs, telephones, bicycles, automobiles, motor cars existed only in the fantastic dreams of the dreamers. Think of the homes with no sewing machines or vacuum cleaners, no bathrooms or sanitary plumbing, no electric lights nor even kerosene lamps, no ice or electric refrigeration, no photographs, phonographs or radio. Consider that day when the farms were without moving machines or reapers, steel harrows or cultivators, grain drills or tractors, gang plows or threshing machines, and where the old wooden plow, the scythe, the cradle and other crude tools were the world's best implements of agriculture."

'The prophet Daniel foretold that this drama of progress would occur at the "time of the end," and here is the full text of the prophecy: "Thou O Daniel, shut up the words, and seal the book, even to the time of the end; many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall increase." Dan. 12:4.

"With this increase of knowledge and the facilities for travel, publishing and radio broadcast, this gospel of the kingdom is making its way rapidly to all the world and is speaking to the hearts of men and women, "Prepare to meet Thy God."

Mr. Westermeyer, who is pastor of the Seventh-day Adventist church in Montgomery, will be back to Clanton again for a preaching service next Saturday; he will preach at 3 o'clock p. m.; at 7:30, and Sunday night at 6:30. Sunday night his topic will be, "Can we Know which Day of the Week is the Sabbath for Christians of Today." This sermon will be illustrated with lantern slides.

STATE DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH

Montgomery, Nov. 16.—Twenty-three deaths occured in Chilton county in September, as compared with 14 in August, according to the monthly tabulation of the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health. The County's September death rate was 10.8 per 1,000 population, as compared with a death rate for that month of 8.7 per 1,000 population for the State as a whole.

Heart disease was responsible for more Alabama deaths during that month than any other single cause, 343 September deaths being attributed to it. Other leading causes responsible for the State's 2,070 reported deaths in September, with the number of deaths attributed to each, were as follows:

Tuberculosis, 131; cancer (all forms), 135; cerebral hemorrhage, 149; pneumonia (all forms), 58; diarrhea and enteritis (under two years), 41; nephritis, 169; diseases associated with childbirth 31; motor accidents, 57; and other forms of violence, 148.

MAPLESVILLE CLUB—GIRLS

The Maplesville 4-H Club was organized October 24; 43 members enrolled.

A very interesting talk was made by Miss Meta Grace, our Home Demonstration Agent, about her visit to Dr. C. W. Warburton in Washington during the summer. A letter of interest, written by Dr. Warburton, was read by members of the Club.

Officers for the year were elected as follows: president, Edna Harris; vice president, Catharine Schurter; secretary, Mossie Latham; treasurer, Earnestine Davis; reporter, Annie Haggard; leaders, Alice Tucker, Sybil Abrams, Jane Shanks.

Holtville Swamps The Tigers

The Tigers were beaten bad by their husky opponents and there was nothing they could do about it. It was said the opponents could pass at will, and also run for many yards gain.

I see no reason for them beating the Tigers that bad and by the scores it looks mighty bad. Selma has a much better team than does Holtville, and so does Tallassee, and neither beat us that bad.

We have been unfortunate this year in having our team badly crippled up; maybe that had something to do with us losing that game. It seemed that the players that have been staring in the past games failed to do so this time, but the players that had received no credit until this game, played their best game of the season.

Little Snowy Melton made the Tigers only touch down by stepping down the field for a 50 yard dash, and cross the line the only time the Tigers were able to cross, while their opponents could score at will, or at least enough times to make 51 points, which made the score 51 to 7 in favor of Holtville.

Maplesville Game

The Tigers play Maplesville here next Friday, and a good game is expected. Most of the boys are in good shape to play this game.

The Tigers hope to win this game, although they have lost the two games prior to this one.

Future Farmers of America

Mr. J. H. Jackson, our agricultural teacher, has made a great many improvements in this line of work, such as reorganizing the FFA chapter.

There are many boys who are holding offices in this chapter and many of the boys are planning to get different degrees pertaining to this type of work.

All the school is glad to know that Mildred Gore has recovered greatly from an operation. She is expected to be back in school soon.

Guess Who For Girls

She is in Senior I. She has black hair and dark brown eyes. When she laughs you can see dimples in her cheeks. Some know her by the name of "Virginie."

Guess Who For Boys

He is slim, tall and has brown eyes. He can be seen with a girl who has real dark hair. This boy is in Senior II and is a New-ton, wonder if he weighs that much.

More About The Show

The paper stated that the Marionette show would be at the High School on November 24, this was a true statement at the time, but we learned later that the show would be unable to be here that day.

The show will be here on November 30, if you have never seen one you should make it a point to see this one, and if you have seen one we are sure you won't miss this one.

The show is pertaining to the circus. It will be interesting to see the little marionettes do their stunts around the circus rings, operated by the fingers and hands of men and ladies.

New Bata Club Members

The Bata Club was glad to give their new members a membership card. They were sworn in in regular order, taking the oath of any bata club member. These new members were as followers: Nell Rockett, Myrtle Pitts, Al Stewart Johnson, Nell Jones, Dorothy Carter, Hilda Smith, Ancedelia Smith and Orene Wyatt.

These members were sworn in by the president, Geraldine Hollis.

Chilton County Board Organizes a Night School

Evening classes in radio, shop arithmetic and show card writing has been organized at the Chilton County High School. The classes in radio and shop arithmetic meets on Monday and Wednesday evenings at 7 o'clock. The class in show card writing meets on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at 7 o'clock.

Other courses will be organized if there is a sufficient demand for additional classes.

A course in textiles has been organized at the Alabama Mills. This class is for people employed at the Alabama Mills or people who wish to seek employment in the textile industry.

There are two classes for colored people at the colored school. These classes are in arithmetic and nursing. See the teacher at the colored elementary school for detail information.

All these classes have large attendance except the class in shop arithmetic, and only a few more may enter this class. Should any one wish to enter this class meet with them Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock, or see Mr. Hicks or Mr. Evans at the high school this week.

These classes are made possible by the Chilton County Board of Education through its department of trades and industries. There is no fee or charge for any of the classes, and they are open to any one in Chilton county who is 16 years of age or older and not attending any public elementary or high school.

These various courses offer the people of Chilton county an opportunity to obtain more technical and general knowledge, while they are employed. Trained men and women are in demand and can always get more for their services than the untrained person. Therefore, may we urge you to enroll in one of these courses and get some training that will make you more capable and more serviceable.

what Irvin S. Cobb thinks about:

Species of Candidates.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—It takes all kinds of candidates to make up this world. Maybe that's why the world seems so overcrowded.

There's the candidate who belongs to all the secret orders; if he left off his emblems, he'd catch cold; knows every grand hailing sign there is; hasn't missed a lodge brother's funeral in years; can hardly wait for the next one to die. No campaign complete without him.

Irvin S. Cobb

Candidate specializing in the hearty handshake, the neck-embrace, the shoulder-slap, the bear-hug, the gift of remembering every voter by his first name, and the affectionate inquiry regarding the wife and kiddies. When he kisses a baby, it sounds like somebody taking off a pair of wet overshoes. Usually has a weather-beaten wife needing a new hat.

Strutty candidate who's constantly leading an imaginary parade of 50,000 faithful followers. Loves to poke his chest away out and then follows it majestically down the street. A common or standardized species.

* * *

Biblical Wisdom.

IN THE Book of Nahum, Chapter II, I came upon this verse:

"The chariots shall rage in the streets, they shall jostle one against another in the broad ways; they shall seem like torches, they shall run like the lightnings."

Those Old Testament prophets certainly peered a long way into the future. Because I traveled by night through a main thoroughfare leading from Los Angeles to the sea and vice versa, and I knew what Nahum was describing.

But not even an inspired seer of the Bible could imagine a record of traffic mortality so ghastly as the one we've already compiled in this year of grace 1937 A. D. (automobile destruction)—or a people so speed-mad.

* * *

How to Fight Japs.

WHENEVER we have a Japanese war scare, I think of Uncle Lum Whittemore, back in west Kentucky, who loved to dispense wisdom as he hitched one practiced instep on a brass rail and with his free hand fought the resident flies for the tidbit of free lunch which he held in his grip.

One day a fellow asked Uncle Lum, who had served gallantly in the Southern Confederacy until a very hard rainstorm came up, what he'd do if the yellow peril boys invaded America.

"I'd hunt me a hollow tree in the deep woods," he said. "Yes, son, the owls would have to fetch me my mail. I been readin' up on them Japs. They're fatalists."

"What's a fatalist?" demanded someone.

"Near ez I kin make out," stated the veteran, "a fatalist is a party that thinks you're doin' him a deep pussonal favor when you kill him."

* * *

Hollywood Fashions.

SOME envious style expert says Hollywood fashions are too garish. If he's talking about Hollywood males, I say they're just garish enough. If they were any more garish than they are, visitors would have to wear blinders, and if they were any less garish, Italian sunsets would stand a chance in the competition. And I want the championship to stay in America.

Billy Gaxton picks out something suitable for a vest to be worn to a fancy dress party and then has a whole suit made out of it. Bob Montgomery's ties are the kind that I buy in moments of weakness and then keep in a bureau drawer because I'm not so brave as Bob is; and also I keep the drawer closed because I can't stand those sudden dazzling glares. And Bing Crosby is either color-blind or thinks everybody else is. But his crooning is mighty soothing. And so it goes—red, pink, green, purple, orange, sky-blue and here and there a dash of lavender.

Our local boys gladden the landscape with the sort of clothes I'd wear, too—only my wife won't let me. Stop, look, listen! That's our sartorial motto, and these jealous designers back east can kindly go jump in a dye-pot.

Home of the Celt

Little reference is made to Brittany in the ancient classics, save that Pliny speaks of it as the "Looking-on Peninsula," with its eye and vision set upon the Atlantic, and Caesar tells something of the fighting qualities of the Veneti who inhabited the southwestern seacoast. As is well known, it is the home of the Celt, and neither the highlands of Scotland nor the west of Ireland, nor Wales can produce a finer type of that ancient race that dowered Europe with a civilization long before Homer sang of the Greek gods.

REFUGE

Sunday school here is fairly good, although there is room for improvement. We long to see more of this community become restored. Come and bring your children to Sunday school.

Next Sunday is our regular preaching day. Rev. Lockhart, our pastor, will preach Sunday at 11 o'clock, and Sunday night at 6:30.

There will be a working at this place Friday afternoon, November 19. All who are interested in cleaning off the cemetery and church yards, be there on next Friday afternoon.

A wedding of much interest took place here Saturday night between Mr. Hubert Mims and Miss Cleedie Mae Adams. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Durbin. We wish them a long and happy life together.

COOPER CLUB—GIRLS

On November 5, the 4-H Club of Cooper met. A few new members were added to the roll, making a total of 30 now enrolled.

Miss grace gave us a very interesting talk on what we should eat. She suggested that we have some kind of flower to plant. We decided on verbena. The president appointed a committee to tell the ones who decided to bring the flowers.

Those on the committee were Ruth Vinson, Murrell Jones, and Mildred Todd.

We all enjoyed the meeting very much, and are looking forward to our Christmas program next month.

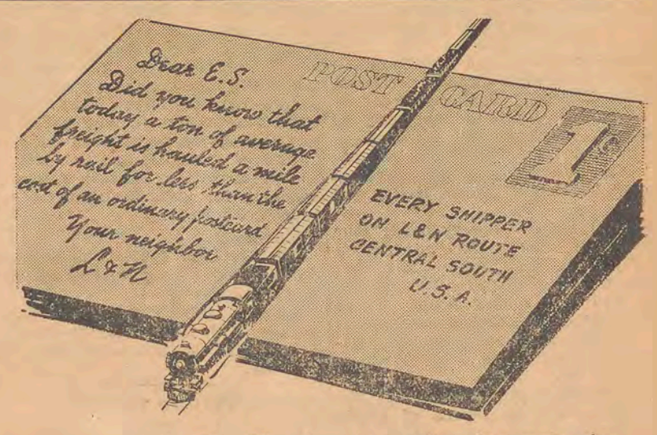
DOLLARS WASTED ON UPKEEP CAN'T BUY NEW ROADS

Inferior roads seem cheap and easy to build. They stretch a paving fund so that it covers a lot of territory. But after a year or two, the trouble begins! Maintenance costs go up and up. Soon all your paving money is spent on upkeep . . . and no more new roads are built.



That's why it's wise—and economical—to build concrete roads. Concrete lasts! It requires almost no upkeep. Each year, the paving fund builds more miles of concrete until the whole job is done—for keeps.

Concrete's smooth, non-skid surface is safe and satisfactory to drive on. It speeds up traffic . . . reduces accidents . . . saves gas, tires and repairs.

Get concrete. Insist on it—for safety, comfort and economy.

Concrete IS THE REAL LOW-COST ROAD

The American railroads remain the outstanding transportation industry of the country—dependable—progressive—safe. Despite higher operating costs, increasing taxes and strict regulation, they are giving 50% faster freight service, have reduced loss and damage 80%, and are today hauling all kinds of freight—from sand to silk—at an average cost to the shipper of less than one cent per ton per mile. And although some higher rates have just been granted and others are being sought, if all are allowed the price of railroad transportation would still be cheaper than in recent years.

Freight rates on the L & N are down, too. In 1936 shippers over the L & N saved $28,000,000 in freight charges, compared with what they would have paid at the average rate of 1921.

The L & N is proud of its 87-year record in serving the people of the South and hopes to merit their continued patronage.

Whether you have a shipment to make or a trip to take, any L & N representative will be glad to assist you.

Songsters Of 8 States Meet At Montgomery

Singing Convention Makes Rafters Ring In New City Auditorium

Montgomery, Nov. 14.—With quartets, song composers, and directors from eight Southern States participating, the annual meeting of the Alabama Singing Convention opened at the city auditorium Saturday morning and closed with the afternoon program Sunday. Officials said the array of distinguished guests was the largest ever to gather in Alabama for such an event.

Edward Marsh, of Mt. Pinson, in Jefferson County, was elected president of the convention for the ensuing year, at the meeting of official delegates Sunday afternoon. He succeeds Arthur Heutess, of Montgomery, whose term expired at the close of Sunday's program.

Other officers named were: A. F. Beasley, Montgomery, first vice-president; Dr. H. H. Martin, Andalusia, second vice-president; C. W. Bentley, Anniston, third vice-president; J. L. Dixon, Etowah County, fourth vice-president; and Mrs. Herman Brantley, Georgiana, re-elected secretary. The delegates selected Birmingham as the meeting place next fall.

Some of the South's most famous quartets from Texas, Tennessee, Arkansas and Georgia were featured in the singing, attended by a great outpouring of Montgomerians and visitors. The entertainers included the Stamps-Baxter quarter from Dallas, the Henson Publishing Company quartet from Atlanta, Vaughn's quartet from Lawrenceburg, Tenn., the Stamps-Baxter four from Chattanooga, another famous quartet representing A. J. Showalter and Company at Dalton, Ga., and the quartet from the Hartford Music Company of Arkansas.

Accompanying these song birds were: Frank Stamps, Dallas; J. M. Henson, owner of the publishing house bearing his name, Atlanta; J. R. Baxter, Chattanooga; Keiffer Vaughn, Lawrenceburg, Tenn.; Profs. W. B. Wilbert and C. C. Drummons, of the Vaughn School of Music, also of Lawrenceburg; W. L. Higgins, field director of the Showalter Company, Dalton; and J. E. McClung, field representative of the Hartford Music Company in Arkansas.

Alabama was also represented at the convention by a number of quartets. These included: the Stamps-Baxter Southerniares, of Birmingham; the Shaw Sisters, Jefferson County; the Grambling Sisters, also of Jefferson County; Daniels quartet, Gadsden; W. M. Devaughn's quartet, Clanton; and others.

Many of the visiting singers expressed themselves as being delighted at the splendid acoustics of the new auditorium.

IN MEMORY OF ALBERT CHADWICK

On Monday morning, November 8, at 11 o'clock, the death angel took away the spirit of our dear uncle, Albert Chadwick. He had been sick for about a month.

He leaves to mourn his loss: a wife, five children, and two brothers, and and host of relatives and friends, who will miss him. He was a loving father and had a smile for everyone through his 49 years of life.

We wish to thank everyone for the beautiful flowers. May God bless each and every one of you.—His niece, Jessie Chadwick.

ATLAS LUG-GRIP TIRES

Ordinary treads on tires are made for pavement riding. But, off the pavement—what then? The tire that drives—and stops—a car on the main highway may spin and stall in sand and mud.

But not the Atlas Lug-Grip with its lugs of deep, tough rubber which solve the problem. The Atlas self-cleaning, lug-grip design is unsurpassed. It "digs in"—gives traction, and you keep going.

When you do reach the "improved road," you'll be surprised at the smooth, easy riding qualities of Atlas Lug-Grip tires. They're made for "tough going"—but the engineers didn't forget your comfort on pavements.

TERMS—If you need Lug-Grip tires, it isn't necessary to wait until you have the cash in hand. Easy terms are offered. Come in. See the Atlas Lug-Grip. It's easy to buy—hard to beat.

Atlas batteries, too, have every desirable quality built in—at reasonable price. Life-tested. High-rating. Super-power.

CHRISTIAN WORKERS

LESSON TEXT—I Corinthians 3:10-15; Galatians 6:6-10.

GOLDEN TEXT—And let us not be weary in well doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not.—Galatians 6:9.

PRIMARY TOPIC—In Our Church.

JUNIOR TOPIC—What Can I Do to Help?

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Can I Do for Christ and the Church?

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Need for Christian Workers.

"Laborers together with God"—such is the glorious and distinctive title of true Christians, according to the verse just preceding our assigned text. Unfortunate is the all too common error of regarding only pastors and missionaries as the workers in God's vineyard. While we recognize that there is a special calling for some men to leave their vocations and devote their entire time to the Lord's work, let us be sure properly to stress the importance of every Christian's being a worker for God.

The portions assigned for our study present the privilege and responsibility of Christians as fellow-workers with Christ, under the figures of builders and of seed sowers.

I. Builders of the House (I Cor. 3:10-15).

The first requisite of a building is a foundation and it must be strong and true. Builders for Christ have a sure foundation stone in Him.

1. The Foundation—Jesus Christ.

There is only definite assurance in Paul's word concerning the foundation. It is perfectly clear to him that there can be no Christian faith without Jesus Christ. Such a statement sounds almost childish. One might well assume that no intelligent person would claim to be one of God's builders, and reject his foundation stone. But, alas, many are they who claim to be Christians, who profess to be raising a structure of Christian life and testimony, but who have set aside the only possible foundation on which to build.

2. The Master Builder—and his builders.

Paul was a pioneer. He declares his ambition and calling to be "to preach the gospel not where Christ was named, lest I should build on another man's foundation" (Rom. 10:25). Such a privilege does not come to all men, but let those who thus serve learn of this "wise master builder" that they may lay only one foundation—Jesus Christ.

"Let every man take heed how he buildeth thereupon." It is a serious matter to serve the Lord as a builder, for it is possible to go badly astray at this point as well as in laying the foundation.

3. The materials—good and bad.

Whether we apply Paul's words to the building of our personal spiritual life or to the work we do in the church they are equally serious and urgent. "The day"—when Christ returns, and we shall stand before him to give account of the deeds done in the flesh—will reveal by flaming fire whether we have been faithful, true and diligent in preaching God's Word, in prayer, in sacrificial service for Christ, or have sought to introduce into our lives and into the churches we serve the "wood, hay, and stubble" of unspiritual schemes, neglect of God's Word, prayerlessness.

Saved? Yes, but entering into God's presence as a man who has escaped from his burning house with nothing but his life.

II. Sowers of the Seed (Gal. 6:6-10).

The figure changes. No longer are we builders—but rather sowers of seed. Would that it were all good seed that were sown—but we see the sowing to the flesh as well as to the Spirit. This is true

1. In our own lives. The inexorable law of sowing and reaping prevails in the moral realm as truly as it does in the physical. Men who would never expect wheat to grow where they have planted thistles, seem to expect that they may sow in their own lives the seeds of selfish indulgence, of careless neglect of the things of God, and still somehow reap the fruit of good character and noble living.

2. In the lives of others. We may be tempted to take attractive by-paths and short-cuts to win the interest and allegiance of men to ourselves and the church, but they will prove to bring but corruption and destruction. Spiritual seed will always produce spiritual life.

3. Waiting for the harvest. Harvest must be patiently awaited. We know it to be so in natural things; the same is true in the spiritual realm.

A Message of Love

One of the last slowly murmured sayings of the American poet Whittier, as he lay a-dying, was this: "Give—my love—to—the—world."

Worth-While Living

Learn to do well: seek judgment, relieve the oppressed, judge the fatherless, plead for the widow.—Isaiah 1-17.

Haste

Unreasonable haste is the direct road to error.—Moliere.

Many High Schools Now Kindergartens Says A Critic

Evanston, Ill., Nov. 13.—Many of America's high schools are being converted into "kindergartens," Prof. Edwin B. Place, of Northwestern University, said today.

Prof. Place, who is chairman of the department of romance languages of Northwestern, based his criticism on what he said was a steady trend against the teaching of mathematics and modern language in the high schools.

Asserting that the movement was nationwide in its scope and criticizing adversely what he declared was a "tendency to avoid disciplines involving thinking on the part of the pupils—not to mention memory work," Prof. Place declared:

"Meanwhile life has become more complex and competition keener, and the world wants people who have learned to dig into problems, and who have had to learn through experience that life is not a bed of roses."

The anti-mathematics and anti-modern languages tendency was started, he said, about five or six years ago in representative high schools by a group of men sponsoring the "progressive movement."

"Leading universities agreed under certain restrictions," he said, "to admit high school graduates who had followed the new curriculum set up. In other words, it was an experiment."

"The curriculum in question represented an attempt to "integrate" various elementary fields of knowledge; to teach English and history blended together; social science integrated also with English (of course history is a social science); natural sciences integrated together (this part of the procedure has come to be generally accepted) etc."

"But mathematics and foreign languages offered difficulties in this integration process. They called for a certain accuracy of detail moreover. Hence, the recent trend nationally is not to make them a required part of the new curriculum."

"There is no substitution of new subjects in the new program, but rather a spreading of the integrated subjects through the curriculum. Of course, proposals and procedure vary somewhat from school to school."

Declaring that in his opinion, mathematics and modern languages are the basic elements of cultural education, Prof. Place said:

"The slogan of the progressive education list is apparently that hackneyed old wise-crack: "To know more and more about less and less."

ISABELLA JR. LITERARY SOCIETY

Our literary society met in the English room on Wednesday, November 9. The society was called to order by the president, Roy Davis.

Leaders of the society are: Roy Davis, president; C. P. Jones, vice president; Doris Gaydon, secretary; group leaders, Gertie Mae Culp, Mrs. Brown, and C. P. Jones.

After the minutes of the society were read, the following program was rendered:

Bible readings, Clyde Jones.

Prayer, by all.

Guitar playing and singing, John Jr., Cox, Gertie Mae Culp, and Clarice Culp.

Guitar playing and singing, Sarah Traywick.

Rasta's Tobacco, Doris Gaydon and Bertie Mizzell.

A reading, Carroll Cobern.

A story, Perry Oden.

Jokes and riddles, Beth Williams.

As there was no other business to come before the society, we adjourned until Wednesday, November 24.—Reporters, Gertie Mae Culp and Doris Gaydon.

FIDDLER'S CONVENTION TO BE AT UNION GROVE SCHOOL

The Union Grove Junior High School on Saturday night, November 27th, is giving a fiddler's convention, chicken super, pretty girl contest and many other forms of entertainment. Everybody come and bring someone with you, as everybody is expecting a good time.

All fiddler's are cordially invited to come; prizes will be given the best fiddlers.

Robinson Springs

The third Sunday is our regular preaching day. Sunday school at 10 o'clock and preaching at 11 o'clock. We are expecting a good singing in the afternoon. Singers from Oak Grove, Center Hill and Pleasant Hill have promised to be with us.

We invite all singers to come and be with us. Let's make this singing a success. Everybody bring your new song book's and spend the afternoon in singing praises to God.

Among the Clanton people who attended the state singing convention in Montgomery last Sunday were: Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Wingard, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fiquett, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Cagle, Mrs. Fannie Bee Hughes, Mrs. Tom Parrish, Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Wyatt and daughter, Inez, Mr. and Mrs. Chester G. Mims, Jesse C. Jones, W. M. Devaughn and family, O. D. Deloach, and others.

Martin & Sons' ambulance went to Birimngham last Sunday and brought home Mr. Leonard DeLoach, who has been in the hospital for some time.

The daughter of Steve Blalock, Mrs. Cox, was brought home from a Montgomery hospital by Martin's ambulance last Monday.

The indebtedness of Alabama was reduced by $2,080,000 in the fiscal year just closed. Some of the bonds bought up and destroyed were not due until 1964. Governor Graves is ready to retire a half a million more of these bonds whenever he can find owners that are willing to sell.

Infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jadie Miner, of Refuge community, died Monday and were buried at Walnut Creek Tuesday afternoon.

It happened to me

—maybe, I was lucky.

It happened this way: I found myself in a run-down condition . . . I was listless . . . despondent . . . my appetite was lagging . . . I was losing weight.

I wasn't desperate, as I knew I had no organic trouble . . . but I was puzzled as to why I was losing ground.

I was lucky because a friend suggested that I try S.S.S. Tonic . . . she said it had greatly benefited her in building back her strength and now she felt like her old self again.

You, too, will want to take S.S.S. Tonic to regain and to maintain your red-blood-cells . . . to restore lost weight . . . to regain energy . . . to strengthen nerves . . . and to give your skin that natural health glow.

At all drug stores in two convenient sizes. The larger size at a saving in price. There is no substitute for this time tested remedy. No ethical druggist will suggest something "just as good." © S.S.S. Co.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY PAYS REGULAR DIVIDENDS

Birmingham, Nov. 12. — Quarterly dividends were declared yesterday by the Board of Directors of Alabama Power Company on its $6 and $7 preferred stock, payable January 3, 1938, to stockholders of record December 13, 1937. These dividends amount to approximately $553,000.

At the same time it was stated that the regular quarterly dividends upon the $5 preferred stock payable February 1, 1938, will be considered and are expected to be declared at a meeting of the Board of Directors to be held in the early part of January, 1938. These dividends will amount to $33,000.

TOM COFER REUNION

On last Sunday, November 14, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cofer of Mars Hill community wre made glad by having all their children home for the family reunion.

Mr. and Mrs. Cofer have been residents of this community all their lives, and their community is proud of them and the large family they have reared here. It is the hope of the writer and Mr. and Mrs. Cofer's other neighbors that they will live to enjoy many more years, when their children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren will gather to cheer and brighten their lives as they grow older.

Relatives present were: Mr. and Mrs. Bill Cofer and son, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Cofer and son, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Edwards and sons, all of Birmingham; Mr. and Mrs. Jadie Cofer, Mr. and Mrs. Only Crumpton and family, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Cofer, Mr. and Mrs. Frazier and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bernice Childress and son, Mr. and Mrs. N. Posey and children, Mr. and Mrs. Herdman Cofer, Mr. Cobern Cofer, and Miss Mollie Gothard, all of Jemison.

Several visitors called by during the day to express good wishes to the family.—A friend.

Mrs. J. A. Hester left Tuesday to spend the winter months in Miami, Fla.

Who Pays The 1½ Billions?

NEWS ITEM: Motor taxes in 1937 are estimated at new record high of $1,500,000,000, paid chiefly by $30-a-week workers owning cars purchased second-hand and having average value of only $200. Taxpayers will be forced to work nearly two weeks to earn their $50 tax bill, $30 of which represents taxes on gasoline alone.

THORSBY SECTION

(Mrs. S. E. Norton, Manager)

Thorsby Institute News

The annual stunt night of Thorsby Institute was held last Saturday night in the school auditorium. The freshman class, Mr. V. H. Sutlive, teacher, put on the first stunt. In the first part, Lillian Smith, of Clanton, dressed in a long white net dress with single stars in it, danced very gracefully a ballet dance. This was followed by a play based on the book, 'Pigs is Pigs" by Ellis Parker Butler. Maurice Higgins, Thorsby, was the principal actor. He represented the station agent. Rubye Raybon, Thorsby, was the stenographer. Jack McCarn, Birmingham; Harold Foshee, Clanton, were helpers at the station. John Davis, Thorsby, was the consignee who refused a consignment of guinea pigs. Billy Callen, Clanton, was the inspector.

The second stunt was given by the Sophomores, Miss Ruth Ford, teacher. This was a circus. The members paraded from the rear of the auditorium to the platform where various performances were put on. The boys and girls represented animals. The elephant, clowns, tight-rope walk performers, trained animals were represented. Robert Minor of Thorsby was the announcer.

The Juniors, Miss Klingelhoefer, teacher, had living marionettes representing Hansel and Gretel. Frances Conway, Thorsby, was Gretel and and Leonard Bosworth, Hansel. There were several other characters.

The Seniors, Mr. H. R. Maddox, teacher, put on the last stunt. Mary Christ, Hayneville, was the reader for a pantomime entitled "singing leaves." The second part was entitled "The old woman and the peddler." Richard Petersen, Thorsby, was the storekeeper. Oleita Nowell, Geneva, Ala., was old woman who traded at the store. Margaret Golson, Clanton, played the role of peddler.

The judges gave the Sophomores first place, the freshman second. There was a large attendance.

Thorsby Institute has awarded the contract for putting brick on the outside of the dining hall to Mr. Percy Freeman of Clanton. The pebble dash stucco is to be removed at once.

The Ladies Guild held a special business meeting on Friday to make plans for the annual Bazaar, which will be held on December 4th. Sales will begin at ten o'clock. Refreshments will be served throughout the day.

Thorsby Institute is always glad to have parents and others interested visit chapel and classes, but it is giving a special invitation to all who wish to visit school this week. No special program has been planned, but visitors wll have a chance to see the school in its regular work.

Miss Estelle Bozeman, a trained instructor in alcohol education from the Alabama State Department of Education, spoke to the Thorsby Institute pupils and teachers Tuesday afternoon, showing in a scientific way the harmfullness of ethyl alcohol, which is in beer, ale, whiskey, wine, etc., to the human body and eventually takes away will, consience, self-control, so that one who drinks sinks to the animal level.

Christian Endeavor News

On Sunday night, November 14th, the Christian Endeavor held its weekly meeting in the fellowship room of the Congregational church. The leader, Fred Blankenship, and six other persons held a discussion on war. Each contributed his own ideas and other facts from statistics which he had with him.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

When the day is over, do we think of how we have lived the day, whether we are able to say we have done well our tasks, have we done as many good deeds as we had opportunity to do, have we cheered that weary soul who felt that life was hardly worth itself, do we have a single thing to rue, do we feel perfectly happy about our life during the day? Do we ever try to excuse ourselves for any thing we did that we shouldn't have done, or for something we could and should have done, but didn't? I think if each of us would "take stock" of ourselves often and honestly criticize ourselves where criticism is needed, we should really make better people of ourselves.

Now that the church year is over and conference has come, have we, individually, done our very best for our church, our preacher, our Sunday school; have we helped our faithful church workers as we should? Have we contributed as much as possible of our talents, our power, our influence ,our means, our prayers? De we feel that we have been perfectly fair with our church and all her interests? Do we, in our souls, feel that we can say, "I've done my best in every way?" Blessed are you if you can say that. There is no greater joy. To those of us who don't feel that we've done our very best, who don't feel that we, individually, have put forth our extreme efforts, last year is gone now, and rather than grieve over the wasted opportunities to serve our church, may we promise ourselves and our Master that the end of next conference year will find us rejoicing in the realization of the ability to say "Well Done" to ourselves because of having been faithful, loyal, and true to our church.

We appreciate the good crowds who attended Sunday school and preaching services last Sunday. Our pastor will be away at conference next Sunday, but we expect you to come worship with us at Sunday school, at 9:45 a. m. Don't disappoint us. Come help us in our Sunday school and we shall all receive a blessing.

To Make Him More Secure In His Position

SOCIETY

Dr. and Mrs. John Kimmey Complimented With Progressive Dinner—

Dr. and Mrs. John Kimmey, who left Monday to make their home in Anniston, were honored at a farewell progressive dinner party Saturday evening.

The party met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McCain for the cocktail course, which was served from a table covered with lace cloth and centered with a large bowl of white chrysanthemums.

The salad course was enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John McSwean.

Later the party enjoyed the main course, which was given by Mrs. Claud Craig, Mrs. J. W. Hayes, and Mrs. John Mullins, at the home of Mrs. Mullins.

The party consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. McCain, Mr. and Mrs. John McSwean, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Jones, Mr. and Mrs. John Mullins, Mr. and Mrs. John Kimmey, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Craig.

Several couples of the party motored to Lake Haven to finish the evening's entertainment; they were Mr. and Mrs. McSwean, Mr. and Mrs. Craig, Mr. and Mrs. Mullins, and Dr. and Mrs. Kimmey.

Mrs. J. W. Hayes Entertains Club Members—

Mrs. J. W. Hayes was hostess to members of the Thursday Contract Club at 2:30 o'clock on last Thursday afternoon.

Two tables were arranged for bridge. The house was effectively decorated in an artistic arrangement of chrysanthemums. At the conclusion of a series of bridge games, Mrs. J. P. Hayes won a double deck of cards for high score prize. Mrs. John Kimmey was awarded two dainty guest towels for guest prize.

A tempting salad plate with hot coffee was served to Mesdames J. P. Hayes, Arthur Johnson, James Hugh Jones, Claude Craig, Jack Hayes, Joe Mullins, John Kimmey.

Mr. and Mrs. John McSwean and little son, John, spent the week end with relatives in Glenwood and Brantley.

Mr. and Mrs. Dubb Huddleston and little daughters, Pat and Ann, spent Sunday in Tuskegee with Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Huddleston.

Mrs. R. R. Franklin Entertains For Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cope—

Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Franklin entertained Friday evening with a "Fiddlestick Party" in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cope, of Clanton, who are leaving shortly to make their home in Troy.

Orchid chrysanthemums were tastefully arranged in baskets and vases about the living and dining rooms.

Lovely gifts were given to the honorees. High score prizes were awarded to Mrs. Sam Cope and Mrs. Cecil Ellison. Low scores went to Mrs. Flem Higgins and Mr. Spurgeon Calloway.

Delicious refreshments, a salad plate with coffee, were served by the hostess after the games.

The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. Spurgeon Calloway, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cope. and Mr. and Mrs. Flem Higgins, of Clanton, and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Henley, and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Ellison.

Wednesday Contract Club Meets—

Mrs. Grady Reynolds was hostess to members of her card club on last Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The apartment was decorated in baskets of specimen chrysanthemums. High score prize was awarded Mrs. Hugh Simpson.

At a late hour delicious refreshments were served to the following club members: Mesdames J. C. Burnett, Omar Reynolds, Hance Alred, Frank Callen, John Deramus, Arthur Johnson, Hugh Simpson, John Browder, and John Armstrong.

The guests for the afternoon were Mesdames Norman Roberts, Joe Mullins, and Jim Wood.

Mrs. John Mullins Entertains—

Members of the new Wednesday Card Club were entertained last week by Mrs John Mullins, at 2:30 o'clock. The living room was decorated in an artistic arrangement of fall flowers.

After a series of bridge games, guest prize was awarded Mrs Hugh Jones. Mrs. Mullins received the high score prize.

A tempting salad plate with hot coffee was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. C. C. Craig.

Enjoying this hospitality were the following club members: Mesdames John Kimmey, John McSwean, Claude Craig, W. E. Huddleston, Jr., Paul Locklear, Jack Hayes. The guest was Mrs. Hugh Jones.

Dr. and Mrs. John Kimmey carried their children to Mrs. Kimmey's parents at Pinckard, Ala., Friday. They will remain a week, while Dr. and Mrs. Kimmey move Monday to their new home in Anniston.

Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Hayes and Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hayes attended the football game between Alabama and Georgia Tech in Birmingham Saturday.

Mrs. J. C. Page left last week for a visit to her parents in McMinnville, Tenn.

Mrs. Bob Alexander and little son, Bobbie, are spending several weeks with relatives in McRae, Ga.

The many friends of Louis Popwell will regret to know that he is ill with pneumonia.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wood attended the Alabama-Tech game in Birmingham Saturday.

Dr. J. P. Hayes left Tuesday for Ft Myers, Fla., where he was called to Mr. J. Q. Wade, who is ill at his home there.

Mrs. Tom Burdett who underwent a major operation at South Highlands Infirmary last week, is improving.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

Growing Cannon Fodder.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—To produce this crop takes time and planning.

First your veterans must grow past fighting age because those who survive the horrors of one war never willingly enlist for another. Meanwhile be sure the women have been bearing children, since children are the seed corn of your future sowing.

Irvin S. Cobb

As the newer generation grows up dose it on the old reliable P. P. P. formula — parades, pomp, propaganda. Bands and guns and flag - wavings, murderous preachments and manufactured patriotism; they all help to fertilize against the ultimate harvesting.

Befuddle the first-born on dreams of drunken glory. Teach him the neighbor over the way is an enemy who must some day be crushed without mercy. Make him believe his country's destiny demands revenge for old hurts, reprisals for old losses, widened boundaries writ in blood.

And then, in about 20 years, you have a nation ripened for ruin, a race of mothers ready to offer their sons to the slaughter. It's a slow crop, but a sure one, and highly gratifying to professional sword-rattlers and power-mad dictators, to profiteers and financial hijackers.

Let's see, come 1938, it'll be just about 20 years since the last time the world cut its own throat.

Two-Faced Politicians.

SOMEBODY says the type of politician who swaps worthless promises before election for the public's confidence—and its votes—reminds him of Janus. Janus was a god with two faces, and the ancients finally got so they couldn't trust either one of them. But it took them a long time to catch on.

Might I be pardoned for thinking of a homelier simile? I'm thinking of the pack-rat of this western country. The thrifty pack-rat slips with stealthy tread into your camp whilst you slumber and carries off something of value. But he doesn't steal it—nothing like that. He merely exchanges with you, you being asleep at the time. He leaves a dry twig behind and totes off a side of meat. He confiscates one of your boots, but, in return, confers on you a couple of dead cactus stalks. His intentions may be honest, but there is no record showing where a packrat ever got the worst of a trade. I figure he's part Scotch.

And the profits resulting from his professional dealings certainly may be likened to the career of many a chronic officeholder now flourishing in our midst.

This Man Dewey.

WHEN the Republicans get out the hound-dawgs to run down their 1940 nominee, they might search in the tall timbers of Manhattan island.

There's a young fellow there, the name being Dewey, and he being kin to the great admiral whose deeds crackled at Manila one May day morning like the lightnings on Mount Sinai. He comes of old Yankee stock. He hails from a debatable state, Michigan; lives in a pivotal state, New York. Still in his mid-thirties, he smashed the foulest, securest nests of labor racketeers and vice racketeers in America.

He married a sweet Texas girl, as southern as they make 'em. Her grand-uncle was Jeff Davis. My daddy was Jeff Davis' relative, too.

And this young Dewey trained for grand opera. Speaking of this charm thing, think of a President who'd wind up his fireside radio chats singing "Home on the Range."

Yes, sir, the G. O. P. might go farther and fare worse.

* * *

Nordic Supremacy.

RECENT events bring to mind a little story of some years back when night-riding patriots in an Arkansas county felt called on, as a sacred duty imposed upon all true Caucasians, to put the Black brother in his place; said place, in at least one instance, being a colored cemetery.

Also, there had been a flood of notices to vacate sent through the mail to members of the African race, followed by unpleasant surprise parties did the recipients fail to heed the gentle warning.

So the community was getting more Nordic by the hour and the sound of the Anglo-saxophone was heard oft in the stilly night. That's the scene and the plot. Now for the sketch:

Pelagria Perkins meets Hookworm Hostetter on Main street:

"Hooky," says Pelagria, "effen you wuz to git a letter frum dese here w'ite shirts, whut would you do?"

"Me!" says Hookworm. "Boy, I'd finish readin' it on the train."

A congressman standing around with a fragment of torn coat tail in his hand may be a feature of next year's campaign. — Toledo Blade.

It is almost as dangerous to be a communist in Russia as it once was to be a kulak.—Detroit Free Press.

It seems that the war we fought to end warfare and make the world safe for democracy has backfired.

The old fashioned man who drank his coffee out of a saucer may have been crude, but all furniture was paid for, and he usually had a well filled cellar at the beginning of winter.

PUT UP OR SHUT UP

What the political weather map needs and must have, before any feeling other than nervous disquietude can swell the bosom of the average citizen, is a forthright declaration from each of our three living great Americans—Roosevelt, Hoover and Landon. They should bespeak their minds in terms not ambiguous. If they are willing to close and lock the 1940 White House doors behind them they should equivocate no longer. A famous personage gave birth to a noted slogan; it carried no hidden meaning. The originator neglected to have his words copyrighted, so today, whosoever will may use them for his own. This declaration, "If nominated I will not accept; if elected I will not serve," would be easy to interpret if adopted by any or all suspicious political characters of current front page history.

What a beautiful and happy serenade it would be, to fill our nights with gladness and our days with peace, if Messrs. Roosevelt, Hoover and Landon would band themselves together in a renunciatory triad, and with the words of that famous declination for their swan-song, pass from the 1940 picture, carrying with them their pristine glories yet untarnished—into self-imposed and commutual political expatriation.

ECONOMIC LIBERALISM

We used to be told that a republic was a country in which the people were given the chance to do business and make their own way without undue government interference, so long as they abided by the general laws of business and finance. Such, we are informed, constitutes liberalism. A long line of liberals from Thomas Jefferson on down told us that the best governed people were the least governed.

Things have certainly changed since 1933. Since that time we have had in succession the NRA, the AAA, the ERA, the WPA, the PWA, the CCC, the Muscle Shoals project putting the government in the power business, and the federal communications act to regulate the telegraph and the telephone. In each of these proposals, some of which have been discredited and discarded, there has been government regulation and regimentation. Even now it is proposed to make the entire country a sort of Muscle Shoals reservation, with government agents running around everywhere to regulate the power business and tell the power consumer what to do and how to do it.

Certainly it would seem that it is about time to call a halt long enough to take a national inventory and see where we are going. We are rapidly approaching the Himalayan debt peak of 40 billion dollars. We have spent more than 18 billion for relief and reconstruction and the relief problem is still with us. A lot of people have just succeeded in losing everything they had made in the stock market since 1932. The president told us some time ago that "we planned it this way", but we are willing to give him an opportunity to change his plans if he will employ a little old fashioned economic sound judgment.

Is a citizen who "goes into politics" entitled to an office year after year for no other reason than that he is apparently unable to live comfortably out of office? Do the voters never desire a public officer who can do something successfully besides get votes?—Charleston News and Courier.

James W. Gerard has been designated to promote more friendly feeling for America abroad. By proceeding tactfully, he may even help Europe to forget that we remember the war debt. —Detroit News.

In these days a good diplomat is one who can resist being talked into an agreement to keep the peace.—Syracuse Herald.

Secretary Hull is quoted as stating that any nation which elects a policy of isolation will pay an inexorable price for it. Yet it is likely that the price won't be as great as would be that of a policy of international buttinsky.

Maybe if the Japs grab off the western half of Siberia they will be so busy settling it they will forget about us for the next half century.

MAN IN THE MOON

STRAWS IN THE WIND

There was a time in the not too distant past when any man running for a high office had to make the electorate believe that he was hand in glove with the president, or he had no chance whatever. And so far as a Republican being elected—well, that was just a big laugh.

But times change, and so do conditions and public opinion, as we must certainly be forcibly reminded by two recent elections. In one of these, a senator was elected who made no bones about the fact that he expected to represent his people, and won over an avowed Roosevelt New Dealer. In the other election there was the case where a Republican was elected to the House of Representatives over another ardent New Dealer. In this last election, too, a fusion-independent candidate won a big office over a Democrat for whom none other than Jim Farley, himself, had taken the stump.

The first instance mentioned above was in Arkansas, in the election of a senator to succeed the late Joe Robinson. Miller, although a Democrat, went to the people with the proposition that, if elected, he would represent his people first, voting with the president's policies when he believed them right, bot against them when he believed them wrong. Gov. Bailey, his opponent, ran on a platform of pure and undefiled Rooseveltism, stating that the president's desires would be his, regardless of surrounding circumstances; the very platform on which Lister Hill is making his campaign in Alabama at present. In Arkansas Miller beat the soul-sold Roosevelter by a wide margin.

The next instance is that where Bruce Barton, New York Republican, captured a seat in the national House of Representatives which had been filled by Democrats for a number of years. Dewey, another ardent Republican, also won a big victory in this election for the position of district attorney in Democratic and Tammany controlled Manhattan borough in New York. And the results in these elections were not even close.

The third was where LaGuardia, fusion candidate, defeated Mahoney for Mayor of New York, although Mahoney had the full backing of the state Democratic machine, and Mr. Farley, Roosevelt's right hand man and stool pigeon de luxe, even stumped the city for him; but LaGuardia, the independent, beat the Democratic machine, big shots and all, as well as the Tammany Tiger, to a miserable frazzle.

The fact that President Roosevelt was so quick to congratulate LaGuardia hasn't helped Jim Farley's feelings any, either. And, by the way, Farley has shown some inclination to pitch his hat into the presidential ring the next time. In fact, he is rated in high quarters as the No. 1 Democratic prospect, and his chances are even rated better than those of President Roosevelt for election. This action of President Roosevelt's in hastening to congratulate LaGuardia, when he had just won over Farley and his candidate, Mahoney, has made Farley look a little foolish from a Democratic machine standpoint—that perhaps he was not being let inside on all the president's plans, as he had every reason to believe he was. That was a right bitter "chaw" for Mr. Farley, and could lead up to something really interesting. Farley construes it as something of a slight, and naturally is a bit resentful.

These incidents are not so important or extraordinary in any sense other than that they may be "straws in the wind", which show an abrupt reversal of opinion. What chance would Miller have had in Arkansas a year ago if he had let it be known that he would not support the president in his every wish, blindly and without question? How far would a Republican have gotten in the Tammany Tiger lair of Manhattan borough of New York? What electorate would have turned thumbs down on a Jim Farley and Democratic state machine candidate? And what a surprise it would have afforded to find that Farley and Roosevelt were not in perfect accord!

It would seem that the New Deal is cracking up—both inside and out. If these instances carry any omen, the New Deal is losing its grip on the people as a whole. And if Farley's surprise and resentment at Roosevelt's quick congratulation of a candidate he (Farley) had worked against is any sign, together with the evident fact that there was at least a lack of common cause and campaign between them, then it is easy to believe that the inside works of the New Deal are not as solid as heretofore.

It is a bit amusing, too, to read the childish explanations the Democratic papers give for these reverses. Three days before the Arkansas catastrophe (from a Rooseveltian New Deal standpoint) these papers were heralding this election as another test of the New Deal's strength, and predicted that it would come through with flying colors. The next day after the election they claimed that local conditions overshadowed the national significance of it, and that the reverse meant nothing, nationally. In New York they again said that it was a clear-cut New Deal test, but after the election tried to explain it away on local conditions. They explained the election of Republican district attorney Dewey as a result of his fearless fight against the "rackets" of New York.

The Birmingham Age-Herald went so far as to say that it was glad Bruce Barton was elected, because it would "be a good thing to have a Republican of Barton's calibre in a congress which is so overwhelmingly Democratic". We took that with a handful of salt, however. And right there, too, we believe The Age-Herald unconsciously slipped a cog in its New Deal adherence, admitting in a way that the president and New Deal congress need some kind of check rein.

Whatever these incidents mean we can not now know, of course, but it will be interesting to watch carefully these "straws in the wind" to see just how far they go in foretelling important governmental changes in the near future.

It is said that $25,000,000,000 has vanished from the value of American securities during the past two months and somebody wants to know where it is. Perhaps it has gone into the "kitty" of the New Deal.

Mussolini has agreed to a census of foreign soldiers in Spain, relative to their withdrawal, evidently on the theory that before the official figures are in the war will be over.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

"Do you notice that most of the women we have seen on the street of this big city have bloated eyes and show signs of dissipation?" I asked Mrs. Jones as we came in to the hotel a few minutes ago. "I did not notice them on the street, but here in the hotel the most of them look that way," she replied. "I expected them to look that way after the big party last night," I said.

Women cannot stand it. This wild life will kill the men, as coarse as they are. Women are made of finer clay. My mother taught me to respect women. When I was a child all women were ladies to me. Of course, I heard there were loud women who smoked and drank, but they lived in one section of the city and had no standing in decent society, I was told. How times have changed! When I was a country boy we had no scandals in our community. We did have one "grass widow". She was a lovely woman and had Bible grounds for leaving her husband. But she acted as if she were ashamed of the tragedy in her life. When I was a boy, if a woman had a bad name she was kicked out of society. Now we sometimes elect her president of the club. "That is the mantle of charity we have thrown around the fallen," one says. That is wrong. It is a tolerance of evil. In our modern world we have tried to whitewash sin. God does not tolerate sin. His eyes cannot look upon evil with the least degree of allowance. Sin was such a terrible thing that God, in order to save men, had to send His son to earth by way of the body of a virgin that He might bear our sin in His body on the cross. When Jesus was dying and our sin was laid on Him, God the father turned His back, and the saddest words that ever fell from lips were the words of our Lord, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" If God could not look upon our sin when His Son bore it, He will not let modern men and women escape in the day of His wrath.

For the country as a whole, net cash income available for farm family living and for savings has been higher in 1937 than in 1936, but may be somewhat lower in 1938 than in 1937, says the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Farmers are receiving relatively favorable prices and returns per acre for their 1937 crop of peanuts. This is largely because of the peanut diversion program of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

TAXES ON AUTOMOBILES

Birmingham, Nov. 15. — The ad valorem or property tax on automobiles in Alabama will be eliminated at the next session of the legislature if the Alabama Motorists Association has its way. Directors of that group at a recent meeting adopted a resolution favoring the elimination of the ad valorem tax after pointing out that it would in no way affect the state's highway construction or maintenance program.

In calling upon allied groups to aid them in the fight for elimination of the ad valorem taxes, the directors in their resolution pointed out that the assessed value of cars owned by 297,292 Alabamians makes up less than 3% of the state's total assessed valuation on real and personal property, yet they paid special motor vehicle taxes equal to 27% of the state's income in 1936. The motorists' bill was $16,775,920 to the state and counties, while the federal government took $3,311,496 additional in excise tax.

More than half of the states in the Union have eliminated ad valorem tax on automobiles, and even if Alabama should eliminate her ad valorem tax her motorists would still pay more motor taxes per capita than are paid in these 25 states.

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

CLANTON, ALABAMA

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

NINE ALABAMIANS NAMED ON THE FARM SECURITY BOARD

Auburn, Nov. 15. — Nine Alabamians, including three "master farmers", two other outstanding farmers, three agricultural leaders, and one well known industrialist, have been appointed by Secretary Wallace to administer the farm tenancy program in Alabama, announces R. W. Hudgens, regional director, and Julian Brown, state director, rural rehabilitation.

R. K. Greene, Greensboro, farmer and former farm security executive, is chairman, while other members are P. O. Davis, director, Alabama Extension Service, Auburn; R. E. Cammack, state supervisor, vocational agricultural education, Montgomery; W. C. Lassetter, editor, Progressive Farmer-Ruralist, Birmingham; Donald Comer, industrialist and farmer, Birmingham; J. B. McClure, farmer and member of the state AAA conservation committee, Florence; Elgie Hayes, master farmer, Huntsville; B. H. Lightfoot, master farmer, Troy; and A. O. Riser, master farmer, Alpine.

Alabama has been allotted $615,531 under the Bankhead-Jones Tenant Act, to be loaned to Alabama tenants, farm laborers, and share-croppers for the purchase of family sized farms.

FARM HORSES AND MULES CONTINUE TO DECREASE

Auburn, Nov. 15. — The long continued downward trend in the number of all horses and mules will probably continue until 1940 or 1942, when it is expected that the number of colts raised will be equal to the disappearance of older animals from farms, says the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics, in its 1938 horse and mule outlook.

"The low point in the number of animals of working age will occur 2 or 3 years later," says the report just received by P. O. Davis, director, Alabama Extension Director.

"During the next few years it is expected that prices of horses and mules as related to the price of all commodities, will continue on a fairly high level with possibly some tendency to decline," says the bureau. "The price of mules will probably be maintained for a longer period than the price of horses."

A slight reduction in watermelon acreage in 1938, especially in the second and late production states, is indicated in the 1938 outlook report of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Since 1933 the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation has purchased $351,571.00 worth of farm products produced in Alabama. These products were purchased for distribution to needy persons on relief.

HOG PRICES EXPECTED TO BE LOWER IN 1938

Auburn, Nov. 15. — Hog prices during the 1937-38 marketing year, which began October 1, are expected to average lower than in 1936-37, says the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

"The number of hogs slaughtered in the 1937-38 marketing year probably will be somewhat smaller than in 1937-38, but larger than in either 1934-35 or 1935-36," says the Bureau report. "Average weights this year are expected to be heavier than in 1936-37, when they were below average because of feed scarcity. The increase in average weights will largely offset the reduction in numbers slaughtered, hence total supplies of hog products in the current year probably will be about as large as a year earlier."

SOME CATTLE PRICES MAY BE LOWER, OTHERS HIGHER

Auburn, Nov. 15. — Prices of better grades of beef cattle probably will decline more than seasonally while the prices of lower grades of steers will advance seasonally and average higher the first half of 1938 than during the first half of 1937, says the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics outlook to P. O. Davis, director, Alabama Extension Service.

This prediction is based upon prospects for relatively large marketings of grain fed cattle during most of 1938 and to some weakening in consumer demand for meats. "Total beef supplies for consumption next year probably will be nearly as large as in 1937, and will include a larger proportion of beef of the better grades," says the report.

FARM CREDIT NEEDS MAY INCREASE DURING 1938

Auburn, Nov. 15. — The volume of short term credit used by farmers and stockmen in 1938 is expected by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics to be at least 10 per cent larger than in 1937 because of rising costs and need for replacements and additions to equipment.

Ample lending resources for meeting the increased credit needs are available at commercial banks and through agencies rediscounting with the federal intermediate credit banks. Interest rates are likely to be little different from those prevailing in the current year.

The demand for new mortgage credit is expected to be small—chiefly for the purchase of farms.

Uncle Natchel Back In New Radio Series

Natural Chilean Nitrate Radio Folks Announce Resumption of Broadcast Program

Local radio fans will welcome the return to the air next week of Uncle Natchel and Sonny, the two stars of the Natural Chilean Nitrate of Soda program. The Natural Chilean folks have informed us that these two favorites are resuming broadcasts, beginning Saturday, November 20th and Sunday, November 21st on important Southern stations.

The role of Uncle Natchel, wise old colored philosopher and leading character in the series of broadcasts will be played by Frank Wilson, who is well known as a radio entertainer and as a stage ad film star. He gained considerable renown for his performance as Moses in the stage and film version of "Green Pastures." Wilson's characterization of Uncle Natchel in a series of 52 broadcasts for the Chilean folks last season, added to his laurels.

Sonny Miller, the young white charge of kindly old Uncle Natchel in the program will be played by Eddie Ryan, Jr., a talented 12-year-old actor from Virginia who has made a number of stage appearances in New York and is now playing in "French Without Tears" on Broadway. He has appeared with Katherine Cornell, Helen Hayes and other stars, and has been a part of the "Easy Aces," "Dreams of Long Ago" and other coast-to-coast radio programs.

With the two featured players on the Uncle Natchel program will be a group of Southern singers whose numbers will consist largely of old songs of the South collected and arranged by Ethel Park Richardson, the author of the sketches. An orchestra of 11 pieces will provide the instrumental features of the program. Artells Dixon, a native of Greenwood, La., who has been identified with such radio successes as the "Brer Rabbit Stories of Joel Chandler Harris," the "Rudy Vallee" program, "Show Boat," "Roses and Drums" and many others, has been engaged by the Natural Nitrate folks to be the announcer.

When Alabama freed her toll bridges the Federal government paid her half of the cost of all these bridges that were located on Federal Aid roads. The State has used this money to match other Federal money. By this method the State has received enough Federal money, to be used in paving, to compensate it for the cost of all these bridges located on Federal Aid roads. Nine of these bridges were so located.

State Capitol News

Disconsolate wets eyed returns from Geneva county which last week sent that Wiregrass County back into the dry colum by a 300-vote majority while jubilant drys hailed their victory as foreshadowing "repeal of repeal" by the 1939 legislature, irrespective of the incoming governor's wishes.

The State last week called in $416,000 in three and three-quarters per cent refunding bonds of the issue payable in 1965. The bonds were bought on a yield basis of 3.05 to 3.16 and will net the state asaving of approximately $16,000 a year in interest. The call brought the total of bonds redeemed from income tax surplus to $916,000.

Offices of the Alabama Public Service commission and the State Forestry Commission have been transferred to more commodious quarters in the old highway department building as construction crews moved to complete the magnificient new highway structure. The utilities commission will be housed in main offices of the old highway building, at the head of Dexter Avenue, with the forestry commission taking over the annex. Their old quarters are being razed to remove obstructions to the new highway building's terrace.

Asserting there is no such thing as partial prosperity, Governor Bibb Graves, ardent New Dealer, is on record for a wage and hour bill now pending in the national house.

Mrs. T. B. Andrews, who for many years has served Governor Graves as personel secretary, has been installed as recording secretary in the executive offices following appointment of Lloyd Hooper to the state compensation commission. Mrs. Andrews was succeeded by Miss Kate Thompson, who in turn was succeeded in the chief stenographic post by Miss Mildred H. Heacock.

License inspectors were out in the field last week, instructed to cite delinquent payees, more than half of whom are automobile owners. Under state statutes refusal to heed citations and pay delinquent fees will be followed by arrest.

Reports to the automobile tag department of the state tax commission from the various counties were that licenses generally were moving slow. A sharp increase is expected however with the delinquency penalty added.

Ed F. Taylor, clerk of the state house of representatives, returned to his hotel last week after being struck down by a hit-and-run driver. Mr. Taylor received a fractured leg and multiple bruises and a comparison on an evening stroll was injured. The accident happened down town. The state highway patrol is cooperating in an investigation.

William I. Truby, veteran capitol newsman, has been appointed public relations counsel for the Alabama Alcoholic Beverage Control Board. Governor Graves, in announcing the appointment said the office would conduct an educational campaign on all phases of the board's activity as it now swings into regulation and enforcement, operation having been definitely placed on a revenue-producing basis.

Martin's ambulance brought Mrs. Louise Higgins home from a Birmingham hospital Sunday.

GASOLINE TAX COLLECTIONS

Gasoline tax collections for the calender year 1936 amounted to more than 28 per cent above the amount collected in 1934, and the collections for the first eight months, present calender year, show an increase of about 14 per cent over the same period last year.

Each county's share of the gasoline tax collected during the fiscal year which ended September 30, 1937, amounted to $97,380.59 against $65,925.05 for the year ended September 30, 1934. This is an increase of $31,383.54, or approximately 44 per cent.

While Alabama was showing an increase of more than 28 per cent in 1936 collections over 1934 the Federal Government collections represented an increase of 9.53 per cent for the same period.

The Alcoholic Beverage Control Board's report shows that the State Stores have sold beverage products to the amount of $2,646,238.97 since the store were opened last May. This money has gone into the State treasury and is added to the gross receipts of the State, but most of it is paid out for more whiskey and the cost of operation.

OLD-AGE BENEFITS

A steady flow of claims for lump sum payments of federal old age insurance is being certified, including a total of 322 in Alabama up to October 1, 1937, it is announced by Martin C. Folmar, manager of the Social Security Board's Birmingham field office. Included in that total, Mr. Folmar said 182 have been certified in the following counties served by the Birmingham office: Chilton 1, Jefferson 166; Lamar 1, Marion 1, Shelby 3, Walker 10. Fayette, Franklin, and Winston, all in this field district, had entered none.

Mr. Folmar explained that there are two types of lump sum benefits under the old age insurance provisions of the act that can be made any time after December 31. One is a benefit which an eligible worker may obtain upon reaching age 65. The other is known as a death benefit payment.

About 72 per cent of the male wage earners who die leave a widow," Mr. Folmar pointed out. "In more than half the cases in which old age insurance claims have been filed, the amount of the claim was all that the deceased had to leave for his family.

"More than 221 death benefit claims and 101 claims of eligible workers who have reached 65 already have been certified in Alabama. The claimants are men and women who have earned wages in a factory, shop, mill, mine, store, or some other line of business, inhluded under the law, since December 31, 1936, and before reaching age 65; relatives or estates of those who have died this year."

Game & Fish News

Game Coming Back

Several species of wildlife that were on the downgrade in Alabama a few years ago are coming back satisfactorily, according to records of the Conservation Department. Outstanding are the wild turkey and whitetail deer, both of which are now more numerous than 25 years ago. Wild turkeys appear in 66 out of 67 counties; in more than 20 counties the deer population is heavy. A deer survey in 1934 indicated this fine animal was in 42 counties. The beaver, on the decrease up until a few years ago, is now found in 23 counties, with some of the counties having one to a dozen colonies. A survey of Bob White quail, now being conducted, shows encouraging results. Out of 34 counties reporting, quail have been observed in 31 counties; and in 156 coveys seen in a 10-day period, the average covey had 14 birds. A preliminary survey of Alabama's wild ducks also indicates an increase this year, both as to migratory flocks stopping off, and the nesting flocks.

Deer Hunt Permits

Despite announcement of the fact that all permits for the annual deer hunt in the Black Warrior National Forest would be issued from the U. S. ranger office at Decatur, the Conservation Department is receiving requests for permits. Thomas A. Wilson, U. S. Forest Service ranger at Decatur, is issuing all permits for the hunt which will be held in two sections one December 6 and 7 and 8 and 9, with a maximum of 500 hunters in each section. All permits will be issued before December 1 and in order received. All applications must give the number of the applicant's hunting license (state).

Duck Hunting

The season on waterfowl, including all species of game birds classed as waterfowl, opens on November 27 and closes on December 26 following. Not more than 10 ducks in the aggregate of all species may be taken in one day, and not more than one day's bag limit in possession at any one time. The wood duck, bufflehead and redhead are all protected and cannot be shot. In addition to his state or county hunting license, the duck hunter must obtain a Federal duck stamp, costing one dollar at the postoffice.

More Ignorance Drops

us plan our own business. Then we can understand what we are doing and how to make a living.

In the beginning of this article I had something to say about we had too many drones. I will try to explain the comparison. I had to go to Clanton the other day to get a tag for my car. The time allotted in which to get them had just about run out. I didn't have the money to get it with, but I had been running it since October 1, and it was get one or go to jail, and I have never thought I would like that kind of home. So I went out and borrowed five dollars to help out in paying for the tag. But when I got down there, I never saw so many people crowded around. I wondered what all that could mean, but finally found out it was people who had come to get tags for their cars, as well as driver's licenses. I stood around and looked on to see what all they had to do to obtain a tag. They went to the tax assessor's office and assessed the car, to the tax collector's office and paid tax on the car, then to the judge's office and got the tag and paid for it and the driver's license. Some men had to pay for four or five driver's licenses. While standing there waiting for my time to come, I allowed one lady to go ahead of me, out of respect for the ladies. Then came to my mind, "This reminds me of a bee hive at work in a gum—people bringing in their money". Then I thought, "Well, where is all this money going to?" I realized some of it stays here in Clanton, some goes to Montgomery, some of it goes to Washington, and some might go to help pay that 37 billion dollars the government owes. Then I wondered sure enough where all this money is going to that the people are putting into the treasury of the government. The people are paying, but they get nothing back but a receipt. They don't even give the people credit for it. So, there are just too many drones.

I must stop for this week, but will try to explain more next week. I stand for justice, and if we prosper the government must stay out of our farm business.—J. N. Scott.

ELECTION TRENDS

the new district attorney of the borough of Manhattan is a staunch Republican, Thomas E. Dewey, who beat the Tammany candidate in Manhattan itself.

It is true that LaGuardia is not a man about whom conservative Americans can wax enthusiastic. He has always been more or less of a radical in politics, and talk of him as a possible Republican presidential nominee is rather ridiculous. The significant fact is not so much that LaGuardia won, as the fact that the reunited forces of Tammany and the New Deal failed to win over such an opponent.

In other elections on November 2, results were generally encouraging to Republican hopes. Three new congressmen were elected from New York, all Republicans. In Detroit a ticket backed by the semi-communist CIO was heavily defeated. Coupled with the recent senatorial election in Arkansas, it begins to look like the American people are about to wake up.

* * * * * * * * * * * * *

We see by the press that we are to have more compulsory cotton legislation, processing taxes, and all. The same restriction of individual liberties as were embodied in the original Bankhead act, it appears. What this country needs more than anything is a restoration of business confidence, a sound currency, and a cessation of coddling radical labor elements by the Washington government. Given this, and the natural upswing of business would do more for cotton prices than any artificial and compulsory restrictions the bureaucrats can devise.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

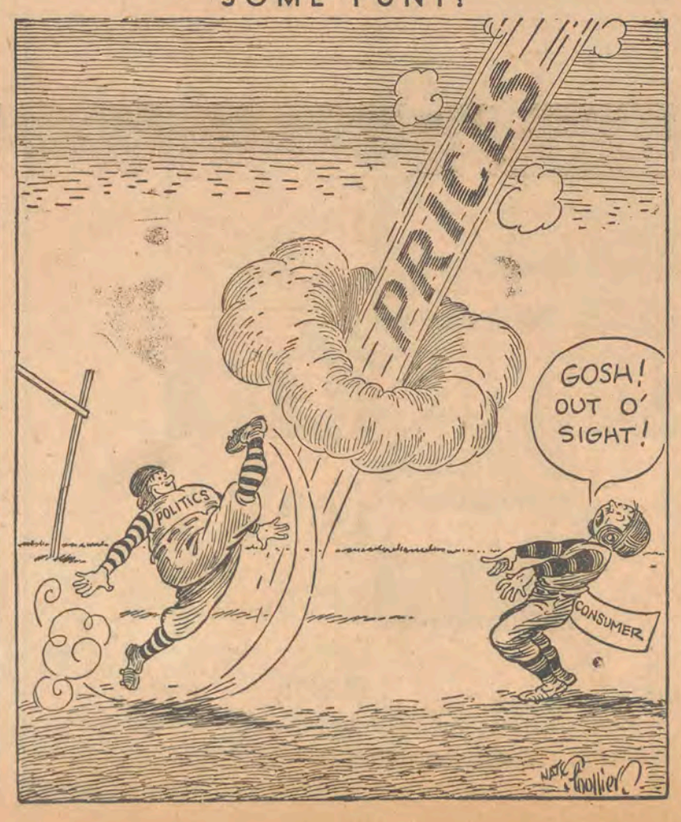
We noted an encouraging sign of the times in a news article in recent issues of the Montgomery papers. Said articles reported that on November 9, some 200 irate taxpayers stormed the city hall in staid old Montgomery to protest against certain street paving projects about to be launched with aid from the PWA—but with the taxpayer still bearing the heaviest share of the burden. The Montgomery papers reported that the protests were so effectual that the city commission killed a number of the projects involved, in deference to wishes of the property owners.

We understand that a majority of the streets involved are side streets that never have and probably never will justify the expense of paving. It was just another case of the city fathers having received a handout from Washington, and proceeding on the accepted New Deal theory that money was made to be spent, regardless of whether the expenditure is required or justified.

The hopeful feature of the situation was the mass outpouring of small home owners and taxpayers to protest the proposed new assessments. It is this class of citizens who have constituted the real "Forgotten Man" of the New Deal regime. Taxed to death, often browbeaten and intimidated, they have been the goats who have been shorn by the New Deal rabble-rousers to provide for the bums and the loafers. With little or no increase in their incomes, they have been faced with staggering increases in the prices of things they must buy to live. There is evidence on all sides that this great middle class of sane American people is beginning to wake up. When they do, it will be just too bad for the politicians, national and local, who have thrived on appeals to class hatred.

For five years we have been taught that the noblest specimen of American manhood is the type who stops you on the street with the line about "a dime for a cuppa coffee". It is this element that has been coddled, petted and encouraged in its worthlessness, by the party in power. The substantial homeowning, taxpaying citizen has been shoved into the background, in fact has been told, at least by implication, that he is lucky not to be deprived of everything he has, instead of only part of it.

Those of us who are old enough to remember can recall the time when the politician on the stump had kind words for the taxpaying middle class who form the backbone of our civilization. True, the politician often went no further than words, but at least the love and affection was there, and at times it was even translated into action. Since the New Deal gang took charge, all this has been changed. The man guilty of the crime of owning more than one shirt has been given to understand that he was lucky to escape with his life, and the political gush has been poured forth upon the sort of people who formerly were considered objects of charity.



It is only a question of time before the middle class gets tired of being taxed, cussed and exploited. Citizens of this class are long-suffering and slow to wrath, but there is a limit even to their endurance and turning the other cheek. The little episode at Montgomery last week was, we repeat, a hopeful omen for those of us who have been putting up the cash for the swivel-chair theorists to experiment and buy votes with.

METHODIST HOUSE WARMING

On Wednesday afternoon, November 16, from three to six, the new Methodist Parsonage was the scene of a lovely house warning. This event celebrated the completion of the beautiful eight-room brick cottage of English style.

The ladies of the Missionary Society assisted Mr. and Mrs. Truett in greeting the throng of guests who came to offer their congratulations. A delicious punch, with dainty cakes, were served in the dining room. The guests were carried on a tour of the house, which is most attractive in design. A real pleasure of the afternoon was the opportunity of meeting Mrs. W. J. White of Birminghom, who drew the floor plans. Many useful and beautiful gifts, expressions of good will and friendship, were on display. This reception was a delightful affair, long to be remembered.

TROY STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE TO CELEBRATE NEXT SATURDAY

Troy, Ala., Nov. 15. — Combining three separate events into one gala celebration, Troy State Teachers College next Saturday will observe homecoming, the semi-centennial of the college's existence, and the inauguration of a new prseident.

The one-day celebration is expected to return hundreds of alumni and friends of the institution for the occasion. Saturday will be a full and interesting day at the college.

Two separate programs will be given. Beginning at 10 a.m., that morning, the inauguration exercises investing Dr. C. B. Smith with the presidency will be held. Starting at 2 p.m., the college will observe the 50th year of its existence with an elaborate program. Distinguished Southern educators and Alabama dignitaries will appear on both programs.

Opening the morning program, Dr. S. C. Garrison, president of George Peabody Teachers' College, Nashville, will make an address. Dr. Garrison is an outstanding educator, and his address on this occasion is awaited with interest.

VOLUME 45.—EIGHT PAGES CLANTON, ALA., THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1937 NUMBER 32

Man Fell Dead In Sheriff's Office Sat.

Major Lewis Foshee, Citizen of Near Jemison, Died of Heart Failure

Last Saturday morning about 11 o'clock, just after he had transacted some business with county officials, Mr. Major Lewis Foshee, age 66, dropped dead of heart failure. Mr. Foshee had been in declining health for a year or more. His home was in Pleasant Grove community, out west of Jemison.

Sheriff Hardy called a doctor, who arrived in a few minutes and pronounced the aged man dead. An undertaker was notified, and the body was carried away by Spigener's ambulance.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at Pleasant Grove, Rev. D. F. Green officiating, Spigener directing. Surviving, besides the wife, Mrs. Thula Foshee, are two sons and two daughters—Albert and Earl Foshee of Jemison; Mrs. Lou Sewell of Montgomery, and Miss Laura Foshee of Jemison. The deceased was a lifelong resident of the community around Pleasant Grove and Jemison.

"GIVE US THIS DAY OUR DAILY BREAD," SAY RAILROADS

That prosperous railroads are essential to a prosperous nation, is the contention of the Association of American Railroads, which publishes a pamphlet in the interest of increased freight and passenger rates.

Taxes, they assert, have increased since the low point of the depression, 25 per cent, prices of what railroads buy have increased 40 per cent, wages have risen 18 per cent, freight rates hove gone down 10 per cent, passenger fares down about 18 per cent.

The railroads' outlay, they assert, has increased $664,789,000 a year, within four years, and as a result a crisis, threatening business, not railroads merely, particularly business whose stability rests partly upon investment in sound securities.

NEWELL — McKINSTRY

Mrs. John O. Newell, of Clanton, announces the engagement of her daughter, Helen Patricia, to John H. McKinstry, of Birmingham, the wedding to take place December 17.

SMITH — SLAUGHTER

Dr. and Mrs. Turner M. Dennis announce the engagement of their sister, Mary Frank Smith, to Mr. Mayfield Ezekiel Slaughter, the wedding to be on Wednesday, December 8, at the First Baptist church, Clanton.

A VERY FINE TURNIP

Mr. Joe Wilson presented The Union-Banner Saturday with a very nice turnip. It was a purple top variety and weighed five and three-quarter pounds. If somebody will bring us some fresh backbone to go with the turnip, ye editor will have one grand feast. We thank you Mr. Wilson for the turnip, and we thank you in advance for the backbone Mr. . . . . .

P. S.—A still bigger turnip, or rutabaga, was presented us Monday morning by another good friend, Mr. J. N. Scott of Jemison. This one weighed eight pounds; this will call for still more back bone.

IN MAYOR'S COURT

Ottis Ellison, 16 years old, public drunkenness; fine and cost $8.25; $4.25 remitted on account of youthfulness.

4 Foreign People At Exchange Hotel

The Exchange Hotel in Clanton served as host to some extraordinary guests on Wednesday of last week, November 17. Dr. A. F. Harmon of Montevallo College stopped off there for dinner, and with him was Dr N. F. Greenhill, president of Livingston Teachers College. Also in the party was a lady from old Mexico, one from Germany, and one from France. The three ladies are students at Montevallo.

Condemned Man Here Also

The same day state officers dropped in at the Exchange Hotel for lunch, having in their custody a man condemned to die, the latter being Sam Morris, of Birmingham. He is charged with killing his wife, and the same day that he was here had been denied clemency by the Alabama Supreme Court. He was being carried to Kilby prison to await execution on December 31. Three state officers were in charge.

DR. S. D. STURKIE BECOMES NEW COUNTY HEALTH OFFICER

Succeeding Dr. J. M. Kimmey, Dr. S. D. Sturkie took charge of the county health department the first of last week. Dr. Sturkie comes here from Anniston, where he has been connected with the health department. He is originally from Macon, Ga., and prior to going to Anniston, he was county health officer of Blount County for two and one-half years. Dr. Sturkie returned last June from Johns Hopkins School of Medicine, where he had taken one year post-graduate work.

PATROLMEN'S REPORT

The State Highway Patrolmen wish to again remind the motoring public that they have been instructed to bear down on violators of the laws pertaining to driver's licenses, the truck flags and flares, and speeding trucks, and are making special efforts to nab all such violators.

The report of arrests of the patrolmen for the past two weeks, beginning November 8 and ending November 21, is as follows:

J. M. Harbison, violating the carrier law; fine and cost $10.50.

Fred Barr, no driver's license; fine and cost $16.50.

Luther Johnson, violating flag and flare law; fine and cost $10.50.

Joseph Bailey, no driver's license; fine and cost $15.50.

W. Arthur Burgin, no driver's license; bond.

J. D. Powell, speeding; bond.

James Wade, no driver's license; fine and cost $16.50.

Mike Connors, no driver's license; fine and cost $17.50.

W. L. Whitworth, driving while intoxicated; bond.

Henry Huey, no driver's license; fine and cost $15.50.

Victor Faubert, no driver's license; fine and cost $15.50.

G. W. Brice, no driver's license; fine and cost $15.50.

Arthur Davis, public drunkenness; bond.

LOCAL FORCES COOPERATING

Your county agent, assistant county agent, and three teachers of vocational agriculture have been meeting each week to unite their thoughts so that the group may work better toward having a better Chilton County.

In these meetings, the agricultural needs of the county have been studied. After determining these needs, a program was set up for the year, covering these jobs.

These needs will be put before the farmers, merchants and leaders by several methods. They are as follows: local newspapers, letters, group meetings, evening schools, and individual work.

BOY BORN SATURDAY NIGHT

On last Saturday night, November 20th, a 11½ pound baby boy was born to Mr. and Mrs. Marion L. Mims, of Providence, Beat 16. They have named him Jimmie Ralph.

Clanton-Isabella Play Wed. P. M.

Tigers Expect To "Turn Loose" In Last Game Of Season; Game Called To Begin At 1:30 P. M.

Chilton High takes on the Isabella football machine on the local field on Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 in the last game of the season, which also will be the feature of Homecoming Day at Chilton High, when all old grads are especially invited to come back to their old Alma Mater, and mingle with the present student body.

The Tigers have won four and lost four this season, and will be out to "bust the watermelon" against Isabella in order to finish on the profit side of the ledger for the year's play. In addition to this, the Chilton-Isabella game is always good. It is a kind of grudge game between the two schools, and is an annual affair.

Don't forget—this game is called early, 1:30 p.m. Coach Spicer expects to let the boys "turn loose and try everything", and it promises to be an interesting scrap. This is the last game of the season, and very likely will prove one of the best. Be there—at 1:30, sharp!

MISS GLENNIE THOMPSON IN A BIRMINGHAM HOSPITAL

Miss Glennie Thompson, member of the sales force at The Leader, was carried to South Highland infirmary, Birmingham, last week, and underwent an operation for appendicitis. Late reports say she is doing nicely, and is expected to return home this week end.

COUNTY HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Four cases of diphtheria were reported to the County Health Department during the last week, according to a statement made by Dr. S. D. Sturkie, newly appointed County Health Officer. One occurred near Thorsby and one near Jemison; while there were two cases in one family in the vicinity of Collins Chapel.

Dr. Sturkie urged all parents to protect their children early against diphtheria by consulting their family physicians for an injection of diphtheria toxoid. "This agent," he added, "will stimulate the child's body to form a sufficient amount of antitoxin to avert the development of diphtheria in from 90 to 95 per cent of children to whom it is given. He further stated that the Health Department would render this service to children when parents are not financially able to pay for the protection and that the injection would be given at the health office on any Saturday, from 8:30 a. m., to 5 p. m.

GRAND JURY IN SESSION TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 30

Circuit Clerk, J. C. Patillo, announces that the Grand Jury of Chilton county has been called to meet on Tuesday of next week, November 30th.

"THEY ASKED FOR BREAD — HE GAVE THEM A STONE"

[AN EDITORIAL]

For three-quarters of a century, the Solid South has been the backbone of the Democratic party. Without the South, the party would amount to nothing. In numerous presidential elections, it has failed to carry a single state outside the South. Even in the last two elections, when the Democrats swept the country, the moral effect of having half the votes needed to elect already "in the bag" gave the impetus necessary to put the party ticket across in other sections.

By some queer mental process, the Democratic party has adopted as an unwritten law that no Southern man shall be its nominee for the presidency. Under the guise of expediency, it has selected its candidates from New York or Ohio. The Solid South has been made to understand that its duty is to furnish the electoral votes, always; never the candidate who will be the recipient of those votes.

In view of all this, anyone might reasonably expect, whenever a Democrat is elected president, even though a Northern Democrat, as he inevitably must be, that he would be peculiarly grateful to the section that made his election possible. A Yankee, even a New York, Tammany-tutored Yankee, who owes all he has and is to Southern votes, should feel even more strongly obligated to favor and defend the South than a Southern man would, if so elected. That is, he should feel that way if he responded to the normal instinct of gratitude which is a quality of the better type of human beings, and even of some of the lower orders of animal life. It has remained for Mr. Franklin Delano Roosevelt to demonstrate that this quality of being grateful for gifts or favors, such as prompts even a beggar to mumble thanks over a nickel, can be lacking in a man who has been elevated to the high office of President of the United States.

When Mr. Roosevelt's special session of congress convened the other day, the impoverished farmers of the South watched hopefully for the relief that had been so often promised. They had reason to believe that at this session, with farm relief as a major objective, they would actually get somewhere. They asked for bread, and instead the Democratic party of their fathers flung the serpent of an anti-lynching bill in their faces. A diabolical measure, sponsored by Mr. Roosevelt's pal and crony, Mr. Wagner, the Democratic senator from Mr. Roosevelt's state of New York, is this bill. A measure inspired by sectionalism and hate of the South, that would write on the federal statute books a peculiar law providing peculiar and drastic penalties for a series of law violation that is met with in the South—without providing any similar condemnation and penalties for

KIWANIS MEETS WEDNESDAY NIGHT, NOVEMBER 24TH

The Kiwanis Club of Clanton meets Wednesday night of this week, instead of Thursday night, as is usual. A Thanksgiving program will be given at the usual hour and place—7:30 at Thomason Hotel.

The program on December 2nd will be on "International Relations," when four nations will be represented. Details will be announced next week.

TOM HEFLIN TO SPEAK AT THE COURTHOUSE NEXT SATURDAY

It has been advertised that Hon. J. Thomas Heflin, former Senator from Alabama, whose home is in Lafayette, Chambers County, will speak at the courthouse in Clanton next Saturday, November 27, at 2 o'clock.

He will speak in behalf of his candidacy for the U. S. Senate. He is an able speaker, and will no doubt deliver a fine message.

His circulars promise "a frank and fearless discussion of the issues in the senatorial race". All citizens of the county are invited, with a special invitation to the ladies.

JEMISON 34 — MITCHELL DAM 29

In a return game between Jemison and Mitchell Dam last Friday night, the Cardinals lost to Jemison 34 to 29.

The Jemison quint is a scrappy little bunch, and will make someone sit up and take notice before the season comes to a close.

The report on this game was called in just before going to press, and no particulars could be obtained.

VALUABLE CHRISTMAS GOODS AT UPCHURCH DRUG COMPANY

The Upchurch Drug Company has a large and complete line of useful and valuable articles for the Christmas and pre-Christmas trade this year. The stock includes fine watches, rings, diamonds, wrist watches, fine cut glass, manicure and comb-brush sets; in fact everything in a line designed to cover all holiday needs. Dr. Upchurch is this week beginning a series of advertisements explaining this array of valuable gifts, his lay-away plan, Etc. Turn to another page and read all about it.

We Give Thanks - - - -
This Thanksgiving Day, 1937

We who live in a nation that offers its people freedom, equality, and justice . . . . . we who know but little want —yet enjoy many luxuries . . . . . we to whim every day is one of peace . . . . . join our hearts in giving Thanks this day.

Commemorating the spirit of Thankfulness our forefathers evinced for their new land is surely an occasion well our celebrating on this day.

NEW FORD CAR WILL BE SHOWN TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 20

Messrs. T. J. Littlejohn and Julius Burnett, of Clanton Motors, are announcing the new 1938 Ford this week, the same to be on display at their show rooms on Tuesday of next week, November 30. You are advised to hold everything until you see the new Ford. Read the announcement on another page of this issue of The Union-Banner.

R. W. LOWE WAS LUCKY IN DEER HUNT

On last Friday morning R. W. Lowe and Dr. Odum, of Clanton and a Mr. Strength, of Maplesville, left for Sumter County, South Alabama, to attend the annual deer hunt. R. W. Lowe was lucky in bagging a fine deer and a wild turkey. Dr. Odum killed a wild turkey.

They returned Sunday morning with plenty of deer and turkey to eat. They reported a very nice time.

MRS. ANNA CULPEPPER IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Mrs. Anna Culpepper, age about 65 years, of West End, Clanton, was carried to Central Alabama Hospital Monday morning about 10:30, by Spigener's ambulance, suffering from a self-inflicted pistol wound near the heart. She was reported in a serious condition Tuesday morning. She is the widow of Frank Culpepper, who died about a year ago.

AIRPORT INSPECTOR HERE LAST SATURDAY

Major S. E. Travis, of New Orleans, district airport supervisor, from the bureau of air commerce, was in Clanton last Saturday making some surveys and inspections of Gragg Field. Clanton will be on the direct line of the proposed new trunk air line from Kansas City to Miami, via Birmingham and Montgomery.

NOTICE TO DOG OWNERS

This is to notify all persons now owning a dog, which has or has not been vaccinated, to be on the look-out for the man on the check-up.

Now, as this is a law, and the health and well being of people and livestock are at stake, we are expecting the people who have been so nice to go just another step, and tell us if there is a dog in your community that has not been vaccinated. You may be called upon to show your vaccination certificate. If so, do it in good spirit. It is for your protection, after all.

Now in just these few short months since most of the dogs were vaccinated we have almost forgotten about mad dogs. To all of you who have not vaccinated your dogs: It will cost only one dollar per dog, now, if you will cooperate as your neighbor has done and wishes you to do.

Thanking all who have cooperated so nicely, and trusting we may make a banner county out of Chilton, all the way.—W. L. Parrish, Rabies Inspector.

W. J. HEADLEY IN HOT SPRINGS

Mr. Wm. J. Headley, of Clanton Rte. 5, writes, asking us to tell all of his friends around Clanton that he has arrived safe at Hot Springs, Ark., where he has gone for his health. He has a good place to stay, and expects to be there about three weeks. If anyone wants to write to him, his address is 839½ Central Ave., Hot Springs, Ark.

GROCERY STORES SET NEW HOUR FOR CLOSING AT 6 P.M.

Grocery stores in Clanton have set new opening and closing hours, according to an agreement signed by them this week. Customers of these stores are asked to please remember these hours. Following is the agreement:

We, the undersigned managers of grocery stores in Clanton, Ala., hereby agree to close our places of business each day, except Saturdays, at 6 o'clock p.m., and open at 6:30 o'clock a.m., beginning on November 29, and continuing through March 31, 1938.—Signed, Bean and Taylor, Taylor Grocery and Market, Yellow Front Store, A. & P. Tea Co., Peoples Cash Store, Hill Grocery Co., Clanton Cash Store, Clanton Cash Store No. 2.

Dr. Truett Remains Here Another Year

Methodist Episcopal Conference Names Pastors In All Districts

The Methodist Episcopal Conference, in session at Marianna, Fla., last week, named Dr. J. M. Truett as pastor of Clanton Methodist church for the coming year, to succeed himself. This will be good news to Dr. Truett's many friends in this section of the state.

Rev. I. W. Chalker was assigned to St. Mark's in Montgomery; C. M. Ellisor, Eclectic; B. W. Ware, Verbena; R. J. Mills, superintendent of Alabama Orphanage; D. W. Haskew, Andalusia; E. A. Childs, Marianna, Fla.; C. C. Wilkerson, Panama City, Fla.; A. E. Middlebrooks, executive secretary of the Board of Christian Education; C. H. Hildrith, Plantersville; W. T. Ellisor, Prattville.

In its sessions, the conference voted for unification of the three branches of Methodism, and attacked the state liquor store plan in Alabama. The appointments were read after a "love feast" and Bishop Sam R. Hays's sermon Sunday.

Voters were asked to "cast their ballots in the next general election for only those candidates for the legislature who are dry and pledge themselves for repeal of the present liquor control law," in the resolution adopted by the conference Sunday night.

"We also appeal to the voters," it continued, "to select a man for governor who will be pledged to take Alabama out of the liquor business and see that the laws are enforced." The state was charged, "morally, at least," with aiding and abetting "in the commission of crime in that the state sells liquor to persons who become intoxicated and then commit crime."

The presiding elders and a committee of ministers were to determine next year's meeting place in the absence of an invitation from any city.

The conference approved, in a resolution, the moves of the United States to establish world peace, and copies were to be forwarded to government officials.

MRS. NELLIE CLECKLER

Mrs. Nellie Cleckler, age 20, died at her home west of Verbena Monday morning. Burial was Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at Mt. Pisgah, Martin and Sons in charge. Before her marriage, Mrs. Cleckler was a Wainwright from Autauga County.

Red Cross Drive Is Nearing Close

Thursday Night Ends Drive; Response To Roll Call Is Very Gratifying

The annual roll call for the American Red Cross comes to a close Thursday of this week, November 25, the same having been in progress for the past two weeks. Mr. J. Mell Martin, chairman of the drive, says that he is well pleased with the results of the roll call. A complete report of the results will be made probably next week.

The roll call chairman and the workers wish to extend thanks to the people, who have been so nice and so generous in aiding in the work. Mr. Martin personally wishes to thank the workers, who have been so generous in giving of their time and efforts to make the drive a success. All have worked nobly together, and it has all been a distinct pleasure, says Mr. Martin.

If some have been overlooked, they will please see either Mr. Martin or one of the workers before Thursday night and get your membership card.

MEETINGS FOR ELECTING COMMITTEEMEN FOR 1938

For the purpose of the administration of the Agricultural Conservation Program the county is divided into six communities. The division is as follows:

Community No. 1. — Beats 1, 11, 12, 16, and east side of Beat 4.

Community No. 2. — West side of Beat 4, and Beat 3.

Community No. 3. — Beats 5, 6, and 10.

Community No. 4. — Beats 7, 8, and 15.

Community No. 5. — Beats 9 and 14.

Community No. 6. — Beats 2 and 13.

There is to be a committee of 3 farmers and one alternate for each community. Under the regulations, it is necessary to hold only one meeting in each community for the purpose of electing committeemen.

As secretary of the Chilton County Agricultural Conservation Association, I am calling meetings for the purpose of electing committeemen, as follows:

Community No. 1. — Tuesday, November 30, at 9 a.m., at the courthouse, Clanton.

Community No. 2. — Wednesday, December 1, at 9 a.m., at the courthouse, Clanton.

Community No. 3. — Monday, November 29, at 2 p.m., at Verbena High School, Verbena.

Community No. 4. — Monday, November 39, at 9 a.m., at Stanton School, Stanton.

Community No. 5. — Wednesday, December 1, at 2 p.m., at Thorsby Jr. High School, Thorsby.

Community No. 6. — Tuesday, November 30, at 2 p.m., at Jemison High School, Jemison.—J. W. Fant, County Agent.

REV. PAUL ODEN TO BE AT REFUGE THURSDAY NIGHT

Rev. Paul Oden will present his pictures on "Prayer" at Refuge church on Thursday night, November 25. Everyone is urged to attend.

NON-JURY TERM OF COURT HERE DECEMBER 2, 3, AND 4

There will be a non-jury term of the circuit court of Chilton county the last three days of next week, December 2 3, and 4. Thursday will be devoted to civil cases, and Friday to criminal cases. Saturday will be devoted to pleas of guilty.

Farmers Are Urged To Care For Berries

Association Urges People To take Care of Old Plants and Get New Plants If Needed

The Clanton Berry Growers Association through Mr. L. E. Diefenderfer, is urging the farmers of the county to give more attention to strawberries this coming year than in the past. It is not too early now to begin planning for the next berry crop.

If you are going to need plants, you should get in your order within the next few days, so as to have plenty of time to get them delivered. Two fellows here—Mr. Elijah Headley and Mr. Royal Roper— have plants for sale. You can be furnished any number of plants you can use, if you will speak in time.

One undesirable feature about berries has been virtually eliminated—that of utilizing over-ripe berries. The cold packers are now prepared to take care of these berries, and they will not have to go to waste as most of them have heretofore.

Mr. Diefenderfer says that prospects now are the brightest for a good berry crop in years, and the farmers are urged to begin in time to take care of the opportunity before them.

People ought to begin to see that King Cotton cannot be depended on, so they had just as well cast around for something else. Strawberries are the safest bet for Chilton county. Think over the matter seriously, farmers, and begin preparations in plenty of time. You can make some money on strawberries, and you know a little ready cash comes in handy in the early Spring.

CHILTON COUNTY HIGH F. H. A.

The F. H. A. of Chilton County High School had its second meeting November 12. The meeting was presided over by Loudelia Clackler. The last section of the initiation of new members was completed, and officers were elected.

These officers elected were: President, Loudelia Clackler; Vice President, Margaret Allen; Secretary, Mildred Maddox; Treasurer, Nell Marcus; Reporter, Ola Mae Parrish.

Committees were also appointed, these being social, executive, financial, publicity, and program committees. After the meeting, the program committee met to get organized and begin their work.

The F. H. A. is planning to do some outstanding things this year in improving the Home Economics Department, and helping the members with their problems.—Ola Mae Parrish, Reporter.

FIDDLER'S CONVENTION TO BE AT UNION GROVE SCHOOL

The Union Grove Junior High School on Saturday night, November 27th, is giving a fiddler's convention, chicken super, pretty girl contest and many other forms of entertainment. Everybody come and bring someone with you, as everybody is expecting a good time.

All fiddler's are cordially invited to come; prizes will be given the best fiddlers.

MERIT EXAMINATIONS

University, Ala., Nov. 22. — Merit examinations for about 40 positions with the Alabama Employment Service will be held December 17-18, at seven cities in the state. The positions pay from $1,260 to $2,750 a year.

Dr. Roscoe C. Martin, head of the political science department of the University of Alabama, is in charge of the examining program for the U. S. Employment Service, which is cooperating with the Alabama State Employment Service in this undertaking.

Written tests will be administered at Birmingham, Gadsden, Mobile, Montgomery, Sheffield, and Tuscaloosa. All applications for examinations must be filed before December 4, with Dr. Martin's office at the University of Alabama.

Information regarding these examinations can be had on request from Dr. Martin's office, or from local employment offices.

Many red, galled spots on farms in Alabama and other Southeastern states can be transferred into a mass of green if kudzu is planted on these areas, says J. C. Lowery, agronomist, Alabama Extension Service, and R. Y. Bailey, agronomist, Soil Conservation Service, in pointing out that kudzu may be established any time after a killing frost until growth begins in the spring.

ALABAMA GIRL PLAYING IN UNCLE NATCHEL RADIO

Helen Claire, of Union Springs, Takes Leading Feminine Roles In The Chilean Nitrate Air Shows

Alabama friends of Miss Helen Claire will be more than ordinarily interested in the Uncle Natchel radio programs being broadcast this year by the Natural Chilean Nitrate folks. Miss Claire, a native of Union Springs, Ala., plays important feminine leads in many of these programs. Her first appearance on the Natural Nitrate program will be in the role of Nancy Bell, in a romantic Mardi Gras story by Ethel Parke Richardson, heard over WSB and WSM on Saturday, November 27, and over other important southern stations on Sunday, November 28. The Uncle Natchel broadcast is weekly on Saturday, from Memphis and Nashville, and Sundays on other southern stations.

Miss Claire is a graduate of the Feagin School of Dramatic Art, in Virginia. She won a high place in the theatre, appearing with Lillian Gish and Miriam Hopkins, and many other leading actresses. She has played in numerous radio productions, including the Rudy Valee program, Roses and Drums, Show Boat, and Bernard Shaw's "Back to Methuselah".

Miss Claire is also well known as the commentator of Fox Movietone News on fashion, society, etc. She will play feminine roles in the Uncle Natchel programs frequently during the winter and spring.

HOMICIDE RATE HIGH IN 1936

Montgomery, Nov. 22. — The average negro was more than four times as likely to become the victim of homicide in Alabama last year as the average white person in this state, according to figures on the 1936 homicides rates which have just been prepared by the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health. The 1936 rate was 46.4 per 100,000 population for colored people and only 10.1 per 100,000 for white people. The rate for the two races as a whole was 23 per 100,000 population.

A total of 654 homicides occurred in Alabama during the year, of which number 185 were of white people and 469 colored.

Only two years are listed on the records of the Bureau of Vital Statistics as having had higher death rates than the 1936 rate, these being 1933 and 1934. The lowest rate shown on these records was reached in 1918, when it was only 11.4 per 100,000 population. The highest rate was 26 per 100,000 population, reached in 1934.

Alabama's allotment for farm tenant aid this year is $615,531. This money is to be used to assist tenant farmers in buying farms. The tenants to be benefited are to be selected by an advisory committee, of which R. K. Greene, of Greensboro, is chairman.

TRY OUR NITROGEN-POTASH MIXED-GOODS TOP-DRESSER

R. F. FOWLER, Union, S. C. (shown on the horse at right below) says: "My neighbors and I here in the Pea Ridge section of Union county, S. C., used 5,516 bags of 3-8-10 (NPK) for wheat and cotton in 1937. I used 250 pounds of 3-8-10 per acre under my wheat and top-dressed with nitrogen. It stooled well and averaged 24 bushels per acre which sold for $1.25 per bushel. On our cotton we had a nine weeks' drought with only one light shower. Cotton all around us rusted but where the 3-8-10 was used there was no Rust. The difference in cost between 400 pounds of 3-8-10 and 400 pounds of 3-8-3 was only 84 cents per acre. With cotton at 10 cents, it took only 8½ extra pounds of lint per acre to pay this small difference in cost. It was worth a lot more than that on my farm, even with the bad season."

LEWIS W. TABOR, Perry, Ga. (above) says: "I harvested 28½ bushels of wheat per acre where I used 3-9-5 (NPK) fertilizer at planting and top-dressed with nitrogen. On part of my field, where I top-dressed with nitrogen and 100 pounds of NV MURIATE per acre, I harvested 40½ bushels per acre. I consider potash very necessary in growing high yields of good quality grain."

F. T. SMITH, Spartanburg, S. C. (above) says: "My tenant, M. A. Harrison, produced 27½ bushels of wheat and 64¼ bushels of oats per acre in 1937 by using 200 pounds of 4-8-8 (NPK) fertilizer when planting and top-dressing with 100 pounds of 21-0-10 per acre. Oats were planted in September and wheat in October. Fertilizer applied at planting helped it to stool well. On cotton and corn we use 4-8-8 with a top-dressing of 21-0-10. For the past 10 years we have used high potash fertilizers, from 4-8-6 to 4-10-10, and find them profitable."

Dr. WADE STACKHOUSE

J. E. DAVIDSON

A. C. THOMPSON

HAMER SMITH

T. R. HORN

DR. WADE STACKHOUSE, Dillon, S. C., says: "In 1894 I grew my first cotton crop and sold it for 4¼ cents per pound, with seed at 11 cents per bushel. In 1901 I learned that Rust was due to a shortage of potash and repeatedly since then I have grown excellent crops of cotton on 'cotton-sick' land by using large amounts of potash.

"In 1937 here at Dillon I used 6% POTASH in my cotton fertilizer at planting and then just after chopping a top-dresser containing 10% POTASH. On my Millen, Georgia, farm I used 25% POTASH in my cotton top-dresser. For small grains I use a nitrogen-potash top-dresser, because I find it is better than straight nitrogen. The extra potash gives larger yields of better quality grain, improves the hay crops which follow, and leaves the land in better condition for cotton."

J. E. DAVIDSON, Fort Valley, Ga., says: "On 115 acres of wheat I used 175 pounds of 20-0-10 (NPK) per acre and averaged 24 bushels. This gave me plump grain and stalks that would not bed-down. I used 8 to 10% POTASH in my fertilizer on 263 acres of cotton and made 265 bales. Potash is cheap and farmers cannot afford to use less than 8% if they want the best results."

A. C. THOMPSON, Bankston, Ala., says: "A test in 1935 with an extra 100 pounds of NV MURIATE of POTASH per acre convinced me of the need of extra potash for cotton. In 1936 I produced 13 bales on 14 acres by using extra potash. In 1937 I used 10% POTASH in my cotton fertilizer, having a small plot with 5% POTASH as a check. The cotton receiving 10% POTASH withstood the drought and the rain which followed better. Bolls were larger and easier to pick. The yield was about one-third more."

HAMER SMITH, Clio, S. C., says: "In 1937 I put 200 pounds of nitrate of soda over a field of oats. On part of the field I added 100 pounds of NV MURIATE of POTASH per acre. Without the extra potash the yield was 44 bushels per acre. With the extra potash the yield was 58½ bushels per acre, an increase of 14½ bushels. The hay crop following the oats was better where the extra potash was used. I used 6% POTASH in my cotton fertilizer at planting and a nitrogen-potash top-dresser just after chopping. I ginned the first bale of cotton in Marlboro county in 1937."

T. R. HORN, Glenwood, Ala., says: "For 25 years I have used extra potash as a top-dresser for cotton. First, I used 50 pounds of MURIATE per acre and then increased the amount to 100 pounds per acre on 300 acres of cotton. I have used 200 pounds per acre on some land. This prevents Rust and brings my cotton to full maturity."

J. M. GRAHAM, Chester, S. C. (above) says: "I learned about potash when I went to manage Rose Hill Plantation between Bishopville and Sumter in 1921. Those were the 2-8-2 (NPK) and 3-8-3 days. There were French spots or Rust in the cotton so we increased our potash in the fertilizer at planting to 7% and then used 100 pounds of NV KAINIT per acre with our nitrogen. We stopped Rust, increased yields, improved the staple and made better quality all the way around. In 1934 we made 904 bales on 774 acres.

"Here at the Chester Seed Farm we made 305 bales on 301 acres in 1936. Potash works the same here as it did in Lee County. We used 3-9-7 (NPK) at planting and two applications of 12-0-20 top-dresser. With a bad season and boll weevil in 1937 we made 342 bales on 350 acres. Potash keeps cotton from giving back, reduces shedding, makes bigger bolls with better staple and the result is larger yields of better quality.

"In 1937 on four acres of wheat, planted after alfalfa and given three applications of nitrogen-potash top-dresser (325 pounds per acre), I threshed 161 bushels and had three big loads of hay from around the edge of the field."

IT WILL PAY YOU TO USE MORE NV POTASH. SELECT FERTILIZER CONTAINING 8 TO 10% NV POTASH, OR TOP-DRESS WITH NV MURIATE, OR NV KAINIT, OR A NITROGEN-POTASH TOP-DRESSER CONTAINING PLENTY OF GENUINE NV POTASH.

They will be accompanied to Chicago by Mr. Sims and Miss DeLony.

RABBIT FEVER WARNING ISSUED ALABAMA FARMERS

Auburn, Nov. 22. — Dr. J. N. Baker, Alabama State Health Officer, Montgomery, warns hunters and farmers to beware of tuloremia, or rabbit fever.

"Although tularemia is found in, and transmitted by raccoons, opossums, and other rodents, the wild rabbit is regarded as by far the main source of human infection," he says. "Apparently, domestic rabbits, raised in rabbitries, are entirely safe from this point of view."

The disease is usually transmitted to humans through the handling of infected rabbit carcasses, the eating of infected rabbit meat that has not been properly cooked, and exposure of the human skin to the bite of the infectious insects, such as rabbit tick, wood tick, deer fly or horsefiy. "The vast majority of the cases are the result of skinning and cleaning wild rabbits," he says.

Dr. Baker advises that those who handle wild rabbits can shoot and dress these animals in perfect safety, as far as tularemia is concerned, if they will be careful to observe these simple precautions:

1. Use discrimination in shooting poor, weak rabbits. Rabbits that appear dazed and slow of movement are probably that way because they are victims of tularemia.
2. Always wear rubber glives when handling rabbits.
3. Keep hands away from face and eyes while handling rabbits.
4. Kill and bury all rabbits which seem slow of movement and sickly.

The average motorist earns only $20 to $30 per week and never owned a new car.

HELP KIDNEYS

To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste

Your kidneys help to keep you well by constantly filtering waste matter from the blood. If your kidneys get functionally disordered and fail to remove excess impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be a warning of some kidney or bladder disturbance.

You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. A multitude of grateful people recommend Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

Bronchial Coughs Need Creomulsion

Just a common cough, a chest cold, or a bronchial irritation of today may lead to serious trouble tomorrow. They may be relieved now with Creomulsion, an emulsified Creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medicinal combination designed to aid nature in soothing and healing infected mucous membranes by allaying irritation and inflammation and by aiding in loosening and expelling the germ-laden phlegm.

The Medical Profession has for many years recognized the beneficial effect of Beechwood Creosote in the treatment of coughs, chest colds, and bronchial irritations. A special process was worked out by a chemist, for blending Creosote with other ingredients and now in Creomulsion you get a real dose of genuine Beechwood Creosote which is palatable and can even be taken frequently and continuously by both adults and children.

Creomulsion is one preparation that goes to the very seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm. When coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles—due to common colds—hang on, get a bottle of Creomulsion from your druggist, use it as directed, and if you are not satisfied with the relief obtained, the druggist is authorized to refund every cent of your money. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief that you want. Adv

A Sign of Wise Investment

Fortunate are the communities where a highway is closed for paving with concrete. Temporary inconvenience is quickly turned into lasting satisfaction.

This means the end of spring break-up ills—frost boils, mud and ruts. Seasonal load restrictions, dust and the inconvenience of constant road tinkering can be forgotten.

Concrete stands up under all legal loads in all weather. It permits speed with safety. It cuts driving costs to motorists. It reduces road maintenance costs.

AAA COMMITTEEMEN WILL BE ELECTED NEXT WEEK

Auburn, Nov. 22. — Plans have been made for the election of community agricultural conservation committeemen and for discussions of current farm problems and outlook at local farm meetings throughout Alabama during the week of November 29 to December 4, announces P. O. Davis, Director, Alabama Extension Service.

"The new committeemen will be installed on or after January 1, 1938," he says. "They will be responsible for all work in connection with the 1938 AAA program."

All farmers actively taking part in the agricultural conservation program, or who take steps to participate in the 1938 program are automatically members of their county association, and can vote in selecting their committeemen, says Walter L. Randolph, administrative officer in charge of AAA program in Alabama.

COUNTIES SELECTED FOR TENANCY LOANS

Auburn, Nov. 22. — Secretary Wallace has selected 25 Alabama counties in which tenant purchase loans will be made during the first year's operations of the Bankhead-Jones farm tenant act, announce R. W. Hudgens and Julian Brown of the Farm Security Administration.

The counties are: Madison, Lawrence, Morgan, DeKalb, Marion, Walker, Blount, Pickens, Talladega, Greene, Hale, Chilton, Tallapoosa, Elmore, Lee, Dallas, Marengo, Montgomery, Wilcox, Monroe, Conecuh, Butler, Pike, Barbour, and Geneva.

SOIL CONSERVATION SERVICE

Complete information on how to build a Nichols terrace, the type used in the Soil Conservation Service area at Clanton, Alabama, is contained in the new Farmer's Bulletin just announced by the United States Department of Agriculture, according to Mr. James H. Wood.

The bulletin, "The Nichols Terrace: an Improved Channel-type Terrace for the Southeast," was written by Jerome J. Henry of the Department of Agriculture in collaboration with M. L. Nichols of the Soil Conservation Service, who originally designed the terrace.

Containing tables that can be used as guides for determining the proper distances to be allowed between terraces and for determining the correct terrace grade, as well as a diagram showing in detail the progressive steps in construction, the bulletin can be used as a practical handbook in building terraces of the Nichols type.

The author explains that Southeastern farmers have been experimenting with various types of terraces since Colonial days, yet until recently, met with only temporary success. Early efforts, he says, often did more harm than good.

More than a century of experimentation by individual farmers and interested agricultural agencies has resulted in the gradual improvement of terrace design and led to the development and improvement of the Nichols terrace, which is widely accepted as the most effective and practical terrace ever designed to prevent soil erosion on sloping farm lands in the Southeast.

The new publication, Farmer's Bulletin No. 1790, may be obtained as long as the supply is available by writing to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

FARMERS TOLD HOW CONTROL WEEVILS IN STORED GRAINS

Auburn, Nov. 22. — W. A. Ruffin, entomologist of the Alabama Extension Service, is advising farmers to use carbon disulphide ("high life") in controlling pests, especially weevils, in stored grains, peas and beans.

"Cowpeas and soft-grained varieties if corn should be fumigated against weevils soon after being harvested," he says. "Fumigation may be performed successfully only when the weather is warm—70 degrees fahrenheit or above," Mr. Ruffin advises.

Before fumigating, remove enough corn or other needed livestock feed to last several days or until the fumigation is over and the grain is aired out, he advises. After this has been done, pour the correct amount of carbon disulphide in thin layers in large shallow pans placed on top of the material to be fumigated, or pour it on gunny sacks spread over the material. Close the room or container tightly and do not disturb for 36 hours, being certain to keep all lighted lanterns, cigarettes, smoking pipes, or other fire away, as the fumigant is highly inflammable.

Open the room or container after about 36 hours and allow it to air out thoroughly before entering.

Any farmer interested in fumigating stored grains may obtain full information on ho wto use the fumigant by asking county agents for a copy of leaflet No. 8 by the Alabama Experiment Station on "Control of Insect Pests in Stored Grains, Peas or Beans," or by writing Dean M. J. Funchess, Auburn, Ala., for a copy.

L. & N. BUYS STEEL IN ALABAMA

The Louisville & Nashville Railroad announces the purchase of 20,500 tons of new steel rail from the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Co., at Birmingham, at a cost of approximately $900,000. Delivery of the rail will begin next week.

The rail will be the railroad's usual standard 100-lb section, 39 feet in length, controlled cooled and end hardened. It will be layed in track on various parts of the system to replace rail that has become worn in the service.

Alabama used only about one-fourth of her convicts in road construction last year but built more roads with convict labor than any other state in the Union.

The Alabama State Highway Commission has advertised for bids on 51 miles of paving to cost approximately $1,000,000 dollars. This paving is to be done in the counties of Pike, Geneva, Sumter, Washington, and Tuscaloosa. These are all federal aid projects.

Lesson for November 28

CHRISTIAN FRUITFULNESS

LESSON TEXT—John 15:1-16.
GOLDEN TEXT—Herein is my Father glorified, that ye bear much fruit; so shall ye be my disciples.—John 15:8.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Jesus' Rule of Love.
JUNIOR TOPIC—The Loyalty of Love.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What May We Expect to Achieve?
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—How Christians Become Fruitful.

Thanksgiving day has just afforded each one of us a special opportunity to return praise to God for the fruitfulness of America's broad acres. It is appropriate that we think today of the Christian life as manifesting itself in the bearing of fruit.

Christian work of which we spoke last Sunday may (at least in a measure) be imitated, but fruit cannot be imitated. It is the result of life and only those who know the new birth bear the fruit of Christianity.

The chapter before us is a portion of Scripture which has been the peculiar favorite of God's children in all generations. It is at the center of our Lord's words with his disciples immediately before his death on the cross.

Many are the expositions of this passage, but a beautifully simple one which came to the writer from Dr. W. Graham Scroggie is suggested as most helpful.

I. Life and Fruitfulness (vv. 1-8).

Life results in fruit and there can be no true fruit where there is no life. Christ is the vine, the Father is the keeper of the vine. We who are Christ's are the branches abiding in him, that is, living our whole life in and for him in such close union with him that his life as the vine brings forth fruit in us as the branches. That is real Christian living.

But, alas, there are branches that seem to belong to the vine but they lack the one indispensable evidence of life which is the normal bearing of fruit. These the Father must take and cast away to be destroyed. While we must not read into these words more than our Lord intended, let us beware lest we explain away their serious import. These are grave words of warning to false professors of Christianity, but they are not spoken to distress and dishearten true followers of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Fruit in the Christian is undoubtedly first of all the fruit of character but that character is also to show in conduct. Note the progress —"fruit" (v. 2), "more fruit" (v. 2), "much fruit" (v. 5). In order to bear more fruit there is need of pruning and cleansing (vv. 2, 3). Pleasant? Not always, but always profitable. Let us thank God for even the pruning knife when its work is needed.

Do not miss the prayer promise in verse 7. It is an unlimited promise with a closely limited condition. Let us meet the condition and claim the promise.

II. Love and Friendship (vv. 9-16).

"This is my commandment that ye love one another." In verse 10 we read that to abide in the love of Christ we must keep his commandments and now we learn that it is his command that we love one another. We are not to await the impulse prompted by the beauty or kindness or propinquity of someone, but we are to love one another. Many a Christian who has obeyed the commandments against stealing, adultery, and blasphemy has never noticed that he is commanded to love.

The joy of Christ was fulfilled on the eve of Calvary by the love of his disciples for one another and for him. He rejoices today when we love the brethren and love him, for thus we enter upon the beautiful relationship of friends.

Dr. Scroggie says, "We may be God's children without being his friends; the one is based on his gift of life to us; the other, upon our offering of love for him. Are you a friend of God? You cannot have God and the world for friends at the same time. The friendship of the world is enmity with God. The world hates Christ, and therefore will not love you if you are like him."

But, oh! the sweet intimacy of fellowship with him. Read verses 14 to 16. Chosen and appointed by him, for "he first loved us," we are not kept in the distant position of servants but are brought into his circle of friends with whom he shares the glorious secrets of his Father, and our Father. It is a great thing to be a Christian, a friend of the Saviour.

Intellect

Every man should use his intellect not as he uses his lamp in the study, only for his own seeing, but as the lighthouse uses its lamps, that those afar off on the sea may see the shining and learn their way.

The Past

The wise man must remember that while he is a descendant of the past, he is a parent of the future, and that his thoughts are as children born to him, which he may not carelessly let die.—Spencer.

Chilton Tigers Defeat Maplesville 31 to 0

Melton Stars As Both Teams Put On Aerial Barrage; Williamson Also Good; Line Like Stone Wall

Batteries for Chilton High last Friday afternoon, Williamson pitching and Melton catching, as the Tigers took Maplesville's team into its lair to the tune of 31 to 0. This combination proved the undoing of the west Chilton lads, although they put on a pretty aerial circus of their own, only to see it bog down in touchdown territory.

Maplesville threatened early in the first quarter when Johnson fumbled a punt and Maplesville recovered about the Chilton 20-yard line, but couldn't move as Chilton stopped their ground game cold, and then slapped down passes to take the ball on their own 15.

From there on it was a Tiger parade. Working from that point with line plunges and end runs to midfield, Williamson shot a 20-yard pass to Melton, and the swivel-hipped one, taking it over his shoulder on the dead run, raced the other 30 yards for the first score.

The next two touchdowns came in the second quarter. Chilton put on a touchdown march from their own 30, using all kinds of plays, to the 11-yard stripe; Melton hit center and failed to gain, and then took out around his left end, cut back through tackle, sidestepped, squirmed and twisted through the entire Maplesville team to score standing up. For the third touchdown, Williamson stood on Maplesville's 40-yard line, tossed a 15-yard running pass to Melton, who stepped the remaining 25 yards to score again. The entire Chilton team was plunging and blocking beautifully for Melton, who seemed as slippery as an eel. The half closed with the score standing 18 to 0.

The second half wasn't five minutes old before the Tiger had growled again. Maplesville kicked off to Chilton, Johnson taking the ball on his own 15-yard line and lugging back 25 yards to the 40. Two plunges through the line got a first down; Williamson passed to Reynolds for 15 yards, and then to Melton for a like gain. Then Williamson started out around his right end, apparently looking for an open pass receiver, but finding none, tucked the oval under his arm and hoofed the 20 yards for a touchdown; a pass, Williamson to Melton, got the extra point, the only one made out of five attempts.

Late in the fourth quarter, Chilton again got the ball about midfield. A first down was made on line plunges. Williamson then passed to Melton on the 2-yard line, where he stepped out of bounds, but umpire Hulsey called the play back, ruling that he stepped out before he caught the ball. On the next play Melton swept right end for 35 yards, being stopped on the 2-yard line, almost in the identical spot at which he went out of bounds on the play before. From this point Williamson drove over for the touchdown, with Hicks, of Maplesville, being seriously hurt on the play. A few minutes later the game ended, with Maplesville deep in their own territory, and staging another desperate passing barrage in a last-minute effort to score.

The Maplesville team played a good, fighting, heads-up game, but their line plunges and end runs were stopped cold for the most part, only two first downs being registered in this manner. They filled the air with passes all afternoon, and completed several, but never could shake a receiver loose, out in the open, for a touchdown jaunt.

Hicks and Latham were outstanding for Maplesville. The Williamson-to-Melton passing combination was the high spot in Chilton's game, although all the other Tigers played their usual good, consistent game. Seales, also, carried the ball a few times, and served notice that he will make things hot for one of the half-back positions next year; he has blinding speed and is quite shifty; he looks like a comer.

LISTER HILL SPEAKS

Crossville, Ala., November 21.—Speaking here at Crossville's Annaul Homecoming today, Congressman Lister Hill, Candidate for the United States Senate, told an enthusiastic audience that "In coming to you and asking for your suffrage, I have on my record and on my support of the objectives of the Democratic National Administration in Washington."

"We passed the legislation for the great Public Works Program; and you know how, under that program, we not only provided jobs for thousands and millions of men and women, but here in Alabama we got roads and highways and bridges and streets and sidewalks built, constructed and paved, many school houses erected all over the State, Civic Centers, Comunity Centers sewerage systems, sanitary systems, great public health projects."

The speaker pointed out that Alabama had benefitted some four hundred million dollars by the Public Works Program. "It is the first time that Alabama and the south have gotten back, out of the treasury, more than she had put in", he declared.

Speaking of the TVA development and the Rural Electrification Program, the speaker said, "So far as I am concerned, I shall not stop until every farm house in the United States of America has an electric line running to that house."

THORSBY JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

The writer regrets that he has been unable to collect and send in the school news for the past three weeks. Other duties has commanded his time and attention, to the extent that this feature was unwillingly ommitted.

The past two weeks have found the Junior II and III classes assembled in the newly added rooms. This necessitated a complete change in the schedule and a re-organization of the school policy. Thus, we are now progressing nicely through the new arrangement.

Among the added equipment to the school, were a number of select books for the library, and tools for the work shop.

Assignments are now being made for the negro minstrel, which we hope to stage at some date between the Thanksgiving and Christmas holidays. Keep this announcement in mind, for we hope to make this entertainment one of the most pleasant and laughable which Thorsby has yet witnessed.

Week before last was observed over nation as National Educational week, whereby all patrons and friends of the various schools were urgently requested to visit their school and observe the classes and activities of the students. Due to the rainy and inclement weather many parents were denied this privilege. The Thorsby faculty extends to you a most cordial welcome to visit your school at any date most convenient to yourself.

The entertainment sponsored recently by our local P.-T. A. was declared a most pleasing success. A full auditorium registered their hearty approval in a most pleasing manner. Gross proceeds were $59.58. The P.-T. A. will apply their share to the payment in full of the stage curtain.

The Junior High girls are taking a keen interest in athletics. Several of the students are drilling conscientiously in an effort to build a team, worthy of representing the school in Interscholastic matches. Any of the Junior high schools having girl teams and who might be desirous of arranging two or three games this season, write, either Robert B. Johnson or Miss Ara B. Jones.

The boys practice has been rather erratic for the past two weeks, due to the reorganization of our school program, the absence of several of the players, unfavorable weather, and other minor factors. We are hoping to be ready when the first gong is sounded the first week in December, for the opening of the County Junior High School Basket-Ball League. A new candidate was added to the list of ball players several days ago, in the person of Clinton Deason. Clinton hails from Mt. Pleasant, the school that trimmed every team in the county last season, and then moved on in the County Tournament and clipped off the championship honors there.

We deeply regret the loss of one of our beloved schoolmates, Mack Askins, who returns to Enterprise. Mack was a conscientious student, and a fine athlete. He was a great prospect for the ball club, and won the friendship of many by his keen scrappy attitude in playing the game. Again, we say, We regret losing you, Mack, but our best regards are for you, and we wish you a great season with your old team-mates of Enterprise.

The Thorsby Independents suffered the loss of two games last week. The first to the strong Mitchell Dam Quint, and the latter to the Plantersville team. The former game was a rather one-sided affair after the third quarter begin, and our boys found no little difficulty in netting the ball, even after penetrating the Mitchell Dam defense. They were sadly off form in shooting, consequently their beautiful pass-work went for naught. On the other side, the Dammers were doing everything just about right. They executed some clever passing, and apparently couldn't miss the hoop. The Plantersville game was a much closer fought game, from the standpoint of score. Only 4 points separated the two at the end. The independents will go to Plantersville on Thursday night, December 2nd, for a return game, and we hope to arrange a game with our boys Junior High team with that of the Stanton team, on the same night. Watch for a later announcement concerning the latter.

Junior Marcus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Marcus, was seriously injured last Saturday, by falling from a wagon. It was at first throught that his skull was fractured, but fortunately not true. He has returned home from the hospital and we trust that he will soon be back in school.

The science department has just received a new shipment of labratory equipment. This will greatly facilitate the experimental work of the Junior high classes.

Mrs. Dera Rowell Gentry, of Detroit, Mich., who formerly taught in our school has returned to Thorsby to live.

A Thanksgiving program will be given at the Thorsby Baptist church Thursday morning, November 25th, at 10 o'clock. The public is cordially invited.

Coach, Robert B. Johnson, made a business trip to Birmingham last week end.

School will be dismissed on Wednesday, November 24, for the holiday, resuming the work the following Monday.

Two new members joined our Junior I and II classes Monday. They were: Leroy and Elizabeth Barwick, of Americus, Ga.

The Thorsby 4-H Club held its regular monthly meeting on last Wednesday at the school building. Miss Meta Grace conducted the 4-H club girls; they discussed the topic of lunch planning. Mr. Ivey conducted the boys program, electing new officers and shaping plans for the new year.

Attendance in the school has been exceptionally good the second month. An average of 94.6 per cent was established.

Baptist G. A.

The immediate girls G. A. has been organized and they meet every first and third Monday's of each month. We have nine members and will be glad if any of the other girls, 13 years of age or over will come and join us.

Heflin To Speak Here Nov. 27 At 2 P. M.

Ex-Senator J. Thomas Heflin will bring his oratory to Clanton Saturday afternoon, when he will discuss the wages and hours bill, the anti-lynching bill, and the sit-down strike, in a speech at 2:30 o'clock at the county courthouse.

This will be the first appearance of "Cotton Tom" in Chilton County in his campaign for the seat in the senate left vacant by the elevation of Hugo L. Black to the Supreme Court.

"This wages and hours bill will destroy the farmer because it will result in an increase in the cost of farm implements, fertilizer, and the general cost of living," the ex-senator said. "If the cost of production is increased in factories and mills, it is an established fact that the cost of the finished product will be increased.

"Congressman Lister Hill is for the wages and hours bill regardless of the fact that he knows it would ruin the cotton farmer and industry in the South and in Alabama. It is necessary that the farmers of this country put a man in the senate who understands their problems. I am familiar with those problems, as my record in the senate will show."

Heflin expressed his optimism in his race, declaring that "never in any campaign in Alabama have I received such an enthusiastic reception, and I will win by a big margin over Lister Hill on January 4."

HOT-DOG SUPPER

Shiloh Epworth League is sponsoring a hot-dog supper Saturday night, November 27, at Ruby's place near the Shelby-Chilton county line in South Calera.

Cake and peanuts will be sold. There will be special music and fun for everybody. Come.

MARS HILL

Regardless of the cold weather Sunday, we had a very good attendance at Sunday school. We were glad to welcome two more new members, and all others who wish to join us in trying to do service for our Lord and Master.

Next Saturday night and Sunday being our regular preaching dates, we hope for a large attendance, as Bro. Green always delivers good messages to us.

We regret that Mrs. R. F. Langston was absent from Sunday school on the account of a sprained ankle. We hope she will soon be able to be with us again.

Miss Leafey Smith and Miss Ruby Smith were the guests of Mrs. A. J. Leach Sunday.

Mr. J. N. Scott of Birmingham, spent the week end with home folks.

Mutt Childress, Bill and Jack Butcher, spent Sunday afternoon with Milton and Feryl Lee Smith.

Messes Polley and Zonie Robinson and Sudie Smith were the guests of Mrs. Lloyd Baggett Sunday.

Mr. Fate Elliison, Jr., (Buddy) is attending the State Fox Hunters Association at Camden, Ala., Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

CANE CREEK

Our Sunday school attendance was small last Sunday on account of the cold weather, but come back next Sunday. We will have Sunday school at 10 o'clock. Preaching at 11, by our pastor, Rev. Norris. Singing at 1:30 in the afternoon. Bring your new song books. We are expecting a good singing if the weather will permit. B. Y. P. U. at 6 o'clock.

If you don't attend church and Sunday school somewhere else, come to our church and you will find a welcome with us.

Mrs. Tom Burdette returned this week, and is doing nicely, after undergoing an operation at a Birmingham hospital.

There will be no Boy Scout meeting this week.

Services Sunday at the Congregational church. Church school at 9:45, conducted by the Phoenix City organization. Young people's class conducted by Miss Anne Campbell. "Loyalty To Our Opportunities" is the subject. The worship service at 11 o'clock, conducted by the Wadley delegation. Sermon subject, "The Future", by president, Ross Ensminger.

There will be service at the Baptist church at 11 o'clock Sunday morning; also evening service, conducted by the pastor, Rev. McLeod. Everyone is invited.

The community Thanksgiving service will be held in the Baptist church. A choir composed of young people of different churches will sing. An offering for the benefit of children who may not have a visit from Santa Claus at Christmas time will be taken. Rev. M. I. McLeod will be in charge. Service will begin at 10 o'clock. Come and worship on this Thanksgiving Day!

The Thorsby Demonstration Club met at the campus cottage of Thorsby Institute on November 17. The meeting was opened by the president, Mrs. J. H. Goddard, with reading of scripture and prayer. Mrs. Tom Lessley is secretary, and there are four leaders.

Miss Grace, who is county demonstration agent, was present. Mrs. H. C. Christensen, who is county counselor, led the program. The subject was "Economizing in household buying". There was also a short play given, "Neighbors at the Grocery Store". There were 21 members present. A most interesting meeting was held.

On Saturday, November 20, the Eastern Star chapter had a meeting. Official visitors from some of the state offices were there. Those in attendance were: Mrs. Lelia Halliday, W. G. M., Mrs. B. B. McGowan, W. G. P., Mrs. Dorothy Gillet, G. Con., Mrs. Lessie Myers. Mrs. Nora Clements, and Mr. Shieve and two nieces, Mrs. Berg and Mrs. Broderson, from Chicago. A very nice and profitable afternoon was enjoyed together. A light luncheon was served by the hostess chapter.

Mrs. J. H. Goddard was the Friday guest of Mrs. J. A. Hayes of Clanton.

On Wednesday of last week the Eastern Star ladies met with Sister Piper in their regular spend-the-day social. They also did sewing for the needy children in the grammar school, as they always cooperate with the welfare committee of the P.-T. A.

Mr. S. M. Pate left Tuesday morning to visit his daughter, Mrs. Kendall Franklin, of Uniontown, Pa.

Mr. John Rowell of Birmingham spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Rowell.

Mr. and Mrs. L. I. Lefstead and son, Lawrence, Jr., of Birmingham, spent Sunday with Mr. Lefstead's mother, Mrs. Johanna Lefstead, and sister, Miss Alma Lefstead.

Mr. Olaf Shieve Shieve's two nieces, Mrs. Berg and Mrs. Brodersen, of Chicago, are here on a visit with him. They are staying at the home of Mrs. N. Laurell.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Smith spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Bentley.

Mrs. Leo Cobb, of Washington, D. C., is here on a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Howard.

Rev. E. W. Butler spent the week end in Birmingham.

Miss Inez Jackson, who is in training in a Birmingham hospital, is at home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Jackson, for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Foss and family will move to Clanton this week.

Miss Ruby Lee Driver spent the week end with Miss Mabel Gibbons.

Mr. and Mrs. Akins Collins and children left Tuesday to visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Goodgame, in Florida.

Mr. Willie Scott and Miss Elizabeth Scott of Montgomery spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Scott.

Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Laurell had as their dinner guests on Sunday Mr. Olaf Sshieve and his two nieves from Chicago, and Mrs. N. Laurell.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Robinson spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Franklin.

Mrs. Jack Nix, who has had rooms for a few weeks with Mrs. E. R. Piper, left Saturday morning for Ohio.

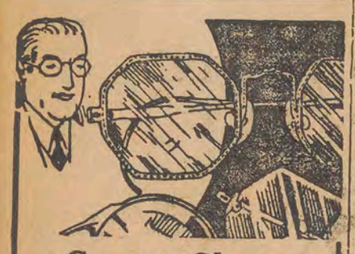
Mr. and Mrs. Earl Henley spent Wednesday in Selma with Mr. and Mrs. Gilvie McKee.

Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Gentry, who have been in Michigan for some time, are here on a visit with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dolphus Gentry and Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Rowell.

Mrs. Hamilton and Mrs. Bostwick of Birmingham called on Mrs. N. Laurell last week.

Mrs. Walter Morgan (Olga Soberg) of Washington, D. C., arrived in Thorsby last week to be with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Soberg. Mrs. Soberg is still not doing well.

Mr. and Mrs. George Taff visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Primm and family on Sunday.



Mr. and Mrs. Varney Wyatt had as their guests Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sims of Jemison.

Mrs. V. H. Vines returned to her home in Birmingham last Thursday, after a week's visit with relatives in Thorsby.

Mrs. Wilbert Marcus spent Saturday in Clanton with Mrs. Walter Robinson.

Heflin Blasts Hill In Birmingham Speech

Opening Drive In Magic City; Lashes Out At Labor and Anti-Lynching Bills Now Pending

Birmingham, Nov. 17. — Ex-Senator J. Thomas Heflin lashed out vigorously against Lister Hill, the wage and hour bill, communism, the sit-down strike, and the anti-lynching bill in opening his campaign in Jefferson County for electiin to the Senate before an audience of approximately 2,000 at the Temple Theatre last night.

The former senator, seeking nomination in the Democratic primary on January 4 for the seat vacated by Justice Hugo Black, also voiced strong objection to the United States being drawn into war in the Orient and pledged if he is returned to the senate to take action against freight rate differentials unfair to the South.

He challenged Hill, one of his two opponents in the campaign, on the wage and hour bill, which the latter is pledged to support, declaring this legislation "the most revolutionary measure that has been submitted in my lifetime."

"This bill didn't originate down here," he said. "This bill was born in New England to help New England manufacturers compete with the rapidly growing industries in the South.

"Are we going to have a board in Washington telling us what wages we shall pay, what our production costs shall be? The day this board makes uniform costs of production for Alabama and Massachusetts your industries in Alabama will die."

Heflin excoriated Congressman Hill as "The great Ajax of the Hill dynasty, Lord Lister of the Aristocracy of the Dollar," and said:

"I'll teach them before this campaign is over that they can't buy a senatorship in Alabama."

Heflin said Hill voted for $10,000,000 to help 3,000,000 Southern farmers and voted for $450,000,000 for the slums of New York and other big cities. Instead of fighting for the benefit of Alabama farmers," Heflin declared, his foe "went off to Paris to witness the unveiling of a monument."

Discussing communism briefly but with vitriolic words, Heflin quoted Holy Writ to show that "God Almighty is against it". He declared that aliens in this country who seek to destroy the government should be deported.

"The sit-down strike," Heflin said, "came over here from Europe, an offspring of Russian communism. When workers walk in and take charge of a plant and refuse to let the owner enter, you've got anarchy and communism already in the United States."

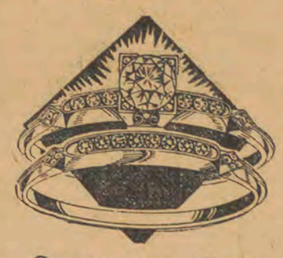
He took another punch at Hill at that point, criticizing him for voting against a congressional resolution for investigation of sit-down strikes in Michigan.

"If he's 100 per cent for the program up there," Heflin said, referring to Hill, "he's for the anti-lynching bill. You know what that bill is. It's an insult to the South. Fifteen years ago Oscar Underwood and I helped turn its toes to the daisies, and if I get back up there and it's still on the calendar, I am going to do the same thing again."

Heflin, though bitter against the administration's wage and hour bill, did not attack the administration. He praised President Roosevelt for many benefits which have resulted from his measures, and, while speaking of the wage and hour measure, said:

"The president doesn't want to hurt us, but he just doesn't understand the situation."—Birmingham News.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH



Tomorrow is Thanksgiving Day. Tomorrow we give thanks. Why tomorrow? Why not every day? Tomorrow is the date set apart for the annual observation of a day in 1621 when our forefathers, the Pilgrims, together with a few friendly Indians, met to worship and thank God for their bountiful harvest. They had, during the year, suffered great physical hardships. They were giving thanks on this first Thanksgiving Day in 1621 for good supplies of food. If they, in their poverty, and in their fear of death from savages, were able to give thanks how thankful we should be! All they had, together with much more, is ours daily. We have comfort in food, in Clothes and in homes—material comfort. We fear not death from poisoned arrows or scalpers. We have no law governing our method of worship. We have everything for which to be thankful—our Savior, our God, our church, our friends, our work, our preacher, and innumerable other blessings. Quoting Paul, the apostle, in Ephesians 5:20, we find that we are commanded always to give thanks for all things. So, my friends, may we each count our blessings, be humbly thankful, not only during the whole day tomorrow, but every day.

Some departments of our Sunday school had an increased attendance last Sunday, but attendance in other departments was off quite a bit. Work for your department this week and have the attendance of your department above par next Sunday. A good message by Mr. John Vanderveer, Jr., was heard and appreciated last Sunday by a group composed of members of the Men's Bible Class, the Phillips Willing Workers, the Philathea Class, and the Wesley Fellowship Class.

As most of you know, we are rejoicing in the return of Dr. Truett as our pastor for another year. Last year Dr. Truett worked faithfully among us and for us, and merited our support. Now may each of us put forth his and her greatest efforts to be the right kind of helper he needs of us this year. Be a regular attendant at the preaching services at 11 o'clock a.m., and at 6:30 p.m., each Sunday, and tell him we are glad he is back with us another year.

WHITE CHRISTMAS FOR ORPHANS

Birmingham, Nov. 20. — Leaders of the Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian denominations in Alabama are pledging their support and cooperation to the united campaign for the benefit of their respective orphan homes, which campaign is to culminate in generous offerings on "White Christmas", Sunday, December 19, for the respective orphanages of these denominations.

The Baptist Orphans Home at Troy, withe the Methodist Orphans Home at Selma, and the Presbyterian Home at Talladega, will be the beneficiaries of this "White Christmas Appeal to meet the needs of hundreds of orphans for the coming year, and also to enable those in charge of these homes to take in others clamoring for admission, and to meet other needs of these homes, such as making necessary repairs and remodeling of buildings, and meet the dire need for bed clothing, shoes, clothing, and other needful articles of necessity.

Those in charge of the appeal for these three homes at this time are: R. A. Porter, representative of E. F. Dunbar, President of the Board of the Baptist Orphans Home; K. E. Cooper, Chairman of the Board of the Methodist Orphans Home, which board includes representatives of the North Alabama Conference and of the Alabama Conference; and David P. Anderson, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Presbyterian home.

Present plans call for the raising of $35,000 for each of the three homes, and a call is being issued to the official boards of the churches of these three denominations in this state, also Sunday schools and young people's organizations, as well as other church groups and auxiliary bodies, to raise generous amounts on "White Christmas" Sunday in behalf of this appeal.

Headquarters for this joint "White Christmas" appeal have been opened at 314 First National Bank Building, Birmingham, with Miss Terrell Whitman, experienced social worker, in charge.

There are 160 children at the Baptist Orphans Home at Troy; about 100 in the Presbyterian Home at Talladega; and about 150 in the Methodist Orphanage at Selma, but many more are waiting to be admitted, as soon as the available funds permit those in charge to take more children in.

There is something almost touching in the humble and generous way in which John Bull is willing to give Uncle Sam the lead in punishing Japan.

Brazil has learned after years of experience that it is impossible for the government to control coffee production. Henry Wallace hasn't had half as much experience, but if we are patient and give him time, he'll learn, too.

Of course, it's all right to get indignant and want to send some neighbor's son to Asia to help the poor Chinese repel the Japs. But we wonder, if the Japs were invading California, how many Chinese would come over and help us.

Hamilton Fish suggests that Alf Landon and Herbert Hoover run for congress. But they might be elected, and we don't wish anybody that much bad luck.

DISCOURAGING

Taxes during the present fiscal year will be $1,357,000,000 more than they were last year, but the budget still will be out of balance by nearly $900,000,000.

These figures, taken from the statement of President Roosevelt, reveal that the budget situation is little improved over the last fiscal year, when the deficit was $2,700,000,000.

The only change is that more taxes are being forced upon the people, adding to their costs and making it harder to buy goods. Public spending is still going on at a dangerous headlong pace. Contemplated savings of between $300,000,000 and $400,000,000 are offset by increased costs nearly three times as large.

The picture is not one that the American people can contemplate with any encouragement. The careless handling of federal funds has become a distinct deterrent to business expansion and employment. It is defeating the principle which has brought prosperity to America in the past, that lower costs achieved by efficiency bring greater buying and employment.—Syracuse Post-Standard.

WHERE WPA MISSED FIRE

Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket are prolific, and ordinarily near monopolistic, producers of the welcome holiday berry. But this year it appears the growers, not content with accepting the yield of the wild cranberry bogs as a fine endowment, decided to "increase the crop and improve the quality of the berries". Note the sequel. The Martha's Vineyard Gazette says that "apparently no insect or blight has affected the crop, but the vines have failed to produce". On the other hand, where a few wild bogs have been left alone "the crop promises to be heavy". The Gazette goes on to explain: "Throughout the centuries, no work was ever done on those wild bogs until two years ago, when a WPA project was obtained and methods and cultivation were applied".

Comparatively little of the WPA work, now discontinued, was intended to be really constructive. But in the case of the cherished cranberry crop the WPA influence was sadly destructive and now it may be necessary to assemble a WPA crew to restore the cranberry bogs to Mother Nature in their ancient condition.—Syracuse Herald.

NOT THE MAN TO DO IT

There can be only hearty agreement with President Roosevelt's desire to see America reach a place where it can "maintain an enduring prosperity free from the disastrous extremes of booms and depressions".

But it is another thing to feel confident that Mr. Roosevelt is the man who can lead the nation successfully toward the ideal situation.

The president has had five years in which to start the country along the good road and his success has been far from notable.

Many expert economists and practical men of affairs believe the net effect of the efforts of his administration has been a delay of return to a condition of normal and healthy prosperity.

Certainly an enormous increase in the public debt; an unprecedented and constantly increasing burden of taxation, and a deplorably prevalent lack of confidence in the government and in the future (largely provoked by some of the federal legislation) cannot by any stretch of the imagination be considered productive of either a healthful or promising condition.—Detroit Free Press.

We don't believe the Republicans are going to get anywhere politically until they get Santa Claus off the Democratic band wagon.

Roosevelt prosperity will last as long as the government doesn't run out of pump priming.

The early morning hours are said to be safest for driving, but that depends upon whether a motorist is getting in late or starting out early.—Indianapolis News.

"Did you tell your wife everything you did while she was away?" asked one man of another. "No, the neighborhood attended to that," was the reply.—Brown County (Kan.) World.

A local boy, a first grader, was asked what he had learned in school the first few days. He said he didn't learn anything in school, but he sure learned a lot at recess.—Downs (Kan.) News.

Now the tax collectors are the big shots and the rest of us are just working for them.—George E. Sokolsky.

MAN IN THE MOON

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH TIMES?

Everywhere I hear the question: "What's the matter with times?"

There is but one answer—the same one that has been the answer to every low spot in the economic history of our nation. That answer is: There is too much difference in the prices of raw and finished products. No matter what you hear, nor who tells you, that is the bald reason, as your own good sense will tell you, if you ever stop to think about it a bit. As to what brings this condition about, there are many things, and many more different ideas.

A government farm agent will tell you that the low price of cotton is due to overproduction; ask Mr. Fant and see if he doesn't tell you those very words. That has been said before, just as it is now, yet in every instance history records, the very minute a protective tariff went into effect to keep foreign made cotton goods and other products off our markets in competition with our domestic products, raw cotton jumped, with little or no increase in price to the consumer. That agent will likely tell you that if we raise a tariff foreign markets will not buy from us. That could be partly true—NOW—but five years ago it couldn't have been true, because at that time we were holding cotton production in our hands. When we cut down on production many South American countries, and peoples in other parts of the world where cotton could be raised, imported machinery and men to show them how to raise cotton on a big scale, so that they might be independent of our production schedules. Thus, as our production percentage went down, theirs went up, and the world kept on getting its cotton just the same, only the source of supply being changed. So, if the administration's statement that overproduction is the cause, due to the fact that foreign countries will not buy our cotton if we raise a tariff, is true, then it an indictment of their own senseless suppression of production, in that it has caused other nations to take our world markets from us by bringing about a condition that did not exist before their policy went into effect.

When the raw products of our farmers and other fundamental enterprises go low in price our whole economic set-up follows. It has to follow its foundation, whichever way it goes, up or down.

Taxes, too, heaping taxes, are adding their weight to the economic set-up, both on the farm and in industry, and helping to drag us down. Whence came these extra taxes? That is a question everyone can answer. They are necessary, all right, under the present system, but that system is one of senseless extravagance, and without it there would be no need for the excessive tax load.

What this nation needs is less government and a better and more sensible grade of it—quality, not quantity. Give us a protective tariff, so that our domestic goods may have at least an even break on the open market; let our farmers feed and clother America first, with the surplus to be sold abroad if there is any surplus after that is done. Plug about nine-tenths of the leaks from the national treasury, and stop up the gaping holes in our economic and financial dykes caused by the continual outpourings of money through the spending agencies the present administration is now fostering.

As has been said many times in this column, there is no way to beat nature's laws. One cannot spend himself rich. He might as well try to rise to the clouds by poking his head deeper and deeper into a hole in the ground, for the two are exact opposites, and can never arrive at the same goal. To have, an individual must first save; any sensible person knows this is true, and what is true of an individual is likewise true of a collection of individuals, such as make up our nation. The national budget can never be balanced so long as more is being paid out than is coming in, no matter if the tax gathering department should confiscate the entire earnings of every person in the nation as taxes. "Save to have" is one of nature's unbeatable laws, and the sooner our national and local officials come to their senses and recognize it, the better for all of us.

The present let-down in our economical status is directly traceable to two things, both impractical if recovery is to come, nad both equally as easy to correct. One is the sacrificial foreign trade pacts put into practice by our state department, cutting the throats of our producers of raw products. The other is the confiscatory tax schedule under which industry has been laboring of late. The welfare of the whole country depends principally on the welfare of industry and producers of raw products. Let either suffer, and there is a letdown; let both suffer, as is now the case, from reasons stated above, and there is complete breakdown.

The last of these two reasons stated in the paragraph above is finally being officially recognized, it seems, judging by the frantic efforts the national congress is putting forth to modify the exacting corporation tax laws which have been hampering industry; perhaps something will be done about it, and partly relieve the situation. But no one in an official capacity seems yet to have realized what is hampering farmers and producers of raw materials. Perhaps this is due to the fact that such recognition would be a direct violation of the age-old low-tariff rule of the party in power. But the administration has violated just about every other rule of practice of the Democratic party, as we have known it in the past, so it might as well break this one, too.

When our official ostriches get their heads out of the sand of artificial restoration, and face our problems squarely, using tried and proved methods toward recovery, then we shall prosper as a nation, and not before, no matter how much we prime the pump. It does no good to prime the pump in a dry well.

THE FIX WE ARE IN

So President Roosevelt and cabinet and associates in Washington talk of the possibilities of war. In what sort of fix is the United States to go into a war? Federal taxes are, in this time of peace, at a war level; the budget is not balanced, and the country is split into labor factions, cotton factions, pacifist factions. Communist and socialist factions are more numerous than ever before. How did we get into this fix? Who got us into this fix?—Charleston News and Courier.

Now that the elections of November, 1937, are over, it is possible to take the results and figure anything out of them about the future that you care to.

Tigers Swamp Maplesville 31 to 0

The Tigers came back to their old stride last Friday by defeating their husky opponents by the score of 31 to 0.

Most people came down to see a football game on the ground, but it turned out to be an aerial battle. The ball was in the air most of the time, when the Tigers did not have it racing up or down the field for a marker. Maplesville tried to take to the air but only to see the ball batted down by their watchful opponents.

Maplesville's team should be graduated on the smart passing of the Tigers.

Clanton kicked off to Maplesville, they failed to make first down; punt, Johnson fumbles and the ball is covered by Maplesville. This is the only time of the game that they threaten the Tigers. After they fail to make any thing the Tigers get the ball on their own 15-yard line. The Tigers pick up a few yards around the end until the ball is about mid-field, then the fun begins, Duck Williamson fades back and tosses a pass to Snowy Melton, Snowy sprints down the field for the first six points. the extra point fails.

Again Maplesville gets the ball on the kick-off and fails to get in threatening ground. The Tigers go to work again, this time they take to the air entirely, which proves successful with Melton going over again. Clanton kicks off to Maplesville again and they fail to make the yards; Tigers take the ball and passes and runs it until they get to the 15-yard line, then little Melton takes charge of the ball, dashes off to right end and cuts back off tackle, jumping and spinning across for his third marker of the game. The half is at a close.

Maplesville kicks off to Clanton, they fail to make it and punt out on the 14-yard line; Maplesville tries, and again they punt.

Clanton takes the ball and punts again, going out on the nine-yard line, Maplesville punts, Clanton receives the ball and takes the air; they bring the ball up the field to about the 10-yard line, this time Duck takes charge and slides off tackle for a marker.

The fourth quarter begins with Clanton kicking off to Maplesville, each teams punts a couple of times each, then Clanton starts again, picking up yards around the end and with short passes until they are within scoring distance and again Duck takes the ball out, he fails to go over and tries again, this time he makes it. This makes the score 31 to 0. The Tigers made only one extra point.

The outstanding players for Clanton were: Melton, Williamson and Reynolds, each of these played a good game.

MARINE STUDIOS TO OPEN

The two largest aquaria ever built and the world's only specially designed under water motion picture studio will be opened to the public in February by Marine Studios at Marineland, Fla., 18 miles scuth of St. Augustine, Fla., and 35 miles north if Daytona Beach, on the new Ocean Shore Boulevard, where the two "Oceans In Miniature" are now being completed.

In these huge aquaria, the average visitor and the scientist will be able to observe, photograph and study the various types of fish and aquatic mammals presented just as they are found in their natural surroundings under conditions duplicated nowhere else in the world.

Alabama was one of the first states to enact an Unemployment Compensation Law. The law enacted by the 1935 legislature has served as a model for the other states, and it was the Alabama law that stood the test in the U. S. Supreme Court. On January 1, 1938, the state will begin paying compensation to insured workers out of employment. The compensation will cover 16 weeks of idleness.

Homecoming Game Here Wednesday At 1:30 O'clock

The Tigers play their last and most longed for game here Wednesday. For many years they have been strong rivals, each team seems to hold a grudge against the other. Any one who wishes to see a team fight for what they get, don't fail to see Isabella and Clanton here Wednesday at 1:30.

Guess Who For Girls

She has red hair and is a member of the Senior II class. She has a habit of keeping late hours at night. Guess who?

Guess Who For Boys

He is a new boy in the Senior II class. He is always quiet and he plays football; some say, he is only a grandstand player. He can jugle the ball just like a "Seal." Maybe it isn't his fault that he can't learn the football signals. Guess who?

School Paper Has A Name

The Senior II paper has a name and we think that it is a very good one. "Chico Hi Lites" was chosen for the name of the paper. This name was sent in by Guy Alred. The class voted on the name of the paper, and this name received the greater number of votes, therefore, we have the "Chico Hi Lites" every two weeks. Subscribe now.

Appreciation

The Senior II class wishes to express their thanks to Mr. Goldstein for his splendid cooperation with them.

Be sure to go to Mazer's and see the Isabella-Clanton football score to be posted in the window.

CHEVROLET TRAINING SCHOOLS

There will be held special supplementary training schools during the week of November 22 throughout nearly 10,000 Chevrolet dealerships in all parts of the United States, it was announced this week by C. W. Wood, manager of the Chevrolet service and mechanical department.

The schools are designed to supplement the training received by dealers' service and mechanical managers in the new product schools held for several weeks before the announcement of the new Chevrolet models for 1938, Mr. Wood explained. Every dealer's service men will be schooled to give full and complete service on the 1938 cars at the conclusion of the training week, he said.

EDUCATION DEPARTMENT COST IS REDUCED

Montgomery, Nov. 20. — Annual cost of the State Department of Education during the past fiscal year was 35.6 per cent less than the cost in 1930, reports a recent bulletin of the Alabama Education Association. The cost reported for 1929-30 was $202,551; for the past year it was $129,734.

Of the $129,734 spent by the Department last year, $20,389, the bulletin states, came from federal and philanthropic funds. This left actual expenditures of state monies amounting to $109,345. Salaries took $85,329, and other expenses $44,406.

With the prospects of doing post season plum picking hinging on the outcome of its last game, the Crimson Tide of Alabama, undefeated and untied in the past eight games, roars into action against a powerful Vanderbilt team Thanksgiving day in Nashville.

Pre-game dope gives the Tidesmen a slight edge over the highly respected Commodores.

Paced by little Bert Marshall, back, and "Preacher' Franklin, end, the Nashville aggregation has turned in an impressive record this season, topped by a 7-6 victory over Louisiana State.

Georgia Tech rode over the Commodores by a two touchdown count to give them the only setback of the current season.

A rest week end is expected to put the Alabama machine in peak condition for the Commodore tussle.

Janitoring is the hard road to an education, but that is the path Sam May, negro "clean up" man in the University of Alabama School of Chemistry chose, and after 25 years of being in and around chemistry labs, he has gained the ambition that fired him on back in 1912.

Sam considers his effort and time well spent, because professors and students around the Chemistry school now contend that he is an expert at identifying chemicals.

Not only is he good at naming chemicals, but he also knows every solution and every formula in the qualitative analysis book now used by Alabama chemistry students.

Blackfriars, campus dramatic organization, presented its fourth play of the current season Monday and Tuesday nights. The production was "The Cassilis Engagement."

Playing the lead, Miss Grace Hutcheson of Birmingham, took the part of Lady Cassilis. Albert Schleider of Kenmore, New York, played opposite her as Geoffrey Cassilis.

Announcement to the names of 18 University of Alabama students to appear in the 1938 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges" was made recently.

Among those selected were: Miss Martha Bedsole, Jackson; Miss Margherita Swift, Atmore; Miss Kate Noble Holloway, Tallassee; Miss Edna Mae Gale, Fairfield.

Charlie Davis, Tuskegee; William Hines, Lafayette; Walter Bogart, Stevenson; Harris Gordon, Columbiana; Prime F. Osborne, Greensboro; and Merrill Doss, Hartselle.

"LET'S Talk Turkey NEIGHBOR"

CHANCES are, when you sit down to Thanksgiving dinner, a goodly part of all you survey has had a ride on the L & N.

Turkeys? Listen to their "gobbles" next time one of our freight trains rolls by. Likely, too, you'll hear some "quacks", "honks" and "cackles"—for our poultry shipments alone run into hundreds of carloads a year . . . Then there's butter, fresh vegetables, fruits . . . yes, a lot of cranberries, too. Not to mention beef and pork and lamb. Nearly two and a half million tons of farm products moved over the L & N last year, swiftly, inexpensively, with clock-like sureness.

Looking at it one way, you'd say that's a lot of freight. Looking at it another way—that's a lot of evidence of being a good neighbor.

HIGHWAY PLANNING AND ROAD USE SURVEY

The Alabama Statewide Highway Planning Survey is a project being conducted by the Alabama State Highway Department in cooperation with and under supervision of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Public Roads. The object of this survey is the collection of all available facts and date for all phases of highway construction, maintenance and finance. This survey is divided into three main divisions—the rural road inventory, the traffic survey, and the financial survey.

The Rural Road Inventory has made a detailed inventory of every public road in the State of Alabama, and has gathered all available data regarding these state and county roads, such location, length, type of surface, railroad crossings, bridges, and all structures located within sight distance of these roads, such as houses, churches, schools and stores. Large county maps are being drawn showing all of this information in detail.

The traffic survey is making a study of all kinds of traffic to determine the number of motor vehicles using these roads and the weight of these vehicles.

The information gathered by all the phases and studies of the Statewide Highway Planning Survey when properly tabulated and analyzed will provide means for an orderly construction and improvement program and an intelligent and economical use of public funds for highway purposes by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, the State Highway Department of Alabama, the several counties of the state, and the incorporated municipalities.

One of the first practical uses to which all this information will be put will be the designation of a complete system of secondary or farm to market roads in the several counties in the state. The farm to market system will be made up primarily of county roads, and the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads will participate in the form of federal aid to the counties. The information being gathered by the Statewide Highway Planning Survey is necessary before such farm to market county system of roads can be set up in each county which will serve the most people and be of the most benefit to the county as a whole.

To enable the Road Use Survey to ascertain how much of the average motorist's travel is over state highways, county roads and city streets, it is necessary to analyze the total miles driven by the motorist for the past 12 months and to allocate all these miles traveled to one of the three road systems. It is obviously impossible to secure an analysis of the driving done by every motor vehicle owner in the state. It is, therefore, necessary to secure only a representative number of vehicle owners to give us this information. If the sample is to represent all of the motir vehicle owners, it must be equitably distributed over every rural section and town of each county and over every occupation group within the county.

Alabama farmers this year are breaking all previous records in the state, planting over 10,000,000 pounds of winter legume seed, including hairy vetch, Austrian winter peas, and crimson clover, for soil improvement and to check erosion, report county agents of the Alabama Extension Service.

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

I have spent the last four weeks in New York City. Of course, I have been here many times, but the bigness of the city has never before so impressed me. The nations of the earth have poured their population into this eastern section of this great nation. They come here from the ends of the earth, and after a few years they intermarry and mingle their blood in the veins of their children. But there is one group that remains its identity. The Jews come here Jews. They marry Jews. They die Jews. They are buried Jews. Jesus in speaking to the Jews of His day said, "This generation shall not pass until all these things be fulfilled." The word "generation" means breed or stock. Many Bible students believe Christ meant that the Jews would not pass from the earth until all these things should be fulfilled. He said that the experience of Jonah was a sign to the Jews. Here is the story briefly told: A man went to sea. He was swallowed by a sea monster. He stayed inside the monster three days and was not digested. He was not digested. That is the miracle of Jonah. The mystery of the ages is this: The Jews have been swallowed up in the sea of nations and never have been digested. No wonder some one said, "The word 'Jew' is all I want to prove to me that the Bible is the Word of God."

If God means for the Jews to stay here and retain their identity until Jesus comes back again, then there will not be enough dictators on earth to interfere with God's plan. God's plan for this world for all future generations will be carried out. Who is able to stand up against God? Think of the creature opposing the Creator! Think of the finite defying the Infinite! Think of the helpless rebelling against the Omnipotent! Think of the dependent setting up his will against the One upon Whom he depends! The Jews have been persecuted in many parts of the world. Every effort has been made to exterminate them. They have been run from one place to another. Much of their time has been spent in fleeing from persecution. Still they live. "Let His blood be on us and our children," is what they said when they asked for the blood of Jesus. Can it be that His blood for which they asked is upon them? Yet they live. God said they would suffer. They have. They do. They will. But they still live. God's ways are not our ways. He uses nations to punish the Jews and then punishes the nations that afflict His brethen the Jews. "I will bless them that bless you and curse them that curse you." That is what God told Abraham. The curse of God has rested upon every nation that has mistreated the Jew. If some Jew reads this, let me as a Christian and a friend of Israel remind him that the Christ of Calvary is the Jewish Messiah. He is coming back some day. Jerusalem will be the capitol of the world and my Savior will sit on the throne of David which will be built up again. My Jewish friend, if I am right (and I am positive that I am) you will feel very sorry some day for rejecting your Savior and your Messiah.

Writer To Visit Alabama

Included in the annual influx of northern and eastern hunters to Alabama this season will be Corey Ford, noted American writer of New York, and his partner, Alastair MacBain. Mr. Ford states that while the chief objective of the trip will be to get in some good quail shooting, he will gather material as the basis for an article in Collier's Magazine. The two men will come to Alabama during the first part of December, and the Conservation Department has made arrangements for them to hunt in Bullock County. For several years past, Mr. Ford has confined his hunting to the Carolinas, but this year he wants to go further afield and visit Alabama.

Hunting Season Opens

The fall hunting season in Alabama got under way November 20, when the legal shooting of quail, turkey, deer, doves and pheasants began. Squirrels have been legal game since October 15; and bears, foxes, opossums and raccoons since October 1. The open season on quail extends until February 20, and the bag limit is 12 a day; turkey, until December 31, 1 a day, 5 a season; deer, until December 31, 1 a day, 3 a season; doves, south Alabama, until December 31, north Alabama, open December 20 to January 31, 15 a day; and the fur bearing animals, hunted as game, until January 31. The wild duck open season is from November 27 to December 26, with bag limit of 10 a day in aggregate of all species.

Deer Hunt Permits

More than 700 permits for the annual hunt in the Black Warrior National Forest December 6-9 were issued during the first part of November, according to Chief Game Warden W. G. Wharton. It is estimated that the maximum of 1,000 permits will have been issued before the books close the last day of November. Five hundred hunters will take part in the first hunt on December 6-7, and 500 more will go in December 8-9. The permits will be issued through the office of Thomas A. Wilson, U. S. Forest Service Ranger, at Decatur. As in the past, the hunt will be supervised by a staff of Conservation Department game wardens.

PICTURE SERVICE STATION MEN AS "COAST GUARD OF HIGHWAYS"

Service station men this week were pictured as comprising the "Coast guard of the highways!"

"Highway users, accustomed to the utmost in service at filling stations, sometimes overlook the large measure of service rendered by service station men," it was explained by Earl M. Harne, secretary of the Alabama Petroleum Industries Cimmittee. "These men really comprise the 'coast guard of the highways', ready and able to lend a helping hand to highway travelers. They are the motorists' reliable friends in emergency and need, as many a motorist can testify.

"Now they are extending their service, and for their new endeavors the motorists owe them another debt of gratitude. These men, many of them active members of this organization, are making a study of the taxes their customers pay. They are working to assure the enactment of gasoline taxes at reasonable rates, and then to encourage the use of the income from those taxes for the purpose of building safe and needed roads.

"Thousands of these men have joined the organization because they know that more than 35 cents out of every dollar they take in goes to the tax collector. They realize how severely special additional automotive taxes can penalize their customers and hurt their business.

"They are not acting selfishly. They merely want gasoline taxes to be reasonable in rate, and the income to be used for the purpose of such taxation —the financing of highways. Any motorist who understands the desirability of such work can, and should, express his appreciation to the service station man in person."

IN MEMORY

On November 1st, 1937, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Littlejohn and took the spirit of Mrs. S. A. Eiland.

She was born February 25th, 1847. She was 90 years old, the mother of 12 children living and one dead. She has 53 grandchildren, 48 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

She leaves a great host of friends to mourn her death. She was a faithful member of Cedar Grove church, where she was laid to rest to await the Resurrection Morning.

Her suffering was great but she bore it with patience. All was done for her that loving hands could do, but God needed her and took her home.

She said she was ready to go and didn't want to stay here and suffer. She was sick about three weeks. We hope to meet her some sweet day to part no more.—Mrs. John Rollins.

You can pay as high as you want for remedies claimed to relieve the pain of Rheumatism, Neuritis, Sciatica, etc. But the medicine so many doctors generally approve—the one used by thousands of families daily — is Bayer Aspirin — 15¢ a dozen tablets — about 1¢ apiece.

Simply take 2 Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Repeat, if necessary, according to directions.

Usually this will ease such pain in a remarkably short time.

A HAPPY BIRTHDAY

On Sunday morning, November 21, the children of Mrs. W. B. Salter gathered at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Smith, near Thorsby to celebrate their mother's birthday.

All the children were present except one daughter, Mrs. O. B. Smith, of Jemison.

At 12 o'clock a bountiful dinner was spread and all seemed to enjoy the day.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Salter, of Wetumpka; Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Salter and daughter, Ann, of Columbus, Ga.; Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Salter and daughters, Alice and Loree, Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Powell and daughter, Grace, all of Wetumpka, Route 1; Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Salter and daughter, Elizabeth, and son, Ralph, of Wetumpka; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith and children, Clara, Gordon, Manibel and Verna, Clanton Route 4.

The outer guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Bill Galden, of Tuskegee; Miss Ruth Burks, of Montevallo; Mr. Isac Powell, of Weoka, Ala.

Several nice presents were given about three o'clock. All the children begin to leave wishing their mother many more happy birthdays.

Resolutions Adopted By M. E. Conference

Following is a resolution offered by Judge L. H. Reynolds, and adopted by the Methodist Episcopal Conference in session at Marianna, Fla., last week.

The annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, held in the city of Marianna, Fla., on this, the 19th day of November, 1937, hereby adopts the following preamble and resolution:

It is the judgment and opinion of this body that the recently adopted temperance law for the State of Alabama has failed to promote temperance and that this law should be repealed at the earliest opportunity.

We deeply and sincerely deplore the fact that the State of Alabama is engaged in the business of buying and selling liquor to its citizenship; and it is no secret by now that this law passed to promote temperance and suppress the evils of intemperance has increased the amount of drinking in Alabama in order that the revenue from liquor might be increased. We call the attention of the people to the inconsistency of the state selling whiskey to a young man or woman knowing and expecting that the whiskey will be drunk, and knowing and expecting that in a great many instances the young man or woman will become drunk and commit crime, and then for the State of Alabama to prosecute this person for having committed the very crime in which the state morally, at least, aided and abetted; we cannot see the consistency of our state selling liquor to young people and others as well, and allowing them to carry it in their automobiles, and knowing that there is a likelihood of many of these traveling on the highway while intoxicated, and endangering many lives, and at the same time establish a state patrol system over the public highways of Alabama to protect the traveling public from violators of our traffic laws.

We call attention to the promises of the liquor interests in Alabama that if Alabama would vote to legalize the sale of liquor that bootleggers and blind tigers would be put out of business. Have these promises been kept? The record shows that in many places the police and sheriff forces are being increased, and in spite of all our state roads being carefully patrolled, people are being killed and property destroyed due to liquor on our highways, and yet, notwithstanding that practically every state in the Union is now legally wet, yet driving while intoxicated and the toll it takes is an increasing problem to the thoughtful citizen of the land.

We feel that the liquor interests of Alabama and the officials who stand for the liquor traffic should be brought into the open and their real motive exposed. The liquor interests and the officials favoring liquor never work for the cause of temperance, the more intemperate the more revenue, and it seems that our state is collecting double revenue on the liquor traffic; revenue from the sale of whiskey, and revenue in costs and fines after the liquor is sold and a crime committed. We call upon the people of Alabama to bend their efforts to make Alabama consistent on this question.

We believe that with an honest enforcement and a conscientious effort on the part of the public officials that conditions will be much better under a bone dry law than the present liquor law, therefore:

1. We go on record as condemning the officials of the State of Alabama who are responsible for fostering the present liquor law on the people, and we appeal to every voter at every opportunity to cast their vote for the repeal of the present law and the reestablishment of prohibition.

2. We urge the voters of Alabama in the next general election to cast their votes for only those candidates for the legislature who are dry and who pledge themselves to repeal the present liquor law; we also appeal to the voters to select a man for governor who will be pledged to take Alabama out of the liquor business, and to see that the laws are enforced.

—L. H. Reynolds, Clanton, Ala.

other and even more ruthless forms of lawlessness rampant among the gangsters that infest our Northern cities. A law that had its origin in the desire to appeal for votes in the black belt of Harlem and Chicago, cloaked with the pious hypocrisy and disregard of his own shortcomings that ever characterizes the Yankee when he sets out to save the sinful South.

To the everlasting infamy of the Democratic party be it said that this hate-inspired injection of Yankee venom is being sponsored and pushed in congress by responsible Democratic leaders, taking their orders from a Democratic president. This man, who sits where he does because of Southern votes, abetting the pet scheme of the South-baiters to deal a deadly blow to the self-respect of every Southern man and woman.

We said above that gratitude is a trait of the better sort of mankind, and even of some of the lower animals. Among some specimens of mankind, as among some of the lower animals, we sometimes run across an ingrate, who will bite the hand that feeds him.

We would not expect Senator Wagner, elected from the State of New York, to have any keen sense of gratitude toward the South, though even he might be expected to feel kindly toward the section that has kept his party alive through its dark years. With Mr. Roosevelt it is somewhat different. Without the South the Democratic party would long since have ceased to exist, and Mr. Roosevelt would never have been heard of outside of Tammany Hall and New York state. In all fairness, we submit, the South deserved a better return from the man who owes his present greatness to the devotion of Southern men and women to what so often has seemed another "Lost Cause". We might have expected to see him rush to their defense; certainly we were not prepared to see him in league with those seeking to humiliate and crush them. But then, as we have already remarked, gratitude is, unfortunately, not a universal trait.

Reports from Washington tell of Southern senators once more, as in the Supreme Court fight, battling with their backs to the wall against the despotic will of their beloved president and their esteemed fellow Democrats from the North. It will be interesting to watch and see just how long this sort of thing will go on.

THANKSGIVING DAY

Providence has been kind to us, and we pause at this season to give Thanks for it. We appreciate our Friends and Customers.

Calloway Drug Co.

CLANTON, ALABAMA

Governor Bibb Graves returned to the state executive offices last week after five days spent in Washington "shaking the plum tree." The governor was reticent on what "plum" came down but he reports a highly satisfactory outcome.

Governor Graves, as the first order of business, met with the Alabama Memorial Cimmission to receive a deed on property fronting the south entrance to the capitol building on which will be erected a memorial to all of Alabama's war dead. The federal government has voted full cooperation in the project while the state's share is in the treasury.

FIDDLER'S CONVENTION

There will be an old time fiddler's convention at the Calera school auditorium Saturday night, December 4th. Prizes will be awarded to the best fiddlers; $5.00 the first prize. Other prizes will be awarded by local merchants.

Funds to be used to furnish Christmas to needy children. Everybody is cordially invited to attend.

Refreshments will be served by Legion auxiliary; sponsored by Ware-Crim Post No. 56 American Legion. Admission 10c and 15c.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks for all the kindness and sympathy shown us during the sickness and death of our dear mother, Mrs. S. A. Eiland. Her many friends were so thoughtful of her in her last days of suffering.

Especially do we thank Mr. Jim Higgins for the messages he delivered for us. We thank each one for the floral offering. May God bless you all, is our prayer.—The Family.

CHILTON COUNTY MINUTES READY AT BANNER OFFICE

The minutes of the Chilton county Baptist Association for 1937 have been printed at The Union-Banner office, and are now ready for distribution. Clerks of the churches are urged to call for them at their earliest convenience.

S. W. Bell of Mobile, has assumed his duties as freight agent here for the Louisville and Nashville railroad in succession to the late G. A. Creighton. Mr. Bell, a veteran in the service, will be succeeded in Mobile by William A. Jeffery of Andalusia.

Young Man Killed In Auto Accident

Tommie L. Headley Fatally Injured At Maplesville In Crash Saturday

Tommie L. Headley, age 22, was killed instantly Saturday night about 8 o'clock when his car skidded, turned around and side-swiped a telephone poll and a fence. The young man's head was caught between the body of the car and a fence post, crushing his head. The accident occurred on the Lawley road in the city limits of Maplesville, near the Baptist church.

Reports say that the young man was returning from carrying a boy friend home some distance down toward Lawley. It was misty and raining some, which clouded his windshield, and the road was very slippery.

Burial was Monday morning in Maplesville cemetery, following services at the Maplesville Baptist church. Martin and Sons were in charge.

The deceased was the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Headley, who live on the place of Mrs. Anna Foshee. He worked for Jefferson Lumber Co., and for T. U. Crumpton Company.

NOTICE BAPTIST CHURCHES

An important conference for all pastors, Sunday school officers and teachers, training union officers and leaders, and all associational officers, will be held at the Clanton Baptist church on the night of December 10, at 7 o'clock. All churches, Sunday schools and training unions are asked to have good delegations present. This is a regional conference, and all Baptist churches in both the Unity and Chilton associations are asked to have good delegations present.

The speakers and conference leaders will be Mrs. Davis Cooper, Miss Martha Sconyers, Earl Trent, Chester L. Quarles and Davis Cooper Jr. Let the pastors and other leaders appoint good delegations next Sunday to attend this important conference.—S. J. Ezell.

GERALDINE HOLLIS HAD BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

Mr. and Mrs. John Hollis entertained Thanksgiving with a dance, honoring their daughter, Geraldine, on her 17th birthday. The club rooms were decorated with autumn leaves, balloons, and confetti. The favors were colorful hats and whistles.

After dancing, a salad plate was served, and many lovely gifts were received from the following guests: Peggy Page, Eugenia Newton, Myrtle Pitts, Olive Elmore, Ann Ross, Judith Gobson, Billie Johnson, Theda Wyatt, Sarah Hollis, Modeska Kirkey, Josephine Stanley, Buel Locklear, Harold Lawrence, Virgil Newton, Sam Johnson, J. Lee Smith, Erskine Seales, Callen Alred, Guy Alred.

RALPH WAYNE STREET

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Street (Lurleen Minor) of Washington, D. C., announce the birth of a fine baby boy on October 18, whom they have named Ralph Wayne.

PAYTON-WYATT

Miss Elberta Payton was married Saturday night to Mr. Raymond Wyatt, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Payton, in Beat 16. Rev. W. W. Robinson performed the ceremony.

FROM HOT SPRINGS, ARKANSAS

A letter to The Union-Banner from Mr. Wm. J. Headley in Hot Springs, Arkansas, says in part: "Tell my friends that I am taking a bath every day, feeling fine and expecting to return home soon much improved. I expect to be back with you all not later than December 15th.

"Weather out here has been changeable. It snowed Monday, was partly cloudy Tuesday. Fair weather prevailed until Saturday when it begin raining and the temperature was 33. Will close with good luck to all.—Wm. J. Headley."

DOUBLE WEDDING IN CHATTANOOGA

Mr. Melton Hughes and Miss Elton McKay of Chattanooga, Tenn., were married in Chattanooga Thanksgiving. Also Mr. Floy Devaughn and Miss Martha McKay were married in Chattanooga.

PARRISH-ROCKETT

Mr. Woodrow Rockett and Miss Kathleen Parrish were married on Thanksgiving at the home of Rev. W. E. Robinson near Clanton. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bud Parrish of Popular springs community. Mr. Rockett is connected with Taylor Wholesale Company in Clanton. The couple is making their home in Clanton.

GIRL'S BICYCLE STOLEN

A blue full size girl's bicycle was stolen in Clanton last Saturday afternoon or night. The make was "Pennant." Any information will be appreciated and held strictly confidential if left at The Union-Banner office, or phone 63.

U. S. DEEPER IN THE RED

Deficit For Five Months Exceeds Estimate For Whole Year

Figures on the red side of the government's ledger for this fiscal year were bigger last week end than President Roosevelt's deficit estimate for the whole 12 months.

The treasury's daily statement for November 20 showed a net deficit for the 1938 fiscal period of $700,945,979, with more than seven months still to go. The president predicted the excess of spending over income would be $695,245,000 for the year.

The treasury, however, has three large tax collection dates ahead, and hopes these collections will keep the deficit at a figure no larger than at present. The dates are December 15, March 15, and June 15, when income tax instalments are due.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Begin now to make your plans to see the Christmas Pageant which is to be presented at the Clanton Methodist church, December 19th, at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Further details of the pageant will be announced in a later issue.

NOTICE ABOUT THORSBY TAXES

Tax Collector T. L. McKee wishes the people of Thorsby informed that he will be at the Thorsby City Hall on Tuesday, December 7th, from 8 o'clock until 4 for the purpose of collecting city taxes. All interested will please take notice.

MARRIED IN COLUMBUS, GA.

On Wednesday of last week, November 24th, in Columbus, Ga., Miss Willie Popwell was joined in matrimony to Mr. Roy Bradley. A few friends, of Americus and Columbus, were present.

The bride was dressed in blue, with grey accessories. She is well known in Clanton and surrounding territory, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Popwell. Mr. Bradley is a native of Americus, Ga., his present home, and is connected with the Farmers Cooperative Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Bradley will make their home at Americus, Ga., where the latter has been operating a large farm for her father for the past year or so.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO CITY DOG OWNERS

I notice quite a number of dogs running around in Clanton city limits without vaccination tags. This is a last warning to people of Clanton who have such dogs running without tags to put their tags on the dogs if they have been vaccinated, and it not, have all dogs vaccinated at once that you want to save, and tag them.

The inspector is in the county now on his check-up, and within a few days will make a special check on the city's dogs. It will be too inconvenient to run down every dog which is found without a tag, to find who it belongs to, so such dogs will be killed on sight.

This is in line with the state law, as well as according to the wishes of a majority of the citizens, and officials of the city. This applies also to Maplesville, Jemison, Thorsby, Verbena, and Cooper. Please take notice, and comply, as all un-tagged dogs will be killed when found.—W. L. Parrish, Rabies Inspector.

BROUGHT IN OLD BANNERS

Mr. G. Frenza Miner, of Pinedale community, brought to us Saturday two extremely old copies of The Banner. They were published in 1898, and were mailed to A. T. Headley on Clanton Route 5. S. M. Adams was probate judge at that time, and L. H. Reynolds was Representative in the State Legislature.

CHILTON COUNTY GIN REPORT

Census report shows that there were 19,611 bales of cotton ginned in Chilton County from the crop of 1937 prior to November 14, as compared with 16,049 bales ginned to November 14, crop of 1936.—V. C. McKee.

A CORRECTION

In last week's sheriff's report appeared the name of Perry Robinson, charged with public drunkenness.

This was in error, and should have been Pervy Robinson. The Union-Banner is glad to make this correction.

ASKED TO HELP POOR CHILDREN IN SCHOOL

The Parent-Teachers Association of Clanton Grammar School are calling on some citizens who can to help buy lunch for about 15 children in the school who are not able to buy their own. The lunches are 10c a day, and some should be willing to pay for one child a month, or more. Anyone volunteering to do this should notify Mrs. John Browder as early as possible.

POPWELL-BRADLEY

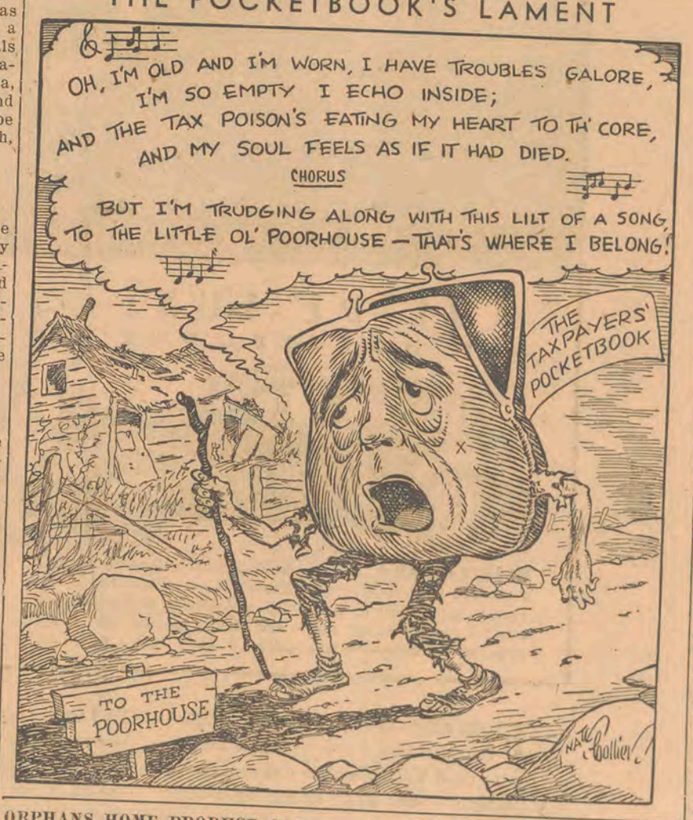
Mr. and Mrs. Walter Popwell announce the marriage of their daughter, Willie, to Mr. Roy Bradley, of Americus, Ga., November 24th, in Columbus, Ga.

Mallie Gullege was carried to a Birmingham hospital Tuesday night by Martin's ambulance.

TOOTHACHE ???

[AN EDITORIAL]

Press reports announce that President Roosevelt has the toothache. The American people are suffering from old fashioned stomach ache, brought on by nervous indigestion in the vain effort to assimilate and digest the half-baked, socialistic measures forcibly fed into their systems by the Roosevelt regime. The public knows how to sympathize with Mr. Roosevelt and his toothache, and we join in the hope that his ailment gets more intelligent diagnosis and treatment than he himself has bestowed upon the ills of his country. The Rooseveltian cure for a toothache would probably be to cut the patient's head off. We sincerely hope that nothing so drastic will happen to Mr. Roosevelt, and that out of the common bond of suffering, agues and aches mutually endured by him and by the nation at large will come a new feeling of sympathy and understanding. It is high time that such a feeling be made manifest in place of the hate and arrogance that is driving us on the rocks.



When we pause to survey the jam that Mr. Roosevelt is in, we are not surprised that he has the toothache. The plain fact of the moment is that we are in the grip of a worse depression than in 1929, and this in spite of the squandered billions of public money. The 1929 depression was part of a world-wide depression from which the United States inevitably suffered along with the rest. The Roosevelt depression is local in nature, and largely brought on by the vicious and senseless attacks on business, by the biased policy of Roosevelt, which has destroyed confilence in the government as an impartial agency for the protection of all the people. Small wonder that the Roosevelt policies brought about the greatest stock market crash in history, and turned recovering prosperity into another tragic smash-up. American business, a large section of the American public, cannot put their heart in the game when they know the umpire is against them from the start.

When Mr. Roosevelt takes stock of the situation confronting him, it is small wonder that he has the toothache in most acute and painful form. His party split asunder, congress in revolt, no relief for the farmers of the nation to whom so much has been promised. The anti-lynching bill throwing the senate into a filibuster, and alienating the friendship of the South, hitherto always the stronghold of the party. Another bolt treatened on taxes, with Pat Harrison predicting that a sales tax is just around the corner. His power of leadership gone, the old whip-cracking tactics failing to goad the harnessed and unwilling mule forward as it did in the past. If ever a toothache was in order, it was the one from which our president has suffered.

Worst of all, to him, is the widespread loss of his own popularity, not only with congress, but throughout the nation. So long as Mr. Roosevelt did nothing worse than make mistakes, he retained the friendship and best wishes of the people, even though it seemed that he made more mistakes than one man ought to be entitled to make. His popularity went on the rocks when he lost the confidence of the American people by his schemes and procedure in such vital questions as the Supreme Court packing measure and the sit-down strike. His policy on such matters caused the American people to lose faith in his motives. Coupled with the savage attacks upon business, the appeals to class prejudice and hatred, they established him definitely as the president of part of the American people, rather than of the whole nation. With this widespread loss of confidence, came the business crash, the Rooseveltian depression that bids fair to surpass any of the ills hitherto inflicted upon us.

And Mr. Roosevelt has the toothache. We hope that his suffering will give him a more kindly feeling toward his fellow man, perhaps even an appreciation of the aches, pains and nervous jitters that he has inflicted upon the rest of us.

THE POCKETBOOK'S LAMENT

ORPHANS HOME PRODUCE CAR HERE DECEMBER 8 AND 9

The car gathering produce for the Orphans Home at Troy will be at Thorsby all day Wednesday, December 8th, and at Clanton all day Thursday, December 9th. The Chilton County Association is being represented by Rev. M. Lockhart and the Unity by Mr. J. Watts Moore.

Those in charge ask the people to contribute anything that they have except sweet potatoes. Anything to be sent in glass Jars should be thoroughly wrapped so as to be kept from breaking. Any other information will be gladly furnished by either of the above named men.

NO CITY TAXES BEING ADDED

Due to the fact that it is the belief of some that a new tax is being levied by the City of Clanton, following the official notice given in last weeks paper that a tax of five mills on each dollar's property was being levied, Mayor C. Fenn Jones asks The Union-Banner to make clear that no taxes are being added, but that this is only the regular city tax that is collected every year. Due to some legal technicality, the notice of such taxation must be published every year officially, but it is only the customary annual city tax—no new taxes are being added.

BET YOU WOULD NOT HAVE GUESSED THIS!

Here's a bit of news that we bet will be the greatest surprise you have had in a long time. Who would have thought it? The information has leaked through the proverbial crevices in a so-called air-tight and water-tight political container in Washington that Justice Hugo Black is supporting Lister Hill for the United States Senate. Now just isn't that news? And doesn't politics make strange bedfellows? Who would have ever thought it?

It would not even surprise us much is Franklin D. R. voted for Lister, if he could vote in Alabama, and if he happened to be near the voting place on election day instead of off on a fishing trip. These times are full of wonders and such like.

CHILTON GETS HIGHWAY WORK

Chilton County will soon come in for its share of the widening of the Birmingham Highway, according to a statement Monday by Judge J. Lee Smith.

Judge Smith said arrangements are under way to obtain the right-of-way from Jemison north to the Shelby County line, so that two feet more may be added to the road. This will make the highway 20 feet wide instead of 18 feet.

Judge Smith said the county would insist on the highway department widening the road through the entire county. Considerable improvement has already been made in the highway through Shelby and parts of Jefferson Counties.

ALABAMA IN THE ROSE BOWL AGAIN!

The undefeated and untied 1937 Alabama football team, have been invited to Rose Bowl again, and will meet the California Bears in the historic saucer on Saturday, January 1, 1938.

This will be the fifth trip to the west coast for the Crimson Tide. Out of the four former trips they have won three and tied one. They have beaten Washington State, Washington, and Stanford one time each, and tied Stanford once.

Teams of 1925, 1926, 1930 and 1934 have gone west, and how the 1937 machine takes its place to try to hold that clean record for the Southland over the coast. Alabama is always a big drawing card in the west, and packed the big bowl to its capacity of 86,000 for the first time the feat was ever accomplished, in 1934.

Several of the local 'Bama followers are expected to accompany the Tide this year, as Clanton has a native son who will make the trip—Jesse Frank Foshee, who has played good football for Alabama all year.

Here's to a 'Bama victory—again!

KILLED TWO BUCKS DOWN IN ESCAMBIA COUNTY LAST WEEK

A party of six Chilton County people went down to Escambia County near Brewton last week, and one member sacked two bucks during the time. The lucky Chiltonian was Lawrence Littleton, of near the Cove, on Route 1. The other members of the party were: H. S. Shaw, J. H. Cleckler, Luther Ellison, Ross Ellison, and Wilbur Littleton.

One of the bucks which Mr. Littleton killed had 8-point antlers, and the other had 4-points. Each weighed about 125 pounds when dressed.

The hunting, according to Mr. Littleton, was done about ten miles southwest of Brewton, and was not in a preserve. They hunted near a preserve, but were not in one.

The party left Clanton Tuesday and returned Friday. All report having had a most enjoyable hunt, although only one of the crowd killed anything.

FODDER 34 YEARS OLD

The Union-Banner has in its museum of natural history a bundle of fodder that is 34 years old. It was pulled in 1903, according to Mr. Popwell of Route 2, who brought it in Tuesday. The fodder was pulled by J. H. (Tab) Traywick in 1903, and he kept it until last year, when he sold about 250 bundles to Mr. Henry Patterson. The fodder is well preserved and seems to be as good as ever.

SHRINERS TO HAVE BIG EVENING AT SELMA THURSDAY

A Shriners conclave will be held at Selma Thursday afternoon and night, December 2nd. All Masons and their wives are invited by the Selmians to attend. There will be a big dance in the Ft. Quarles Armory in the evening. A total attendance of 1,000 is expected.

JAZZ FEED

This week The Union-Banner is carrying an advertisement of Jazz Feed, manufactured by Cosby-Hodges Milling Company of Birmingham. Jazz is almost a by-word among the people of this section using feed, both dairy and poultry, but still Cosby-Hodges realizes that the right kind of advertising always pays, hence, this nice space in this week's Banner.

Turn to the adv. and read every word of it. It has a message that will be of interest to you.

Three Boys Rob Home Of $400

Mrs. T. A. Haggard's Residence Near Jemison Entered Sunday Afternoon

The home of Mrs. T. A. Haggard on Birmingham highway and Montevallo cut-off, above Jemison, was entered and pillaged by three boys last Sunday afternoon about 4 o'clock. Mrs. Haggard had been left her home only a short while when the robbery occurred. The boys arraigned for the crime are: Marshal Conner, 18, Jack Watson, 17, and Billie Hawkins, 12. All three of the boys lived in the immediate vicinity of Mrs. Haggard's home. The little Hawkins boy is Mrs. Haggard's brother. About $400 in money and checks was taken from a cabinet in the Haggard home, that amount of money having been collected in Mrs. Haggard's store during the past few days. Entrance to the home was made through the back door, where a latch was broken.

The boys confessed to taking about $80 in checks and burning them in the woods. The money was divided among them, most of which has been recovered by the officers.

According to Highway Patrolman Wallace Waites, he and Patrolman Earl Henley at Thorsby and county officials at Clanton were called about 6:30 Sunday evening by Mrs. Haggard, the names of the suspects being given. The patrolmen reported to the scene immediately and began following up the clues furnished by Mrs. Haggard. It was ascertained that the three boys named above had hired another boy, E. C. Martin of Oak Grove community, to carry them in his car to Montgomery. The patrolmen went back to Thorsby and from there called Birmingham, Montgomery and Mobile, and had the description, ages, Etc., of the boys broadcast over the state patrol radio system. They then returned to the scene of the robbery and worked on various clues until about midnight.

About 3 o'clock Monday morning county officers in Clanton and patrolmen at Thorsby were called by state highway patrolmen at Montgomery and notified that two of the three boys wanted, Jack Watson and Billie Hawkins, had been arrested in Montgomery, and the third boy, Marshal Conner, had returned to his home near Mrs. Haggard's store. Sheriff Hardy, Deputy Nivens, Deputy R. A. Hicks of Thorsby, and Wallace Waites went to the Conner home and arrested young Marshal Conner, who had already returned home, and was in bed asleep. The latter was brought to Clanton and placed in jail here. The other two boys were brought here early Monday morning from Montgomery and placed in jail. No charge has been placed against E. C. Martin, however, it is reported that he will be a material witness in subsequent court proceedings.

DAVIS-CALLOWAY MARRIAGE

Miss Winnie B. Davis was married to Mr. Claud Calloway on Wednesday night, November 24th, the ceremony taking place in Clanton. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Davis of Jemison, and for the past year or so has been working at Modern Beauty Shoppe in Clanton. Mr. and Mrs. Calloway will make their home in Clanton.

JEMISON WILL PLAY YELLOW JACKETS DEC. 3

The Jemison High School Panthers will formally open the basketball season with an engagement with the Corner High School Yellow Jackets of Jefferson County, on the night of December 3rd. The panthers were beaten twice by the yellow jackets last year and the game promises to be a good one.

The game will be played in the J. H. S. auditorium.

MRS. J. L. RUFFIN LAID TO REST LAST TUESDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Maude Darby Ruffin, of Clanton, were held last Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock at the Spigener Funeral Parlors, with Dr. S. J. Ezell, pastor of the Clanton Baptist church, officiating, and assisted by the Rev. W. S. Cox.

Mrs. Ruffin succumbed at her home here on November 29th, following an extended illness. She was 53 years old, and a member of one of the county's well known families. Death came as a result of complications following an operation undergone on June 12th.

Surviving are the husband, J. L. Ruffin, well known merchant of Clanton; one son, Bronson, Clanton; her mother, Mrs. Anna Darby, of Titus; four brothers and two sisters. Interment was in the Clanton cemetery with Spigener in charge.

CELEBRATE SIXTIETH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

One of the most brilliant affairs of the season was Sunday afternoon, when Mr. and Mrs. Ira Stevens delightfully entertained at a reception at their home in Norwood, honoring Mrs. Stevens' parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Shaw, the occasion being their 60th wedding anniversary.

The large living room was adorned with ferns and floor baskets of huge orchid chrysanthemums, making a lovely setting for the couple, where they remained throughout the afternoon, receiving congratulations from the many friends who called. Varicolored chrysanthemums and other fall flowers were artistically arranged throughout the other rooms. The tea table was covered with a lace cloth, and had as its centerpiece a crystal bowl filled with double pink and white snapdragons, roses and baby breath. Crystal candelabra held tall white tapers at either end. Other appointments were of silver and crystal.

Mrs. Stevens received the guests, wearing a smart dress of Dubonnet velvet, with a corsage of talisman roses.

Mrs. Shaw was lovely in a model of wisteria georgette over an orchid slip, and a corsage of roses and violets.

Mrs. E. C. Burgin received the gifts, while Miss Mary Burl Reedy greeted the guests in the hall. Mrs. Walter R. Russum presided over the coffee service, and Mrs. Clyde I. Williams served tea. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Raymond L. Perry, Mrs. Carl Hyche, Mrs. Charles H. White, Jr., and Mrs. James Whitlow, each being adorably dressed for the occasion with blending corsages.

Mrs. J. E. Hyche presided in the gift room, and Mrs. Newell E. Hyche registered the guests. Both were attired in lovely outfits with corsages that were most striking.

During the afternoon more than 100 guests from various parts of the city and some from out of town called. The out-of-towwn guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Shaw, Mr. Hugh Taylor Shaw, and Mrs. James E. Cobb, of Jemison; Dr. and Mrs. H. G. Williams, and Mr. William Williams of Tuscaloosa; Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Pitts, and Donald Pitts, of Anniston; and Mrs. S. E. Bradley of Sheffield.

Many beautiful and useful gifts were received; among those most valued and admired being a poem written by Mr. William C. Frazer, and read by Mrs. H. G. Williams. The whole afternoon and evening were spent most pleasantly.

It cost $6,840,134 to run Yale University last year. The Alabama legislature in 1935 made an annual appropriation to the University of Alabama of $393,899.05. To this must be added the interest on the endowment fund which amounted to $61,000, and the fees collected from the students, to ascertain the total cost of operating the Alabama institution.

The records show that 11,004 persons were arrested in the United States for automobile theft in 1935, and that nearly half of these were boys under 21 years of age.

Mr. D. S. Robinson of Cooper was in Clanton Saturday and attended the Tom Heflin speaking at the courthouse.

MT CARMEL

The ladies met with Mrs. Nix Sunday night and reorganized the W. M. U. The following officers were elected: president, Mrs. Sims; vice president, Mrs. Nix; assistant vice president, Mrs. J. C. Scott; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Bill Foshee. The other officers are to be elected at the next meeting on December 4.

There were not so many at preaching Saturday night, but most everybody was at both services Sunday.

Mr. Cecil Eiland united with the church Sunday night, and is a candidate for baptism. The church is very glad to receive him.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Higgins were visitors here last Sunday.

Miss Ruby Mae Higgins spent Saturday night with Mr. and Mrs. Odell Higgins.

Miss Eula Sanders, who is still suffering, was carried to Vaughn Memorial Hospital in Selma last Thursday. Her mother is with her for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Sewell were delighted to have as their guest last week Mr. A. W. James, of Lamita, Calif., who is at home at Jones on vacation. Mr. James and H. V. Sewell both are in the navy, stationed in California.

We are glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sims move into this community this week.

Bro. Paul Oden was with us last Sunday afternoon at the ordination service.

Watch for the date and place of the quilting sponsored by the W. M. U., and if you haven't given your part, please do so within the next few days. Bring or send it to Mrs. Oden or Mrs. Ben Higgins, and be sure to be at the quilting.

Mrs. Sims visited Mrs. Oden last Monday.

J. D. Sanders was in the New Cedron community last Monday afternoon.

Bro. Nix and wife were the dinner guests of Mr. Eiland last Sunday.

STATE HEALTH NOTES

Montgomery, Nov. 29. — Although the common cold does not figure directly in the vital statistics records, it nevertheless plays an important part in the health and mortality picture of the people of Alabama as a result of colds' tendency to lower the body's resistance to various diseases, Dr. J. N. Baker, state health officer, pointed out today.

"There is no doubt that the tuberculosis death rate is higher than it would be if neglected colds could be prevented from reactivating latent disease in the chest," he said. "Innumerable cases of influenza, sinusitis, mastoiditis, pneumonia, and pleurisy are the outgrowth of this illness, which in the beginning causes so little concern to the average person. Some of these diseases run their course and bring no more serious consequences than anxiety on the part of the patients, their friends and families, prolonged and expensive absences from school or work, and doctors' bills. Other diseases of this nature end much more seriously, proving that colds can be, and often are, indirectly fatal."

SUNSHINE

Sunday school at this place is doing nicely, although we have had lots of bad weather and sickness. For the past week Mr. Marion W. Easterling has been real sick, but seems to be improving at this writing. We hope he will soon be able to be back with us in church.

We are expecting Rev. E. J. Orange to be with us soon and begin a revival at this place.

There was a wedding of much interest to the people of this community which took place Monday night November 22nd, at 8 o'clock, when Miss Eva Headley and Mr. Nunley Blackman were married at Patterson's Store on the Higgins Ferry road one mile and a half east of Clanton. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. J. Orange.

Rev. Luther Lumpkin will preach at this place Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night of this week.

Rev. R. W. Mims attended the quarterly union at Montgomery this week end.

SEVENTH DAY ADVENTIST CHURCH TO HOLD SERVICES

Rev. W. H. Westermeyer, pastor of the Montgomery Seventh Day Adventist church, is continuing Sunday night services at 6:30 at the Seventh Day Adventist church in Clanton. By special request, he preached last Sunday night on the subject: "Which day of the week is the Sabbath for Christians of today?" He said in part: "As the Bible tells us there is no variableness neither shadow of turning in God, Who is the same yesterday, today and forever, it remains an indisputable fact that the Sabbath of creation is the real Sabbath of today."

"My main reason for this assertion is," he continued, "not only did Jesus make the Sabbath, but He also was Lord of the Sabbath (Mark 2:28). Instituted 2,500 years before there ever was a Jew, it is not only for the Jews, or for any other one people or nation only, nor for any brief period of time. It had no connection with the types and ordinances that were to serve until the crucifixion and then cease to exist. The Sabbath came not into existence because of sin as a part of salvation; it was instituted before man fell. The fact that it was made in the beginning, before separate nations were formed, forbids that it should belong to any one nation, race or epoch more than to another. Then, as now, it constitutes a part of the eternal moral law, the transgression of which is sin."

The sermon next Sunday will be "The Origin of Sunday Keeping." This sermon will be illustrated with lantern slides.

IN MEMORY

On Monday morning, November 22, 1937, the death angel visited the home of Clarence Cleckler and took his loving wife away.

We can't understand why God took her, but we do know her going has made Heaven more beautiful for us.

We have the blessed assurance from her own dear lips she was ready to meet God.

She leaves to morn her loss her husband, Mr. Clarence Cleckler, her mother, Mrs. Pairlee Wainwright, both of Verbena; three sisters, Mrs. Luther Payton, Mrs. Clyde Bradberry and Mrs. R. E. Bradberry, all of Clanton. She also leaves a great host of friends and relatives who loved her.—A Friend.

IN MEMORY OF UNCLE JOHN CARROLL

For sixty-six years there was a bright shining light in the person of Uncle John Carroll. Now he has gone —not dead but just sleeping in the arms of Jesus. He had a smile for everyone.

He leaves a wife, several children, and a host of friends and relatives. He would surely say, weep not, love ones. Heaven is so beautiful; won't you come along with me.

We cannot understand, but God doeth all things well. Some sweet day we will meet him where there will be no good byes.—Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Carroll.

WINTER DRIVING TIPS

The proper technique of safe winter driving rests primarily upon the avoidance of quick, sudden moves of any kind, according to a bulletin issued by Chevrolet this week in the interest of traffic safety under hazardous road and weather conditions.

Modern motor cars are engineered for year-round operation, the bulletin states, and the driver who takes full advantages of their engineering refinements can reduce driving hazards to a minimum. The principal source of such hazards lies in poor tire traction on icy pavements where safe driving depends on the avoidance of any aprupt application of either the power or the brake.

Some of the points stressed in the bulletin are:

"A good driver uses second speed extensively in stopping, in approaching intersections, and in turning corners. With the syncro-mesh transmission, it is simple and easy to shift to a lower speed and maintain control of the car at all times. Another important point is to leave the car in gear when slowing down so that the engine may act as a brake.

"Cultivate the habit of giving other drivers ample notice of your intention to stop, turn, or slow down," the bulletin continues. "Even though you may have your own car under perfect control, the driver behind you may not be so fortunate."

Dr. Lamar Calloway of Duke University, was by here on his way to a medical convention in New Orleans, Louisana. He spent Sunday with his mother here.

MARS HILL

Two wonderful sermons were delivered by Rev. J. N. Green Saturday night and Sunday, but due to the bad weather the crowd was small.

Our Sunday school is still on the wheels rolling. Come on folks let's not let the cold weather bluff us out, everybody come back next Sunday at 10 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Roper had as their guest Sunday Mr. Russell Scott of Birmingham.

Mr. J. D. Scott spent the week end at home with his wife.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Smith spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ray.

Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Gothard spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Luther Cofer.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnie Smith and children spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Fergueson of Randolph.

Mrs. Effie Childress and son, Donald, spent Saturday night and Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cofer.

Mrs. A. J. Leach and children spent Friday with Mrs. Maggie Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Herdman Cofer visited relatives Sunday afternoon.

Miss Essie Mae Scott spent Saturday night and Sunday with Miss Leafy Smith.

Mrs. Minnie Scott spent Sunday afternoon with parents.

Mrs. Annie Carlee and children spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Smith.

Mr. Cecil Scott, of Mt. Carmel, spent Saturday night with Mr. Arben and Cletus Langston.

We are sorry to report that Mrs. Seland Scott is still suffering from cancer.

We were glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Joe Smith to move into our community.

The first newspaper published in what is now the State of Alabama was at Fort Stoddert, near the present village of Mt. Vernon, in Mobilt County. The date of the first issue was May 23, 1811. There is no record as to when it ceased publication. About a year later the Huntsville Gazette made its appearance. After this a number of papers sprang up over what then was Alabama Territory, but most of them were short lived.

Miss Lucile Sherwood spent Saturday in Montgomery.

AGED LADY DIED AT THORSBY

Mrs. Anna Lee Soberg, age 76, wife of M. J. Soberg, died Friday afternoon at 7:45 at the home in Thorsby. Burial was Monday afternoon in Concordia cemetery, Martin directing. Services were held at the Swedish-Lutheran church Monday p. m., with Revs. E. W. Butler and L. L. Stanley officiating.

Active pallbearers were: V. H. Sutlive, Ernie Hansen, Jimmie Nelson, Frank Nelson Jr., Verben Carlson, Ragnar Ekblad. Honorary pallbearers: J. L. Foss, J. O. Johnson, V. E. Wyatt, G. F. Harper, E. R. Piper and J. L. Mixson.

Surviving are the husband, three sons and two daughters—Carl Soberg of Sheboygan, Wis., Edwin of Chicago and Arnold of Birmingham. Mrs. Clara Henderson and Mrs. Olga Morgan both of Washington, D. C. There are two brothers, two half brothers, one half sister and ten grand children.

Mrs. Soberg was born in Wisconsin; her parents were from Norway.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank the many friends for their kindness during the illness and death of Mrs. Clarence Cleckler.

Especially do we wish to thank Dr. Eiland, Dr. Strock, and Mell Martin and Sons.

May God's richest blessing rest on each of you.—The Family.

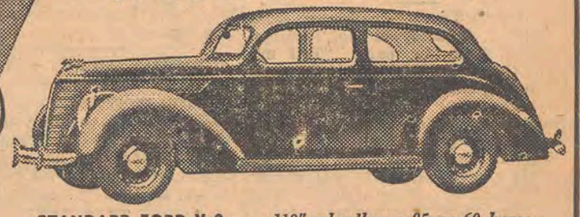
TWO NEW FORD V-8 CARS FOR 1938



THE DE LUXE
85 HORSEPOWER

DE LUXE FORD V-8 . . . 112" wheelbase; 85-horsepower engine; Improved Easy-Action Safety Brakes; Center-Poise Ride; All-steel body; Mohair or Broadcloth upholstery; Walnut-finished trim; Twin horns, tail lights, sun visors; Clock; 6.00" black tires, white side-walls are extra; 8 body types; 6 colors.

THE STANDARD
60 OR 85 HORSEPOWER

STANDARD FORD V-8 . . . 112" wheelbase; 85 or 60 horsepower engine; Improved Easy-Action Safety Brakes; Center-Poise Ride; All-steel body; Broadcloth or Mohair upholstery, Mohair extra in "60"; Mahogany-finished trim; One tail light, sun visor; Twin horns; 3 body types; 3 colors.

FORD offers two new cars for 1938—the Standard Ford V-8 and the De Luxe Ford V-8. They are different in appearance — but built to the same high standard of mechanical excellence — on the same chassis.

Because people liked our 1937 car so well, they bought more than of any other make. They liked its looks, its smooth performance, and the way it handled. We have improved on that car in the newly styled Standard Ford V-8.

But some folks wanted still more size and style, with the same Ford advantages. For them, we designed a new De Luxe line.

The De Luxe Ford V-8 Sedans are longer with more room, larger luggage space, and finer appointments all around. De Luxe cars are equipped with the 85-horsepower engine only.

The Standard is even lower priced than the De Luxe. It has graceful new lines and well-tailored interiors—with a choice of engine sizes—85 or 60 horsepower.

Before Ford made V-type 8-cylinder engines available to every one, they were used only in expensive cars. Since then, four million Ford owners have learned the genuine enjoyment of driving an eight-cylinder car with all-around economy. The thrifty "60" engine, especially, makes possible in Standard models a very low first cost and equally low operating cost. With two distinct designs, two engine sizes and two price ranges, you'll find a 1938 Ford car to fit your needs exactly.

PRICES FOR CARS DELIVERED IN DETROIT—TAXES EXTRA

Standard Ford V-8 (60 hp.)—Coupe, $599; Tudor, $644; Fordor, $689. Standard Ford V-8 (85 hp.)—Coupe, $629; Tudor, $669; Fordor, $714. De Luxe Ford V-8 (85 hp. only)—Coupe, $689; Tudor, $729; Fordor, $774; Convertible Coupe, $774; Club Coupe, $749; Convertible Club Coupe, $804; Phaeton, $824; Convertible Sedan, $904.

Standard and De Luxe cars equipped with bumpers, bumper guards, spare wheel, tire, tube, tire lock and band, cigar lighter, twin horns, and headlight beam indicator on instrument panel, at no extra charge.

In addition, De Luxe cars are equipped with extra tail light, windshield wiper, sun visor; also de luxe steering wheel, glove compartment lock, clock, and chrome wheel bands, at no extra charge.

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

I have spent the last 30 days in a first class New York hotel. Of course, I do not smoke, but my clothes are saturated with tobacco smoke. I came up in a crowded elevator a few moments ago. A great big selfish man was puffing his stifling cigarette smoke in the face of everyone. I seemed to be the only one who noticed what he was doing. I suppose most of the others, and possibly all of them, were smokers. It is impossible to eat in the dining room of any hotel or restaurant without having every five seconds a big "puff" blowing in your face. The writer is not a fanatic about anything. He has had the experience of travel, and his business as well as education and religious relations have brought him in contact with many types of people. I know some good people who smoke. I am sure there are men who trust Jesus Christ as a personal Savior and some day will get to Heaven by the grace of a good God, and they have no troubled conscience when they take a good smoke. Of course, it is my personal opinion that no Christian should use tobacco in any form.

"Haven't women as much right to smoke as men?" That is what people are asking. If you are asking me, I answer an emphatic "No!" I have often said "God did not make men and women out of the same nerve material. Women are made of finer clay. Alcohol and nicotine affect the nerves of women in a way they do not affect men." I am talking not as a scientist, but as a man who has observed. I often see women blowing tobacco smoke in the faces of their own babies. Mother, hear me! You can't get away with that. The women of the modern world, even with all the help modern science is giving them, cannot live up to the rapid pace that they have set for themselves. A very sweet girl friend who is in a finishing school here in New York told Mrs. Jones and me last night that she and three other girls are the only ones in her school who do not smoke. The oldest girl in school is only 19. All of the girls happen to be from the South. As an old time orthodox country American Christian, I naturally take a pessimistic view about the future of my country and the world.

"Can a man or woman live a Christian life and use tobacco?" a man inquired. "A Christian ought not to smoke," I answered. I know most smokers endeavor to defend their pet habit, but there is no defense. I could give many reasons why it is better not to smoke. It costs money to use tobacco. The money burned up in tobacco smoke in a year would evangelize the world. It would supply all the bread needed to feed the hungry throngs of the world. If tobacco is not good for football players, it stands to reason that it hurts physically all who use it. If it is bad for young people, then old people should set young people a good example by not using it. "If eating meat makes my brother to offend, then I will eat no more meat". That was Paul's position. "If my smoking might cause a brother to stumble, I will not smoke". That, I feel confident, would be what the apostle would say if he were living today and you asked him for his opinion on the tobacco question. Millions of dollars are in the tobacco business. A great advertising campaign is on. Make more money! That is what the stockholders want. Money is the god of our modern world. If you Christians are going to use tobacco, then let me make just one suggestion: DON'T DEFEND YOUR HABIT!

JUST FROM SHOULTS

Hog killing time has come again. Spare ribs and back bone are very fine to have in the family these cold days. In fact, it helps along very well when we have to go to the store and buy those little "papersacks," and pay a big price for them. If we could just get in the habit of raising what we eat and eat what we raise we would not care if corn was $1.00 per bushel—that is if we had the corn to sell.

The poor tenant farmer reminds me of the flea; he don't stay in one place long enough to do well. You know, the flea would not hurt so bad if he would sit still, but he is all the time moving about; I guess we will have to live two lives to learn how to live one.

The death of Thomas Headley Saturday night was a shock to all in Maplesville, and elsewhere. — Uncle Remus.

It is estimated by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics that farmers are receiving about 46c of each dollar consumers spend for foods. The remaining 58c goes for processing, transportation, and marketing and distribution of the products.

CHRISTIAN REST

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 11:28-30; Hebrews 4:1-11.
GOLDEN TEXT—Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest.—Matthew 11:28.
PRIMARY TOPIC—When We Are Tired.
JUNIOR TOPIC—God's Great Invitation.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—How Christ Gives Us Rest.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Christian Rest.

"Time, like an ever-rolling stream, bears all its sons away," so sang Isaac Watts in 1719. One wonders what he might say today! The mad rush of modern life—its relentless drawing of us all into its terrific tempo—leaves us distraught, nervous, overanxious. Nervous disorders are on a rapid increase, even among children. The condition prevails in the country as well as in the city, although it is aggravated in metropolitan centers.

Let us lay down the burdens of the universe for a bit and counsel quietly about that almost forgotten Christian virtue, rest. Nowhere can the troubled spirit find calm of soul as surely and as quickly as in God's Word—and in the One revealed there, for true rest is

I. Found in Christ (Matt. 11:28-30).

Rest for our souls is found not in the cessation of activity, but rather in joining with Christ as our yokefellow and in going on with him in meekness and lowliness of heart. Most of life's restlessness is the result of pride, of driving ambition to be somebody or to attain something. True humility removes all such disturbing factors.

But we do have a yoke and a burden to bear. Yes, it is true that not all is easy in the Christian life. But as someone has suggested, the burdens are like the burden of feathers on a bird. They may seem to be too heavy for his little body, but as a matter of fact they are the thing he flies with! Such are the "burdens" of Christ.

II. Received by Faith (Heb. 4:3).

Those who believe enter into rest. Faith in God through Jesus Christ brings a man into an abiding place that the storms of life may beat upon but can never move. Fair weather followers of Jesus who fall into a frenzy of fear and worry when sorrow or loss comes upon them need to learn to walk by faith. "Be not dismayed whate'er betide, God will take care of you," is more than the pious expression of a hymn writer, it is a statement of fact.

III. Rejected by Unbelief (Heb. 4:1, 6-11).

"The worst thing in the world" is unbelief — because it effectually closes the door to God's blessing. Jesus could not do "many mighty works" in his home town of Nazareth "because of their unbelief" (Matt. 13:58). Unbelief will keep us from the rest that God has prepared for his people, for it not only hinders men from coming to the Saviour, but keeps them from resting in him after they are saved.

IV. Necessary to Useful Living (v. 11).

Only when the follower of Christ appropriates that rest of soul which results from turning from his own efforts and trusting himself fully to Christ will there be that absolute surrender of every detail and problem of life to him which will bring out in daily living the glorious beauty and power of a life at rest with God.

A poem by Fay Inchfawn which has blessed the writer's soul is here passed on, with the prayer that it may help you who read these notes:

"Well, I am done. My nerves were on the rack.
I've laid them down today;
It was the last straw broke the camel's back.
I've laid that down today.
No, I'll not fume, nor fuss, nor fight;
I'll walk by faith a bit and not by sight,
I think the universe will work all right,
I've laid it down today.

"So, here and now, the overweight, the worry,
I'll lay it down today;
The all-too-anxious heart; the tearing hurry;
I'll lay these down today.
O eager hands, O feet so prone to run,
I think that He who made the stars and sun
Can mind the things you've had to leave undone.
Do lay them down today."

How true it is that we are prone to bear all the burdens of the universe when God's Word has told us to cast all our care upon Him, for He careth for us (I Pet. 5:7). It is a powerful testimony for Christ when distraught and worry-ridden non-Christians see God's children walking steady and true in the midst of disappointments, trials, and sorrows. And the opposite is also true, that failure to trust God is a practical denial of our professed faith.

Official Rules And Schedule For Junior High Basketball

The Chilton County Junior High School Basketball League was scheduled to start firing Wednesday night, December 1.

There are 11 junior high schools in Chilton County, which have been formed into a league. This year their games will not be a haphazard affair, but each school will play an official 20-game schedule, 2 games with each other school in the league.

Games will be played on Wednesday nights and Friday afternoons.

A set of rules, and part of the schedule have already been drawn up, and are given below.

Although expert information is not available, it is reported that the little league will be a pretty fast one. Some of course will have decidedly better teams than others, varying according to material, etc.

Several of the comparatively small schools will, according to information, put out small, but right fast teams. There is another group just a step over them, which usually turn out exceptionally good teams.

Of the latter group, Enterprise is reported to be tops this year by a wide margin, with Stanton coming in with another good team also. Mt. Pleasant, usually one of the top-notchers, and last year's tournament winner, has gone into deep mourning; last year's championship team was riddled by graduations, losing Chambers, Johnson, and Snowy Melton, and Coach Bert Curlee is seriously considering having his boys wear black belts, as an emblem of the bad state they find themselves in.

Following are the official rules and part of the official schedule for the Chilton County Junior High School Basketball League for 1937-1938.

A 20-game schedule has been decided upon, although the following schedule covers only eight of these games, up to the Christmas holidays.

By this time the schedule will have been finished, and copies of the remaining part of the schedule (12 games) will be furnished all of the coaches of the 11 junior high schools in the county.

Rules

Rules for Chilton County Junior High School Basketball League, adopted in 1936.

All rules and regulations as used by the Alabama High School Athletic Association, with some exceptions, mainly ages, etc.

1. All students participating in Junior High School athletics must be in regular attendance in the school for which they play.

2. Players participating must pass as many as three subjects.

3. A player may be 19 years of age one month before school began or after, and be eligible for the season of 1936-1937, but for the year 1937-1938 the age is to drop back one year; namely, he may be 18 one month preceding the regular opening of the junior high schools of Chilton County, or after school opens and be eligible. (This means that for this year of 1937-1938, in order for a player to be eligible, he must not have become 18 years of age before September 1, 1937).

4. A list of players participating in Junior High School athletics must be sent to the superintendent's office, and he submits it to the eligibility board for final disposition.

5. A record of grades for each individual player must be sent to the superintendent's office, for the eligibility board, at the close of each month's work.

6. Players failing to pass the required 3 subjects shall be ineligible for the following month, or until such time as passing grades are maintained.

7. Mr. Little is to appoint an eligibility board of 3 membehs to dispose of all questions of eligibility.

8. Rules relative to conduct of players, etc., shall be judged by the board.

9. Rules can be adopted or rescinded by a two-thirds vote of principals and coaches of the Junior High Schools of Chilton County.

NOTE—Games which are postponed may be played at any later date, or on any court agreed upon by coaches of the two teams interested, but at no time shall such postponed games be allowed to interfere with the regular schedule.

NOTE—The above schedule is for only eight game dates, and runs only to the Christmas holidays; however, by the time this part of the schedule is closed, or before, the remaining 12 games of the 20-game schedule will have been arranged, and copies of it will have been given to each of the 11 coaches by the time schools re-open after the holidays.

NOTE—It is suggested that all night games start at 7 o'clock; in cases of double-headers, the first game at 7, the second immediately following. A suggestion is made that day games begin at 2 o'clock.

Death of Mrs. Soberg

Anna Lou Soberg, born in Utica, Wis., November 14th 1861, died November 26, 1937. She was 76 years of age. Mrs. Soberg lived in Wisconsin 38 years, and also lived in Thorsby, Ala. 38 years. She was married to M. J. Soberg June 1st, 1887. Mr. Soberg is Mayor of Thorsby, president of Thorsby bank, vice-president of the Fruit Growers Association and for years has been a faithful trustee of Thorsby Institute.

Mrs. Soberg was an active member of the Lutheran church and Lutheran Ladies Aid Society, also a member of the Ladies Guild of Thorsby since January 1907. Mrs. Soberg was among the pioneers of Thorsby, a very much loved woman in the community, an unsual mother, always gentle and quiet in her manners, nevertheless she always did her part, faithfully and consitently in any undertaking of the community, whether church work, school work or the Ladies Guild. She will be greatly missed in our community.

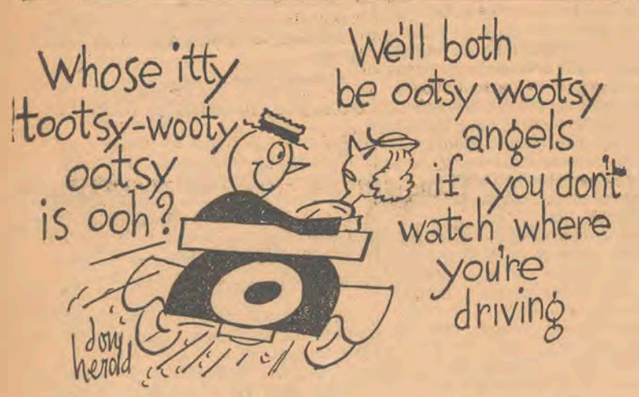
Mrs. Soberg is survived by her husband, three sons—C. J. Soberg Sheboygan, Wis.; E. J. Soberg of Chicago, Ill.; A. M. Soberg of Birmingham Ala. Two daughters, Mrs. W. L. Morgan and Mrs. D. K. Henderson, both of Washington, D. C. Ten grandchildren survive her. The funeral was held in the Lutheran Sweedish church on Monday November 29th, at 2 o'clock.

Rev. E. W. Butler, Rev. L. L. Stanley and Rev. W. P. Lowery had a part in the service. Miss Kathryn Foss had charge of the music. The flowers were abundant and most beautiful coming from Wisconsin, Washington, Chicago, Birmingham and Thorsby. Mr. Soberg after the first of the year will probably make his home with his son, A. M. Soberg of Birmingham.

Thorsby Institute News

Mr. Codie Bell, a 1924 graduate of Thorsby Institute, who is now living in Chicago, and doing well in the insurance business, visited the school ast week.

The annual Christams sale of the Ladies Guild of Thorsby, will be held n the city hall Saturday, December ith, beginning at 10 o'clock. There will be various kinds of fancy work, aprons and other articles suitable for gifts on sale. Candy and refreshments will also be sold. The proceeds are for the benefit of Thorsby Institute.



The annual Christian life conference held at Thorsby Institute the past week end had a large attendance. Dr. Hallie Farmer, of Alabama College, was an outstanding speaker on the subject, "What Can We Do With Things as They Are?" The toastmaster at the banquet on Saturday was Mr. Vinson H. Sutlive, teacher of Thorsby Institute, dressed as an Indian Chief. The indian idea was carried out in the table and room decorations. The closing part of the conference was a dramatic representation of the "Vison of Sir Launfal," given by the junior class under the direction of Miss Onita Klingelhoefer and Miss Lois Townsley, of the Institute.

The officers elected for next year are Frances Conway, chairman, Thorsby; Elizabeth Battles, vice-chairman, Tuskegee; Frances Wood, secretary, Lay Dam; Leonard Bosworth, treasurer, Thorsby.

The Helen Keller Literary society will give it's Christmas program Friday, December 19, at 7:30 p. m., to which the public is invited. There will be a charge of 15 cents.

1-MINUTE SAFETY TALKS

Broken Glass and Dented Fenders

Here are some tid-bit items in regard to automobile accidents which I have picked up here and there.

* * *

The Soviet Government recently executed a hit-and-run driver by the firing squad method.

Well, why not? Murder is murder whether you commit it with a six-shooter revolver or a six-cylinder motor car.

* * *

Not long ago, in a Midwestern traffic court, a driver who had been involved in an automobile accident was brought before a judge. It developed that he had been drinking, that he had a glass eye and that his car had little or no braking power.

And I suppose he had one arm around a girl.

* * *

Warning horns are forbidden in Berlin; consequently drivers must keep a sharp lookout; the pedestrian death rate has been considerably reduced.

The horn-driver is still a menace in America.

* * *

The steering wheel probably goes through your chest.

Want to try it?

* * *

More than 100,000 accidents a year are directly charged to drivers asleep.

* * *

About 60 per cent of the "autocides" occur at night according to The Travelers Insurance Company, when there is only 25 per cent of the traffic on the roads.

When it's dark, crawl, brother, crawl!

TIGERS CLOSED SEASON WITH WIN OVER ISABELLA 39-0

Chilton County High's Orange and Blue Tigers, in their first year under Coach F. H. (Bull) Spicer, finished with five wins and four losses, ending the season with a rousing 39 to 0 victory over their arch-rivals, Isabella High, last Friday afternoon, before the biggest crowd that has attended their games this year.

In winning the finale, the Tigers crossed the Bulldog final stripe six times, scoring three extra points after touchdown. The touchdowns were fairly evenly divided. Fullback Punk Johnson went over for two, Williamson got one, Melton got away for one, and two second string backs got one each, these being Seales and Cooper. The whole Chilton team played its usual good game, with hardly any room to pick individual stars.

Isabella showed a scrappy little squad, with "Bing" Lecroy getting away for several nice runs, especially on returns of punts and kick-offs, but could never pierce the solid Chilton squad for a counter. Lecroy was the stand-out man for Isabella.

This game brought out two instances of "Believe It Or Not." The first was the case when Cooper, substitute back, replaced Melton; this was the first time Cooper had seen service in regular play during the season; on the first play he was in, he caught a pass over the Isabella goal line for a touchdown. Such an instance is quite unusual, and certainly is the first time it has ever happened at Chilton High. The other odd instance attested to the clean nature of Friday's game—not a single penalty was inflicted against either team. This is another unusual incident.

In next week's paper we will give a complete resume of the season and of the individual members that have made up the Tiger machine of 1937, if we can get all the information necessary.

Although losing four games this season, the Tigers have scored on every team they have played, which attests a hard driving offense.

CENTER HILL

Mrs. Leo Cobb returned to Washington Sunday night, after a visit of a few days with relatives in this community and Thorsby. Mr. Leo Cobb is still here for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Lessley and Mr. and Mrs. Scott of Thorsby were visitors to Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Lessley and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Seay Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Cobb and daughter were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Cobb and children Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Price visited in Dry Valley through the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Cobb of Ashby were here as visitors through the Thanksgiving holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith have moved from this place to the Pleasant Grove community.

Mr. Bernice Lowery visited his mother, Mrs. Frank Lowery, of Providence, Sunday. Mrs. Lowery is in ill health.

Mr. Jess Matthews has moved his family down near Selma.

Mr. and Mrs. Dock Sims spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Webb.

Mrs. John W. Collum was the guest of her mother, Mrs. W. G. Atkinson, Monday. The latter has been ill for the past three weeks.

Mrs. Thelma Gothard and two little daughters were dinner guests of Mrs. Bernice Lowery Sunday.

Mrs. B. L. Cobb was a visitor to ffiends in Thorsby on last Wednesday.

The singing at this place was really good Sunday afternoon. Let's all try to hold our singing together through these bad winter months.—Mrs. John W. Collum.

SOCIETY

Miss Jerry Alred Given Birthday Party—

Miss Jerry Alred was honored on her 11th birthday when her mother, Mrs. Hance Alred, entertained with a party on Saturday afternoon at her home.

The guests spent a full afternoon playing games and contests. Betty Hollis was the winner for the girls, and Jack Waite the winner for the boys; bothe were presented a prize. All the guests enjoyed the fish pond, and each was rewarded.

At the refreshment hour the girls and boys were invited into the dining room. The birthday cake in pink and white centered the dining room table, which was attractively decorated with silver flowers and pink tulle.

The cake was cut and served with cream, nuts and mints.

Those present to wish Jerry many more happy birthdays were: Frances McSwain, Thad McSwain, Kathryn Newell, Frances Ellis, Ina Saxon McCraney, Buddy Roberts, Billy Callen, Ann Callen, Joe Mullins, Jr., John Deramus, Alice Deramus, Sally Gowan, Elizabeth Andrews, Jean Mullins, John Ed Scott, Jean Waites, Jack Waites, Dorothy Downs, Betty Hollis, Sara Nell McCary, Wilmer Parrish, Ellis Stanley, Inez Wyatt, Richard Crowson, Oscar Jones, Lamar Smith, Dot Parnell, William Parnell, Elizabeth Ann Easterling, Ruth Kate Easterling, Bess Hayes, Jimmy Walker, Bettye Mims, and others.

Dr. Charles Moore attended the Alabama-Vandy game in Nashville Thursday.

Mrs. Bob Alexander and little son, Bobbie, are visiting relatives in Alamo, Ga.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hollis, Mr. and Mrs. Hance Alred, and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Page were in Montgomery Friday night. They were guests at a birthday dinner given for Mr. M. A. Creagh by Mrs. Creagh.

Mrs. Arthur Johnson Hostess—

Members of the Thursday Contract Club were entertained last week by Mrs. Arthur Johnson.

Two tables were arranged in the spacious living room for bridge. After a series of games, Mrs. J. Lee Smith was awarded high score prize. Mrs. M. C. Hayes received the guest prize, and the hot oil shampoo given by Goodman Beauty Shop fell to Mrs. J. W. Hayes.

Delicious refreshments with hot coffee were served to Mesdames J. Lee Smith, Hugh Jones, L. F. Gerald, J. P. Hayes, Grady Reynolds, Claude Craig, J. W. Hayes, M. C. Hayes.

Mrs. M. C. Hayes Entertains—

Mrs. M. C. Hayes was hostess to members of the new Wednesday Club on last Wednesday afternoon.

The house was effectively decorated in baskets of chrysanthemums.

High score prize was awarded Mrs. John McSwean; guest prize fell to Mrs. J. W. Hayes.

At a late hour the guests were served a tempting salad plate with hot coffee.

Members of the club and guests enjoying this hospitality were Mesdames C. C. Craig, John McSwean, W. E. Huddleston, Jr., John Mullins, Hugh Jones, J. P. Hayes, J. W. Hayes.

Mrs. Ken Vinson of Scottsboro was the guest of friends here the past week end. Miss Gertiwyl Vinson of Alabama College joined her mother here for the week end.

Mrs. Earle Robinson and son of Birmingham were the week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Cox. Mr. Robinson spent the week end in Foley.

Mr. and Mrs. John Deramus attended the Alabama-Vandy game in Nashville Thursday.

J. Lee Smith, Jr., a student at Gulfport Military Academy, spent a few days here last week with his parents, Judge and Mrs. J. Lee Smith.

Have You A Sound Mind?—

A committee of Federated State Club members, with Mrs. Dupont Thompson, chairman, are making a study of "Mental Hygiene", and are endeavoring to put before the public the importance of this subject.

The committee is composed of a club woman from each district; Mrs. J. P. Hayes represents Chilton County in this important and interesting work.

At the last regular meeting of the Clanton Study Club, Mrs. John Kimmey gave a most interesting discussion on "Mental Hygiene".

It is the wish of the committee that each and every person in Chilton County give the most careful study to the following excerpts from this paper:

"Hygiene, as we know, is the science of preserving health. So mental hygiene is the science of preserving mental health."

"Of Grant it is said that he never held a grudge; he was not willing to let another upset his equanimity and use up his mental energy by stirring up his hatred."

"Lincoln is reported to have written a friend as follows: 'Do not worry, eat three square meals a day, say your prayers, be courteous to your creditors, keep your digestion good, exercise, go slow and easy. Maybe there are other things that your special case requires to make you happy, but my friend, these, I reckon, will give you a lift'."

"Mental hygiene aims to save society from the burden of feeble-mindedness and insanity—a burden the money cost of which is enormous, the result of which in sorrow, misery and crime is incalculable. It aims, however, not only at the prevention of acute mental disorder, but at development of wholesome interests and habits of healthful mental activity in all normal children and adults—habits that insure happiness and efficiency as well as sanity."

"The average man knows less about taking care of his mental integrity than he does about safeguarding his money. The time to learn the laws of mental balance is in the prime of life before any damage has resulted from ignorance."

"Finally, mental soundness is not static. Life is ever changing and new adjustments must always be made. You must steer through a great number of seething forces, but your course will be smooth because you are one of the forces and the whole system is unified. You are not a monkey wrench in the wheels of progress—you are one of the cogs. You have achieved mental soundness when you are willing to be a part of life."

CENTER HILL

Many farmers in our community are not through gathering their crops yet, the weather is so unsettled.

Sunday afternoon was our regular singing afternoon. The following officers were elected to serve for the following year: Mr. B. L. Cobb, president; Mr. J. C. Seay, vice-president; Mrs. B. O. Lowery, reporter.

Quite a number of visitors were present. Namely: Oak Grove, Mars Hill, Pleasant Hill and Jemison

Directors for the afternoon were: Messrs. W. J. Northcutt, Posey Cleckler, Lloyd Edwards, A. H. Glasscock, B. L. Cobb, Mrs. Flora Martin, Mrs. J. D. Scott, Miss Daisy Martin and Mrs. John Collum. Pianists for the afternoon were Mrs. Lonnie Martin and Mrs. B. L. Cobb. Some special songs were rendered by Miss Willie Frank Northcutt, Mr. Lassie Northcutt, Mr. Lloyd Edwards, Mr. A. H. Glasscock and Mr. Posey Cleckler. They were enjoyed by all.

Mr. and Mrs. Alton Cobb of Ashley, spent the Thanksgiving holidays with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. T. Cobb. Mr. Cobb is principal of Ashley junior high school.

Mrs. Golder Gothard and daughters, Kathryn and Nuell, spent Sunday with Mrs. B. O. Lowery.

Mrs. John Collum has been spending quite a bit of time with her mother, Mrs. W. G. Atkinson, of Jemison. Mrs. Atkinson has been ill for several weeks. We hope she will soon recover.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Cobb of Washington, D. C., have been visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb of this community, and Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Howard of Thorsby. Mrs. Cobb went back Saturday night; Mr. Cobb will go back Thursday.

Mrs. Columbus Crumpton is visiting her granddaughter, Mrs. Lonnie Cobb.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

In the beginning of this, our new church year, may we each and every one earnestly resolve many things. And when we resolve, may we heartily try to keep each good resolution. If we have not been attending each branch of the church services as we feel we should, may we resolve to be a better attendant. If we feel that we have not done just every bit of the work we could for our church and our Master, may we from this day in the beginning of this, our church year, begin to be a better worker. If we haven't supported the church with our tithes and offerings as we might have, let us accept the challenge in Malachi 3:10 for this year and just how much we can give to our church and our God—not just how little we can get by with, but how much we can return to the Giver of All. Have we prayed without ceasing for our church? Have we spent much time in secret studying the Holy Word? Have we lived so that our lights would shine for our Lord and guide others in the straight and narrow way which is, after all, the happy way? May we, each, consider our lives and resolve to be just exactly the kind of fellow we'd like to be when we come to end of the way. Then, above all things, let's keep those resolutions.

Our Sunday school last Sunday was all right, but it could stand plenty of improvement. May each member of the Sunday school don his or her working habit and see that there is quite an improvement next Sunday.

Friend, if you missed our church services last Sunday morning and night, how we'd like to tell you what a blessing you missed! Our hearts were stirred, our souls were warmed. We were made to think upon our ways and desire to live a new life in the service of our King. For your own sake, if for no other reason, don't miss next Sunday's services. Hear our preacher.

Sunday school at 9:45 and preaching at 11 a. m., and 6:30 p. m.

Mr. D. K. Hubbard, the piano tuner from Tennessee, near Florence, Ala., was in Clanton during the week end. Mr. Hubbard visits here about once a year, and his friends are always glad to see him.

Guess Who For Girls

A new student in the Sr. II class. She is a brunette and, boy, does she have a figure. Wonder if she is any kin to the "Underwood" typewriter.

Believe it or not

There wasn't a single penalty in the Clanton Isabella game.

Carl Cooper went in the game for the first time to ever go in a game and the first play after he went in he made a touchdown.

Getting Ready For Another Season

Mr. Hicks stated in chapel that now is the time to begin to make a good football team for next year, he also stated that Mr. Spicer has already made plans for next year's team and with cooperation from the students we will again have a most successful season.

Holidays Over

The holidays are over and we are starting back to school with our minds greatly rested and ready to do some school work.

Unfortunately we have a teacher absent from school, but we hope she will be back with us soon.

Football Season Over With Victory of 39 to 0

Wednesday before Thanksgiving ended a most sucessful football season for the C.C.H.S. which we should all be proud of. The coach as well as the boys should be given credit for the splendid work that has been done this season.

The Tigers went out Wednesday to play their best game of the season and they did that very thing. The team worked as a machine the entire time. There was a big crowd out to see the kick-off, which was to Isabella. They were not able to make a first down and punted, but they recovered the ball, this being the only time they threatened. Isabella was again unable to make first down, the ball went over and the Tigers began to work their way to the goal line by picking up yards through the line and around the end. The next play they pulled the "razzle-dazzle," which worked perfectly for 20 yards, then came the touch down play, Duck Williamson fading back and then tossing a pass to Snowy Melton—he had nothing to do but gallop on across for the first marker of the game. During the first half of the game the Tigers had to punt only once, making three of the six markers in the first half.

During the second half the Isabella eleven played a much harder game than they did the first half, but still they were unable to stop the Tigers.

There was no outstanding player for the Tigers, they all played like a machine, each doing their part.

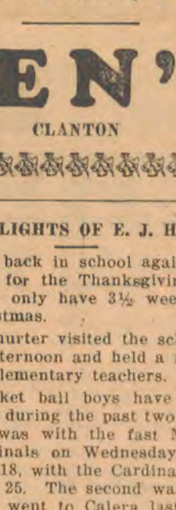
The outstanding player for the Isabella team was the little married man, Bing Lecroy. He made many long runs, but they all ended before he crossed the goal line.

This game makes the Tigers the winner of five games and the loser of four.

Watch the C. C. H. S. paragraphs for the exact score of the games for the entire season.

PLEASANT HILL

Health of our community is very good at present. We are thankful for this beautiful sunshine we are having this week. It seems that most everyone is through gathering.



We had quite a few absent from our Sunday school Sunday, however all of our teachers and officers were present. We would like to say to those who didn't get out, you are missing something important when you are missing your Bible study each Sunday morning. Let's all try to be present next Sunday morning and on time. We can make our Sunday school one of the best if we try. We would like to mention, too, that on next Sunday week, December 12, we will discuss some important business concerning our pastor. Church members, let's take this matter to prayer and ask the Lord to give us an humble heart that we might all come together and do something to build our church up; and don't forget our Sunday school each Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Everybody come; visitors always welcome at Pleasant Hill.

Quite a few from here attended the singing at Center Hill last Sunday and reported a good singing.

Mrs. J. R. Cost returned home Monday, after spending several days of last week with relatives at Myrtlewood, Ala.

Don't forget our Sunday school Sunday, and let's go and carry someone with us.

HIGHLIGHTS OF E. J. H. S.

We are back in school again, after being out for the Thanksgiving holidays. We only have 3½ weeks now until Christmas.

Miss Schurter visited the school on Monday afternoon and held a meeting with the elementary teachers.

The basket ball boys have played two games during the past two weeks. The first was with the fast Mitchell Dam Cardinals on Wednesday night, November 18, with the Cardinals winning 28 to 25. The second was when Enterprise went to Calera last Tuesday and defeated the Calera team 23 to 15. Both were clean games with fine sportsmanship exhibited. The Enterprise team will go to Mitchell Dam wednesday night, December 1, to play those fast stepping Cardinals again.

The Stanton team will play Enterprise on the Enterprise court Friday of this week, December 3. The Enterprise girls are inviting the Stanton girls out to play them also on this date. The first game will begin at 2:00 o'clock. Come out to see this game.

Enterprise boys will go to Thorsby Wednesday night, December 8. Make arrangements to see this game.

Watch for the scores for Enterprise and their opponents in the Enterprise Highlights each week.

JEMISON F. F. A. NEWS

The Jemison chapter of F. F. A. sponsored a turkey shooting contest Wednesday evening, November 24; the turkey weighed 16 pounds. This contest was a splendid success. There were many people of the community who took part. The turkey was won by Mr. L. H. Bean. The proceeds go to buy basket ball suits for the F. F. A. team.

The chapter is also sponsoring a popularity contest to select the prettiest girl and ugliest boy in school. These proceeds also go to buy athletic equipment.

On the night of December 17, this chapter, in cooperation with the F. H. A., will hold a Christmas party. This party will take the place of the banquet which had been planned. The same program will be carried out at the party as was planned for the banquet, except for some group games and a Christmas tree.

The chapter will attend the regular monthly district meeting which will be held at Billingsley Monday night, December 6. We will have three or four candidates for the Future Farmer degree.

NAVY STANDING

President Roosevelt's Navy Day message made clear his conviction that while the United States will avoid war by all honorable means, it must keep a defense at sea "sufficient to insure the preservation of our democratic ideals and the maintenance of a righteous peace."

With 366 ships in commission, a total of 1,073,000 tons, an enlisted personnel of 102,000 the American Navy is reputed to be second in strength only to that of Great Britain.

With the expiration of the naval limitations treaty armament race has begun anew, Great Britain taking the lead, but Japan, Germany, France, and Italy all active.

The basic reliance of the American fleet is its battleship unit, composed of 15 vessels. Until recently the keel of a new battleship has not been laid since the close of the World War. Not since 1923 has a new battleship been put in commission. Of the 15 ships, 11 ante-date 1920.

The new battleships built and building abroad represent great improvement in armament, speed, power and construction over the older ships. Although a ship like the North Carolina, the keel of which was laid recently, costs $60,000,000, it is evident that further new construction in this class should be had if the policy declared for by President Roosevelt is to be maintained. — Hartford Times.

A WELL TURNED PHRASE

The president in a recent statement said that it is more important to raise the purchasing power of one-third of the American people in the lower economic stratum than it is to repeal the surplus profits tax about which there is so much discussion now that there has been a crash in the stock market wiping out the gains in prices during the past 18 months. The president doesn't seem to see any real connection between the two things. We have had the tax on undistributed profits for more than a year. Yet the purchasing power of the so-called submerged one-third doesn't seem to have been increased by this hobble on business. In fact, there seems to be a general slowing up just now. This means fewer jobs and a decreased rather than an increased purchasing power on the part of the masses.

The president by his statement seems to infer that keeping the surtax on business profits will somehow increase the purchasing power of the masses. But he doesn't show the logic of the assertion. The president likes well-turned phrases, whether they are logical or not. There is another example of his predilection in this expression. It is fine to enunciate pretty sounding phrases and to express alluring thoughts. But just the same, a little logic isn't out of place now and then.

As a matter of fact, the tax on surplus profits doesn't help the purchasing power of the so-called submerged one-third. The tax forces out of the company treasury money which otherwise might be used to improve present plants or build new additions to furnish more jobs and increase the purchasing power of the masses. The president's well turned phrase requires a bit of elucidating.

When the United States Conference of Mayors was held in Washington recently the question of relief was foremost. Haven't these mayors learned yet that the New Deal has cured the depression?

It is said that the president has failed to invoke the neutrality pact against Japan and China because he isn't convinced that there is a real war over there. Wonder if he has seen any of the news reels taken in Shanghai?

The reason residential building is lagging is that people are not buying houses fast enough, and the reason people are not buying houses fast enough is that they are too expensive. The reason they are too expensive is that it costs too much to build them. The president, in devising a building boom program might take these facts into consideration.

MAN IN THE MOON

ALABAMA vs. AUBURN

Away back about the turn of the century the University of Alabama and Alabama Polytechnic Institute (Auburn) severed athletic relations, and to this day have not met again on the football field. The misunderstandings were so grevious that officials of the two schools have deemed it unwise for them to resume their relations.

For the last few years, however, there has been an annual suggestion that the two meet, bury the hatchet, and take up their series of games again. Football fans would like to see this, as there is no way for these Alabama and Auburn fans to settle the never-ending dispute as to which produces the best teams.

I would like to see the whole affair settled one way or the other. To my way of thinking, the whole trouble has narrowed down to a traditional hatred rather than an active one. I have been present at Auburn's games, and when it was announced that Alabama was winning her game of the day somewhere else, Auburn fans, and even Auburn players, were highly elated. I have seen the very same thing at Alabama games, with Alabama supporters and rooters pulling for all they were worth for the Plainsmen on another field.

If this is true—if a traditional hatred is all that keeps these two schools apart, it is indeed a lamentable condition, and some kind of dark spot on our latter-day civilization here in Alabama. It seems that, just as a traditional hatred is all that exists between the North and the South, that such a condition also exists between Alabama and Auburn. If this is the case, then it is a childish reason for them to remain estranged. Alabama and Auburn are two of the very finest schools the nation affords, and are so considered by people all over the country, as evidenced by the great number of out-of-state students who attend them. And, as such, they should be big enough to bury their strife. If the present management of the two colleges are willing to settle the affair, I can see no good reason why the old grads should kick.

Let's have the question settled, at least. If Alabama's people are so prejudiced in mind that we cannot meet and arrange a friendly settlement of an estrangement that both agree is in great degree childish, then let's admit it to ourselves and each other that we are too narrowminded and prejudiced to do so, and forget the project forever, or until another generation comes along who perhaps will have more sense than we have. But if our people are big enough to settle things among themselves in a civilized manner, then let's settle this trouble once for all, and allow our two fine colleges to go through the years to come as friendly and sportsmanlike rivals —as they should have been doing for years.

TRADED LIKE AN ANIMAL

We don't hear so much nowadays about our late road scrap. When Charlie Cox pulled the possum trick on the Smith bunch and played dead, it put a stop to most of the squabbling. That was a right interesting affair from beginning to end, as I look back over the whole thing, not the least interesting of which was Mr. Cox's abrupt about-face a short time ago.

As you will remember so well, it all started out with the line-up being Cox and Thomas against all the rest of us. Then Tom Arledge's help was added, and then more help was added when the personnel of the road crews was picked. But, as a whole, the move never was very well founded, for several reasons. Our people would have resented it, even if it had proved good (which it didn't) because it was rammed down them; it is much better to take medicine than it is to be held and have it forced down whether or not. Then our people decided we were not getting our money's worth by the new system, as well as no roads. Then the mighty squabble had been going all along between the chiefs on both sides; this was amusing for a while, but came to be quite boresome. Then came the abrupt change of Charlie Cox, and at the same time The Chilton County News began taking the part of Charlie McCarthy in Judge Smith's ventriloquism act.

At one time during all this controversy, I asked Charlie Cox why he wanted to put the program in, when all the people were so dead set against it, in view of his published promise to carry out the wishes of the people. His answer was: "The people don't know what they want, and I am going to do what 'I' think is best." He also said that he never expected to enter politics again, had no political ax to grind, and so was not particularly interested in whether the people were for him or against him. But late in the road scrap, Charlie must have changed his mind about that last statement, although he has never yet changed it about the efficiency of his road program, proved by the fact that when he gave in a short time ago, he did so saying that he still believed the program a good one, but that it was no good under "existing conditions". A political bee must have buzzed back into his bonnet of late. It was, and still is, the general opinion of almost everyone that the reason Charlie turned his back on the road program was because he knew he was licked, and desired to salvage what political prestige he could by throwing up the works, apparently "giving in to the will of the people".

I think no one was fooled in the least by this last move by Mr. Cox. Everyone knew why he did it, or at least had a strong idea of his own. But did it help his political chances? I think not. I believe the general run of people put him down as a traitor as well as an autocrat, as a result of his program. They didn't like his road program, and had marked him as an iron-willed autocrat by the manner employed in getting it; and now they put him down for a traitor as well. They didn't like the idea of his leading Tom Arledge and his few other followers out into deep water, and then leaving them to sink or swim.

But what of Tom Arledge? I believe Tom Arledge's stock is higher in Chilton County right now than at any time in the past, not through any especially good work of his own, but more through the poor work of his captain, Mr. Cox. Our people don't like the road program, but they do like to watch a clean, hard fighter at work, and that is just what Tom Arledge is and does. The thing that helped Tom more than anything else, was the fact that Charlie turned traitor to him, after he had gotten into the big mess and couldn't turn loose easily—traded him off, as it were, much like an animal, right in the middle of the deep water. And if it should come to a test, I believe Arledge would poll twice as many votes as Cox, if both were running for the same office.

Another thing our people like is that Tom, almost single handed, seems to be getting better results than he did when Cox was helping. In fact, it is the general opinion that if the new system had been put into effect with the supervisor and commissioners court left to themselves and working together, and without the antagonizing effect of Mr. Cox's presence in the affair, it could have been put over.

But the several events, as they have come and gone, have just about taken Charlie Cox out of the political picture. He proved himself an autocrat, having no sincere wish to serve the people who elected him, as they desired to be served, and then went on to prove himself a traitor as well, both to his cause and his few followers, in order to, apparently, get back into the good graces of those whom his actions had proved he considered so lightly. Now what political chance has a man like that, even in his own party?

WAGES AND HOURS

The wages and hours legislation being promulgated within the administration sounds swell to anybody who doesn't think deeply. The main result cannot be otherwise than to increase the cost of goods to the very workers such laws are supposed to benefit. That will curtail purchases and automatically bring about less employment.

One reason for the lagging in the building trades has been that the generality of workmen who would like to own homes cannot easily employ other workmen to build them who draw from two to three times as much in wages.

Only one development can prevent vastly increased costs of goods in case of radical wage-hour legislation—the further development of labor saving machinery.—New Britain Herald.

MEAT SUPPLIES FOR THE STATE CONVICTS

When the present administration went into office the state was consuming in its convict department approximately a million pounds of meat annually. The state was not producing a pound of this meat. It was paying from 9 to 20 cents a pound for it. To produce this meat would require 3,000 killing hogs weighing 200 pounds each, and 1,000 beef cattle weighing 400 pounds each.

The State Board of Administration is making an effort to produce on state owned farms all the meat required for its convicts. It now has 233 brood sows, 469 gilts, and 454 pigs. It also has 365 meat hogs and 207 beef cattle ready to be killed. These hogs and cattle have been raised and fattened on feed produced on the state farms by convicts.

It is estimated that by the end of the next fiscal year the state will be producing all its hog meat requirements.

The state has been handicapped in producing its own meat requirements by not having a killing plant and a curing plant. These are now being built with convict labor, and largely out of materials produced on state owned lands. Only the steel, cement and hardware have to be purchased.

The convicts are also producing the greater part of their other food requirements. They have produced the past year more than a half million pounds of rice, besides an ample supply of Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes, syrup, and various kinds of vegetables.

State Capitol News

Indications of a determined drive before the next legislature for revamping of the state's parole laws was given here last week in a civic club address by Bruce Airey of Wetumpka, parole chairman. Mr. Airey, who also is president of the Southeastern State's Parole and Probation Conference termed Alabama's clemency lews "archaic."

The quail season opened for Alabama sportsmen last Saturday with a record crop of birds reported in a majority of Alabama counties. The heavy increase in birds was attributed in game wardens' reports to an abundance of cover and food crops. Hale, Greene and Winston were the only counties reporting crop decreases, the latter two attributing the shortage to overshooting.

Commissioner of Agriculture R. J. Goode, last week served warning on dealers against retailing cold storage eggs as the fresh product. Violations of this section of the state pure food act are widespread in Alabama, he said, adding that he had instructed his field agents to institute criminal proceedings against violators who ignore warning.

Orville Rush of Birmingham, in charge of co-ordinating activities of the state planning and industrial boards with headquarters in Birmingham, has announced he will be a candidate for congress from the ninth (Jefferson County), district in next year's primary. He will oppose, among others, the incumbent, Luther Patrick of Birmingham.

The Alabama State Baptist convention meeting here last week voted an additional $12,500 annually to Howard College of Birmingham to meet increased costs under standards fixed by the Southern Association of Colleges. The funds will be in addition to the regular appropriation. A movement was launched to raise $250,000 for Howard by 1942 after a proposal to seek one million dollars failed to come to a vote.

The convention adjourned after selecting Gadsden for next year's meeting, November 15-17. The convention made recommendations to the Baptist Executive Board meeting, which will be held here December 7, that increased emphasis be placed on evangelism with a special secretary to be installed next March 1.

Delegates described the convention as one of the most successful in the church's 116 years in Alabama.

To capitol political observers the field of candidates from which the voters will select a Governor next year will include: Frank Dixon, R. J. Goode, B. M. Miller, Chauncey Sparks, and Dr. Henry J. Willingham.

The Alabama Supreme Court is to pass on validity of voting machines in an appeal from Mobile County, storm center of local elections. The circuit court there overruled demurrers of manufacturers of the machines in a friendly test suit for a high court decision.

Governor Bibb Graves was in Mobile last week in conference with army and civil engineers on his cherished project of a nine-foot channel from Rome, Ga., to Mobile, via the Coosa and Alabama waterways, before going directly to Washington for the Thanksgiving holiday with his wife, U. S. Senator Dixie Bibb Graves. Results of the Mobile conference were not immediately made known.

Educational authorities have been advised by Interior Secretary Harold L. Ickes, that $173,450.45 in vocational educational funds are being released to Alabama, covering appropriations up to next December 31.

The Alabama Grand Lodge of Masons met here November 30 for the 111th annual session. Also in convention were the Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons and the Grand Council of Royal and Select Masters.

Governor Bibb Graves followed custom last week, formally proclaiming December 10 as Arbor Day in a proclamation. Citing forests as one of the state's renewable resources, the governor called for their proper care and promised cooperation of the state frestry commission. Public arbor day programs under forestry commission direction were slated in several communities.

In opinion handed down last Friday the State supreme court affirmed the decision of the Jefferson county circuit court in holding the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Corporation liable for the gross receipts tax imposed by the legislature last January. Approximate sum involved was $11,000.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

COWPEAS PRODUCING MORE BUSHELS THAN EVER BEFORE

Auburn, Nov. 29. — Cowpeas are turning out about 8,500,000 bushels, the biggest production ever reported by about 100,000 bushels.

Farmers in the South Atlantic and South Central states report a considerable increase in this year's acreage of cowpeas planted with corn.

The quality of cowpeas from this year's crop is reported some better than the quality of last year's production.

Farmers were paying the highest wage rates to farm hands this fall in 7 years. The October index of farm wages was 126 per cent of pre-war, compared with 110 per cent on October 1 last year.

FARMERS MAY APPLY FOR PRICE PAYMENTS

Auburn, Nov. 29. — Cotton producers do not have to sell their 1937 cotton by July 1, 1938, to be eligible for Cotton Price Adjustment Payments, I. W. Duggan, acting director, Southern Division, AAA, wires Walter L. Randolph, administrative officer in charge of the AAA program in Alabama.

"Numerous reports reaching this division to effect that county agents and committeemen are under impression that producers, to be eligible for CAP payments, must sell entire 1937 cotton crop befire July 1, 1938," says the telegram. "Publicize immediately that this information is not correct and that payments will be made on first sales in any amount up to 65 per cent of base production if other requirements are met."

"To be eligible for price adjustment payments, cotton under the 9c loan must be sold before July 1, 1938, to qualify for a payment," says Mr. Duggan in another statement. "If a grower could leave his cotton under the loan and still get a price adjustment payment, the amount of 1937 cotton going under government loans would be greatly increased.

"The result might be a restriction in the free movement of American cotton in the channels of trade, and it is likely that exports and consumption would be curtailed on that account."

Mr. Duggan said that if farmers were encouraged to put so much of their cotton under loan, they might sell only 10 million bales from the 1937 crop and put the remaining 8.2 million bales in the loan. In the event this happened, the government holdings, when added to 1.7 million bales o fold cotton already under government loans, would be increased to a total of about 9.9 million bales.

Twenty-five years ago the hired farm hand was getting (as a national average) about $1.10 a day, with board; $1.43 without. This fall he was getting $1.39, with board; $1.83 without. Workers by the month, in both periods, got proportionately less per day. The increase over a quarter of a century has been much less than that received by non-farm workers in industries requiring comparable skill.

In Partnership

Alabama has made rapid strides forward in the textile industry in recent years. Whether this progress will be continued, to the greater prosperity of Alabama, depends on the intelligent cooperation of Alabama's cotton farmers, mill management, mill operatives, and merchants.

What the cotton mills would like to see is the farmer get a fair price for his cotton, the mill operative a fair wage for his labor, and the stockholders a fair return on their investment . . . They feel sure that this is likewise the wish of the majority of farmers and operatives.

The textile industry has blossomed and thrived in other sections before, only to be blighted by discord, and a lack of cooperation and understanding between the producers of raw material, the legislators, the mill management and the mill operatives . . . This should not, and must not happen in Alabama.

RESULTS OF FEEDING PEANUTS TO CHICKENS

Auburn, Nov. 29. — The Alabama Agricultural Experiment Station announces the publication of a new bulletin on "The Value of Peanuts and Peanut Meal in Rations for Chickens."

It was prepared by D. F. King and G. J. Cottier of the poultry department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute and can be obtained free from county agents or by writing Dean M. J. Funchess, Auburn.

In describing results obtained by experiments, the writers of the publication say:

"The protein supplied by peanuts did not give satisfactory results when fed in simple rations to hens or chicks unless supplemented with some other protein. Both buttermilk and skim milk were found to be very effective in supplementing peanuts. Fair results were obtained by using peanut meal as a protein supplement in rations for laying hens."

Each year farmers of Alabama produce approximately 10 million bushels of peanuts, one-third of which are fed to livestock, principally to hogs. This bulletin reports two experiments: The first deals with the use of whole peanuts, ground peanuts with shells, gound peanuts without shells, and peanut meal in farm flock rations for laying hens; whereas, the second gives the results of feeding peanuts and peanut products to baby chicks.

TENANT PURCHASE LOANS

Farm Security Administration tenant purchase loans will soon be available to residents of this county, according to a statement issued from the office of the rehabilitation supervisor of the Farm Security Administration this week.

Chilton is one of the counties designated by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace to be provided with funds this fiscal year for loans to low income farm families as provided for in the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act.

The appropriation for the first year of $10,000,000 for the nation contemplated enabling these loans to be made in approximately 300 counties of the nation. Of this first year's appropriation Alabama was allotted $615,531 to be distributed over the state among the 25 counties designated for this first year's program.

This county, as well as other counties designated, will be able to make loans to not less than five and to not more than ten farm families according to land costs and as approved by the local Farm Security Advisory Committee.

The Bankhead-Jones legislation provides that applications for loans to acquire farms will be accepted by the local county offices of the Rehabilitation Supervisor, who will act as secretary to the advisory committee. The Farm Security Advisory Committee, appointed by Secretary Wallace, will pass on all purchase propositions, certifying to the Farm Security Administration as to the applicant's qualifications, and as to the economic possibilities and value of the lands desired purchased. No action can be taken on any application until this committee has been established in the county and are ready to consider the propositions submitted. A supply of necessary forms will be rushed to this office in a few days and the business of accepting applications will be started.

POPLAR SPRINGS CLUB

The Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. Reedie Patterson Friday, November 5. There 10 members present.

We opened with a lively song, "Shortenin' Bread". The president, Gladys Rich, read an interesting story. Then Miss Grace gave a demonstration on what food would cost if we had it all to buy. Many helpful thoughts were discussed. Mrs. Ludie Jones gave a talk on a very serious disease.

We decided to have a Club Christmas tree at our next meeting. Everyone who comes is to bring a homemade gift—just anything you can make yourself. Names will be drawn after we arrive. Refreshments will be served, and an interesting program will be put on. Every member is urged to come, and visitors are always welcome.

The meeting will be held with Mrs. Gertie Jones, Friday, December 3.—Gertie Jones, Reporter.

SOIL CONSERVATION SERVICE

Permanent strips of perennial vegetation are replacing red, galled areas in many cultivated fields in the erosion control area near Clanton Alabama, according to James H. Wood, Superintendent of the Soil Conservation Service.

Cooperating farmers have found that perennial hay crops planted on areas where a critical erosion problem exists within a cultivated field, simplify the control of erosion in the entire field, Mr. Wood said.

Usually these areas are already seriously eroded and are therefore the least productive portions of the field. Where perennial legumes are used in the permanent strips, they serve to build up the fertility of the soil in these areas as well as to control further washing of the land.

By slowing up run-off water from these eroded areas, the dense vegetation cover also reduces the erosion problem on lower lying cultivated land. Strips of annual close-growing crops such as cow peas, soybeans are effectively used in rotations with strips of clean-tilled crops on the remainder of the field.

Types of perennial vegetation best suited to the control of erosion on critical areas in this section are kudzu, lespedeza. Their use provides continuous protection for portions of the field where the erosion problem is most severe, Mr. Wood said.

Cotton producers who buy the cotton of tenants or others will not be entitled to a 9c loan or a price adjustment payment on that cotton, advise AAA officials.

SINGING AT OAK GROVE

The regular first Sunday singing will be held next Sunday afternoon at Oak Grove church. Everyone is invited to come and bring their new books.—Sam Collins.

"THREE WAYS TO LOOK"

"Someone has said: 'There are three ways to look. If you want to be wretched, look within; if you wish to be distracted, look around; but if you would have peace, look up'."—D. L. Moody.

As the evangelist has said, if we look within we find wretchedness, and a glance around invariably distracts. But, blessed fact, peace may be obtained if we look up to God. Moody found the truth of this early in life. And from that moment on he consecrated his every effort to doing God's will. The Lord was very real to Moody, and He, in turn, was very close to the man throughout his fruitful life. No project, no matter how trivial, would be started until Moody had taken the matter to God in prayer. With His approval, he was invincible.

Christians everywhere are praising God for the glorious ministry of a man who looked up—Dwight Lyman Moody.

"I believe that when we bring the church of God down to the level of the world to reach the world, we are losing all the while, and grieving the Spirit of God."—D. L. Moody.

The great evangelist had in mind the subject of questionable entertainment in churches. He meant lotteries, fairs, bazaars, and dramatic performances. A church, to Dwight L. Moody, was a temple in which God might be praised and worshiped, and man might be elevated nearer His plane.

Moody was a lovable, human individual, full of fun at the proper time, but dead in earnest about preaching Christ to erring men and women. His only mission was to win souls to Jesus, and few consecrated servants of the Lord ever have been so richly blessed in their work.

Christians are divided on the matter of entertainment in the church, but we are inclined toward Moody's viewpoint. We are, indeed, fighting a losing battle when we must offer worldly attractions to induce people to come and hear God's word. And there is little doubt that we grieve the Spirit of God.

In 1915 the question of amending the constitution so as to require the legislature to meet every two years instead of every four years was submitted to a vote of the people and was rejected by a vote of 51,284 to 42,946. There were 26 counties which gave a majority for it and 41 voted against it. Up to this time one extra session of the legislature has been held since the present constitution was adopted.

NOTICE TO DOG OWNERS

This is to notify all persons now owning a dog, which has or has not been vaccinated, to be on the look-out for the man on the check-up.

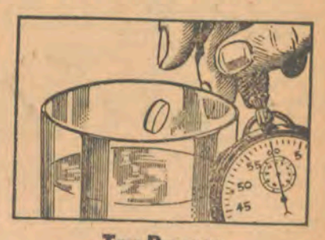
Now, as this is a law, and the health and well being of people and livestock are at stake, we are expecting the people who have been so nice to go just another step, and tell us if there is a dog in your community that has not been vaccinated. You may be called upon to show your vaccination certificate. If so, do it in good spirit. It is for your protection, after all.

Now in just these few short months since most of the dogs were vaccinated we have almost forgotten about mad dogs. To all of you who have not vaccinated your dogs: It will cost only one dollar per dog, now, if you will cooperate as your neighbor has done and wishes you to do.

Thanking all who have cooperated so nicely, and trusting we may make a banner county out of Chilton, all the way.—W. L. Parrish, Rabies Inspector.

Uncle Jim Says

"It's better business to store fertility in the ground until it can grow crops at a profit than it is to mine the earth of its plant food and sell it at a loss."



TREES SHOULD BE SET AS SOON AS RECEIVED

When trees, both fruit and forestry trees, are received from the nursery, they should be planted as soon as possible, and under no condition should the roots be allowed to dry out, advises Lyle Brown, extension forester, Auburn.

"If they cannot be planted right away, or if the planting will take several days, the trees should be heeled in in a trench dug deep enough so that the roots can be thoroughly covered," he says.

"The string around each bundle should be cut so that the seedlings can be spread out along the trench. At least one foot of trench should be allowed for each 100 trees."

READY TO BRING YOU RELIEF IN MINUTES

THE REASON BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a tumbler of water.

By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating.

This speed of disintegration enables genuine BAYER Aspirin tablets to start "taking hold" of headache and similar pain a few minutes after taking.

YOU can pay as high as you want for remedies claimed to relieve the pain of Headache, Rheumatism, Neuritis, Sciatica, etc. But the medicine so many doctors generally approve — the one used by thousands of families daily — is Bayer Aspirin — 15¢ a dozen tablets — about 1¢ apiece.

Simply take 2 Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Repeat, if necessary, according to directions.

Usually this will ease such pain in a remarkably short time.

For quick relief from such pain which exhausts you and keeps you awake at night — ask for genuine Bayer Aspirin.

NEGRO SCHOOL BUS STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

On monday morning a few minutes past seven o'clock, at Lomax, a negro school bus driven by Ralph Oden was overtaken and run into by a Ford car driven by two men from Birmingham. Both the car and the bus were going in the same direction; when the bus slowed up to turn off, the car ran into the rear end. A school teacher in the bus, Mary Calloway, was rather seriously injured, and both men in the car had to be carried to the hospital. No children were injured.

New 1938 Ford Showing Here

Two Entirely Different Groups This Year; Both Are V-8's

Ford V-type 8-cylinder cars for 1938 went on display this week in Ford dealer showrooms throughout the United States. They are offered this year as two distinct lines, differing in appearance and price. Both are in the lowest price field.

One is a newly styled standard Ford line, in Coupe, Fordor, and Tudor body types, powered with the 85 or the 60 horsepower V-8 engine. The standard cars are designed to meet requirements of the many motor car owners, whose means dictate maxium economy in first cost, as well as in maintenance and operating costs.

The other is a newly designed de luxe line for owners who desire additional style and appointments. Powered only with the 85 horsepower V-8 engine, the line includes eight body types, the coupe, Tudor and Fordor sedans, as well as the club coupe, convertible cabriolet, club convertible cabriolet, convertible sedan, and the phaeton.

The two lines of cars have the same improved V-8 chassis, but their styling is distinctly different.

The de luxe cars are longer in appearance. The hood has been lengthened. Its nearly vertical front is carried in a V well down into the radiator grille, with the familiar V-8 emblem at the tip of the V. Horizontal lines of the grille bars and the louvres are echoed in a bright rustless steel band which is carried along the belt to the rear.

The new standard line cars also present a larger appearance, with a newly designed front end, grille, hood and fenders. The front end is formed in a V, with the horizontal grille bars extending unbroken along the hood side to form the louvres.

Fenders in both cars are massive, formed lower ct provide more complete coverage of the running gear, and extending farther back. Headlamps are again recessed in front fender aprons, new type tail lamps in the tips of rear fenders.

Interiors of the two cars are roomy and attractive, styled in keeping with the exteriors. The de luxe sedan interiors are larger.

A new instrument panel adds measurably to the beauty of the front compartment. The panel of the de luxe line cars is in walnut grain finish, that of the standard line cars in mahogany finish.

Instruments are arranged in two groups directly in front of the driver. In the middle of the panel is a grille, for radio speaker installation when specified. At the right is a glove compartment. In de luxe cars a lock is provided for the compartment and a clock is recessed in the compartment door

Instruments in both cars are lighted by improved fringed illumination, designed to provide safer lighting for night driving. Interior lights are located on the right and left pillars of the sedans and over the rear windows of coupes.

Steering wheels of the de luxe cars are of flexible multiple steel spoke type, with hubs of rich brown bakelized material and rims of lighter contrasting color. Standard car steering wheels are of 3-spoke type, finished in beige. The upper spokes are widely spaced to give the driver unobstructed view of the instrument dials.

T. B. SEAL SALE TO BEGIN

Plans for conducting the annual Christmas seal sale campaign were being drawn up today, according to a statement made by Dr. S. D. Sturkie, local County Health Officer. "Due to an unavoidable delay, we are getting a late start this year," said Dr. Sturkie, "but it is the hope of the local Tuberculosis Association that this will not prevent us from being as successful as we were last year."

A plea was made by the Health Officer that the people of Chilton county respond generously to the seal sale by purchasing a liberal amount of seals. "Funds, he stated, "for the fight against tuberculosis are sorely needed here. There is much that can be done to save lives from this dreaded disease if money can be made available with which to carry on the fight."

SERVICES AT CLANTON SEVENTH-DAY ADVENTIST

Beginning with the regular Sabbath services next Saturday morning, the local Seventh-day Adventist church will begin to observe the annual week of prayer together with all the other Adventist churches over the world. Every night except Saturday night, services will be held in the Clanton Seventh-Day Adventist church.

"With the perplexing situation in all the world; capital and labor difficulties, clouds of war on the horizion, mankind sinking lower and lower in vice, violent crimes are rampant, it behoves our church to devote this week to prayer and devotion," the Rev. Westermeyer said was the reason for this annual prayer service. This is an old custom; for years this has been the practice among this church.

J. THOMAS HEFLIN SPOKE TO BIG CROWD HERE SATURDAY P. M.

Lister Hill Flayed by "Cotton Tawm" In Address To Local Citizens.

Former Senator J. Thomas Heflin told an audience composed of more than a thousand farmers and business men here Saturday that "if you will send me back to the United States Senate, I shall exert my every power to serve you just as well as I did when I was in congress before."

This was Heflin's first appearance in Chilton County in the present campaign for the Black seat in the United States Senate.

"I have studied the cotton farmer's problem and I am in a position to serve you, whereas Congressman Lister Hill was born with a silver spoon in his mouth and seemingly doesn't know much about the farm or farm problem," Heflin said. "I am willing to run on my record of service to the farmers of Alabama and the United States, but Congressman Hill's farm record is nothing to boast about.

"When some Southern representatives in congress were fighting for a much needed loan on cotton this year, Congressman Hill was in Paris dedicating a monument when he should have been in Washington fighting for a 12-cent loan on cotton instead of the nine-cent loan. I introduced a bill in the Senate several years ago which would have separated 'bollies' or undeveloped cotton fibres, from the government report on cotton. After it was passed in the senate, I called upon Congressman Hill to help get it out of the House committee. He failed to do so, and the bill died.

"I again introduced it at the next session and it passed the senate unanimously and again Congressman Hill failed to call for a vote on it after it was reported out of the committee and placed on the House calendar. This bill would have eliminated 700,000 bales of undeveloped cotton fibres in green bolls which was and still is counted in the cotton supply. Yet he tells you he will help the cotton farmer."

Heflin also assailed Congressman Hill for his support of the wages and hours bill, charging that if the bill were enacted into law it would result in an increased cost for farm necessities and would force many Alabama industries to close doors and drive labor from employment. He also said a fertilizer manufacturer told him that if the bill passed the cost of fertilizer would be increased from $2 to $4 per ton.

Said Mr. Heflin:

"None can say that I have ever proved unfaithful to the trust that you reposed in me. In my campaign I have behind me no organized political machine—but only the good men and women in every county of this state who believe in me and who now recognize that my knowledge of my native state—of its people, of its needs, of its problems—and my past experience in the senate of the United States can be of invaluable service to Alabama in these critical and trying times.

"I am the friend of every man and woman who works for a living; the friend of little business and big business. I am the friend of Labor and the friend of Industry, and I want every dollar invested in Alabama to do well and prosper, and steady work and good wages for labor. Professional men and women throughout the state are giving me fine support, and none that I appreciate more than the preachers and school teachers."

Defeat The Wage And Hour Bill

Five Pertinent Reasons Given Why People Should Urge Defeat Of Measure

"Disastrous to the Welfare of the People."—Knoxville Journal; "A Dangerous Principle."—Walter Lippmann, N. Y. Herald Tribune; "Ruinous to the Farmer."—Atlanta Constitution.

Farmers! Don't be deceived! The planners of the Wage-and-Hour Bill now before Congress claim to exempt farm workers from its provisions. But no power on earth can exempt you, your family, your livelihood, from the vicious provisions of this Bill.

A 5-man board will regulate all industry, arbitrarily setting wages and hours. That alone stamps this legislation as un-American—narrowly bureaucratic—and a big step toward Washington dictatorship or state socialism.

What will this Bill mean to you? It has been condemned by farmers and farm organizations from coast to coast. Why?

1. Higher wages must mean higher prices for manufactured products (for example, the increased cost of fertilizer is estimated as high as $5.00 per ton). Another stab at your pocketbook!

2. Processors of farm products, forced to pay higher wages, will cut costs wherever they can. They will insist on lower prices for your products. Another cut in your income!

3. Higher wage rates will pull farm hands to industrial centers—make farm labor scarce and expensive. You lose again.

4. You will have to pay more for everything, yet you will have to sell at world prices, which will not be artificially increased.

5. When the 5-man board fixes wages and hours for grain elevators, creameries, cotton gins, canning plants—the next step will be agriculture. They'll get you next.

A national economic authority has termed this Bill "A brake on industry, a plague on agriculture, a calamity for labor, a blight on recovery."

Thank Heaven—America is awake! Will you join this righteous crusade? Tonight—act to stop this super-Govmental 5-man power.

Write your Senators and Congressmen and tell them you believe Federal wage and hour legislation un-American, dangerous, and a threat to your living, that you expect them to vote against it.

Your message is needed. Act now.

CARD FROM GRESHAM LOWERY

The Union-Banner is in receipt of the following card from Mr. Gresham Lowery, a Chilton County boy, now at Jackson, Miss.:

"I read The Union-Banner regularly and enjoy the editorials. Have been here two months, singing over WJDX (1270 KC) 5,000-watt NBC station on Monday and Friday at 3:45 p.m. My friends in Chilton County are invited to tune in. Have had several cards from listeners there already.—Gresham Lowery."

Mayor Jones Urges Against Fire Hazard

We paid the fire boys $128.00 for fighting fires during the month of November, and in addition to this cost, there is gas and oil and the upkeep of the fire equipment. I was glad to pay the boys this money for the reason they earned it, and more, when one considers the value of the property saved by these splendid fellows, and the getting out of a warm bed these cold nights and racing to the fire engine room; and later when the fire is reached, they are often drenched with cold water.

But these facts are not all I wish to call the attention of the public to. Judging by the reports I received on some of these fires, they were caused by gross carelessness on the part of the property owner, or those in charge of the property, and could have been prevented by just a little precaution.

I respectfully ask, and I hope, that the people will be more careful with fire. Please examine the roof of your home, and the flues, and clear away all trash and everything that is liable to cause a fire. When you discover a fire, try not to become excited, and first decide if by the quick use of a bucket of water you can extinguish it and thereby save calling out the fire boys. Fires are a heavy drain on the city treasury, as you will see by this report, so let's stop the expense by preventing the fires, and save the property also. The boys are paid $17.00 for each fire, and if there are no fires, there is that saving to the city's treasury.—C. Fenn Jones, Mayor.

LEFT FOR SHANGHAI

Dr. J. Toy Williams, Baptist Missionary, left last week for Shanghai, China, after having spent about a year in this country. The prayers and good wishes of his many friends in Chilton county go with Dr. Williams to his work among the Orientals.

The family of Dr. Williams will remain in Tuscaloosa for the time being.

He promised to send one or two write-ups of his trip to China back to The Union-Banner for publication. We are looking forward to these stories, which we know will be of considerable interest.

EMPIRE CONSTRUCTION CO. GETS SCHOOL CONTRACTS

The Empire Construction Co., of Mt. Creek, composed of Charles Cooper and B. B. Copper, received contract to erect two PWA school buildings in Bibb County. The main job will be in Centreville, and the other at Camp Hugh, in Bibb County.

This same company built the Isabella school about two years ago, and also rebuilt the Peoples Savings Bank in Clanton.

Last year this company built seven PWA schools in Marshall County, on Sand Mountain. A short time ago they completed another PWA school down in Houston County, near Dothan. A few years ago the company built the Billingsley High School, also the large Holtville school in Elmore County.

The Empire Construction Company is the only state licensed contractors in central Alabama. We are glad that Chilton County has a firm of this kind which is able to compete with contractors of Birmingham and Montgomery, as well as other large cities.

F. M. Chambers of Clanton and T. L. Baker of Mt. Creek will be superintendents of construction.

LETTER FROM ARKANSAS

Editor Union-Banner:

I sure do thank you for sending the paper out to me, and also for space in your paper to my friends around home. I am asking this favor once more:

Dear friends around home: I am writing you a few lines to let you know that I am still feeling O. K., and hope you all the same. I expect to be home soon. Thank you for the letters and cards you have sent me. I sure did enjoy reading them.—Wm. J. Headley.

VISITORS FROM ABANDA AND ATLANTA

Visiting here last Saturday from Atlanta, Ga., was Mr. Tom Sessions, a sorrel-top student at Chilton High when the school was in its infancy. Accompanying Mr. Sessions was two sisters, Misses Ella and Mollie Sessions, Mr. J. D. Sessions and Mr. Carl Turnham, all of Abanda, Ala., Chambers county.

They were visiting their brother, Mr. Ben Sessions of Clanton.

The Union-Banner was more than pleased to have two of the party visit us—especially Tom, since he used to work as a printer's devil for The Banner back about 1915. He shook hands with a number of his old friends while here.

Sylacauga To Play Cardinals Sat. p.m.

According to A. B. Stanley, business manager of the Mitchell Dam Cardinals, this team will put on two good basketball games at the Mitchell Dam gym during the coming week.

On next Saturday night, December 11, the Cardinals will take on the Mignon team, from Sylacauga. Mignon always puts out a fast cage team, and last year beat out the highly touted Sand Mountain team in the Gold Medal Tournament held at Mitchell Dam. This should be a good game.

On Tuesday night, December 14, the Cardinals will play hosts to the fast Bevelle team of Alexander City, winners of last year's Gold Medal Tournament. Bevelle usually has one of the fastest teams in the state. Those attending this game will see some real basketball.

The Cardinals are reported to be coming around fast, and these two games should provide plenty of thrills for basketball fans.

The officials at Mitchell tender a cordial invitation to all who enjoy a good game and clean sportsmanship to attend all their games this year. Mr. Hollis, superintendent at Mitchell Dam, is a stickler for clean play, and his motto is: "It must be a clean game or there is no game at all."

4-H PICTURE PROGRAM TO BE PESENTED NEXT WEDNESDAY

The county 4-H Clubs will sponsor a moving picture program at three points in Chilton County next Wednesday, December 15.

The program will consist of a feature picture, "Under the 4-H Flag". Next comes the "4-H News Reel". Third, comes an educational film, "Hidden Value"; and fourth is a cartoon comedy, "School Days." This program is quite interesting and instructive.

A $2,000 attendance contest is included in this, too. This is for county organizations. The program will be presented in every county in the country. After the tour is over, the county whose attendance at the show is greatest in proportion to the county's rural population will receive a check for $1,000 to be used in its 4-H activities. The manner in which this contest is conducted gives as much chance to a little county to win as a big one. And ther are 16 other prizes also.

The places and hours for the showing are as follows:

Clanton, Wadesonian Theatre, at 8:30 a.m.

Maplesville, High School Auditorium, at 12:30 p.m.

Jemison, High School Auditorium, 7:00 p.m.

Don't forget the date, Wednesday, December 15.

THAT CHANGE OF FRONT

[AN EDITORIAL]

Along with the rest of the country, we are frankly puzzled over Mr. Roosevelt's apparent change of front in reference to business. Is it the olive branch that he has extended, or the white flag of surrender? Is he sincere in the gesture, or is it merely a strategic retreat, a ruse to give him time to get his dead and wounded off the battlefield and resume the onslaught when the skies have cleared? Time alone can tell.

In any event, it is heartening to see Mr. Roosevelt make even a gesture of friendship toward the business interests he has hounded and persecuted so persistently. With the country in the grip of another great depression, he has found it expedient to lay aside the mailed gauntlet and extend the apparently open, honest hand of friendship. Everything depends, of course, upon the sincerity of the motives behind the outstretched hand. Mr. Roosevelt's past record, the very fact that he changed his tactics only under pressure and facing disaster, justifies a reasonable doubt as to whether he has really changed his spots, or merely whitewashed them to meet the need of the moment.

Recent press dispatches tell of the president sitting down at a friendly conference with a leading electric power magnate. We would have hardly been more surprised if Mr. Roosevelt had ordered the magnate and his companions in crime shot at sunrise. For it is this particular industry that has been singled out to bear the first brunt of government competition and socialistic experiment. Thousands of people right here in Alabama have seen their savings drop to 60 cents on the dollar, because their government has used the money of all the taxpayers to beat down one particular private industry. Furthermore, the New Deal onslaught on electric utilities has generated suspicion and doubt as to its intentions with reference to other private business. The government went into the power business on the theory that electric power is an essential commodity, that the government is justified in going into its production and distribution, even though that mean putting private enterprise out of business. But it is likewise true that railway transportation, motor cars, shoes, and plow points are essential commodities. If the government may go into the manufacture and sale of one, why not of all? So, it is encouraging news when Mr. Roosevelt sits down to talk things over with a harassed power ex-

SCHOOLS WILL RUN SATURDAY AND CLOSE 23RD FOR XMAS

Superintendent of Education Luther E. Little announces that the schools of the county will run on Saturday of this week, December 11th, and will close down after Thursday, December 23rd, for the Christmas holidays. They will resume again on Monday, January 3rd.

AMERICAN LEGION WILL MEET IN MONTGOMERY

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 6.—Daniel J. Doherty, National Commander of The American Legion will make an official visit to the Department of Alabama on Thursday, January 13. He will be the guest speaker at the annual Mid-winter Conference of The American Legion, Department of Alabama, to be held in Montgomery.

Department Commander, Dr. B. F. Austin of Montgomery, in announcing the visit of the National Commander, stated that he was desirous of having every post in Alabama represented at the annual gathering of post officials where the various Department Officers and Committee chairmen will outline their programs for the year.

All Legionnaires are urged to attend this meeting and every post officer and committee chairmen should make a special effort to attend.

PATE WILSON REPORTED IN SERIOUS CONDITION

Mr. P. D. Wilson is reported to be in a serious condition at Central Alabama Hospital. Mr. Wilson was injured a week ago when he fell into a grease pit at a garage in Centreville, having sustained a bad leg and other bruises. He was admitted to the hospital four or five days ago, where his condition is said to be most unsatisfactory.

Mrs. Anna Culpepper has been discharged from Central Alabama Hospital, having satisfactorily recovered.

Clanton Decorated For Yuletide Season

When one steps into the city of Clanton now, the Christmas spirit will at once strike him right in the face. The store decorations, the show windows, the displays inside the stories, Etc., is most emblematic of the Christmas season. When you are in the city, your special attention is called to the beautiful windows of the various business concerns. You are urged to go inside, whether you want to trade or not, and see all the displays. You will really appreciate them.

Christmas Lights On

While we are going to press workmen are busy assembling and rigging up the Christmas street lights. The weather permitting, they will be turned on by the time you read this article. These lights do their part toward filling everyone with the spirit of good cheer and good will toward all men, which should dominate all hearts at this season of the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Grady Reynolds were visitors in Birmingham Monday.

Rockett Is Making Special Offerings For Xmas. Trade

The two Rockett stores in Clanton—Clanton Building Supply Company and Rockett Dry Goods Company — are keeping step with the times and the season by making a host of special offerings for the holiday shoppers coming to Clanton. Each place has arranged most attractive displays and diked up their windows in a most attractive manner, all following the Yuletide idea with Christmas decorations, Etc.

If you want toys for the kiddies, then by all means visit the hardware store. Also there you will find more practical and serviceable gift items, such as radios, shotguns, Aladdin lamps, knives, cooking utensils, and electrical appliances. Toytown opens at Clanton Building Supply on Friday of this week, December 10th. Old Santa Claus in person will be there some time before Christmas. You are asked to watch for announcement.

Then, at the dry goods store the gift articles are too numerous to begin to mention; but in this huge stock one may be able to select just the thing to please every member of the family from grandpa on down the list to the infants.

Each of these stores has a page advertisement in this week's Union-Banner. Turn to it and read every word before you set out to do your Christmas buying. You will find that it will be a great help to you in making up your mind what you want to buy.

ALABAMA MOTORISTS ASS'N

Birmingham, Dec. 6. — Organization of every county in the state under the banner of the Alabama Motorists Association in the interest of highway construction will be started within the next 30 days, Andrew W. Smith, director of the Highway Progress Department of the Alabama Mitorists Association, announced.

Smith stated that the department had finished its exhaustive 5-months study of the anticipated highway revenues and expense in the state for the next five years, and has reached the conclusion that unless some reallocations are made in the auto tax revenues that the state will not be able to match its federal aid funds at the close of the present administration.

ORPHANS HOME CAR HERE TODAY

The produce car, gathering produce for the Baptist Orphans Home at Troy, is in Clanton all day today, Thursday, December 9th. Rev. M. Lockhart and Mr. J. Watts Moore are in charge.

EVANS-TURNER

Mr. and Mrs. James W. Evans, of Maplesville, announce the engagement of their daughter, Eva, to Neal Turner, of Clanton, the wedding to take place in December.

TWO CLANTON MEN FLEW TO NEW ORLEANS AND BACK

Dr. V. J. Gragg and Mr. Leo Thompson took a flying trip down to New Orleans last week, and attended the Southern Medical Association in session in that city. They went in Dr. Gragg's plane, the doctor piloting down and Mr. Thompson piloting back.

The trip down was made via Mobile Tuesday morning, which took just three hours. The return was made via Meridian Thursday. There was a contrary wind on the return, and that trip consumed over four hours flying time. And Dr. Gragg reports the weather up there slightly cold too on the return.

Other than getting mighty cold, the gentlemen report a fine trip.

FARM UNION TO MEET

Chilton County Farm Union will hold its monthly meeting December 11, at Center Hill. I have been informed our state president will be in our county all the week. We will elect new county officers for 1938. Also Mt. Pleasant local meets Thursday night, and we are expecting the state president to be with us. I would like for every farmer in Mt. Pleasant and surrounding communities to be with us. — Gresham Smith, Associational County Secretary.

Xmas. Seal Drive Gets Under Way

The annual Christmas Seal Sale Campaign sponsored by the local County Tuberculosis Association had begun early this week, it was announced by Dr. S. D. Sturkie, local county health officer. Seals are being distributed among Chilton county's 7,000 school children by workers from the County Health Office and County Board of Education.

"The fact that there are no facilities locally for the hospitalization of cases of tuberculosis creates a very special need for a successful seal sale here," it was stated by Dr. Sturkie." "With the money obtained from the sale of Seals, it is possible that a plan might be developed to assist local physicians in providing the newer more modern form of treatment of tuberculosis known as pneumothorax. This latter device is probably the most effective weapon in the fight against tuberculosis which we posses today," he added.

Sputum cups, chest x-rays for needy cases, cod-liver oil for tuberculosis children are other valuable items which might be made available with seal sale money, it was pointed out by the local health official.

Seals may be purchased locally at either the office of the County Health Department or County Board of Education.

KIWANIS CLUB HOSTS TO THREE FOREIGN VISITORS

Members of the Clanton Kiwanis Club and their guests heard three young ladies from three different countries give their opinions of American customs and what they have learned about American people, when the club met at the Thomason Hotel Thursday night.

The program was in charge of Luther E. Little, chairman of the educational committee, and was termed one of the best programs presented during the year.

The young ladies who appeared on the program were Fraulein Charlotte Roth, of Berlin, Germany; Senorita Carmen Sierra Abodiano, of Mexico City; Mademoiselle Elia Lappierre, of Paris, France; Miss Elizabeth May, Greensboro, Ala., and Miss Edna Hayes of Asheville, Ala. The latter two were piano accompanist and dancing partner. All these young ladies are students at Alabama College.

One of the features of the program was the singing of "Ramona" by four of the young ladies, at the same time, in their native languages. English, German, French and Spanish. Each of those from the foreign countries made short talks and told of what they thought of Americans and their customs, and each sang one song in her own language.

Patterson Hicks, president of the club, presided. Invocation was by Claude Lawrence, and Ralph Grant, a guest of the club, sang "Sweetheart", dedicated to the visiting young ladies.

Circuit Court Held Here Last Week

Grand Jury Returned 26 True Bills In Special Session. Nine Cases Tried

Following is the report of the Grand Jury, which was called into special session last week:

State of Alabama, Chilton County.
To Hon. Arthur Glover, Judge of the Circuit Court of Chilton County, Alabama:

We, the Grand Jury for the July Term, special session, have completed our investigation of all matters that were brought before us, and we herewith submit the following report:

During our investigation we have considered 34 cases and we have examined 92 witnesses and are returning 26 true bills.

We, having investigated all matters that we felt need our attention at this time, respectfully ask that we be dismissed until such time as Your Honor thinks proper to have us again convene.

This December 3rd, 1937.—E. Span Jones, Foreman.

The following cases were tried:

David Goldsmith, petit larceny; plead guilty; 20 days for fine, 50 days for cost, and 150 days additional punishment.

James Gamble, petit larceny; plead guilty; fined $10 and cost; sentenced 10 days for fine, 34 days for cost, and 90 days additional punishment.

DRYS FLAY BEVERAGE LAW AT MONTGOMERY MEETING

Will Support Only Dependable Drys In Coming Elections

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 7—Political support only for "dependable drys" was asked Tuesday by the Alabama Temperance Alliance, which elected Dr. L. L. Gwaltney, prominent Birmingham churchman, its president.

Gov. Bibb Graves and Alabama's beverage control act were taken to task by the Alliance at its midwinter conference, when plans were mapped for participation in the 1938 elections.

The Rev. W. Earl Hotalen, who charged a recent meeting of city, county and state officials was a "sales meeting" for the beverage control act, was employed as campaign director at $200 a month until Nov. 1, 1938.

Hotalen, referring to a conference called by the A. B. C. Board Dec. 3 to promote "better enforcement of the control act in both wet and dry areas," said it was "not an enforcement but a sales meeting, at which speakers tried to sell the A. B. C. act to the assemblage."

Dr. Gwaltney, immediate past president of the Alabama State Baptist Convention succeeded Harry Denman, of Birmingham, as alliance president.

A resolution termed the A. B. C. act a "failure," said it had increased bootlegging and highway accidents.

Referring to the A. B. C. law as "unsatisfactory and vicious scheme of revenue for state, county and city treasuries," the resolution said it did not "promote temperance, as promised by the title," and continued:

"The largely publicized revenues and profits have been gained only at the expense of legitimate business and handling crimes induced by increased consumption of alcoholic beverages."

Dr. R. F. Price, Birmingham, was re-elected secretary-treasurer, and all members of the executive committee, composed of 100 representatives throughout the state, also were renamed.

IN MAYOR'S COURT

Dalton Parsons, public drunkenness; continued to December 13.

C. H. Teel, public drunkenness; continued to December 13.

Drennan Bratley, parking in front of fire truck door, fine $1.00.

J. B. Laney, public drunkenness; fine and cost $8.25.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Prepare your gifts now for the "White Christmas" at the Clanton Methodist church December 19th. The gifts are to be sent to the children at the Orphanage. Do unto our children in the orphanage as you would desire others to do unto your child if he or her were dependent. Think kindly of the children and give to them accordingly. Boxes will be ready to receive the gifts at the church on the date mentioned, December 19.

GET UP NIGHTS? FLUSH KIDNEYS WITH

Juniper oil, buchu leaves, etc. Make this simple test if passage is scanty, irregular, smarts or burns, have frequent desire, get up nights, or if kidneys are sluggish, causing backache. Use juniper oil, buchu leaves, etc., made into little green tablets called Bukets to flush the kidneys, just as you would use castor oil to flush the bowels. Help nature eliminate troublesome waste and excess acids. Ask any druggist for the test box of Bukets. Locally at Upchurch Drug Co., and Alred Drug Co.

University News

After ploughing through their 1937 schedule and chalking up a perfect record, the Crimson Tidesmen are back to the practice grind this week as they point for their clash with the Golden Bears of California on January 1, 1938.

Head Coach Frank Thomas says that it will be tough work for his charges from now until the second day of next year, and the Tide mentor is verifying that statement by sending the Tiders through stiff scrimmage sessions.

Undefeated in two seasons, the Crimson Tide won the Southeastern conference title this year by rolling over all of its conference opponents.

Although athletic conference officials have not named a definite day for the departure of the Crimson Tide to the West Coast, it is believed that the Alabama aggregation will leave around December 21.

Following a series of try-outs which has been conducted since the opening of school, 59 co-eds were selected last week as members of the University of Alabama's women's glee club by Tom Garner, director.

Representing the University of Alabama at the debate tournament of the Western Association of Teachers of Speech in Denver, Colo., Primo F. Osborne, Greensboro, and George Murray, Bessemer, members of the University varsity debating team, last week won first place in competition against representatives of several Western schools at that forensic gathering.

The Newcomen Society of London, honorary technological fraternity, recently invited two Universiyt of Alabama deans, Dr. George J. Davis, Jr., of the College of Engineering, and Dr. Stewart J. Lloyd of the School of Chemistry, Metallurgy and Ceramics, into its membership.

Five graduates of the University of Alabama School of Home Economics have been given positions with state high schools. They are: Gwendolyn Patterson, Murphy High School, Mobile; Sue Marlar, Lanier High School, Montgomery; Floda Fulmer, Gadsden; Eleanor Millinger, Dothan; and Ninette Griffith, Birmingham.

Dr. George Pope Shannon, professor of English, will serve for the next year as president of the University of Alabama Association of University Professors.

Dr. George H. Denny, chancellor of the University of Alabama, lighted the Y. W. C. A. Christmas tree on the lawn of Tutwiler Hotel on the University campus at a vespers service last Sunday.

Members of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. will give their annual Christmas party for underprivileged boys and girls of Tuscaloosa Saturday, December 11. Funds for the party were raised by two special shows and voluntary contributions.

Of the 48 states, 21 have what is called a "standard driver's license" for operating automobiles on the highway; 21 have a driver's license law similar to the Alabama law, and requires no test to procure a driver's license. A federal law prescribing the qualifications for drivers of automobiles is being discussed in Washington.

GOTHAM CLERK, ACCUSED QUITS

Albany, N. C., Dec. 3—Albert Marinelli, a Tammany District boss, resigned Friday the $15,000-a-year job as New York county clerk which Manhattan's Republican prosecutor-elect, Thomas E. Dewey, said he was unfit to hold.

He submited the resignation, effective immediately, to Democratic Gov. Herbert H. Lehman less than two days after the governer called on him to answer by next Monday "Sworn charges" that he was a political ally of thugs and racketeers.

Game & Fish News

Places To Hunt

The Department of Conservation has on record nearly two score private hunting preserves in Alabama whose owners or operators are prepared to provide board, lodging, dogs and guides to persons hunting on their lands. The large number of requests received from sportsmen in and out of Alabama for places to hunt prompted the department to compile the list, and the information is available to the public.

The places range from a few hundred acres to as much as 50,000 acres. If the owner or operator can furnish dogs, guides, or horses, that fact is recorded, along with the types of game to be found. The cost of the above accommodations per day also is given, and a prospective hunter can figure out in advance how much it will cost him for a trip.

More Wild Ducks

With opening of the 30-day season on wild ducks on November 27, hunters are finding an increased number of hte migratory and native wild ducks according to reports. Results of a survey conducted by the Conservation Department and published in the December 1 issue of the Game and Fish News, indicated a substantial increase in the wild duck population this year.

STATE HEALTH DEPARTMENT

Montgomery, Dec. 6. — The people of Alabama were urged today by Dr. J. N. Baker, State Health Officer, to purchase as many as possible of the Christmas seals which went on sale on Thanksgiving Day, and will be sold until Christmas as a means of raising funds to support the campaign aganist tuberculosis in local communities and throughout the nation.

"Tuberculosis ranked sixth in Alabama last year as a cause of death," he said. "In spite of notable progress made within recent years in its conquest, it is still the chief cause of death among those in the prime of life and was responsible for one death out of every 17 htat occurred in this state in 1936. The campaign against this disease, largely made possible by the proceeds of the annual seal sale, is attempting to reduce this terrific waste of human life from a disease that is both preventable and curable."

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ellis (Jewel Armstrong) returned to their home in Mobile last Saturday, after having spent two weeks with relatives in Clanton.

"ALABAMA ON PARADE"

Montgomery, Dec. 6. — "Alabama On Parade" is Gov. Graves' motto for the University of Alabama-University of California football game in Pasadena January 1.

The governor and his All-Alabama Committee are planning to have not only the Crimson Tide, but the whole state on parade when the Tide and the Bears clash for the national football championship.

The first thing the governor wants to do is to have the University's "Million Dollar Band" go with the team and do its Dixie numbers and formations for the Californians.

And then the governor wants the state to put its best foot forward with a book of Alabama to be distributed at the game.

The chief executive is calling on all Alabama industries, chambers of commerce, and county governments to get behind the book.

"Let's sell Alabama on the West Coast," the governor says.

State commissions and industrial organizations have already been called upon by him to get behind and take advantage of the coast trip to advertise the state, its industries, its products and its progress.

Those having photographic material and suggestions should send them to Perkins Prewitt, chief of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce Bureau of Conventions and Tourists, Birmingham, Ala. In the meantime, everyone si asked to give a sympathetic hearing to state committees when they call soliciting funds. Checks should be made out to Thomas Bowron, vice president of the First National Bank, Birmingham, who is treasurer of the All Alabama Committee.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY PARTY

A surprise birthday party was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lumpkin on Wednesday night, December 1, in honor of Mrs. Lumpkin's 66th birthday.

Those present were: Mr. Will Jones, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ellison and two children, Geraldine Ledbetter, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Ellison and four children, Miss Helen Glass, Stancel Miller, J. C. Langston, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Wyatt, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Nation, Mr. Oates Nation.

Refreshments were served to all, and everyone went home, wishing for her many more happy birthdays.

"WHITE CHRISTMAS"

Birmingham, Dec. 4.—An appeal has gone out to all Baptist, Methodist, and the Presbyterian churches, Sunday Schools, young people's organizatins and other church organizations of Alabama to get ready for the "White Christmas" offering in the behalf of the Alabama Baptist Orphanage at Troy, the Methodist Orphanage at Selma, and the Presbyterian Home at Talladega, to be made in all departments on Sunday, December 19th.

The call issued by E. F. Dunbar of Troy, chairman of the board of the Baptist Home, represented by R. A. Porter of Birmingham, jointly with K. E. Cooper of Birmingham, chairman of the Methodist Orphange and David P. Anderson of Birmingham, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Presbyterian Home. They call attention to the fact that it is proposed to raise a minimum quota of $35,000.00 for each of these institutions to meet absolute needs during the coming year, and to urge the fullest cooperation.

40 VACANCIES IN MARINES

Forty vacancies for service in the U. S. Marine Corps will be filled from this district during December, it is announced by Major J. M. Tildsley, district recruiting officer, with headquarters at Macon, Ga.

Applicants must have had at least the equivalent of one year of high school, be in excellent health and have good moral character. They must be single, 64 to 74 inches in height and between 18 and 28 years old.

The term of enlistment is for four years. There is an eight weeks' training period spent at Parris Island, S. C., before the newly enlisted Marines are sent to foreign stations, aboard ships or to one of the numerous home stations on either the East or West Coast.

Young men in this area desiring further information concerning enlistment in the ranks of the "Sea Soldiers" should write to the Marine Corps Recruiting Station, Macon, Ga. Applications forms will be mailed on request.

L. & N. TO PAY TAXES EARLY, AID SCHOOLS

The Louisville & Nashville Railroads will pay $800,000 in taxes into Alabama State, county and city treasurers within the next few days, although the payments are not due until Dec. 31, G. C. Wendling, superintendent of the Birmingham district, announced Friday.

Wedling said President J. B. Hill had ordered the taxes paid as soon after Dec. 1 as possible in order to increase the funds for teachers and city, state and county employes before Christmas.

TAX INFORMATION

The collector of internal revenue reports that there are a number of taxpayers throughout this state who have filed their monthly tax returns under Title VIII of the Social Security Act, but have not filed the information return required. There have been a number of taxpayers summoned by deputy collectors throughout the state to appear before them with the information required for the completion of this information return.

The entire field division of the collector's office is beginning December 1, 1937, to make a drive to complete all delinquent information returns which have not been filed, so that the employes may receive credit on their social security accounts for their earnings for the year 1937. Taxpayers receiving these summons should appear at the town indicated in the summons on the date shown.

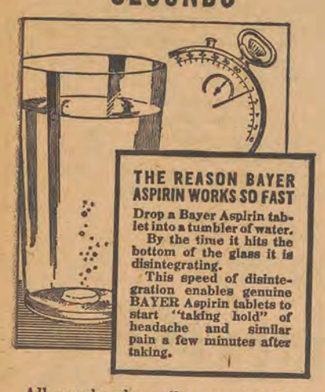
Pres. Ala. Merchants Against Wage-Hour Bill

LaFayette, Ala., December 7.—Highlights of political developments in Alabama during the current week included a formal declaration by John Will Johnson, president of Alabama Merchants Association, that the passage of the Wage-Hour Bill, which is being opposed by Thomas Heflin and defended by his more active opponent, Lister Hill, both candidates for the U. S. Senate, "Will bring irreparable damage to southern industries and the farmer." While not speaking as an official of the merchants association, but rather as an individual retail merchant whose success depends on the success of his customers, Mr. Johnson expressed his opinion in a personal letter to the more than 15,000 merchants of the State, appealing to them to "support the only man in the race who has expressed himself as opposed to the bill," referring, of course, to Mr. Heflin.

"I write you in regard to this matter merely as an Alabama merchant and not as president of the Alabama Merchants Association," stated the concluding paragraph of the letter.



"One of the issues is the Wage and Hour Bill" stated Mr. Johnson. "To my mind, it is one of the most vicious and revolutionary pieces of legislation ever to come before the American people. If this bill should be enacted into law, it is my opinion that the majority of merchants in Alabama would be injured. It is unbelievable that a five-man board operating out of Washington could do justice to millions of workers in 48 states, working under entirely different conditions."

Mr. Johnson is one of the largest retail and supply merchants in Alabama. The success of his business depends very largely on the success of the farmers in his section of the State. While his interest in the defeat of the Wage-Hour Bill is more or less personal, it goes without saying that the success of his farmer customers must first be achieved before his personal business feels the effects. Local headquarters of the Heflin Volunteer Club are being swamped with letters from every section of Alabama, all upholding the contention of the association president in his views regarding this revolutionary piece of legislation, which, as Mr. Johnson stated in his letter, "might be good for New York, but could not possibly work in Alabama."

SPECIAL NOTICE TO CITY DOG OWNERS

I notice quite a number of dogs running around in Clanton city limits without vaccination tags. This is a last warning to people of Clanton who have such dogs running without tags to put their tags on the dogs if they have been vaccinated, and it not, have all dogs vaccinated at once that you want to save, and tag them.

The inspector is in the county now on his check-up, and within a few days will make a special check on the city's dogs. It will be too inconvenient to run down every dog which is found without a tag, to find who it belongs to, so such dogs will be killed on sight.

This is in line with the state law, as well as according to the wishes of a majority of the citizens, and officials of the city. This applies also to Maplesville, Jemison, Thorsby, Verbena, and Cooper. Please take notice, and comply, as all un-tagged dogs will be killed when found.—W. L. Parrish, Rabies Inspector.

Mr. J. W. Hayes was a visitor in Montgomery Wednesday.

Heflin Takes Advertiser And Hill For A Ride

LaFayette, Ala., Dec. 7.—Local files of the Montgomery Advertiser, chief exponent of Congressman Lister Hill's candidacy for the United States Senate, reveal that "Grandma" is either in her old-age dotage or is groping aimlessly in the dark in search of something plausible upon which to base her support of her wealthy, home-town candidate.

In a desperate effort to stem the tide of inevitable defeat for Mr. Hill, and to prevent the election of Mr. Heflin, The Advertiser finds itself very much in the position of the fellow who told a lie and had to stay with it. More complicated and embarrassing is the Advertiser's predicament by reason of the fact that it has praised Mr. Heflin in one breath and denounced him in another; has opposed President Roosevelt's New Deal program to the same extent that Mr. Heflin opposes it and is confronted with the uncomforting duty of asking the people to elect a man who says he is for the whole program, right or wrong; has denounced Alfred E. Smith, the arch enemy of Mr. Roosevelt and the democratic party, but must face the fact that its chief objection to Mr. Heflin is that Heflin denounced Mr. Smith. It is rather bemuddled predicament The Advertiser has woven for itself.

Scanning the files of the newspaper for the past few months, it is found that "Old Grandma" misplaced her specs, else the linotype machines were out of order and did not set copy as it was written. For instance, at about the same time Al Smith was taking his memorable walk to political oblivion, after having used up the full vocabulary of venomous words in an effort to keep Roosevelt and the democratic party out of Washington, The Advertiser, feeling somewhat elated over the fact that 46 of the 48 states repudiated Mr. Smith, saw fit to say a lot of nice things about Mr. Heflin. It even went so far as to vindicate, or implied, that Mr. Heflin had paid the price for his denounciation of the Eastside New Yorker and should be extended a warm hand of welcome to his accustomed place in the party. The public applauded The Advertiser's position. But when Mr. Heflin announced his candidacy for the Senate in opposition to Mr. Hill, The Advertiser forgot all about Mr. Smith's antagonism toward Mr. Roosevelt and thought only of Mr. Smith's candidacy for the Presidency. It was then that the newspaper threw this bouquet, with a brick concealed in it, at Mr. Heflin: (See issue of October 14, 1937);

"As a personal companion he is delightful.

"As a neighbor he is generous and thoughtful—as a friend he is loyal.

"As a public official he was incorruptible. A dime never found its way into Tom Heflin's empty pockets.

"Why should a man who in the last four years of his career as a Senator in Congress kept the faces of his fellow Alabamians red from shame now expect these same Alabamians to forgive him his follies and outrages?"

The very next day, October 15th, The Advertiser reassured its readers that despite Al Smith's denounciation of Mr. Roosevelt and the democratic party it would again, if called upon to do so, support Mr. Smith for the Presidency. Here's what it had to say:

"The Advertiser took a lot of punishment for its support of Al Smith in the great hour of his life. The Advertiser has no regrets for its decision and its action in 1928. Under the same circumbstances it would feel impelled by its conscience and sense to act again as it acted in 1928, even though the fires of hell should turn suddenly into icicles."

The Advertiser would again support Mr. Smith, Mr. Roosevelt's arch enemy, but cannot support Mr. Heflin, a friend of Mr. Roosevelt. Where is the Advertiser's conscience, if it can support a bolter of the party and its leader but cannot support a man who merely said he could not support the leader?

Two days later, on October 17th to be exact, The Advertiser, in a vain attempt to justify Mr. Hill's support of the vicious Wage-Hour Bill, Supreme Court Bill and all others, right or wrong, had this to say:

"Hill is a Rooseveltian in heart and head. We can trust the cause of Franklin Delano Roosevelt in the hands of Lister Hill. We cannot afford to impose any such trust upon Tom Heflin."

In the same breath, it continued with this surprising statement:

"The Advertiser does not agree with Mr. Hill in his present platform utterances and expects to argue with him about one or two of them."

The "one or two utterances" referred to are the Supreme Court and Wage-Hour Bills. In other words, The Advertiser is against the Wage-Hour Bill, which still pends, but wants Mr. Hill elected so he can go to the Senate and help put it over. Mr. Heflin is opposed to the bill, just as the Advertiser is, but cannot be trusted with it. The argument the Advertiser expected to have with Mr. Hill over this and other measures has not as yet materialized, although seven weeks have elapsed since the challenge was issued, and the primary is less than a month off.

If The Advertiser gets its wish, Mr. Hill will be elected because he is 100 per cent for the President's program, hook, line and sinker; Mr. Heflin will be defeated because he is opposed to some of the President's policies, particularly the Wage-Hour Bill. And yet, according to the Advertiser file of October 19th, this declaration was made:

"The Advertiser does not agree with the President in all matters, It well understands that many of the more conservative business and industrial leaders in Alabama are against Franklin D. Roosevelt. They oppose his objectives, and in doing so they are sincere and honest."

Again on November 5th, The Advertiser not only reaffirmed its opposition to the Roosevelt policies but went Mr. Heflin one better when it said:

"The Advertiser has disagreed with the President more often than Tom Heflin has, and probably will continue to do so in the future. Emphatically The Advertiser does not question the right of any citizen to disagree with the President about anything."

Boiled down to its final analysis, The Advertiser's position is thus:

1. It disagrees with the President, but believes a man who agrees with the President, right or wrong, should be elected.

2. The conservative business and industrial leaders of Alabama are sincere and honest in their opposition to a part of the President's program, but Mr. Heflin has no right to oppose it.

3. The Wage-Hour Bill would, if enacted into law, ruin Alabama's farmers and business generally, but it should be so enacted by electing Mr. Hill.

4. Tom Heflin is honest, a delightful companoin, a loyal friend and incorruptible, but unworthy of our trust.

5. Tom Heflin was right about Al Smith, but The Advertiser would feel impelled to support Smith again; "even though the fires of hell should suddenly turn into icicles."

6. Roosevelt is human; he can err but his errors should be sustained.

The facts which The Advertiser fails to disclose are:

1. Mr. Heflin is a friend of the President. He has never denounced the man but does oppose legislative measures The Advertiser and a majority of thinking Alabamians oppose.

2. He paid the price for his denunciation of Al Smith and The Advertiser marked the bill "paid in full."

3. Mr. Heflin puts Alabama first and Roosevelt second in his effections. Mr. Roosevelt could not and does not expect more.

4. Mr. Heflin will be overwhelmingly elected.

Are You A Rural Boxholder?

When official rural mail boxes were first made, they opened at the top, and some of those old boxes still survive. Unless placed on an extension so that they will reach over the car's fenders, the carrier cannot drive close enough to see in them. Whenever mail and loose pennies are placed in one of the boxes, the carrier has to fish around and try to find them. In case he cannot find any money, he has to drive up a little, stop his car, get out and walk back to the box. Very likely he will find one letter and a nickel, and has to walk back to the car for the change.

A carrier had one of these top opening boxes, and placed a spring clothes pin in it and a note requesting the patron to place the coin in it. After a short time, the clothespin disappeared, and the carrier persevered until he had left four pins and two small snuff boxes in this one box. All of these disappeared, and he found some loose pennies again. This time, however, he left both pennies and letter, but the next day he found the same letter and one of the same pins he had left a month or two before, with the pennies very nicely enclosed in the jaws of the clothespin. A bird that can sing, but will not sing, sometimes can be made to sing.—Birmingham News.

It might enlighten rural boxholders to know that rural carriers are not required by postal regulations to take up loose pennies in lieu of stamps; they do this purely as an accommodation to the boxholder. It is to your own best interest that when placing coin in boxes, that boxholders place them in a clothespin or other container so that they may be quickly found. This speeds up the service for everyone on the route.

Another mistaken idea that some careless boxholders have is that the carrier must put their mail in the box, no matter what condition it is in, or manner in which it is placed by the road. The regulations do not require the carrier to serve any box that is not situated in such a manner that it cannot be served without alighting from his vehicle. Many times road machines tear down boxes, but do not replace them. Sometimes, after replacing his box several times, a boxholder becomes exasperated and decides to allow his box to stay down, unless the carrier or the road crew replaces it. In doing so, the box-holder is merely cutting off his own nose to spite his face. If the road crew refuse to replace it, the carrier certainly is not required to replace it, nor does he have the time to spare, if he would.

A carrier is on schedule, just like a train. True, he may be later at times than at others, but this is caused by hindrances over which he has no control. If a carrier accommodates you by alighting from his car to serve your box, he is causing inconvenience to all other boxholders further on the route. You cannot expect him to favor you forever, to the inconvenience of all his other patrons. He doesn't have to do it, and he will soon refuse to do it, if his accommodations are abused continually.

Remember, that carrier is out there to give service—not for undue accommodation. If you will have your box placed correctly beside the road, in easy reach, with your coin always fixed in a manner that he can get it fast and be on his way, he feels much more like doing those little accommodations that are necessary once in a while.

Boxholders have been heard to say: "Oh, well, let him get out; he's getting paid for it." That is not true. He is being paid to bring your mail to you and deliver it in a proper receptacle—he is not being paid to, nor is he required to wade through hell and high water to see that you get it, when by all evidence, you are making it as difficult as possible to delivor your mail.

The postal department takes the view that in return for receiving the free mail service, a boxholder should meet the service half way by providing proper facilities for handling the mail, and their regulations are drawn along this line. They do not propose to try to force anyone to make proper arrangements for receiving mail, but neither will the department take the responsibility of getting it to you if you persist in making it difficult to serve you.

So, when you see your carrier having a difficult time trying to serve your box, think of these things: You are causing inconvenience to a large number of other people; you are helping to defeat the very high service that was set up to serve you efficiently; that the service does not require that carrier to show you undue favors; that the carrier is not required to do this, and is merely doing it as an accommodation until you can correct whatever is wrong; that if you do not correct what is wrong, that you are not worthy of the service extended you; and that the postal department can cut off your service in the face of such, and will do so if the condition remains.

Cooperate with the service and with your carrier, and he will go out of his way to see that the best service he can provide is given you.

What's RIGHT With ALABAMA

A LAND OF PERPETUAL PROMISE

RECENTLY the author of an article, critical of an Alabama city, paid it an unwitting compliment by calling it a "city of perpetual promise." Perhaps he should have been more liberal with his compliment—and included all of Alabama.

From Biblical days, a land of promise has always been one looked toward with longing and hope. What joy would there be in living in a land without promise—without hope? What thrill of achievement could you expect to find in a section where all possibilities of development and progress had been exhausted—where the only end to look forward to would be stagnation? What pleasure might there be in the knowledge that there was no opportunity—no promise in Alabama, because she had reached the state of perfection?

If Alabama were not a land of promise, farmers from other sections would not come to settle in her rich agricultural territory to coax abundant crops from her soil; if she were a land barren of opportunity industrialists would not bring their millions into the state to establish offices, plants and warehouses (thus meeting one of her greatest present needs); if there were no promise of the future, then there would indeed be little need or reason for efforts toward self-improvement.

Let us rejoice that Alabama is a land of perpetual promise—let us hope that she will ever be!

LEVINE BROTHERS ACCUSED!

Customers Claim Store Selling Goods Below CATALOG PRICE STORE ALSO FOUND STOCKED WITH COMPLETE LINES

VISITORS ASTOUNDED AT SUCH AMAZING VALUES

Last week a small ad featuring one of their many values brought many people who usually order their goods to this up-to-the-minute dry goods and variety store. Few realized that they could buy first class goods at such low prices. You will not find any seconds or shady goods in any department of this establishment. Both Messrs. Sol and I. S. Levine are particular in the selection of goods they buy for their store.

Mr. Levine was asked: "Frankly, Mr. Levine, can you compete with the large mail order houses?" His answer was, "Why, certainly." Through an act passed in Congress small merchants if they buy according to the scale prices set forth for quantity users, can sell their goods not only as cheap but cheaper, and we are proving to the public that it can be done and is being done right here in Clanton at our store.

Take for instance, at Levine Brothers, a single blanket 70 x 80, for only 59c. By the time a customer mails an order, money order, and pays the parcel post, this item will cost them much more. Also, boys' lined jumpers at 98c, ladies felt hats, some with veils and in the latest styles, at 49c. These are only a few of the hundreds of items that can be found at such low prices at Levine Brothers.

A little over a year ago these two men opened Levine Brothers with a small stock of goods and a low price policy. Today there isn't another store in Clanton that carries the variety of goods that this store has. If you want a pair of nationally advertised Fortune shoes for men and you can find a large stock to select from and if you want a pair of shoes as low as 98c, they have these too. If you want nice high-grade ladies' coats or expensive ones, you can feel sure they have them. Just think of going in and buying a nice child's coat with fur collar at $1.29 and at the same time finding others that sell up to $8.95. These $8.95 coats are regular $12.95 values elsewhere.

For expert shoe fitting you could go to no better place in the county These boys know the foot from A to Z and already have a steady line of customers who can speak for them. They are this week running as a new customer drive the steel arch line of black, brown and green suedes, a regular to $2.45, $2.98, $3.98 values at $1.98. It will certainly pay anyone who needs a pair of ladies or Misses shoes to avail themselves of this opportunity Toys! Toys! Toys!

We have never seen prettier selection of toys since Hecter was a pup. Just anything and everything. Gifts for anyone in the family. From a hat for Grandma to a wagon for Junior, and the prices are surprisingly low, on all items. You can find in this large stock all types of wearing apparel, dolls, tricycles, wagons, toy guns and rifles, mechanical toys, games inside and outside, tre lights, all kinds of decorations, Christmas cards, etc.

We were surprised to see the beautiful line of Mickey Mouse children's dresses and suits. Just think of a dress with three and four wide hems! Also one that is guaranteed fast color and to give entire satisfaction. These dresses are in dainty material and wait until you see the gourd skirts and pleated numbers, and you can buy these from 49c up. You won't go wrong in having one of the girls show them to you.

Just remember, "It pays to trade at home," especially when you can beat the price by NOT ORDERING.

They have been accused of selling good cheap and once you trade with them you will continue.

Levine Brothers are truly gift headquarters for Chilton County and the men folks will be happy with a special on men's to $1.49 shirts in all sizes at 94c. (Advertisement)

BRIDE AND GROOM ENTERTAINED

Mr. and Mrs. Evan J. Downs of Birmingham, entertained Sunday afternoon for the wedding party of Mr. Mayfield Ezekiel Slaughter and Miss Mary Frank Smith, sister of Mrs. Downs, who were married Wednesday, December 8th, in Clanton, with a buffet supper.

After the rehersal of the wedding plans at the Methodist Protestant church of Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. Downs received the party at their home in West End. Mrs. Downs in embroidered black taffeta welcomed the party at the door. She was assisted by Mesdames: Turner Mitchell Dennis, Leslie Wheeler, Evan Black and Duly Chancellor.

Her home was beautifully decorated with southern smilax, holly and mistletoe, with tall red tapers.

Misses Elizabeth Dennis and Doris Downs presided in the dining room. The table was covered with a handmade tuscany lace cloth; the center piece was a crystal bowl of fruit flanked by red tapers.

Those included in the courtesy were: Mr. Mayfield Slaughter, Miss Mary Frank Smith, Barney Lewis, Vivian Kendrick, John Hood, Marcus McGriff, Frances Moore, James Haley, Mildred Ellis, Hazel Pennington, Helen Edmundson, Margaret Stewart, Don Dennis, Mary Faith Chancellor, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Longshore, Dr. and Mrs. Turner M. Dennis Mrs. Duly Chancellor, Mr. and Mrs. Evan Black and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Wheeler.

Mrs. Jack Hayes Entertains—

One of the pretty parties of the Christmas season was on Tuesday afternoon when Mrs. Jack Hayes was hostess to a number of friends.

The Christmas idea was carried out in the decorations, tables and refreshments.

The spacious living room was effectively decorated in holly, poinsettias, and gladioli. In the den the color scheme was silver and red.

Five tables were arranged in these two rooms. High score prize, a crystal bud vase, was awarded Mrs. John Armstrong. Second high score prize, a crockery basket, fell to Mrs. Grady Reynolds. Mrs. Frank Callen drew the cut prize, which was an attractive cream and sugar set.

At a late hour Mrs. Hayes served delicious refreshments to her guests. Included in this hospitality were: Mesdames James Wade, Hugh Jones, J. P. Hayes, W. E. Huddleston, Jr., Omar Reynolds, Grady Reynolds, John Mullins, Frank Scott, John Deramus, Frank Callen, John Browder, John McSwean, J. Lee Smith, Claudie Pipes, Claude C. Craig, J. W. Hayes, John Armstrong, J. C. Page, J. C. Burnett, and Marjorie Nelson of Ft. Myers, Fla. Mrs. George McCain and Mrs. Otto Jones were tea guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Mullins of Mobile spent Monday and Monday night here with Mrs. W. I. Mullins. Mr. and Mrs. Mullins spent several days in Birmingham before returning to their home.

MISS MARY FRANK SMITH IS HONORED AT SHOWER

Honoring Miss Mary Frank Smith of Clanton, who was a bride of December 8th to Mr. Mayfield Ezekiel Slaughter, the home of Mrs. Reuben Lowe was the scene of a lovely miscellaneous shower Thursday, December 2nd. Mesdames Reuben Lowe and Turner Mitchell Dennis received from 3:30 p. m., to 5:30 p. m., assisted by relatives and former schoolmates of Miss Smith whose home is now in Birmingham. Her spacious home was beautiful with Southern smilax, holly and mistletoe, orchids, chrysanthemums and valley lilies with long tapers of white on mantles and tables.

Mesdames J. Lee Smith and Oliver Reid Mullins received guests at the door, urshering the guests to the drawing room. Mrs. Reuben Lowe in pink taffeta introduced the guests to Miss Mary Frank Smith, who wore claret taffeta. Mrs. Turner Dennis, a sister, was in dotted blue net; Mrs. Caldwell M. Roper was in black chiffon velvet, with jade accessories; Mrs. Evan J. Downs in orchid chiffon was next in line, Mrs. A. C. Smith was in black velvet, Miss Frances Moore wore black morei taffeta and Miss Vivian Kendrick metallic taffeta.

Miss Kendrick passed the guests to Mrs. Bill Inzer, who urshered the guests to the bride's book which was presided over by Mrs. Woodrow Ingram.

It is interesting to note that the bride's book was of white satin and lace; the book being hand made, hand painted and made of the material of the honoree's wedding dress.

Mrs. Inzer ushered the guests to the gift rooms and introduced them to Miss Ruth Sessions, Miss Dorothy Manning, Miss Julia Ruth Hester, Mrs. John Moon and Mrs. Aaron Dennis.

The dining room was presided over by Misses Bernice Lowe, Malinda Dennis, Juanita Miller and Ann Ross. The chandelier was a large bell of smilax, valley lilies, white bells of miniature size and drop ribbons, with a cluster of lillies. The table was covered with an exquisite lace cloth and lighted by cathedral tapers with additional tapers on the mantle and buffet. The large table mirror carried a beautiful bride, and was edged with smilax and mistletoe.

About 75 guests called during the afternoon.

Wednesday Card Club Meets—

Members of the Wednesday Card Club met last week with Mrs. Hugh Simpson as hostess.

After a series of bridge games, Mrs. Frank Callen was presented a lovely fruit cake as high score prize. She also won the cut prize, given by Robinson Beauty Parlor.

At a late hour delicious refreshments were served to Mesdames Grady Reynolds, Hance Alred, Frank Callen, John Armstrong, Omar Reynolds, L. F. Gerald, John Deramus, and John Browder.

PATROLMEN'S REPORT

The highway patrolmen ask us to state anew that they are pushing their drives against violators of the flag and flare law, the law pertaining to lights on wagons, and that regarding driver licenses. They, of course, are seeing that all laws are obeyed, so far as they are able, but are pushing the first two named above, because statistics show that violations of these 2 laws are responsible for more than their share of accidents. Hence, they warn all concerned to abide faihtfully by these laws, not merely to keep from being arrested, but to cut down the chances of wrecks and serious injuries on our highways.

The patrolmen report the following arrests the past week:

H. K. Christiansen, no driver's licfine and cost $15.50.

J. C. Letcher, no driver's license; ense; bond.

Leo Hurd, violating flag and flare law; fine and cost $12.50.

J. E. Polk, no driver's license; fine and cost $17.50.

C. D. Hayes, public drunkenness; fine and cost $13.50.

Bernie Whatley, no light on wagon; fine and cost $7.50.

Individual Nestle Permanent, regular $5.00 wave, Holiday Special, now, $3.75.—Helene Curtis Beauty Shoppe, Clanton.

Mrs. John McSwean, Mrs. J. W. Hayes, Miss Margaret Floyd, John McSwean, Jr., and Helen Hayes were visitors in Montgomery Saturday.

Miss Mary Newell, a student at Alabama College, Montevallo, spent the week end here with her mother, Mrs. John Newell.

Mrs. Frank Scott of Huntsville spent several days here last week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Mullins. Mr. and Mrs. Scott will return December 24 to make their home here.

BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

This is being written in a house trailer. For the trailer I am greatly endebted to one of the most generous friends a man ever had. This friend has prospered financially, but he has never forgotten God and, busy as he is, he somehow finds time to think of other people and he is always doing something to make his friends happy. God has been so good to me. He has given me friends. Of course, I have enemies. I do not mean personal enemies. There are enemies to the causes I represent. Thank God for enemies to watch me and keep a good check on my work! I owe a great deal to my enemies. They tell on me. While they are watching I must be careful that even my good works are not evil spoken of. Thank God for friends who encourage me and make me feel that after all I am worth while and that I do amount to something! Even my friends do not know it, but I have ayways fought an inferiority inclination. As a child I was naturally timid and shrinking. I own much to my old father who seemed to feel when I was just a little child that I had some ability as a speaker and he insisted that I commit to memory poems and beautiful prose which he would make me recite to him. When friends would come to the home he would have me say my "speech" to them. He never knew how much I suffered. He was giving me training which has meant much to me on the platform and in the pulpit. There are many things for which I shall thank my father when I get to heaven.

The article I have just written is very personal. I cannot help being personal today. My trailer is parked on the old home site in southeast Alabama. The place is dilapidated. Right where I am, flowers used to bloom. We did not have such a fine home. It was always simple, but we kept it in good repair and my mother's flowers were always beautiful. There are a few trees left. At the command of autumn winds the leaves are falling like teardrops from the cheeks of memory. On this spot 40 years ago my mother was rocked to sleep in the arms of Death. Just before the breath left her body, she looked at me out of sleepy, staring eyes and told me to be a good boy and to meet her in heaven. I promised. Thirty-seven years ago at this same place my father's soul, while singing praises to God, went to his Father's house. Do my father and mother know I am here today? I am sure from my knowledge of God's Word that they have their memories. I do not know that they know where I am this moment. I am told in God's Word not to think above what is written. God tells us in His Word all He wants us to know about "the life beyond." If I could talk to my father and mother for just a little while I think I would spend most of the time not asking them about heaven, but telling them how much I love them and how much I thank them for all they sacrificed for me. Since I am a father and understand the feeling of a parent's heart, I am sure they would say, "It was not sacrifice. Love is never happy unless it is giving and doing."

Today I shall go to the old family graveyard. It is Sunday. In the old days we had company every Sunday. People would come from the churches and eat with us. We often entertained as many as 30 or 40 for dinner. In the afternoon when the company left my father and mother and usually my younger brother and I would go to the cemetery and put flowers on the graves of two sisters. Now in that and eight of their sons and daughters. It gives me such a feeling of loneliness to know that all the family except two are gone. As I drop my tears on their blankets of stone, I sorrow not as those who have no hope. Jesus is coming again some day. The dead who died in Him will be raised. The living will be translated to meet Him in the air. I hope He will come in my lifetime. But His will, not mine, be done.

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Our church is planning several services in honor of the yuletide season. When we prepare for these services, while we take part in them, and while we listen to the exercises may we each remember the love that was manifested many years ago by our Creator and our God when He so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son that whosoever believeth in him should have everlasting life. Friends, the least we can do in return for this great love is to give our own lives cheerfully and not grudgingly—whole-heartedly and not sparingly—in the service of our God. It would be truly wonderful if each Christian in our church would win some one during this yuletide. Don't you think you can if you try, my Christian friend? That would make Christmas sweeter for the winner and the one won and the angels in heaven would rejoice over the sinner who had repented, over the wandering one who had been brought to the homeward way.

Be a worker in the kingdom of the Lord—especially during this season in which we celebrate his birth.

Sunday school last Sunday was good, but we hope the attendance from now on will be better than it was then. On Sunday, December 19th, at the Sunday school hour the children's division will have its Christmas program and tree. Children, be sure not to miss this. Come to Sunday school and we'll talk more about it next Sunday.

Whatever your age, and whether you are a newcomer to our town or not, we invite and urge you to attend our Sunday school.

We want to remind you that we are having our Christmas Pageant in the church at 5:00 p. m., December 19th.

Preaching services last Sunday were as usual, better than good. We regret there was not a larger crowd to hear our preacher. Did you know we have an excellent preacher? We have. Come hear him next Sunday at 11 a. m., and at 6:30 p. m.

We did not get a 25 per cent saving in the cost of federal government; far from it. Nor did the president keep his promise to abolish "useless commissions and offices". But we have, instead, the president's "little son Jimmy" to coordinate them. We have, in other words, one more useless commission and office to increase rather than "eliminate extravagance."—Springfield Union.

We hope it does a lot of good, but somehow or other the president in calling in business leaders for conference reminds us of what happened in the early days of the 1929 depression.

There seems to be a disposition on the part of the SEC to blame the stock market crash and business recession on to Wall Street. Shucks! Didn't the president tell us that the New Dealers planned it this way?

WERE THEY RIGHT IN 1936?

Critics of the economic policies of the New Deal, who, in the campaign of 1936, denounced certain regimentive tendencies, were dismissed by the supporters of the administration as economic royalists or selfish politicians who were seeking to gain their own ends by frightening the people. Instead of thinking about regimentation we were told to look at the smoke issuing from the factory chimneys and come to the realization that prosperity had returned and the depression was over.

Things have changed within a few short months. We are no longer told that "we planned it that way" and admission is freely made, even by some of the engineers, that the official locomotive seems to have run temporarily on a siding.

The session of congress called a few weeks ago to put over four or five pet measures of the administration, is being filled with demands for returning to a normal relationship with business. And strangely enough, charges of a federal autocratic trend are now coming from within the camp. Nobody will question the Democracy of Congressman Dies, of Texas, who comes from a fundamentally Jeffersonian state. In a recent debate on the wages and hours bill, which would place the fortunes and welfare of labor under bureaucratic control, Congressman Dies said in part:

"I pledge myself that I will do all within my power to check what I consider to be a definite trend toward fascism in the United States. We have, over a long period of time, increased bureaucracy, until today we are super-imposing upon our democratic structure a gigantic and crushing bureaucracy, which, under my interpretation, is the twin brother of fascism.

"I can see no distinction—at least there is none to my mind—between the fascistic states of Italy and Germany and the condition in America where a large number of important functions of government are wielded, not by congress, not by any agency directly responsible to the will of the people, but functions of far-reaching importance daily and hourly performed by men whose names are unknown, men who treat members of congress with utter contempt, men who come into my district with an arrogance that is almost akin to autocracy, and insult my constituency."

MAN IN THE MOON

THE NEW FARM PROGRAM

A few weeks ago the word was sent out from the farm administration headquarters at Auburn, asking that the county agents in each county have the farmers elect delegates to a general meeting in Auburn, where would be drawn up a program of farm control suitable to Alabama farmers, this program to be presented to the national congress at its special meeting. This was done, and these delegates drew up a program, asking that our farmers be put under compulsory law to reduce production. The document asked that congress pass laws insuring compulsory control of our farm production.

This document was supposed to be the voice of all Alabama farmers. I wonder just how far it wandered from the truth. How many of our farmers want to be told how many acres he may plant to any certain crop? How many want to be told how many bales of cotton he may raise and sell—tax free? How many want to be considered so childish that they have not enough sense to conduct their own business affairs intelligently? How many want to reduce their money crop, and then see products come in from foreign countries to replace what they did not raise, and hold down the price of what little they did raise? And last, but far from least, how many of our self-respecting farmers want to submit to a bribe for reducing their crops, when the bribe money is theirs in the first place, being taken from the taxes they pay, and the processing assessments placed on their cotton? In short, how many of our farmers want to see themselves and their brother farmers under the thumbs of powdered and manicured executives with pencils behind their ears?

The truth of the whole matter is that the plan was laid out, perfected, and engineered from beginning to end by bureaucratic stool-pigeons in Washington, and aided and abetted to its most vicious and nefarious conclusion by the army of parasites which go to make up the swarm of special agricultural agents which extend all the way from the big dome in Washington on down to the most humble bailiwick in Alabama.

Bring me ten dirt farmers, and I will show you nine of them who want no crop control, who do not want to be told how much they can raise or where they can sell it; who want to be considered sensible and responsible citizens who are of the opinion that they are fully able and capable to look after their own affairs, and base this opinion on a bulwark of experience gained over a long period of years when there were no "benevolent" government officials to look out for them, for the consideration of being allowed to loll at their ease on $10,000-a-year jobs and help eat out the substance of the land in their worthlessness. I will show you nine men who are willing and anxious to diversify and raise all of what they eat that they can, but rebel at the idea of having some little two-by-four nincompoop equipped with a notebook, a pencil and a federal commission tell them they MUST do it. Nine of the ten will believe that we should use home raised products first, and then foreign made goods only after our domestic supply is exhausted; neither do our farmers relish the idea of having our national officials enter into trade pacts with foreign nations, whereby cheap goods are shipped into this country to hold down their prices and nullify their efforts toward building respectable prices for their products, especially after they have already gone against their will and better judgment in a senseless suppression of production. And I believe I can show you ten out of the ten who believe that they know more about how to run their farming business than any of the "pencil-toters", the most of whom very likely never saw a cotton patch, and wouldn't know a cotton boll from a chestnut bur if both were put in their hands.

Our farmers love their freedom just as well as anyone else, and the proposed farm legislation curtails that freedom in great degree, and this grand program, drawn up and sponsored at the instance of parasitic government farm agents is no more representative of the wishes of the greater part of our farmers than a black buck negro would be representative of the human race as a whole. The whole insidious idea from beginning to end is the ridiculous brain child of that blood-sucking gang of farm program administrators, high and low, and has been and is now being nurtured by them in order to secure for themselves occupational beds of roses. Farmers, themselves, dirt farmers, had little if anything to do with it, and want still less to do with such. And if you don't believe our dirt farmers feel that way about it, just start down the road—any road—and ask 100 of them, house to house, just as you come to them, and see what your percentage of farmers who are in favor of being left alone to run their own affairs will be. You would be surprised, no doubt.

DRIVING AND SAFETY

Despite the millions of words that have been written and spoken in regard to safety, especially in connection with the driving of motor vehicles, the toll of deaths and serious injuries continues to mount year after year. Some have the idea that people as a rule consider THEMSELVES safe drivers, with everyone else an object of watchfulness, when, as a matter of fact, in this fast age, EVERY driver ought to be watched.

In Atlanta recently a speaker on a safety program stated that it was his belief that pure carelessness and a lack of heeding the natural urge for caution causes many accidents, rather than reckless abandon, and gave as proof the story of what had happened in that city only a few days before. His story told of another safety meeting held there, and a few minutes after it was dismissed there was a three-way collision at the second street intersection, within whistling distance of the hall where the safety meeting was held, and that the drivers of all three of the cars involved had just left that safety meeting, after pledging themselves to safe driving.

Another great reason for the large number of mishaps falls in the incompetent driver class. Anyone who has 30 cents can get a driver's license in Alabama, whether he can handle a motor vehicle or not. In fact, he is never even asked if he can drive, let alone finding out if he is a safe and competent driver or not. That should not be. Before securing his first driver's license, any applicant should be forced to demonstrate that he understands the proper handling of a car or truck, and that he understands traffic and how to get through it properly. Louis Chevrolet, the famous racing driver, once said that he felt much safer on the race track with a bunch of other racers, all hitting it up around the 100-mile-an-hour mark, than he did on the open highway, because on the track all drivers had gone through rigid tests to prove that they were competent and knew what they were doing, while on the highway about seven out of every ten at the wheels of cars were merely steering it, and making a poor job of it, at that, having no expert knowledge of driving, and apt to plow into a side rail or a passing car at any time.

The drunk driver element, of course, cause many wrecks, but this angle has been so widely discussed and so universally condemned that words about it are utterly wasted. Thus, a competent hand at the wheel of a good car with good brakes and lights, and with sober wits in command, would do wonders to cut down the accident total. Somebody has said that "The majority of the wrecks are caused by the nut that holds the steering wheel", and a safety official admonishes, "If you stop to think, you will think to stop." Nowadays most cars are thoroughly reliable and trustworthy, but as much could hardly be said of those who drive them.

FACTS FROM THE RECORD

Written By F. G. STEPHENS Publisher of The Southern Democrat, Oneonta

THE ALABAMA DEPARTMENT OF ARCHIVES AND HISTORY

The first State Department to be created additional to those provided in the constitution of 1901, was the Department of Archives and History, and administrative office to care for all the activities the State was due its public records and its history. The Act creating the Department was approved February 27, 1901 and the Department was immediatly organized with the selection of Thomas M. Owen, of Birmingham, Alabama as Director. Mr. Owen had served for several years as Secretary of the Alabama Historical Society, had prepared and issued the report of the History Commission and it was through his efforts that the Legislature was Official Agency to care for, preserve, and perpetuate the records.

Senate bill 526 which received the approval of the Governor, fixed the Board of Control of the Department and named the personnel. Peter J. Hamilton was selected from the First District, Jefferson M. Falker was chosen from the Second District, William D. Jelks from the Third District, J. H. Johnson from the Fourth District, W. H. Blake from the Fifth District, Henry B. Foster from the Sixth District, Oliver D. Street from the Seventh District, Williamson Richardson from the Eighth District, and Samuel Will John from the Ninth District.

Doctor Owen as first administrative officer interpreted the duties of the Department in a broad way from a limited begining, the Department today not only collects material bearing upon the history of the State, encourages publication of the State offecial records and other historical material, disseminates knowledge in sources of the State, encourges research, but it also assists the Legislature in its reference work, is the maintains one of the finest libraries in the Southern States of an historical and reference character, and the work of the Department is collaborative with all branches of the State Goverment. The caring for the State's Archives is of course, primarily the duty which requires most attention.

Investigation by the U. S. Department of Agriculture largely confirms the old belief that eggs are not likely to hatch well if thunder storms occur, trains rumble by, or dynamite explodes. The eggs are more affected by shocks from jars and explosions between the 4th and 15th days of the hatching period than any other time.

State Capitol News

While state, county and city officials were pledging cooperation in a drive to enforce regulations governing the legal sale of alcoholic beverages in Alabama last week, another meeting was scheduled to convene at Montgomery Tutsday, December 7, to lay plans for outlawing the legal sale of such beverages in Alabama.

With the senatorial primary just four weeks away, it looks like the voters will not be stirred to a frenzy in the selection of a senator to succeed Mrs. Dixie Bibb Graves, who is serving as a temporary senator since the promotion of Hugo L. Black to the Supreme Court bench. At least that is the view taken by those who have visited the state capitol during the past week.

While the candidates are trying to enthuse the voters, along comes an invitation to Alabama's unbeaten football team to play in the Rose Bowl. Political observers freely admit that politics runs under a heavy handicap against the king of sports.

Exhuberant that the University of Alabama's Crimson Tide should receive its fifth Rose Bowl invitation, Gov. Graves last week immediately launched a movement for preparation of leaflets advertising the state's advantages, to be distributed among the 100,000 expected at Pasadena, where the Tide will meet the Golden Bears of California New Year's Day.

The governor proposed that every civic and local agency contribute to the fund, and in addition he suggested a fund be raised by popular subscription to send Alabama's "Million dollar" band to the coast.

Swamped with a mass of official business in addition to hundreds of parole applicants, it could not be immediately ascertained if the governor will attend the game, although a number of other state officials immediately made reservations.

Gasoline tax collections in Alabama reached an all-time November record at $1,177.632.25 last month, according to Henry S. Long, of the state tax commission. The previous high reported for November was in 1936, although collections were $44,064 under the new high. The money goes for road and bridge construction and maintenance, and for road bond retirement. Each county receives $8,788.27, compared with $6,425.62 for the same month three years ago.

Orville Rush, coordinator for Gov. Graves for the various state agencies promoting the Coosa-Alabama deep water channel from Rome to the gulf, said army engineers would be in the state the first week in March to conduct further hearings on the project's feasibility. The announcement followed a conference with the officers in Mobile last week.

WPA officials at Washington have advised Gov. Bibb Graves of final approval by the president and the comptroller of nine projects for Alabama, totaling $506,373.

DOLLARS WASTED ON UPKEEP CAN'T BUY NEW ROADS

Inferior roads seem cheap and easy to build. They stretch a paving fund so that it covers a lot of territory. But after a year or two, the trouble begins! Maintenance costs go up and up. Soon all your paving money is spent on upkeep . . . and no more new roads are built.

That's why it's wise—and economical—to build concrete roads. Concrete lasts! It requires almost no upkeep. Each year, the paving fund builds more miles of concrete until the whole job is done—for keeps.

Concrete's smooth, non-skid surface is safe and satisfactory to drive on. It speeds up traffic . . . reduces accidents . . . saves gas, tires and repairs.

Get concrete. Insist on it—for safety, comfort and economy.

Concrete IS THE REAL LOW-COST ROAD

The ruffian was held under indictment. But he could give bond. The spectator was "detained" as a material witness—a gentle way of saying he was locked up, exactly as though he had been the criminal. Well, he was guilty of being poor.

Six months later came the trial. The defendant, having been out all that time on bail, looked hale and hearty. The prosecution's witness was produced under guard, pale and sickly from close confinement. It didn't help his health any when the crook's attorney browbeat him, yelled at him, practically accused him of perjury.

The citizen sued the state for false imprisonment, for loss of wages, for separation from his family, for all he'd suffered. Under the statutes he had no standing. They threw his case out.

Meanwhile, the convicted crook had been released by the parole board and was free as a bird.

Aquatic Novelties.

INTERESTING discoveries were made in Hawaiian waters by government ichthyologists. For fear the similarity of sound may lead to wrong impressions, let me state that this department has nothing to do with Secretary Ickes, although, since ichthyology pertains to fish, Mme. Secretary Perkins might possibly have a contrary view on this point. Because they do say there are moments in the cabinet when all is not sweetness and accord.

However, the point is that Uncle Sam's piscatorial sharps dredged up a fish that is most delectable for six months of the year, but poisonous the other six months. So at least they've found a creature emblematic of the California climate.

Let this be regarded around here as treason, I will state that I'm as loyal a native stepson as any that ever came out of Iowa, having been here long enough now to join in passing resolutions endorsing the scenery and at intervals uttering three loud ringing cheers for the sunsets.

Also let envious Florida refrain from gloating. To typify Florida's climate that fish would be good only four months of the year and powerfully hard to put up with the rest of the time.

Lecturing Adventures.

IN ALABAMA is a sect which forbids its converts to laugh or even smile. Now I know who it was bought out the house when I delivered a humorous lecture down there.

The other day a chap asked me why I didn't go back on the lecture platform. I told him I'd appeared in practically ever sizable town in America, and, though it was years ago and probably popular indignation had abated now, still I wasn't taking any chances—I was waiting for some new towns to be built.

Once I tried the experimemt of slipping around to the front door to hear what the crowd said, coming out. That was the night I attempted suicide by gas, but was saved when someone, passing through the hotel corridor, smelled something that smelled even worse than the hotel smelled.

A lecturer's lot is not a happy one. But usually it's the audience that suffers most.

Eating Oysters.

THERE'S a brand-new movement called eat-oysters-in-any-month-you-please movement, or, unless you're working on space rates, it may be called E. O. I. A. M. Y. P. M., for short. Its sponsor says the prejudice against eating oysters in months having an "r" in them is a fallacy dating back 2,000 years when, between hiccoughs, a Roman senator said: "Oysters should be eaten only in certain seasons."

So it appears we've been penalizing ourselves ever since then for the indigestion of a Roman senator, although, so far as eating the California oyster is concerned—he runs around forty to the dozen—I personally could refrain for the whole year without any undue longings. The California oyster looks something like a brass overall button suffering from vertigris.

Still, maybe it's all for the best. Because during May, June, July and August is when the oyster does practically all his courting. There's little enough romance left in the world—and anyhow, who am I to come between an oyster and his love-life? He doesn't seem to have any too much fun the rest of the time.

Long Distance Rates Reduced on Christmas and New Years Day!

LONG DISTANCE rates for calls made between points within the United States, on both Christmas and New Year's days, will be reduced.

The low night rates that are now in effect every night after seven and on Sundays will apply on both person-to-person and station-to-station calls made Christmas day and New Year's day.

If you can't be with out-of-town relatives and friends you can "voice visit" with them by long distance telephone at little cost.

Since these holidays are Saturdays, you can place calls any time from 7 P. M. Friday until 4:30 A. M. Monday, on both the Christmas and New Year week-ends, and obtain the low rates.

Take advantage of this opportunity to make both Christmas day and New Year's day this year a time of greater happiness for your loved ones and friends as well as yourself. With these special low rates in effect you can talk a distance of 100 miles for 40c; 500 miles $1.10; 1,000 miles $1.85, and greater or less distances at a correspondingly low cost when using station-to-station service. Person-to-Person service is slightly higher.

4-H Club Meeting

The Enterprise 4-H Club girls met with Miss Grace last Friday and enjoyed a very interesting Christmas program. At the opening of the meeting, we sang several Christmas carols. Then we were entertained by some Christmas readings. Since the boys did not have a program planned, we invited them in to hear our program.

We rae looking forward to December 15, when we are to see "Under the 4-H Flag" at the Wadesonian theatre in Clanton. Mr. Ivey explained to us about the show and the prizes that are to be given in connection with the showing of this feature. We will try to win first prize for our county.

Miss Grace and Mr. Ivey gave each of us a lovely Christmas card.

Miss Grace gave us our monthly bulletin of "Alabama 4-H Club Work" and a 1938 4-H calendar. She also gave us some ideas for wrapping Christmas gifts.

We then adjourned until January, when we will hold our first meeting of the new year.

Sports

The Enterprise basketball boys will go to Thorsby Thursday night, December 9, to play Thorsby. Go out and see them.

REFUGE

There was not any Sunday school at this place Sunday on account of the bad weather, but we hope everyone will come next Sunday with a well prepared lesson.

Bro. A. C. McMean will preach here next Sunday December 12th, at 11 o'clock. Everybody is cordially invited.

Rev. Lockhart of this community filled his regular appointment at Liberty in Autauga County last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jodie Connell have returned home after several weeks visit in Ashland with the latter's parents.

CARD OF THANKS

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give us space in your paper to offer our thanks to our relatives, neighbors and many friends.

Frist of all, we are thankful for your kindness and friendship. And then we send to you our thanks for the many things that has been given us.

Our home burned on November 23, which we expect to rebuild again, and we say to all—"you are welcome to visit us anytime."

Again, we say thank you, and may God's blessings be bestowed on everyone is our prayer.—Henry L. Ousley and Family.

MT CARMEL

The W. M. U. met last Saturday evening for a business meeting. Only six were present on account of rain. The next meeting will be on Tuesday afternoon, December 20th, at the home of Mrs. Watley. A Christmas program will be rendered and refreshments served. Please be there.

We regret Mr. Tom Foshee is very ill again.

Mr. Crayton Lenior seems to be improving some.

Miss Eula Sanders, at King's hospital in Selma, is reported to be somewhat better than last week. She will undergo an operation within the next few days.

Mrs. Odis Sewell will return to her home in Clanton this week from the Woodlawn hospital in Birmingham, where she underwent an appendix operation more than a week ago.

Bro. Nix and wife were the Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Foshee.

Mr. H. S. Sewell attended the veteran's meeting at Clanton Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. Sims visited Mrs. Oden Sunday afternoon.

Plans are being made for a Christmas program at the church, and a Christmas tree. Names will be exchanged next Sunday, and all who wish to draw a name are requested to be at Sunday school or send your name written on a slip of paper.

Time To Vote Out The Drones Says J. N. Scott

Editor Union-Banner:

Here I come with another message for your many readers. I stated in my last article that I would have something more to say about the bee hive and drones, so here I come, swim or drown.

Yes, we have too many drones; this is the way I see the conditions. The little bees are industrious little boys. They start out in the spring of each year, and they work from daylight to dark all the summer, and fill up the gums with honey, so as to be able to live through the winter. But in the spring there are some large bees called drones; they don't work, but sit around and eat up the little bees' honey. But the latter part of the summer the working bees begin to kill them and drag them out of the gums to stop them from eating up all the honey, so that they may have enough to live on during the winter. But sometimes the master robs them too close and they starve out during the winter. Next spring the gum is still sitting there, but the bees are all gone.

Mr. Farmer and wage earners, I want you to investigate and study what I shall say, and see if it is not about like our conditions. We little farmers and laboring men start out in the spring and work from sun-up to sun-down, plowing our crops, and in our minds we build great castles. We start the crop in debt, but we make a good crop, and when we start to gathering we think over the many things we are going to need, and think we are going to really be able to purchase them. We tell the wife and all the children what we are going to get for them, and that they must get that crop into the barns. They work hard, then when Dad gets it sold, and begins to pay it out on his debts, he finds that he is not going to have enough to pay up, and yet there are his taxes to pay—school tax, county tax, state tax, national tax, car tag, driver's license (for those who own a car). I know of some who have had to put the car under the shed and leave it there; they could not purchase the tag.

Yes, I said there are too many of the drones to feed. Just think of it Mr. Farmer. We feed and clothe all the people of this great nation of ours, and yet we stand at the bottom of the ladder of all classes of working men. We are like the little bee. We work hard and bring in the honey, but we allow the drones to stay in the gums and get all the honey, and leave us farmers and laboring men with the bag to hold. We ought to have the resistance of the little bee; we ought to get rid of these drones. They don't work, and are not worth anything to us.

Just think of this last administration of our state. The first thing they did was to raise the wages $2.00 a day and up on hundreds of men and women on the pay rolls—people that we don't need.

I will not try to tell of all the drones on the pay roll, but what did Mr. Cox do for us right here in Chilton County? Put five drones on the pay roll with big salaries, and we needed none of them. They never worked a day on the county's roads in their lives. Our roads show it was just drones eating up all the honey. We should get rid of them when we have another election. I have been wondering if Mr. Fant and all that bunch of clerks sitting around Clanton are drones, or are they helping us to bring in some honey. They draw big salaries, but I haven't seen any of them out on the farms.

I consider that we, as a state and as a nation, are in the worst condition we have ever been in since I can remember. And, believe it or not, we are gonig to stay that way until we kick the drones out of our sounty, state and national government offices, and put real workers in their stead.—J. N. Scott.

Although Christmas is hardly three weeks away, plans are being made to provide a Christmas program for Sunday night, December 19.

An interesting and lovely discussion was held on "Personality" Sunday night at the regular Christian Endeavor meeting. Credit is given to Ruby Leigh Wilkes, Miss Townsley, and others who took part for providing such a stimulating and helpful program.

The Christian Endeavor wishes to remind everyone that there will be a social ni the Fellowship Room of the Congregational church on Saturday night at 7 o'clock, December 11.

MISS NEWELL GIVEN PRE-NUPTIAL PARTY

Mrs. Omar Reynolds was hostess at a tea-shower on Friday afternoon, honoring Miss Helen Patricia Newell, whose marriage to Mr. John O. McKinstry will take place on December 17th.

Bowls and urns of snapdragons and chrysanthemums in pastel shades adorned the rooms. In the dining room the tea table covered by an ivory cutwork cloth was centered with a silver bowl of briarcliff roses, sprayed with lily of the valley, encircled by ivory tapers burning in silver candelabra. Nuts and mints in silver compotes and bowls were in bridal tones.

Mrs. Grady Reynolds and Mrs. Julius Burnett greeted the guests at the door and receiving with Mrs. Omar Reynolds were: Miss Helen Newell, Mrs. John Ottis Newell, Mrs. T. A. McKinstry, mother of the groom-to-be, Mrs. L. H. Reynolds, Mrs. J. A. Duncan, Mrs. James McKinstry, and Miss Mary Newell.

The guests were conducted by Mrs. W. E. Huddleston, Jr., and Mrs. George McCain to the bride's book, which was presided over by Mrs. Earl Gray and Miss Elizabeth Hogan.

The tea table was presided over by Mrs. C. H. Pipes and Mrs. James H. Wood, assisted by Misses Celia Gerald, Pauline Hogan, Ruth Gowan, Nell Ross Mullins and Miss Jane Pitts.

The gifts were displayed by Mrs. J. Hance Aired and Mrs. John Hollis, to the guests who called during the afternoon.

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

FARMERS ARE REPAYING THEIR LAND BANK LOANS

Auburn, Dec. 6. — For the first time in several years farmers are now repaying the federal land banks more principal money than the amount of new loans, according to F. F. Hill, deputy governor of the Farm Credit Administration.

Repayments exceeded new loans by more than $1,350,000 during September. In the first nine months of the year, loans paid in full and instalments on principal aggregated $49,313,000, which was only slightly less than the $49,581,000 loaned during the same period.

"Many farmers have used surplus money to retire their loans more rapidly than required and so far this year about 10,000 have repaid their land bank loans in full," Hill said. "About $20,000,000 consisted of instaments and special payments."

Approximately 10,000 miles of terracing was done on Alabama farms last year.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength.

Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder may be burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

LARGE CROP IS BRINGING LESS THAN SMALLER ONE

Auburn, Dec. 6. — Alabama's present 1,520,000-bale cotton crop is bringing 10 million dollars less than the 1,200,000-bale crop of 1936.

Based upon present prices of about $40 per bale of lint and $18 per ton for seed, the present crop is bringing about 73 million dollars. Last year cotton sold for an average of about $61.50 per bale, and the seed brought about $30 per ton. The total value of the crop was over 82 million dollars.

KANSAS 4-H CLUB LEADS NATION

Chicago, Dec. 6. — The Kaw Valley 4-H Club near Topeka, Kansas, is accorded by extension leaders state and national honors in the year's National 4-H Program on Social Progress.

Now in its ninth year, the club has 34 members, held 12 meetings, and won on the following record: Was first in Shawnee County model club meeting contest, staged the winning play in the county dramatic event, gave nine varied public demonstrations, sand Christmas carols to shut-ins, listened to worth while radio programs, developed a boys' quartet, a girls' trio, a mixed chorus, instrumental trio, girls' sextet, double quartet, cleaned the school house before opening, brought school clothing for needy children, packed Christmas and Thanksgiving baskets for poor families, and held seven group discussions.

The average farm milk cow in Alabama gives about 2,500 pounds, or about 300 gallons of milk a year, according to F. W. Burns, dairy specialist of the Alabama Extension Service. "This is about half of the amount each cow should give if provided with the proper feed and care," he says.

Many misbranded farm seed offered for sale in Alabama have been removed from sale by seizure proceedings through the inspection service of the Alabama Department of Agriculture in Montgomery, reports R. J. Goode, commissioner. L. N. Allen, seed analyst, is in charge of this work.

SOIL CONSERVATION SERVICE

Keeping as much of the land covered with close-growing vegetation for as much of the time as possible has been found in the Soil Conservation Service area near Clanton, Ala., to be one of the best methods of controling erosion, according to Mr. James H. Wood, Camp Superintendent at the Soil Conservation Service erosion control project near Clanton.

It's too late to plant winter cover crops, but it's a good time to check up on what cover crops that were planted early in the season are doing now to control erosion, Mr. Wood said.

Early planted cover crops in the Clanton area have already made good growth and from now on will furnish protection for the land. Where these crops were planted late, however, growth was slowed up by cold weather and maximum protection will not be afforded until the plants begin to grow vigorously again early in the Spring, Mr. Wood said.

Summer cover crops that were left on the land are still doing a good job of erosion control, even though the plants are dead, Mr. Wood said. Particularly striking at this time of the year is the cover which a good growth of lespedeza provides. The roots bind the soil and the dead leaves and plants protect the ground against the beating action of rain and the erosion effect of run-off water, Mr. Wood pointed out.

Leaving lespedeza on the land two years whereever possible is recomended in the Clanton area. This greatly increases the value of lespedeza for erosion control because the last year's growth provides protection for the for the land during the winter, prevents seed as well as soil from being washed away, and assures a much better growth the second year, Mr. Wood said.

SUGGESTIONS FOR LARD RENDERING AND STORING

Auburn, Dec. 6. — Care in rendering and storing lard is essential for a quality product.

Fat renders more quickly and completely if ground or cut in small pieces, according to Lavada Curtis, food preservation specialist of the Ala. Extension Service. Removing the skin before cooking also helps to increase the speed, though the skin may be left on.

The fat is cooked slow at first until enough lard has been cooked out to prevent it from sticking to the container and burning. After the fat has become thoroughly heated the fire can be increased until the lard is boiling rapidly. Stir frequently to prevent crackling from sticking.

If the heating is continued a short time after the cracklings become brown and float they will sink to the bottom. Care must be taken that the cracklings do not stick to the bottom of the kettle and that the fire does not become too hot at this stage.

It is advisable to allow the rendered lard to settle and cool slightly before emptying the kettle. The lard should be placed in 5- and 10-pound containers and cooled rapidly so that the grain will be fine. Air and light may cause a chemical change in stored lard which may result in rancidity. To avoid this, fill the containers as nearly to the top as possible, seal with tight cover, and store in a dark, cool place. Once the lard becomes rancid it is impossible to improve it. Moisture and bits of cracklings in the lard may cause souring, so care must be taken that the lard is completely rendered and all moisture strained off.

FARMERS TOLD HOW TO SAVE LAND AGAINST EROSION

Auburn, Dec. 6. — Terracing a farm lacks a lot of being all that is needed to stop it from washing away, and improve the soil, says S. R. Doughty, soil conservationist of the Extension Service of Alabama Polytechnic Institute, in urging farmers to consider every angle of erosion control.

While terracing and contour cultivation with the terraces is the foundation of any good erosion control program on most Alabama farms, he points out that something needs to be done to take care of the water at the end of the terraces, and that farming methods need to be adopted that will check erosion between the terraces and put every acre on the farm to uses to which it is suited.

Actual tests by the Soil Conservation Service show that tons of rich top soil wash out the ends of the best terraces that can be built where farming methods that check erosion between the terraces are not followed.

As long as water runs down unprotected slopes, soil will go with it, Doughty says. Experience in erosion control demonstration areas in Alabama, however, show that farmers can do much to protect their fields by terracing them, farming on the contour so that each row is a little terrace, keeping the land covered with close growing, soil holding and soil building crops as much as possible, rotating crops, planting badly eroded fields and bad strips across good fields to close growing, soil improving or hay crops, vegetating outlets to safely carry water from terraces, developing meadow strips to protect natural draws in the field, contouring and improving pastures, putting badly eroded land back to trees, turning water out of and in planting vegetation in gullies, and in other ways.

There are 33,000 rural mail carriers in the United States, and the total distance traveled daily by them is 1,400,000 miles.

Alabama has a total of 5,399.98 miles of rural electric lines, and 23,368 rural customers in 64 counties, reports J. B. Wilson, agricultural engineer of the Alabama Extension Service. Jefferson, DeKalb, Mobile, and Etowah Counties lead.

Reports to Elizabeth DeLony, state girls' 4-H club leader, estimates that 31,098 Alabama girls will enroll in 4-H club work during 1937-1938. Last year 26,883 girls were enrolled in 758 clubs in the state.

Lesson for December 12

CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

LESSON TEXT—I John 1:1-7; Revelation 21:1-7.

GOLDEN TEXT—Our fellowship is with the Father, and with his Son Jesus Christ.—I John 1:3.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Heavenly Home

JUNIOR TOPIC—God's Great Family.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Comradeship with Christ.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Daily Fellowship with Christ and Christians

Fellowship—the word is rich in meaning, even as it concerns the ordinary relationships of life. It speaks of the association of man with man in a common enterprise, a sharing of problems and of victories—a partnership. Such relationships are very real and helpful. They lead to friendships which bind the hearts of men together in noble purpose and in tender consideration.

It is, however, a long step forward when we add the prefix "Christian" to "fellowship." For by so doing we not only bring men into the most glorious partnership with each other but we do two other very important things: (1) we limit those eligible to this fellowship to those who are followers of the Lord Jesus Christ; and (2) we broaden the fellowship beyond the association of men with each other, and bring them into the circle with Christ. What a high and noble fellowship! Do you belong? Christ says, "I am the door: by me if any man enter in he shall be saved" (John 10:9).

Our Scripture selections for today are from two books of the Bible. Both speak of an eternal Christian fellowship but the first stresses its present expression in a life of holiness and the other its future of blessed communion.

I. Christian Fellowship—Now (I John 1:1-7).

The First Epistle of John presents fellowship with God as depending on three things "which form in their combination a very beautiful picture of truth . . . God is light (1:5), hence fellowship with God depends on our walking in the light. God is righteous (2:29), hence fellowship with God depends on our doing righteousness. God is love (4:7, 8), hence fellowship with God depends on our possessing and manifesting love" (James M. Gray).

Every clause and phrase of the passage before us is so full of spiritual truth that it should have our full time but we must limit ourselves to pointing out one outstanding fact; namely, that Christian fellowship is made possible because we have a Saviour, the Lord Jesus Christ. He it is who reveals the Father—the One in whom there is "no darkness at all" (v. 5). If we follow him we must "walk in the light as he is in the light" (v. 7). This allows for no dark corners, no crookedness in word or act, no backbiting nor evilspeaking.

Let us open the hidden recesses of the heart to the light of God and put every evil thing under the "blood of Jesus Christ which cleanseth us from all sin" (v. 7).

II. Christian Fellowship—for Eternity (Rev. 21:1-7).

Our present communion with God and with one another is most precious—but how often it is marred by sin and disturbed by the wickedness that surrounds us in the world. We look forward to that day when we who are the followers of Christ shall be delivered not only from the penalty and the power of sin, but also from its very presence.

There will be "a new heaven and a new earth" from which every evil thing has been taken away, in which all has been renewed in righteousness. Then will come the glorious consummation of all things when God shall come to "dwell with them and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them and be their God" (v. 3).

That communion shall never be disturbed by the falling of any tear. There will be no mourning, no crying, no pain (v. 4). Little wonder that these words have been the comfort of God's people in their darkest hours. They are not the futile words of human solace. They come from the eternal God.

Three questions have intrigued the curiosity of man: (1) Where did I come from? (2) why am I here? and (3) where am I going? The Christian is the only one who has a satisfying solution for the problem of the origin of all things, "In the beginning God"; a reason for the existence of all things, "To me to live is Christ"; and a satisfactory consummation of all things, "And God himself shall be with them." It is a great thing to know Jesus Christ as Saviour and Lord.

True Religion

True religion extends alike to the intellect and the heart. Intellect is in vain if it lead not to emotion, and emotion is vain if not enlightened by intellect; and both are vain if not guided by truth and leading to duty.—Tryon Edwards.

Values

I am told so many ill things of a man, and I see so few in him, that I begin to suspect he has a real but [illegible] some merit, as being likely to eclipse that of others.—Bruyere.

Mrs. Arthur Johnson is visiting her sister and mother in Hope, Ark., this month.

Crop Reduction Termed Suicide

Borah, In Fighting Mood, Brands Bill Unjust And Illegal

Washington, Dec. 3—Senator Borah (R., Idaho) stirred the Senate Friday with a 90-minute address charging that the philosopy of crop reduction in the new farm bill was driving the country headlong into national suicide.

He was the battling Borah of old, rising in the midst of debate to land relentless blows against legislation which he denounced as federal "blackmail," a "supremely unjust" punishment of the human family, and clearly unconstitutional.

Blaming the Hoover adminstration for orignating the philosophy of scarcity and the Roosevelt regime for continuing it, the legended "Lion of Idaho" roared:

"To pursue a policy of reducing production means constant reduction of the purchasing power of more and more people.

"It means a program of re-reduction of production ever so often to maintain prices. And that Mr. President, would be national suicide."

He repeated the charge for emphais, jaw thrust out at the ring of upturned faces.

Feed Hunger Is Plea

With that he summed up arguments that the pending bill would put farm prices in a " straitjacket" and place an "iron boundary" around the commodities a farmer might produce. The thing to do, he declared, was to use surpluses to feed the hungry and then dispose of the rest abroad at whatever price it would bring.

Some members said Borah made the longest Senate address of his career and had matched the oratorical feats that gave him fame.

He paused patiently at times for questions from sponsors of the measure, then continued on, outlining his objections to page upon page of the bill.

"By what authority, under what provision of the constitution, under what constitutional principle of law may the secretary of agriculture say how much wheat or corn the people of a state may produce? Where is the authority for such things?" he demanded.

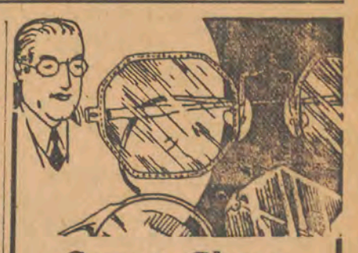
"This is the real crux of the measure," he said, adding he new of "no such authority" although sponsors contended it was contained in the constitutional powers of Congress to regulate interestate and foreign commerce.

Question Brings Report

Senator McKill (D.,Kan.)' co-authur of the bill, and Ellender (D., La.), cited the authority given the agriculture secretary in the soil conservation act and asked Borah if he did not concede the right it gave to require certain farm practices.

"I do not concede that. I do not think that one unconstitutional measure justifys another," Borah shot back.

McGill countered that the farmer was not penalized into co-operating with the proposed program and Borah retorted:



"If the farmer is not a cooperator he has the disfavor of his government and works under the black mail of his government."

The "blackmail," he said, was the treat to withdraw all government favors and benefits from producers who did not cooperate.

"To say that an individual conducting his private business in a perfectly legitimate way shall be subject to regulations and punished like a criminal in case he violates them, in my opinon, is unfar and beyond he power remely unfair and beyond the power of congress."

Senator Pope (D., Idaho), another author of the bill, subsequently denied in an address that it provided for compulsory crop control.

"The so-called production control is entirely voluntary as to corn and wheat," he said, "and in return for signing and complying with the contract the farmer gets a guranee from the government of a reasonably fair income.

HAVE CARS "WINTERIZED"

Motorists who want to derive maximum satisfaction from the winter operation of their cars are taking time now, at the approach of cold weather, to have all lubricants changed. Increased demands imposed by cold weather make the step most important. It is one of the first things that should be done when winter makes itself felt.

Lubricants should be changed at three points, the crankcase, the transmission housing, and the rear axle housing. Motorists who understand the reason for this will give the job the attention it merits. And that reason is simple.

Lubricants tend to become thin and lose their lubricating quality under extreme heat, and to thicken under extreme cold. For this reason, summer grade lubricants are made heavier bodied than winter grade, because they must withstand, without excessive thinning, not only the heat developed in operatiin, but high outside temperatures as well. Winter lubricants, on the other hand, are thinner at normal temperatures than summer lubricants, so that not even very cold weather will make them too thick to flow.

THAT CHANGE OF FRONT

ecutive, even though nothing more has come of it yet than amiable generalities.

Likewise, we actually find congress talking about reducing taxes. There is a clamor for repeal of the undivided prifits tax. This fool law, enacted at the behest of Mr. Roosevelt, practically prohibits corporations from building up a surplus to tide them over hard times and enable them to expand in good times. It forces the distribution of surplus earnings among stockholders by placing a confiscatory tax upon such undivided surplus. Republicans in congress are leading the fight for repeal. The Republican leader, Bertrand Snell, has bluntly warned that Mr. Roosevelt is at heart opposed to repeal of his pet measure, and that but for White House pressure many Democrats would join in taking it off. In other words, he says that Mr. Roosevelt is talking peace and waging war under cover.

We hope that Mr. Roosevelt has really learned his lesson. We trust that he knows by now that he cannot harrass and hamstring American business, and at the same time have it blossom forth into a boom. That he cannot kick around and abuse private enterprise, and at the same time receive its hearty and enthusiastic cooperation. It is just not human for things to work that way. American business men, like American farmers and salaried workers, simply have not learned to adopt the slavish attitude toward their government that prevails in Germany or Russia. They can be led a long way, but they are hard to drive; they still cling to the stubborn notion that this government belongs to them, instead of them belonging to the government. They still retain their essential self-respect as men, and all the persecution of the New Deal rabble-rousers has not deprived them of it. If Mr. Roosevelt would really call off the dogs of war, cease to swagger and threaten, actually reduce taxes and eliminate business restrictions and get down off his high horse, the country might yet recover from the depths into which he has plunged it.

We hope that Mr. Roosevelt will do these things. We hope that he has learned the elementary truth that you cannot make the wage earner more prosperous by destroying or crippling the company that pays his wages. A genuine change of front by the president, reluctant though it may be, may yet save us from the catastrophe that looms ahead.

Still, we know Mr. Roosevelt, and we have his record of five years before us. We know that he is a man of boundless personal ambition, that he has boasted that he will be the master of business, that he is a hard loser, that he has practiced the wiles of demagoguery until they have become as second nature. Knowing these things, we will await some tangible results before acclaiming our president's reputed repentance and reversal of form, before placing him definitely in the category of the King of France who led forty thousand men up the hill and then led them back down again.

NOTICE BAPTIST CHURCHES

An important conference for all pastors, Sunday school officers and teachers, training union officers and leaders, and all associational officers, will be held at the Clanton Baptist church on the night of December 10, at 7 o'clock. All churches, Sunday schools and training unions are asked to have good delegations present. This is a regional conference, and all Baptist churches in both the Unity and Chilton associations are asked to have good delegations present.

The speakers and conference leaders will be Mrs. Davis Cooper, Miss Martha Sconyers, Earl Trent, Chester L. Quarles and Davis Cooper Jr. Let the pastors and other leaders appoint good delegations next Sunday to attend this important conference.—S. J. Ezell.

XMAS PAGEANT AT MULBERRY

There will be a Christmas pageant at Mulberry Baptist church December 26, fourth Sunday, beginning at 6:00 p.m. The public is invited. 12-9-3t

THORSBY JR. HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

Plans to stage the negro minstrel have been deferred until after the Christmas holidays. This was due to the fact that several prominent characters were unable to participate in the program at present; hence, the deferrence.

The Thanksgiving holidays were joyfully spent by the student body and faculty. Some went visiting in other States and places, others contented themselves with the ordinary pleasures of visiting local friends and engaging in the numerous pleasant discussions of home.

The sixth grade and Jr. high departments are planning to present a Christmas program on Thursday, December 23rd. A Christmas tree will be arranged for "Ole Santa" to drop by and distribute a few of his gifts. We cordially invite the mothers and fathers to attend this exercise.

Last week saw the opening of our County Jr. High Basketball League. Our team suffered the loss of the first game to the clever Mt. Pleasant quint by the score of 23 to 18, but the second game was marked up on our side of the ledger, when we tripped the Cooper's team, 27-13.

The fast Enterprise team will invade our court tonight (Thursday) for the third game of the league series. They have bowled us over twice in practice games thus far, but we hope to swing the tide our way this time. We urge you to see this game, for the Enterprise boys have a record of genuine hustling to win, so you may expect a real contest when they present themselves. Be there pulling for your favorite team. The admission will be 10c for everybody.

Two other games will be played tonight also. One is between the Thorsby Independents and the Enterprise Independents. This game will have plenty of action. The third game will be between Collins Chapel Junior High and Maplesville High schools. The Collins Chapel Juniors plastered a defeat on the Maplesville varsity squad several days ago, so see this game, in which Maplesville will struggle to offset this loss, with Collins Chapel battling to pin another defeat on Coach Porch's quintet.

Attendance for the second month was good. Very little illness in the community at present.

The girls basketball team will pay Collins Chapel tomorrow night, Friday, December 10th, in our auditorium. This will be the first game of the current season, so come out and give the lasses a good send-off. This promises to be a contest.

School will be in session next Saturday, December 11, in order that we may be out on Thursday, December 23, for the holidays.

The athletic department has bought warm-up suits for the boys.

CENTER HILL

On Tuesday night of last week Miss Berney Dean and Ted Cobb entertained with a party at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb, for their brother, Leo Cobb of Washington. Those enjoying the occasion were: Messes Mary Lane and Mable Cobb, Mildred Durbin, Helen and Deadie Mae Ray, Bernice Williams, Sarah Mae and Dot Collum, Mr. Troy Cobb, Mr. Leo Collum, Gaston (Bill) Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Cobb, Mrs. Essie Collum, Mrs. Frauline Lowery and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Seay.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Moore and Mr. Dock Glass spent Saturday with Mrs. Lloyd Cobb.

Miss Berney Dean Cobb spent Saturday night with Miss Mable Cobb.

Mr. Henry and Fred Lawrence of Clanton, spent a while Sunday afternoon with Leo Collum.

Mr. Leo Collum left Thursday to go back to Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Cobb and Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Cobb were the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Cobb, Sunday.

Mr. Vester Burkett, State president of the F. E. and C. U. of A., Alabama Division, is in Chilton County doing organization work this week while he is here visiting with Mr. John W. Collum.

Imogene Cobb spent Saturday in Clanton with her sister, Mrs. Lewis Gillespie.

Mrs. Rufus Scott and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Smith were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Price through the week end.

Grannie Crumpton, who has been spending some time with her granddaughter, Mrs. Rubye Cobb, has gone to her daughters, Mrs. Frank Merchant.

Mr. John W. Collum was in Birmingham Saturday and Sunday attending the C. I. O. Labor Council Convention as a delegate from Chilton County.

Everybody remember next Sunday is our regular preaching day. Be there for both services.

The Chilton County F. E. and C. U. of A. meets with this local No. 228 next Saturday. Be with us the entire day.

SALZBURG GRAND OPERA TO BE IN BIRMINGHAM

The appearance in Birmingham on December 15th of the Salzburg Opera Guild furnishes the highlights of the musical season in the state. Only two other Southern cities, Memphis and New Orleans, have the honor or welcoming this distinguished opera organiation, which only last month arrived in America and made its bow to the New York public. There it was hailed by press and audience alike as an overwhelming success.

The rollicking comedy of Mozart, "Cosi Fan Tutte," (The Way of all Women) is the opera that will be presented at the Temple Theatre under the auspices of the Birmingham Music Club.

The Salzburg Opera Guild is new. It is young. It is choice. It reflects the spirit of youth. To gain the feeling of young romatic life the important roles have been assigned to good looking youthful singers. No compromise has been made with age or extra weight. No singer has been engaged solely because of a famous name. Youth must interpret youth at the Salzburg productions. Most of the leading singers are under 30 years of age.

Mail orders for reservations are now being made by the Birmingham Music Club, 1918 First Ave. Prices $2.50: $2.00: $1.50: $1.00.

IN MEMORY

Walter L. Payton, age 25, was killed Monday morning, November 22nd, about 5:30 o'clock, at Bessemer. He was on his way to work at West Field. He stepped from one car and was waiting for a boy friend he rode to work with, when he was hit by another car; he was killed instantly.

Brown Funeral Home had charge of his body. He was carried to Stanton for burial Wednesday. The funeral service was at Stanton church at 10:30 o'clock, Rev. G. G. Williams officiating.

He is survived by his wife and little son, nine months old; a father and mother, three brothers and nine sisters, and a great host of friends and other relatives.

We want to thank the friends for their kindness during his death. May God's richest blessings rest on each of you.—W. B. Payton and Family.

Payton D. Wilson Died Last Week

Prominent Citizen Succumbed To Injuries Sustained Three Weeks Ago

Payton D. Wilson, age 76 years, died at Central Alabama Hospital in Clanton last Thursday night at a late hour. Burial was Friday in Clanton cemetery, following funeral services at Clanton Methodist church, conducted by Rev. J. Marvin Truett. Martin & Sons were in charge.

Pallbearers were: J. B. Atkinson, M. D. Foshee, M. L. White, L. J. Stewart, V. J. Elmore, J. C. Page, C. Reese Mullins, and Dr. J. E. Gowan.

Surviving are three brothers—Wash, Andrew and Enoch Wilson, all of Clanton; one daughter, Mrs. J. P. Crumpton of Clanton. The wife, Mrs. Roberta Mullins Wilson, died some less than a year ago.

Pate Wilson has been a prominent business man in Clanton for a number of years. During the last fifty years or more his name has been prominent in the business activities of Clanton and Chilton County. He operated a mercantile business here for years, was active in the real estate and insurance business, operated the Wilson Hotel for a number of years. He was also a prominent figure in politics; was chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee for some time, and has been otherwise active in politics in the county.

Next Sunday, December 19, at 5 o'clock p.m., we have our Christmas pageant at the Clanton Methodist church. The cast includes Miss Meta Grace, Ed Glasscock, H. Pinkerson, Mrs. Ed Glasscock, Oren Lawrence, Pugh Truett, Wilbur Prince, Miss Mary Love Ward, Omar L. Reynolds, K. V. Lowery, George Parr, John Vanderveer, Jr., and members of the choir.

We hope each reader of this notice will attend and prayerfully worship with us during the presentation of this, our pageant, the setting of which is laid in the home of a young priest in the own of Obendorf; in the streets of the same town; and at a midnight Christmas Eve service in the parish church of the same town.

WHITE CHRISTMAS PAGEANT AT CLANTON BAPTIST CHURCH

There will be a White Christmas pageant at Clanton Baptist church on Sunday night, December 19th, beginning at 6:30 o'clock. The name of the play is "The Enchanted Candle," and the characters have been coached for the past several days.

The church will be appropriately decorated for the occasion; everything will be very pretty, carrying out the Christmas idea in all respects.

Special music for the occasion is under the direction of Miss Kathryn Foss, assisted by Mrs. Arthur Willis and Mrs. John Deramus. The cast for the pageant is being coached by Mrs. L. C. Ross and Mrs. Grady Heflin. Mrs. Luther Little is in charge of decorations.

The public is cordially invited to attend.

THE CHILTON COUNTY CREDIT GUIDE IS NOW IN USE HERE

The merchants Mercantile Company has finished its work of compiling the first credit guide for Chilton County, and ths neatly bound volume is in the hands of all the members of the unit here. The guide is a neatly and handily bound volume, and will no doubt prove of much and lasting benefit to the many owners in Clanton and elsewhere in Chilton county. Shelby county is published jointly with the Chilton county volume.

WAGE-HOUR-BILL IS CLAIMED AS "UN-AMERICAN, UN-DEMOCRATIC"

Mobile, Ala., Dec. 14.—Declaring that the Black-Connery Wage and Hour Bill, now pending before the Congress of the United States is "un-American and un-Democratic in principle" and "strikes another telling blow at state rights," the Board of Directors of the Mobile Chamber of Commerce has gone on record by a resolution in opposition to the Wage and Hour measure. Resolutions adopted by the Directors of the commercial organization have been sent to all members of the Alabama delegation and they have been asked to record their votes in opposition to the measure which is shortly to be considered by the Congress.

The resolution adopted by the Mobile commercial organization declares that the pending measure denies to working men their constitutional and God-given privilege to improve in gainful occupations the condition of themselves and families; that it strikes another and telling blow at state rights; that it tends strongly to place both labor and industry under dictatorial control; that it creates another bureaucracy; that it would force farmers to pay higher wages for farm labor; that it will not, on the whole, mean increased wages for labor; and finally that it is un-American and un-democratic in principle and subjects the future and ultimate prosperity of the nation to an untried and dangerous experiment.

Many prominent Mobile business men are outspoken in their opposition to the measure and several addresses were made at the meeting of the Board of Directors where the resolution was adopted.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT BY GOODMAN'S BEAUTY SHOPPE

The Goodman Beauty Shoppe has arranged to give away absolutely free a $5 permanent wave each Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Mrs. Goodman will be glad to furnish the particulars about how to get one of these free waves.

Turn to another page in this week's Union-Banner and see the list of holiday specials this shoppe is offering. You will be surprised.

CHRISTMAS LIGHTS PRETTY

There have been a number of good compliments passed on the Christmas lights in Clanton this year, put up by the Kiwanis Club in cooperation with the business men of the city. There are more of them, and they are prettier than ever. If you have not been in Clanton at night, it will pay you to come here and see the lights and decorations. They are pretty.

John Samuel Ezell Is Honored By College

John Samuel Ezell

Wake Forest, N. C., Dec. 10.—John Samuel Ezell, son of Rev. and Mrs. S. J. Ezell of Clanton, Ala., is one of 12 men who were recently elected to membership in Golden Bough, Wake Forest College honorary society.

Ezell, a senior in the academic school, has distinguished himself at Wake Forest in scholastic achievement, in religious activities, and in forensics.

He is president of the Baptist Student Union Council. As a sophomore he was superintendent of the college Sunday school.

As vice-president of the Euzelian literary society last year he was a Founders' Day orator and winner of the Junior Orator's Medal. As a member of the Statesman's Club, Ezell has served as president and secretary.

Ezell is a member of the Student Council, and is an assistant in the social science department of the college.

Among his other honors are mention in Who's Who in American Universities and Colleges, the office of secretary-treasurer in Chi Eta Tau, honorary philosophical fraternity, and membership in Kappa Phi Kappa, honorary educational fraternity.

Cardinals Defeated Mignon Sat. Night

The Mitchell Dam Cardinals finally managed to nose out a hard fighting Mignon quintet from Sylacauga last Saturday night, 38 to 34, in one of the hottest scraps ever seen on the Mitchell Dam floor.

Mignon took an early 2-point lead, but lost it shortly, and were never again leading, although they were within two points of the Cards on two occasions.

The half found the Cardinals leading with their biggest lead of the game, 10 points. But as the second half got under way the Millers came back with a rush to score seven points and cut this margin to three before the Cards called time to talk over things. For several minutes it was a nip and tuck battle of passing, and many wild shots, before Mitchell Dam pulled away to an 8-point lead. In the closing minutes Mignon cut the margin back to four, and were rushing the Cardinals in mid-court to force passing and to get the ball in the open, but the Cards held on to that slim 4-point lead for dear life.

Mignon showed a flashy team at passing, but had bad eyes for the magic hoops, missing time after time on apparently easy shots. Mitchell Dam's Cardinals showed a passing attack not quite up with their rivals, but were able to cash in on a bigger percentage of their tries at the goal. As a whole the Mitchell team is breaking faster this season than they did last, and are looking forward to a good season.

Last week the Cardinals lost to Bevelle on the latter's court at Alexander City, 42 to 27. The next night Mignon beat Bevelle 20 to 19, and now the victory of the Cards over the Millers puts their comparative standing in some kind of muddle.

MATT JOHNSON IS GRANDPA NOW

If your freight service isn't up to par this week, don't be surprised, but please be sympathetic. J. Matt Johnson, manager of the local freight hauling business, is grandpa now, and may not feel as chipper as usual. That makes Girthie Easterling a proud papa also, so he may be up in the air a bit.

It all came about when a son arrived last Sunday morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Girthie Easterling. Both mother and babe are doing well, but the young fellow has not been given a name yet.

This event makes Bill Easterling of Route 1 grandpa, too, but this is not Bill's first grandchild, so he isn't flustered so much.

Wherein We Agree With The Advertiser And Supply The Remedy

[AN EDITORIAL]

For once we find ourselves in agreement with an editorial expression of the esteemed Montgomery Advertiser. We will even undertake to supply the answer to a question asked by the Advertiser, with tears in its voice. The answer is so simple that only an infatuated and lovelorn Democrat could overlook it.

In an editorial in its issue of December 7, the Advertiser points out that Western farm interests are demanding that the Southern farmer shall receive no benefits from the federal treasury unless he agrees that land withdrawn from cotton production shall not be used for production of crops that compete with the West. In other words, the boys from the wide open spaces are boldly demanding that the South remain a one-crop section, paying tribute to the West for what it eats, receiving benefits from Uncle Sam only on conditions dictated by and acceptable to other sections of the country. The Advertiser vigorously denounces this latest outburst of sectionalism, a denunciation in which we heartily concur.

"May we ask, also," wails the Advertiser, "when did the cotton South cease to be an organic part of the federal Union? When did it become a colonial possession, to be exploited, intimidated and humiliated by discriminatory laws?"

We gladly supply the answer. The South sank to its present low estate in national affairs when it delivered itself, hog-tied, to the Democratic party, and told the world that it would swallow the candidate of that party in every election, right or wrong. When the Southern voter surrendered his political independence, he paved the way for the economic serfdom that is the natural consequence of political bondage. The Montgomery Advertiser has played a prominent part in bringing about the conditions of which it so bitterly complains. It is a newspaper in many respects independent in thought and action, but still held in slavish subjection to the Democratic idols. It has helped forge the fetters of political slavery for its constituents, and thereby, however unwittingly, has contributed to their economic plight. We venture the prediction that if the Advertiser would hew true to its old convictions, strike out bold against the socialism of Roosevelt, and lead the fight against his subversion of Democracy, it would be surprised at the added respect and consideration that would come to Alabama, regardless of who should win. The truth of the situation today is simply that the South has surrendered its political convictions for the sake of political solidarity, and has thereby

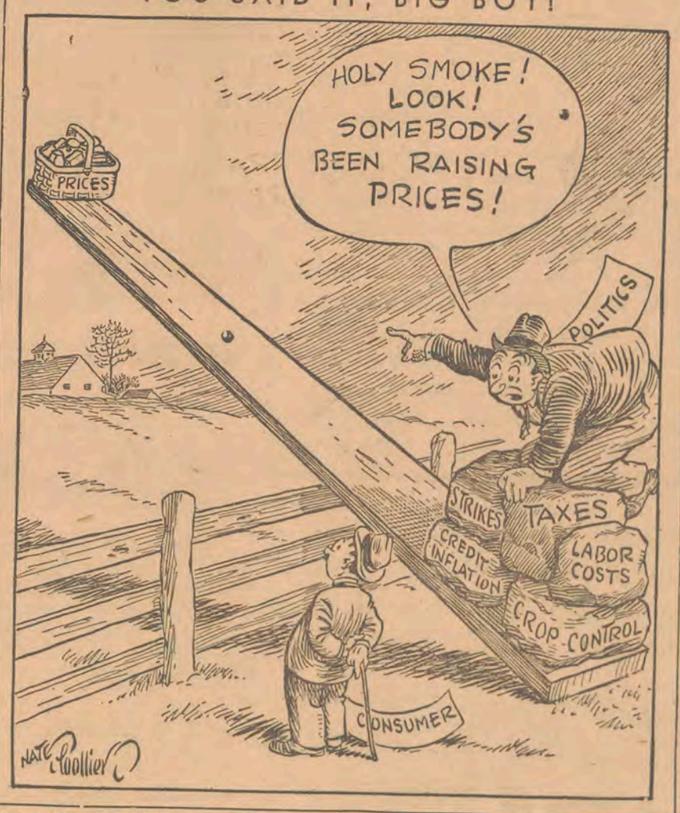
COTTON GINNING REPORT

Census reports show that there were 19,850 bales of cotton ginned in Chilton County from the crop of 1937, prior to December 1, as compared with 16,084 bales ginned to December 1, of the crop of 1936.—V. C. McKee, Special Agent.

ASKED TO BE CAREFUL ABOUT SHOOTING FIRE CRACKERS



Chief of Police H. M. Simpson wishes to call to the attention of all the danger of shooting fire crackers within the fire zone in the city. This prohibited zone is from First to Fourth Avenues inclusive, and from Fifth to Ninth Streets inclusive. The shooting of any kind of fire works within this zone is especially dangerous about fire, and besides, there is a city ordinance against same. Mr. Simpson wishes that the boys and everybody else will observe the warning.

BEAUTIFUL CHRISTMAS PAGEANT AT CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

"Thank God For Song" is the title of the Chrismas pegeant to be presented at Clanton Methodist church Sunday night, December 19th, beginning at 5:00 o'clock. The program will last for about one hour.

The leading parts in the pageant will be played by Mr. Ed Glasscock and Mr. H. Pinkerson. There will be songs by Mrs. Ed Glasscock, Mr. Percy M. Pitts and others. This promises to be one of the most beautiful programs ever presented in Clanton. The public is cordially invited to attend.

CHILTON HIGH OPENS CAGE SEASON HERE FRIDAY P.M.

The Chilton Tigers open the basket ball season here Friday with Maplesville High. This will be their first game of the official season, although they have played several practice games.

Chilton High has a wealth of material for basket ball this season, it is reported, and are fast rounding into condition under the coaching of Prof. Dewey Cox. The boys are looking to a successful season.

ALABAMA POWER COMPANY IS NOW IN NEW LOCATION

The Alabama Power Company office in Clanton is now in its new pretty location, which has recently undergone a thorough renovation. As the arrangement now is ,the office is one of the prettiest places in the city—plenty of room, and everything is spick and span to the Nth degree.

The space has been about doubled, the adjoining building having been put with the one formerly used by the company. The front has been redone, making it thoroughly modern in every particular. Mr. T. L. Williams, the local manager, is proud of the new place, and is receiving numerous complimentary remarks from his many friends. The entire personnel of the office is proud of their new, modern home, and they are justly so.

J. E. Easterling Wins Yale Tire Sales Prize

J. E. EASTERLING

J. E. Easterling, manager of the local Woco Service Station, is announced as a prize winner in another Yale tire sale contest by the Birmingham office of the Wofford Oil Co.

The contest began August 1, and ran for three months. Three prizes were given away to the three highest sales records made—$50, $35, and $20 respectively. When all the returns were in, the home office announced Mr. Easterling as winner of second prize of $35. In winning this prize, the Woco Service Station sold 187 Yale tires. In addition, between 30 and 40 General tires were sold, although these sales were not allowed to count in the contest, it being on Yale tires alone.

This is the second tire sale prize Mr. Easterling has won, having taken first prize in another some months ago.

In this issue of The Union-Banner is a large advertisement by the Woco Service Station, announcing a unique and easy tire purchase plan on first grade, fully guaranteed Yale tires. Turn to it, read it, and if you need new tires, or will need them in the near future, investigate the plan.

G.O.P. Leader Flays Critics

Executive Committee Studies Qaulities of 1,000 Nominees for Policy Board

St. Louis, Dec. 14.—By meeting after midnight the republican executive committee pushed well past the half way mark today in its strenuous sorting of 1,000 nominees for a policy committee of 100 while the party's national chairman, John D. M. Hamilton, lashed vigorously at his critics. The conferees made a preliminary canvass of 600 names in alphabetical order in a nine-hour session behind closed doors.

Outside observers speculated upon at least four names as possible choices for chairman of the steering group; President E. M. Hopkins of Dartmouth; James Truslow Adams, the historian; Senator Frederick Eteiwer of Oregon and John H. Wigmore, Chicago legal authority.

ANOTHER BUCK KILLED BY CHILTON CO. HUNTER

This time the buck was bagged by J. H. Cleckler of Beat 11, the hunting taking place in Sumter County, near York, Ala. The party consisted of Lawrence Littleton, Wilbur Littleton, E. R. Odum, J. H. Cleckler, Arnold Cleckler, Johnnie Easterling, Cary Easterling, and Dewey Minor, and the hunting was done last Tuesday, December 7.

Only one deer was killed, it being the one by Mr. Cleckler, a 10-point buck, dressing around 150 pounds. Cary Easterling killed three snow birds.

The hunting was done on the Tombigbee River, in the vicinity of the Allison preserve.

HILL GROCERY COMPANY HAS EVERYTHING FOR CHRISTMAS

Mr. L. J. Stewart, manager of the local Hill store, says that he has prepared something for everybody for Christmas, and wants you to come get yours. If it is fruit, nuts, candy, ingredients for cakes, and other nicknacks for Christmas, then Hill has what you want. Mr. Stewart will be glad to wait on you.

Two Men Killed In Car Wreck Sunday

Two Others Injured. All Hill Store Workers On Way To Birmingham

Two employes of the Hill Grocery Company, in Montgomery, were killed and two others were injured, one possibly seriously, when the automobile in which they were en route to Birmingham Sunday morning overturned several times three miles north of Calera, and then skidded about 200 feet, landing right side up.

The dead were Golston E. Turner, manager of the Hill store at 700 South McDonough Street, and Samuel S. Bowden, clerk at the Hill store on the 1100 block of Madison Avenue. Turner, who was at the wheel, died instantly, and Bowden, who was in the front seat with him, died a few minutes later.

The injured were Jesse W. King, a meat cutter of 402 South Decatur Street, Montgomery, and George Farrow, whose address in Montgomery could not be learned.

Mr. Raymond Underwood, of Spigener Funeral Home in Clanton, was called and asked to bring his ambulance and a doctor. Dr. C. O. Lawrence went with Mr. Underwood. The bodies of Turner and Sam Bowden were brought here and prepared for burial by Spigener. The body of Turner was shipped to Montgomery Monday morning, and that of Bowden to Columbia, near Dothan, in Houston County.

After Dr. Lawrence gave first aid to the two injured men, King was able to be sent to Montgomery, but George Farrow was more seriously injured, so he was brought to Central Alabama Hospital by Spigener's ambulance.

Relatives of Mr. Bowden said that the four men were en route to Birmingham, to attend an annual gathering of Hill store employes and managers, when the car left the highway.

State Highway Patrolman L. E. Curtis, Jr., who is stationed at Calera, said that, in his opinion, the accident had resulted mostly from excessive speed. He said he had found marks indicating that the car had overturned at least four times, and that it had skidded 208 feet.

The patrolman said that the car was the property of Bowden, but that at the time of the accident it was being driven by Turner.

BURNS ADVOCATES MORE 4-H PIGS FOR MARKET

Auburn, Dec. 13. — "On the basis of present and prospective prices of hogs and corn, the returns from feeding corn to hogs this winter will be considerably greater than from selling corn for cash," writes F. W. Burns, livestock specialist of the Alabama Extension Service, to all 4-H club agents in the state.

In urging that more boys enter the market hog project, Mr. Burns suggests:

1. Secure well bred, thrifty pigs, weighing from 75 to 100 pounds, so that these pigs can be marketed in March or April.

2. Six bushels of corn and 50 pounds of supplement (composed of equal parts of cottonseed meal and tankage) will be required for 100 pounds of gain.

3. If possible, these pigs should be on a field of oats, rye or crimson clover as this increases the rate and reduces the cost of gain. If this is not possible, feed the pigs some green feed or keep bright, green legume hay before them in racks.

4. Keep a mineral mixture of equal parts by weight of charcoal, clacked lime and salt before the pigs at all times. Also be sure and provide shelter and plenty of fresh water.

5. A self feeder containing shelled corn in one compartment and supplement in the other is the easiest method of feeding. If this is not possible, feed all the ear corn the pigs will clean up twice daily, and from ¼-Pound to ½-pound of supplement per pig daily.

6. Keep feed records.

MT. PLEASANT 4-H CLUB

The Mt. PBleasant 4-H Club met with Mr. Ivey Wednesday, December 1st. The first part of the meeting was held jointly with the girls at which time a Christmas program was given. The last part of the program was a discussion on soil erosion and forest fires. Mr. Ivey gave a few tricks to work out, and the meeting adjourned unti next month.

BEST RATIONS GIVEN FOR WINTERING CATTLE

Auburn, Dec. 13. — Prof. J. C. Grimes who is head of the animal husbandry department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute, is at present advising Alabama farmers that any one of seven rations is "good for wintering dry cows, heifers, and stocker steers." The seven rations follow:

No. 1. Velvet beans, grazed in the field.

No. 2. Stacked Johnson grass hay, with access to the hay field.

No. 3. 15 to 20 pounds grass hay and 1 to 2 pounds cottonseed meal per head, daily.

No. 4. 30 to 35 pounds silage and 1 to 2 pounds cottonseed meal per head, daily.

No. 5. 15 pounds grass hay, and 5 pounds legume hay per head, daily.

No. 6. 15 to 20 pounds soybean, cowpea, peanut, or other legume hay per head, daily.

No. 7. 15 to 20 pounds cottonseed hulls and 1 to 2 pounds cottonseed meal per head, daily.

Mr. Grimes also suggests that:

1. Peanut meal may be substituted for cottonseed meal in these rations at the rate of 1 pound of peanut meal for 1 pound of cottonseed meal.

2. Ground velvet beans may be substituted for cottonseed meal at the rate of 2½ pounds of velvet beans for 1 pound of cottonseed meal.

3. Five pounds of broken ear corn, or ground corn and cob meal, may be substituted for an equal amount of legume hay in ration No. 6.

VERBENA 4-H CLUB

The Verbena 4-H Club met on November 8th, and new officers were elected as follows: president, Lawrence Howard; secretary and treasurer, Judson Strock; reporter, James Messer; song and cheer leader, Bill Barrett; local leaders, M. W. Mims and G. S. Gibson. The program committee and the social committee were elected by the president.

The members filled out project cards and are ready for the new year.

GOODE ADVOCATING JUTE RESTRICTIONS

Montgomery, Ala. — Southern farmers and business men should unite in urging Congress to pass legislation to restrict the present tremendous importation of jute, advises R. J. Goode, Alabama Commissioner of Agriculture, in calling attention to the fact that Senator Bankhead has introduced such legislation.

"The passage of Senator Bankhead's bill will prevent jute competing with domestic cotton and will permit American manufacturers to use a million bales more of this year's record cotton crop in turning out sacks and bagging of various kinds, twine and wrappings or casings, and for other purposes for which the well kown 'croker' sacks and sackings are used," says Commissioner Goode.

The importance of the legislation being passed is emphasized by the fact that southern farmers have this year produced an estimated cotton crop of 18,746,000 bales, the largest on record.

He further emphasizes the need of such legislation by pointing out that approximately 800,000,000 pounds of jute are imported into this country each year and displaces the use of approximately 2,000,000 bales of American cotton.

"Not only is raw jute imported into this country free of tariff duty but we actually protect processed twine and burlap by a tariff so there is no foreign competition to those articles processed in this country out of the imported jute," he says.

ACRE YIELD OF COTTON IS HIGHEST ON RECORD

Montgomery, Ala. — Alabama this year produced the third largest cotton crop and the largest yield per acre on record in the state.

The Alabama cotton crop is estimated at 1,610,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight, and the per acre yield is estimated at 294 pounds, 58 pounds per acre greater than any previous yield on record, reports J. C. Garrett, state ad federal agricultural statistician. It was in 1911 and 1914 that Alabama farmers grew larger cotton crops than they produced this year.

The high per acre yield in Alabama this year illustrates the value of farmers using better fertilizer and cultural practices and varieties on their farms, says R. J. Goode, commissioner of agriculture. Reports indicate that farmers of the state are following recommendations of the Alabama Experiment Station and Extension Service at the present time more than ever before, he says.

MAPLESVILLE 4-H CLUB

The Maplesville 4-H Club boys went on a 'possom hunt Friday night, December 3rd. Mr. Ivey, assistant County Agent in 4-H club work; Mr. Wallace of Maplesville, the local leader for the community, and Mr. Wingard, a friend of Mr. Ivey's were leaders of the hunt.

Seventeen of the members met at Mr. Wallace's place. The hunt began at 6:30 and lasted until 9:30. While the dog were hunting a fire was built and sandwiches were eaten, which were prepared by Mr. Wallace. Games were played afterwards and everyone enjoyed the evening of fun.

BAKER 4-H CLUB

The Baker Club meeting was jointly with the girls, and was opened by singing some Christmas songs and poems about Christmas. Miss Grace then gave us the story of little Pedro.

The 4-H club calenders were given to each of us. These are being sponsored by the Clanton Kiwanis Club this year, and we appreciate it very much.

After the meeting a group picture was made of the boys and girls club with our calenders. The meeting then adjourned until next month.

MAPLESVILLE JR. 4-H CLUB

Today we organized a 4-H club. We have 40 on roll, and we elected new officers. They are: president, Tommie Lee Sexton; vice-president, Hazel Rogers; secretary, Pattie Nix; treasurer, Howard Nell Smith; leaders, Helen McGee, Grey Hicks, Mildred Roper and Eloise Headley.

Miss Grace taught us some new songs.

For the next meeting we will have a Christmas program. We will make gifts to exchange at this meeting.

We hope that the people present at this meeting will report that they have tried the new recipes that Miss Grace gave them.

The Dixie short course in dairying will be held at Auburn January 24-29, announces Prof. A. B. Burke, head of the dairy department of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. The course is open to anyone interested in the dairy industry.

UNION GROVE 4-H CLUB

The Union Grove 4-H Club met Tuesday morning, November 16. We elected officers for the next year. They were Harland Brasher, president; Osmond Cleckler, vice-president; William Varden, secretary and treasurer; Raymond Robinson, song and cheer leader; Oslee Vinzant, reporter. After electing officers we signed project cards. Mr. Cluey explained how to fill them out for the benefit of the new members. Then he gave us some more cards to read.

The meeting adjourned until next month.

Many Alabama farm boys and girls are paying their way through college this year with money earned from 4-H club projects, and in addition they gained knowledge and experience that will be of value to them in future years.

The Department of Conservation in Montgomery has on record nearly two score private hunting preserves in Alabama whose owners and operators are prepared to provide board, lodging, and dogs and guides to persons hunting on their lands. Many believe that there is an opportunity for farmers to realize some cash for hunting privileges on their farms.

BETTER THAN 12¢ COTTON

TOP-DRESSING COTTON with 125 pounds of KAINIT per acre produced 364 pounds MORE seed cotton per acre, or top-dressing with 250 pounds of KAINIT per acre produced 445 pounds MORE seed cotton per acre in tests conducted by the North Carolina Experiment Station on fields damaged by Rust in previous years.

The extra cotton that KAINIT produced represents a better profit than most farmers made when lint was 12 cents per pound. Figure it out for yourself: Subtract the cost of the KAINIT from the value of the extra cotton that KAINIT produced.

The table below shows the results of this experiment. Study it carefully.

All plats received 400 lbs. of 3-8-3 per acre at planting and 100 lbs. of nitrate of soda top-dressing	Where NO KAINIT was used as top-dressing	Top-dressed with KAINIT at 125 pounds per acre	Top-dressed with KAINIT at 250 pounds per acre
Seed Cotton per Acre	775 pounds	1,139 pounds	1,220 pounds
Weight per Boll	5.17 grams	6.56 grams	7.07 grams
Weight of 100 Seed	9.33 grams	11.48 grams	12.44 grams
Lint Index	5.41 grams	6.75 grams	7.17 grams
Fiber Strength	3.28 grams	4.38 grams	4.55 grams
Strong Fibers	68%	76%	83%

Note that the KAINIT top-dressing not only produced many extra pounds of seed cotton, it also improved the quality of the entire crop. KAINIT produced heavier bolls, heavier seed, more lint per seed, better grade, longer staple and stronger fibers.

PROFITS START WHEN YOU STOP RUST!

NORTH CAROLINA EXPERIMENT STATION recommends top-dressing cotton with 125 to 250 pounds of KAINIT or 50 to 100 pounds of MURIATE per acre on fields which rusted in the past and where the fertilizer contains only 3% potash.

SOUTH CAROLINA EXPERIMENT STATION found that 120 pounds of MURIATE per acre increased the yield by 686 pounds of seed cotton per acre. In these tests, fertilizer was used at 600 pounds per acre: 5-10-0 produced 557 pounds of seed cotton, 5-10-5 produced 1,015 pounds and 5-10-10 PRODUCED 1,243 POUNDS. The potash was equally effective applied at planting or as a top-dressing.

GEORGIA COASTAL PLAIN EXPERIMENT STATION produced 1,092 pounds of seed cotton per acre with 600 pounds of 3-9-5 fertilizer. By adding 50 pounds of MURIATE top-dressing the yield was increased to 1,142 pounds, with 100 pounds of MURIATE the yield was 1,221 pounds, with 150 pounds of MURIATE the yield was 1,316 pounds and with 200 pounds of MURIATE the yield was 1,403 pounds.

IT WILL PAY YOU to get the extra yields and extra quality that extra potash adds to your crop at such very low extra cost. PROFITS START WHEN YOU STOP RUST! Use fertilizer well-balanced with 8 to 10% NV POTASH at planting; or top-dress with 100 pounds of NV MURIATE per acre, 200 pounds of NV KAINIT, or use a mixed-goods top-dresser containing plenty of genuine NV POTASH. All of these are on sale by your fertilizer man.

POPLAR SPRINGS IS ENGAGED IN BUILDING NEW CHURCH

The weather has not been very favorable for the building of the new church, but work has been going on just the same at Poplar Springs.

All the members are urged to put forth some effort to help. If you can't give money, your help is needed at building. Someone is there at work every day, so just any day you can work just go to the work. Many have promised to help, and probably here are many the committee has not seen, but if you have a willing heart and mind to do as the Lord would have us to, you can see one of the committee members and they will take care of it. The committee is made up of H. W. Devaughn, G. B. Jones, Mrs. Anna Wilson, Mrs. G. P. Rich, and Miss Lena Downs.

Come on let's have a new church to start the new year off with. Yours for a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

OPPOSE APPROPRIATION CUT

Birmingham, Dec. 9. — Pointing out that passage of the president's highway proposal will cut Alabama's regular annual federal aid appropriation of $2,600,000 approximately one-third, Alex C. Montgomery, chairman of the Highway Progress Department of the Alabama Motorists Association, called upon Alabamians to petition their congressmen to oppose the president's suggestion.

"Passage of the president's proposal will mean that the annual appropriation for regular federal aid will be cut from $125,000,000 a year to around $80,000,000. This will mean that Alabama's regular federal aid will be sliced to around $1,750,000, and that the annual allotment for secondary roads and grade crossing eliminations will be practically wiped out," Mr. Montgomery said. He said the present federal aid for secondary roads was $532,000 annually, and that the government had appropriated $1,000,000,000 for grade crossing projects for the fiscal years of 1938 and 1939.

FEDERAL FARM LOANS TO BE RELEASED AT EARLY DATE

County residents who wish to apply for federal assistance in purchasing farms under the opportunity provided by the legislation known as the "Bankhead-Jones Tenant Act" must act without delay, according to the rehabilitation supervisor in charge of the farm security program in this county.

Consideration of all applications submitted will be commenced as soon as the local farm security advisory committee is established and ready for service. This committee, appointed by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, is composed of three farmer citizens of this county, who will consider the qualifications of the applicant as well as the economic possibilities of farm lands desired purchased. Applicants who are found to have the character, ability and experience deemed necessary for successful farm ownership will be recommended by this committee. The lands desired purchased will be appraised, and if found of sufficient fertility to promise a satisfactory return on human labor, and reasonably priced, according to other lands in the immediate neighborhood, the purchase will be approved.

The first meeting of this advisory committee is planned for early January, and at that time it is desired to have ready all applications so that all people of the county who desire help in purchasing farms will have the same opportunity to have their proposition considered. No applications will be accepted for consideration after January 10, 1938. Funds allotted for loans in Chilton County will finance purchases of between five and ten farms as authorized in this year's program. After the quota of loans are approved, no additional loans can be made until funds are made available by congress for the next year's program, which begins July 1, 1938.

Many applications are on hand now, and more are coming in every day. Information and necessary application forms may be secured from the offices of the rehabilitation supervisor, located in the Potts building, Clanton. Rehabilitation offices will be open Wednesdays and Saturdays from 8 a.m., until 5 p.m., to accept applications and explain the program. County agents have been provided with necessary forms, and will assist local applicants.

The most important work of the season for the rehabilitation office is assisting rehabilitation farmers to make out practical farm and home management plans and in advising them in their farming and home operations in connection with standard rehabilitation loans.

These loans are made to farm families, whether in their own land or as tenants on rented land, who are unable to secure proper credit from other sources to make a crop or to purchase needed livestock and equipment.

Lesson for December 19

THE BIRTH OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—Luke 2:8-20.

GOLDEN TEXT—For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.—Luke 2:11.

PRIMARY TOPIC—When Jesus Came.

JUNIOR TOPIC—When Jesus Came.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—The Birth of Our Saviour.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—God's Gift of a Saviour.

Few indeed are the stories that will bear retelling or the books that are worth re-reading. Rare is the song that we care to hear more than once. How significant then that we come to the observance of Christmas each year with hearts full of delight in the story of the birth of Jesus, eager again to hear the account from God's Word, and to listen with attentive souls for the sound of the angel's song in the Christmas music.

The birth of our Lord as the incarnate Saviour of men is still front page, headline news, even in 1937. The glad tidings of his coming still color the thinking and living of a world that has gone far from him, that lives today in hatred and enmity, even while outwardly recalling the coming of the One who was to bring peace on earth. We have even gone so far that men feel that the way to promote peace is to use the sword. Until the Prince of Peace himself shall reign there may be no other way. But let us be certain at this Christmas time that the tender baby hand from the cradle at Bethlehem has reached our hearts and lives, bringing us peace with God and good will toward men.

The first seven verses of our chapter relate the coming of Mary with Joseph to God's appointed place at his appointed time, for the entrance into this world of the Son of God as the "Word" that "was made flesh and dwelt among us" (John 1:14). Our lesson opens with the proclamation of the blessed good news to the shepherds in the field.

I. "Unto You Is Born . . . a Saviour" (vv. 8-14).

Christ was a great teacher, one whom the common people heard gladly, "for he taught them as one that had authority, and not as the scribes" (Mark 1:22). He was a leader among men, and lived a life which was an example beyond that of any man. But mark it well, this was not the central and essential purpose of his coming. He came as a Saviour. His mother was told before his birth that she should "call his name JESUS: for he shall save his people from their sins" (Matt. 1:21).

It is not enough to be among the countless thousands who superficially observe Christmas with greetings and gifts. We must with the shepherds go and present ourselves in personal devotion to him. If you have not met the Lord Jesus as your own personal Saviour do it now. And if you know him, make this a Christmas in which Christ is supreme.

II. "Let Us Now Go . . . and See" (vv. 15, 16).

Their fear changed to assurance by the words of the angel, the shepherds at once "go" and "see." Would that all those who heard today did likewise. The shepherds might well have found all manner of excuses for not going. They had sheep to care for, they were not prepared for a journey. No, the urge was upon them "and they came with haste . . . and found" Jesus.

III. "When They Had Seen . . . They Made Known" (vv. 17-20).

Mary the mother of Jesus had special reason to ponder these things in her heart. But the shepherds "returned, glorifying and praising God for all that they had heard and seen."

"Let the redeemed of the Lord say so" (Ps. 107:2). When we have found the Lord Jesus we must not simply rejoice in the satisfaction and peace that has come to our own souls. We are saved to serve. The normal expression of the new life in Christ is the proclamation of the gospel to the ends of the earth. Only in that spirit do we truly keep Christmas!

To every one that sees these lines—whether editor, typesetter, or proofreader—whether a reader in the midst of the clamor of the great city or in the quiet of a distant countryside, whether old or young, whether well or on a sickbed, whether alone, far from family and friends, or in the bosom of your family, the writer of these lines extends in the name of Christ a most hearty good wish for a blessed Christmas.

Lesson of Experience

Experience teacheth many things, and all men are his scholars; yet he is a strange tutor unteaching that which he himself hath taught.

MRS. JOHN FRANK RAWLINSON

Sadness and gloom fell over our community like a pall when the news came that the death angel had called the spirit of Mrs. Charity Rawlinson to its heavenly home early Sunday morning, December 12, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Brady Caver, of Independence. Her home-going was such a shock to everyone, for she seemed so well and hearty when she retired the night before.

Her's was a beautiful life. She was neighborly to all with whom she came in contact, and brought comfort and cheer to the lonely and distressed.

She joined the Pilgrim Rest Baptist church in early girlhood, and lived a faithful Christian life. She was born August 6, 1871, in Chilton County, and was married to Mr. John Frank Rawlinson December 30, 1888. To this union were born one son and three daughters, who, with her husband, all survive her. They are: Rasco Rawlinson of Billingsley; Mrs. P. H. Henson of Pletcher, Mrs. Sam J. Weldon of Billingsley, and Mrs. B. L. Caver of Route 1, Vida.—A friend.

FIGHTS DIG AT SOUTH IN NEW FARM PROGRAM

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 14.—The South should do everything possible to kill the so-called Boileau Admendment to the farm bill now before congress, advises R. J. Goode, commissioner of agriculture and industries.

"This admendment would prevent the use of any land diverted from cotton for the production of market of any food or feed crops, or for the expansion of a livestock or dairy industry in Alabama," he points out. "Such a provision would be disastrous to the farmers of the state and would constitute nothing more or less than economic strangulation," he concludes.

SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENTS OF CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

The nursery, beginners, primary, and junior children of Clanton Methodist church will come together in the primary department for their Christmas program next Sunday morning, December 19, at the Sunday school hour. There will be a special program for the children, and there will be two Christmas trees—one tree for these departments of our Sunday school, and one tree for the children of our orphanage. Let each member of these departments attend and bring a toy of some description to put on the tree for the children of our orphanage, who will be made happy by our remembering, and who merit our every consideration.

If a reader of this announcement has coupons from Octagon soap wrappers, Ballard flour coupons, Luzianne coffee coupons, and Luzianne tea coupons, remember we can and should give them to our orphanage. Each Octagon toilet soap and Octagon cleanser coupon counts two.

The box to receive the White Christmas gifts for the orphanage will be in the vestibule of our church December 19th.

Remember our children of our orphanage in every way you possibly can. Let's do all in our power to make their Christmas a merry one.

JOHN W. THORNTON

Mrs. Lucille Middlebrooks, age 31, died suddenly at her residence in Maplesville Wednesday night, December 8th. Funeral services were held from the First Baptist church, Brent, Thursday at 4 p.m. Spigener directed.

Surviving are the husband, Hobson Middlebrooks, and several small children.

HIGHLIGHTS OF E. J. H. S.

More than 100 4-H club students and many of the parents of this school and community are expecting to attend the 4-H picture, "Under the 4-H Flag," Wednesday. We are not only expecting to enjoy this show, but we are expecting to learn something new that will help to make our club work more useful to us.

The Enterprise basketball boys went to Thorsby last Thursday night to play Thorsby and lost by rte close score of 14 to 15. It was a very intere ting game, with the scores tied almost all the way. This was the first game of the league and also the first game the Enterprise boys have lost during their earlier practice games.

We are very sorry to lose three of our very best players on account of the new age rule.

The basketball boys and girls went to Union Grove last Friday to play the teams of that school. The scores for the boys were: Enterprise 18, Union Grove 13; the scores for the girls were: Enterprise 12, Union Grove 0. This was the first game for the Enterprise girls.

The Enterprise boys will play Baker at Enterprise Friday. The girls are also expecting to play. The first game will begin at 1 o'clock. Come out to see both games.

THORSBY JR. HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

The school was fortunate in having Mrs. Ballard from Jemison come down last Monday morning and give a lecture on bird life. Mrs. Ballard opened her discussion by outlining the habits and characteristics of several of our native birds. Then leading on into the economic and aesthetic value of these birds, she presented in a most charming manner our responsibility in providing food for them during the duty in affording them a nesting place duty in acrding them a nesting place to rear their young during the spring months.

We regret losing one of our Jr. II classmates, Elizabeth Burkett, who is moving to Evergreen, Ala.

Our basketball team hung up two more victories last week, when they outponited the Enterprise Juniors on Thursday night by the close count of 15 to 14, and then went to Collins Chapel on Friday afternoon to give that team a 20 to 14 lacing.

The Enterprise game may be classed as strictly a defensive game. Neither team showed much inclination offensively, but confined their playing to close guarding, which resulted in excessive fouling. This led to the defeat of Enterprise, as their center committed a personal foul with only 28 seconds to play and the score knotted 14 to 14. Hayes took the shot and netted the ball for the winning point just as the final whistle blew. Neely was the big gun for Enterprise, looping eight points, while Deason and Hayes shared honors for Thorsby with five points each.

The Collins Chapel game was a rather loosely played affair. Neither team could do much, due to the cold wind and playing on an outdoor court. The boys did not play in uniforms. Hayes was high point man for Thorsby with 13 points, while Mims was turning in six points to lead his Chapel mates.

Coach Ed Glasscock will bring his Concord quintet up tonight, December 16, for a game. This will be the first game between these two teams. The game will start at 7 o'clock. Another game will be played at 8 o'clock on the same floor between the Thorsby Independents and Maplesville High. These two games should prove highly entertaining, so be there for your share of the fun. Admission, 10 cents for everybody.

A new member was added to our Jr. III class last week, Doris Wylie, who comes to us from Mt. Pleasant Jr. High. A cordial welcome is extended to Doris.

The Christmas spirit is coming over us fast. We hope our school work's attraction will hold its own until December 23.

Many thanks to Mr. Herbert Williams for installing our wash basin in a more convenient place.

Ed Nations, one of our Jr. III students, is out of school at present, ill with the flu; we wish for him a swift recovery.

Our enrollment has now reached the all time high for Thorsby Jr. High School; 269 registrations have been made thus far. Of this number 66 are in the Jr. High department. This enrollment is almost 100 above the 1936-1937 term.

The boys basketball team goes to Calera tomorrow for a game with the Calera Jr. High School.

The new water fountains have arrived, but have not yet been installed.

Jane Sherwood Stanley and Joe Villadsen are absent from school due to an attack of chicken pox.

The Jr. II girls will present a little drama entitled "Solemn Pride" at the chapel program next Monday morning. We hope to have a number of parents presents. This play has a historical significance, the theme being centered around the early pioneer life during the early settlements.

CENTER HILL

At this writing Mrs. V. T. Cobb is ill.

The ladies gathered at the home of Mrs. Loyd Cobb last Wednesday afternoon for a community fathering; there were 15 present.

Mr. Vester Burkett, who had spent a week here, left Sunday for Castleberry.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Seay. who have made their home with Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Lessley for the past year, have moved close to Clanton, on one of the Bruce places.

Although the weather was bad Sunday, we had preaching, and Bro. Littleton delivered a fine, spiritual sermon.

Mr. and Mrs. William Price and children spent Sunday with the latter's grandmother, Mrs. W. G. Atkinson.

The F. E. & C. U. of A. county meeting held here Saturday was a very harmonious session. The main speaker for the day was the state president. He was followed by Mr. Howard Roper. Mr. Roper's speech was very much appreciated by all present. He was cheered continuously throughout.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Lenoir spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Comer Lenoir.

Mr. Doyle Miller called by for a few minutes Monday afternoon to see his brother, V. Miller.

Mr. Frank Lessley, who has been working in Detroit, is at home for Christmas. His visit is quite a surprise to all his relatives and friends.

Quite a number of close neighbors were at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Cobb to hear the fight by radio last Monday night.

JUST FROM SHOULTS

Christmas is almost here. We may not be ready for it, but it is sure to come. There are three things that are sure to come—taxpaying, Christmas, and death.

Is it cold where you live? This little snow is lasting well. I often think of the little children who have not enough clothes to keep them warm. Just to think of the large crop of cotton, and yet they can't get enough clothes. BOB JONES

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

"If you have had a kindness shown, pass it on. It was not given for thee alone, pass it on." I passed an old home in the suburbs of Dothan, Ala., yesterday. There is a story connected with that home I shall never forget. My father ran a small farm when I was a young country boy. He raised a great many vegetables. I sold the vegetables in Dothan. "Do you wish to buy some vegetables?" I asked a lady on the porch of that Dothan home many years ago. "I don't live here. I am just visiting Mrs. Blank. She is not here just now," the lady said. Such a sweet, pleasant voice she had! I started away. "Wait a minute. You are such a nice looking boy. I know you will make a man some day. You look like such a good boy," the sweet woman said. Those encouraging words made the day so very happy. Many people would say in a harsh and sometimes unkind voice, "No, I don't want anything." One morning a few years ago while I was at the breakfast table with my family, a boy at the front door asked, "Do you want any vegetables this morning?" I remembered the lady who spoke kind words to me. I went to the door and made the same speech to my little vegetable boy that she made to me many years before. I do not know the name of the lady. I have never seen her since that morning she spoke words that my discouraged heart needed to hear. When I get to heaven I hope to run into her sometime and I believe I shall recognize her. Of course, she will not be in heaven just because she spoke kind words, but I wonder if she would have spoken as she did if she had not been a Christian. "Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh." That is what God's Word says.

IN MEMORY

Many hearts were saddened when the death angel carried away our beloved daddy, F. O. Bates. He had been sick about seven months. Weep not, dear ones, for God is the giver and taker. His will must be done, not ours.

There is a vacant place in his home and in the hearts of his children that can never be filled.

He lived to be 60 years, seven months and 16 days old. He leaves to mourn his death, his wife and three children, Mrs. Elsie Bates; two sons, W. F. Bates of Clanton, and T. T. Bates of Coopers; one daughter, Mrs. Odie Cayton of Clanton; four grandchildren and a great host of relatives and friends.

The body was laid to rest in the Providence cemetery on Sunday, December 5th, at 2 o'clock; Rev. W. W. Robinson and J. L. Smith officiating. Spigener was in charge.—His wife and daughter, Mrs. Elsie Bates and Mrs. Odie cayton.

Get your Christmas Trees from Mahan Cabinet Shop, Clanton, Ala. 12-16-4t-c

"Do you know the world is dying for a little bit of love?" There are many hungry and discouraged hearts. A few kind words will do much to help weary ones carry life's load. You may not have money to buy bread for hungry bodies or clothes for the poor, but you can speak words that will feed hungry hearts, and over all you meet you can throw a robe of kindness. Jesus went about doing good. He entered into the fellowship of human suffering He wept at the grave of a friend. When He saw a crowd He was moved with compassion toward them and He healed their sick. What a voice He must have had! When people went away they said, "Never man spake as this man." He did not "fuss" at sinners. He was so kind to them that even the religious leaders of the day said, "He receiveth sinners and eateth with them". "Let this mind which was in Christ Jesus be also in you," is the divine injunction. There is something definitely wrong with any man's Christian experience who is unsympathetic and unkind, especially to those who move on a lower social plane. Jesus, who had the blood of His mother's nobility in His veins, and was One Who could sall God His Father and say, "My Father and I are one", was kind to the despised publicans and harlots of his day. If we are unkind, we cannot in sincerity call Him Lord and Master.

STATE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

If there had been any doubt in anybody's mind as to the permanancy of the Alabama State Chamber of Commerce and its field of work in the state, this would have been dispelled by the first meeting of the organization held at Montgomery, December 7, which was well attended by directors from every section of the state.

In addressing this meeting, President Benjamin Russell expressed his conviction that the state chamber has a definite place in the state and has work to do which no other organization is prepared to do.

Mr. Russell, well known Alexander City manufacturer, was reelected president of the state chamber and extended a vote of thanks by officers and directors for his services since the inauguration of the chamber in June. Algernon Blair, Montgomery contractor, was reelected vice president. Other officers and directors were reelected by acclamation.

David Roberts, Jr., Birmingham, the president of Brilliant Coal Company, was elected direcor to succeed the late A. B. Aldridge of Birmingham, and Robert Gregg, new president of the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Co., was elected to succeed J. L. Perry, former president, who is leaving the state.

W. A. Steadham, state manager of the Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co., was named chairman of the membership committee for 1938.

N. Floyd McGowin, chairman of the state chamber forestry committee, presented a comprehensive report, which was endorsed. Principal among its recommendations were forest fire protection, fair taxation, and proper harvesting methods for conservation of forest resources.

Karl Landgrebe, chairman of the speakers bureau, reported that more than 40 meetings in 20 counties had been addressed by state chamber speakers, interpreting the program of work of the state chamber to commercial and civic groups in various sections of the state.

G. Arthur Cook, treasurer of the organization, presented a brief report.

Secretary John M. Ward gave a resume of the work of the state chamber to date. While only organized a few months, much has been accomplished. The organization has been completed, permanent headquarters established, district meetings held, state-wide surveys by counties made, industrial directory published, information files set up, survey of market conditions undertaken, monthly bulletin issued, etc.

R. I. VARDEN ASKS HELP

Editor Union-Banner:

Please give me a small space in your paper for a few words about my condition. I am not to say begging. I have made out up to now. What little I had when I got down sick is gone now and I am right up against it. I have been down on the bed two years and three months; haven't been off only when helped off. Haven't been off the bed now in a long time. Has been such cold weather it was all I could do to keep from freezing. I want the people to just think about it. Anybody who has been down in my condition, if they had anything much it wouldn't last three years.

I thank Mr. Wm. J. Headley and Mr. J. Mell Martin for what they have done for me. They have been two particular friends to me. Had it not been for them, I don't know what I would have done. The children have to look out for themselves, but as for me and my wife, we can't get out. And if my friends or folks feel like they want to give me anything such as syrup, flour, canned fruit, just anything I can use, it will be appreciated. So if you feel like you want to give me anything, come and bring it to me and see the condition I am in, and if you don't think I need it you can take it back.—R. I. Varden, R 5, Clanton, Ala.

POPLAR SPRINGS

Sunday school at this place was well attended Sunday, considering the cold weather.

The church building has been torn down and work has begun on the new building. While the building is being constructed, all services will be held in the Thomas Junior school house. We are very grateful to the trustees and superintendent for this arrangement.

Saturday, Sunday and Sunday night are our regular preaching services. Sunday school at 10 o'clock Sunday morning; B. Y. P. U. Sunday night at 6:15. All church members are urged to be present, and visitors are welcome.

The Poplar Springs home demonstration club held its regular meeting on December 3, at the home of Mrs. N. A. Jones. The house was decorated with Christmas decorations and a Christmas program was carried out. Hand made Christmas gifts were exchanged.

JOHN THORNTON DIED

On Thursday night, December 9, the death angel came and took away our loving grandfather, Mr. John Thornton. He lived to be 72 years of age. He was ill for about two weeks, during which time all was done for him that loving hands could do.

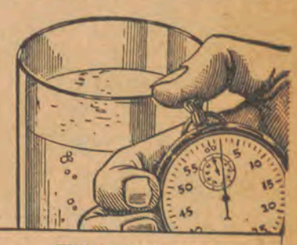
The funeral was held from the Chestnut Creek Baptist Church, Coopers, with Rev. McLeod of Thorsby, and Rev. Hughes of Coopers conducting the ceremonies. Burial was in the church cemetery there, with Spigener in charge.

He leaves to mourn his loss: his wife; 12 children—Mrs. W. R. Nations of Thorsby, Mrs. Robert Patterson of Sand Springs, Okla., Mrs. Willie Strength of Detroit, Mich., Misses Elsie, Flora, and Lena Thornton, Miss Lottie Morris of Verbena, Lucian and Henry Thornton of Birmingham, Jesse Thornton of Clanton, Ed and Benjamin Thornton of Verbena; 17 grandchildren, three brothers, and a host of other relatives and friends.—A granddaughter.

REFUGE

Rev. A. C. McMinn delivered a wonderful message Sunday, which was enjoyed by everyone present.

Next Sunday is our regular preaching day at this place. Rev. M. Lockhart will preach at 11 o'clock Sunday morning and at 6:30 in the evening.



Rev. Paul Oden will show some pictures here Friday night, December 17th. Everybody is cordially invited to attend these services.

There will be a cemetery working here next Thursday (today) in the afternoon. Everyone come and do your share of hte work.

MT. PLEASANT

There will be preaching at this place Sunday afternoon, December 19, at 2:30, by W. E. Robinson. All are urged to attend.

THE REASON HEADACHES ARE RELIEVED SO FAST

THE REASON BAYER ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop a Bayer Aspirin tablet into a tumbler of water.

By the time it hits the bottom of the glass it is disintegrating.

This speed of disintegration enables genuine BAYER Aspirin tablets to start "taking hold" of headache and similar pain a few minutes after taking.

All people who suffer occasionally from headaches ought to know this way to quick relief.

At the first sign of such pain, take two Bayer Aspirin tablets with a half glass of water. Sometimes if the pain is more severe, another dose is necessary later, according to directions.

If headaches keep coming back we advise you to see your own physician. He will look for the cause in order to correct it.

The price now is only 15¢ for twelve tablets or two full dozen for 25 cents — virtually, only a cent apiece.

15c FOR 12 TABLETS

Virtually 1 cent a tablet

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our many thanks to the friends and neighbors who helped us during the illness and death of our loved one, Mr. John Thornton. Especially do we thank Spigener Funeral Home, Drs. John and Robert Eiland, Rev. McLeod and Rev. Hughes, and the Devaughn quartet. We also thank each one for the beautiful floral offerings.—The family.

SOIL CONSERVATION SERVICE

A new tree planting season has begun in the Soil Conservation area near Clanton, Ala., where 200,000 trees will be planted on farms of cooperators during the winter and early spring, according to Mr. James H. Wood, Superintendent.

Tree planting is a phase of the land use program for soil and water conservation on steep and severely eroded land Mr. Wood expained. Retiring such land to trees leaves the more gently sloping land, where erosion progresses less rapidly, for cultivated crops.

Where seed trees of desirable species are present in sufficiept number to insure adequate natural reproduction within three years, natural reforestation is depended upon in the erosion-control area. Otherwise artificial reforestation is used, Mr. Wood said.

Proper management of existing woodland is also an essential part of an erosion-control program, he continued. Protection of woods against damage by fire and grazing, and proper methods of harvesting wood products are just as necessary for effectve erosion control as for obtaining maximum returns and a sustained yield from woodland.

In the Clanton area, both woodland management and reforestation are being demonstrated. These phases of the erosion control program can be seen to advantage at this season, Mr. Wood said. Farmers throughout this entire section are invited to observe these demonstrations of methods which they can use with benefit on their own farms, he added.

Basket Ball

The Chilton County High School basket ball team plays Maplesville High here Friday, December 17. All come and see this game.

C. C. H. S. played Mitchell Dam two practice games, winning one and losing one. To beat Mitchell Dam the Tigers must be an outstanding team. Don't fail to see them in action Friday.

MRS. JULISSA FARLEY UNDERWENT OERATION

A card from Nashville, Tenn., says that Mrs. Julissa Farley recently underwent an operation at the Madison Sanitarium in that city. Mrs. Farley is said to be convalescing most satisfactorily.

IN MEMORY

On Thursday night, December 16, the death angel visited the home of Mr. Hobson Middlebrooks five miles north of Maplesville and carried away his beloved wife. She had been sick only a short time.

She leaves to mourn her going: a husband, seven children—Wanna Mae, Minnie Frances Ernestine, Jinny, Lucille, Joe and George Ronald; a mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Fitts; a sister, Mrs. Murray Millandar, of Birmingham; two brothers, Jack and Cecil Fitts, of Brent, and a great host of other relatives and friends.

Pallbearers were: Lloyd Hicks, Claud Tucker, Dave Poser, Louis Mitchell, Odis Smitherman and Ohlen Gable.

NOTICE!

To all owners of property that sold to the state for taxes prior to January 1, 1935:

House bill 259, approved February 3, 1937, provides that these sales may be redeemed in installment payments and without interest, provided the application to redeem is filed with the Judge of Probate prior to January 1, 1938.

Hon. Henry S. Long, State Land Commissioner, is hopeful that every property owner will avail himself of these generous redemption laws and regain title to his property.

To do so will mean a great saving to you.—J. T. Carlton, Chief Clerk.

"Buying Good Feed Is Cheaper Than Buying Good Cows"

Milk Cows High and Hard to Find at Present Time.

"Feeding a good dairy ration is a lot cheaper than buying good cows," says D. H. Van Pelt, dairy authority with Purina Mills, "especially in a year like this when dairy cows have increased almost 100 per cent in value over 1932 and 1933 prices. Dairy rations, on the other hand, show a price rise of only about 30 to 35 per cent, and hay about 25 per cent."

Summarizing the conditions of 1932 and 1933 Van Pelt says, "Dairy cows brought extremely low prices in those years in comparison to the cost of their development. Prices ranged from forty to sixty dollars. Milk prices were on the same level, ranging as low as ninety cents per hundred and seldom higher than $2.50. Feed prices showed similar trends, with good rations averaging about $35 per ton at retail. Hay averaged about $15 per ton.

Upward Trend in 1933

"The curve started upward in the fall of '33. All commodity prices stiffened slightly, and in general, everything pointed to a return of healthy exchange. Laborers began to find work and in consequence had more money to spend. Food consumption increased, thereby creating a greater demand for milk and milk products.

Cow prices have doubled since 1932-33; dairy feed prices have risen only a third.

This country has been highly inhospitable to reds ever since the Puritans banged away at them with blunderbusses from behind trees. —Pontiac Press.

A SOUTHERN VIEW

The South faces a crisis which is every bit as serious as that which precipitated the nullification movement in South Carolina more than a century ago, and which culminated in the secession movement of 1861. And it is a crisis which is being created by federal legislation, just as the other was created. As a matter of fact, the South has always been under serious economic handicaps placed upon it by federal legislation, and the existence of an immense submerged population, white and black, in the South today is the inevitable result of this. This population has been denied the opportunity to obtain the full fruits of its labor in one of the richest agricultural regions in the world by trade policies maintained by a sectional political party which has dominated the federal government almost constantly during the last 70 years. Now, because of the influence of organized minorities over the federal government, it appears that the political party to which the South has given its allegiance during all those years is going to sponsor the carrying out of those policies to a logical conclusion, resulting in the permanent and complete economic submersion of the South. The irony of it is that, for the most part, the South is without competent political leadership in the face of such a crisis, and that many of its own leaders are in the ranks of those who propose to carry such a program into effect. For cheap political preferment and empty positions of personal power, these leaders are bartering away the South's economic and social future. — The Texas Weekly.

FEARING FEAR

President Roosevelt told us once upon a time that the only thing we have to fear is fear. It is possible that he was a bit optimistic when he made this statement, but at the same time it might be well to ask now what is generating the fear which seems to be rather common over the country at this time. Business has slackened—we hope only for the moment—because of the rising doubt of the efficacy of the idea of the government spending us into prosperity. The national debt is rapidly approaching the 40-billion mark, which even some of the New Dealers admit is a peak that doesn't look so good. Despite assurances that the depression is over, expenditures for relief continue to climb and the balancing of the budget has to be put off from year to year, and now, with the prospective decrease in tax collections, due to stock market deflation, it isn't as near as it was a year ago.

It may be, however, that all we have to fear is fear. This is a big country and a rich country. Yet somebody ought to stop and inquire for a moment just what is causing the fear. The cause may be the very remedies which the New Dealers have adopted to remove fear from the national consciousness.

Five thousand years of civilization, and still the most famous are those who can hit, swat, shinny, kick, or carry a ball.—Buffalo News.

Michigan sheriff lets county prisoners sleep half an hour longer—until 6:30 a.m. Why not? They're not going anywhere.—Boston Transript.

Jimmy Roosevelt has been stationed by the New Deal at Washington as a sort of coordinator. But the administration doesn't need a coordinator now so much as an escalator.

Having spent billions for the "forgotten man", the administration at Washington has now come around to the point of throwing a few bales of hay to the bulls in Wall Street.

Hitler wants African colonies for the German Reich. Maybe he would like to start a Matanuska project of his own.

If those Soviet leaders were really smart they would save some of those firing squads to use on the Japanese.

At any rate it would seem that the proponents of a balanced government and of states' rights are beginning to assert themselves.

"UNDER-PRIVILEGED"

The "under-privileged" is a word that the uplifters, political saints, "liberals", and do-gooders and the like roll under their tongues. We say again that no able bodied man in physical and mental health in the United States is under-privileged. In Belgium, Holland, and England are 16 times as many people to the square mile as are in the United States, and in those countries is less squealing for help from government than in this country. However, the official do-gooders are well paid for their lamentations, and tens of thousands of them are drawing salaries. In the deepest depressions that the Americans have experienced they have known no suffering comparable with the sufferings of the Europeans—and the last American depression was by no means the worst.—Charleston News and Courier.

MAN IN THE MOON

TO BILLY SMITH:

In the last issue of your yellow scandal sheet, Billy, you took it upon yourself, in your own personal column, to point out many of the shortcomings of "certain local writers", proceeding to give them the very devil in general. I might be able to exclude myself from that group in my own mind if I would, but I am so strongly convinced that I am the buck you were after all the way through that I am being presumptious enough to answer that harangue of dirt that appeared under your name.

I repeat, it was a dirty article, one that could not have been composed other than by a mind so warped with prejudice and so chagrined at defeat in the legitimate field that it must hunt the nether regions below decency to allow its brilliance to shine in an environment where sportsmanship is a myth, and self-respect an unknown quantity. I say this publicly now, and am fully prepared and ready to say so privately or publicly at any time or place in the future, holding no fear, whatever, of the consequences. And in branding this nefarious, far too personal harangue as dirty, I must add that dirt emanates from a dirty source. Now, isn't that true?

But Billy, I think too much of myself and my precious allotted bit of space to wallow it in the mud with you. We do not conduct a scandal sheet, and I would not contribute to it if we did. I could easily follow you into the mud and plaster you good, for you have certainly opened the gate wide, and asked for it, but I would only be putting myself down in your own class, and I am quite anxious to avoid that catastrophe if humanly possible.

Your past isn't above reproach, Billy, and holds some things you would prefer to have forgotten. Although you have not allowed me a like consideration, I shall not mention any of them, and so recognize your self-respect, if any, although you have not taken the pains to do as much for yourself. There are many little things I might mention, but such is not in my line. Mine is not a scavenger's lot, nor am I a scandal monger. You can be exceedingly thankful for that, Billy.

You say I can't take it. Remember the night of the second Republican primary in 1936? Why were you one of the first to marvel at the coolness with which I took my defeat, and congratulate me upon my ability to show the spirit of a good loser?

I know what's eating you, Billy. My exposure of your methods to secure the publication of the last treasurer's report got under your hide. You're a bad loser, Billy, but you couldn't deny one word of the whole thing, neither could you afford to fail to take public notice of it. So, being forced to say something, and having no clean rebuttal, you had to resort to dirt. There was no call to become dirty. You didn't have to do that. Or did you? Maybe that's what is the matter—maybe it just popped out spontaneously!

In that case you have my pity, but no ill feeling. I pity anyone who can't take a beating and stay clean. When you decide to come out on clean ground and scrap like a man, rather than like a rat or a hog, let me know, and I'll be with you. But so long as you stay ing the gutter, you'll have to stay there with your own kind, and without me. The gutter is not my field of operations. I prefer to do my writing and my scrapping cleanly, on an open and above-board basis. I have never been forced to hit below the belt up to the present, and you are not an object worthy of forcing me to do it now. So, I hereby leave the mud puddles and the scavenger pits to you, Billy, if you find it easier to find your way around in such.

Clean up your comments and your weekly rag, Billy, and I will be the first to congratulate you. When you have done so, I promise you my unqualified support and aid in any worthy undertaking, and the hottest scrap you ever heard of on any question on which I disagree with you. How about it? Can you take the challenge?

50 TO 1

No better example could be had of the bad financial results from the interference of the government in private business and its entering into competition with this private business than the tax return figures for 1937 for Alabama Power Company and the TVA.

According to tax figures released recently, on capital investments of practically the same amount in Alabama, the Alabama Power Company will pay approximately 50 times as much as TVA, 49½ times as much, to be exact.

When the power company's more than $2,000,000 in Alabama taxes are considered, the TVA's comparatively paltry few thousands look very small indeed. In short, Alabama Power Company is worth 49½ times as much to the tax coffers of the State of Alabama as a whole as is TVA, saying nothing about the service rendered nor the charges made.

To be sure, TVA's rates are lower, but only a comparatively few people profit thereby, although you and I and everyone else help to pay for the operation of TVA, and our taxes operate it wholly, as well as go to make up the deficits that TVA shows for each year's operations. And there are deficits—big ones—for the government does not claim that TVA makes expenses, but openly admits that the plants are run at a loss, and that tax money is used to fill in the gaps. On the other hand, only users of Alabama Power Company's current pay for its operations.

Look at it this way—the right way. In the Alabama Power Company system, only those people who use its product and enjoy its conveniences pay for its operation. These people are the ones benefitted, and they bear the load—nothing but right. And I might add here, by way of parenthesis, that Alabama Power Company's rates are not at all prohibitive. On the other hand, TVA does not serve nearly so many customers, yet its operating expenses are approximately the same. But the users of TVA's current do not pay those expenses — only a negligible part of them. This being true, the amount left to be paid is taken from tax money, nearly all of which comes from the pockets of people who never even saw a TVA line, let alone had service from one.

In short, Alabama Power Company gets its money from its customers, and all others pay them nothing. TVA gets a meager fraction of its income from its customers, and everyone else helps to pay for the benefits to these few, although they get no benefit from it. In this light, TVA taxes all to benefit a few, while Alabama Power Company draws only from those who benefit by its service. And the 49½ to 1 taxes paid in to the state makes SOME difference, too, or should. Which is best for the whole people?

A FAILURE

Even the treasury admits there is no merit in making public the income tax lists except to satisfy the curiosity of Paul Prys. Expected aid to collection of additional revenue has not been given, and, instead, the lists have been sold by copyists to promoters and salesmen for use as a possible "Who's Who among the prospects". Thus the treasury has been put unwittingly into the position of giving aid and comfort to groups whose activities are inimical to the public interest. Two years of experience with making the lists public has given not only the committee and the treasury their fill, but a good section of the country as well.—Baltimore Sun.

Lights Confuse Ducks

One night in November two high school teams were playing a football game at Hamilton. A flock of wild ducks happened to pass over at that time and became confused by the bright lights. One of the ducks flew into a lamp post and fell to the ground stunned. A young lady picked the duck up, wrapped her scarf around it, and carried it home. The next day the young lady took the fowl to a nearby mill pond and turned it loose. The duck remained there alone, apparently contented with its new environment.

Season's Accident Toll

Three dead and 11 wounded is Alabama's hunting accident toll to date. All but two of the 14 accidents involved guns. One of the fatalities occurred when a boat capsied with duck hunters on Lake Wheeler and one man died from exposure. Another accident occurred when a fox hunter was thrown from his horse and suffered a broken arm. Carelessness with firearms was responsible for the others. Two south Alabamians were peppered with shotgun pellets by a relative who mistook them for wild turkeys. Another young man, perched in a tree, was shot by another hunter, who thought he was a coon. Two men lost their arms—one his entire arm at the shoulder, and the other man lost his below the elbow. Of the 14 victims, 10 were under 30 years of age, and six were under 20 years old. The three fatal accidents claimed the lives of youths aged 17, 24 and 25 respectively.

Progress of Conservation

A composite picture of the progress of wildlife conservation and restoration in Alabama will be presented in the annual report of the Department of Conservation of game, fish and seafoods. This report, now in the process of compilation, will be available to the public within a few weeks. The work of each division in the department will be discussed in detail, and there will be a great deal of information of value to the sportsmen conservationists of Alabama.

The United States Department of Commerce released on November 29, 1937, the result of a survey on retail sales of independent stores in Alabama, Georgia, and South Carolina, for the month of October, 1937, as compared with the month of October, 1936. The retail sales of these independent stores in Alabama show an increase of three per cent over the same period last year. In South Carolina no change is shown. In Georgia a decrease of one per cent is shown. Alabama has had a sales tax since March, 1937, but had none in October, 1936. Georgia and South Carolina have no sales tax.

State Capitol News

Simultaneous with a move launched by a group of Southern senators for the United States to buy cotton as a means of improving prices, State Commissioner of Agriculture, R. J. Goode, called for support of the pending Bankhead bill for greater restrictions on importations of jute. With passage of the jute bill, sponsored by U. S. Sen. John H. Bankhead, of Alabama, Mr. Goode estimated more than one million bales of the current record crop of 18,746,000 would be manufactured into bags and bagging.

The federal cotton buying plan, proposed by Sen. E. D. Smith of South Carolina would permit the government to enter the open market for purchases of up to six million bales a year, the purchases to be made at intervals, and in the event the price fell below 12 cents.

Gov. Bibb Graves has ordered a further tightening of state highway traffic regulations, following the November reports from the state highway patrol of 87 fatalities, an increase of 17 over the previous month. The report listed 432 injured in varying degrees, and property damage of $26,937, making a sharp decline.

The report, from Patrol Chief Walter K. McAdory, said a marked decline had been shown in the number of arrests for driving while intoxicaed. Arrest of persons illegally driving automobiles or trucks soared from 49 to 475 as the patrol campaigned to bring every driver under the state license laws.

The report revealed the highway patrol participating in general law enforcement activity in the state with the arrest of two murder and two robbery suspects, among other activities.

Gov. Bibb Graves is off again for several days in Washington, where he announced he would press for the state's mid-winter relief appropriation which he described as urgently needed. Details were not given. The executive is not expected to return to the capitol for several days.

Capitol political observors are now commenting on the possibility of prohibition playing a leading role in the forthcoming gubernatorial election. Little interest has been aroused in the senatorial race, and it is predicted that immediately following the January 4 primary, state and county races will take the spotlight.

Prohibition activities consisted in the formation of campaign plans to elect a dry governor and legislature, charging that the money now spent in state stores for liquor is a diversion of money from "legitimate business".

The supreme court last week fixed Friday, January 28, for the execution of six men convicted in lower courts of crimes of murder and rape. The accused men may now take their cases before the pardon board and appeal to the governor for clemency. The prisoners and the counties in which they were convicted follow: Lonnie Bennefield of Jefferson, William Warren of Russell, Curtis Cobb of Jefferson, Frank Millhouse and R. P. Vaughn of Mobile, and Paul Bigby of Houston.

FACTS FROM THE RECORD

Written By F. G. STEPHENS Publisher of The Southern Democrat, Oneonta

FACTS FROM THE RECORD ALABAMA'S U. S. SENATORS

Until 1913 U. S. Senators were elected by the state legislatures, and the people had no voice in their selection.

On May 16, 1912, congress proposed an amendment to the federal constitution which would give the people an opportunity to elect their senators by direct vote.

This amendment was declared ratified by more than the necessary three-fourths of the state legislature on May 31, 1913.

The first senator to be elected from Alabama by direct vote of the people was Frank S. White, who was nominated in a primary on April 16, 1914, and elected May 11, 1914, to succeed Sen. Joseph F. Johnston, who had just died. White served out the term, which expired on March 3, 1915. He was succeeded by Sen. O. W. Underwood, who had defeated Richmond Pearson Hobson in the Democratic primary.

STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE

Livingston, Dec. 13. — Charlie P. Haggard, of Maplesville, has registered as a student in Livingston State Teachers College for the winter quarter, according to G. N. Sisk, registrar.

The college began its second quarter of the 1937-1938 school session on Monday, December 6. Registration was completed Monday, and classes began Tuesday. There will be two weeks of the quarter before Christmas, and the college will dismiss for Christmas holidays Friday, December 17. Classes will be renewed Monday, January 3, after a two weeks vacation.

Kudzu and serecia lespedeza are becoming popular in Alabama. Many farmers are at present making plans to grow these crops in 1938.

Sentinels of Health

Don't Neglect Them!

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

Butlers To Leave Thorsby

Rev. E. W. Butler, treasurer of Thorsby Institute since 1913, has resigned that office, his resignation to take effect on December 31.

Mr. and Mrs. Butler are expecting to leave Thorsby in January to become residents of Granger Homestead, Canandaigua, N. Y., a home for aged ministers and their wives. They spent two weeks in October in the home and were delighted with it.

They will be missed in Thorsby. They have lived here more than 30 years. Mr. Butler came into Alabama in 1907 to take charge of the general work of the Congregational churches of this and adjacent states. He chose Thorsby as their place of residence chiefly because of the location here of Thorsby Institute, at that time the only high school on the line of the L. & N. railroad between Birmingham and Montgomery.

After a few years he resigned that work and since then has devoted himself chiefly to the work of the Institute. Both Mr. and Mrs. Butler have been active in the work of their church. He served for one year as its pastor and for some years past has been deacon and Sunday school superintendent. In between he has held most of the other offices of the church. Mrs. Butler has not been quite so conspicuous in her relation to the church, but none the less useful, for her work through the years has been in the primary department of the Sunday school of which department she is now superintendent. She also has been active and has generally held some office in the Ladies Guild and in the Ladies Aid Society of her church.

Mr. Butler's activities have not been limited to church and school. He was town clerk and treasurer for many years and served one or two terms in the town council. He was also president of the Bank of Thorsby for a few years.

Thorsby will miss them. But we wish for them much joy in the new home to which they are soon to go.

A special program Friday night of Chirstmas Carols will be presented by Mr. Carl Turnquist, beginning at 7:15, followed by a Christmas Pageant, "The message of the Manger." The pageant is directed by Miss Kathryn Foss. Everyone is cordially invited. Admission will be 10c.

School will close on December 23, at one o'clock for the Christmas holidays and will reopen January 5th, at 8:30.

Christian Endeavor News

The Christian Endeavor Society met December 12, 1937, in the fellowship room of the Congregational church. Lillian Smith was the leader. The topic was "Why Is The Bible Worth Knowing?" A duet was sung by Mr. Charles and Mr. George Luther.

A Christmas worship service is being planned by joint committees of the B. Y. P. U., and Christian Endeavor for Sunday evening, December 19, at 7:30, at the Congregational church. The program is entitled "Our Gifts to Thee We Bring." There will be a Christmas tree and a dedication of gifts to be distributed before Christmas to needy people of the community. Carols will be sung.

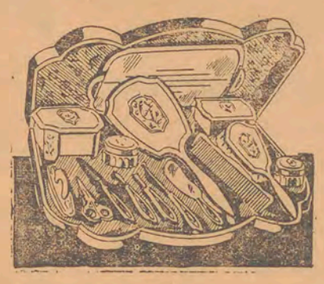
A Christian Endeavor social was held Saturday night, December 11, in the fellewship room of the oCngregational church. Gratitude is given to the social committee of which Oleita Nowell is chairman for its work in making it a successful one.

HEALTH OFFICER REPORTS PROGRESS OF SCHOOL HEALTH PROGRAM

Several thousand elementary grade children of the Chilton County schools had been inspected today by members of the county health department, according to a report made by Dr. S. D. Sturkie, County Health Officer.

"These inspections are being made" stated the health officer, "for the purpose of discovering children with any contagious skin conditions such as scabies, pediculosis and impetigo. Such cases are excluded from school until cured. Parents are showing excellent co-operation with local school and health authorities in keeping infected children out of the classroom," he added.

"Upon the completion of the tour of inspections, the local health unit will enter into its regular annual program of conducting health examinations, reports of the physical defects found in each child being made directly to parents", it was stated by Dr. Sturkie. "The main object of this program," said the local health official, "is to stimulate parents to carry children to physicians and dentists for correction of these defects. Such conditions as enlarged or diseased toneils, decayed teeth, underweight, poor vision and hearing not only retard the progress of the child, but render him more susceptable to such diseases as tuberculosis, rheumatism, Etc."



The co-operation of parents with the health department in this matter was strongly urged by the health officer.

How Are You Rated?

The Chilton - Shelby Counties Credit Guide Is Delivered

The information that has been so carefully compiled is now on the desks of a very large majority of the representative business and professional men of the above counties. They are well pleased, and expect to be able to use the information to a very good purpose!

The Credit Guide is published by a national organization that is authorized under state and federal laws; it operates under the strict supervision exercised over all corporations.

Many of the people of Chilton and Shelby Counties have no right to be proud of the rating they received.

The information that the guide contains will be available not only to those business and professional men of Chilton and Shelby Counties, but to all credit agencies and loan organizations, both state and national, private and governmental, that may require such information.

A new Guide will be made right after the first of the year. Much new information will be in it .... many who have not paid this fall will be listed, and those who pay within the next few weeks will receive credit in the new Guide and improve their rating from its present status.

STANTON 4-H CLUB

Our last club meeting met at Stanton Junior high school, November 4, 1937. We elected new officers for the coming year as follows: president, Charles Golson; vice-president, William Ruddick; secretary-treasurer, C. A. Cook; song and yell leader, Eugene Rush; assisant leader, Mr. Woodfin Littlejohn; local leader, Mr. Shelton Cook; program committee, chairman C. E. Cagle, Davis and Tipton Burnette; social committee, chairman Howard Harrison, Thomas Wright and Edwin Golson.

ENTERPRISE 4-H CLUB

The Enterprise 4-H Club met last Friday with five new members added to the club. We enjoyed a nice Christmas program given by the girls club.

Mr. Ivey showed us two mysterious games which no one has figured out yet. We are expecting to have one on him next month, as he will tell us how to solve his mysteries. After the program in the girs cub room we went back to our room and played severa more games which we all enjoyed.

We are glad to have our new members, and we are going to make them get the 4-H spirit too.

After the program we adjourned until the new year, by wishing every club member and Mr. Ivey a "Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year."

A Three Days' Cough Is Your Danger Signal

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

Letter From State Head Of F. E. & C. U. of A.

A letter from the State president of the Farmers' Educational Co-operative Union of America, Alabama Division:

I want to say a few words in your paper in reply to the piece that the "Man in the Moon" carried in last week's issue.

I happened to be in your county doing work for my organization and read the piece at the home of one of your subscribers.

I wish it were possible for me to shake his hand instead of writing—congratulations to this "Man in the Moon," for he and I see the conditions existing just alike. Concerning the farm program for 1938; all you can hear from Secretary Wallace is over production. The only thing I can see we have an over production of is politicians at Auburn, Montgomery and Washington. How can we have an over production of food and cotton when thousands of men, women and children are going ill fed, poorly clothed and poorly housed with all the surplus they claim we have.

The Farmer's Union stands for equity and justice, and against destroying the blessings we receive from God, as has been done heretofore by that political gang. Back in the olden days when there was more made than it took for that year, they gave thanks and took care of it for times ahead when possibly there was not enough made, but now all you can hear is over production, and cut it.

It seems this political gang don't know just what they do want, asking us American people to cut our acreage and destroy our cotton, then using our country as a dumping place for the over production in the foreign countries. The thing that is putting an over production in America today are these imports from labor used and paid from 10 to 25 cents a day.

We, as a Farmer's Union, stand for a living wage and guaranteeing the farmer cost of production on all products and livestock raised on his farm.

To me, today, it seems that fascism is being practiced in the so-called free America. We are supposed to be living in a free country, but can we be doing so when we allow a bunch like we have in Auburn, Montgomery and Washington dictating to us what to plant, when, how much, and where, then rob us of the profit that is justly ours.

If the farmers were getting their just right, there wouldn't be any over production; we wouldn't need any relief, and the mills and factories would be running every day to supply the needs of the people. There is not a working family in Alabama today that couldn't use a 500 pound weight bale of cotton, if it were manufactured into clothing and bedding.

I will not try to tell at this time the whole story, but I want to impress on your mind that the only way out from under this condition is to organize. By doing so, we can build a political field that will empower the poor people to put men in office that will serve us instead of serving the political ring.

I just want to say a few words on the sale tax; do you know where your sale tax is going? It is not helping the school nor the old-age pension, it is being used to help the politicians to build a political machine, whereby they can name their next governor. We are paying the politicians to cut our own throat and take bread out of our own children's mouths and clothes off their backs by paying these taxes.

Do you know the County Agents in Alabama donated $125.00 from each county to lobby the sale tax through legislature? Do you farmers like that? Do you favor the sales tax? Do you know who supported this tax? Surely you can read between the lines and know who helped to pass that burden from your county upon you; even the poor widow women can't get a cup of coffee without paying a tax on it. It is a dirty shame and disgrace upon the people of Alabama to allow such laws to be passed.

In conclusion I want to also congratulate Mr. J. N. Scott on his subject he used in heading article—"Time to Vote out the Drones."

I say myself it is time to do away with that bunch of drones that are sucking the blood from the poor class of people. How is this going to be done? By organizing, and use some common union sense when we go to the polls. Don't let no candidate deceive you by patting you on the back or by climbing a barb-wire fence to shake hands with you—telling you all these wonderful things he is going to do. We have been fed up on just such promises. Select men from your own craft and walk of life—put them in office. Until we take men from between the plow handles and industrial labor and put them in office to serve our people instead of such as we have been having, we will continue to be robbed of our earnings. So you can see the Farmers' Union don't stand for such conditions as are being put on the people. How are we we going to help ourselves? By organizing and cooperating together, making Chilton County the people's county, and not a few politicians' county.

I hope to meet each and every farmer in this county before the year is out. I want to shake your hand and talk face to face with you about your problems. Are you satisfied with your condition? If not, come in out of the rain and join the Farmers' Union.

The Farmers' Union will have a part in the legislative hall next year. Do you want to help us fight for your rights? If so, organize in the Farmers' Union.—Vester Burkett, Alabama State President F. E. and C. U. Of A., Townsley, Ala., Route 1.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank each and every one in this community and other communities that has helped us while I have been unable to do anything. We also thank each one for the contributions that has been given to us.

May God bless each and every one of you.—Mr. and Mrs. Tom Foshee.

Alabama is one of the nine states that provides punishment for lynching. The others are Georgia, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and West Virginia. The punishment prescribed in these states runs from one year imprisonment to the death penalty. There are two other states, Illinois and New Jersey, that provide sentences of from 30 days to five years for mob violence. Five others, Connecticut, Minnesota, Nebraska, Ohio, South Carolina, provide for fines for personal injury done by a mob, and still 10 others, California, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, Missouri, Montana, New Hampshire, New York, Rhode Island, Wisconsin, provide fines for damage done to property, but have no laws against lynching and no punishment is provided for injury done to a person by a mob. The other states have no laws dealing wiht lynching or mob violence.

Heflin And Hill Odds

LaFayette, Ala., Dec. 13. — The alignment of Congressman Lister Hill with the forces supporting the Anti-Lynching and Wage-Hour bills, both of which are scheduled for action at the present special session of congress, has had material effect on the trend of betting in Alabama. A report received here this week from Montgomery, where the state's most astute political wiseacres reside, was to the effect that bets on Lister Hill to defeat ex-Senator J. Thomas Heflin in the January primary had dwindled from off of 3 to 1 to even money, and that very little Hill money at no odds could be had. The little that bobs up here and there is quickly covered, even by sportsmen who are legal residents of Hill's home town. One small bet was made in Montgomery Saturday of last week, it is said, the wager being that Hill would not carry Montgomery County. No odds were given.

The most radical change in the betting came last week, when an Associated Press dispatch from Washington stated that Luther Patrick, representative from Jefferson County, and Lister Hill were the only Alabama representatives among the 218 who signed the petition to force a House vote on the Wage-Hour bill. Only 15 Southern representatives signed the petition, five of whom are from the State of Kentucky. Not a congressman from Arkansas, Louisiana or Mississippi signed the document, and only one Geirgian affixed his signature. Hill and Patrick were among the first to sign.

Hill's declaration that he will vote for the Anti-Lynching bill, which Senator Dixie Bibb Graves so ably and forcefully denounced in her maiden speech, is another factor that enters into the betting. Alabama sentiment is strongly against bothe Wage-Hour and Anti-Lynching measures, and Sen. Heflin is the only senatorial candidate to declare his opposition to them.

PLEASANT HILL

Our Sunday school is very good at present, but we still have several absent. We urge each one to come and do their best to hold the church together. We all know the church is just what we make it.

Everybody that is interested in the church be sure and come the next second Sunday in January for the purpose of electing a pastor. Each one come praying, and try their best to keep down confusion.

Sunday is our regular preaching Sunday.

We were glad to have Prof. A. O. Boswell and his little daughter with us Sunday evening to help us out in our singing. The weather was so bad we didn't have many visitors. Everybody remember every second Sunday is our regular singing evening.

AMERICAN ROAD BUILDERS' ASSOCIATION

Washington, D. C., Dec. 10.—An all-expense trip to the 1938 Road Show and Convention of the American Road Builders' Association in Cleveland, O., January 17 to 21, will be awarded to the state highway department employe who writes the best article on a selected phase of the highway industry and profession.

Entries will be received by the State Highway Contest Committee, 952 National Press Building, Washington, D. C., and must be mailed by December 22, 1937. Contest results will be made public not later than January 7, 1938, and arrangements will be made at that time for the presentation of the prizes.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE

Montgomery, Dec. 13. — Dr. Douglas L. Cannon, Director of County Organization of the State Department of Health, has sent letters to Dr. S. D. Sturkie, health officer of Chilton County, and to the health officers of the other 65 Alabama counties having local health departments, urging them to cooperate fully with local anti-tuberculosis groups in promoting the annual Tuberculisis Christmas Seal Sale, which began on Thanksgiving Day and will continue until Christmas under the general sponsorship of the National and State Tuberculosis Associations.

"Tuberculosis is still the leading cause of death among men and women during the years of greatest activity and usefulness to themselves and to their communities," he wrote. "This disease was responsible for 1,847 deaths in this state last year, approximately one death out of every 16 having been due to it. It is estimated that there are about 10,000 active cases in the state a tthe present time, and more than 3,000 presumably new cases were reported in 1936. As the vast majority of cases involve prolonged periods of invalidism and inability to work, it can readily be seen that, aside from the loss of human life, which is beyond computation in terms of dollars and cents, tuberculosis imposes a staggering economic burden upon the people of Alabama, both the well and the sick. The State Department of Health heartily endorses the work of the tuberculosis associations, and urges all who can do so to invest generously in the Christmas seals which are sold to finance their work."

you're safe on CONCRETE

AT night you appreciate concrete all the more because its light gray surface helps you see down the road. Light is spread without "glossy" reflection. Pavement edges are clearly defined.

Concrete meets the ideal for a pavement as defined by the International Illumination Congress of 1928. This is important to you because surveys show that the rate of death per accident is 43 per cent higher during darkness.

Concrete, smooth but nonskid, insures a quick, certain stop even in the rain. Blowouts, spring breakage, steering gear failures, accidents of all kinds are less apt to happen on concrete.

Yet concrete is not only safe—it is more comfortable—it saves in driving costs—it costs less for upkeep—and cost of construction is less than that of any other pavement of equal load-carrying capacity.

WHEREIN WE AGREE (Continued from Front Page)

forfeited the respect and esteem of other sections. Herein lies the key to the situation of which the Advertiser complains.

When the Republicans are in power, the South gets little and expects little. The South has told the Republican party that it will not support the party's candidate no matter how able he may be, how sound his politics, how superior in all respects he may be to his opponent. The South is against him simply and solely because he is a Republican, because of ancient tradition and inherited hatred. When the Republican wins, he could hardly be expected to have any appreciation for a section that not only refused to vote for him, but refused him the courtesy of a hearing, damned him in advance for something his ancestors did.

When the Democrats win, we might expect the South to come into its own. But here, again, we run afoul of human nature. The Democratic party knows that the South is bound to its chariot wheels, and will "stay put" no matter what sort of treatment is meted out to it. So the big-wigs of Democracy hand out most of the favors to the doubtful states of the North and West, and the South gets the crumbs. Even when a Southern man is appointed to high office, the chances are that he is from one of the border states that have been flirting with the Republicans and need to be held in line. President Roosevelt's secretary of state, Cordell Hull, is from Tennessee, but Tennessee went Republican in 1920 and again in 1928.

If the Advertiser and the voters of Alabama want relief from being treated as a colonial possession, from being exploited and humiliated, we suggest the sure remedy. Try going Republican every now and then, and see if the boys up North will not look at you through different eyes. Remember when you were in the "puppy love" stage, wild about just one girl, and she knew it, and the wilder you got the worse she treated you? Then, remember how sweetly she smiled when she saw you stepping out with that other gal one evening? Political parties are something like women. And it is human nature to despise, or at least esteem lightly, anything that is gained and held without effort, whether it be the affections of a high school Romeo or the equally blind infaturation of a section carrying six score electoral votes, and boundless power if it only knew how to use it.

PROMINENT AGED CITIZEN IS BURIED

Rev. R. M. Honeycutt, Former Probate Judge, Minister, Passed Away At 92

Riley Monroe Honeycutt, who would have been 93 years old next February, died at T. C. I. hospital, Fairfield, last Saturday night at 11 o'clock, after suffering a few days with pneumonia. A week prior to his death, the aged man had gone from his home at Jemison to Fairfield to visit his son, Henry Honeycutt.

The body was brought to Clanton by Martin Sunday morning and prepared. Funeral services were held Monday at 1:30 p. m. at Pleasant Grove near Jemison, conducted by Rev. ... N. Green, assisted by Rev. J. ... Thomas of Elmore county, Rev. W. S. Cox of Clanton, and Rev. Houldrich. Burial was in the adjoining cemetery, Martin & Sons directing.

Surviving are one son, H. I. Honeycutt of Birmingham; three grandchildren—V. C. Honeycutt of California, H. E. of Birmingham, and Mrs. Eloise Holley of Birmingham. There are four great grandchildren.

During his active life, which lasted a span of nearly three fourths of a century, R. M. Honeycutt enjoyed the distinction of being an outstanding citizen in his county. He was a Baptist minister, serving as pastor of a number of the leading churches of the county.

The year 1888 brought about his first venture into politics, when he was elected tax collector of Chilton county. He served this post for four years, and was elected Probate Judge in 1892. He served that office one term—until 1898.

R. M. Honeycutt was one of the most beloved and highest respected citizens the county has ever produced. Although positive in his statements and actions, a kinder hearted man and more devoted neighbor never lived. We all bow in sorrow at his going, yet we point with pride to a life that Almighty God saw fit to make lengthy and that the man was able to make useful, uplifting and generally beneficial to mankind. He was a good man, honest, fearless, kind-hearted and truthful.

NOTICE TO ALL W. M. S. OF CHILTON COUNTY

Notice to all W. M. S. of Chilton County of change in Executive Board meeting. It will be held on Thursday, January 6, 1938, at 10 o'clock. We expect all presidents and all associational officers, both old and new ones for 1938 to be present. Anyone else who cares to may attend. Expect to have a leader's institute for all associational officers; besides we make plans for the new year. Be sure to come.—Mrs. Lee J. Grant, Supt. 12-23-2t.

CLANTON GOSPEL TABERNACLE

On Friday night, December 24, a Christmas program will be given at the Clanton Gospel Tabernacle, with pageant, recitatiins, drills, etc.; also there will be a Christmas tree. Everyone is invited. Don't forget the date—Christmas Eve, at 7 o'clock.

ROCKETT HAS INVENTED PERPETUAL MOTION, MAYBE

Dewey Rockett's window at Clanton Building Supply Co., is attracting considerable attention of holiday shoppers in the city these days. Besides being most attractively arranged, this window has one little feature that is the center of attraction. It is a boy riding a tricycle, and the front wheel is continuously turning. The question is: What makes it turn, since it looks just like the pasteboard boy is propelling it?

If you haven't seen the window, then by all means visit it. And there are numerous other attractive displays in the shop windows of the city too, which you will like to see. Especial mention should be made of the Yellow Front, Elmore's, J. R. Mullins, Levine's, Etc.

Enterprise Will Process Shelby County's Limestone

The Alabama State Chamber of Commerce points to the new plant of the Alabama Carbon Dioxide Ice, Incorporated, now nearing completion in Shelby County, as the type of diversified industry greately needed in the State.

When this company begins production about January 1, next, the new $150,000 plant at Alabaster will mark the entrance of Alabama industry into a field completely new in the State, Secretary John M. Ward, of the Chamber of Commerce, said last week.

"This industry, one of the first large, modern plants in the South for the manufacture of solid (dry ice) and liquid carbon dioxide is another example of the type of industrial development to meet existing needs in Alabama and is financed entirely with local capital," Mr. Ward said.

Among large users of solid carbon dioxide are ice cream and dairy products industries. Soft drink establishments and bottling plants consume quantities of the liquid in the corbonation of their drinks, it was pointed out. The liquid product is also employed effectively in the mining of coal.

DUG GRAVE FOR LIVE NEGRO MAN

They say there is nothing new under the sun. Well, maybe not; but it at least unsual for a person to have his grave dug and all fixed up before he even gets sick, and especially is it seldom for a colored person to do such a thing. But Ed Edwards reports such a case. Mr. Edwards has fixed up the grave for Marion Beckett at Lomax. The negro man is about 50 years of age and in good health. He is a cook for a bridge crew on the railroad.

Mr. Edwards reports that he has fixed up the grave for four white men before they died; two of the men have died, however, since the graves were fixed. One of the men hauled the sand and did other work toward helping fix it up just to suit him.

CLAUDE REYNOLDS KILLED SATURDAY

Life Crushed Out When County Tractor Backed Under Heavy Timbers

Lewis Claud Reynolds, age 47, was killed instantly last Saturday morning about 10 o'clock, when the tractor which he was driving failed to respond to the brakes and backed down a slant, wedging his body between the tractor and some heavy timbers overhead. It required considerable effort to get the tractor out and release the crushed body. The tragic and fatal accident happened at the county gravel pit near the home of Rudolph Moates 2 miles northeast of Clanton.

Funeral services were held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the First Methodist church, Dr. J. M. Truett officiating, assisted by Rev. S. J. Ezell. Martin & Sons directed. Pallbearers were: T. J. Arledge, Grover Walker, Frank Callen, J. Lee Smith, J. M. Parrish, C. Fenn Jones, M. D. Foshee and M. L. Rodgers. Burial was in Clanton cemetery.

Surviving are the wife and four sons: Sidney, Ted, Marvin and Harry. Father and mother, Judge and Mrs. L. H. Reynolds; two brothers—Grady and Omar Reynolds; two sisters—Mrs. Willie Newell and Mrs. Winnie Bridges.

IN MAYOR'S COURT

Following are the cases tried in the city court by the mayor of Clanton for the past two weeks. There were seven cases, all for public drunkenness. The fines and costs assessed were:

Ollis Watley, $8.25.
Charles Benson, $8.50.
Dalton Parsons, $8.25.
Buddie Dutton, $12.25.
Luverne Noah, $8.25.
Terst Killingsworth, $8.00.
Amos Thrash, $8.25.

WE HATE FOR THE BUTLERS TO LEAVE CHILTON COUNTY

Rev. and Mrs. E. W. Butler, of Thorsby, are making final preparations to move away to New York State some time in January. The Union-Banner regrets for these good people to leave our county, as during the twenty-four years they have been at Thorsby they have endeared themselves to all with whom they have been in contact through their daily activities and otherwise. The editor of The Union-Banner has known Mr. Butler intimately for a number of years, and early in our acquaintance we learned to regard him with the highest respect and admiration, and as that acquaintance has ripened, our estimation of his ideals and character has continued to deepen.

While we realize that Mr. Butler deserves a good long rest, yet we can only with much reluctance submit to their leaving from our midst. However, our fondest wishes go with them to their new place of abode.

GETS G. O. P. POST

Oliver D. Street, of Guntersville, leading Alabama Republican, was appointed a member of the national committee selected at a meeting in St. Louis last week to draw up a new program for the G. O. P.. The Republican Executive Committee appointed 150 leading party members from all parts of the country to the program committee.

A THOUGHT FOR CHRISTMAS

[AN EDITORIAL]

This Christmas of 1937 finds a world sorely in need of the true spirit of Him whose day we celebrate. It is indeed difficult for the observor of world affairs to avoid a strain of pessimism as he views the great gulf that separates the spirit of Christmas from the spirit of murder, banditry and cynicism abroad on earth today. He sees the great nations of the Old World, apparently untaught by the experience of 20 years ago, armed to the teeth, indulging in provocative acts and gestures. He reads of one ancient country of Europe rent asunder by civil war, waged with a ferocity that carries us back to the dark ages. Another great European nation has just finished the conquest of an African country whose only crime was in being weak enough to invite spoilation. We may well pause and ponder just what practical moral difference exists between Christian Italy and heathen Japan. We may readily realize how hollow our claims to a higher standard of ethics and civilization seem to those heathen people who have been robbed, or taught to rob, by so-called Christian nations.

None the less, it is still possible for us here in America to find much to be grateful for, even possible for us to cling to the hope that we may some day achieve the true spirit of Christmas in our hearts. True, our internal affairs have become bad enough, with class arrayed against class in the struggle for money and power. It is by comparison with the rest of the world that our lot appears easy. Our difficulties and differences, however so great, are still settled by the peaceful process of the ballot, not by bloodshed and butchery. When we compare the lot of the average American with that of the average Spaniard or Chinese, even the average Englishman or German, sitting uneasily on the edge of a volcano, we realize our good fortune. Our relations with foreign countries are governed by a spirit of good will and the helping hand, instead of by the lust for conquest and pillage. However great our shortcomings, we at least may fairly claim to have made more progress toward our goal than the unhappy citizens of less fortunate nations.

Christmas, for our young children, is, as it should be, a day of gladness and of receiving. For us older ones, it should be a day to know the joy of giving and of bringing happiness to others. The pity of it is that we cannot keep its spirit of good will, good nature and kindliness all the year.

To all of our neighbors we wish a happy Christmas—that you may find on this day some of the real happiness that is to be found only in forgetting self, and in charity to all mankind. And with our neighbors we join in hoping for the coming of that better day when the Spirit of Christmas will pervade the land and the whole earth for the entire twelve months, not for just one day in the year. When the doctrine of "peace on earth, good will to men" will be a living reality, supplanting the all too common greed and lust evident among mankind today. In other words, when we all come to practice what we profess to believe, and lead the lives that we claim to have set for our goal.

25 New Members Added To Republican Program Committee

St. Louis, Dec. 20.—Twenty-five additional members of the Republican party's new "committee on program," including Orval W. Adams, of Salt Lake City, president of the American Bankers Association, were announced Saturday.

The additions bring the personnel of the committee to 132, with the group not yet completed. Fifteen states still are without representation, although each will have at least one member.

The states for which members are still to be named are Arkansas, Massachusetts, Alabama, Delaware, Georgia, Indiana, Kentucky, Louisiana, Michigan, Mississippi, Minnesota, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Wisconsin.

In addition to Adams, outstanding among the latest additions are Dan Hildebrand, of Seward, Neb., president of the United States Livestock Association, and Dr. Robert A. Millikan, of Pasadena, Calif., winner of the Nobel prize in physics in 1923.

Other newly-added members included:

Florida — Howard C. Babcock, Orlando, citrus fruit grower and shipper.

CLANTON WINS OVER MAPLESVILLE BY 40 TO 15

The basketball team of C. C. H. S. got off to a good start last Friday night, that being their first game of the season. The boys played real basketball as you see by the score.

There was a fine crowd out to see this game, in fact the crowd was larger than usually attends. Maybe that is why the boys played as they did.

Little "Snowy" Melton was credited with making the most points for Clanton, making 14 out of 16 possible, and J. L. Littlejohn, or "Tall Boy", coming next with 9 points.

The first team was so good until the subs had to go in to let Maplesville score. Clanton made 8 points in the first 1½ minutes of the game. All the way 'round Chilton has the best team it has had in a long time.

Come to see Clanton play their next game. Admission 10c and 25c.

MRS. FRANCIS J. PAGE

Mrs. Francis J. Page, age 79 years, died at the home of her son, J. C. Page, in Clanton Thursday, December 16th at 10:45. The body was prepared here by Martin and shipped to Nashville, Tenn., where interment was made in the Spring Hill cemetery.

Surviving are two sons—H. D. Page of Amory, Miss., and John C. Page of Clanton. There is one sister—Mrs. W. S. PuFahl, of Los Angles, Calif.

TWO MAKE ESCAPE FROM COUNTY JAIL

Jailer Bound and Gagged, As Escapes Leave In His "Borrowed" Car

The Chilton county jail was the scene of quite a bit of excitement last Friday night about midnight. City night officer Plyler heard an unsual noise in the jail and went up to make investigation. He found Mr. Thornton, the night warden at the jail, tied with strips torn from a blanket, and gagged, and that two prisoners had escaped in Thornton's automobile. The prisoners were Ellis Bevill, held here on a federal charge, and Marvin Harley, alias James Wood, who was awaiting trial on a robbery charge.

Sheriff J. R. Hardy said the two men found a door partially unlatched and prized it open with a broom handle. After getting into the main corridor, they called the night warden, T. J. Thornton, and asked for a doctor. He went in to investigate and the men stepped out of the darkness, grabbing him.

Mr. Thornton's car was found in good condition by highway patrolmen near Selma about noon Saturday. The prisoners have not been re-captured.

3 LAWYERS DRAW SUMS FROM STATE

Are Paid Big Sums For Special "Services" To State In Sales Tax Fight

By RALPH HURST
Birmingham News Staff Writer

Montgomery, Dec. 18. — Three Alabama attorneys, two of them members of the legislature, have been paid more than $30,000 out of sales tax receipts this year, the records showing the payments made for legal services despite the fact that the attorney general's department has more than 15 assistant attorneys general, an all-time record.

Records in the comptroller's office show Rep. L. H. Ellis, Columbiana attorney, who was sent to the lower house to fill a vacancy, and who took the leadership in driving the governor's 2 per cent sales tax through, has since enactment of that levy, been paid $17,303.45 in legal fees for defending the act. His last payment for "services" was $7,000 on December 3. The total payment is the equivalent of 17,303,450 tokens.

H. L. Anderton, Birmingham attorney, has been paid a total of $10,000 for the same purposes since the sales tax went into effect last March. Several payments, the last being $750, have been paid out of the same tax collections for the same purpose to Rep. E. C. Boswell, of Geneva, who, like Ellis, was selected by the Democratic Executive Committee of the county to fill a vacancy in the legislature.

These three attorneys are operating under agreements or contracts with the State Tax Commission with the governor's approval. Ellis, in addition to his December payment of $7,000 was given $2,500 and $2,303.45 in two payments on October 28. His total of $17,303.45 is only $6,700 less than the governor of Alabama is paid for an entire administration of four years of full time work.

Out of sales tax collections also are going salaries and expense accounts for two owners of a Montgomery radio station, one of whom travels for a hosiery company and turns in an expense account averaging more than $100 monthly.

Ernest Matthews, Birmingham attorney, who has a contract with the Tax Commission to collect securities taxes, was paid $2,372.72 on December 7 as his 15 per cent commission on collections of $15,818.16.

Out of another tax fund, R. T. Goodwin, Jr., Montgomery attorney and legislator, was paid $250 on October 28, $250 on November 4, $250 on November 30, and $250 on December 14, for legal services and expenses.

Horace Wilkinson, Birmingham attorney, was paid $500 for "services" on November 24, the payment being made from the governor's contingent fund.

L. H. REYNOLDS EXTENDS GREETINGS AND OFFERS TO AID THE NEEDY

Another Christmas will soon be here. The business people and the city officials have put on a fine electrical display which speaks well for Clanton and shows that our people are progressive, but I was thinking that there are many people around Clanton and in our county that will not have a Merry Christmas unless they get help from those who have been more fortunate. In fact, I am afraid there are a good many who will not have the comforts of life much less the gifts that go to make them happy. I hope we can get up a plan and a committee from our churches in Clanton that will see that no person goes hungry for the necessaries of life. I understand that there are some widow women here that will suffer unless they get assistance. In fact, I have heard that there are some people around town that are without wood or fuel to make a fire. I have a truck that I will send out and haul wood free to those who are not able to get it if the people who have the wood to spare will let me know. I know times are hard and a great many people are disappointed in business this fall, but if we will all work in harmony and those who are able will furnish all the employment they can to people without work, we can help the situation.

I wish everybody a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year and I hope all people will leave liquor alone for one Christmas and if they do, I predict, notwithstanding all the hard times and the scarcity of work, that we will have one of the best Christmases we have ever had.—Respectfully, L. H. Reynolds.

MARTIN HAS NEW AMBULANCE

Mr. J. Mell Martin arrived Monday from Ohio, where he had been to purchase a new ambulance. The new machine is the last thing out, and has all of the latest equipment. The old ambulance will be kept here also for the present.

WALTER POPWELL MOVED TO GEORGIA THIS WEEK

The family of Walter Popwell have moved to their new farm and home near Americus, Georgia, this week. Mr. Popwell owns 300 acres of what is said to be some of the best land in Georgia, and he will farm on it.

Chilton County can ill afford to lose Walter Popwell, as he is one of the very foremost farmers.

His farm a mile west of Clanton has been sold to his brother, W. L. Popwell.

May the Yuletide Season Bring You Joy!

We take this opportunity to express our Sincere Thanks and Appreciation for whatever share of your business you have intrusted to us during the year 1937, and wish for You and Yours much Joy and Gladness during the Yuletide Season, and A Very Happy and Prosperous New Year.

CHRISTMAS ACCESSORY GIFTS

When the more prosaic Christmas gifts have been considered, reconsirered, and rejected for that hard-to-please person on the shopping list, Chevrolet dealers have a number of suggestions to make. And that they are more than acceptable to the average man or woman is proved by an impartial survey of 1,000 persons, made recently in New York.

In the nation's largest city, reporters interviewed 1,000 miscellaneous men and women, asking each his or her preference in Christmas gifts. It is significant that out of 22 items specifically named, accessories rated 4th, topped only by such gift standbys as wearing apparel, jewelry and household goods.

Chevrolet has added considerably to its line of accessories for the 1938 season, according to M. D. Douglas, parts and accessories merchandising manager.

F. H. A. MEETING

The F. H. A. of Chilton County High School had it's regular meeting in the home economics building Saturday, December 11. The meeting was called to order by the vice-president, Margaret Allen.

Several business matters were settled, then club colors were selected which were green and white.

A program was given on parliamentary rules. Articles of do's and don'ts for parliamentary procedure were read, then a skit was given on incorrect and correct parliamentary procedure. The meeting was then adjourned.

Willie Mims, clerk at Bean & Taylor's, was carried to South Highland Infirmary Monday and underwent an operation for appendicitis. Mr. Mims was said to be in an advanced stage of the ailment.

"I don't see Charlie half as much as I used to."

"You should have married him when you had the chance."

"I did."

A racketeer, on trial for murder, bribed a juror with $100 to hold out for a verdict of manslaughter. After being out for a long time, the jury returned the desired verdict.

"I'm grateful to you," the racketeer told the juror. "Did you have any trouble?"

"Yes," replied the juror, "I had a divil of a time. All the others wanted to acquit you."

The 1938 outlook for livestock feeders, dairymen and poultrymen, is much more favorable than at any time during the past marketing year when feeding conditions were generally unfavorable to livestock producers.

Mitchell Dam Cardinals Won 1, Lost 2 Last Week

The Mitchell Dam Cardinals finished last week's play with two losses and 1 victory.

On Tuesday night they lost to the fast Bevelle team on the Cardinal court by the score of 50 to 41.

On Friday night Mitchell Dam went to Sylacauga and lost to the Mignon team, 41 to 34, in a hard fought game.

On Saturday night they went to Montgomery for a tussle wih the Montgomery Y. M. C. A., bringing home the bacon this time by a count of 65 to 40 in a free scoring contest, in which Gabby Tiffin played an important part.

The Cardinal manager is trying to schedule games with some of the best teams, but says that it is hard to book games. After the holidays, however, he hopes to get several good contracts. One high class team has been scheduled, this being the House of David team, on Friday night, February 18.

Watch the papers for further announcements and go out to see the games.

WAGE-HOUR BILL WOULD RAISE COST OF FERTILIZER ON FARMS

Lafayette, Ala., Dec. 22. — An advance of $4.00 per ton on all commercial fertilizers would be the immediate effect of the passage of the wage-hour bill, according to information received here from every fertilizer producing center in Alabama. An agent for one of the largest chemical concerns operating in this state wrote that "We are hoping and praying that we can be spared the necessity of hiking the price of our products, feeling that to do so would work a tremendous hardship on the farmers of Alabama, particularly following one of the most disastrous years in the history of cotton producers."

Reports from dairying centers are similar to those from the fertilizer districts. One large dairy products concern in middle Alabama that buys raw milk for shipment to a national creamery in a neighboring state declares that the passage of the wage-hour bill, which is being supported by only one Alabama representative in congress, Lister Hill, would either "lower our prices to the milk producers of our territory or force an advance in prices to the ultimate consumers."

Expert economists here and elsewhere see in the vicious wage-hour bill a direct or indirect harmful effect on every line of business in Alabama, and on every consumer of Alabama farm and factory products. "Every pocketbook in Alabama would be touched," declare those who have studied the bill and applied its objectives to everyday life. Even the man who thinks he would be benefitted by a small increase in his personal earnings would have his increase absorbed in the increased cost of living, they opine.

Aside from the increased cost of living and production, the principles of the bill would leave no reward for efficiency. As one student of the bill expressed it, a white man with a family of five working side by side with an unmarried negro would draw the same pay as the negro. That, they say, would create an unrest between races that could not possibly result in any good for the South.

As the senatorial campaign between Congressman Lister Hill, who is supporting the bill, and Thomas Heflin, who is against it in any form, grows in intensity and the people become more enlightened on the principles and objectives of the measure, the more determined are the majority of voters that Alabama shall not be a party to it by electing the wealthy Montgomerian who, by reason of his wealth, would not be hurt by it.

SHIRLEY TEMPLE "STANDS - IN" FOR OWN SUBSTITUTE

First Star Of Screen Does So During Filming Of "Heidi"

America's number-one screen star is a "stand-in!"

A sequence in Shirley Temple's latest starring picture, "Heidi," Twentieth Century-Fox's production of Johanna Spyri's beloved story opening Sunday and Monday at the Wadesonian Theatre, calls for Jean Hersholt, who plays the grandfather, to mistake another little girl for "Heidi."

Director Allan Dwan was seeking a child extra who resembled his star when he remembered little Mary Lou Isleib, "stand-in" for Shirley in several of her recent pictures. Mary Lou was immediately assigned the role, her first chance before a "shooting camera".

As a lark, little Mary Lou asked Shirley to act as "stand-in" for her, and Shirley, of course, complied.

This gracious little action is typical, her studio friends confide, of the unspoiled nature of filmdom's greatest star. Shirley Temple may be adored as a queen by the rest of the world but she's simply a member of the company to the people who make pictures with her.

This is all due to her intelligent guardianship. It is realized that Shirley is just as likely to be affected by undue attentions as any other child would be and consequently there is an unwritten law on the set of Shirley's picture that no one is to make a fuss over her.

Alan Dwan was selected by Production Chief Darryl F. Zanuck to direct "Heidi," the story that, enthralling millions the world over, had to wait for its star before it could be brought to the screen. It is a role for which Shirley Temple will always be remembered, with Jean Hersholt heading the cast including Arthur Treacher and Helen Westley. Raymond Griffith was associate producer for the screen play by Walter Ferris and Julien Josephson.

Are You Going To Rose Bowl?

Reports are that there will be hundreds of Alabama cars making the trip to the west coast for Alabamians to see the California-Alabama Rose Bowl football classic on January 1. Among these there are many local people, and there are a few things you should know before starting, for it is a bit costly to learn them by dear experience.

The first and most important of these is: You should carry your bill of sale for your car. If you have lost it, be sure to go to your dealer and get a duplicate, or go to the office of the judge of probate or tax assessor and secure proper evidence that your car was legally purchased or that you are the legal owner of it. In case you forget this, you will be stopped at the Arizona state line, and held there until you can prove ownership of your car. The plan the state troopers use to get this information is to telephone back to the dealer you mention and verify your claim of ownership, including motor number and general description of the car and purchaser. This call is made at the traveler's expense. Under no circumstances will these troopers allow you to pass until they have this information. They must have it to present to their superiors in case a car should escape the drag net of inspection. This information clears the skirts of the troopers, nothing else will, and you simply must satisfy the ownership demand before you can proceed. The same is true of the California line. The highway laws of these two states are exceedingly strict, and it is almost impossible to get into or out of either Arizona or California with a stolen car. Take your bill of sale and there will be no trouble; don't take it, and you are sure for trouble.

Another thing: Don't reach either of these state lines with any fruit of any kind in your car. If you do it will be taken from you and destroyed. The two states named above are very jealous of their fruit growing, and positively will not allow any outside fruit brought in. You can buy fruit and eat it this side of the Arizona line, then you can buy more in Arizona, but you must eat it in that state, as the California officers will not allow it to cross their border. After you are in California you can buy more, but don't try to come back into Arizona with it. On the return trip you can buy in Arizona and bring your fruit home with you.

You will be inspected at the state lines of both Arizona and California, and your luggage looked through. It is best to open up your luggage just as if you enjoyed doing it; if you should be nasty about letting them inspect, you will regret it, for they will string it all over the place, and it is yours to pack again, but if you are nice about it, they will scarcely touch anything, and will even fasten your containers back again. They appreciate good treatment, and can certainly make things uncomfortable for you if they don't get it.

And don't carry a pistol, unless you have a permit to carry one. You can carry a shotgun or rifle, but no pistol. If you want to carry a pistol for protection, be sure to secure a permit, if only for this trip.

This just about gives the low down on all the "do's" and "don'ts". If you will remember the above advice and act accordingly, you will have one of the finest trips imaginable; but just try and get by any of the above, and your trip will be a nightmare.

SYPHILIS INCIDENCE REPORTED

Thirty-five new cases of syphilis had occurred in Chilton county during the year 1937 to date, it was revealed today from the records of the County Health Department. Of these there were 19 among the white population and 16 among the colored people.

"More wide spread interest in syphilis as a health problem is being shown at the present," stated Dr. S. D. Sturkie, county health officer. "Indeed, we all may be thankful that this dread disease has been brought out into the open where it can be dealth with effectively. Patients who suffer from syphilis today need no longer conceal themselves because of the false stigma of disgrace which in the past has been attached to this disease."

"Once regarded incurable, the syphilitic patient today, if treatment is begun early and properly maintained, can in 85 per cent of cases attain a permanent cure. Diagnosis can be made in the early stages of the disease by the Darkfield method. Later a blood test known as the Wasserman test will reveal the disease. Many experts believe that everyone should have such a test once a year. Certainly all people contemplating marriage should receive this examination."

"The ultimate control of the disease depends on the treatment of every known case and the finding of hidden cases. The local County Medical Society is cooperating with the State Health Department in the operation of a clinic to provide treatment for needy cases not financially able to pay."

LOOK over that Christmas shopping list of yours . . . . Now cross off those gifts that come by express and parcel post; those presents from exclusive shops; toys from far-away places; nuts from California; oranges from Florida . . . . Too bad, you say. Well, that's what you'd probably have to do if there were no railroads.

Without the railroads many Yuletide pleasures would not be yours today . . . . Folks coming home; sending gifts to friends; choosing delicacies for the holidays—all these are matters of course to you; they are an essential part of your Christmas pleasure. Satisfying your heart's desire with choice selections from far-flung distances adds a special zest to your Christmas joy . . . . And that's what the railroads enable you to do . . . . they have made this possible for you.

As a citizen of the Central South, and as your neighbor, the L. & N. is glad to play its part in making your holidays more enjoyable. Like any other useful neighbor, it tries to play its part better from year to year—by providing better service, faster freight deliveries, safer and more dependable operation.

So Merry Christmas to you, Neighbor—and a fine New Year!

And, say, next time you have a shipment to make, or a trip to take, remember the L. & N., won't you?

STATE EMPLOYMENT SERVICE

Montgomery, Dec. 20.—An urgent appeal to all unemployed workers who intend to apply for unemployment benefits after January 1, 1938, to immediately register for work with the Alabama State Employment Service was issued today by J. G. Duncan, Jr., Director.

Mr. Duncan pointed out that registration by an unemployed worker before the beginning of the new year will mean much delay in the handling of claims in the Employment Office after January 1, because the information about the worker which must bt obtained in every case will already be in possession of the Employment Service.

ISABELLA HOME DEMONSTRATION CLUB

On December 18th, 1937, the Isabella Home Demonstration Club met in the home economics department of the high school. A short program on Christmas was given by Mrs. Cooper and Bernice Jones. The program was planned for the next meeting, and plans were suggested for a social to be given in the near future.

At the close of the meeting Christmas gifts were exchanged after which cookies were served by Mrs. O. Cooper. The club watchword was repeated and the meeting adjourned.

NATIONAL TRUCK WEEK

Business men throughout the United States, anxious to find a means of improving their delivery and haulage equipment, while at the same time curtailing costs, will be interested in the announcement of a national truck week to be held by Chevrolet dealers the week of January 10.

The 9,600 Chevrolet dealers in all parts of the country will present the five Chevrolet truck lines for 1938 in striking showroom displays, supported by one of the most extensive truck advertising campaigns in the history of the industry, according to W. E. Fish, Chevrolet commercial car manager.

The program calls for newspaper advertising, backed up by radio, billboards, and direct mail material, Mr. Fish declared. The performance, durability, and economy of the new 1938 Chevrolet trucks will be stressed.

OCTOBER HEALTH REPORT

Montgomery, Dec. 20. — Chilton County's natural increase in population (excess of births over deaths) was 27 during the month of October, when the county's deaths numbered 27 and its births 54, according to the monthly tabulation of the Bureau of Vital Statistics of the State Department of Health. The excess of births over deaths for the state as a whole during the month was 2,877, the month's deaths totaling 2,562 and births 5,439. The state's October birth rate was 22.2 per 1,000 population, while its death rate for that month was 10.5 per 1,000 population. Heart disease was the leading cause of death, having been responsible for 387 deaths. Other leading causes of death, with the number of deaths attributed to each, were as follows:

Tuberculosis 135, cancer (all forms) 152, cerebral hemorrhage 213, pneumonia (all forms) 145, nephritis 200, motor vehicle accidents 81, other forms of violence 206, malaria 35, diarrhea and enteritis (under two years) 31, and pellagra 30.

A distinguished visitor at a lunatic asylum went to the telephone and found difficulty in getting his connection. Exasperated, he shouted to the operator:

"Look here, girl, do you know who I am?"

"No," came back the calm reply, "but I know where you are."

Alabama farmers received $10,287,679.43 in benefit payments for participation under the 1936 agricultural conservation program, according to statistics received by P. O. Davis, director, Alabama Extension Service.

4-H CLUB WORK TO BE PUSHED DURING 1938

Auburn, Dec. 20. — Plans have been completed for the Alabama Extension Service to place special emphasis upon 4-H club work in Alabama during 1938, announces P. O. Davis, director.

Preparatory to this work, five educational and recreational institutes were held at Oneonta, Auburn, Foley, Enterprise and Tuscaloosa late in November and December. Assistant county agents attended the institutes which were conducted by T. A. Sims, state 4-H club leader, Auburn, and W. P. Jackson, representative of the National Recreation Association of New York.

Pat worked at a factory where they encouraged the staff to think of ideas for the smoother running of the business.

One morning he was shown into the chairman's office and announced that he had thought of a way of insuring that no one would be late in the future.

"That sounds good," said the chairman. "How do you propose to do it?"

"Sure, that's aisy, sir," said Pat. "The last man in blows the whistle."

From the bedroom of the twin boys came the mingled sounds of loud weeping and hearty laughter, so father went up to investigate.

"What's the matter up here?" he inquired.

The joyous twin indicated his weeping brother. "Nothing," he chuckled, "only nurse has given Alexander two baths and hasn't given me any."

CHRISTIAN CONSECRATION

LESSON TEXT—Philippians 1:12-26.
GOLDEN TEXT—For to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain.—Philippians 1:21.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Our Best Friend.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Answering Jesus.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Choosing a Life Purpose.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What Christian Surrender Means.

Consecration is one of the words expressing Christian truth which has been so much used and so often misused that it has lost its savor. The writer remembers many a "consecration service" which meant nothing to those present except the fulfilling of a certain formula or program. The purpose of the meeting was excellent, but results were lacking because it had become a mere formality.

Paul the apostle knew nothing of any theory of consecration. He knew and lived and proclaimed such an abandonment of self to Christ and his cause as really required no statement in words—it was his life.

We close today a three-month series of studies in the Christian life. We began at the right point by considering "Christian Sonship," for no one can live until he is born and no one can live a Christian life until he is born again. We have considered together God's grace in keeping, renewing, guiding, blessing, and communing with his own. All these precious truths call us to devote ourselves to Christ in glad and full consecration.

Men give themselves thus to the building of a fortune, to the propagation of a political or social theory, to the pursuit of an occupation or profession. Why should not the Christian give himself in like measure for Christ and his holy cause?

Paul, in the verses of our lesson, shows that spirit and boldly declares that he follows Christ regardless of trying circumstance—he does so now, "in the body," not later in glory. And it matters not whether it be by life or death—"Christ shall be magnified."

I. "What Then?" (v. 18).

Paul was imprisoned for the gospel's sake. Did that stop him? no; he made the very guards who were assigned to watch him in his house into missionaries of the cross. He won each one as he took his designated period of service and sent him out as a testimony to "the whole praetorian guard and to all the rest" (v. 13 R. V.).

Then, some of his Christian associates taking advantage of the fact that he was imprisoned, went out to preach just to show that they were as good as he. They made their very preaching an expression of their envy of his popularity and hoped to heap more sorrow upon him. Did he get angry and bitterly fight back? No; he thanked God that Christ was preached. We need more of that spirit in our day.

II. "In My Body."

One of the glaring fallacies of human thinking is the idea that at some favorable time in the future we shall be able to enjoy life, do mighty deeds or serve the Lord. For example parents fail to enjoy their children because they are always looking forward to the next stage of their development. The time to enjoy and help our children is now. The time to serve the Lord Jesus is now. The day will come when we shall be glorified with him, but it will then be too late to speak to our neighbors about Christ.

III. "To Live Is Christ and to Die Is Gain" (v. 21).

Humanly speaking when a matter is one of "life or death" it is a question whether death may not intervene. The hope is that this may not be the case and every effort is made to prevent it. How different with Paul. He rightly points out that to a Christian death means entering into perfect fellowship with Christ and unlimited service for him. Every human limitation will then be put aside—knowledge, service, communion, will all be perfect and complete.

He would not, however, turn away from his present privilege and duty. Since it is God's will that he should abide in the flesh he will do it in such a way as to make it literally true that to him "to live is Christ." Every life has a purpose and that ruling passion which controls and directs a life is what should be written into the sentence, "To me to live is . . " What is it—money, position, pleasure, sin? Or is it Christ? If he is your life, then you enter into the New Year with the assurance that it will be full and satisfying, and gloriously useful.

Spiteful Words

A spiteful word cuts both ways. A slander hurts the man or woman who spreads it in a more deadly, though unseen, way than it hurts its intended victim. Victor Hugo nobly says, "Every sword has two edges; and the man who wounds with one, wounds himself with the other."

TEST DRUNK DRIVERS

Detroit, Dec. 13. — Twelve husky Detroit truck drivers, the majority of them operators of General Motors trucks, joined with scientists here recently to demonstrate that even the best of drivers can't properly judge traffic conditions when under the influence of alcohol.

The tests, made upon the American Automobile Association's equipment, before and after the drivers had emptied a few cases of beer and enjoyed several rounds of highballs, satisfied scientists and local traffic experts that even the most experienced drivers suffer a loss of efficiency of 21 per cent when under the influence.

Nine of the trained drivers, all chosen for outstanding safety records in the operation of commercial vehicles, drank freely throughout the progress of the tests. The other three, cold sober, were the only ones showing a satisfactory record at the conclusion of the experiment.

Under the direction of Prof. A. R. Lauer, of the Iowa State College psychology department, the GMC truck operators took their first tests at noon. A "driveometer" indicated the drivers' powers of observation and ability to manipulate. A second device tested the reaction time on brakes, accelerator and horn in answer to given stimuli. Other equipment tested muscular control and judgment of distance; a final test showed the amount of alcohol in the subject's system.

"Com-pa-nee, atten-shun!" bawled the drill sergeant to the awkward squad. "Com-pa-nee, lift up your left leg and hold it straight in front of you!"

By mistake, one rookie held up his right leg, which brought it out side by side with his neighbor's left leg.

"Aw right, aw right; who's the wise guy over there holding up both legs?" shouted the hard-boiled sergeant.

The doctor was visiting Rastus' wife to deliver her 12th offspring. While riding along with Rastus he saw a duck in the road.

Doctor: "Whose duck is that?"

Bronchial Coughs Need Creomulsion

Just a common cough, a chest cold, or a bronchial irritation of today may lead to serious trouble tomorrow. They may be relieved now with Creomulsion, an emulsified Creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medicinal combination designed to aid nature in soothing and healing infected mucous membranes by allaying irritation and inflammation and by aiding in loosening and expelling the germ-laden phlegm.

The Medical Profession has for many years recognized the beneficial effect of Beechwood Creosote in the treatment of coughs, chest colds, and bronchial irritations. A special process was worked out by a chemist, for blending Creosote with other ingredients and now in Creomulsion you get a real dose of genuine Beechwood Creosote which is palatable and can even be taken frequently and continuously by both adults and children.

Creomulsion is one preparation that goes to the very seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm. When coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles—due to common colds—hang on, get a bottle of Creomulsion from your druggist, use it as directed, and if you are not satisfied with the relief obtained, the druggist is authorized to refund every cent of your money. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief that you want. Adv

"God save the United States and this honorable court," is the way the crier ends his salutation at the commencement of each term of that honorable body. The thought isn't such a bad one, and the old boy who thought it out years ago must have peered into the future a bit.—Kansas City Star.

It must seem to Mr. Roosevelt as though it was much longer ago, but actually it has been only a few months since he was worrying about what drastic action he could take "to keep this uncontrollable boom from running away with itself."—Garden City (Kan.) Telegram.

CONGRESS HAS ITS CHANCE

If the prestige of congress has been relatively low and that of the president relatively high in the past four years and a half, it is because congress has surrendered so many of its rightful duties to the executive department. Now when the country looks hopefully to congress—and particularly to the senate—for immediate corrective action, congress has an opportunity to restore itself to its ancient position of power and authority. All that it needs as a guide are those sections of the Constitution establishing congress as the legislative branch of the government and defining its powers and duties.

Members of congress who turn again to the fundamental doctrine of the Constitution will find therein the warrant to stand on their own feet, speak their own thoughts and defend their own convictions. It will no longer seem so essential to trust to the delegation of authority to the executive, to lump sum appropriations to the executive, to indorsements in toto of legislation drafted by persons responible to no electorate, to the writings of tax legislation by treasury experts. Senators and representatives will find in the Constitution all the evidence that they need that ours was intended to be a government representative of the people and not of bureaucracy.—New York Sun.

MADE MATTERS WORSE

The ill-advised Brussels conference called to put brakes on the inordinate ambitions of Japan in China has ended as it was expected to by observors—in futility. In fact, it has made conditions far worse than they were before the session by convincing Japan that she can go as far as she likes without military interference by any of the nations who signed the nine-power pact. Virtually Japan is given notice that nothing more serious than words of displeasure over her actions, her complete repudiation of her pledged word, will oppose her. This was all foreseen at the beginning. So why the conference was called remains a good deal of a puzzle unless it is classed as one more of those visionary and altruistic experiments by enthusiasts who cannot see things as they are. The world has become accustomed to these exhibits. The net result is a strengthening of fascism which is as undesirable as the communism it combats.

The first reaction to this collapse is the demand by the cocky and reassured Japanese that they are in full control of Shanghai, and intend to show no favors to foreigners. The international settlements are in imminent danger of being abolished and all favors of the past withdrawn. This is the penalty of a bluff that was foredoomed to failure. — Bristol (Conn.) Press.

The stock market has been doing some funny things of late, but the explanations of the experts have been no more convincing than those of a married man who comes home at 2 o'clock in the morning with hiccoughs, and lipstick stains on his collar. — Hutchinson News.

"I want to be excused," said the worried-looking juryman, addressing the judge. "I owe a man $25, and as he is leaving town for some years, I want to catch him before he reaches the train and pay him the money." "You're excused," replied the judge in icy tones. "I don't want anybody on the jury who can lie like that."—Buffalo Blade.

PLEAS AND TAXES

"Expand! Expand!" the federal government cries to American corporate business. Private industry, it says, should take up the slack of employment and create new jobs. So far, so good. But the plea has a catch. Though it seems unbelievable, the self same government which makes this appeal for expansion also says, by its present tax laws, "You just try to expand and we'll punish you—that is, if you use any of your earnings to meet the cost of enlarging your business."

Facing such a condition, an anomaly of the most illogical sort, where expansion is asked only to be penalized by the collector of internal revenue, it is no wonder that the chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, the Democratic Senator Harrison, has telegraphed to Secretary Morgenthau the categoric imperative: "There must be some modification of the undistributed profits tax." — Boston Transcript.

MAN IN THE MOON

"PEACE ON EARTH—"

"Peace On Earth, Good Will Toward Men." No other phrase in any language so plainly and so accurately expresses the only sure means to happiness for all nations and peoples. A perfect phrase, even as He Who spoke it was perfect. With peace there could be none of the suffering occasioned by war. With good will of all men for all others, perfection could reign, even as the Great Creator desired. This was the Divine plan. May we all dedicate our lives and our works to this Divine purpose. Let us, then, on this, the anniversary of the birth of our Savior, allow His immortal suggestion an upper place in our hearts. Thus, I wish for you and each of you,

A MERRY CHRISTMAS!

THE PRESENT SPECIAL SESSION

The present special session of the national congress was called over the protest of many outstanding statesmen of the country, a majority of which were Democrats. These men could set no good that could come from it, but could see a chance of reopening the political wounds caused at the last session, and thus cut down the chances of passage of any worthwhile legislation in the regular session in January. They reasoned, and openly stated, that "time heals wounds", and believed those political woulds should have all time possible to heal before rubbing again.

Their opposition was overruled, however, by the president. But when the congress had met, it was found that none of the legislation was ready for action. No doubt the president believed it was needful to call the extra session, and some of his recent actions lead us to believe that no doubt his plans for this special held several good ideas. But inasmuch as none of this was ready for action, the congressmen found time heavy on their hands. Delays resulted—delays that did not help the feelings of opponents of the special call, who let no chance pass to harrass the administration and its stalwarts about the affair. Too, it was embarrassing to the administration's defenders, inasmuch as the call had been made as one of "emergency".

Now it seems that Mr. Roosevelt, himself, must either have come around to their way of thinking, or have become thoroughly disgusted with the delay of the drawing of his bills by his aids. Finding as much open hostility among his own ranks as was apparent at the close of the regular session, he also sensed the added resentment at his calling the extra session, with nothing apparently urgent on the calendar. Perhaps the president, himself, joined in the resentment at the way affairs were turning out, in some degree.

Any way, first the president developed a toothache, when inside political forces had an idea that it was more of a political headache he was suffering from. Then he suddenly decided to leave the whole mess in the laps of the gods, or rather in the laps of his congressional followers. This hasn't helped his cause any, on either side. His opposition believed they had the president and his big ideas on the run, which no doubt was true in part. His own followers did not appreciate his "desertion" either, after he had called them together and led them out into deep water.

Result—the idea of any worthwhile legislation at the special session has about been given up, and presidential friends and foes find themselves fully as far apart, if not farther, than they were when they met.

A female mosquito lays from 100 to 400 eggs at a time. Here is one instance where we are heartily in favor of the curtailment of production.

We don't think much of the super-internationalists who are willing to send their wives' relatives into a foreign war in the interests of "democracy".

RED INK AND RATS

Your venerable Uncle Sammy is really and truly, theoretically and actually, running "in the red". Aside from the fact that many of the administration's policies have been tinged an exceedingly bright shade of the crimson of bolshevism and socialism, we are constantly reminded by figures released by the national treasury that the nation is going deeper "in the red" financially.

A recent dispatch from Washington stated that the deficit for the first four months and 20 days of the fiscal year of 1938 was far above what President Roosevelt had estimated it would be for the whole year, with more than seven months still to come at that time not considered. When our nation's finances are written in thus, like in any bookkeeping, it must be in red ink, because we are operating at a loss. Profits are always written in black—losses in red. In due fairness, however, I must add that since that news release, treasury officials have announced heavy tax returns which have helped the situation a lot. Thanks for that good news, from all of us.

Another news item from the national supply house says that the following amount of red ink was necessary to keep track of the government's red ink maneuvers—losses—in the bookkeeping end of our national affairs: 3,516 four-ounce bottles, 2,235 pint bottles, and 979 five-pint bottles. This figures out to be 1,001 gallons and one pint of red ink—and remember, red ink is used in bookkeeping principally to write in losses. I wonder if they used any black ink at all. Nothing was said about it in the item referred to.

Another interesting thing mentioned was that government red ink is relished by the rats around the administration offices and the treasury department. It read: "When the government gets in the red, the red gets in the rats, because the rats get in the government's red ink". And, the reporter didn't take the trouble to tell whether it was four-legged rats or two-legged ones which relished the red ink so much. One Washington newspaper editor says: "If the government would get rid of its army of two-legged rats on the various needless government payrolls and bureaus, the four-legged species would take care of itself, for there wouldn't be so much red ink around Washington for them to get into."

If you like mystery stories, why don't you try to figure out what has becime of prosperity?

A headline in the New York Times says that Britain and France are to discuss Hitler. It's a good bet that his ears will burn.

It is said that when they have bridge tournaments in the WPA, leading spades is very unpopular.

MACHINE IN REVERSE

During the first New Deal administration we were told that prices were too low but that they would be increased in one way or another—hence the laws for restricting production and devaluing the dollar. Now we are told that prices are too high and that something must be done to reduce costs so that we can wage a tremendous housing program to stop the crying of the new "baby" depression.

A year or so ago we were told that a surplus profits tax was the thing to inaugurate, to reduce taxes and make big business divide up with the common people. Now we are informed that this surplus profits tax must be repealed in order to give business a chance to defeat the new business recession.

For years we have been regaled with the story that the way to get a new prosperity was to prime the pump with tremendous business expenditure, that an increase in the public debt was immaterial in light of the objectives to be gained. Now we are being told that expenses must be trimmed and the budget balanced, and the president suggests we start in by curtailing federal funds for road building.

Evidently the New Deal machine is going into reverse gear. What is the matter anyhow? If we planned this way, after five long years, what is the use of changing everything by "un-planning" it?

THE COMMISSION OF FORESTRY

The Commission of Forestry was established by an act of the legislature of 1907, amended in 1923. Three members are required to be practical lumbermen who are owners of timberland, and two must be farmers who also are land owners. The governor is ex-officio chairman of the Commission. The commissioners serve without pay.

The Commission is vested by law with an extensive field of responsibilities in the promotion of reforestation, protection of forests against harmful agencies, practice of approved methods of forestry on the woodlands of the state, the supervision of outlying state lands, and in the development and administration of state forests, state parks and recreational areas, and cooperation with other public and private agencies in all such connections.

The Commission is self-sustaing, its funds being comprised of the State Forestry Fund as provided in Section 1005 of the Code, and of departmental receipts as indicated in Section 21 of the Budget and Financial Control Act approved September 27, 1932. The former fund is composed of the license fees imposed by the state for engaging in any business dealing with timber or timber products. The departmental receipts include contributions derived from the United States and from private and philanthropic sources, together with miscellaneous receipts from the facilities and products of the state forests and parks.

TROY TEACHERS COLLEGE NEWS

Troy, Ala., Dec. 20. — State Teachers' College here closed Friday for the Yule holidays. Students will resume their work January 3.

Among those from Chilton County who went home for the Christmas holidays were:

Freshmen—Olivia Martin, Clanton.

Sophomores—Jack Gillespie and Mrs. Jeannette Tiffin, Clanton.

The present Winter Quarter will end March 13. As many of the state's schools will be ending 7-month terms, a large increase in enrollment is expected for the Spring Quarter.

State Capitol News

Gov. Bibb Graves has been advised of approval of 16 public works projects for various sections of Alabama, for which a total of $223,380 has been placed to the state's credit at Washington.

Gov. Graves, upon his return from Washington last week, said Alabama has excellent prospects of its federal relief appropriation being "substantially increased."

The governor anticipates approval of $1,500,000 for a housing project in Mobile.

State Auditor Charles E. McCall, has certified to Welfare Commissioner Loula Dunn that a total of $160,710 will be available for Confederate veterans or their widows on January 1. The new pension law prescribed quarterly payments, thus prohibiting release of the money for Christmas. Distributions will be by county welfare directors.

Since the last quarterly pension, 15 veterans and 55 widows of veterans have died. With their demise, their pension reverts to the welfare department. The veterans, numbering 126, and receiving $150 per quarter, will receive $18,900; the widows, in three classifications, to draw $141, 810.

Probate judges of Alabama will meet at Montgomery on January 8 for their annual business session at the call of Matt Boykin of Mobile, president of the organization. Judge H. H. Garrison, of Walker County, is secretary.

Prisoners by the score of both races and sex were being liberated from the state's penal institutions this week under an honor or test parole for the Christmas holidays. They are to report back to their prison or road camp ready for work on January 1. The paroles went to 554 prisoners on the basis of their records warranting special consideration from Gov. Graves.

Announcement has been made from the governor's office that the capitol will be closed from 1 p.m., Thursday, December 23, until the usual opening time on Monday morning, December 27. It will again be closed December 31, and January 1, opening at the usual time Monday morning, January 3, for resumption of business after the holidays.

Judge: "What brought you here?"

Accused: "Two policemen."

Judge: "I don't mean that. Drunk, I suppose."

Accused: "Both of them."

The farm price of eggs lacked about 1 to 5 cents per dozen going as high this fall as they did a year ago. As a result it is expected that the decrease in farm price of eggs from now until spring will be less than it was last year when the price went down nearly 15 cents a dozen from November to May.

UNEMPLOYMENT BENEFITS

Montgomery, Dec. 20.—Alabama will be ready to write unemployment benefits checks to eligible unemployed workers with the beginning of the new year. This announcement of M. H. Harper, chairman of the unemployment compensation commission, was coupled with the statement that the commission had worked out final details and is now prepared for the coming of the day when applications for benefits can be received and run through the mill.

More than $8,500,000 was held in the state's unemployment trust fund the past week-end. Remittances yet to come from nearly 5,000 employers caused Mr. Harper to estimate that the fund will run beyond $9,000,000 when all checks for November and December have been received. Contributions on November payrolls will not be delinquent until January 1 and for December will not be delinquent until February 1.

Alabama farms are producing more lint cotton per acre than the farms in South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Texas and Oklahoma. The highest yield is in California where the estimated yield is placed at 530 pounds per acre. Last year it was 574 pounds. Arizona shows the next highest with 463 pounds. Oklahoma is the lowest with 160 pounds. Florida is second from the bottom with 173 pounds. Texas gets only 191 pounds per acre. Alabama's yield this year is fixed at 284 pounds per acre. Last year it was 236. Last year's cotton crop, figured at 12 cents per pound, would have brought Alabama farmers $28.32 per acre. This year, at nine cents, they are getting $25.56 per acre, exclusive of the seed in both instances.

Mrs. George McCain and children were visitors in Rockford for the week end.

HELP KIDNEYS

To Get Rid of Acid and Poisonous Waste

Your kidneys help to keep you well by constantly filtering waste matter from the blood. If your kidneys get functionally disordered and fail to remove excess impurities, there may be poisoning of the whole system and body-wide distress.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination may be a warning of some kidney or bladder disturbance.

You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.

In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won country-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. A multitude of grateful people recommend Doan's. Ask your neighbor!

CLANTON METHODIST CHURCH

Our White Christmas pageant was well attended last Sunday evening, and we appreciate the gifts and the offering, both of which go to our orphanage at Selma. Each donor can realize that he has helped make the Christmas there a merry one, and the new year there a happy one.

Next Sunday Christmas will be over, but not the Christmas season. May we all attend Sunday school and church services next Sunday for the worship of the Father of us all.

Clanton Methodist Church heartily wishes The Union-Banner and each of its readers a very merry Christmas.

May you have
The gladness of Christmas,
Which is hope;
The spirit of Christmas,
Which is peace;
And
The heart of Christmas, which is love.

Tigers Toy With Maplesville, 40-15

A scintillating Chilton Tiger cage squad completely demolished Maplesville High last Friday night on the local court, 40 to 15, with the "first team" in the game only half the time.

This year's Tiger machine is made up in great part by the crack Mt. Pleasant Junior High team of last spring, which won the Gold Medal Tournament at Mitchell Dam. Other valuable units have been added to this fine combination to round out one of the finest combinations, if not the finest, that ever wore the Orange and Blue.

The Maplesville lads, although a likely looking bunch, were completely outclassed in every department. So perfect was Chilton's guard work that Maplesville had only one shot at the basket from the field during the whole first quarter; two foul shots were allowed the visitors in this quarter, but none of the three trials found the ring, and a complete new team of Tiger substitutes took the floor to start the second quarter, after a 24 to 0 score had been piled up. The Tigers scored 8 points in the first minute and a half of play.

The Maplesville team made things pretty hot for the second stringers, with the two quints battling along about even.

To begin the fourth quarter, the first string went in again, polished off their shooting up to the 40 mark and then took a short passing work-out before the final whistle.

All the Chilton performers showed plenty of class, with Melton, Thornton, Littlejohn, Chambers and Johnson putting on a show worth anybody's money.

Chambers, who led the fight against Mitchell Dam last week, was content to dominate the passing attack in this game, feeding the ball to his mates under the net with machinelike precision and clocklike regularity. It was a circus.

Melton led the scoring with 14 points with Littlejohn running second with 9. For Maplesville, Lovelady led with 7 points, and Daisden got 4.

This Tiger squad looks like the real goods, and Chilton High supporters believe they "have something there". "Kink" Chambers, the southpaw dribbler, makes the opposition look funny with his uncanny handling of the ball, and seems that he may at any time do most anything with it except eat it. Snowy Melton, one of the fastest men ever to play for Chilton High, can be depended on when he is on the receiving end of one of Chambers' passes and the little one has an eagle eye for the pay-off ring. "Foots" Johnson, another of the Mt. Pleasant crew of last year, is a worthy running mate to the two already mentioned, and is an important cog in the Tiger passing attack. Thornton, a sturdy, stocky lad, asks no quarter from any of them, and is another fine unit in the machine, while long, looping, larruping Littlejohn don't have to be so fast—the big boy is "up there" and takes them off the board one-two-three.

All in all, it looks like a new deal in basket ball for the Tigers this year. Moreover, the whole squad plays an inspired game—a team with a deadly passing attack, sharpshooters on the firing line, and a defense that wraps the opposition like the morning dew. These are the qualities which go to make great basket ball teams, and these Tigers have it all in quantities galore. The lads have their eyes set on at least a district championship, and maybe the state crown, and they might have something there, too.

There are many subs, all pretty good, and none especially bad. This Tiger is growling—attend the games and see for yourself.

ASKED TO BE CAREFUL ABOUT SHOOTING FIRE CRACKERS

Chief of Police H. M. Simpson wishes to call to the attention of all the danger of shooting fire crackers within the fire zone in the city. This prohibited zone is from First to Fourth Avenues inclusive, and from Fifth to Ninth Streets inclusive. The shooting of any kind of fire works within this zone is especially dangerous about fire, and besides, there is a city ordinance against same. Mr. Simpson wishes that the boys and everybody else will observe the warning.

MUSIC APPRECIATION CLUB

On the afternoon of December 14 at the city auditorium the Music Appreciation Club of Clanton observed "Alabama Day" and "Federation Day" with a splendid program.

The guest artists were: Mrs. Florence Golson-Bateman, one of Alabama's well known composers, and Miss Louise Rogers of Spigener, an accomplished pianist, a pupil of Dorsey Whittington, conductor of the Birmingham Civic Symphony Orchestra. Mrs. A. G. Ruffin was Mrs. Bateman's accompanist.

The program began with a gracious welcome, by Mrs. W. M. Polk, Sr., club president.

Mrs. W. A. Willis gave an interesting and educational address on the history of our state. She stressed especially the contributions made by the sons and daughters of Alabama to the field of music.

The guests were introduced by Mrs. Barney Roberts.

Miss Rogers played two selections: "Rhapsody in G Minor"—Brahm, and "Ballade in F Minor"—Chopin.

Mrs. Golson-Bateman sang two groups of songs, including two of her own compositions, "Little Boy Blue," and "The Bird With A Broken Wing."

The program was given to a very appreciative audience.

The club members and their guests are indebted to Mrs. Billy Smith for such a fine program.—Mrs. John W. Powers, Jr., club reporter.

REFUGE

There have been several good messages at this place since Friday night. Rev. Paul Oden, with his good pictures, brought an inspiring message which was enjoyed by a large crowd. Rev. Lockhart also brought to us two wonderful messages Sunday morning and night. Each service was well attended, but there were some who did not attend—the reason we know not. Remember, there is an all-seeing eye watching you. It looks as if our pastor could give his time and talent, that we could give ours. So, let's do our best for Christ.

Don't forget Friday afternoon at 2:30. There will be about an hour of prayer and singing, after which we will have a Christmas tree, presenting gifts, one to another.

Let's remember the gift God gave us, and give in that spirit. The Word of God says: "Blessed is the cheerful giver," so let's do our best to make someone happy Friday afternoon — Christmas eve.

Mrs. J. Watts Moore Entertains With Bridge Luncheon—

One of the prettiest affairs of the Christmas season was when Mrs. J. Watts Moore entertained members of the Wednesday and Thursday Bridge Clubs at a pretty luncheon.

The dining table was covered with a lovely lace cloth and centered with a crystal bowl of fruit, on each side of which burned tall red tapers in crystal holders.

Five tables were arranged in the spacious living room.

The lunch was served buffet style, from the dining table.

After the luncheon hour, bridge was enjoyed. Seven prizes were awarded in a clever and unique way. Mrs. J. Hance Alred was awarded a deck of cards for bidding and making game in hand. Mrs. J. W. Hayes received a breakfast cloth for the first little slam made. Mrs. Frank Callen drew a dainty hand made handkerchief for four honors in her hand. High score prize, a deck of cards, was awarded Mrs. James Wade. Consolation prize fell to Mrs. J. C. Page. Mrs. John Hollis received the cut prize.

The guests enjoying this delightful affair were: Mesdames James Wade, J. P. Hayes, J. C. Burnett, Omar Reynolds, Grady Reynolds, Hugh Jones, H. M. Newell - McKinstry

The marriage of Miss Helen Patricia Newell, daughter of Mrs. John Ottis Newell and the late Mr. Newell, to Mr. John O. McKinstry, of Birmingham, was impressively solemnized at 5 p.m. Friday, December 17, at the home of Judge L. H. Reynolds in the presence of an assemblage of relatives and friends.

The living room, library and dining room were garlanded with Southern smilax, and lighted by myrial cathedral candles. Urns of bride's roses and altar lilies adorned each room. An improvised altar was made before the huge fireplace in the living room, and was banked with Woodwardia fern and smilax, silhouetting three tall 7-branch candelabra burning cathedral candles. Wrought iron standards on each side of the altar held ascension lilies.

The altar candles were lighted by Hon. Grady Reynolds and Omar Reynolds, uncles of the bride, after which a program of nuptial music was rendered by Mr. and Mrs. Percy McGraw Pitts, the latter singing "With You In My Arms", by Mildred White Wallace, and "All For You". The traditional wedding march was used for processional, and "Just A Song At Twilight" was rendered softly during the ceremony.

Attending her sister as maid of honor, Miss Mary Cornelia Newell was gowned in an advance spring model of dusty blue crepe, and carried an arm bouquet of Joanna Hill roses, tied with apricot taffeta ribbon.

Judge L. H. Reynolds, grandfather of the bride, who gave her in marriage, escorted her to the altar, where she was awaited by the groom and Joseph McKinstry, who served his brother as best man. The bride was lovely in a grey wool costume suit trimmed with caracul, with which she wore dubonnet accessories. She carried a bouquet of purple orchids showered with lilies of the valley, and tied with white satin ribbon. The double ring service of the Methodist Episcopal Church was read by Dr. A. M. Freeman, uncle of the bride. The bride and groom knelt on a white priex dieu for the benediction.

Judge and Mrs. L. H. Reynolds entertained at a reception following the ceremony, supper being served. Mrs. L. H. Reynolds, grandmother of the bride, wore a black crepe dinner dress with blue sequins trimming the sleeves and a corsage of pink roses and valley lilies. Mrs. Newell wore a jacket dress of dusty pink lace with corsage of Joanna Hill roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. J. A. McKinstry, mother of the groom, was in wine velvet with corsage of rubrum lilies. Mrs. J. A. Duncan, sister of the groom, wore a bottle green velvet dress with gardenia corsage. Assisting the hostess were Mrs. Grady Reynolds, in blue taffeta with bolera of gold sequins, Mrs. Julius Caldwell Burnette, in black velvet, accented with gardenias, and Mrs. Omar Reynolds, wearing green moire, gold trimmed.

The bride's table was centered with a tiered wedding cake, crystal candelabra held white tapers, and lou crystal bowls were filled with bride's roses and lilies of the valley. A silver bowl of bride's roses and lilies of the valley adorned the buffet.

Later in the evening Mr. McKinstry and his bride left for a wedding trip, after which they will be at home in the Martha Stuart Apartments, South Perry Street, Montgomery, where Mr. McKinstry has a business connection with the Alabama Power Company. The bride attended Huntingdon College, and possesses much beauty and charm. Maternally, she is descended from the Thompson and Reynolds families, who are prominent in political and social circles of central Alabama. Paternally, she is descended from the Rowe and Wise families, pioneers of Tallapoosa County.

John is a graduate of Phillips High School, Birmingham; he later attended Auburn, where he studied engineering.

Out-of-town guests included: Dr. and Mrs. A. M. Freeman, Miss Miriam Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Newell, Misses Patricia and Anne Newell, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. McKinstry, Mrs. Joseph McKinstry of Birmingham, Mrs. J. A. Duncan, Master Pete Duncan of Guntersville, Dr. and Mrs. Omar Burns, Miss Patricia Garrett of Montevallo, Mrs. Ada Pitts of Jacksonville.

We wish for You a Good, Old Fashioned Christmas and a Prosperous New Year!

County Farm Agent's Notes

Compiled by J. W. Fant, County Farm Demonstration Agent for Chilton County

WAYS TO INCREASE MILK PRODUCTION ARE OUTLINED

Auburn, Dec. 20. — Alabama farmers and dairymen can double the average production of their cows and increase two or three times their returns above feed cost, believes F. W. Burns, livestock specialist of the Alabama Extension Service.

This can be done by feeding dairy cows "a liberal roughage ration consisting of luxuriant grazing, high quality silage, good quality hay and a concentrate ration, and by culling from the herds all unworthy cows," he says.

He also believes that further increases in production and greater profits would result by the use of production bred bulls being used instead of grade or scrub purebred bulls, by the growing out of all good heifer calves, and by the herd being comfortably housed during the winter.

"Try supplementing your feed with 100 pounds of steamed bone meal, 50 pounds of finely ground limestone, and 50 pounds of salt," he advises all dairymen in the state. "Two pounds of this mixture should be added to every 100 pounds of concentrate.

"A large production of cows and heifers should be bred during December and January for fall freshening," he says. "There is always a greater demand for fluid milk during the winter months and it is expensive to try and supply this demand by heavy grain feeding of cows that are practically dry. If interested in increasing milk next winter, plan now to have more cows freshen in September and October. If interested in having a higher producing herd four years from now, you had better breed your cows to a production bred bull."

O'NEAL REELECTED PRESIDENT OF AFB

Auburn, Dec. 20.—Edward A. O'Neal, successful Alabama farmer, has been reelected president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, Chicago, Ill., for the next two years. He has served as president of the national organization since May, 1931.

L. E. Foster, general manager of the Chamber of Commerce of Birmingham, made the statement recently that 36,000 tourists had come to the city during the past 12 months and that they had spent in Birmingham approximately $50,000. He predicted that tourist travel through the state during the next 12 months would reach 600,000. It is suggested that freeing of toll bridges and the increased paving of highways is largely responsible for this increase in tourist travel through the state.

SOIL CONSERVATION SERVICE

There's an old saying that "the hair of a dog is good for the bite", and the Soil Conservation Service is using a somewhat similar method of treatment for gullies. Soil washed into the gullies as a result of erosion is used as a seed bed for establishing vegetative growth to heal over these scars which erosion has caused.

Gullies which have been cut down into the subsoil and sometimes into the parent rock afford little or no nourishment for vegetation, Mr. James H. Wood, Superintendent of the Soil Conservaion Service area near Clanton, points out. Unless nature is given some assistance in getting vegetation established, the gullies usually become deeper and broader until they reach a stabilized grade.

By constructing small temporary dams of field rock or other inexpensive material, a barrier will be formed across the gully channel above which silt washed into the gully will collect. Vegetation planted in this material usually makes rapid growth and forms an additional barrier for collection of silt over which the vegetation can spread.

Sometimes privet hedge seedlings or other shrubs are closely spaced in rows above these temporary dams to form permanent, living dams across the gully channel. In other cases, mulching the gullies with pine boughs, straw or other material, and seeding to lespedeza gives the vegetation an opportunity to become established.

Nature will usually heal over a gully if given a chance, Mr. Wood commented. By holding the soil that run-off water brings into the gully, rather than letting it pick up an additional load, conditions favorable to vegetative growth can be established.

COUNTY TENANT PURCHASE COMMITTEEMEN APPOINTED

Auburn, Dec. 20. — Julian Brown, state director in charge of the rehabilitation and tenant purchase program in Alabama released today the names of the local citizens in the designated counties who will serve as members of the County Farm Security Advisory Committees in their respective counties.

County committeemen for Chilton County are: R. M. Foshee, L. G. Posey, and O. H. Lawrence.

The formation of these county committees completes the organization requirements to handle loan applications, and meetings in all counties will be promptly scheduled to begin the considerations necessary to enable applicants to submit their propositions for examination.

These committees, appointed by Secretary Wallace, are composed of three farmer citizens in each county who will consider the qualifications of the applicant as well as the economic possibilities of farm lands desired purchased.

NOW IS THE TIME TO PRUNE AND SPRAY YOUR ORCHARD

Auburn, Dec. 20. — Pruning, spraying and cleaning of orchards are important jobs which Alabama farmers should not overlook doing during December and January, advise officials of the Alabama Experiment Station.

"Pruning is essential to maximum production of good fruit," they say in a bulletin entitled: "The Alabama Home Orchard," copies of which may be received free from county agents or by writing the Extension Service at Auburn. "Pruning is not a complicated or difficult task. Thorough and systematic spraying is essential to the production of quality fruit. Spraying is a preventive and not a cure except for such pests as plant lice and aphids. The trees should be sprayed regardless of whether diseases or insects are thought to be present.

"Sanitation in the orchard is next in importance to spraying in the control of insects and diseases. This has to do with removing the sources of infection and infestation, and must be done if best results are to be expected from spraying. All old dried or decayed fruits, both on the trees and ground, should be removed and destroyed. All dead and diseased branches should be pruned out and burned. Rake all leaves away from the trees and either plow them under or burn. All hedge rows, terraces, and ditches in and around the orchard should be cleaned up, as these usually provide hiding for the curculio (the insect that causes wormy peaches)."

PAROLE APPLICATION

Notice is hereby given that Elijah Thomas, white, convicted in Chilton County, on a charge of burglary and grand larceny, and sentenced to the penitentiary for a term of 2 to 2½ years, which sentence was begun May 16, 1935, will make application to the Governor and Board of Pardons for permanent parole.—(Signed) ELIJAH THOMAS. 12-23-2t-c

OLD AGE INSURANCE

Martin C. Folmar, manager of the field office for the Old Age Insurance Bureau of the Social Security Board, conferred with regional officials and with representatives of the Bureau of Old Age Insurance from Washington during the recent regional conference held in Birmingham in regard to administration of the old age insurance provisions of the Social Security Act.

Mr. Folmar reports that considerable time was given by Washington and regional officials to the discussion of claims for lump sum payments of benefits, which are now being made to persons who are entitled to such benefits.

Mr. Folmar explained that there are two types of lump sum payments that can be made at any time after January 1, 1937. One is the death benefit which the federal government is paying to relatives of workers who have died since the first of the year, and whose wage earnings after the last day of December, 1936, and before their death entitled them to benefits. The other type of lump sum benefit, now payable, is for the eligible worker who has reached the age of 65 since the first of January, 1937.

In the State of Alabama, 470 claims have been filed with local field managers and sent to Washington for adjudication and then forwarded to the U. S. treasury department for payment. "A total of $6,458.54 has been paid to claimants in Alabama since the first of the year 1937," said Mr. Folmar, but there is still some money in the treasury, waiting for many 65-year-old wage earners in this state, or for relatives of deceased workers who are entitled to payment, but have not as yet filed claims.

When asked the question, "How would you go about filing a claim for lump sum payment of old age insurance?" Mr. Folmar replied, "The first thing you do is to obtain an application blank upon which you write the information the Social Security Board will need in order to approve and certify your claim. This form can be secured at any office of the Social Security Board. You either write to the manager and tell him why you are entitled to payment, asking him to send you a suitable application form; or, if you prefer, you can go to the nearest field office of the Social Security Board and fill out the form while you are there. Some one in the office will be glad to give you any assistance you desire."

Mr. Folmar said emphatically that the old age insurance benefits now payable are based on wage earnings of certain employees, and have nothing whatever to do with charity or relief money.

CHRISTMAS IN THE ARMY

Christmas festivities have always been a major feature at all regular army stations, and this year will be the first Christmas in the army for many new recruits. It is quite interesting to note the number of different ways in which these young men will spend the holidays.

Hundreds of Southern lads who enlisted for stations in the New England states during the past year will witness their first White Christmas. At these northern army posts a program of winter sports will be carried out which will be quite a novelty to the Southern boys. Ice skating, snow shoeing, skiing and hockey will be new to them, but not for long, as all of Uncle Sam's regulars are more than eager to learn any competitive sport.

Northern boys enlisted for army stations in the South will find it quite a novelty to have a warm sun shining on them during the Christmas holidays. Those who have enlisted for tropical stations will probably spend the Christmas holidays on the beach at Waikiki in Hawaii or 'neath the shade of the sheltering palms in Panama and the Philippines.

GOODE IS CHECKING FOODS FOR POISONS

Montgomery, Dec. 20.—R. J. Goode, state commissioner of agriculture and industries, has written all "manufacturers and dealers of food, drinks and drugs for human consumption" asking them to cooperate with state and federal agencies to determine if the solvents being used in foods, drinks and drugs contain poisons and dangerous ingredients.

"It has been found that there are a large number of solvents containing anywhere from 10 per cent to 100 per cent diethylene glycol—the deadly poison responsible for the so-called sulfanimilide deaths—being sold under various trade names which do not indicate in any way the poisonous and dangerous nature of the solvents," says Mr. Goode.

"These solvents are being used in the manufacture of various food products, such as flavoring extracts, candies, ice cream, bottled drinks, pickles, cakes, wafers and other foods used for human consumption," he continues. "It is not known to what extent these solvents are being used, nor whether or not they are causing a great deal of damage, but it is certain that the continued use of any considerable quantity of such a poison as contained in these various solvents will seriously and probably permanently injure various human organs.

"We wish to warn manufacturers using such materials of the possible danger in placing any solvents containing appreciable percentages of diethylene glycol, carbitol or other poisonous substance in human foods, drinks or drugs without knowing the proper proportions which may be used without detriment to human health."

BOB JONES COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

"I heard you preach over 30 years ago." That is what a minister said to me yesterday. "Thirty years ago!" That is not long. It seems long when you say it to young people. But when we get around 50 and look back, it seems such a short period of time. I was licensed to preach at the age of 15, and have been "on the job" for 39 years. Time has never dragged heavily on my hands. Life has never bored me. I have always had something to do and something that to me seemed worth while. The most miserable people in the world are the ones who have nothing to do except to do nothing.

"You look younger every day," I said to a good woman who is over 74 just a few days ago. I know why she looks young. She is mentally active and she has Christian faith. She has enthusiasm. She is interested in things. She is busy working for God. Few people die from overwork. The sin of worry kils thousands every year. More people die because they have nothing to do but have a good time than die from carrying the burdens of life. Of course, a person may have organic heart trouble or some other illness which makes it necessary for him to have rest and quiet. But generally speaking, I believe it pays to trust God, not worry, stay busy, and forget yourself.

A friend, Dr. H. C. Morrison, is over 80 years old. He is still going strong. He was supposed to die with heart trouble about 30 years ago. Several doctors said, "You will have to quit preaching." One good Christian physician said, "Get plenty of rest. Don't run up and down stairs. Don't let anything excite you. Keep on preaching." Dr. Morrison took the advice of the Christian doctor and has done his greatest work in the last 30 years. John Wesley was supposed to die young. He was most active and lived to be a very old man. I have not yet reached the "old man" period of life. I am just 54 and am supposed to be at my best. As far as I know, I am well in every way. My policy is to eat wholesome food, get plenty of sleep, keep a playful spirit, enjoy a good joke, spend a great deal of time with young people, not worry about anything, remember that God's grace is sufficient for every emergency, trust God like I could not do a thing, and work like I had everything to do. I may pass away suddenly, but from what I have observed I am convinced that my plan gives me the best chance to live. But listen to this, especially you young people: If I am God's servant and am completely surrendered to Him and am doing His will day by day, He will not let me go until He has something for me to do up there in the City where He has His throne. This is not fanaticism. It is good, Christian common sense. God wants us to use our heads. He gave us our heads. He wants us to take care of ourselves. But the best way to take care of ourselves is to lose ourselves in Him and His service.

We express our Appreciation for the business we have had in Chilton County, and extend the Greetings of the Season. May you all have a MERRY CHRISTMAS!

KIWANIS NEWS

Tonight, Dec. 30, marks the beginning of another year for the Clanton Kiwanis Club and the program to be held at the Thomason Hotel will include the installation of new officers for the new year and naming of various committees.

The new officers to be installed are Patterson Hicks, president; John W. Fant, immediate past-pres.; John C. Page, vice-president and J. Mell Martin secretary-treasurer.

Directors will be John D. Armstrong, O. T. Dickey, Saul M. Goldstein, Dr. V. J. Gragg, John Hollis, Dr. C. O. Lawrence and Luther Little.

A most active year has been recorded by the Kiwanis Club during the year 1937, according to J. Mell Martin who also served as secretary-treasurer during the past year. Some of the most instructive and entertaining programs ever held by the club were presented during the year.

C.D. HAYES ARRESTED ONLY ONCE

In the issue of The Union-Banner of December 2nd, in the report of the sheriff's activities, the name of C. D. Hayes was carried for public drunkenness. Then in the issue of December 9th in the report of the highway patrolman the same name for the same charge was carried.

C. D. Hayes was arrested only once, and both these reports referred to the same arrest. It was an oversight of this paper to carry the notice twice, and we hope that our readers will understand same. We gladly make this correction.

ERVIN LEE BEASLEY STUDYING LAW AT UNIVERSITY OF ALA.

Young Mr. Ervin Lee Beasley, of Jemison, who is studying law at the University of Alabama, is spending the holidays with his people at home. Mr. Beasley finished high school at Jemison in 1935, and entered the University the same year on September 11th. He is now in his third year, and by attending summer schools will be able to finish in January 1940.

He is the son of Henery N. Beasley, a farmer near Jemison. Young Beasley is operating a typewriter and radio exchange at the University, in which way he is paying most of his expense of attending college.

Tigers Defeated Jemison Last Wednesday Night

The Chilton County High School Tiger basketball team continued its winning ways last Wednesday night on the local court, taking the fast Jemison quint in tow to the tune of 35 to 21. It was the first time a Tiger team had whipped Jemison in several years.

The Tigers pulled away to an 8-point lead to start the game, but the Jemison lads came back in some degree, and the half found the count at 18 to 9, Chilton.

As the second half started, Coach Turner's team came on with a rush, and pulled to within four points of the locals. But after a time out, the Tigers began pulling away again, and seemed to just be really getting fired up in the last quarter, with Melton and Thornton, Johnson and Chambers, as well as Littlejohn, ringing the basket time after time.

Coach Turner put on the court a keen team, and one with lots of fight and agility, but they were no match for the unerring passwork dead-eye shooting of the Tigers. It would be hard to pick a star from the Chilton team—they played like a perfectly oiled and synchonized machine. Coach Turner's team likewise put on a good smooth show, and are due to give somebody a fit before the season is over.

HUGHES-TURNER WEDDING SOLEMNIZED CHRISTMAS DAY

A marriage of much interest to their many friends everywhere was that of Miss Delphine Turner of Troy to Ralph Hughes of Clanton and Nashville, Tenn., which was solemnized on Christmas Day at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Turner in Troy, with the Rev. J. O. Colley of that city performing the ceremony in the presence of a few friends and relatives.

Miss Turner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Turner of Troy and is one of the city's most popular young ladies.

Mr. Hughes is the son of Mrs. C. D. Hughes of Clanton and the late C. D. Hughes, former postmaster at Verbena. He is at present attending the Clapton-Jones School of embalming in Nashville, Tenn., where he will complete his course in this work in early March. He has many friends in Clanton and elsewhere.

DR. GRAGG ABLE TO BE OUT FOLLOWING ILLNESS

The many friends of Dr. V. J. Gragg are pleased to see him out and around his duties, following a week's confinement to his room with a severe winter cold. We all miss Dr. Gragg when we go a few days without contacting him and enjoying his invigorating smiles and encouraging conversations. We are glad to see him out.

NOTICE TO ALL W. M. S. OF CHILTON COUNTY

Notice to all W. M. S. of Chilton County of change in Executive Board meeting. It will be held on Thursday, January 6, 1938, at 10 o'clock. We expect all presidents and all associational officers, both old and new ones for 1938 to be present. Anyone else who cares to may attend. Expect to have a leader's institute for all associational officers; besides we make plans for the new year. Be sure to come.—Mrs. Lee J. Grant, Supt. 12-23-2t.

TUESDAY IS ELECTION DAY!

There has not been a great deal of agitation in Chilton County over the election which is to come off Tuesday of next week, January 4th, and very likely lots of people haven't thought much about it.

It is essentially a general election wherein the voters of Alabama will select a United States Senator to fill out the unexpired term of former Senator Black, who is now a Justice of the Supreme Court.

There are three candidates for the office, namely Lister Hill of Montgomery, J. Thomas Heflin of LaFayette, and Charles Williams of Wilsonville in Shelby County. Everybody concurs in that the race lies between Heflin and Hill.

The two men are both Democrats, running on the Democrat ticket, but as we said above, the election is essentially a general election, since the highest man will most likely be named to fill the vacancy. The platforms of the two men, however, are very varied. Hill has said that if he is elected he will do the biddings of President Roosevelt and the New Deal one hundred per cent. Critics have called him the "rubber stamp" candidate.

Heflin pins his hopes on the slogan that he will support the president when he thinks the president is right, and that he will oppose him when he thinks that he is wrong. Heflin has bitterly opposed the wages and hours bill; Hill has not. Hill enjoys the active support of the big dailies in the state—that is most of them, also the Democratic machine at Montgomery and Auburn, and the little Democratic machines in the various counties are most generally lined up for Hill.

Heflin is making and has made his appeal to the farmers and laborers in the rural districts, whom he promises to remember if he is elected.

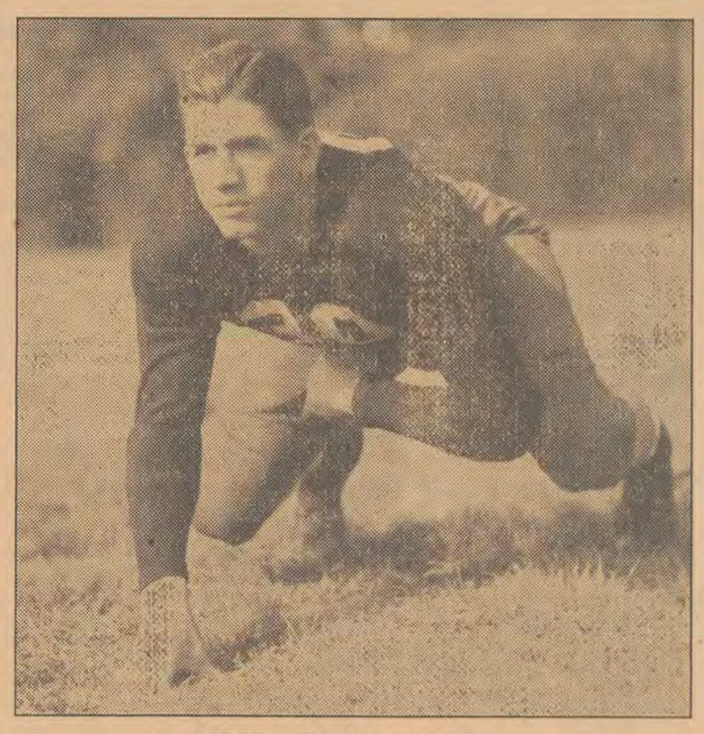
All qualified voters in Chilton County are eligible to vote in this election next Tuesday, both Democrats and Republicans. It is of sufficient importance that all qualified voters should participate. Therefore, let us urge all voters to go to the polls Tuesday and vote!

Participation in this election will not bar any elector from voting in either a Democratic or Republican primary election in the future, either later in 1938 or any time in the future.

HOMEMAKER'S SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS

Sunday will be the beginning of the second quarter in our Sunday school work. The attendance Bible for the first quarter will be awarded to the person making the highest number of points. For the second quarter the attendance points will be the same as those for the first quarter with the additional point for your twin being present added.

Select someone in the class to be your twin, and urge her to be at Sunday school Sunday so that you both may make your point, and start the New Year right.



For further information call Hattie Thomas or Mary Lois Foshee.

NOTICE

On Monday, January 3rd, 1938, Miss L. Collon, Isabella vocational home economics teacher, will meet with the Vermont ladies at the home of Mrs. George Sansom. The lesson is to be on "Baking Bread for the Home." It is hoped that a large number will be present at the meeting which will begin at 3 p. m.

On Wednesday evening, January 5, 1938, at 7 p. m., the women will meet as usual at the Vermont evening school with the men. Mr. G. Holmes will be the teacher of the men, and Miss Collon will be teacher of the women. Bring your children with you and we shall all have a good time together.

WALTER L. PETERSEN SPENT XMAS HOLIDAYS AT THORSBY

The Union-Banner had a pleasant caller Monday in the person of Mr. Walter L. Petersen of Fort Wayne, Indiana. Mr. Petersen had spent the Christmas holidays with his parents at Thorsby, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Petersen.

Connected with the Honolulu Conservatory of Music in Fort Wayne for two and a half years, Walter Petersen has risen to enviable heights in the art of playing and teaching Hawaiian, Spanish and tenor guitar music. Mr. Petersen attended Thorsby Institute in 1919, and finished his schooling in Ohio. He married in Ohio in 1935.

The Union-Banner was indeed glad ot have Mr. Petersen visit us while he was home down in the good old sunny South, although it was raining and pretty cold while he was here.

Carload Of Furniture Received At Tiffin's

Bedroom and Living Room Suites Offered On Liberal Terms

Tiffin Furniture Company, according to Mr. Tom Tiffin, has just received a full carload of brand new high grade furniture. And a special offer is being made to get this furniture removed. Bedroom suites and living room suites are being offered at one dollar down and one dollar a week. The bedroom suites are 12 pieces and the living room suites are 10 pieces.

Mr. Tiffin says that to really appreciate these and other outstanding values offered, one simply has to come in and see them.

Turn to another page of this paper and read the large adv. of the Tiffin Furniture Company this week.

WALTER L. CLARK WAS HERE TUESDAY

Chilton County's Show Man Spending Winter At Home

A pleasant caller at The Union-Banner office Tuesday was Chilton county's circus man, Walter L. Clark, from near Shelby, in the extreme northern part of Chilton county.

Mr. Clark got home six weeks ago from his regular tour of the country with the circus, he having worked last year with Haag Brothers. He has already signed up for the coming year with Cole Brothers Circus. He will leave the last of March and will join the show at Perue, Ind. The circus will take a northerly course from Perue, and after making that section next summer, will swing to the South for the late summer and Fall.

The Union-Banner is alwaysglad to see Walter Clark.

FARM FACTS

The dates for workers of the Alabama Extension Service to meet in Auburn to formulate the 1938 Alabama Extension program of work have been changed from January 2-8 to January 10-15, announces P. O. Davis, director.

Technicians of the Soil Conservation Service met in Auburn three days the past week and formulated their soil erosion program of work for 1938. The conference was called by O. C. Medlock, state co-ordinator.

A tribute to the Agricultural College, the Experiment Station and the Extension Service of Alabama features the "1938 Feeding Practices" published by the National Cottonseed Products Association.

During the pas five years the demand for Auburn trained graduates in vocational agriculture has far exceeded the supply. Between 12 and 15 per cent of the teachers of vocational agriculture in Alabama each year accept responsible positions in other fields.

Farm fire losses in the United States total some $90,000,000 this year, a reduction of about 10 per cent from that of 1938 and earlier years.

Sharp tools are needed the year-round on any farm; in winter, especially, a sharp axe comes in handy for cutting fuel wood or logs. Sharp tools save time and hard work.

STATE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

The Alabama State Chamber of Commerce points to the new plant of the Alabama Carbon Dioxide Ice, Inc., nearing completion in Shelby County as the type of diversified industry greatly needed in the State.

When it begins production January 1st the new $150,000 plant at Alabaster will mark the entrance of Alabama industry into a field completely new in the State.

This, one of the first large, modern plants in the South for the manufacture of solid (dry ice) and liquid carbon dioxide is another ample type of industrial development to meet existing needs in the State and it is financed entirely with local capital.

Among large users of solid carbon dioxide are ice cream and dairy products industries. Soft drinks establishments and bottling plants use quantities of the liquid in the carbonation of soft drinks. The liquid products is also employed effectively in the mining of coal.

Dry ice has been found most satisfactory in the shipping perishable products both by rail and by truck, inasmuch as it is economical and eliminates corrosion of equipment. It is indispensable for quick freezing and the preservation of food products, frozen food products being a new industry destined for rapid development.

J. H. Jackson Writes

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words in behalf of Mr. Heflin's candidacy for the United States Senate.

I wish to say that I think Mr. Hill has wrongfully accused Mr. Heflin. I lived in the same County near Mr. Heflin for many years, and am personally acquainted with Mr. Heflin. He is a common man and stands for the common people. He knows the burdens of the common people. I think Mr. Heflin should be commended for having so few laws passed while a Senator. It,s not the laws that have not been passed that have hurt this nation, but the ones that have—that is I'll say for the last 40 years. So, when it comes to clubbing down the evil spirits I don't think "Cotton Tom" can be beat.

So for as being loyal to his party is concerned, that is the only fault I find of Tom—he is too much so, but Tom don't put the party ahead of sound doctrine as many others do. Any person that prizes his party or creed above sound doctrine has lost site of truth and righteousness. So, I don't think that the people will go wrong to support "Cotton Tom Heflin."—J. H. Jackson.

MT CARMEL

Christmas day was an enjoyable day for relatives, neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Sewell. A Christmas tree, hunting, fireworks and a good dinner were some of the attractions. A very beautiful cake, a gift from relatives in Laurel, Miss., was the center of attraction at the dinner table. Relatives were:

Mr. and Mrs. Odis Sewell and baby of Clanton, Mr. and Mrs. Davis Sewell and baby of Columbus, Ga., Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Sewell and children of Bessemer, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Oden and children, and Mrs. S. C. Sewell.

Others were: Mr. Raymond Oden of Isabella, Misses Stella and Marie Smith of Enterprise, Mr. and Mrs. Luther Patterson and sons, Roy and Melvin; Mr. and Mrs. Buck Shaw and children of Clanton, and others who came after supper to enjoy radio programs and other amusements until a late hour.

The Christmas tree and program held at the church Friday night was real good. and we appreciate the good behavior more than words can express.

Mr. Tom Foshee is improving some, though, he is still confined in bed.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Cofer and son, of near Birmingham spent the past week end with relatives here.

Friends of Miss Eula Sanders are glad to know she is very much improved, and hopes to be home in the near future.

Mrs. Sims and Mrs. Oden spent last Thursday at Isabella school.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Sewell and children of New Orleans, spent a week with relatives here recently.

The W. M. U. meeting at Mrs. Watley's was very good even if not many were present. We hope more will attend the meeting Saturday afternoon at the church. Mrs. Nix will be with us at this meeting, so try to be there at 2 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Sanders and family spent Sunday with relatives at Billingsley.

Grocer Bjones: "So my little pal was kept after school. What for?"

Christy: "You don't say! How can you do with so little sleep?"

Dr. J. Toy Williams Writes From Ship

Honolulu, Hawaii, December 16th

Editor Union-Banner:

Please allow me space in your paper to say a few words to my friends in dear old Chilton. I am on the Dollar Lines Steamer, President Coolidge, on my way back to China. I did not have time to get around and say goodby to the friends there and am taking this means of saying goodbye and extending best Christmas greetings and New Year good wishes to all the people back at home. May all who read this have a Merry Christmas and a prosperous and useful New Year.

Since China and Japan are at war, some may ask why I am going back to China at this time. Let me say it was a call to go and I am glad to be able to go. A cablegram from Shanghai said my missionary and Chinese friends need me and want me to come back. Just as soon as I could after the cablegram came, I got ready and left home for China. I am glad to be on my way out again to serve my Master in that great and needy country.

On account of the war situation I had to leave my wife and children in America. They are staying at Tuscaloosa where my son, Dan, is attending the University. As soon as conditions get better my wife and daughter, Dorothy, will come on out to China to join me. Dan will remain in America for his college work. You may know that it is no fun to leave my own family behind in America, but it seems wise for them to stay in America until conditions are better in Shanghai.

From the human standpoint it is a great sacrifice to us to be separated in this way, but when we have done all we can in the way of sacrifice it is as nothing compared with what Jesus has done for us.

Some have asked if I were not afraid to go back to China now. No, I am not afraid to go back. I think there will not be a great deal of physical danger, and I shall try to keep out of danger as much as is consistent with the discharge of my duty from day to day. When Jesus told His disciples to go into all the world and preach the gospel, He promised to go with them. It is in this promise that I return to China, knowing that He will go with me and lead me in His service.

It is my purpose to write back to the paper from time to time and tell you some of the things I see and hear and know.

We are facing a very trying situation now in China and we shall need all the wisdom, patience, and consecration we can command. The prayers of the friends back at home will mean much to us in extending the Kingdom of our Lord in China. Let me urge all who read this to keep China on their hearts, remember this work at the Throne of Grace, and do all you can for the cause of Christ in Alabama, and throughout the whole world.

The Lord's best to all of you back at home! I shall be in Yohohama, Japan, on Christmas day and hope to be in Shanghai on New Years day. —J. Toy Williams.

LYNCHINGS, 1937 SAME AS LAST YEAR 1936

According to F. O. Patterson and the records compiled in the Department of Records and Research of the Tuskegee Institute that there were eight persons lynched in 1937. This is the same number eight as for 1936; 12 less than the number 20 for 1935; and seven less than the number 15 for 1934. All of the persons lynched were in the hands of the law; three were taken from jails, and five from officers of the law outside of jails. Two of the victims were tortured with a blow torch; then one was shot to death and the other was burned to death.

There were 56 instances in which officers of the law prevented lynchings. Five of these were in Northern States and 51 in Southern States. In 51 of the instances the prisoners were removed or the guards augmented or other precautions taken. In the five other instances, armed force was used to repel the would-be lynchers. A total of 77 persons, five white men and 72 negros, two women and 70 men, were thus saved from death at the hands of mobs.

Of the eight persons lynched, all were negros. The offenses charged were: rape, one; crime against nature and robbery, one; murder, four; wounding officer of the law, two.

The States in which lynchings occured and the number in each State are as follows: Alabama, one; Florida, three; Georgia, one; Mississippi, two; Tennessee, one.

THE GOSPEL OF MARK: A PREVIEW

LESSON TEXT—Mark 10:35-45.
GOLDEN TEXT—And whosoever of you will be the chiefest, shall be the servant of all.—Mark 10:44.
PRIMARY TOPIC—What Two Brothers Asked Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Who Are the Great?
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—A Look at the Gospel of Mark.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Mark's Gospel: Author, Origin, Theme.

Beginning a New Year is always a thrilling experience. The thought of an unwritten record is a pleasant one and at the same time most solemnizing. We must take heed, you and I, what we write upon that page which lies before us with the inviting caption—"1938."

Next to having New Year's day fall on Sunday, it is most appropriate that the Lord's day should come between the holiday of yesterday spent with our family and friends, and the work-day on the morrow, when we begin the year's labors. Today we tarry in God's house to pray and counsel together in the light of his Holy Word regarding the new year of grace and opportunity.

We begin today a six-month study of the Gospel of Mark, which presents Christ as the Servant of God. It is the Gospel of the mighty acts of divine power, rather than of words. It is characterized by energy and spontaneity. It moves rapidly. The characteristic words are "straightway," "immediately," and "forthwith," which are used more than forty times.

Before considering our lesson for today, we would undoubtedly like to "meet the author." John Mark was the son of the Mary in Jerusalem in whose home was "the upper room" where so many important events took place. He was a cousin of Barnabas and went with him and Paul on the first missionary journey. For some reason he lost heart and went home, much to Paul's distress. Happily we find that the young man redeemed himself in Paul's estimation and was later well spoken of by him (Col. 4:10, Phile. 24, and I Tim. 4:11).

The lesson text chosen for our "preview" of the Gospel is one which shows the weakness of human ambitions as contrasted with the true spirit of humble service which characterized Christ.

I. Selfish Ambition Rebuked (vv. 35-41).

Ambition is not in itself wrong, but when it becomes so extreme that it projects self forward at the expense of others it becomes selfish and destructive. The fact that these men were evidently earnest and were, indeed, seeking a place with the Lord in his glory does not change the situation. They were selfish even in dealing with holy things.

James and John had asked for a great honor in the kingdom, but had not sought to share in the suffering that preceded it.

Their own ignorance of what was involved, their own weakness, their observation of God's hand in the carrying out of his own plans, should have deterred them. There is such a thing as holy boldness, but there is also such a thing as unholy temerity.

II. Sacrificial Service Defined (vv. 42-45).

Christianity is not organized after the manner of secular government (v. 42). Much of the mischief that has come to pass in the church is the result of "running the church" as an organization, when it should be allowed to develop as a living organism.

Anyone who observes with even a little care knows that the church of Jesus Christ is hindered most seriously by the presence of pride and selfish ambition. Some people will not work unless they can rule. Their money is withheld unless it buys for them a dominating interest. The pastor is persona non grata unless he recognizes the desires of the "right" people. None of these things are done as obviously as our words would suggest. There is much careful "fixing" and "wire-pulling" behind the scenes. But it amounts to exactly the same thing, and it is all entirely foreign to the spirit of Christ.

Are there then no Christians who humbly serve the Lord? Yes, praise his name, there are many, and wherever they are found they are the salt of the earth. God uses and blesses them to his own glory. They may not be (and often are not) in "positions of leadership," but they are actually the leaders of the church in its true work on the earth.

MISS OLA RUFFIN AND MR. ROCKET ARE MARRIED

The marriage of Miss Ola Lyde Ruffin, youngest daughter of Jefferson Davis Ruffin, of Helena, and John Askew Rockett was sclemnized in the parlors of the Southside Baptist Church Birmingham at 5:30 p. m., Thursday, Dr. John H. Puchanan officiating.

The altar was banked with palms on the white standards, illuminated by white candles burning in branched candelabra. An arrangement of white flowers featured the mantel.

Miss Nida Louise Schmitz, of Tuscaloosa, lighted the candles as Mrs. James Ruffin, cousin of the bride, played a program of nuptial music, and Albion Knight sang. Miss Schmitz wore a peacock blue dress with brown accessories. Her corsage was of pink rosebuds.

Miss Mabel Ruffin, sister of the bride, served as the only attendant. She was costumed in a suit of black and white taffeta with accessories to match. J. C. Newton served Mr. Rockett as best man.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She was lovely in a Lanvin model of coronation blue, trimmed with white fox. Her off the fact hat of blue Spring felt was draped with a short veil. Her corsage was of orchids.

Immediately after the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Rockett left for New Orleans. After January 1 they will be at home in Troy, Ala.

BETHSALEM

We had a large crowd out for Sunday School last Sunday.

Our church is almost completed with the exception of the Sunday School rooms, which we hope will be finished soon.

The WMU of the church in going to give the YWA a banquet New Years night at the home of Mr. Len Green, everyone is envited.

Plates will be sold for 15c or 2 for 25c and children 10c each. The proceeds go to the YWA and church.

The WPA and PWA have spent over 11 million dollars in the erection and repair of school buildings in Alabama. The most of this has been done on the basis of 45 per cent grant and 55 per cent loan. The number of new buildings and additions to other buildings is given at 482.

President Roosevelt, Lister Hill, and James Roosevelt on rear platform of the Presidential special train as they returned to Washington, Monday, December 7, following a meeting on the Presidential train where Congressman Hill and the President discussed farm legislation and other matters of vital importance to the people.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES
Washington, D. C.
December 7, 1937

Hon. Franklin D. Roosevelt,
The White House,
Washington, D. C.

My dear Mr. President:

Permit me to express again to you my appreciation of the opportunity to discuss with you while on the train returning from Miami the need for adequate farm legislation.

It is most gratifying to the farmers of the country and to their friends to see your determination to continue with the program and carry out the pledge of the Democratic Platform so that the income level of the individual farmer may be raised.

With the assurances of my esteem and regards, I am,

Very sincerely,
Lister Hill

Honorable Lister Hill
House of Representatives
Washington, D. C

My dear Lister:

In reply to your letter of December seventh, let me say that I absolutely agree that we should continue working toward the goal pledged in the Democratic Platform to the end that the income level of the individual farmer may be raised.

Let me say further that I am very happy that you are standing squarely behind the program pledged in the Democratic Platform.

It was good to have the opportunity to talk with you and to get an idea of what your Committee has in mind.

With kindest personal regards,

Very sincerely yours,

MARS HILL

Last Saturday night and Sunday were our regular preaching dates, and we all enjoyed two excellent sermons delivered by Bro. Green. We are very proud to see our Sunday school coming to the front. Now that the old year is almost gone, let's all begin the New Year with new resolutions. Let's resolve to be better Christians, and better workers for our Lord and Master.

There is work for each one of us to do, and if we are true Christians we are not satisfied unless we are trying to do something for the upbuilding of thy cause and kingdom. So, let's all pray that we may have a prosperous New Year in our religious work's.

We are proud that Mrs. Eula Lawley is able to be at church again, after having a spell of sickness.

Mrs. Lloyd Baggett is still with a cold. We hope she will soon be well again.

Mr. and Mrs. Velpo Mims of Birmingham, are spending the holidays with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gothard.

Winford Smith and Snook Duren, who have been spending a few days with their parents returned to New Augusta, Miss. Sunday.

Mrs. Cluad Underwood's sister, Laura, from Birmingham, is spending a while with her.

Lonnie Smith, James and Ernest Abbott, spent Sunday with Milton and Feryl Lee Smith.

Mrs. Rena Mims was the dinner guest of Miss Leafy Smith Saturday.

Chestnut Creek

We are glad to state that the health of this community is very good at present.

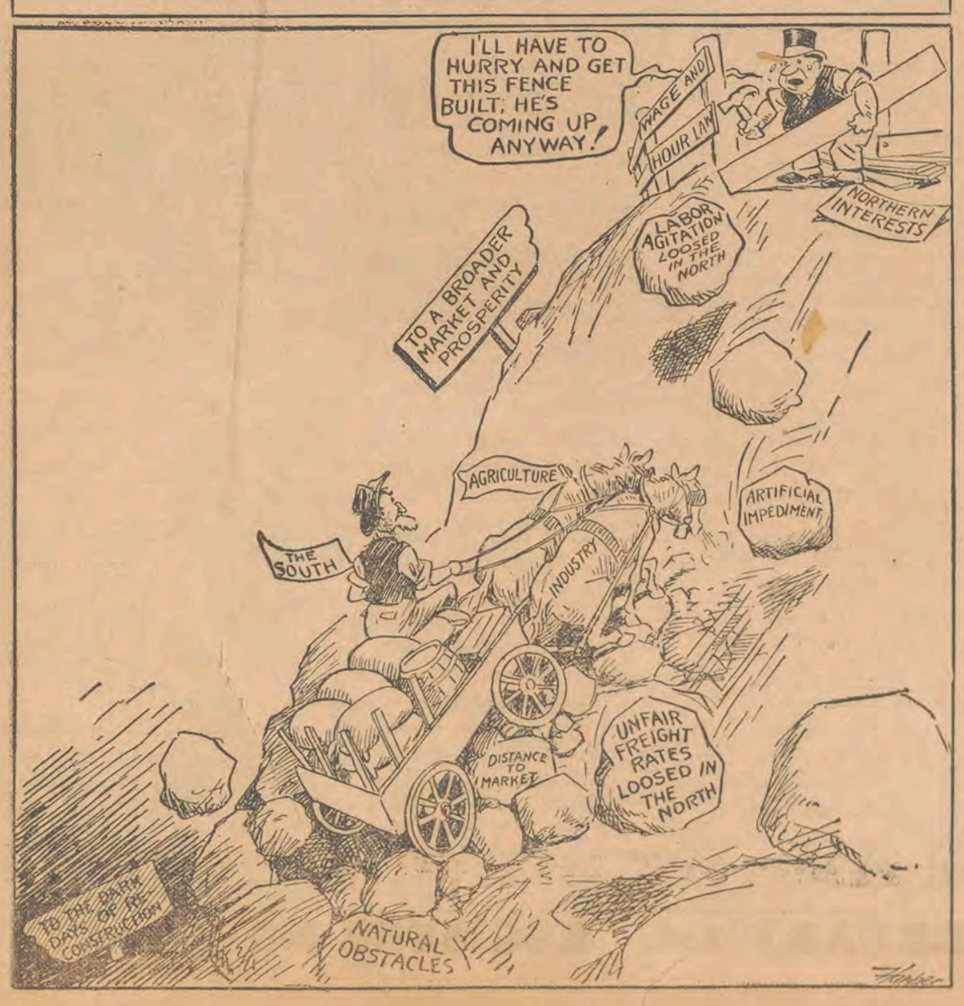
Misses Classie and Wilma Lucas, and Gladys Woods spent Christmas with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Lucas.

All Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Nabor's children, grandchildren, son-in-law, and daughter-in-laws, Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Jones and family of Jemison, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Haywood and family of Ensley, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Nabors of Baven, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Nabors of North Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. Max Nabors and children of Baven, all spent Christmas with them.

Mr. F. W. Ratenbury and family of Montevallo, spent Christmas day with Mr. J. R. Hall and family.

Miss Frances Lucas spent the day with Margaret Nabors Christmas.

Doctors Raymond Calloway of Birmingham and Lamar Calloway of Durham, N. C., spent the holidays with their mother here, Mrs. Dora Calloway.



Mr. Clyde Davis came up from Montgomery and spent the holidays with his sister in Jemison and friends in Clanton. We old timers around Clanton are always glad to see such old friends as Clyde Davis.

Trying To Keep A Good Man Down

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

Relief for Aliens.

SANTA MONICA, CALIF.—If an American were dependent on public charity in any continental country, he'd be out of luck and out of that country, too, as quickly as they could him out.

If, in addition, he openly attacked the government of that country, he'd still be out of luck because he'd be in jail.

Irvin S. Cobb

Hundreds of thousands of aliens are on relief here. Many of them slipped across the borders through leaks in our immigration laws—and brought their folks with them, also to be cared for at the taxpayers' expense. Some are avowed enemies of our form of government.

Steps to oust such parasites are balked on the ground that to do so would work hardships on their families. You could say the same thing for bedbugs.

We're starting to register these non-residents. But it's to be a "voluntary" registration, not compulsory. Any person in the audience, besides Madame Perkins, who believes the undesirables will come a-running to list themselves, and risk deportation thereby, kindly raise the right hand.

* * *

Champion Crooks.

TRUST California to turn up with a world's champion of something. They arrested a man on suspicion of burglary and forgery and organizing a training school for juvenile criminals and first one little thing and then another.

Surely that would seem to be career enough, but this party had additional claims to recognition. He admitted he had been sentenced to forty-nine terms in various jails and penitentiaries, which in itself would seem to constitute an international record, and said that in forty-three of these cases he had been paroled. He didn't explain how the big hearted parole boards failed to turn him loose before he finished those remaining six sentences.

It must be profound regret to the boys in Alcatraz and other bide-a-wee homes conducted by the federal government that, owing to the cruel refusal of Uncle Sam to go into the paroling business on a wholesale basis, none of them, however ambitious, has a chance to equal this splendid showing.

The honor remains where properly it belongs, constituting a magnificent tribute to the beautiful mush-headed theory that a state's prison should be a clearing house and not a strong-box with a time-lock on it.

* * *

Nazi Influence.

I'VE been talking with a friend just back from Germany. In old days, I liked Germany as a land flowing with gemuetlich and good beer and a superior line of liverwurst. I wonder whether I'd like it so well now.

Because this fellow says every minute everybody must give the Nazi salute and say, "Heil, Hitler!" If a citizen wants his eggs fried, he says first to the wuiter, "Heil, Hitler!" If he wants 'em turned over, he says it twice—once for each egg.

There's a swastika flag flying over practically every house. Absence of a swastika flag signifies that the folks who used to live there are now in the hoosegow for failing to fly same.

My friend may have exaggerated somewhat, but, I think, not much, because while talking we came abreast of a Leiderkranz cheese in a delicatessen store window and involuntarily he said, "Heil, Hitler!"

* * *

Nominating Barkley.

CANVASSES show Senate Leader Alben Barkley gaining as a possible Democratic nominee in 1940.

It's high time we had somebody from Paducah for President. For a hundred and fifty-odd years this republic has fooled along without one of our local boys sitting up there in the White House, writing messages to congress condemning the use of sugar in cornbread and proclaiming that, if any traitor dares to pull down fried catfish, shoot him on the spot.

With Alben on the job, we'll not only have homegrown statesmanship in job lots, but silver-throated oratory, which, by comparison, would make Patrick Henry seem like a tongue-tied man suffering from chapped lips. For Al can talk an hour and never use the same word twice or the letter "r" once.

Nominate Barkley and that night there won't be a dry throat in McCracken county. Elect Barkley and—well, I always did think I'd make a middling fair Secretary of the Interior; certainly nobody could botch up the Indian bureau worse than it is.

IN MEMORY OF BRO. HONEYCUTT

On December 18th, 1937, the Lord called from our midst Rev. R. M. Honeycutt, who was the oldest citizen of Chilton county, I would suppose. He lacked just a little being 93 years old. He had two sisters who lived to be a little over 100 years old, and he visited each of them on their 100th birthday. One of them lived in Mississippi, the other in Texas. Up until he was taken sick he obtained great hopes of reaching his 100th year. He had begun to think over what he would do should he reach that birthday, but on last Saturday night God said, "Son you have done enough," and called him out of this old troublesome world to the sweet Beyond to meet that good wife and son, George, and other relatives.

This had gone on before the writer had become acquainted with him. I knew him for 68 years. He was my first school teacher; to know him was to love him. Yes, I knew Bro. Honeycutt when he began preaching. He was among the first old time gospel preachers that helped to build the churches of this country. Yes, Bro. Honeycutt was conscientious in his stand he took for the church and the kingdom of God. He believed in a mourner's bench; he wanted to know, if possible, that men, women, boys and girls were saved from their sins before they joined the church. He never was a preacher to beg everyone to come and join the church, but plead mightily for people to repent of their sins. He knew if he could get them saved that they would not have to be urged to join the church. Yes, when a sinner, I gave him my hand as a mourner, asking for prayer many times. I am sure there are many others now living that have done the same thing.

His last sermon was to hold the burial services of Bro. Ellison Sims. I am glad that I was there to hear him. I visited him until he was carried to the hospital. And how I miss him. The joyful hours we had here together are over, but our loss I am sure is Heaven's gain. I recommend Bro. Honeycutt's life spent here to all. I wish we had our country filled with just such old time preachers.

He was buried at Pleasant Grove church, five miles wes[illegible] Jemison, officiating were: his pastor, Rev. J. N. Green, former pastor for 11 years; Rev. J. E. Thomas of Elomre County, Rev. J. N. Scott, Rev. W. S. Cox and Bro. Rufus Houldritch.

I have heard many compliments, so many talks in such short time, much could have been said.

I wrote this by request.—J. N. Scott.

You Deserve The Balance

Saving or not saving is simply a matter of paying less for the same quality.

When you pay less you keep the difference for yourself. It doesn't take long for such savings to add up to a neat sum. You might as well have that money. There are plenty of things you can do with it.

Every time a sale is rung up for you from the ads in this newspaper a saving is added up for you to keep in your pocketbook.

What Irvin S. Cobb Thinks about

After Dinner Speeehes.

HOUSTON, TEXAS.—Lately, for my sins, I've had to listen to a jag of after-dinner oratory, including plenty of mine. I hope people like to hear me. I do.

Feature writers say professional after-dinner speakers are dying out. That may be true in New York, where folks are anxious to get the dinner over with so they may hurry to the night-spots and do some sincere and earnest drinking in an effort to forget what the stock market did to them yesterday and what it's going to do to them tomorrow.

Irvin S. Cobb

But out in the hinterlands the new crop of native orators is a bountiful one; and the typical silver tongues of the great open spaces—I'm speaking of their neighborhoods although I might include their mouths—are still convinced that the sweetest music on earth is the sound of one's own voice uplifted in eloquence.

An English preacher had the best formula: Stand up to be seen, speak up to be heard, shutup to be appreciated. If he'd left out all but the last part, 'twould have been a perfect recipe.

* * *

Tomorrow's Treasures.

WANT to acquire untold wealth for your latter years, or, anyhow, for your grateful heirs?

Then collect things. Collect cheap things which are both common and commonplace. Then sit down and wait for these objects to become obsolete and therefore priceless. Yesterday's necessity is today's junk, but will be tomorrow's treasured antique.

Assume you'd saved up old circus bills, or Mississippi river steamboat menus, or buggy whips, or those handpainted slop-jars formerly found in all truly refined homes. Henry Ford or some museum would take a lot at any price.

I'm putting aside literary works of a purely imaginative conception. I have one perfect specimen of idyllic creation—a time-table of the old Florida East Coast railroad, also a complete working synopsis of the Townsend plan—just sheer fantasy. But the most fanciful romances are the platform pledges adopted at national conventions of the two great parties during the last twenty years—there's real fiction for you!

* * *

Germany's Colonies.

EVERY nation is united in the magnanimous attitude that to Germany should be restored the colonies taken from her by the winning side in the World's war—except the nations that acquired the said colonies in the split-up.

That's the main hitch. It's more than a hitch. It's a hard knot, tied originally with hate and sealed now with greed. In other words, sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander—unless it happens to be our gander, which naturally alters the case.

Nor seemingly has it occurred to any government that the original owners of Germany's former territorial possessions might like to have a say about whom they're going to belong to in future. But then, if ever we started considering the wishes of despoiled native tribes over the world, where would the white man's noble civilization be?

* * *

Cosmopolites.

THE last time before this that Captain Mike Hogg and Major Raymond Dickson returned to their ranch at Cast Blanca, Mex., they were just back from New York.

That night, at the bunkhouse, the hands, mostly Texas lads, foregathered to hear the bosses tell about the wonders of the great city. One or two of them had visited New York, so these cosmopolitans proceeded to exhibit their familiarity with its sights.

"Major," said one, "I reckon old Grant's tomb's still doin' business at the same stand, eh?"

"And I bet the aquarium is right where she was when I was there," said another. "And all them tall buildin's."

There was present one lanky youth who had never been fifty miles away from where he was born, in a bend of the Rio Grande; probably never had seen a town of more than a thousand inhabitants. But with all these seasoned travelers showing off, he didn't mean to be left out. He waited for an opening.

"Cap'n Mike," he said, "tell me, is that there same feller still runnin' the hotel in New York?"

Chlorena Solution Kills Icebox Odors

One of the peskiest jobs around the house is keeping the ice box clean and sweet smelling. With so much food going into the ice box, the refrigerator accumulates a number of disagreeable, strong odors, unless precautions are taken to keep it clean.

A good deodorizing disinfectant is one of the surest agents for keeping the ice box in top shape. One tablespoon of a strong disinfectant such as chlorena powder in a quart of water makes an effective germ and odor killer for the ice box. Usually a refrigerator will not need to be washed with this chlorena solution more than once a week, and wiped out with a damp cloth in the intervals. When strong cheeses, vegetables, melons, or large amounts of meat have been kept in the ice box a day or two, immediate deodorization is necessary.

Chlorena Kills Odors

If food has been left too long in ice box dishes or hydrators and allowed to mold or spoil, the containers should be thoroughly disinfected before fresh food is put in. One tablespoon of chlorena powder in a gallon of water will make a bacteria-killing solution that will leave it bacteria-free and sweet smelling. The same strength solution can be used for disinfecting dishes and receptacles from the sick room, for rinsing dishes, taking away fish odors, and for sterilizing canning equipment.

Varied Uses Around House

Chlorena powder comes in one and three-pound cans, packed with a measuring spoon inside. It is such a highly concentrated disinfectant that three pounds makes 500 gallons of rinse. It is available wherever Purina livestock and poultry feeds and sanitation products are for sale.

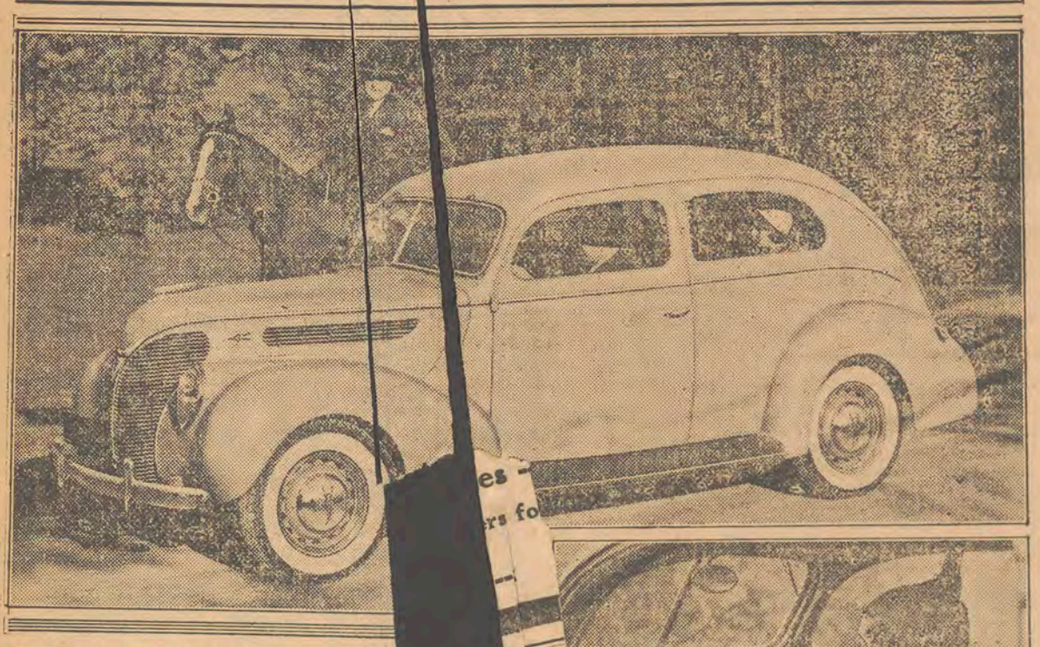
NEW ROOST PAINT EASY TO APPLY

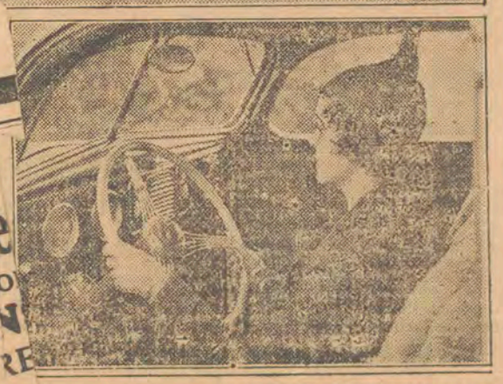
Gray Summit, Mo.—Theoretically, birds always come home to roost. Sometimes they would be better off if they didn't. A mite-infested roost pole in an unclean poultry house is a poor place to spend the night.

Brush Attached to Top of Can Makes Application Easy.

A thorough cleaning of the poultry house is recommended as the first step in ridding it of mites. Spraying the house with a solution of cresofec reinforced with crankcase oil helps do away with the pests. To kill the lice on the birds themselves, painting the roosts with a good roost paint is advised. This should be done just before birds go to roost, poultry experts at the Purina Experimental Farm say.



Will Not Injure Birds



To determine what should go into a good roost paint, Purina scientists ran 520 experimental one-bird roost tests. The result is a roost paint effective in killing power without being harmful to birds, and one that's easy and cheap to use. This new roost paint is a combination of lice and mite killing ingredients made with a glycerine base which spreads easily and smoothly and does not stain feathers. Birds can go to roost immediately after the paint is applied with no danger of blistering their feet or breasts. In the many field trials of this new roost paint, not a single bird has suffered from it. Its light odor makes it inoffensive to the person applying it.

Each can containing this new roost paint comes with a brush attached to the cap, to make application easier. Feed stores handling Purina poultry feeds carry this new roost paint for the convenience of their customers.

It is said that German statesmen have indicated they are willing to fight to get some colonies if necessary. They should remember that fighting was what lost them the colonies they had.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt says she has heard no third term talk at home. That's all very well, but when has Mrs. Roosevelt been home?—Washington Post.

The long hunt for the old fashioned watchdog of the treasury is over, and it turns out to be Mr. Morgenthau. Now to find the treasury.—Portland Oregonian.

OLD FASHIONED ECONOMIC ROYALIST

Cleveland, Ohio, has just lost a citizen, William C. Martin, who having worked for 55 years at an average weekly salary of $24 left an estate of $162,052. He was the "savingest man" Daniel E. Morgan, who as city manager was his boss, ever knew. Mr. Martin served a steel company as clerk for 33 years and as an auditor in the city water department thereafter. He lived to be 76.

Mr. Martin deserves more extended biography than the newspapers conferred on him. What were his pleasures? Did he eliminate from his life anything really worth while.? Was his ordered existence dull and depressing? Did he have a hobby, or was saving his hobby? Was he good tempered or crochety? Did he bore spendthrifts by lecturing them, or was he content to set them a good example? Was he as sparing of words as he was of coins?

One thing is sure. President Roosevelt never asked Mr. Martin to balance Uncle Sam's budget.—New York Sun.

NOT SO EASY

Attempts to reduce federal spending after five years of extravagant pump priming are proving not so easy as expected. Members of congress who followed the New Deal with great gusto when appropriations were being made, portions of which went into their own states or districts, are not so well pleased now that some efforts are being made to retrench in certain directions. The first suggestion of the president, that appropriations for highway construction be curtailed, met with much congressional criticism, despite the fact that the president's critics have been mean enough to say that the administration started in on highway curtailment because it seemed to have fewest possibilities for political damage.

However, the president is learning that it is easier to control congress when more money is wanted for public spending than it is to cut down on the spending after the dear public has become used to the visits of Santa Claus. Since 1932 the administration has been promising economy and practicing profligacy. Now the boys at Washington are discovering that it is difficult to change horses in the middle of the stream. Promising economy went over good with the public, so long as it need not be taken seriously.

Now, however, when the demand from the thinking public for economy has become loudest, it is unfair as some New Dealers have done to suggest that the critics specify where the cutting ought to be made.

After all it is the duty of the administration and not the public to outline the exact policies of retrenchment. Congress and the rest of the administration were elected by the people to run this great machine known as the United States. They are therefore under obligation to run it efficiently and to use sound judgment.

When the stockholders in a business corporation elect directors they expect the directors to operate efficiently or to resign. In the case of the government, of course, it would be violating human nature to expect any resignations. Yet the directors are morally obligated to proceed with sound economic policies, without calling on the men who elected them to tell the "directors" what to do.

A professor in Alabama University says that the soft Southern accent was caused, not by the negro, but by the English. Fair enough. Over in England they blame everything on the United States.

Times are certainly changing. The Democrats are quoting Lincoln, the Republicans are quoting Jefferson, and even Sen. Glass intimates Alexander Hamilton may not have been such a bad guy after all.

When he reads about the billions spent for relief activities during the last few years, wonder if it doesn't make Santa Claus feel a little futile?

Giant sea elephants, a few years ago almost extinct, are becoming numerous off the coast of Southern California. This ought to encourage the G. O. P. for a comeback on land.

Remember the good old horse and buggy days when you could read the morning paper at breakfast without having to scan war headlines on the front page?

As a dance—from all that we can learn—the Big Apple comes under the head of small potatoes.—Cincinnati Times-Star.

MAN IN THE MOON

THE MEANS TO AN END

One of the main objections many people over the nation have had to a great number of President Roosevelt's projects all the while has been the manner in which he went about attaining his objectives. I think no one can deny that the president has had some good ideas about things that ought to be done, but the way he has gone about to bring these things to pass has evinced strong objection from earnest people in all parts of the country. That idea prevalent a few months ago, that the president could do no wrong, is a thing of the past. Also gone is the wholesale sympathy of the nation with his experiments on the theory that he might try anything to effect a cure for the nation's ills.

To try anything! That has been the keynote of the president's program. He has set his path to certain ends, but has proceeded on the theory that "the ends justify the means", and this theory was proved dangerous long, long before President Roosevtlt saw the light of day.

Let us take an example. Suppose a man has a bad headache, and of course wants to be rid of it. The sensible thing to do would be to take proved remedies for it. This might be a little slow, but in the end the man would lose his headache yet keep his head and be as good as ever. Now, according to Mr. Roosevelt's idea of taking the shortest way out, the thing to do would be to chop the man's head off—that would stop any headache, and in record time, too, much faster than the old remedial method. But what about the man? It would get him out of his pain, but we could hardly call it a sane cure for his headache.

Compare this with the Supreme Court issue. President Roosevelt believed the country needed certain laws (to cure its headache), and had them passed. The law doctors (the Supreme Court) said they were unconstitutional. Someone told the president that the Constitution is only what the Supreme Court majority says it is. And then, happy idea—the president hit upon the plan of reorganizing this Court, and putting men on the bench (and enough of them to insure a majority) who would say that those laws were constitutional. That (to him) would effect a cure for his sick laws and the nation. True, there was another, a legitimate and proved way, provided by the Constiution in the beginning, to get those extra judges on the bench—by popular referendum on a constitutional amendment to give the president the right to appoint them, but the president said that was too slow. He wanted to junk the old reliable and proved remedies, and take a short cut, but his path was blocked by congress. This plan was too radical and dictatorial for even the swivel-necked yes-men of that "august" body to pass.

Had this short cut, this means of changing the court, been passed, it would have chucked out of the window all precedent, all proved methods, all the traditional methods by which our government has grown and prospered. It would have made the laws valid, in a way, but at the same time it would have cut off the head of the sovereignty of the people, and so far as representative government is concerned, this nation would have been right back where it was when King George III of England held sway, before our national constitution was ever drawn.

National sanity seems to be seeping back, slowly, and it will most likely be many years before we are brought as close to throwing over our tried and proved national order of government as President Roosevelt tried to do when he advocated his dictatorial court packing suggestion.

Yes, a headache needs to be cured, all right, but the riddance of that headache does not justify cutting the patient's head off in order to effect it. Better to keep the headache, for the remedy would be worse than the disease. The end does not justify the means in every case.

AN ASSUMPTION

According to press dispatches the president, at a recent conference with newspaper men at the White House on his return from Florida, asserted in response to a question on the subject that the so-called business recession in the United States is just an assumption. This is the most reassuring statement we have encountered. Judging from numerous things which we have heard, we have been of the opinion that there is something tangibly the matter with buiness. It is good to know that this is only a supposition, which term is used as a definition for "assumption" in the Standard Dictionary.

Evidently our hearing and our sight are not so good as formerly. We have heard and read in the newspapers that U. S. Steel stock has dropped from 125 to its 1932 neighborhood of the 50's, and that other securities have acted accordingly; that 25 billion dollars had been squeezed from the value of American securities since Labor Day. We had read also that automobile production plans and other manufacturing concerns were arranging part time work and "vacations" for their employes.

Not long ago we read that the president has suggested a great home building program to stimulate business and take up the slack that had been evidencing itself during the past few months. We saw in our newspaper also that he had been conferring with business leaders relative to programs to set up business.

We are glad to know that all of these facts and figures are based on an assumption that something is wrong when there may not be. Personally we hope that the business machine will be hitting in high again at the turn of the year and that we will soon get back to normal. But we don't believe that calling the business slump an assumption will help any more than talking about a prosperity that is just around the corner.

Fordham University the other day recorded an earthquake thousands of miles away in the Southern Hemisphere. Maybe some of those former German colonies are getting nervous.

An Indiana farmer watching an airplane sail overhead swallowed his false teeth. Now the legislature ought to pass a law making it illegal for airplanes to fly over persons who wear false teeth.

Democrats object when the Republicans call it a depression, and Republicans protest when Democrats call it a recession. Why not call it a New Dealpression?

Reports from England are that crowds are hailing the King as he makes a tour of the farming regions. What's he doing, putting on a crop control program?

President Roosevelt has added 13 acres to his Hyde Park farm, but this won't affect his corn and wheat quota.

IN RUSSIA

Communism in Russia has not brought peace to the proletariat or security, or plenty. It promised to establish a classless society. It has brought forth a new privileged class and new aristocrats more tyrranical and hardly less competent than those it destroyed. Worst of all, it has created a system of propaganda called education which shuts off all knowledge of the outside world, all free inquiry or criticism from the masses. By this means, backed by organized force and terrorism, it has reduced the Russian people to a slavery more hopeless than czardom could impose.—Chicago Tribune.

COMMENTS ON HERE AND HEREAFTER.

"The church has failed". That is often said. Sometimes there is a basis of truth in the statement. The church has failed to give the Gospel to the world as God commanded. The Gospel has not failed. It has always done just what God intended it to do. "The Gospel is the power of God unto salvation to everyone that believeth." I underscore the word "everyone". Men talk about "the social Gospel". There is no social Gospel in the Bible. The Gospel is the good news story that God loves sinners and Jesus died to save sinners. That is the power of God not for the salvation of society because of certain ethical applications, but for the salvation if "everyone" that believeth. The Gospel never fails. It may be preached and rejected. If it is preached and someone believes, then it is the power of God to that someone. God did not say, "The Gospel is the power of God". He said, "It is the power of God to everyone that believeth". It can not be believed unless men know it. Men can not know it unless someone tells them. The duty of the church is to tell men everywhere. If the church tells them, she has done as she was commanded. No church can fail if she gives the Gospel to the people. A church that dose not preach the Gospel has already failed. It has failed in its effort to be a church. Such a church is nothing more nor less than an ordinary club.

Today the writer conducted four services in the city of Jackson, Miss. One of these he will never forget. It was a prayer service which is conducted in the state capitol once each week and is sponsored by the employees in the State Department of Education. There were approximately 60 people present. They sang old time evangelistic songs and I made a Gospel talk and led in prayer. It was one of the most refreshing services it has ever been my privilege to attend. I am glad there are still some people in public office who recognize their responsibility to God. God will hold presidents, governors, senators, and all other public officials to account for anything in their lives which does injury to the moral and spiritual welfare of the people. Under our form of government we must have separation of church and state. But this does not mean that public officials are not as individuals to give their Christian testimony. The measure of our responsibility is the measure of our opportunity. The more influence and power men have the greater is their responsibility. The higher men ascend in this world the greater weight their words and example carry. The words of the President of the United States carry great influence not only in our land, but across the seas. Suppose the president should say, "I am a Christian. I believe that Jesus Christ was the Son of God and that He died a vicarious, substitutional death on the cross for me. I trust Him as my Savior. I wish that men everywhere would accept Him as a personal Savior. The world needs Jesus more than it needs anything else". I do not say that he should, under our form of government, make that statement as the official head of this nation, and make it on some state occasion, but he, if he is a saved man, owes it to his Lord to give his testimony to the world. Being president or governor or justice on the Supreme bench does not relieve any Christian of his responsibility to witness for Jesus. The position really increases his responsibilty. It is one things for some obscure person to go on a fishing trip on the Sabbath. It is another thing for the President of the United States to travel all day on a train to Miami, Fla., in order to get on a fishing boat on Monday. There is enough of that sort of spiritual looseness in this country without any such example by the president.

INDOOR RODEO IN BIRMINGHAM

Birmingham, Dec. 27.—For the thousands of Alabamians who can't go west to attend the Alabama-California game Milt Hinkle will bring the west to Alabama, starting Wednesday, January 12.

Hinkle, who accompanied Teddy Roosevelt on his famous River of Doubt expedition, and who has mounted more horses than any other man in the world, will bring his Texas Rangers to Birmingham January 12-16 to present the first indoor rodeo ever held in the South.

The Birmingham Municipal Auditorium, which seats 6,000 people, will be turned into an indoor ranch as Hinkle presents wild horses, wild steers and bucking broncos.

The entire week has been dedicated "Rodeo Week" in Alabama, and thousands of fans from all over the state will come here to help make this the biggest rodeo ever held in the South. The only other indoor rodeos ever held were staged at the Madison Square Garden in New York and at the Coliseum in Chicago.

The thunder of horse hoof and the yelping of cattle will turn the mammoth Birmingham auditorium into a stampede of action, an avalanche of thrills, and a house of humane kindness.

Five days of rip-roaring, hair-raising and blood-curdling entertainment will be offered the true lovers of horse and cow flesh. With Hinkle, greatest cowboy of them all, at the reins, this rodeo will bring the West to the South as only the Texas Rangers can do it.

This will be a sporting event and not a wild west show, as the animals are not trained, but untamed.

OFFICE OF ATTORNEY GENERAL

In Alabama, the office of Attorney General was created by the constitution, and is clothed with all powers and functions devolving upon it under the common law except where some constitutional statute may provide otherwise. The legislators from time to time have enacted laws which have placed additional duties upon the Attorney General's office. During recent years these duties have grown to assume tremendous proportions. As these duties have increased, additional assistants have had to be provided. Conditions arise from time to time which make it necessary to employ special assistants to look after certain litigation in which the state is interested.

During the last fiscal year 580 opinions were written by the Attorney General and his assistants; 499 of them have been issued since January 1, this year. Many of these were an interpretation of the sales tax law, the homestead exemption law, and the alcoholic beverage control act.

Alabama Health Department maintains 9 laboratories which are used for making tests of specimens of various kinds sent in from all parts of the state to aid physicians in diagnosing cases that come under their observation. The main laboratory is located in Montgomery, and branches are maintained in Birmingham, Mobile, Decatur, Tuscaloosa, Anniston, Selma, Dothan, and Huntsville. The records show that during the past year 360,139 specimens were examined by these laboratories.

Beware Coughs from common colds That Hang On

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

KUDZU IS EXCELLENT EROSION CONTROL Cn.

Auburn, Ala.—Kudzu, a perenn plant, is valuable as a hay crop, ten orary grazing, and erosion contr "It ranks in food value with afa fa," repods J. C. Lowery, agronomist Alabama Extension Serbice. "he plant is propagated by setting crons during the late winter or early spng and before growth begins. A sm acreage set on good smooth land vll furnish sufficient hay for the av- age farm. During the summer or fl when pastures furnish little grazin livestock may be permitted to gra on the kudzu a few hours each day.

ECONOMIC DEATH AND DISASTER

As the official Head of the Alabama Department of Agriculture and Indus- tries, I feel it my duty to make a statement to both the farm and busi- ness people of Alabama concerning federal farm legislation now pending in the United States Congress.

It is my thoughted opinion and firm conviction that the passage of a Na- tional Farm Bill carrying certain pro- visions included in either the House bill or the Senate bill, or a combina- tion of the two, will mean economic death and disaster to Alabama and the Cotton South.

The federal farm bills passed by both the House and the Senate, which have been referred to a Conference Committee, would prevent the use of acres diverted from cotton to the pro- duction of food, feed and forage crops necessary for the expansion of a live- stock and dairy industry in Alabama. The enactment and enforcement of such a provision would consign Ala- bama Agriculture to a continuously lower and lower income from the one cash crop of cotton, without the possi- bility of providing a satisfactory in- come from any other source. The only hope for prosperity to all of our people lies in a higher agricultural ncome and a greater industrial de- elopment. I cannot accept legisla- on preventing either or both with- t making as vigorous a protest as ssible, and without explaining to r people my reasons for such posi-

FARMERS ADVISED OBTAIN GOOD SEED IN JANUARY

Auburn, Ala.—Plans should be made for obtaining good seed of recom- mended varieties of cotton anl corn, says J. C. Lowery, extension agrono- mist.

Where possible, seed should be ob- tained from the breeder. If the seed are obtained from other sources other than the breeder, it is important to know the history of the seed as to the number of years since the ariginal stock was obtained from the breeder and how they were handled to pre- vent mixing.

It is important to obtain seed early because good seed are frequently scarce late in the season.

MAPLE SPRINGS

There were only a few Sunday school members present Sunday, but we hope the people will come more regularly than heretofore.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Glenn spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Glenn and family.

Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Glenn and chil- dren were the Saturday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Devaughn and children.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith and chil- dren of Anniston, Ala., visited Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Ogletree and Mrs. Gertrude Schumacher during the Christmas holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lewis and daughter, Margie Nell, and Ruth Gray spent a while Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Glenn and children.

In 1934 Alabama hens produced 28,- 169,922 dozen eggs. It would take three times this number to supply each person living in Alabama with one egg a day.

THORSBY JR. HIGH DEFEATS CALERA

On Tuesday night, December 21, the Thorsby Jr. High quint mowed down the Calera Juniors by the count of 38 to 18. The game opened up with both teams breaking swiftly, but the Thorsby boys cut loose with a bar- rage of uncanny shooting and led the visitors at the end of the first quarter by the score of 19 to 0. The game developed into a rather drab affair from here on. The half closed with Thorsby leading 27 to 3.

The second half opened with many substitutes being inserted into the Thorsby line-up. From this point in the game the Calera boys began to crack through the defense and manag- ed to net 10 points while the locals were looking 7. The count ending at the 3rd quarter, 34 to 13. The last five minutes of the last quarter the Thorsby youngsters confined their play to passing only, netting three ad- ditional points while their opponents registered five. Hayes for Thorsby found the hoop for 20 points; Kin- caid and Deason gave a fine display of defensive play; Collins and Little- ton confined their best playing to a fine exhibition of pass work. Blank- enship starred for Calera, netting 10 points; Comer starred as guard.

BYRD G. JONES BURIED LAST THURSDAY

Byrd G. Jones, age 67 years, died last Thursday morning, December 23, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Carolyn Shaw, in Birmingham. Fu- neral services were held from First Methodist church, Clanton, Friday af- ternoon, conducted by Dr. James Mar- vin Truett. Burial was in old Mullins cemetery, Martin & Sons directing. Pallbearers were: C. B. Cox, C. R. Mullins, Dr. J. E. Gowan, O. T. Dickey, John Pearson and H. S. Shaw.

Surviving are the wife, Mrs. Minnie Jones; two daughters, Mrs. Carolyn Shaw of Birmingham, and Mrs. Sarah J. Hadder of Montgomery. There was one son, Thomas Applewhite, who died some four years ago. There are three grandchildren. There is two brothers, Oscar W. Jones of Clanton, and Claude Jones of Bessemer, Ala.; three sis- ters, Mrs. W. Z. Hodges of University, Ala., Mrs. Irene Rasberry and Mrs. Lake Prince both of Clanton.

Cullman County produced more eggs than any other county in the state in 1934. Its production in that year, ac- cording to federal census, was 1,035,- 897 dozens. Baldwin was a close sec- ond with 1,009,278 dozens. These are the only counties that ran over the million mark.

The Union-Banner, 1 Year $1.00

Madison raised more chickens in 1934 than any other Alabamam county, the number being 323,971. Marshall was second with 294,228. Montgomery took the lead in raising turkeys, the number being 5,264. Sumter was sec- ond with 4,800.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Edwards was buried at Mt. Pisgah Monday afternoon, Martin directing.

CHRISTMAS PARTY

On December 17th, the Jemison chapters of F. F. A. and F. H. A. honored ther parents with an unsual Christmas party.

After the impressive opening cere- mony by the officers of the two clubs, the guests were welcomed by Clarence Smith. The club members then pre- sented a Christmas program featuring carols and stories.

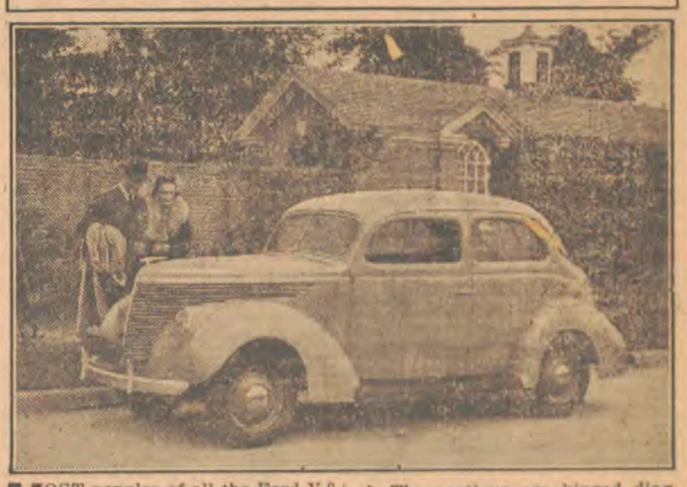
At the request of C. H. Wells, presi- dent of Jemison F. F. A. guests were recognized by Mr. Denson, director of agriculture at Jemison. Guests included the mothers and fathers of club members. Jemison school facul- ty, Mr. and Mrs. J. Sorrell, superin- tendent Luther E. Little, Mr. George Sargent, assistant supervisor of agri- culture for Alabama, and Mr. H. F. Gibson, subject matten specialist for Auburn.

In an interesting sequence of talks the invaluable work of vocational training was discussed. Katherine Green with the topic, "What Voca- tional Home Economics Means to Me" and Arnold White with, "What Voca- tional Agriculture Means to Me," im- pressed everyone with the tremendous value of vocational education in de- velopment of character, personality, homemaking, ability and efficient management.

Mr. Peterson, Jemison High School principal, was asked to tell some- thing of the importance of vacational education to the school; superintend- ent Little, the importance of vocation- al education to the county.

In the conclusion of the program, students and parents joined in a series of laugh provoking games. Plates were served by the girls of the F. H. A.

G. A. GIRLS MET



On Tuesday, December 21, at 3:30 p.m., the Jr. G. A. girls met at the home of Mrs. W. J. Billingsley for a Christmas program. The front room was decorated with a nice Christmas tree. Presents were under the tree for all 16 G. A. girls present. There were three visitors: little Mary Bent- ley, Frances McSwain, and Mary Francis Jones. Games were played, and presents were given out by Santa Claus. Fruit was served by Mrs. Bil- lingsley. All went home with a happy Christmas spirit.

EXTENSION WORKS WILL MEET JAN. 3-8

Auburn, Dec. 20. — The annual meet- ing of workers of the Alabama Ex- tension Service will meet in Auburn January 3-8.

"The 1938 Alabama extension pro- gram of work and plans for the most effective application of the program will be formulated during the meet- ing," says P. O. Davis, director, in an- nouncing dates for the meeting.

1938 Ford V-8 Standard Tudor Sedan

MOST popular of all the Ford V-8 body types is the standard Tudor sedan, shown above. A longer hood, more sweeping lines and newly-designed front end, grille, louvres, fenders and hubcaps are featured. The car is available either with 85 horsepower or 60 horse- power V-8 engine. Interiors are at- tractively appointed. The front seat is full width. The seat back is ed. The sections are hinged diag- onally and swing inward as they are tipped forward so as to leave a wide passageway on either side for en- trance to the rear seat. Like all Ford body types the Tudor sedan has a large built-in luggage com- partment. The standard cars are eng ered for owners who demand the maximum of economy in first cost and operating cost.

THE SPECIAL SESSION OF CONGRESS

[AN EDITORIAL]

The recent special session of congress adjourned after doing exactly what we had come to expect congress to do—nothing. With the president's prestige and leadership on the rocks, and the rift in the ranks of his party growing wider, the lawmakers met, wrangled and adjourned in keeping with the best Democratic tradition.

Congress did give the country one welcome Christmas gift, by defeating the Roosevelt wgaes and hours bill. This measure would have put the nation in an economic strait-jacket, with the government regulating wages and hours of work, and a new horde of federal agents interfering with business. The measure was defeated by a combination of conservative Southern Democrats and Northern Republicans, who worked together in perfect harmony to administer a smashing defeat to Mr. Roosevelt and his radical friends. Newspaper writers have hailed the significance of this "bi-partisan revolt", which had for its joint leaders Bertrand Snell, the Republican house spokesman, and Rep. McReynolds, staunch Democrat from Tennessee. Practically all Southern Democrats lined up with the Republicans against the measure.

We have repeatedly predicted in this column that the socialism of Roosevelt would wind up by driving the conservative South into alliance with others of like mind in the North, as represented by the Republican party. We first made this prophecy over a year ago, when the South seemed hopelessly tied to the New Deal's chariot wheels and apparently content to be the tail of Mr. Roosevelt's experimental kites. We have come to see the Southern backbone stiffen almost overnight, with congressmen from this section asserting their independence more rapidly than we had expected or hoped for. In the wages and hours fight, as in the Supreme Court fight, party lines were cast to the winds and the better class of Democrats lined up with Republicans to defeat the radical Roosevelt wing of the party.

Five years ago no Southern Democrat probably ever imagined that he would ever draw solace and comfort from the presence of a Republican minority in congress. Today, this steadfast block of Republican votes in both houses must look mighty good to the old fashioned Southern statesmen who have been equally steadfast in resisting Mr. Roosevelt's greed for power. We do not know yet just what the outcome will be. We do know that already a practical working alliance has been formed between Democrats of the South and the Republicans—a coalition that would have been unthinkable a few years ago.

The truth is that the American people have always been conservative in politics. The trouble has been that since the Civil War the conservatives have been divided. Those in the North are Republicans, those in the South voted the other way because of inherited aversion for the Republican party. It looks like the Roosevelt program is forcing better class Americans, North and South, to reunite for their own preservation. This is one achievement for which we gladly give the New Deal credit.

Just how badly the Democratic party is split apart is evident from utterances of some of its spokesmen after the pet project of the CIO had been defeated by the Southern-Republican alliance. Democrats from the big cities of the North, interested in catering to the radical labor wing, denounced their Southern brethren, many of them frankly threatening to wreck the farm bill and so "get even with the cotton boys" as one of them expressed it. Rep. Cannon, Democrat, of Wisconsin, assured the House that "Northern liberals will be found against any Southern proposals" at the next session. The South was threatened with the anti-lynching bill, and the bloody shirt was flaunted to the breeze, not by Republicans but by Democrats, disgusted because they can no longer count on Southern votes to further their radical schemes.

The wages and hours bill was opposed by the intelligent element of organized labor, including President Green of the American Federation of Labor. Thoughtful labor leaders realized that if congress should be allowed to fix a minimum wage, it would also have the power to fix a maximum wage. If the lawmakers should now say that no working man should receive less than a certain fixed wage per hour, then they might at some future time decree that he should not be paid more than a certain stipulated wage. The measure was supported by John Lewis and his CIO, and by radicals, communists and "parlor pinks" generally.

Further evidence that conservative Democrats and Republicans are getting together was shown in the statement issued recently by a bi-partisan group of U. S. senators. This statement called for an end to coercion in industrial disputes, for a balanced budget, encouragement of private enterprise, and business recovery. It was sponsored by such leaders as Sen. Vandenburg, the Republican statesman from Michigan, and Sen. Bailey, Democrat, North Carolina.

No legislation of any consequence was passed at the session just ended; the farm bill, the housing bill, the governmental reorganization bill, all were still "pending" when killed by adjournment. Both houses passed a hodgepodge farm bill, complicated in the extreme, with the old system of bonuses and penalties. The senate voted down a proposal by Sen. McAdoo to guarantee the farmer cost of production plus 4 per cent on his investment. The farm bills passed by the house and senate were not the same, and adjournment came before their differences could be reconciled.

Judged and measured by the things it failed and refused to do, this special session is easily the most constructive session of congress during the Roosevelt New Deal regime. Republican leader Snell listed three high lights of the session: (1) President Roosevelt's fishing trip on the coast of Florida; (2) Vice President Garner's hunting trip in Pennsylvania; (3) The potato eating contest between Idaho and Maine to determine and judge the relative merits of the lowly spud.

MAYNARD'S CHAPEL

We are very sorry to have lost Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Horton and family out of our community. They have moved to Rome, Ga., to make their home.

On last Friday night, December 24, there was a Christmas tree in the Maynard's Chapel Church, which was enjoyed by a house full of children and adults. Everyone received a present from Santa Claus. There was a special song by the quartet, and a recitation by Mrs. Pauline Pate on Jesus our Savior.

The house was filled to overflowing and everybody had a good time.

The scripture reading and talk was by Martin Pruitt.

We regret that Mrs. McCary is ill. We hope for her a speedy recovery.

Nels Nelson spent the Christmas holidays at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Maynard have moved from Birmingham to Thorsby to make their home.

There will be a singing on the 3rd Sunday afternoon at Maynard's Chapel.

Mrs. Sally Pruitt had her son, J. A. Pruitt, from Birmingham for the holidays.

LLEWELLYN SETTER PRODUCES 99 PUPS IN EIGHT YEARS

Well-bred, Well-fed Matron Sets Unusual Record

Gray Summit, Mo.—Most mothers like to talk about their children. Down in the foothills of the Ozarks lives a mother who never breathes a word about her famous family. And it's not that she isn't proud of her children. It's just that Mother Sally doesn't talk.

The years rest lightly on Mother Sally. It is hard to believe that this record-breaking creature has given birth to 99 babies in the last eight years. Her hair is as soft and silky today as it was when she was only an awkward Llewellyn setter puppy in the Purina kennels. Her eyes are as clear as those of her youngest puppies', and Sally has never gone through the tortures of dentistry. She still has all her own teeth in good shape.

Visited By Many Dog Men

Motherhood has lent Sally the charm of growing old gracefully. And yet, there are specialists and dog men from all over America who stop at the Purina Experimental Farm to see Sally, who say she is younger today than many dogs half her age. In a dog's life, ten years is equivalent to three score for a human being. Some say that Sally will never grow old so long as she continues to get the same care and feed she's been getting the past ten years.

JUST FROM SHOULTS

Christmas his been very quiet on poverty ridge this time. Although, I had a good time. Everybody enjoyed the mild weather. Mr. Jones moved so all the rest of the folks could move.

We are ready to go to work and ask for credit again. I guess we will plant the face corners in cotton again. It looks like we can't do nothing with the one-horse farmer, he has been advised enough. So, don't say anything more to him. Just let them have the rope.—Uncle Remus.

POPLAR SPRINGS

We wish to say that the new building is going up rapidly, and if you haven't helped any either by work or with money the community would appreciate anything that you may do. There is a crowd working every day, so don't wait to be sent for but come on and do what you can to help.

See one of the following committee, Mrs. Gladys Rich, Mrs. Anna Wilson, B. G. Jones, Hiram Devaughn and Miss Lena Downs, if you wish to contribute to the building fund.
